Call to Worship.—"His name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace. Of the increase of his government and of peace there shall be no end, upon the throne of David, and upon his kingdom, to establish it, . . . with justice and with righteousness from henceforth even for ever."

Hymn.—"The Whole Wide World for Jesus."

Prayer.—"Father, we thank thee that thou art the God of all races and all times. We thank thee for the victories that have been won for thee, and for the great pioneer spirits who have dared to go into the far places of the earth to establish thy kingdom of love and righteousness. We thank thee for the power of the gospel to transform individuals and groups. Give us a vision of the world as it shall be when we have committed our talents and energies to the task of building thy kingdom on earth. Amen."

Hymn.—"We've a Story to Tell the Nations."

Leader's Talk.—(See material given below.)

Discussion.—

Hymn.—"I Love to Tell the Story."

Benediction.—"Father, during the coming days, give us a new consciousness of the purpose for our lives and new strength to overcome the things that stand between us and thee. Amen."

Thoughts on the Topic.

Obstacles in Non-Christian Lands.—

Loyalties to native religions dating thousands of years, superstition which is a part of religion, ignorance and its partner, fear, have been the major hinderances to Christianity in the past. These are gradually passing away in many mission fields or are being modified. Persecution through the rejection of the new convert by the family and the social group has been another great obstacle. The rejection of everything Western by the Orient is proving a serious handicap to mission work. The purification of the native religions, and a new loyalty to them as part of their native culture is a result of the new nationalism and an increasing obstacle.

America an Obstacle to Christianity.—

Missionaries have been going from America into non-Christian lands since the early part of the eighteenth century. The land of the missionaries became the symbol of Christianity to their converts. The increase in means of transportation, the coming of foreign students to America, American-made movies shown in other lands, and other factors have brought about a disillusionment. America stands before the world stripped of the glamour that once surrounded her, and behold, she becomes an obstacle to Christianity.

Everywhere the missionary has gone, big business has followed. Wherever there are business interests and large investments of American capital, we have sent soldiers and gunboats. Thus the unselfish service of the missionaries is being overshadowed by the selfish motives of commercialism. Missionaries testify that the greatest handicap to the Christian enterprise is not heathenism, not indifference, not the non-Christian religions, but the failure of the so-called Christian world to be Christian.

Obstacles to Christianity in America.—

America is called a Christian nation, but anyone who looks at our land through the eyes of Christianity discovers how far we are from being genuinely Christian. Jesus said, "You cannot serve God and mammon." That is what we are trying to do. It is the selfish desire for wealth that is at the root of the injustice in our present business relations.

Obstacles to Personal Christian Living.—

Do we ever take time to sit down quietly with our best selves and ask God to help us discover the things in our lives that stand in the way of the highest expression of Christianity through us? Not all of us have the same obstacles to overcome, but the greatest hinderances seem to be selfishness, a desire for self-satisfaction, a feeling of superiority over others, a craving for popularity, and the fascination of worldliness both in the form of possessions and amusements.

Daily Readings.

July 20. "Ignorance."—2 Timothy 3:1-9.

July 21. "Prejudice."—Luke 4:23-32.

July 22. "Self-interest."—Acts 19:23-41.

July 23. "Self-confidence."—Acts 17:16-21, 32.

July 24. "Self-righteousness."—Matt. 23:13-32.

July 25. "Failure of Christians."—1 Cor. 3:1-3.

MENDELSSOHN AND THE FREIBURG ORGAN.

When the organist of the celebrated Freiburg Cathedral became old and his fingers lost their skill, they made him custodian and gave the keeping of the great organ into his care. One day a visitor came into the cathedral and asked permission to play the celebrated instrument, but was refused. "No one," said the old custodian, "but myself and the present organist has ever touched the keys." But after much persuasion the visitor was reluctantly granted permission to play a few notes. He slipped into the seat, touched first one tone and then another, and then, running his fingers along the keys, he filled the whole cathedral with such wonderful music that the old organist was entranced. He stood spell-bound, and when the visitor had finished, the old man came up beside him and asked: "What might your name be, sir?" The visitor replied: "My name is Felix Mendelssohn." And until the end of his life the old organist was used to say, "And I all but missed hearing Mendelssohn play on my organ!" Child of God, "know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you?" There comes One who is greater than Mendelssohn and asks permission to play upon the organ of your soul. Are you refusing to let Him have His way with the instrument? Give Him your permission to take His place at the keys; yield the instrument to Him, and He will fill your life with celestial music and bring your whole being into harmony with the will of God.—Dr. W. E. Biederwolf in Wesleyan Methodist.

Sunday School Lesson

BY REV. H. S. HARDCASTLE.

CHRISTIANITY SPREAD BY PERSECUTION.

LESSON IV.—JULY 26, 1931.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life."—Rev. 2:10.

LESSON: Acts 7:54-8:4; 11:19-21; 26:9-11; Peter 4:12-19.

A Witness-Martyr.

Jesus had said "Ye shall be my witnesses." Stephen took His Master at His words. He had been appointed as a deacon to look after the distribution of food and funds among the needy of the Church, but he was a man of such faith and spiritual power that he soon broadened the sphere of his activity, and began to speak and to preach in behalf of Christ. He became a witness in the sense that he witnessed for Christ.

But he soon became a witness in the sense that he became a martyr for Christ. For it is significant that the word which we translate witness in English, is the Greek word which means martyr. Stephen became the first of the long line of men and women who became martyrs because they were witnesses. He was called into account for his preaching, and so directly and so pointedly did he speak, and so deeply did he convict his hearers that "they were cut to the heart, and they gnashed on him with their teeth. Then they cried out with a loud voice and stopped their ears, and ran upon him with one accord, and cast him out of the city, and stoned him."

"And they stoned Stephen calling upon God and saying, Lord Jesus receive my spirit." What a simple and beautiful faith! As he faced what has been called the Great Mystery or the Great Adventure, Stephen simply committed his spirit into the hands of his Master. Like Paul, he knew that Christ was able to keep that which he had committed unto Him against that day.

"And he kneeled down and cried with a loud voice, Lord lay not this sin to their charge." Here was the spirit of the Master himself—a dying man praying for those who were doing him to death. How such a spirit ought to shame us who cherish our petty grievances and feed fat our ancient grudges and harbor our unforgiving spirit. It was undoubtedly this spirit of Stephen's coupled with his general attitude, that struck so deeply to the heart of the young man at whose feet they had laid Stephen's clothes, Saul, and which prepared the way later for Saul's conversion.

The martyr first whose eagle eye,

Could pierce beyond the grave,

Who saw his Master in the sky,

And called on Him to save;

Like him, with pardon on his tongue,

In midst of mortal pain,

He prayed for them that did him wrong,

Who follows in his train?

Persecution.

"And there arose on that day a great persecution against the church which was in Jerusalem; and they were all scattered abroad throughout the regions of Judea and Samaria, except the apostles." "They therefore that were scattered abroad went about preaching the word." The Jews thought they were going to stamp out Christianity; instead they spread it out. It was as if there was a large fire in Jerusalem, and the Jewish authorities in trying to deal with that fire, kicked it about and sent burning embers everywhere. As a result there sprang up hundreds of fires throughout Judea and Samaria. Every disciple became a burning and shining light. It should be noted in this connection that the apostles stuck by their fire in Jerusalem. It was natural that Jerusalem would be looked upon as the headquarters of the Christian band. It was thither all the wanderers would refer for guidance and help. The twelve therefore decided to remain at their post in spite of all the persecution.

It looked as if the church was having a hard time. It was. But that hard time was the making of the church. Thank God for the persecution, for it was out of that persecution that the church began to go about its world mission. One of the most deadly foes to vigorous spiritual life in the churches is ease. The times when the church has been most wealthy and most at ease have been the times when the church has been least powerful. The church like the individual grows and develops on difficulty. There is in the present world situation that which the church needs to arouse it from its complacency and stir it to action.

The Widening Horizons.

"They therefore that were scattered abroad upon the tribulation that arose about Stephen, travelled as far as Phenice and Cyprus and Antioch, speaking the word to none save Jews only." These people had not yet caught the universal implications of the gospel. They still thought it was for the Jews. And lest there be those who condemn them for this narrow view, let us remind ourselves that today, after nineteen hundred years, there are those who think that the gospel is for the select group.

"But there were some of them, who when they came to Antioch, spake unto the Greeks also, preaching the Lord Jesus." Horizons had begun to widen. How fortunate it was that the gospel was given to those who could bring to it Greek culture and especially the Greek language. It was in the purpose of God that this flexible and beautiful language should be the medium of expression of His gospel.

"And the hand of the Lord was with them." It is always with those who seek to share the knowledge of Him with others.

The spiritual life of a church is not to be tested by the conduct of its services, prayer meetings, and the like, but by the real Christlikeness in the character of its members. Services, etc., are but a means to an end, and unless they serve that end before all others they are like salt that has lost its savor.—W. B. Selbie.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the number and price.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, and 1 3/4 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3/8 x 8 Inches, and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

Minion Type, Pocket Size, 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold.....$1.60

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.50

2173—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges.....$6.00

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 16-16 of an Inch Thick.

133X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 5 3/8 Inches, and 1 inch thick, with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 5 3/8 Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.

65—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps.....$2.50

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3/8 x 8 1/4 Inches and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With Concise Bible Dictionary, combined Concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.75

RED-LETTER EDITION.

With All the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands; title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations; special book for Sunday Schools.....95c

Any of the above Bibles sent postpaid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street,

Richmond, Virginia

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY H. E. ROUNTREE
One of our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"If thou wilt make the Almighty thy treasure . . . then shalt thou delight thyself in the Almighty . . . and thou shalt make thy prayer unto Him and He will hear thee."—Job 22: 25-27.

MONDAY.

BOW DOWN AND WORSHIP.

"I will praise Thee, for I am . . . wonderfully made."—Psa. 139:13-18.

Truly, the Lord has fashioned us wonderfully. With what marvelous nicety hath He formed all the members of the body! Could any one but God create or invent the processes of respiration, digestion and all the other vital functions of the body?

And yet what is all this compared with the wonders of the soul? Here are understanding, memory, will which no force can bend, but which can bend itself, the conscience heaven's witness, the heart which loves, hates and may receive God.

We must marvel at the wisdom and power of the Lord, and His infinite goodness toward us. Blessed is every one who knows Thee, O Lord.

Prayer.—O God, keep us to put our trust in Thee and rest in the shadow of Thy wings. Amen.

TUESDAY.

WHOSE?

"Present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service."—Rom. 12:1.

In addition to all the other fine things said in explanation of the meaning of this text, one of the finest is implied in the question: Who has the first waking moments of your day—God or the devil? The night has been described as "God's kiss to humanity," in which he takes us away from life for a little while, out close to the shores of eternity, and gives us rest, and with the coming of day brings us back again for a new day's work. Do we owe Him anything when we come to ourselves?

Prayer.—Dear Father of love and mercy, reveal to us Thy doings with us and for us, and make us thankful. In Jesus' name, we ask it. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

MADE WHOLE.

"Wilt thou be made whole?"—John 5:6.

All the miracles of Jesus manifest His glory and strengthen our faith. That which He did, He does; it agrees with our experience in faith.

The story of our lesson is greatly edifying. It was at Bethesda. Bethesda means "house of mercy." It sounds like a hospital. It is at this place of healing we are given the function of the Church in Christ.

This man whom Jesus heals has been sick a long time. Why does God let some folks be sick a long time? Is it because they are so great sinners? Never. Perhaps no one can say just why, but we do know this, that such misfortunes have taught the world humility, patience, faithfulness, visions of eternal things not revealed to the more fortunate.

Again it shows what God can do for us. Jesus said, "Rise." When one is in trouble, has he not heard the voice of Jesus, "Arise"? And immediately something gives new life, he "snaps out of it" and praises God. "Go thy way, then, and sin no more, lest a worse thing come unto thee."

Prayer.—Precious Saviour, Thou art our Healer. Let us know Thy power until we become perfectly whole in life eternal. Amen.

THURSDAY.

THE SEAL OF THE LORD.

"The foundation of God standeth sure, having His seal. The Lord knoweth them that are His."—2 Tim. 2:19-22.

The kingdom of God cannot be overthrown; neither can a Christian be lost. His children are sealed. That indicates to whom they belong. It prevents fraud and thievery. "Let every one that nameth the name of Christ depart from iniquity," which means: depart from deceitfulness, covetousness, conceit, lust of power, and all manner of uncleanness; which means also, "Study to show thyself approved of God," keeping one's self undefiled in honor, "following righteousness" out of a pure heart. Then shall the Lord deliver us from evil work and preserve us unto everlasting glory. Amen.

FRIDAY.

MEMORIZE IT.

Lesson: Psa. 103:1-5.

This is Scripture which every one would do well to memorize and repeat once each day of his life.

When waking in the morning, let our first thoughts be that the Lord is good; let the first impulse be thanksgiving. When retiring at night, there is no better reflection.

How shall we be able to join in the anthems of praise sung before the throne if we haven't this satisfaction of mind and soul? The soul conscious of the touch of God delights in the abundance of peace and confidently relies upon victory and hope. David celebrated the righteousness of God even in experiences of sorrow and mourning. It was thus that goodness and mercy followed him all the days of his life. And so it may be with us.

Prayer.—O Lord, we confess our sins, and we earnestly beseech Thee to give us grace to humble ourselves and to believe. Give us victory over our pride and wicked hearts. Make us to praise Thy holy name. Amen.

SATURDAY.

REASSURING.

"Be ye holy, holy; for I am holy."—1 Peter 1:14-19.

When God says, "Be ye holy; for I am holy," the heart replies, "Cleanse me, O Lord; sanctify me wholly, merciful God!" Such a prayer is answered, and hatred of sin and love of God increases; patience is greater, mercy is tenderer, gratitude is warmer, and conduct is more beautiful.

Therefore, children of God, let this be seen of God and men and distinguish themselves by keeping away from unclean things.

Prayer.—O Lord, who dost work in thy saints both to will and to do Thy good pleasure, grant us grace to work out our own salvation and to receive the desire and power of the Christ life in a way that will increase the likeness of Him in our lives. Amen.

SUNDAY.

A WONDERFUL PRAYER.

Read 1 Chron. 29:10-19.

This is a prayer in the temple, in which David is the incarnation of the truth written by the author of the Hebrews; "He that cometh to God must believe that He is, and that He is a re-warder of them that diligently seek Him." Here is the expression of the flight of a mystic soul to the Infinite. Here is the cry of a devout spirit for freedom from moral bondage. Here is a scene of a soul who loses himself in his vision of the eternal. Can anything descriptive better define the word "prayer"?

There are, after all, only two factors in prayer: God and the soul in direct inner contact—mutual intercourse. Here the two function with manifest meaning. Latent energies of the suppliant are aroused, soulful power is manifested, human nature is uplifted, life's conflicts and repressions are removed. David simply "unbars" the gates to heaven's glories and walks in to the presence of God and sits down with Him in feasting and fellowship.

Prayer.—Dear Lord Jesus, be unto us a daily opportunity for soul glory every day. Amen.

A TRUST NOT ALWAYS EASY.

It is not always easy to trust God fully and completely, and if it were, as I heard a great minister once say, "It would not be worth while." It often takes us to the limit of our endurance and to the end of our wits. Sometimes, at the very moment we set out on a difficult task, we face, seemingly, impassable barriers, but move forward as all unconquerable spirits have done in the past, and these fearful things will give you right of way; and then it is that our faith is enlarged and our capacity for service is increased. This is the way great lives have been made. In fact, God never increases our faith and enlarges our capacity until we increase our efforts. We would never amount to much if God just coddled us along the way. We are here for spiritual development and it can never come to the person who is always searching for the line of least resistance; we need discipline. I heard a great teacher say, not long ago, that "The Devil did not know when he asked that Job be sent to the valley of death that he was doing the best thing for Job he could have done." This truth is evidenced by Job in his own language. How wonderful! Hear him, I know that my Redeemer liveth, and, in my flesh shall I see God." He saw God bigger and more mighty than ever, and he was a greater vessel unto righteousness. Not long ago, I heard one of the most saintly women I ever knew say that she was as thankful for the trials she has had and the tears she had shed as for the joys she had shared. That good sister has fully realized that those trials have been benedictions for the enlarging of her soul. I could never think of any person being very heroic where there was nothing to overcome. Many a person in this world has lost the great joy in the holiness of divine comradeship all because he has been searching for the easy way. He will just not let God have a fair chance at him and he never gets anywhere. We are told that John L. Sullivan, who was for twenty-five years king of the pugilistic world, claimed that he never felt the blows from his opponent while in the ring. He was, no doubt, too much absorbed in the job at hand. To my mind the same thing may be true with us in our stubborn opposition, some times, in battering down the forces of evil.

Rocky Mount, N. C.

A. R. FLOWERS.

"I am going to live my own life in my own way," is a declaration of freedom made up of words that can have no real meaning. None of us can be free. We are tied, one to another. Interdependence, not independence, is all we have. Wisdom, therefore, tells us to learn to co-operate. Unless we compromise, unless we surrender, we cannot know any of the joys of victorious happiness.—Southern News Bulletin.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN'S PULPIT

REV. JOSEPH W. FIX, Preacher.

THE UNPARDONABLE SIN.

"Whosoever shall blaspheme against the Holy Spirit hath never forgiveness, but is guilty of an eternal sin."—Mark 3:29.

The fear of the unpardonable sin has been a night mare to many an earnest heart, and if indeed along the shores of time there are "hiding rock and treacherous shoal," this is the worst of them all. The divine love that stoops to save the vilest sinner was the constant theme of Jesus Christ, but on one occasion He spoke of an "eternal sin" for which there is no forgiveness. What did He mean by those dreadful words?

Jesus was in the midst of the most popular period of His ministry. The multitude pressed hard upon Him, eagerly hanging on every word of the evangel which He preached. In His works they saw an explicable power: in His person they perceived an irresistible charm. A company of officials, who with a whole heart hated Him, had come down from Jerusalem. They refused to recognize the power manifested in His deeds or the charm of His person. More than that, they belittled and reviled God's incarnate Son. They said that He was possessed by Beelzebub. Now, Beelzebub was the god of filth, and never was there a viler or more insulting epithet thrust into the face of the Son of Man. In so doing they resisted the truth; they wilfully denied the truth. "Woe unto them that call evil good and good evil; that put darkness for light and light for darkness; that put bitter for sweet and sweet for bitter."—(Isa. 5:20.) Speaking to men who were persuading themselves that the pure truth of God was the filth of devils, Jesus solemnly warned them of the terrors of the unpardonable sin.

Committing the unpardonable sin is doing what the men from Jerusalem were doing. It is not one act. God is not a fickle, revengeful being who for one iniquitous act would banish a soul into eternal night. The unpardonable sin is a process by which one persists in denying the truth until his moral nature is turned upside down, and light seems darkness, and good evil, and God no better than a devil. The Spirit of God strives with our spirits to guide us into all truth.—(John 16:13). But we may resist the leadings of that inner Voice, deny its authority, and commit ourselves to a contrary way. By justifying ourselves in our iniquity, we banish the Spirit, and conscience dies. "If the light that is in thee be darkness, how great is that darkness." Every denial of the truth, every act of perverseness is a step in that dreadful process.

After a time, the Lord teaches in words that should awaken every soul out of its lethargy—after a time one crosses a dead line. He is hardened in iniquity, and he no longer hears the pleadings of the inner Voice. In that state he is content in his sin; he has no heart hunger for God; he is in an unpardonable state because he has committed spiritual suicide through abusing his spiritual faculties. God does not forgive, because the man has lost all desire to return to Him. He has banished God from his Soul, and an impassable gulf is fixed between the two. He is lost in the deepest and most terrible sense of the word.

"Light obeyed, increased light:

Light resisted bringeth night.

Who shall give us power to choose,

If the love of light we loose?"

F. D. B.

WHAT SHALL BE DONE?

What is the Methodist Church going to do about Christ's program for the redemption of the world? An unfulfilled commission still stares us in the face. We are theoretically committed to it, but we are not really very much engaged in it. It is the scandal of organized Christianity that nineteen centuries have passed since God reconciled the world unto Himself by Jesus Christ and committed unto His Church the ministry of reconciliation, but its healing virtue has been applied only in scattered spots. No great mass of His disciples have seriously tried to do it. We say we believe in a Christ-like world, but most of us cannot say we will be content with nothing less. The Churches are packed with people who are well content with something a great deal less than a Christ-like world, with only an occasional one here and there that has been shaken out of the common complacency of the crowd to enter into the real partnership of Christ's purpose and passion for a redeemed world. Whole congregations in the catalogue of Christian Churches are absorbed in the routine of local organization in utter unconsciousness of where the great issues throb, and the battle is big with possibilities of world conquest for the kingdom of Christ. They are lost in the mere trivialities and irrelevancies.

All the conditions of the age are calling the followers of Christ to a fresh enlistment on a world scale until the task is really done. The Church must solemnly accept the world import of the Christian evangel and deliberately set out to make good its belief in a Christ-like world and its rebellious discontent with anything less, or the Church will, in a little while, "be fitted into the world picture as just a part of the scenery." Things are happening; they are happening fast. Once the nations lived apart. Today the ends of the earth have been brought together. They are bound up in a bundle, in which the woe of each is the woe of all, and the welfare of each is the welfare of all. No principle of politics, no program of industry, no standard of morals can prevail in any part of the world without its reaction in every other part of the world. In this kind of world, Christianity must make the mold, or some other philosophy and religion will. The fusing process is going to be greatly quickened. Christianity must construct this new and compacting world, or be assimilated by it. I am convinced that China, Japan and India—the great massed populations of the world—can be molded to a new and diviner pattern in the next generation, or the program will wait for ages yet.

The Methodist Episcopal Church, South, is not in hailing distance of the missionary program, for which these conditions call. In fact, we are near the bottom of the list in missionary enlistment among the major Churches of the United States as revealed by their per capita contributions. I do not undertake to present any tables of comparison, except to say that the 119,000 Seventh Day Adventists of North America pay as much for their foreign mission work as the 2,700,000 Southern Methodists contribute to their whole missionary program, and their individual wealth is not as great as ours. They pay about forty-eight cents per week, against two cents a week for us. There is no reasonable excuse for this humiliating comparison.

The person and Church that catches a vision of world enterprise and gives magnificently for that, invariably develops a deeper and more intelligent interest in everything else that pertains to the coming of the kingdom. It has been demonstrated over and over that the wisest policy plays fair with the world enterprise of Christian missions, and the deepening benevolence of that broadening vision assures the generous care of the more local interests. I should like to see the Church put the first thing first, and see how all things else come to their appropriate place.

It is high time for the outbreak of a new passion. The real objective of the Church of Jesus Christ must be a redeemed world. The Church must launch out into deep seas. It must make great ventures and enlist all its resources for the great stake of a redeemed world.—Bishop W. N. Ainsworth of M. E. Church, South.

The true secret of happiness is not to escape toil and affliction, but to meet them with the faith that through them we can even now reflect the image of our Lord and be transformed into His likeness.—Canon Westcott.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATED.

The Silver-plated Ware is of the very highest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses.$22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 85. 11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plated; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling). $22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90. 16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90. 14.00

Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim.....$ 9.00
Bread Plate No. 4—Broad rim..... 9.00
Filler—Silver lined 6.00

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, - - Richmond, Virginia

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends

Several good ladies have responded to our call for Octagon soap wrappers, and we trust that many more will send us some. And it may be that some friend might have some money that they do not need and could buy us an electric refrigerator. We are just as humble as we know how to be, and either way would suit us.

During the last week we have had splendid rains, and our crops are looking fine. We have the finest field of silage corn we have seen this year.

The Christian Orphanage is a busy place. Always some job ahead of us to do. As soon as we are through with one, we have another ready to do. We feel that we save lots of money by planning our work ahead and doing lots of it that we could hire some outsider to do. We feel that every bushel of wheat we can make here saves buying one. Every bushel of potatoes we can produce cuts expenses. In other words, we try to produce everything we can to save all the cost we can.

We ask you to come to our rescue, then, and supply the balance. We do our best to watch the expense in every detail and cut off expense wherever it can possibly be done. We have been compared with fifteen institutions in North Carolina and South Carolina for the year 1930. Thirteen points of expense were considered in the tabulation. The Christian Orphanage was lower than the rest on ten points out of the thirteen. This comparison was made by a foundation that knows this work in every detail. We were compared with institutions in our size and class.

From year to year, when our crops are laid by we have always had some building to erect, and from year to year we have spent our vacation this way. This year we will do no building; but we have a job that will equal it—painting our old building inside and out. Our good friend, Mr. J. M. Darden, was to see us some time ago and saw that this building needed painting very badly. He said he would buy the paint if we would put it on. Mr. Darden has a great big, sympathetic heart for our little children, and it fills his heart with joy to do something to make their lives happier. May the Lord richly bless him and give him much joy in his ministering to the fatherless.

After all, our joy in this life does not come from possessions; but from service to others. "Pure religion." To visit the fatherless and widowed in their affliction.

C. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR JULY 16, 1931.

Brought forward $8,843.28

Sunday School Monthly Offerings.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference:
Hines Chapel $ 3.48
Third Ave., Danville 5.13
Lebanon93
Greensboro First 13.50
Happy Home 1.91
Long's Chapel83
Pleasant Ridge 1.65
Bethlehem 5.00

32.43

Eastern North Carolina Conference:

Sanford $ 8.58
Mebane 4.00
Plymouth 3.28
New Elam 4.23
Wake Chapel 5.42

25.51

Western North Carolina Conference:

Burlington $40.14
High Point 3.12
Pleasant Hill 3.41
Hanks' Chapel 2.22

48.89

Eastern Virginia Conference:

Newport News $14.21
Pleasant Grove 9.31
Suffolk 30.00

53.52

Valley Virginia Central Conference:

Mt. Lebanon $ 1.20
Linville 7.35
Dry Run 1.90
Concord 2.06

12.51

Alabama Conference:

Pisgah $.70
Roanoke 1.37
Noon Day77

2.84

Special Offerings.

A Friend, Durham, N. C. $15.00
Sale of Pigs 12.00
W. A. Lee, sup. of children 7.50

34.50

Total for the week $ 210.20

Grand total $9,053.48

A pious Scotch minister, being asked by a friend during his last illness whether he thought himself dying, answered, "Really, friend, I care not whether I am or not; for if I die I shall be with God; if I live, He will be with me."—The King's Business.

Eilers Sunday School Maps

The first 5 maps
are in Set No. 1,
with stand,
Price $15.00

Set No. 2
8 Maps,
Price $20.00

Fine large Maps, in 6 Colors 36x57, on linen finished cloth. Mounted on a folding steel stand, which can be regulated, so that Maps may be seen to the best advantage. This set contains data for thorough Bible Study. Its large print and Cheerful Colors makes this set very instructive and attractive. Contains the five thoroughly up to date Maps necessary to the study of Bible History.

New Testament Palestine. — Old Testament Palestine. — Roman empire and Bible Lands, showing Pauls Travels by Colored lines. — Lands of the Old Testament, from the Great Sea, to the Persian Gulf. — The Exodus, Egypt, showing by Colored lines the wanderings of the Israelites.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN,
1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia.

ALL
SELF-
PRONOUNCING

Holman Testaments

COMMAND
ATTENTION
AND APPROVAL

Holman Vest-Pocket Testament

Size, 2½x4½ inches

Specimen of Type.

AND the third day there
was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and
the mother of Jesus was

The VEST POCKET is, beyond question, the most popular Testament published.

2104. Dark Blue Silk Finished Cloth, with edges colored to match, gold titles. .50
2105K. Morocco Grained Binding, flexible limp, gold titles and titles. .60
2114. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges. .85

VEST POCKET TESTAMENT AND PSALMS
2103KP. Morocco Grained Binding, limp, gold titles, round corners, gold edges. .70
2111P. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges. .90
2115P. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges. 1.10

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS
With all the words of our Lord and Saviour printed in red.
13RL. French Morocco Leather, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, rounded corners, gold edges. .90
15RLP. French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, gold title on red panel, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 1.35

Holman Jewel Testament

INDIA PAPER ONLY—Size 2½x4½ inches x¼ inch
The JEWEL is the latest and most attractive Pocket Testament made.
The TYPE is black, bold and larger than that in the famous Vest Pocket Edition, and the book itself is smaller.
It is printed exclusively on the famous Holman India paper, noted for its superior quality and unusual tensile strength.
One advantage of this India paper is that the leaves do not cling together.
The size, 2½x4½ inches, is so small that the book practically fits the palm of the hand.

Specimen of Type

ST. MATTHEW 2

The three wise men

carrying away into Babylon—fourteen generations; and from the carrying away into Babylon—fourteen generations—unto Christ are fourteen ing interpreted is, God with us.

24 Then Jesus being raised from sleep did as the angel of the Lord had

5003X. Morocco Grained Binding, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges. $1.00
5015PX. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 1.50
5016PX. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather linings to edges, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 2.60

Holman GEM Testament

POCKET
SIZE
3½x4½
inches

Specimen of Gem Black Faced Type
CHAPTER 23.

THEN spake Jesus to the multitude, and to his disciples,

The GEM TESTAMENT has been steadily growing in popular favor ever since its first appearance.

In size, 3½x4½ inches, it is not much larger than the Vest Pocket. It is also the only Testament of its size with large bold type and pronouncing text.

The edition on India paper is ideal, and we know of no better gift at the price than one in the finer bindings.

4102P. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Psalms included. $.90
4113. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges. 1.35
4115P. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 1.90

RED LETTER GEM TESTAMENT
4113RL. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges. 1.50

INDIA PAPER GEM TESTAMENT
4136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather linings to edges, red under gold edges, with Psalms included. 3.00
4136XPRL. Red Letter Edition with Psalms, same binding as 4136XP, but with the Sayings of Christ Printed in Red. 3.25

Old Folks Testament

Extra Large Print
Pica, 16mo. Size, 5¼x7¼x¾ inches

Old folks or those with poor sight will appreciate the advantage of this Testament. The type is a delight to the eye with its wide spacing between the lines.

Specimen of Type.

THE book
of Jesus

It is the most readable edition of all large print Testaments.

PSALMS INCLUDED
2902P. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red edges, with Book of Psalms included. $1.50

THIN BIBLE PAPER EDITIONS
Same Large Print as Above
2913P. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 2.95

RED LETTER EDITION
Same as above, with the Sayings of Christ in Red.
3913PRL. French Morocco Leather, flexible covers, gold side title on red panel, rounded corners, red under gold edges, and with Book of Psalms included. 3.10

All styles sent postpaid at above prices

EASTERN VIRGINIA SUNDAY SCHOOL AND CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONVENTION.

The following is the Program of the Sixty-Second Annual Session of the Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention of the Eastern Virginia Christian Conference, to be held at Oakland Christian Church, Chuckatuck, Va., July 21 and 22, 1931.

TUESDAY, JULY 21, 1931.MORNING SESSION.

- 10:00 Call to Order—J. F. West, Jr., President.
Song service—J. F. Morgan.
- 10:10 Devotional Services—Dr. I. W. Johnson.
- 10:15 Words of Welcome—
- 10:20 Response—
- 10:25 Roll Call and Enrollment of Delegates.
- 10:30 Report of Executive Committee—J. E. McCauley.
- 10:35 President's Address—J. F. West, Jr.
- 10:55 Appointment of Special Committees.
- 11:00 Song Service.
- 11:10 Address—Dr. Charles Eldred Shelton.
- 11:40 Group Discussion:
(a) Cradle Roll, Beginners, and Primary.
(b) Junior, Intermediate, and Senior.
(c) Young People, including the work of the Young People's Congress and Christian Endeavor.
(d) Adult and Home Department.
- 12:45 Adjourn for Lunch.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

- 2:00 Call to Order.
Song Service.
- 2:10 Devotional Service—Rev. C. E. Gerringer.
- 2:30 Report on Literature—Mrs. J. W. Fix.
- 2:35 Report on Cradle Roll—Mrs. M. T. Whitley.
- 2:40 Report on Beginners—Mrs. W. H. Johnson.
- 2:45 Report on Primary—Mrs. Sybil Deans.
- 2:50 Report on Juniors—Miss Alma Rountree.
- 2:55 Report on Intermediates—Mr. F. A. Osborne.
- 3:00 Report on Seniors—Mrs. R. W. Spruill.
- 2:05 Report on Young People—Miss Lillye Holland.
- 2:10 Report on Adults—Dr. N. G. Newman.
- 3:15 Report on Home Department—Mrs. Annie S. Calhoun.
- 3:20 Report on the Young People's Conference—Miss Lillye Spain.
- 3:25 Report and Adoption of Various Reports with their Supplements.
- 3:45 Report on Missions—Mrs. J. Monroe Harriss.
- 3:50 Address—Dr. J. O. Atkinson.
- 4:20 Report of Entertaining Committee.
- 4:30 Adjournment.

EVENING SESSION.

- 7:00 Call to Order.
Song Service.
- 7:10 Devotional Service—Dr. W. M. Jay.
- 7:30 Report on Orphanage—Mr. C. D. Johnston.
- 8:00 Entertainment by Children of the Orphanage.
- 9:00 Adjournment.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 22, 1931.MORNING SESSION.

- 10:00 Call to Order.
Song Service.
- 10:10 Devotional Service—Rev. R. E. Brittle.
- 10:30 Report of Christian Endeavor Secretary, Mrs. W. N. Williams.
- 10:45 A Talk, "What Christian Endeavor Means to Me."—
- 11:00 Special Music.
- 11:05 Address—"What Christian Endeavor Means to My Church,"—Dr. C. C. Ryan.

- 11:30 Open Forum—Led by W. H. Baker.
- 11:55 Hymn—
- 12:00 "Echoes from Winchester and San Francisco,"
Mr. C. E. Barfield.
- 12:20 Hymn—
- 12:30 Business Session.
- 12:45 Christian Endeavor Benediction.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

- 2:00 Call to Order.
Song Service.
- 2:10 Devotional Service—Rev. J. H. Warren.

- 2:25 Report on Leadership Training—Rev. J. W. Fix.
- 2:35 Report of Board of Christian Education—Rev. F. C. Lester.
- 2:50 Report on Young People—Miss Jewel Truitt.
- 3:05 Song Service.
- 3:10 Address, "The Churches in Co-operation,"—
Rev. Minor C. Miller.
- 4:00 Business Session.
(a) Report of Committees.
(b) Miscellaneous.
Adjournment.

ELON COLLEGE

AN ACCREDITED COLLEGE

of the

CONGREGATIONAL CHRISTIAN CHURCHES OF THE SOUTHEAST

ELON was founded to train Christian leaders for the New South.

ELON has done its task well—one graduate in seven being in the Christian ministry. The other six express Christian leadership in the various professions and vocations. Experience teaches that spiritual leadership must be indigenous.

The South is now a New South ready for an inclusive Church, the type of Church for which Elon has stood for forty years and for which she is prepared to produce capable leadership.

With no Church in the community, save the College Auditorium, ELON has practiced Christian Union for faculty, students, and community for four decades.

Its contribution to Christian Education is nationally known and approved.

Its Christian Education Building, providing laboratory facilities for religious leadership training, is unique and is the first college building of its type in the world.

ELON confines itself to undergraduate liberal arts work with that religious emphasis which befits the Christian College.

In ELON the Congregational-Christian Church has an asset of marvelous hopefulness.

The South needs her Yale, her Oberlin, her Carleton, her Pomona for the intellectual leadership of the United Church. Many regard ELON as strategically located and spiritually endowed to become such a center of illumination and leadership training.

THE CHRISTIAN EDUCATION BUILDING

The Heart of the Elon Program of Christian Education.

C. M. CANNON, Registrar

Elon College, - - - North Carolina
Home Atmosphere—Reasonable Rates—Clean Athletics—Christian Spirit.

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the kingdom, as represented by the Congregational-Christian Church.

BOARD OF EDITORS.

J. O. ATKINSON, D. D.....Editor
E. C. GILLETTE, D. D.....Associate
W. W. STALEY, D. D.....Associate
W. A. HARPER, LL.D.....Associate
REV. S. C. HARRELL.....Associate
J. E. McCAULEY.....Associate
W. C. WICKER, D. D.....News Editor
P. J. KERNODLE.....Managing Editor
C. D. JOHNSTON.....Circulation Manager

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Year$2.00
Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Postoffice, at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to The Christian Sun, C. D. Johnston, Circulation Manager, Elon College, N. C.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads" 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

Notices: Obituary and marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge; all over 100 words at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

OBITUARIES.

FLYNT.

James G. Flynt was born September 30, 1872, in California, and came to North Carolina with his parents when a baby. He died suddenly on May 22, 1931. On April 30, 1901, he married Celestia Lenora Haizelip, and to this union were born eight children. His devoted wife, three sons and three daughters survive to mourn their loss, together with many kindred and friends.

In early life he entered the tobacco business in Winston-Salem, establishing the J. G. Flynt Tobacco Co., and later heading the Planters Warehouse Corporation. His generous and sympathetic nature drew men to him and made friends who loved him.

He became a Christian early in life, joining Salem Chapel Christian Church, where he remained a faithful member till death. He was most loyal to and a liberal supporter of his church. I believe a good man has gone to his reward. His was a happy and cheerful life. The very handsome floral designs filled the home with their beauty and fragrance. The attendance of relatives and friends overflowed the home.

The burial services were from 205 West End Boulevard, Winston-Salem, by the writer, assisted by Dr. Weaver of the M. E. Church, and his body was placed in its last resting place in the Winston-Salem Cemetery. May the divine grace sustain the bereaved wife and mother with her children. JAS. L. FOSTER.

GOOCH.

Mrs. Sarah Ham Gooch was born Feb. 12, 1863, and died June 10, 1931. At the age of 16 she professed faith in Christ and united with Liberty (Vance) Christian Church, of which she remained a member till death.

On March 29, 1882, she was married to Mr. T. L. Gooch. Fourteen children were born to their union, eight of whom preceded their mother to the grave. Surviving, are husband, 6 children, 16 grandchildren and 1 great-grandchild. Services were conducted by her pastor, assisted by Revs. Mitchner and Edwards. Interment was in Liberty Cemetery.

May the Lord bless and comfort those that are bereaved and lonely.

H. E. CRUTCHFIELD.

WATKINS.

Wilbur W. Watkins was born March 13, 1912 and died June 9, 1931. He professed faith in Christ and united with Liberty (Vance) Christian Church in July, 1928. He was carried to Scott-Parker Sanatorium in December, 1928, where he remained until his death. He leaves to mourn their loss, father, mother, six brothers, two sisters, one half-brother, two half-sisters and many other relatives and friends.

Services were conducted by the writer, assisted by Revs. J. H. Mitchner and Frank Edwards. Interment was in the church cemetery. Wilbur lived a consecrated life and was willing to go at the Lord's summons. May Heaven's blessings comfort the bereaved.

H. E. CRUTCHFIELD.

666

LIQUID or TABLETS

Relieves a Headache or Neuralgia in 30 minutes, checks a Cold the first day, and checks Malaria in three days.

666 Salve for Baby's Cold

THE CONGREGATIONAL LATIN-AMERICAN INSTITUTE AND PILGRIM LATIN CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH OF WEST TAMPA, FLA.—

Are helping give the Gospel, which is "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth," to the forty thousand Latin people of Tampa. The evangelical forces working among the foreigners of Tampa are by no means covering the territory sufficiently.

Methodists have six preachers, Baptists two, Presbyterians one, Congregationalists one. Church workers and teachers must be supported for this great missionary work. Send check to LESLIE S. BRAY, Treas.

Route 4, Box 468, - - Tampa, Fla. Send boxes of clothing to Mrs. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

For literature, write Rev. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE

FOUR YEAR STANDARD COLLEGE

A Memorial of the Congregational-Christian Union.

OPENS WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1931.

FACULTY

Trained in 25 Universities and Colleges in 12 states.

FRANK E. JENKINS, A. B., A. M., D. D.—Religion, Co-ordination in Education.

MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD, B. S., M. S. (nearly completed),—Dean, Education.

EVERETT H. SPEROW, A. B., A. M., LL. B., B. D.—Chaplain, Philosophy and Religion.

CHARLES A. MOHR, A. B., B. D., A. M., PL. D.—Psychology, Social Science, German.

JESSE C. RICHARDSON, B. S., M. S.—History, Physical Education, Director of Athletics.

RUTH HAZEL PEARSON, A. B., A. M.—French, Spanish, Latin.

MAUDE DOUGLAS, B. S., M. S. (nearly completed),—Mathematics, Preceptress.

H. EVELYN HARDY, A. B.—English Language, Latin.

ANNIE L. PEARSON, B. M.—Music.

LUCILE ALEXANDER, B. S. H. E.—Home Economics.

ALPHA PARMELIA RASOR, B. S., M. S., Ph. D. (nearly completed) Science.

MARY E. HYDE, Graduate of Mt. Holyoke College, formerly Librarian of Amherst College,—Librarian.

E. M. LANKFORD Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds

MRS. E. M. LANGFORD Matron of Men's Home

MISS DOUGLAS Matron of Ladies' Home

ITS SLOGAN: "Scholarship High, Expenses Low, Character Supreme."

Announcement of Expenses Next Week.

For Information about Entrance, write—

DEAN MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD,
WADLEY, ALABAMA.

For Other Information, write—

DR. FRANK E. JENKINS,
LA GRANGE, GEORGIA (To September 1st).

HOLMAN BIBLES

LARGE PRINT
TEACHERS' EDITION
FOR ADULTS, TEACHERS AND PREACHERS

and all who would study the Word of God intelligently this edition is unsurpassed. The type is large, clear, Bourgeois, Self-Pronouncing, with liberal space between the words and lines, which makes it easy to read.

Size, 8 x 5 1/2 inches.

Specimen of Type.

"From that time Jē to preach, and to say, 'I the kingdom of heaven"

Containing New Copyrighted Helps by most reliable Authorities. A Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, New Colored Maps.

No. 4712. Divinity Circuit Teachers' Bible, French Seal Leather, red under gold edges, Silk Head bands and Silk Marker.

Our Price—Post Paid. 5.00

No. 812RL. Red Letter Teachers' Bible. The Words of Christ in the New Testament, Old Testament Passages Alluded to by Christ, Various Prophecies Relating to Christ in the Old Testament, etc., all PRINTED IN RED. Binding same as described above and same large Self-Pronouncing type.

Our Price—Post Paid. 6.00

No. 733X. Holman India Paper, Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Our Price—Post Paid. 10.65

Wedding or Gift Bible

FOR THE HOME

Holman Self-Pronouncing Home Study Edition

A BEAUTIFUL PRESENTATION PAGE Marriage Certificate and Family Record makes this special edition a most desirable Bible for a wedding gift.

Full Bound size, 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches; nearly 1800 pages. Authorized Version with Marginal References.

Large Print—Easy to Read

The Helps are the latest and most practical published—prepared by the most reliable and well-known authorities, and consist of a TEACHERS' NEW READY REFERENCE HAND BOOK, which gives the salient and essential information needed in Bible study.

Illustrated Self-Pronouncing Bible Dictionary—Containing 150 illustrations.

Oriental Light on the Bible (Containing over 100 illustrations). A new kind of illuminating Bible help. Treasury of Biblical Information.

A New Series of Maps. A selection of the most used, with Special Maps, the results of the most recent explorations.

A New Practical Comparative Concordance, with nearly 50,000 references. Four Thousand Questions and Answers on the Bible. ABSOLUTELY DURABLE BINDINGS that will not break in the back.

Specimen of the Print. Full size of the page is 5 1/2 x 8 inches.

Specimen of Type.

17 "From that time Jē's began to preach, and to say, 'Repent: for the kingdom of heaven is at

A BEAUTIFUL PRESENTATION PAGE Marriage Certificate and Family Record makes this special edition a most desirable Bible for a wedding gift.

No. 4914. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker. $5.50

Postage Paid

THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 East Broad Street

Richmond, Virginia

HISTORICAL SOCIETY. 1956.
Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Representing the Southern Christian Convention and the Congregational Churches of the Southeast.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY

VOLUME LXXXIII

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, JULY 23, 1931

NUMBER 30.

.. THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY ..

By DR. W. C. WICKER.

ASKS FOR TWO-MILLION DOLLAR FUND.—

In his principal address at the Christian Endeavor Jubilee Convention, which recently held its sessions at Exposition Auditorium, San Francisco, Calif., President Daniel A Poling suggested a two-million dollar maintenance and extension fund for world-wide Christian Endeavor. The reports presented at the convention indicate a world-wide growth in societies and membership. In Italy, Hungary, South America and Asia, the movement is especially active in expansion and growth. The membership in America also shows some increase. The Congregational Christian Church should encourage this movement as much as possible when we consider where and by whom it was first organized.

DEFINES CHRISTIAN EDUCATION.—

The chief event at the conference of British missionary societies was the consideration of higher education in India, in the light of the report prepared by the commission which visited India during the winter. The master of Balliol College, of Oxford University, who presided over the commission, was present at Swanwick during the meeting of the conference. He drew a distinction between the Christian purpose of religious education and education in religious subjects. "The purpose of Christian colleges should be to equip students with the Christian alternative to modern scientific determination and economic materialism." Christian education stresses spiritual rather than materialistic facts.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED.—

In adopting many resolutions by the Congregational and Christian Churches, these bodies in union secured the approval of many progressive ideas by the representatives of both churches, but local congregations are in no way bound by their action. Motions were passed approving of the Federal Council's report on birth control, asking the Supreme Court to grant a rehearing on the Macintosh case, condemning compulsory military training everywhere except at West Point, asking that steps be taken to stop competing churches from receiving grants from denominational money, endorsing our participation in the World Court and the League of Nations. These resolutions are recommendatory rather than mandatory, and are not binding on individuals or churches. They are suggestive of the spirit of the delegates composing the convention.

THE LEAGUE IN SESSION.—

Mrs. Thomas Woodrow Wilson, having successfully unveiled a bronze statue of her husband in Poland two weeks ago, was in Switzerland the week following, just looking around. She stopped at Morges to see silver-maned Ignace Jan Paderewski, donor of Poland's statue, and she went to Geneva to see her husband's greatest memorial, the League of Nations, at work. When she arrived, the time was not quite normal for the inspection of the League at work. The problem that was engaging temporarily the secretariat's exalted minds was the low state of "poetry." They were not too busy, however, to recognize and honor Widow Wilson. "Madame," said the chairman, while the poets rose respectfully, "yours is a great name that is not forgotten here." "I only wish," responded Mrs. Wilson, "that my husband could have had the great privilege of seeing your committee in session."

HYSTERICAL.—

As the week progressed, it became blazingly apparent that whether the "holiday" was in effect or not a moratorium alone would not save Germany from bankruptcy. She needed cash, lots of it, at once. Germany was growing hysterical. Foreign investors were withdrawing money from Germany to the tune of nearly $20,000,000 a day. German citizens, remembering all too vividly the black days of inflation in 1923, were putting all their savings in foreign money—francs, pounds, dollars—and they wanted gold. Bank tellers reported that even paper dollars were spurned by the timorous. The credit extended to Germany last month by the Bank of England, the Bank of France, the Federal Reserve Bank and the Bank of International Settlements, amounting to $100,000,000, was coming due in less than a week, and wealthy German families were headed for Switzerland. This condition is enough to make Germany hysterical. She needs an international psychologist to make a psychoanalysis of her condition and give her a treatment of suggestive therapeutics.

CONGREGATIONAL CHRISTIAN MERGER.—

The Congregationalist and Christians at Seattle on June 25th to July 3rd, assembled in joint session and completed the union of the two churches in one great convention. The spirit of the meeting was characteristic of the history of the two communions—freedom and fellowship, union and liberty—expressed themselves in the discussions, resolutions and actions of the united body. No resolution passed, no action taken, no conclusion reached, restricts or circumscribes the individual freedom and independence of the membership of the combined church, and no individual church is limited or restricted in its own individual initiative. Those who would like to dominate, dictate or indoctrinate the united church will soon be read out of court and will take their place in the church with the self-appointed ecclesiastics of the past.

When we consider the business depression, the location of the meeting in the far northwest, and other difficulties, the attendance at Seattle was wonderful. The National Council of the Congregationals numbered 535 enrolled delegates with voting privileges and 338 associate members and 86 honorary members. The attendance of the General Convention of the Christian Church numbered not less than 90, making the attendance of the united bodies over a thousand. With such a large delegation, the action of the two bodies in consummating the merger is representative, and will be applauded and approved by the entire constituency of the now united church. It is true that some of those who have dominated small sections of the church may quake under the results which they did not approve, but they will soon learn that the merger represents individualism, independence, and democracy of the Kingdom of God, and will soon learn to be governed by majorities.

The similarities of the two former bodies are quite striking. The two uniting bodies have been running parallel in history and doctrine from the first, but seemed not to be aware of this parallelism. The accepted goals of the Congregationalists has been from the first, freedom and fellowship, those of the Christians liberty and union. These ideas have often been submerged by other interests, but like a subterranean stream they have frequently come to the surface and asserted themselves in new and refreshing springs of the same truths under different forms. It is refreshing to know that these two streams have come together in this great merger to refresh the spirit of Christian brotherhoods of other churches as well as to quicken the life of the united church. Those who would attempt to dominate, or play the part of despot in any part of this church will soon be eliminated by the suffrage of the liberty-loving members of the united church as it is inspired by the spirit of Christ.

When two people, reared under different environments, used to different customs, holding different traditions, unite in marriage, there must be some adjustments, to live in peace and happiness. It requires the exercise of a little tolerance, a little give and take from each side. They must bear and forbear, they must agree to disagree without being disagreeable, and cultivate the spirit which they have professed, the spirit of union, fellowship, fraternity, which can never be realized without some adjustments being necessary. If all the adjustments had to be made on one side only, there could never be a union formed, a fellowship reached, for that would mean the surrender of all that was sacred, hallowed by usage, and highly prized by those who love the church, but both sides will make adequate adjustments, and the merger will mean a modification of both churches into one without loss of liberty on either side. This is the spirit of the movement from the beginning and will be continued in practice as well as in the theory set forth in the discussion of the union.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Rev. C. H. Rowland, D. D., Greensboro, N. C., having spent two weeks at Fuquay Springs recuperating, is much improved and able to go back at his home and among his people, Greensboro, N. C.

Inexhaustable good nature is the most precious gift of heaven, spreading itself like oil over the troubled sea of thought, and keeping the mind smooth and equable in the roughest weather.—Washington Irvin.

Many of the pastors are having their revival meetings now. Why not report the results to THE CHRISTIAN SUN? A church paper is to carry the news of the churches to the people, but it cannot manufacture that news or get it unless some interested souls will send it in. We are happy to receive and print real church news.

It is learned with deep regret that Rev. H. E. Crutchfield, Henderson, N. C., and Rev. T. Fred Wright, Sanford, N. C., have been ill of late, and were unable on this account to attend their Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention last week. We are hoping that both will soon be fully restored and able to go ahead with their many duties in the large field that each is seeking to serve.

Dr. W. W. Staley, who attended the Seattle Convention and who was at Elon College the past week, reported a great gathering and a very happy and successful convention. He feels that the merger idea went over in great shape, and that the spirit of the occasion, and particularly the attitude toward the merger, was all that Christians could desire. Dr. L. E. Smith, who was also at the college and at Seattle, was happy that the vote on the merger was unanimous, and that the constitution as finally adopted was practically that which he worked so faithfully to help write and prepare in the initial meeting of the committees on Union at Toledo, Ohio, some three or more years ago.

Elon College Board of Trustees had good attendance and an all-day session at their called meeting at the College last Friday, July 17th. Those present were: Dr. E. L. Moffitt, chairman, Dr. P. H. Fleming, secretary, J. M. Darden, Rev. Stanley C. Harrell, Dr. W. H. Boone, Dr. C. H. Rowland, C. D. Johnston, K. B. Johnson, Junius H. Harden, D. R. Fenville, L. L. Vaughan, John L. Farmer, P. J. Carlton, H. A. Carlton, L. E. Carlton, Dr. W. W. Staley, Dr. L. E. Smith, Rev. A. W. Andes and Dr. J. O. Atkinson. One of the most loyal and faithful boards we know is the Board of Trustees of Elon College, a board when called together never fails to respond in large numbers, there always being present more than a quorum.

The Blue Ridge Missionary Conference promises to be one of great worth and merit this year. Dr. W. Knighton Bloom of the United Church, Washington, D. C., is president of the conference and urges that all registrations for the conference be sent to him at as early a date as possible. His address is 933 Woodward Building, Washington, D. C. Dr. Elbert Russell of Duke University is to preach the sermon on Sunday, August 2nd, and at the Vesper hour, there will be a service of consecration for the united student groups. Blue Ridge is one of the most beautiful spots in Western Carolina, and this missionary conference has proven a blessing and an inspiration to thousands of young lives. A great conference is anticipated, and it is hoped that many SUN readers and members of our Sunday Schools and Missionary and Christian Endeavor Societies can attend the sessions this year.

Mr. William Levi Burke, a most popular and well-beloved funeral director of Burlington, known far and wide among Sun readers, passed away at his home in Burlington, N. C., after a brief illness, on Tuesday afternoon, July 14. It is doubtful if any man in his city or county was better known or more beloved than was Mr. Burke, who, beside being a most capable and efficient funeral director, was a man deeply interested in all charity and church work, being quite active in and a liberal supporter of his own church, the First Presbyterian of Burlington, N. C., from which the funeral services were conducted on July 16th. A great concourse of people gathered to do him honor. The floral offerings were beautiful, elaborate and appropriate. Services were in charge of his pastor, the Rev. Dr. Potter, assisted by the editor of THE CHRISTIAN SUN. He leaves to mourn their loss a devoted companion, who, before her marriage, was Miss Annie Kernodle, daughter of the late lamented John Tobias Kernodle, of our Berea Christian Church, also one son and one daughter. The name of Levi Burke will be long honored and cherished among ministers and officers who were associated with him from time to time in the solemn, sacred and sad service of funerals and burials. It was always a source of confidence and satisfaction to have this man in charge of a funeral party. It has been often said that it does not make so much difference in this life as to what profession we follow as it does as to how much of life and love and sympathy and soul and efficiency we carry into the work. Levi Burke honored the calling to which he gave his life, and made himself useful and memorable there.

CONFERENCES MEET.

Alabama United Conference meets at Phenix City, Ala., Second Tuesday morning in November, 1931.

Georgia and Alabama Conference and Southern Association will meet jointly—, —.

Virginia Valley Central Conference meets at Mt. Olivet, Greene County, August 5, 1931, Rev. B. J. Earp, pastor.

Eastern Virginia Conference meets at Cypress Chapel, Nansemond County, Wednesday before the first Sunday in November, 1931, at 10:30 A. M.

Western North Carolina Conference meets with Shiloh Christian Church, Randolph County, Tuesday after the first Sunday in November, 1931, at 10:30 A. M.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference meets at Mt. Bethel Church, Rockingham County, on Tuesday after the second Sunday in November, 1931.

Eastern North Carolina Conference meets at Shallow Well Church, Tuesday after the third Sunday in November, 1931.

NOTE.—Secretaries of Associations and Conferences will please supply omissions and make necessary corrections to the above.

NOTICE.

The Virginia Valley Conference will meet at Mt. Olivet, Greene Co., Aug. 5th. Those who come by auto follow State Highway No. 17 to the intersection of No. 704; then follow No. 704 to the church. Those who come by rail, come to Elkton or Charlottesville and notify Mr. Norman Morris, Dyke, Va. B. J. EARP, Pastor.

FROM REV. G. D. HUNT.

It will be fine if all our pastors and churches and Sunday Schools and Christian Endeavor societies of the Alabama and the Georgia and Alabama Conferences will stir themselves in behalf of our Summer School of Christian Education and Church Methods, at Wadley, Alabama.

This school will open the 9th of August. Let everyone prepare to attend. If we could have a fair representation of preachers, and one representative from each organization of the church, it would be a thrill for the whole denomination. Now, who will do their best? Every church of the Christians and Congregationalists are expected to have representatives present, and to send their pastors.

A great time awaits those who will make the sacrifice.

G. D. HUNT.

METHODS CORNER

By REV. ELISHA A. KING, D. D.

Miami Beach, Fla.

As workers in the Church we are always interested in finding helps that make our efforts easier and more efficient. One of these helps is illustration. The use of pictures in religious work is growing rapidly throughout the whole country. It was thought that at one time motion pictures used in the churches on Sunday nights would solve most of the church's problems so far as getting crowds was concerned. But there are many churches that have found still pictures quite satisfactory. The stereopticon is a fine instrument to have as a part of church equipment. Then there is the stereoscope which shows photographs of all of the Bible country. These can be used in classes. More and more, teaching is carried on through the visual method. The public schools are using film slide material in individual classes. In these days one can purchase picture equipment of all kinds very reasonably, and in so doing make the church and Sunday School thoroughly up to date.

Picture material for class purposes, and even for church services, may now be secured at small cost. For example, I have on my desk right now a notice of a new set of Bible pictures published by the International Artprints, 59 East Madison Street, Chicago. They are entirely new in this country, printed in colors and sell for 5 cents per copy. I sent for a couple of sets and found the pictures most satisfactory. I have also found the pictures of the Art Extension Society, Westport, Conn., very fine. Both of these sets are in colors. From Edward Gross Co., Inc., 118 16th Street, New York City, you can get the famous Wm. L. Taylor pictures in colored post cards. W. A. Wilde Company, 131 Clarendon Street, Boston, publish some splendid Bible pictures. The Ohio Art Company, Bryan, Ohio, put out some colored pictures at very reasonable prices. With pictures like these to illustrate the Sunday School lessons and to interest the children in the school or home, one has a comparatively easy time to teach and hold the attention. We learn much that we do learn through the eye, and one picture is worth a hundred words.

Now just a word to the pastor who would like to try something different. Harvey M. Shelley, 5513 Larchwood Avenue, Philadelphia, has published two books, entitled, "Sermons on Great Paintings," and "Christ's Ministry and Passion in Art." Both are by Rev. H. F. Branch, D. D. He furnishes copies of the pictures studied to distribute to the members of the congregation. The price of the pictures is very little. A mighty fine idea.

CONGREGATIONAL NEWS

REV. E. C. GILLETTE, Editor; REV. F. P. ENSMINGER, and REV. M. J. SWEET, Associates.

THE BLUE RIDGE CONFERENCE is being looked forward to with enthusiasm by many churches in the Carolinas and Georgia. Pastors, delegates, and many of the S. S. S. workers are planning to go. All who hope to go and have not sent in their applications, should do so immediately. Send to Dr. W. Knighton Bloom, 933 Woodward Building, Washington, D. C., July 29th to August 7th.

MRS. ELLA L. HARRINGTON, St. Petersburg, Florida, one of the Institute trustees, passed away recently. She left a generous bequest to the Institute work of $1,000.00. This is a great encouragement, but must not affect the giving in general on which the work relies. Probably the trustees will keep it intact for special building or other important feature, and not use it for current expenses. For the latter there is urgent need.

MISS JEAN FULLERTON, of New Port Richey, Florida, a Student Summer Service worker, has joined forces with Miss Pattie Lee Coghill in the work in Kentucky for the months of July and August. They are holding Daily Vacation Bible Schools in the vicinity of Ashland. Miss Coghill reports great interest in these schools on the part of the young people and expects to do a great deal of calling in connection with the other work.

GAILLARD AND PLEASANT HILL. Mr. Crawford Moncrief is the minister of this church, and Mr. Arnold Slater is the S. S. S. worker on the field. The annual all-day meeting, which was held on the first Sunday in July, was enjoyed by a large crowd and was estimated to have been larger than last year. After the morning services, at which Rev. Gideon Horne of Meads-ville, former pastor, delivered a very able sermon, the ladies served a delicious and very much enjoyed dinner under the nice shade trees. In the afternoon a very enjoyable singing was held. There were members from Montezuma, Cochran, Fort Valley, Thomaston, Yatesville and Byron. Bibb and Taylor counties, with people from all sections of Crawford county, all of which greatly enjoyed themselves.

LATIN-AMERICAN INSTITUTE, of West Tampa, Florida, is carrying on the work as usual. While Superintendent and Mrs. Corwin are in Wisconsin experiencing a greatly needed vacation, though ever giving addresses and in other ways presenting the cause of the work they so deeply love, Miss Hall and Miss Davis, teachers of last year in the school, have remained in West Tampa, and are carrying on all the usual Sunday work. Besides, during July a Vacation Daily Bible School was started. The attendance the first day was over seventy, and was so continuing at last accounts. The children and youth were arranged in groups for different suitable lines of work. Special attention is being given to visiting among the homes of the pupils and church members with excellent results.

SOUTH ALABAMA.

The Young People of South Alabama have been having new opportunities in the past weeks. From the 1st to the 3rd of July, representatives from the Midland City group of churches met at a camp furnished by the Presbyterian Church near Clio, and enjoyed a fine fellowship. This camp was planned and directed by Rev. N. A. Long and Miss Dora Brackin. They were assisted by Miss Viola Veler and Mr. James Henry Wood, S. S. S. for that district, and Miss Marguerite Davison. About twenty-eight young people met for work, for play and for inspirational services. The program provided for variety in activities, with periods for services, for classes and for recreation. The swimming pool was most popular and was patronized whenever the schedule permitted. An interesting feature of this camp was the arrangement for work. Everyone was given the opportunity to assist with meals, for all of the work of the camp was done by the campers. Everything was cooked over the open fire in true camp style, even to fried chicken. The campers slept on the ground about the camp fire, and found that sun-baked sand makes a fairly comfortable bed for tired folks. All who attended the camp proclaimed it a great success and set about planning for a longer, larger camp next summer. Miss Brackin and Mr. Long spent much time and effort before and during the camp, but they felt well rewarded for their labors when they realized what a great deal they had done for the young people of their churches.

Immediately after the camp, a week-end conference for the young people of the churches near Andalusia was held at Liberty Church. This was their first conference, and the entertained and entertaining young people gained a great deal from it. The program was full and rich in suggestions for the young people's part of the church work. At an opening session the young people were asked what they hoped to receive from the conference, and made answer that they wanted new ideas, new friends, and inspiration. At the closing session some of them told about the realization of their hopes and the leaders felt that the program had been worth while. It is through such meetings as this that the young people realize their own possibilities and that the older people recognize the importance of youth in the work of the church. It was Miss Dora Brackin's hard work in this district that made the conference possible and carried it through.

The next young people's conference was held across the line from Alabama, in West Florida. This was the fourth conference of these young people, and each year marks an improvement in the participation of the churches. Car loads and truck loads followed the carefully placed signs leading to Dorcas, where they found "welcome" written, spoken and felt. Each church contributed to the program with worship programs, songs, stunts, plays, debates and other activities. Cottonville young people received the award for contributing the most to the spirit of the conference and proudly carried back to their church a picture of Christ in the Temple. Sermons, addresses and discussions were given by Dr. Ensminger, Miss Brackin, Mr. Davies, and Rev. Van-Landingham. Mr. Tillman, pastor of the entertaining church, and Miss Davison fitted in where ever they could be of service. One of the most impressive meetings of the conference was the Vesper Service held about the camp fire, under the direction of Miss Brackin. A hard rain at noon had made all fear that this service would be impossible, but the sky cleared in time for the warm sun to dry the earth and the carefully laid fire wood, and the outdoor program was made possible. Early in the morning a group of twenty met for a sunrise service led by the young people from Dorcas. Since the sun rose at 4:30, the young people who attended that service showed a fine spirit of loyalty and appreciation of the beauty of nature. They were well rewarded by the beauty of the sky and of the service. Leadership is being built in the churches of West Florida by these group meetings and by special emphasis being placed on the work of the children and the young people.

STUDENT SUMMER SERVICE NEWS.

In South Alabama, Miss Viola Veler has been conducting the Bible Schools in several of our churches that are enjoying Student Summer Service for the first time. She has been ably assisted by Miss Mildred Rister, a niece of Miss Dora Brackin. The girls have conducted sessions for children in the morning and for young people and adults in the evening. Out of doors meetings and camp fire socials have been interesting innovations to many of the young people in the rural churches, but the girls have been able to put them over in spite of difficulties. Both Miss Veler and Miss Rister helped with the Midland City Camp at Clio, and with the week end conference held at Liberty Church. This conference immediately preceded their week of Bible School work at Liberty and gave them a good introduction to the people and their needs.

Hazel Maddox has returned to Middle Alabama for her second summer of service. She took charge of the Children's Sessions of the Union Bible School held at Thorsby and assisted in the sessions for young people and adults held at night. After Thorsby she went to serve in Rev. A. C. Nelson's group of churches, where a well-planned program had been worked out for her by the pastor. Miss Alta Each, of Thorsby, is assisting Miss Maddox in the churches where there is little local leadership.

Another of our special workers, not under S. S. S. is Miss Verla Barnett of Steppville. She is to help with Bible School work in some of the Christian Churches of the Eastern part of the State of Alabama and in Rev. J. P. Bean's churches in the East Association. We are using several local young people for this service, and in this way we are training leadership in the community.

Misses Ruth and Elsa Turner are doing special work in North Alabama, conducting Bible Schools and young people's activities. They have had a school at Haleyville and found the children very much interested. During the summer they expect to conduct Bible Schools at Mr. Hargrave's churches in connection with the revival meetings.

In West Florida, Camilla Mae McCollam has been assisting Mr. Davies in the Bible School at Dorcas, and will go to several of the churches in that larger parish to carry on work with the little children.

In Tennessee, Miss Azilee Johnston is having a thrilling time working with the Osborne's at Tennessee Ridge. She reports horseback rides in thunder storms, thrilling pageants, leadership training work, and many interesting activities. Mr. and Mrs. Osborne are carrying on a unique work of leadership in the community where they live, and Miss Johnston is privileged to assist them.

North Tennessee and Southern Kentucky are enjoying the services of Miss Mildred Taylor and Miss Elizabeth Bonney. They are carrying on Bible Schools in various churches, health work, community service, and music appreciation, with Sunday School organizations whenever necessary or possible. Miss Taylor has been doing some excellent work at Pine Knot for some months and she is attempting to continue it besides this program of special work in other churches and communities.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-LEDITOR*J. O. ATKINSON, ELON COLLEGE, N. C.*ASSOCIATE EDITOR*E. C. GILLETTE*117 W. Forsyth Street, Jacksonville, Fla.*CONTRIBUTING EDITORS*W. W. STALEY*W. A. HARPER*S. C. HARRELL*J. E. McCAULEY*NEWS EDITOR*W. C. WICKER*PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

(1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.

(2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.

(3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.

(4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship and of Church membership.

(5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTIONS.

The Western North Carolina Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention met at Pleasant Grove Church, Bennett, N. C., July 14th. A large delegation was present, a majority of the Sunday Schools and Christian Endeavor Societies being represented. Rev. T. J. Green is the pastor of the church and opened the convention with appropriate devotional exercises. Rev. E. C. Brady, Hemp, N. C., president of the conference, gave a welcome address that had been carefully prepared and was delivered in a spirit of cordiality and good fellowship. Mr. H. C. Farrell, of the Hanks' Chapel Christian Endeavor Society, and vice-president of the convention, responded to the address of welcome in fine spirit and spoke a fitting word for Christian Endeavor. Mr. Geo. T. Gunter, Asheboro, N. C., is the president of this convention, and he, with his very efficient and capable secretary, Miss Julia Woodson, Burlington, N. C., had prepared a splendid program, and, by correspondence and personal effort, prepared the way for a great and good convention. This convention is growing in interest and practice, and with these splendid officers in charge larger conventions may be expected in the future.

The theme of the Pleasant Grove session was the "Quest for the Best." Mr. M. Z. Rhodes, of the Burlington Sunday School, delivered a very fine and practical address on "The Quest for the Best in Sunday School"; the Mission Secretary spoke on "The Quest for the Best in Missions," and Miss Julia Woodson, of Burlington, gave a most timely and interesting address on "The Quest for the Best in Christian Endeavor." Mr. C. D. Johnston of the Orphanage, gave a brief address on "The Quest for the Best in Our Orphanage," and a class from the orphanage proved to the entire satisfaction of the convention that the best was being done at the orphanage in the way of training and rearing children. Mrs. M. Z. Rhodes delighted the convention with demonstrations of her work as teacher in the Intermediate Department of the Burlington Sunday School, giving practical suggestions and helps.

The Pleasant Grove Church and community spread a bountiful luncheon and manifested a fine spirit of good fellowship and royal hospitality throughout the day. It was a great day for those in attendance, and the only regret was that every school and society in the convention were not represented.

The convention is to meet next year with our good church at Biscoe, N. C., to which we have already been made welcome by a cordial and heartfelt address by Rev. W. C. Martin, who from the beginning has been and is so deeply interested in our Biscoe Church.

The Eastern North Carolina Convention met in its 37th annual session at Amelia Church, Johnson County, July 14th and 15th. This is one of our largely attended and enthusiastic annual meetings, the session just held measuring up to the high standard set by previous conventions. THE SUN's editor was not present the first day, being on that day in the Western Convention, but on arrival the second day was informed that a great audience of delegates and visitors gathered on the first day of the convention, and that the program as printed was carried out most acceptably.

Rev. R. Lee House, the pastor of Amelia Church is president of this convention and has worked very zealously and carefully to make the convention a success in every particular. Mrs. R. J. Newton is the careful recording secretary and, because she takes deep interest in the work, kept a faithful record of the proceedings and helped to make the convention a success. Mr. C. H. Stephenson of Raleigh, who in previous years, as president of the convention helped to make it what it is today, is the faithful treasurer of the convention and takes great pride in collecting and handling the dues and finances of the body.

One of the features of the first day session was the annual address by the president on "A Call for Leadership." Several of the departmental secretaries made reports, and the day was filled with business and routine work of the convention. The second day's session was devoted more to inspirational addresses and to the work of Christian Endeavor. The opening exercises of the second day began with an enthusiastic song service, led by the veteran song leader of the convention, Brother George M. McCullers, of the Catawba Springs school and choir. The devotional exercises were in charge of Rev. H. C. Hilliard.

Dean A. L. Hook, representing Elon College, spoke very informingly and hopefully of the College, insisting that Elon had that to offer to the Christian Church especially which no other institution has to offer to our Christian constituency. It may be there are bigger and better colleges for other people, but Elon is the best we Christians have, and if we do not support it and stand by it, we need not expect others to do so. Our local church may not be quite as big and beautiful as a church of some other denomination and community, but it is ours, and we love it. The fact is, the home in which we live daily may not be as large and costly as some other home of the community, nor as inviting, nor as efficient, looked at from without, but it is our home; therefore, the nearest and dearest of all homes to our own heart. So is Elon College near and dear to the hearts of us Christians. It is ours, and it will only be great and do its work in the world as we Christians make it so. The Mission Secretary followed Dean Hook with an address on "Sunday Schools and Finance," in which an attempt was made to show that finance is an essential feature and a vital factor in Sunday School and Christian Endeavor work, and unless the finances are properly directed and donated, they will be a source of harmful rather than helpful influence. In the Sunday School we are trying to reach the children and to teach them to help send the Name, that only Name whereby we must be saved, to those who have not a knowledge of that Name, and only as we send the message of this Name are we showing ourselves the true friends of our Lord who has given us the Church and the Sunday School.

Superintendent C. D. Johnston, with his class from the Orphanage delighted the convention with a program by the children.

An offering was taken which was divided, half for Missions and half for the orphanage.

The afternoon was devoted to Christian Endeavor and to reports. The devotionals were conducted very appropriately by Rev. J. E. Franks. In the absence of Rev. T. Fred Wright, who was reported sick and unable to attend the convention, Miss Irma Whitaker of the Wake Chapel Society, gave a very interesting talk on "Christian Endeavor," character being her main theme. Miss Myrtle Bridgers reported for the Juniors in Christian Endeavor, and Miss Lizzie Bell Newman for the Intermediates, both giving very interesting and helpful reports. An open forum was conducted on Christian Endeavor, in which it was brought out that something must be done to increase interest in Christian Endeavor, since mere talking and praying in Endeavor Societies and getting all the members to attend and take part is not enough. Christian Endeavor must now go the second mile if it is to hold its own and undertake work not merely for its own members, but for others, giving to others through service some of the benefits and blessings that its own members are getting out of the society.

The next session of the convention is to be held at Good Hope. The Amelia people entertained the convention in a most cordial and royal manner, and there were many expressions of joy and delight at the great session that has just closed.

J. O. A.

TO RAISE $50,000.00 FOR ELON.

As will be seen elsewhere in this issue of THE SUN, the Business Administration Committee, whose members are themselves members of the Board of Trustees of Elon College, met in called session with the Board of Trustees at Elon College, June 17th, and owing to the pressing demands of creditors, decided to make a determined and united effort to raise $50,000.00 by September 1st. The financial condition of the College is acute, and demands heroic action and self-sacrifice on the part of us who love the institution and care for its credit and good standing. There are certain outstanding obligations which are urgent, and the Trustees concluded, after due deliberation, that a united effort was necessary to be made among the friends of the institution, to meet these obligations, and thus maintain the credit and good name of the institution. Any thought of "closing the college," as rumored in some quarters was without any foundation in fact and entirely outside of the range of probability or possibility. Too many prayers, too much sacrifice, too many lives, have gone into the making of Elon College for any one who knows the facts, and has the interest of the college at heart, to even entertain for a moment any other thought than that the college should carry on, and shall be put on a firmer financial footing than ever before.

We now have a beautiful and an adequate plant which appeals to the pardonable pride of all who are acquainted with it throughout the Church. While the plant carries heavy indebtedness, the plant is ours, and by the help of God we shall keep it, and keep it going in the cause and for the purpose for which it was built and to which it is dedicated; that of educating in a Christian atmosphere young men and young women of the Christian Church, of the United Church, and all youths from any and all churches who want education under Christian influences. In this time of financial depression, it behooves every friend of the College to rally to its support and make a real sacrifice for the institution on which the very life and future of our Church depend. We must carry on. Elon College must live, and her friends, when they realize the facts as they are, and the determination, the zeal of the Board of Trustees, will come to its support and see that its credit shall not be destroyed nor its usefulness impaired.

Not only did the Business Administration Committee, with the Board of Trustees, decide on a campaign of $50,000.00, but they decided on caution, prudence and rigid economy in expenditure. The committee drafted into its service Supt. C. D. Johnston, of the Orphanage, who is to be made treasurer of this $50,000.00 fund, and on whose vouchers and orders any and all moneys for the institution shall be paid out. In his capable and economic administration of the orphanage, Brother Johnston has proven his great worth and merit as a safe and sound executive in handling funds, and the committee has made him its secretary-treasurer, with Mr. S. C. Heindel as business manager. The business manager will draw checks to pay accounts for the College, only on vouchers issued by C. D. Johnston. In choosing these two men to handle, under the direction of the committee, the finances of the institution, the committee was seeking a guarantee of economy and efficiency, the merits and worth of the two men thus chosen having already been proven and guaranteed by successful experience.

The personnel of the Business Administration Committee is itself a guarantee that wisdom, discretion and enthusiasm will be used in securing funds for the college, and that economy will be practiced in every way possible and the financial security of the institution maintained. The following constitute that personnel: Dr. L. E. Smith, chairman; C. D. Johnston, secretary-treasurer; J. M. Darden, E. E. Holland, J. E. Rawles, P. J. Carlton, H. A. Carlton, K. B. Johnson, J. W. Fix, and O. F. Smith.

These competent men who freely give their time and effort to the college, should have the willing co-operation of the entire membership of the Christian Church in their efforts to put the college on a safe and sound financial footing.

J. O. A.

DEDICATION OF ROCKY FORD CHURCH.

Sunday, June 12th, was a great day for our Rocky Ford Church, Carrol County, Va. It was the day of its formal dedication. The church had been long in use, but had been recently painted and all debts and obligations had been paid, and the pastor and people felt that the house should be formally dedicated.

The principal speaker was Rev. E. E. White, Pleasant Hill, Tenn., who, as a representative of the Congregational Church, is engaged on a large scale in a great work in the mountains of Tennessee. The people of Carroll County gladly heard him as he told of his experiences and work in a similar field to ours over in the hills of Tennessee, of the problems that were confronted and were being worked out there. Mr. White is a clear thinker, a convincing speaker and is known far and wide through his wonderful book published some years ago, "The Story of Missions." His heart is in the work, and he is giving to the people of the hills the benefit of a brilliant mind, a devoted and consecrated efforts.

Rev. S. E. Madren, pastor of the church, was happy in welcoming the people for the great, good day and to witness some of the results of his own labors. The Mission Secretary read the dedicatory formula, conducted the formal dedication, and also preached in the afternoon. There were morning and afternoon services, and the people of the church and community spread a very bountiful luncheon to which the public was invited. It was a happy and good day among our friends in the hills, the hospitality being cordial, the fellowship delightful, and the entire exercises of song, sermon and service, one of appropriate dignity, worth and worship.

We have made a beginning in Carroll County, and it is a worthy and beautiful one. We now must take the second step, that of putting into practice that which we have preached from pulpit and in class-room, and thus help make the life of the communities a richer and a more abundant life. Mr. White said in his sermon that Christ had come to show us the way of the more abundant life, and what the churches in the rural districts in the mountain sections needed were the more abundant life as taught and lived by our Lord. We have a great field of usefulness, of promise and of service in Carroll County.

J. O. A.

TOO MUCH RELIGION.

Is it possible for an individual to have too much religion? This may seem strange to even think of when it is first mentioned; but it is not so strange as it seems after we compare it with other possessions.

Any individual who possesses more property than he uses to his own advantage or the advantage of others has too much. If, perchance, an individual has studied a great deal, and has acquired more knowledge than he uses, he has too much. Property, knowledge, or any thing that is possessed for the sake of owning rather than using, may be a detriment rather than an asset. A car owned and not used depreciates in value faster than with moderate use. A house left vacant will depreciate in value in a very short while. A person who eats more food than the body can assimilate, eats too much.

Just as the principle applies to the ownership of property or the food for the body, so does that principle apply to the religion of man. If any individual possesses a religion for the sake of indulging in a spiritual pride that individual has too much religion. The severest condemnation that Jesus pronounced on any people was upon those who gloried in their much religion. The Pharisees were so righteous that they did not have time to use what they had. The Church of Jesus Christ would experience a new dawn if its members would spend more time in using what religion it has, rather than in seeking to get more for personal enjoyment.

"I sought the Lord, and He eluded me,
I sought my brother, and found all three
My brother, my God, and me!"

J. E. McC.

CHURCH UNION CONSUMED.

It would be a blessing to Protestantism if a lot of the smaller denominations could be absorbed into the great trunk-line communions that extend across the country and function in a big way in the interests of Christianity. This is a statement open to controversy. However, those who study the question would be glad to see about four or five great Protestant bodies, forming the arterial system of Protestantism. There are too many small communions. Those that have similar faiths should get together.

Why should the Baptist Church and the Disciples' Church continue to maintain their independence? Why should Congregationalism and Presbyterianism maintain their identity when they are so closely allied in faith and economy? Why should the Methodist Episcopal Church, North, and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and seventeen other communions that have come out of the teachings of John Wesley remain independent? Why should they not get together? Well, they don't! That is the present answer. It is enough to make the devil snicker! The stupidity of it no longer causes shame!

Thank God for the recent announcement made by Dr. Charles E. Burton, general secretary of the National Council of Congregational Churches, and Dr. W. H. Denison, executive secretary of the General Convention of the Christian Church, that the consummation of the union of their two communions was realized on June 25th. The union was approved by both denominations in 1929. At that time a provisional executive committee was authorized to function in the name of the new general council until a constitution could be adopted. This has been done. The united communicant members of the two fellowships is now over one million, and the number of churches is 6,670. This matter of consolidating denominations should continue. However, everything should be done to preserve the identity of the local unit and to create the highest register of efficiency in its service to the community.—The Western Christian Advocate.

AN OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

THE BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION COMMITTEE.

The Board of Trustees of Elon College met in session at the College, July 17th, at 10:00 A. M., at the call of the Business Administration Committee. The chief item of business was to devise ways and means to raise funds necessary to meet open accounts and outstanding obligations that are now pressing for settlement. Of the thirty-six members of the Board, nineteen were present. It was a most enthusiastic and harmonious meeting. The members of the Board present pledged their hearty co-operation with the Business Administration Committee to assist the committee in raising this money. By unanimous vote the members present pledged themselves to try to raise $1,000 each, on or before September 1st, and send the same to the treasurer of the Business Administration Committee, C. D. Johnston, Elon College, N. C. With this help and that of the Trustees, the Business Administration Committee pledged itself to the task of raising a total of $50,000.00, the amount necessary to satisfy obligations pressing for immediate settlement. The Board of Trustees and the Business Administration Committee jointly request the entire membership of the church, and friends of the College, to rally to the support of the College through the appeal that will come to them from the Trustees and pastors throughout the Convention. By united effort, the outstanding obligations of the College can be met and her program continued without being seriously impaired. Confident of this support and response and relying upon the loyalty and support of the church at large, the Business Administration Committee, and the members of the Board of Trustees, take this appeal to the brotherhood at large, believing we shall not be disappointed in this time of great stress and need.

Signed for the Committee,

L. E. SMITH,
Chairman.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

The Court House of Surry County, Virginia, was the scene of a beautiful occasion on July 14, 1931, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. It was the unveiling of a fine portrait of the late Judge Jesse F. West of the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia. This portrait was unveiled as the gift of Surry County in honor of a man and a Judge that they honored in this public and permanent fashion.

Before his election to the Supreme Bench, he was the Circuit Court Judge of the District composed of Brunswick, Greenville, Prince George, Sussex and Surry Counties. All of these counties have honored Judge West in this way; and this was the last of the five to complete the honor in this public and beautiful way. The Court House was filled with officials, citizens, Judges, and friends, the immediate family of Judge West occupied elevated seats, and it was a group of splendid brothers, John, Robert, Junius and Caleb, and their families, also his widow, their children, and grand children.

Their legacy from one who was a faithful Christian, as well as a distinguished Judge, is an inspiration to their lives and a challenge to their future. Among that number was Ex-Lieut. Governor J. E. West, a distinguished brother of this man so highly honored.

Judge B. D. White of Smithfield, presiding Judge of Surry Circuit Court, since Surry has been transferred from the third to the fourth Judicial District, presided on this occasion. The portrait was unveiled by two little granddaughters of Judge West, Elizabeth Lee West, daughter of Oscar Henry West; and Catherine D. West, the daughter of Jesse Felix West, Jr. As the veil was removed and the splendid portrait appeared there was a hush in the audience that was eloquent of honor felt as well as bestowed.

The portrait was then presented by Judge Vernon Spratley, a native of Surry County, and now a Judge of Newport News-Hampton District, on behalf of the people of Surry County; and the acceptance was delivered by Judge B. D. White, of the Judicial District embracing Surry County. The presentation and acceptance remarks were sincere, sympathetic and really expressive of the honor the county desired to bestow.

Judge T. J. Barham of Newport News, read a letter of regret from Judge Robert B. Prentis, of the Supreme Court, who regretted his absence, and also the resolution passed by the Bar Association on the death of Judge West. Other Judges present were, Frank Armistead, of Williamsburg; Marshall R. Patterson, of Lawrenceville; James L. McLemore, of Suffolk; and Mayor Thomas H. Birdsong, of Suffolk.

Caleb D. West, brother of the man honored by this occasion, read a beautiful expression of appreciation on the part of the family for this honor conferred upon the memory of their brother by the counties that had honored him in this public and beautiful way.

There attended from Suffolk, Col. J. E. West, Miss Ella Beale, Miss Margaret West, Mrs. W. G. Farrar, Mrs. Annie Staley Calhoun, Judge J. L. McLemore, and Mayor Thomas H. Birdsong, and Rev. W. W. Staley, who, by request of Judge White, offered the opening prayer and the benediction.

W. W. STALEY.

Be active first thyself, then seek the aid of heaven; for God helps him who helps himself.—Euripides.

SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE.

OUR EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM.

Do we Congregational-Christian people fully realize what a complete educational system we have in the Southeast? It was planned as a system by no man; but a careful consideration of it will lead one to wonder if it were not divinely planned.

There are four colleges: Elon in the Eastern part, Piedmont in the Central part, Southern Union in the Western part, and Rollins in the Southern; each with an immense field and all together leaving nothing lacking in covering the field college-wise.

Then in the Eastern section is Country Life Academy, finely located to be a Junior College to Elon, while Thorsby Institute in the Western part might well be a Junior College to Piedmont and Southern Union. The Latin-American Institute in West Tampa, Florida, is doing a special work for Latin-Americans, and should be so developed as to pass on its graduates to Rollins or either of the other three colleges.

Crowning all is the Atlanta Theological Foundation at Nashville, Tennessee, associated with Vanderbilt University, to give the finishing training to the ministry we shall increasingly need in the future development of our churches in the Southeast.

Elon, Piedmont, and Rollins, are showing the wonderful results that tell of the educational possibilities that may be more and more achieved. Southern Union is just starting out on its larger career in its Western field of vast need and great possibilities.

Could our united church possibly have a more inspiring work open before it? Is there any sacrifice we can make for it that will seem any less than an opportunity to fill and thrill the mind and heart of each member? Shall we count it an impossibility, or even a burden, to finance these institutions for doing their part in meeting the great educational needs of the South and of the Nation; and even to go out into the great Beyond?

FRANK E. JENKINS.

BRINGING RELIGION DOWN TO EARTH.

"I saw a new heaven and a new earth."—Revelation 21:1.

One of the significant movements in the field of religion today is the tendency toward a changing emphasis from "the sweet bye-and-bye" to the always strenuous, and often bitter, "here and now." It is one of the strange anomalies of history that Christianity, which originated in the determination of Jesus to do the will of God "on earth as it is done in heaven" should have so persistently ignored the perplexities and problems of the living present. Perhaps the fact that Christianity sends its roots into the past and finds its promises of fullest fruition in the future is partly responsible for this condition. Abraham, Moses, the Hebrew prophets, as well as Jesus, the Apostles, the early church and the New Testament, bind us inescapably to the past. On the other hand, Christianity is the religion of the future. Its Founder talked about world conquest, of making disciples of every nation, and its apocalyptists saw visions of a new heaven and a new earth and a new Jerusalem coming down out of heaven from God.

Nearly all the teachings of Jesus were directed to the "here and now." Someone has said that all that he said about the hereafter could be written on a postcard. Not that he did not recognize his debt to the past or accept the doctrine of the future; quite to the contrary, it is to him that Christianity owes its incurable optimism about the future. His kingdom of God was a "blessed community" inhabited by the pure in heart, the poor in spirit, those who hungered for righteousness, the peacemakers, and in which the meek, instead of always being downtrodden by the haughty, should inherit the earth. The salvation he taught was a salvation of the immediate present, as well as of the future. Lest coins were to be sought out and returned to circulation, lost sheep restored to the flock and to the fold, and prodigal sons returned to the homes and hearts of their fathers. A publican who forsook dishonesty and extortion and gave half of his goods as an act of restitution had salvation come to his house that day, while a Samaritan confronted with human misery, who exerted himself more than required to alleviate it, was held up as the model citizen of the kingdom, and pious, self-righteous folk were counselled to go and do likewise. A Pharisee who esteemed his own righteousness above that of a penitent publican was condemned, ecclesiastics who were meticulous about tithing the garden truck of widows, but who were blind to the great human evils of the day, were scorned, men who made pious benefactions in order to escape the ordinary responsibilities of life were helping to defeat the very aims of the law by their actions. Religious leaders who accepted the "traditions" and interpretations which had grown up around the plain commandments were guilty of unconscious hypocrisy and corruption, whose very association contaminated like unwittingly stepping on a hidden grave. Against all this Jesus protested and called for repentance and an open allegiance to the new kingdom, dramatized by the symbolic burial of the "old man" and the emergence of the new. His disciples were to preach this gospel to all nations and make disciples of every creature.

Jesus, of course, believed in and taught the doctrine of the future life, but in almost every case its conditioning factors were social and not theological. The rich man lifted up his eyes in torment because of his selfish and anti-social attitudes while in life. He pictured men classed as sheep or goats, "blessed" or "accursed," according to their attitudes in social situations.—James A. Crain, in World Call.

"CHRISTIANS" OR "DISCIPLES"?

The following hypothetical questions we are glad to pass on to our readers:

Lest the interest should lag on the vital issue as to whether we shall say with the mouth, Christian or Disciple, I want to ask three questions.

Peter says, "Yet, if any man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed" (1 Pet. 4:16). "And the disciples were called Christians first at Antioch" (Acts 11:26). This was ten years after the beginning of the Church.

1. When they were persecuted for Christ's sake, while they were yet known as disciples, do you think they suffered as much as they did after they were called Christians?

2. Do you think they lived just as good Christian lives while they were called disciples as they did after they were called Christians?

3. Do you think it possible, and perhaps probable, that on account of their characteristics in their daily living, that it led to their being called Christians?—Christian Evangelist (Disciples).

There is one case of death-bed repentance recorded, the penitent thief—that no one should despair; and only one that no one should presume.—St. Augustine.

CHRISTIANS AND THE MERGER AT SEATTLE.

By HERMON ELDREDGE.

(We gave in last week's SUN a brief summary of what was being done at the General Council of Congregational and Christian Churches at Seattle, up to that time, as reported by Editor Gilroy and Mr. Hermon Eldredge. The following is given by Mr. Eldredge in last week's Congregationalist and Herald of Gospel Liberty, and will give SUN readers some idea of the spirit of the occasion and incidents pertaining thereto. Dr. L. E. Smith, President of the Southern Convention has returned and reports a great Convention. Dr. Staley has written in THE SUN of what he saw and heard at the Convention. We are hoping to give the best possible account of what was done that our readers may know just the status of affairs and the outcome of the meeting.—J. O. A., Editor.)

The marriage rite has been performed and our two churches are one. The setting could not have been a finer one than the great Northwestern city where, surrounded by the hills and in beautiful Plymouth Church, in the presence of over a thousand delegates and visitors, we were pronounced to be the General Council of Congregational and Christian Churches. Dean Atkinson was the presiding officer, and after the motion for the union was made by Dr. Morris Turk of Portland, Maine, seconded by Dr. Fred B. Smith, the retiring moderator of the National Council, the vote was unanimous, and the delegates joined in the hearty singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

It is significant that each of the three votes taken—in Detroit by the National Council of Congregational Churches, in Piqua by the General Convention of Christian Churches, and now in Seattle by the churches in joint session—was unanimous on each occasion. It does not mean that there were not difficulties to be frankly faced, nor that at first there were those hesitating and honest souls in both communions who felt that these difficulties were insurmountable, but it does mean that by mutual confidence and goodwill all these difficulties came to be seen as insignificant in the light of the great forward step to be taken in the interest of the Kingdom. The larger thing loomed supreme in the final unanimous vote on each occasion, and there rose not a single vote in opposition in any of the three great decisions.

All in all the great thing which has been done is not in creating a new fellowship of over a million members, but in that unanimously agreed-upon declaration, that "we base our union upon the acceptance of Christianity as primarily a way of life and not on uniformity of theological opinion or any uniform practice of ordinances." That is something new under the sun. For sixteen hundred years the church has been trying to secure uniformity on the basis of creeds and ordinances. In these centuries force, even unto the taking of life, has been tried and found wanting. Intolerance and anathema have had their innings to force the issue. Bitter open and private debates have been enlisted to bring about the conversion of all those who were heretics from all that we knew was highest and holiest (?). When this failed, each crowd went its own way and "tolerated" each other until the day of co-operation came in the Sunday School and Christian Endeavor movements. The much-maligned Uniform Lesson helped to pave the way for co-operation and federation and towards Christian unity. Today at least a dozen of the major denominations have the subject of Christian union in some stage of their deliberations. Christian union is in the air. It is the business of Christians to get it out of the air and live with it on the earth. It is a long, long trail a-winding to its final goal, but the start has been made, and we believe it to be a very significant start. The final goal is in the Great Commission.

The roll has not been fully made up as we write this on the closing day of the Council, but Dr. Denison is authority that the accredited Christian delegation here is seventy-two, with Christian Church members (visitors) on the ground to make the full number a round hundred. This, with our nearest churches fully fifteen hundred miles away, is a showing that is a demonstration of the interest and loyalty of our people. The Congregational delegation is near six hundred, with some hundreds (if not thousands) of Congregational visitors.

It was voted (again unanimously) that the next meeting of the General Council of Congregational and Christian Churches should be held in Cleveland, Ohio. That should be a great rallying place for us. Instead of having our nearest churches fifteen hundred miles away, we will have a thousand churches within fifteen hundred miles of Cleveland, and in a great center of Congregationalism as well. Dr. L. E. Smith, pastor of our Norfolk, Va., Christian Temple, seconded the motion to go to Cleveland in a fine speech, and the vote was unanimous—other cities not even presenting their invitations.

Dean Atkinson has been an ideal convention presiding officer in the enforced absence of Dr.

Coffin. Our latest news from President Coffin is that he has been removed from the hospital to his home, but is still confined to his bed and under medical care.

The Congregational and Christian Churches in Japan anticipated our union by a full year, and delegates here from Japan report most happy results. Twenty-four hours after the union was consummated in Plymouth Church, Dean Atkinson, who presided at that meeting, and Dr. F. P. Ensminger of the Southern Congregational field force, held a beautiful service in the Japanese Congregational Church of Seattle in commemoration of the event, assisted by Miss Martha Stacy (Christian) and Mr. Hatanaka (Congregational) of our united Japan mission council. After the service, Pastor Abe of the Seattle church, and his parishioners, entertained these leaders at a dinner in the Japanese hotel.

Seattle boasts of a large settlement of Japanese, and the young ladies of this church gave a beautiful demonstration in pageant and song in one of the sessions of the Council.

Greetings to the Seattle Council were sent by the young people in summer conference at Defi- (Continued on page 9.)

OXFORD BIBLES for EVERY NEED

"The Oxford Bible is the Bible par excellence of the world"

THE HOME BIBLE

A Family Bible in Handy Size

An extra large type Oxford Text Bible, containing also, a family register and 12 beautifully colored maps. Size 9 x 5 1/2 inches.

Specimen of Type

16 The LORD is King for ever and ever: the heathen are perished out

Nos.
01600 Superior Cloth, round corners and red edges $2.75
01603 French Morocco, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, head-band, book-mark $4.75

The JUNIOR'S Bible

Self-Pronouncing

With 4,000 Questions and Answers, carefully selected "Aids to Bible Study," 16 beautifully colored and 15 black full-page illustrations, 6 colored maps and a presentation page. Children may readily pronounce correctly difficult Scripture names, as this Bible is self-pronouncing. Size 7 x 4 7/8 x 1 1/4 inches.

Type in Junior's Bible
2 Take the sum of all the of the children of Israel—1, years old and upward, thro

No.
1815 French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges, head-bands and book-mark. Make some child happy with one of these fine Bibles $2.95

Child's ILLUSTRATED Bible

The beautifully colored illustrations in this new Bible are a delight to the children. It has clear, readable type and yet it measures only 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches.

Specimen of Type

2 My soul longeth, yea, even faint- eto for the courts of the LORD: my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God.

No. 02112. French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, gold edges $2.50

Pocket REFERENCE Bible

Has over 50,000 center column references. Measures only 6 1/4 x 4 3/8 inches. (A splendid gift for a young lady.)

Specimen of Type

9 Behold, "O God our shield, and look upon the face of thine anointed.

No. 07523x French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $3.25

Concordance Edition

Type and size as No. 07523x, but with a Concordance, subject index and dictionary of Scripture names. An excellent edition for students and Christian workers No. 03272x $5.00

The Oxford imprint in a Bible guarantees satisfaction

OUR LEADER Oxford Concordance Bible

Self-Pronouncing

This beautiful Oxford India paper edition is indeed the ideal Bible for the student, preacher and evangelist. Each proper name and difficult word is divided into syllables and accented, and though printed with large clear type, the volume measures only 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 x 2 1/4 inches.

Specimen of Type

8 7 26 Jē-hōi-ā-chin was e years old when he began t

No. 03671x. Fine Grain Morocco leather, overlapping cover, leather lined to edges, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head-bands and book-mark $9.50

A UNIQUE GIFT BIBLE

With Basket Weave Binding

The Antique brown calf leather binding has a basket-weave grain, and button clasp. Has overlapping cover, art silk lined, with red under gold edges. With references. Printed on Oxford India paper. Type as Pocket Reference Bible. No. 03255x $5.50

As No. 03255x, with concordance. No. 03276x $6.50

Oxford TEACHER'S Bibles

Have over 50,000 center column references, and 300 double-column pages of up-to-date helps, conveniently arranged in alphabetical order. Also 32 full-page illustrations, and an indexed atlas of the Bible with 15 beautifully colored maps of Bible lands.

Easy-to-Read-Edition

Size 7 1/4 x 5 x 1 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type

14 Like sheep they are laid in grave: death shall feed on th

Nos.
01153. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges. A durable and hand- some Bible $4.35

Oxford India Paper Edition

Only one inch thick.

0773x. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, head-bands and book-mark. A beautiful gift edition $7.00

RED LETTER Edition

Same size and type as style No. 04453, with same references and helps, but with all the words of Jesus Christ printed in red. White paper edition No. 05453. French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $5.00

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Secretary.

A PRAYER.

O great defender, God, send thou upon those who administer the church a divine sense of thy light and help. In understanding and faithfulness make the church true to its responsibility for the right use of every resource. By the summer-suspension of worship periods the church, like the little child, is saying "Goodbye, God, we do not need thee July and August," and thus companionate souls are deprived of holy intercourse with each other and of the sweetest Jesus-touch. Father, make Thy light the church's light, we humbly pray, Amen. "L"

A PASSION FOR MISSIONS.

No church glows with spiritual fervor until it has developed a passion for Missions. The one spiritual task of the church is that of winning souls to Christ, and this spiritual task is only achieved when a passion for souls has been kindled in the minds and hearts of church members.

Winning a soul across the street, or close by, through personal contact, is Evangelism; winning a soul across the sea, or far away, by and through sending another person, or from the purse and possessions and through prayer and faith, we call Missions. Evangelism is one side of the spiritual task, the hand to hand, face to face side of the spiritual task of the church; Missions is the other side of the spiritual task, and requires even more faith, more prayer and more consecration, because it is not by sight but through sending, not by giving a portion of time and strength but by consecrating a portion of purse and prayer, that souls far away are won and the kingdom of our Lord is planted in fields afar.

The following editorial in the Nashville Christian Advocate, of July 10th, expresses a great truth and one which we Christians need to take to our hearts and to teach:

"The subject of missions has always fired the mind of the Church. It has swelled in the heart of Christians during all these Christian centuries. The Church realizes that missions, amply defined and adequately practiced, involve all there is in the Gospel and in the range of the Church's purpose. Christianity is not only missionary in spirit, it has always been also missionary in performance. The Church has had its face turned constantly toward the light of God, and its eye has swept the world to know how it might carry the light to every soul unto the uttermost parts of the earth. In the manifestation of a missionary spirit, the Church has shown a tremendous aggressiveness. In all history there has been no impulse from any source, upon any theme, that has been so insistent as that which lies within the heart of Christianity concerning the giving of the gospel to the whole world. Christianity has been always upon the offensive. It has never allowed its back to be thrust against a wall. It has never been maneuvered into a wholly defenseless position. Its faith and its generalship have kept the spaces wide open for its plans and purposes. Its entire aim has been embraced in the commission which Jesus, in the beginning, gave to his disciples to preach the gospel to every creature.

There are none so blind as those who cannot see the goodness and beauty about them.—Van-Amburg.

If our faith is small we must use it; we never learn to see by closing our eyes.—Onward

MISSIONARY OFFERINGS.

WEEK ENDING JULY 18, 1931.

Sunday Schools.

Previously acknowledged	$ 3,652.63
Elm Avenue, Portsmouth, Va.	2.50
Liberty (Vance), Henderson, N. C.	3.36
Leaksville, Luray, Va.	1.28
Antioch, Harrisonburg, Va.	3.77
Mayland, Broadway, Va.	1.48
Mt. Carmel, Carrsville, Va.	2.75
Rose Hill, Columbus, Ga.	1.00
Total	$ 3,668.79

Individual and Church Collections.

Previously acknowledged	$ 4,312.33
Lowell, Roanoke, Ala.	3.00
Bethlehem, Durham, N. C.	1.30
"A Friend," Elon College, N. C.	2.00
United Christian, Lynchburg, Va.	25.00
Mt. Bethel, Summerfield, N. C.	3.30
Total	$ 4,346.93

Dollar-a-Month Club.

Previously acknowledged	$ 139.00
Miss Caroline Gort, Portsmouth, Va.	2.00
Total	$ 141.00

Specials.

Previously acknowledged	$ 4,222.71
Western N. C. S. S. & C. E. Convention	4.00
Eastern N. C. S. S. & C. E. Convention	5.87
Total	$ 4,232.58

Summary.

Previously acknowledged	$21,968.73
Sunday Schools, Regular	16.14
Individual and Church Collections	34.60
Dollar-a-Month Club	2.00
Specials	9.87
Total	$22,031.34

J. O. ATKINSON,
Mission Secretary.

THIRD QUARTERLY REPORT.

NORTH CAROLINA WOMAN'S MISSIONARY CONFERENCE—TREASURER'S REPORT
TO JUNE 30, 1931

Women's Societies.

Antioch	$ 2.10
Burlington	166.15
Caraleigh	2.50
Catawba Springs	2.30
Durham	38.45
Elon College	97.44
Greensboro	62.50
Hebron	5.15
High Point	5.25
Howard's Chapel	5.00
Ingram	7.60
Lebanon	5.40
Mt. Bethel	4.30
Mt. Zion	1.50
New Hope	2.40
New Lebanon	4.50
Pleasant Grove	4.00
Pleasant Hill	6.30
Pleasant Ridge	20.21
Raleigh	35.00
Ramseur	5.00
Randleman	2.50
Reidsville	25.00

Shallow Well	23.00
Sanford	31.25
Turner's Chapel	12.00
Virgilina	16.90
Wake Chapel	21.36
	$ 615.06

Young People's Societies.

Durham	$ 7.71
Greensboro	17.50
	25.21

Willing Workers.

Burlington	$ 15.55
Durham	5.92
Durham Junior	5.82
	27.29

Cradle Roll.

Durham	$ 2.00
Greensboro	13.50
High Point	.75
Sanford	2.89
Turner's Chapel	2.00
Wake Chapel	2.45
	23.59

District Meetings.

Guilford	$ 8.15
Halifax	13.55
Lee, Chatham	7.00
Randolph	2.60
Vance, Warren	5.50
	36.80
Grand Total	$ 727.95

MRS. W. R. SELLARS,
Burlington, N. C. Treasurer.

THIRD QUARTERLY REPORT.

WOMEN'S HOME AND FOREIGN MISSION BOARD OF THE EASTERN VIRGINIA
CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

Women's Societies.

Berea (Nansemond)	$ 70.75
Berea (Norfolk)	6.00
Bethlehem	10.86
Christian Temple	102.00
Cypress Chapel	20.00
Damascus	3.20
First, Portsmouth	30.40
First, Norfolk	33.50
First, Richmond	3.40
Franklin	44.85
Holland	51.25
Holy Neck	61.00
Holland (Berta Rowland)	30.00
Hopewell	4.00
Isle of Wight	20.50
Liberty Spring	14.70
Mt. Carmel	12.40
Newport News	16.95
Oakland	7.80
Old Zion	11.30
Rosemont	24.50
Suffolk	228.00
South Norfolk	6.00
Wakefield	6.00
Waverly	19.00
	$ 844.36

Young People.

Bethlehem	$ 32.00
Burton's Grove	6.25
Christian Temple	5.75
Dendron	2.60
First, Norfolk	15.00
First, Portsmouth	9.00
Franklin	16.25
Holland (Barrett)	7.80
Holy Neck	15.00
Hopewell	3.60
Liberty Spring	28.00
New Lebanon	12.80

Newport News	3.75
Mt. Carmel	3.60
Rosemont	14.40
South Norfolk	7.70
Suffolk	82.00
Union (Surry)	8.10
		273.60

Willing Workers.

Berea (Nansemond)	$ 5.00
Bethlehem	5.00
Christian Temple	1.00
Cypress Chapel	6.00
First, Portsmouth	2.00
Franklin	15.00
Holland	12.50
Holy Neck	10.00
Liberty Spring	1.00
Newport News	3.00
Rosemont	9.00
Suffolk	10.00
		79.50

Cradle Roll.

Damascus	$ 4.18
Bethlehem	5.70
Franklin	13.00
Hopewell	1.05
Richmond	.50
Rosemont	9.95
		34.38

Grand total $1,231.84

MRS. W. V. LEATHERS,
Suffolk, Va. Treasurer.

ASSOCIATED PRESS INTERESTED IN MISSIONARIES.

"The Associated Press is interested in missionaries," declared John B. Knox of the Boston Associated Press Bureau speaking before the 27th Annual Training Conference for new workers this June. "We are interested, first, because the missionaries are makers of news in themselves," Mr. Knox said. "A person who uproots himself from his environment to go to a foreign country has raised himself by that act above the commonplace. He is of interest, secondly, because he is a source of information about events in which he may not actually take part but which he is in a position to observe. He can understand events that are obscure to others. A person who is on the scene when something happens has a tremendous advantage over the person who must gather his information second hand." As a representative of an individual congregation, of a denomination, and, unofficially, of the United States, the missionary is of interest, therefore, to the towns and cities where he is locally known, to the denomination and to Christians in general. "He is a representative of some kind of the United States and consequently the potential news for all Americans" Mr. Knox maintained. "He is an international figure who may personally take part in events of wide interest. This combination makes him news." The Associated Press, familiarly known as the "A. P." is an association, international, of some 1300 newspapers with the purpose of collecting important news from all corners of the world and distributing it to all corners of the same world.

The work of the Church is a continuous work. There is cessation this side of the river of death. If Christians do not work, the Church must suffer on account of willful negligence. The more we do, the more we accomplish for the truth. We are created in Christ Jesus unto good works. Is it a burden to do the work the Lord has left for us to do? Our service to the Lord will show our faith in Him and our love for Him.—E. M. Borden in Gospel Advocate.

CHRISTIANS AND THE MFRGER.

(Continued from page 7.)

ance College and from the new line-up of Congregational and Christian churches centering at Ashland, Kentucky. The new union has seemed to give new life to Kentucky churches of both communions, and an organization has been effected in that much disorganized State, with a consecrated layman, A. B. Rainey, of Ashland, as a moving spirit in its promotion. The organization of Congregational and Christian churches of Ashland and vicinity will include the Kentucky Christian Conference, the Kentucky State Christian Conference, and the Congregational churches in that vicinity. W. E. Robinson was elected chairman of the new organization and D. B. Harrell secretary. One of its first forward-looking projects will be the enlistment of Miss Pattie Coghill of the Congregational Educational Society in July and August in Vacation Bible School work and visiting the churches in the interest of the united work.

Seattle reported that the great Saturday night fellowship banquet held in its Civic Auditorium was the greatest event of the kind ever held in this great center. Sixteen hundred women and fourteen hundred men—a total of three thousand guests in two great auditoriums—were seated at the banquet tables and listened to the messages of Rev. Henry McDowell of Africa, President Reinhardt of Mills College, Calif., and Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, the great radio preacher. It was a great event, with a fine fellowship and with great messages.

The six seminars, with their daily sessions, rather than a string of set speeches was voted a decided success, and there is little doubt that succeeding councils and conferences and local associations will increasingly use similar seminars in their gatherings. The seminar subjects (each holding five separate sessions and two united sessions) were: I. The Gospel and the Individual; II. The Gospel and the Family and Youth; III. The Gospel and the Church; IV. The Gospel and Community Life; V. The Gospel and International Life; VI. The Gospel and International Life. Each seminar seemed (to those attending that particular one) the best of all. If there was doubt in the minds of the program committee in setting up these seminars, we believe that such doubt has vanished in the light of experience. The publication of the "findings" will be anticipated with interest.

Rev. Horace Mann himself (not our old, original Morace Mann), who formerly was pastor of the First Christian Church of Piqua, Ohio, and afterwards missionary in Rifle, Col., was much in evidence in hobnobbing with friends of the Christian Church after some thirty years apart from them. His later work has been in Congregational churches in Wyoming.

Speaking of Wyoming, Rev. Harvey Johnson, pastor-at-large of Congregational churches in that State, has recently discovered a company of forty Christian Church people and banded them together in the light of the union of the Congregational and Christian Churches nationally. These members of the former Christian Church were connected with Jireh Christian College settlement, which had a brief existence in Jireh, Wyo., and which gathered around it at the time a group of Eastern and Western Christian Church people into a church, which closed after the failure of the college to function during the World War. The reorganization of this group is good work in Wyoming, and good news to many of us who always had faith that there was a great field in that section of Wyoming.

Another "friendly Christian" in attendance at Seattle, whose presence was a treat, especially to our friends of the Southland, was Rev. W. N.

Hanson, who came to the Pacific coast with the Congregationalists from the pastorate of the Norfolk, Va., Christian Temple some twenty years ago. He moved about delightfully welcoming old friends and making new acquaintances.

Another interesting touch between Congregational and Christian Church history was brought out by the coming Jubilee Convention of Christian Endeavor in San Francisco. Rev. Morris Turk of Williston, Maine, where Christian Endeavor first saw the light, fifty years ago, is a delegate and a bearer of greetings from that first society to the Frisco gathering. He cites an important incident in the early history of Christian Endeavor in this connection. That incident has to do with the first Christian Endeavor Society outside of the Congregational Church being organized by a Christian Church in Rhode Island, and with the organization of this society in another denomination began the great interdenominational career of Christian Endeavor which has added so much to its growth and power.

But space fails me to write of many things. May we leave Seattle with Hats off to the past and Coats off to the future.

One of the most deadly enemies the church has is neglect, and neglect slays more souls about church time on Sundays than during all the rest of the week put together. Be on the lookout next Sunday or he may get you.—Our Friendly Visitor.

COMBINATION OFFER—To a new subscriber or for renewal, $2.25, either Gentlemen's (Capitol) Pen or Ladies' Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. And to "Sun" subscribers, not in arrears, any Pen at one-fourth off. Address: THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1536 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us. Postage paid and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer. MEN'S PENS—Capitol, $2.00; Mercantile, $2.50; Cardinal, $3.00. LADIES' PENS, $2.00.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN

ADVENTURES IN YOUTH FELLOWSHIP

"Youth at Work in the Church."

JEWEL TRUITT, Editor, Waverly, Virginia.

MISS TRUITT WRITES OF HER TRIP TO THE WEST.

PART II.

We reached Colorado Springs about five o'clock in the afternoon, on the seventh day out. We got cabins for the night, and even planned to go up on the Peak. That plan revealed our ignorance! A flat tire (our very first one) gave us a little time to think. Talking with people who knew more about the trip than we did, gave us the idea that it might be wiser to wait until the next day for our little excursion on the Peak. We went to the Garden of the Gods and saw the peculiar rock formations there. Then back to our cabin we came for the night's rest. That we were in Indian land was evident by the Indian-made rugs on our cabin floors.

After considerable debate as to the wisdom of the matter, we decided to climb the Peak in the car in which we rode instead of going in busses. The drive was a little difficult because of the steepness of the climb, until we became a little accustomed to it. Mile posts by the way reminded us that we were really going up. The beautiful snow-capped peaks which had greeted us as we approached miles and miles away in the distance, became more and more delightfully charming. They seemed friendly, and welcomed us to "come up higher." It was not long before we reached the timber line. Above the timber line was all bleakness and bareness. The rocks and the snow towered above the great trees of the forest, more enduring because they could withstand the wintry blast.

It was necessary because of the long climb to stop the engine to cool several times. In the two-hour climb and the hour-and-a-quarter descent our car consumed only three gallons of gasoline, and not enough oil to count.

When we got to the top of the Peak, we found a tower upon which we might climb, and thus be able to see more. But towers didn't look very interesting then, for our ears felt funny and we almost staggered in our drunken feeling. We did manage to get inside the lunch room and the souvenir buildings, and all of us signed our names for newspapers to be sent home carrying our names, though two of the party didn't know what they were doing, and all of us had to wait until we could see "the dotted line" upon which we were to write our names. We were told by the "old timers" that the stiller we kept for a while the better we would get along with our feelings, and very meekly we sat down to rest!

But all of a Pike's Peak trip is not so bad. The thrill of being 14,109 feet in the air was great! The scenery of the first few miles up was worth the entire trip, but on top we could see much more. The glories of nature were in front of us. It was no human artist's picture that we beheld, and so we tried to let every view sink into our minds and hearts. It will be hard to forget the beautiful and inspiring snow-capped mountains upon which we looked that day. The deep and gorgeous valleys made the mountains only the more wonderful. As long as memory lasts, Pike's Peak will remain in our minds.

FLORIDA CONGREGATIONAL YOUNG PEOPLE'S CONFERENCE.

The Florida State Young People's Conference, which was held at Camp Immokalee, near Key-stone Heights, June 9th to 19th, was a happy occasion for all who attended. Those who have attended throughout the six years of the conference declare that it was the best session ever held. The attendance was larger, with ninety-three young people, coming from twenty-three churches, from as far south as Key West, Coconut Grove, Miami Beach and St. Petersburg. Nine of these churches did not send delegates in 1930, and some of them were represented for the first time. In order to accommodate the large delegation and faculty members, extra beds had to be placed in all of the cabins, with two extra seats at each table.

Courses and teachers were: "Life of Jesus," Dr. H. Samuel Fritsch; "Youth and World Friendship," Miss Daisy Atterbury; "Young People's Methods and Materials," Miss Annie G. Campbell; "Pageantry and Dramatization," Miss Martha Race; and "Church History," Rev. Thos. H. Derrick.

Mr. John Rea Chapman led the college students in a special discussion group, and other discussions were conducted in Vacation Church Schools, Story Telling, and Hymnology. Mr. Charles A. Hoyt of Jacksonville, served as dean of the school, and Miss F. Adele Masterson of Tampa, as associate Dean. The program was greatly strengthened by music under the direction of Miss Clea J. Carson, director of Music in the Jacksonville Public Schools. Rev. Frederic Held had charge of recreation, and Miss Pattie Lee Coghill served as Registrar. Counselors were, Mrs. Max O. Miller, Miss Carrol Cushman, Miss Lauretta Gaedae, Mrs. M. H. Tallman, Miss Helen Donaldson, Herbert Hoyt, Rev. Orville Ullom, Rev. Ralph Krout, and John Chapman.

Student honors went to Eddie DuBois, who was elected to represent the Spirit of Immokalee; and to Charles Hoyt, Ada Milligan, Jerrold Jacobson and Daniel Carlton, representing the physical, social, mental and spiritual development, respectively. Camp Immokalee is located on beautiful Lake Brooklyn, and water sports were greatly enjoyed.

Special features of the program, besides the classwork in the morning and recreation in the afternoon, were the lake-side Vesper services, the most impressive Council Rings around the camp fire, a water carnival, a pageant based on "The Sacraments," by John Oxenham, given out of doors, a May-flower program, annual cross-lake swim, the beautiful Immokalee service, or the Passing of the Torch, the communion service and the closing candle-light service.

PATTIE LEE COGHILL.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

For August 2, 1931.

(From "The Christian Endeavor Guide.")

TOPIC: "What Jesus Teaches about Happiness"

LESSON: Matthew 5: 1-12.

Program.

Prelude.—Music to "Joy to the World."

Call to Worship.—"Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all the earth:

Sing forth the glory of his name:
Make his praise glorious.
All the earth shall worship thee
And shall sing unto thee,
They shall sing unto thy name."

Hymn.—"Come Thou Almighty King."

Prayer.—"Father, we come to thee with joy and gratitude in our hearts. We thank thee for the gift of joy in our lives. We thank thee that our God is a kind, loving Father who desires the happiness of his children. We thank thee for the joy in the life of Jesus and for his words to others, "Be of good cheer." Be with us in this hour and guide our thoughts as we seek to discover the road to true happiness. In the name of him who came that we might be happy, we ask it. Amen."

Hymn.—"Count Your Many Blessings."

Leader's Talk.—(See material given below.)

Discussion.—

Series of Sentence Prayers.—

Hymn.—"Blessed Assurance."

Benediction.—

Thoughts on the Topic.

Is there any normal person who does not want to be happy? If we could ask every individual in the world what his chief desire in life is, his answer reduced to its final analysis would be "happiness." Why do people want wealth? Because they think that it is a road to happiness. Why do they want fame and popularity? Because they regard these things as a means to happiness. Why do young people enter into questionable amusements? Either because there is a temporary excitement and thrill which they mistake for happiness, or because they fear the jibes and jeers of their associates will cause them unhappiness. Surely this universal desire would not be in us if the Creator had not intended that it should be satisfied. The majority of people are not truly happy. They have missed the guideposts along the way that would lead them to that goal.

Finding the Way to Happiness through the Life of Jesus.

We are accustomed to think of Jesus as being a "man of sorrows." The majority of the ministers of the past have stressed his sorrow and sacrifice on the cross. But there was a joyous side to his personality also.

The Christian religion is a religion of joy. No other religion compares with it in its note of happiness and good cheer. The New Testament begins and ends with messages of joy. "The gospel" means good news.

Jesus spoke often of the joy in his own life and his wish that the same joy might be in the hearts of his disciples. He frequently used the words "be of good cheer" to those in pain, trouble, and perplexity.

Harry Emerson Fosdick says: "Consider the exhaustless sources of Jesus' joy: his trust in his Father, his boundless hope for the future, his consciousness that he had found and was doing God's will for him, his sense of God's approval of his life, and his knowledge that he was doing a great and abiding service for men. Think of each of these in its application to your own life. May not any one of us make our lives profoundly blessed in all these ways?"

Daily Readings.

July 27. "Joy in Fellowship with God."—Luke 10: 21, 22.

July 28. "Joy of the Soul-Winner."—John 4: 31-38.

July 29. "Joy in Loving Service."—John 15: 1-11.

July 30. Joy through Answered Prayer.—John 16: 24.

July 31. "Joy in Finding the Kingdom."—Matthew 13: 44-46.

August 1. "Joy in Success."—Luke 10: 17-20.

Sunday School Lesson

By REV. H. S. HARDCASTLE.

PHILIP'S MISSIONARY LABORS.

LESSON V.—AUGUST 2, 1931.

GOLDEN TEXT: "They therefore that were scattered abroad went about preaching the word."—Acts 8:4.

LESSON: Acts 8:5-40.

Philip.

Philip was one of the "Seven" who had been appointed to "serve tables," that is to oversee the administration of the charity work of the early church. But he was a spiritually-minded man with a loyalty to Christ and a passion to help others. When persecution drove him from Jerusalem he went down to the city of Samaria and preached Christ unto them. Jews hated Samaritans, but the spirit of Jesus Christ helps a man to overcome personal and racial hatreds and prejudices. Philip preached Christ because he effectively lived Christ.

"There was great joy in that city." The message of Christ came as good news to those people who, at best, had an inadequate religion. Then too there were healings of body and greater healings of spirit. The gospel of Christ can do that which brings real joy to a city. And every man of God, whether he be preacher or layman can have his part in the work.

Simon.

Simon was a sorcerer. He made folks believe that "he was some great one." He took advantage of their ignorance and their false estimate of him, and held a large place in the public eye. But he came under the spell of the preaching of Philip and believed and was baptised. He may have been absolutely sincere, but he had an inadequate idea of what it was all about, for when later Peter and John came down from Jerusalem and were instrumental in bringing about the baptism of the Holy Spirit, Simon thought he saw an opportunity to "feather his nest." If only he could learn the secret of that mysterious process!—why he was willing to pay money for that, for could he not become rich himself! "Thou thoughtest that the gift of God may be purchased with money"—thus does Peter rebuke him. It is well to keep in mind however that there are multitudes of people today, good people, who think that the gift of God can be purchased with money. They have never grasped the truth that spiritual power and the ability to be a blessing to others cannot be purchased with money, but that it comes from obedience and from making self-denial as the first law of life. Every man may have as much spiritual power as he is willing to pay the price for, but the price is not to be interpreted in terms of money.

The Ethiopian.

"And the angel of the Lord spake unto Philip, saying, Arise and go toward the south unto the way that goeth down from Jerusalem unto Gaza, which is desert." God has a way of speaking to those who have ears to hear. There is significance here in the reference to the desert. Philip was in the midst of a thickly settled community; God commanded him to go out to a place that was desert, that is uninhabited and wild country.

"And he arose and went." When God speaks men ought to obey. "And behold a man of Ethiopia, a eunuch of great authority under Candace queen of the Ethiopians, who had charge of all her treasures, and had come to Jerusalem for to worship was returning, and sitting in his chariot read the prophet Esaias." God does not send his messengers on wild-goose chases.

Down in that desert there was a man, a man of strategic place in the extension of the gospel message, a man who had already been a worshiper of God, and a man who was in a prepared and receptive frame of mind and heart. What a difference it would make if those who attend church services were to worship, and if after they worshipped, like this man, they spent some time with the Scriptures seeking the fuller implications of the things they had seen and heard!

"Then the Spirit said unto Philip, Go near and join thyself to this chariot." God does not leave those who will to do His will in the dark as to what His will is. In a tactful way Philip approached the man and was invited to join him in his chariot. The place of the Scripture where he read was that famous and glorious passage from Isaiah which finds its interpretation only in Christ himself. Philip began right there and preached unto him Jesus. And he did it so effectively that there was awakened in the heart of that eunuch a desire for a larger knowledge of that Christ about whom the prophet had written and the evangelist had spoken. He believed with "all his heart" that "Jesus Christ is the son of God." What more could Philip ask? There was in that statement in all its implications all that was necessary for any man to become a Christian. The intellect has a legitimate place in religion, but it is not until one believes with all his heart that he can really find the secret of spiritual life. Creeds and beliefs have their place, but they are secondary.

"And he baptized him." He administered that outward symbol which is an evidence of an inner change and of an avowed purpose. And then the eunuch "went on his way rejoicing." There was a new joy in his heart, a new meaning to life, a new experience to share with his own people among whom tradition has it, he became an evangelist.

Lord Chesterfield, speaking in the House of Lords on February 21st, 1743, said of liquor trades: "If their liquors are so delicious that people are tempted to their own destruction, let us secure them from these fatal draughts by bursting the vials which contain them. Let us crush these artists in human slaughter, who have reconciled their countrymen to sickness and to ruin, and spread over the pitfalls of debauchery such baits as cannot be resisted."

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the number and price.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3/8 x 8 Inches, and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

Minion Type, Pocket Size, 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold.....$1.60

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.50

2173—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges.....$6.00

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 16-16 of an Inch Thick.

133X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 5 3/8 Inches, and 1 inch thick, with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 5 3/8 Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.

65—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps.....$2.50

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3/8 x 8 1/4 Inches and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With Concise Bible Dictionary, combined Concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.75

RED-LETTER EDITION.

With All the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands; title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations; special book for Sunday Schools.....95c

Any of the above Bibles sent postpaid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street,

Richmond, Virginia

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY H. E. ROUNTREE
One of our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"If thou wilt make the Almighty thy treasure . . . then shalt thou delight thyself in the Almighty . . . and thou shalt make thy prayer unto Him and He will hear thee."—Job 22: 25-27.

BY DR. AMOS R. WELLS.

MONDAY.

"DENATUREL."

"Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the wicked, nor standeth in the way of sinners."—Psa. 1:1-6.

The making of denatured alcohol for industrial purposes is a necessary and honorable business, but so many scoundrels are using denatured alcohol to get around the prohibition laws, that the product has fallen into disrepute, and its manufacturers are classed, by the poorly informed, with rum-runners and bootleggers. This they properly resent, and are now moving to change the name of their product to something that will not carry base associations in the minds of the people. The word "denaturel" is suggested, and may be adopted.

This condition of affairs is a reminder of the danger of all those that associate with evil. No one can handle coal without getting black hands. No one can keep company with bad men and women without losing his good reputation. Badness spreads. Sin contaminates.

That is why a wise man will seek to keep as far away from wickedness as possible. In word as well as deed, and in thought above all, he must differentiate his life from it. He may make Alcohol for only the most harmless and useful purposes, but let him find for it another name than alcohol.

Prayer.—We pray Thee, Holy Spirit, so to fill our lives that all evil may be kept from us. May we hate it and avoid it. May we have nothing to do with it. In Thy pure name. Amen.

TUESDAY.

GOD'S SKYSCRAPERS.

.. "Let thy salvation, O God, set me up on high."—Psa. 69:20-30.

The great modern office buildings are so enormously expensive that they require vast amounts of fire insurance, and they go up so high that the insurance men are worried over the possibilities of fire. Since the Woolworth Building was erected in New York City, the height of the average office building in the metropolis has increased two and a half times, and that has happened in less than two decades. What the future has in store, no one knows, for the cost of land is rising rapidly, and as it rises, the buildings on the land must go still higher in order to be profitable.

Such are some of the difficulties and dangers as we mortals lift ourselves on high in our pride, ambition, and greed. But when the Lord sets us up on high, as the psalmist says, we need have no fear. There are no fire risks in such exaltation. Rather is the opposite the case. In the Lord's dwellings, although they varily rise above the clouds, we are safer than on the ground; and the higher we rise, the safer we are.

Prayer.—Thus set us up on high, dear Lord of all grace and glory. We would seek no other advancement than Thine. We would avoid the skyscrapers of selfishness and arrogance, and exult in Thy buildings alone. So shall we draw near Thee and ever nearer. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

JOIN THE JOY.

"We piped unto you, and ye did not dance."—Matt. 11:11-19.

It was a pretty scene when Paulina Longworth, on her fifth birthday, wearing a blue dress with blue ribbons in her hair, was taken to the gallery of the House. When Representative Tilson called attention to her presence, the House applauded. Then, as the Boston Herald describes it, "she was lifted to the railing of the gallery, where she, too, joined in the applause until, having been told that she was the object of it, she stopped clapping her tiny hands, and bowed to those who were paying this tribute to her."

That was fine! I like to see people adding themselves enthusiastically to the enthusiasm around them. Joy ought to be contagious. When folks are clapping their hands, let us clap with all our might. And it wouldn't hurt us to start the applause once in a while.

Prayer.—Our joyous Saviour, carry us into Thy joy. Make us sharers of happiness. Make us ministers of delight. Inspire us with Thy divine enthusiasm. In Thy name. Amen.

THURSDAY.

OLD FLOORS.

"And he (Jehosaphat) walked in all the way of Asa, his father."—1 Kings 22:41-50.

We have had with us for some time the delightful fashion of old furniture, and now there is added the popularity of old floors. Living, as the writer does, in New England, he often has the pleasure of walking on floors with marvelously wide boards, fastened with hand-wrought nails, and of musing over the many feet of famous and honored men and women which have trodden there. It makes history very real, and brings close the ancient times of heroism and high ideals.

Thus the good King Jehosaphat walked "in all the way of his father," the good King Asa. Thus the Christian will take to the ways of the revered Christians who have gone before him. As we walk in the Church on the Sabbath day, we are treading in the good ways of our fathers. As we have regard to truth and justice, and practice integrity in all our intercourse with others, and as we honor the Bible and serve our country faithfully, we are walking in our fathers' ways.

Prayer.—Above all, our Heavenly Father, may we walk in Thy ways. Grant us grace to keep the ancient floors, and to make them the firm foundations of our lives. Amen.

FRIDAY.

WHAT MAKES HOME?

"Honor thy father and thy mother."—Ex. 20: 1-17.

Recently the National Association of Real Estate Boards called on the public for a definition of "home," and received 10,000 replies. Analyzing a thousand of these, it was found that love was the home quality most often mentioned—home is the place where love abides. Next came the idea that home is the center of family life. Third in the definitions came the thought of peace. And this is the most significant fact, that "home" meant "mother" to only fifty-six of these thousand respondents, and it meant "father" to only twenty-six of them.

Evidently our people are forgetting the Fifth Commandment. In the days of the ancient Hebrews, home meant father first and then mother; and home meant very little else than father and mother.

Why have "mother" and "father" slipped so far down in the list? Because of modern fathers and mothers. It is not because children are less responsive to father-love and mother-love than they used to be; it is because fathers and mothers have become vitally interested in so much else than their children.

Prayer.—Dear Father in heaven, Thou, who art our Mother-God as well as our Father-God; Thou, who dost always think of us Thy children and plan for us, fill us with Thy love and lead us to practice Thy care. May our homes be places of Thy abiding, and then they will stand for father-love and mother-love above all. Amen.

SATURDAY.

MOVING THE FIRE.

"We that are strong ought to bear the infirmities of the weak."—Rom. 15:1-7.

Engines generally run to fires, but the other day, in Maine, where they have their own ways of doing things, a fire was run to an engine. This was possible because the fire, which was in a refrigerator car, was caused by an overheated stove. Fire apparatus was placed on a box car and taken over the rails to the car that was in flames. It did what it could, but was not very effective, and neighboring buildings were in danger, so the burning car was attached to a locomotive and moved to a railroad yard, where the fire was put out promptly and completely.

That is the sort of work the church ought to be doing with the fires of sin in the human soul. It is hard to treat sin where it generally is to be found. All the environment works with it, heaps fuel upon it, renders the task of extinguishing it more difficult. But move the sinner into the church! The Church is the place for sinners! The Church has efficient firemen and efficient apparatus. The fire-fighters there work to the best advantage. Move the sinners into the churches!

Prayer.—Great Head of the church, Thou didst come to earth to seek and to save that which was lost. Thy Church is the place for the lost, that they may be eternally found. Forbid that we should ever reserve our pews for the saved alone, and may every Christian join Thee in Thy great work of salvation. Amen.

SUNDAY.

WINGS.

"Oh, that I had wings like a dove! Then would I fly away, and be at rest."—Psa. 55:1-8.

Men have always envied the birds their swift flight, their mastery of the air. How quickly and easily the fortunate little creatures can leave a place they do not like and hasten to some place more to their fancy! Verily, they possess the magic carpet of the Arabian Nights. We all join the psalmist's sigh for the wings of a dove, only today we rather long for the wings of an eagle.

But the psalmist wanted to "fly away and be at rest." Is that the temper of the present age? Does the airship fly to rest, or to new excitement and more intense activity?

Aviation progress is a grand thing. But God's aeronautics are infinitely superior to ours! When He lifts us on His mighty wings, it is to transport us to lands of endless peace and perpetual joy.

Prayer.—So, Lord, we will fly away with Thee, and be at rest. We will leave far behind us all our frets and worries; all our sins and failures. Carry us, O God, to Thy realm of blessedness everlasting. Amen.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN'S PULPIT

REV. JOSEPH W. FIX, Preacher.

THE MEANING OF PRAYER.

PART I.

By REV. FLOYD BALLARD, B. D.

Following the logical order of the development of prayer, we begin by defining prayer of the past, or ancient prayer. Naturally we ask ourselves the question, what was prayer? It was largely the vocal expression of religion. Men thought their prayers were heard for their loud speaking. It was talking with God. But prayer might be of two kinds. It did not always function through loud speaking. It might be the fixation of attention on the deity, or the projection of the mind outside of self. This often assumed the form of ritualism. The Catholic, kneeling before the crucifix, is a striking example of what we have in mind. Again it might assume the form of some verbal formula such as the reading of certain sacred literature practiced by the Hindu, the repetition of some creed or prayer.

The structure of these ancient prayers was the same as any other conversation except that the deity was invisible and inaudible. He did not appear nor was his voice heard in audible tones. He made his approach through nature. Severe storms were interpreted as God's method of warning people. Often when severe sickness was visited upon an individual, it was thought to be God's mode of dealing with men, and was, therefore, counted as evidence of the divine presence. The philosophy of determinism played a very important part. The method of opening the Bible and unpremeditatingly placing the finger on a certain verse and then reading it was thought to be God's providential way of directing the individual. This verse which the finger by chance rested upon was thought to reveal some special message which God directed through this channel to the individual.

Now we pass on to the tangible objects as revealing God's will and as possessing a divine efficacy. We come to such things as pictures of the saints, images, icons. These seemed to hold a message for the individual which was thought to be of divine origin. Gradually the emphasis began to shift from that of objects as messengers of God, to that of a place of residence of the invisible God. God not only spoke to men through the intangible, but He was actually present and had his abode in the tangible. In this way men could commune with God in prayer by the mere fixation of attention on things tangible in which God resided. This was a forward step in the development of prayer.

But we advance a step further. Prayer as interpreted by events such as terminate in rewards and punishments. Prosperity and good fortune were thought to be the rich rewards of a pious life. A life of prayer and devotion to God paid its dividends in material wealth and temporal gain, while punishment and destruction attended the wicked. It was such a philosophy as this with which Job had to grapple. The experience of Job, and of humanity, has taught us that this is not true. The righteous suffer as well as the wicked, and the wicked in like manner with the righteous, prosper materially. "God sends the rain on the just and the unjust."

God, although He lives and moves in the realm of nature, is infinitely greater than nature. Although "He plants His foot steps in the storms and rides upon the waves," His omnipotence is not limited to the narrow boundary of the seas. He works through both the tangible, and the in-tangible, the visible and invisible, the physical and the spiritual. He is over all and in all.

The world you and I live in is different. The God we serve and to whom we pray is different. Jesus has revealed him to us not as a God of events, not as a God of rewards and punishment but as a Heavenly Father who giveth willingly and unbraidedly not, and as one we must worship in spirit and in truth. Even the teaching of Jesus has not convinced us that prayer is worth while. The coming of science has changed the whole situation and presented problems which have necessitated a change in our philosophy of prayer.

Passing through a period of readjustment brought about by scientific research and of mechanistic age, has merged three classes of individuals. The one who says that prayer is no longer necessary. He sees the world operating automatically, controlled by a series of natural laws and forces. When men once prayed for rain not knowing whither it came nor when to expect it, we now depend upon a government official and a scientist to tell us twenty-four hours ahead what kind of weather to expect and in the majority of instances his predictions come true. With the coming of science we have been able to construct reservoirs and hold in check a supply of water sufficient in amount to irrigate our crops; there prayer is no longer necessary.

There are always individuals who go to extremes. In this class belongs the person who believes so strongly in science as to say that prayer is utterly impossible. He believes God to be sitting on his throne in some far off place and watching the world move. To such an individual the world is conceived of in terms of a machine set in motion and which will continue until God sees fit to intervene, which will be at the end of time. Nothing that man has done or will do can change the natural order of things. He thinks in terms of positive proofs for all things and takes nothing for granted. His mind functions in a test tube and operates through the microscope. Those channels through which such a mind operates are of great significance and indispensable to scientific progress and we would not dispense with them. Some things, however, cannot be measured in terms of scientific evolution. The world in which we live is more than a world of law and order. There is a universe of mind as well as matter, of spirit as well as mind. There is also a universe of feeling, of sentiment and of emotion which this type of scientist would ignore. It is in this field that prayer functions.

The third group which has merged from this scientific age are the individuals whose faith in the efficacy of prayer has not decreased but has grown increasingly deeper, who do not conceive of prayer as a problem but as a glorious opportunity for the enrichment of personality and society, who have by their own personal experience with prayer and through fellowship with Jesus determined its significance as a spiritual dynamic, who believe in science but who believe also in prayer, who believe in a world of law and order but who also believe in prayer as a scientific method of arresting and directing the laws of nature and human nature and of even soliciting favors from God.

From the far East comes the cry to help the starving millions; China is today sounding the alarm announcing her hunger for peace. Europe has raised her flag of truce in a mad frenzy seeking liberty from starvation politically. England is over-crowded with her millions of unemployed who are hungering for food, but worse than all the famines that are abroad is "The Famine," the longing for a true and vitalizing philosophy of prayer, as a means of creating a right relationship between individuals and God, and between individuals and society.

Amid the throes of the world war anxious and devout mothers daily kneeled before the throne of grace seeking comfort which only could come (Continued on page 15.)

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATED.

The Silver-plated Ware is of the very highest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses.$22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 85. 11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plated; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling). $22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90. 14.00

Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim.....$ 9.00
Bread Plate No. 4—Broad rim..... 9.00
Filler—Silver lined 6.00

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, - - Richmond, Virginia

All styles sent postpaid at above prices

FROM THE REGISTRAR.

Arrangements are going forward in good order looking toward the opening of Elon College this fall. Registration day for the freshmen is September 12th, and for upperclassmen, September 15th. The professors are now in the process of setting up the courses of study for their departments, and the curriculum will offer the full line-up of courses to fit the students' needs.

During the summer, in spite of the fact that a new president has not been yet elected, all plans for the opening have been pushed vigorously and everything will be ready for the opening in September. The prospect bids fair for a reasonably good opening and a good year in spite of the depressed economic conditions of the country generally and the acute financial struggle of the college student to make ends meet. Stricter requirements for the prompt payment on the part of students of fees will naturally reduce the student body to a certain extent for the next year, but it is hoped that in the long run this policy will provide a larger and more steady income for the college from this source. Under the circumstances the registrations to date compare favorably with those of a year ago, running only a little behind those of that time.

C. M. CANNON,
Registrar.

POUNDED.

The good people of Pleasant Ridge Church gave their pastor and wife a wonderful pounding on Saturday night, July 11th. They came to his home, but finding no one there, they left their gifts with a neighbor. There was everything nearly for the pantry: sugar, coffee, preserves, canned fruit, salt, beans, flour, etc., and something to wear.

We have no words to express our appreciation for the gifts. We only pray God's richest blessings on this people and that we may be a better servant of the Lord for them. J. M. ALLRED.

Asheboro, N. C.

THE SUN'S PULPIT.

(Continued from page 13.)

through a life of prayer. Many of these mothers had sons on the battlefield for whom they had sacrificed and loved, and for whom they would give their life to save them from the horrors of war. Their prayers were utterly in faith, but the boys did not come back. Our own county in recent months has witnessed strikes which have turned men out of jobs leaving their families in destitute circumstances. Many of these individuals are loyal workers who are innocent of any thing unjust but who, being victims of circumstances, were unable to escape the tragedy. There are innocent women and children who, caught in the tide of injustice, are hurled against the rocks of hunger and cold. Not all of them are Christians but there are some who could rightly be called so and they too have in the past looked to God in prayer, but often only to be disappointed. What is to comfort such individuals? Are they to lose faith in the efficacy of prayer and in God?

In contrast to this picture is another which claims our attention. During all great crisis, such as the world war and the controversy between capital and labor, disaster is visited alike upon the just and the unjust. What does this mean to an individual who believes in and practices prayer? It simply means this: They look around them and soon they discover that God has been more gracious to some individual who has not lived a life of prayer. Their neighbor has returned from the front lines and is home safe again. They see that death has visited their home and robbed them of their only child while in the home of some friend who does not believe in prayer or at least does not practice it they have their healthful and happy children. Or we see a man whose wife is taken seriously ill. They summons the minister for prayer. The church holds a special prayer service for her recovery but finally she dies in spite of all that could be done. A second man's wife is taken with the same disease, but he does not call a minister. He calls in the best physicians, he employs a trained nurse to minister to his wife's needs and gives her the best attention scientific knowledge can provide. After a period of days the patient begins to improve and it is not long before she is well again. The result is that such individuals cease to pray. What conclusion are we to draw? Many of them have not, but in the minds of some have arisen doubt and scepticism. They are saying in their own minds, what's the use of prayer, it hath profited me nothing, and they are beginning to deny that prayer has any place in the Christian religion.

ELON COLLEGE

AN ACCREDITED COLLEGE

of the

CONGREGATIONAL CHRISTIAN CHURCHES OF THE SOUTHEAST

ELON was founded to train Christian leaders for the New South.

ELON has done its task well—one graduate in seven being in the Christian ministry. The other six express Christian leadership in the various professions and vocations. Experience teaches that spiritual leadership must be indigenous.

The South is now a New South ready for an inclusive Church, the type of Church for which Elon has stood for forty years and for which she is prepared to produce capable leadership.

With no Church in the community, save the College Auditorium, ELON has practiced Christian Union for faculty, students, and community for four decades.

Its contribution to Christian Education is nationally known and approved.

Its Christian Education Building, providing laboratory facilities for religious leadership training, is unique and is the first college building of its type in the world.

ELON confines itself to undergraduate liberal arts work with that religious emphasis which befits the Christian College.

In ELON the Congregational-Christian Church has an asset of marvelous hopefulness.

The South needs her Yale, her Oberlin, her Carleton, her Pomona for the intellectual leadership of the United Church. Many regard ELON as strategically located and spiritually endowed to become such a center of illumination and leadership training.

THE CHRISTIAN EDUCATION BUILDING

The Heart of the Elon Program of Christian Education.

C. M. CANNON, Registrar

Elon College, - - - North Carolina

Home Atmosphere—Reasonable Rates—Clean Athletics—Christian Spirit.

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the kingdom, as represented by the Congregational-Christian Church.

BOARD OF EDITORS.

J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
E. C. GILLETTE, D. D. Associate
W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
W. A. HARPER, LL.D. Associate
REV. S. C. HARRELL, D. D. Associate
J. E. McCAULEY, D. D. Associate
W. C. WICKER, D. D. News Editor
P. J. KERNODLE, D. D. Managing Editor
C. D. JOHNSTON, D. D. Circulation Manager

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Year$2.00
Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Postoffice, at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to The Christian Sun, C. D. Johnston, Circulation Manager, Elon College, N. C.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads" 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

Notices: Obituary and marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge; all over 100 words at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

OBITUARIES.

AYSCUE.

Miss Dora Ayscue passed to her reward on June 21, 1931, aged 65 years, 8 months and 7 days. Miss Ayscue was a charter member of the Henderson Christian Church. She was either an active or an honorary member of all the organizations of the church. She was a tither, faithful to her church, and that church has sustained a great loss in her going. She was loved and held in esteem by all who knew her.

Surviving are one brother, three sisters and many other relatives, and a host of friends, who mourn their loss but rejoice because of her faith in God.

Services were conducted in the home by her pastor. Interment was in Liberty (Vance) Cemetery. May the Lord bless and comfort the bereaved.

H. E. CRUTCHFIELD.

DEBT-PAYING AND RELIGION.

Roger Babson, the famous statistician and economist is quoted as saying: "Now is the time for them (preachers) to teach the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule. If each preacher would start a campaign to get all his congregation to pay their bills, as they would have others pay what is owing to them, this depression would soon be over. Too many people want to ride today, and too few are willing to haul. We want the other fellow to pay us, but are we willing to make the necessary sacrifice to pay him? Yet before prosperity returns this sacrifice must be made, and the other fellow must be treated as we would have him treat us."

This great business layman is undoubtedly right. Real prosperity is based ultimately on sound ethical principles. In recent years there has been, in the mad rush for financial success, a vast amount of dishonesty, or near dishonesty. Men have borrowed without the probability of paying, and have bought when they expected to default in payment. Bankers and brokers and public officials, entrusted with the funds of others, have betrayed confidence, and people are now afraid to trust others to handle their funds.

666

LIQUID or TABLETS

Relieves a Headache or Neuralgia in 30 minutes, checks a Cold the first day, and checks Malaria in three days.

666 Salve for Baby's Cold

"SUPREME AUTHORITY"

WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY

Because

Hundreds of Supreme Court Judges concur in highest praise of the work as their Authority.

The Presidents of all leading Universities, Colleges, and Normal Schools give their indorsement.

The Schoolbooks of the Country adhere to the Merriam-Webster system of diacritical marks.

The Government Printing Office at Washington uses it as authority.

WRITE for a sample page of the New Words, specimen of Regular and India Papers, FREE.

G. & C.
Merriam
Company,
Springfield,
Mass.

Get
The Best!

THE CONGREGATIONAL LATIN-AMERICAN INSTITUTE AND PILGRIM LATIN CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH OF WEST TAMPA, FLA.—

Are helping give the Gospel, which is "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth," to the forty thousand Latin people of Tampa. The evangelical forces working among the foreigners of Tampa are by no means covering the territory sufficiently.

Methodists have six preachers, Baptists two, Presbyterians one, Congregationalists one. Church workers and teachers must be supported for this great missionary work. Send check to

LESLIE S. BRAY, Treas.
Route 4, Box 468, - - Tampa, Fla.
Send boxes of clothing to Mrs. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

For literature, write Rev. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE

FOUR YEAR STANDARD COLLEGE

A Memorial of the Congregational-Christian Union.

OPENS WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1931.

EXPENSES.

TUITION will be $14 per term, covering Matriculation and all Fees. This makes $84 the entire expenses for the scholastic year of 36 weeks, with $28 more for the summer session, making $112 for one third of a full college course, or $336 for the full course of four scholastic years, whether taken in four years, or in three.

BOARD AND ROOM with fuel and lights will be $36 per term of six weeks (two in a room), board alone being $28.50 per term.

This makes the entire cost for a boarding student $50 per term; $300 for the entire scholastic year; $400 for a year and a third; $1200 for an entire college course, whether taken in four years or in three.

Instrumental Music, $6 per term; general vocal training free.

These low expenses are possible by the liberal donations of people who believe that the South, the Nation and the World need educated men and women.

ITS SLOGAN: "Scholarship High, Expenses Low, Character Supreme."

Further Announcement Next Week

For Information about Entrance, write—

DEAN MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD,
WADLEY, ALABAMA.

For Other Information, write—

DR. FRANK E. JENKINS,
LA GRANGE, GEORGIA (To September 1st).

HOLMAN BIBLES

LARGE PRINT TEACHERS' EDITION FOR ADULTS, TEACHERS AND PREACHERS

and all who would study the Word of God intelligently this edition is unsurpassed. The type is large, clear, Bourgeois, Self-Pronouncing, with liberal space between the words and lines, which makes it easy to read.

Size, 8 x 5 1/2 inches.

Specimen of Type

"From that time Jē's to preach, and to say, 'I the kingdom of heaven'

Containing New Copyrighted Helps by most reliable Authorities. A Treasury of Biblical Information. Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, New Colored Maps.

No. 4712. Divinity Circuit Teachers' Bible, French Seal Leather, red under gold edges, Silk Head bands and Silk Marker.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 5.00

No. 812RL. Red Letter Teachers' Bible. The Words of Christ in the New Testament, Old Testament Passages Alluded to by Christ, Various Prophecies Relating to Christ in the Old Testament, etc., all PRINTED IN RED. Binding same as described above and same large Self-Pronouncing type.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 6.00

No. 733X. Holman India Paper, Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 10.65

Wedding or Gift Bible FOR THE HOME

Holman Self-Pronouncing Home Study Edition

A BEAUTIFUL PRESENTATION PAGE Marriage Certificate and Family Record makes this special edition a most desirable Bible for a wedding gift.

Full Bound size, 8 1/2 x 6 inches; nearly 1800 pages. Authorized Version with Marginal References.

Large Print—Easy to Read

The Helps are the latest and most practical published—prepared by the most reliable and well-known authorities—and consist of a TEACHERS' NEW READY REFERENCE HAND BOOK, which gives the salient and essential information needed in Bible study.

Illustrated Self-Pronouncing Bible Dictionary—Containing 150 illustrations.

Oriental Light on the Bible (Containing over 100 illustrations). A new kind of illuminating Bible help.

Treasury of Biblical Information.

A New Series of Maps. A selection of the most used, with Special Maps, the results of the most recent explorations.

A New Practical Comparative Concordance, with nearly 50,000 references. Four Thousand Questions and Answers on the Bible.

ABSOLUTELY DURABLE BINDINGS that will not break in the back.

Specimen of the Print. Full size of the page is 5 1/2 x 8 inches.

Specimen of Type

17 "From that time Jē's began to preach, and to say, 'Repent: for the kingdom of heaven is at

A BEAUTIFUL PRESENTATION PAGE Marriage Certificate and Family Record makes this special edition a most desirable Bible for a wedding gift.

No. 4914. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker..... $5.50

Postage Paid

THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 East Broad Street

Richmond, - - - Virginia

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Representing the Southern Christian Convention and the Congregational Churches of the Southeast.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY

VOLUME LXXXIII

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, JULY 30, 1931

NUMBER 31.

Mrs N T Farmer

.. THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY ..

By DR. W. C. WICKER.

MARRIAGE AND HOME-MAKING.—

"The Reverend Roy Ewing Vale, newly come to the ministry of Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Presbyterian Church, recently preached on Sunday evenings for six weeks on marriage and home-making. He treated with delicacy, yet also with firmness, the many aspects of his theme, enlivening the same with apt illustrations and kindly humor."

ENGLAND SEEKS DISARMAMENT.—

England holds a disarmament conference in which Mr. Hoover's proposals were welcomed as having a direct bearing on the question under consideration. Nothing which brings more of reconciliation into the relations of the peoples is without significance in this matter. The prime minister, supported by other leading statesmen, claimed that Britain had gone as far in the direction of disarmament as it was possible for her to go alone. Britain has made very great reductions, and must wait for others now to unite in a common agreement to disarm. The only solution to such international questions is concert of action by the powers of the nations which figure largely in both war and peace.

CHURCH PROBLEMS.—

The problem of shifting populations should engage the careful consideration of the churches. In most cities and towns, new suburbs are rapidly built, and thousands of people suddenly grouped into a new community, need churches and Sunday Schools. With the coming of the motor car, many of our business people are moving out of the heat and heart of the cities and are building new homes in the country with its open spaces. This will afford opportunities for the church to build new churches, provide Sunday Schools, and do missionary work. The Congregational Christian Church will have a fine opportunity to extend its work to towns and cities where it has not worked hitherto and engirdle these expanding cities with new church organizations.

TRAINING FOR PEACE.—

The attack on the problems of war and peace was made at Teachers' College along four lines: history and politics, economics and international finance, philosophy, and educational technique. My old friend and teacher at Columbia, one of the finest authorities in the teachers' art and technique that it has ever been my privilege to know, both in theory and practice, was in charge of the techniques of teaching in which he caused the group to discover for themselves something of the process in which attitudes are formed. His work at Teachers' College is devoted to this technique of forming attitudes in his foundations of method, which will apply to attitudes with reference to such international questions as war as well as to education or religion.

STANLEY HIGH.—

Since January 1st of this year, Stanley High, editor of the Christian Herald, has devoted much of his time to furthering the development of a new daily newspaper, dedicated to Christian ideals and committed editorially to liberal causes. Mr. High ceased to be editor of the Christian Herald July 1st, but continues as "News Editor" and hereafter most of his attention will be given to the newspaper, for the support of which already hundreds of thousands of dollars have been pledged. This daily will champion prohibition, will espouse liberty under law, and will aggressively support all great causes that have a claim upon "Keepers of the common good." It will be primarily a newspaper which will give religious as well as general news of interest to Christian people.

CHRISTIAN YOUTH.—

At Cleveland during mid-summer this year will be four notable world conferences of Christian leaders for youth. From Japan comes Toyohiko Kagawa, outstanding prophet of the orient; from China, David Z. T. Yui and T. Z. Koo, well known in the far east in political, educational and business circles as well as for their Christian leadership; from India, Behari Lal Rallia Ram, successor to the late K. T. Paul as the national leader of the Christian associations; and many others from other lands. Nearly 50 countries will be represented by these and other leaders of young men in the 20th conference of the World's Alliance, of Young Men's Christian Associations which meets in Cleveland August 4th to 9th. This is the first time the alliance has met in North America.

THE MACINTOSH CASE AGAIN.—

"The courts will continue to reflect the Macintosh case in their decisions with reference to aliens seeking citizenship. Emil Scheppe, a conscientious objector to war, was denied citizenship in the Denver courts in spite of the fact that he recanted and agreed to bear arms as a combatant soldier. Naturalization officials urged that he be denied citizenship for five years as punishment for his statement that it would be against his conscience and his God to kill even in the support of the constitution. The Judge continued the case for a year to enable Scheppe to prove the sincerity of his conversion to the great god-nationalism. "Talk about separation of church and state if you will but the churches were called on to support the World War and the individual must deny God to become a citizen of the country!"

N. E. A. CONVENTION.—

The National Educational Association, which met this year in Los Angeles, closed on the eve of the fourth of July. But not before these teachers once more went on record in favor of the 18th amendment. The Association made a record for attendance this year—16,700, or about double the usual registration. It is estimated that 22,000 were in attendance, counting those who came with the regular members. If any preacher or church leader thinks the church of today is suffering from too much criticism and overhauling, let him sit in one of the sessions of this association, or even glance casually through the pages of its voluminous printed program. That will be enough without reading such a suggestive and charmingly written volume as that of Principal Jack's on "Education for the Whole of Life" to see that our entire educational theory and technique is in for a complete revamping.

ABOLISH WAR.—

The central question at the Haverford Institute held by the Friend's Church last week, was the abolition of war. Is anything accomplished by preventing the killing of men unless they have a worthy life while living? Last year the Friends service committee organized a group of nearly sixty young people from the colleges who would undergo two weeks of strenuous training and then spend the summer in peace propaganda. This undertaking justified itself, and this year 140 registered for a similar institute, including a large number of ministers of whom thirty-five had been sent by the Methodist Episcopal Church for preparation for special leadership in Epworth League institutes and summer schools. Other churches would do well to unite with them in this work of the Kingdom in bringing in the reign of peace. Agitation in the wrong direction brings war; agitation, education and organization in the right direction will secure peace.

CHANGED CUSTOMS.—

The rapid changes in customs due to the automobile, the movie, and other modern influences, have altered the ways of our people, and the church must meet these conditions in such a manner as to guide populations in spite of these influences in their religious life. There must be reality in worship, vitality in religious services, spirituality in sermons, and songs which satisfy the deep religious needs of the soul. Materialism and the mechanistic conception of reality will not draw people away from the materialism of the world into religious life. We have had too exclusive appeal to the intellect in our sermons and too little appeal to the religious nature. Worship may be defined as "the practice of the presence of God," or the consciousness of the communion of the spirit of man with the spirit of God in service; and when the worshipful spirit is pressed more in our religious meetings, the people will come more and more to church. We must offer something that can be had nowhere else to satisfy the needs of the soul.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Rev. H. C. Caviness, of First Church, Portsmouth, has been in the Valley of Virginia, assisting in a series of meetings, recently. During the coming week, he will be at Wakefield, Va.

The Capone case shows that the United States can call upon several resources not available to gangsters. For pitiful sums of money, plus the opportunity to serve, it can enlist intelligence, honesty, and courageous devotion.

The article by Roger W. Babson, reprinted from a contemporary, is well worth reading and studying. If the Church means business, it must get down to a business basis, and give the world a stability which it cannot have without the Church to guide it.

Rev. J. C. Barrett, pastor of the Hopewell, Va., Christian Church was a visitor at our Richmond office recently. We were glad to have him, and hope he will call again. He says that his work is going nicely at Hopewell, and that he is keeping quite busy.

In the July 23rd issue of "The Christian-Evangelist" is an editorial on the "Conditions of Christian Union." We reprint it in this issue of THE SUN. It makes interesting reading in spite of the curtain lecture contained therein, and we hope that our readers, both from the Christian and Congregational constituency will take time to peruse it. There is some food for thought contained therein, even if our private judgment fails to co-incide with the editor's.

What has become of the preachers that were going to keep The Sun posted in regard to happenings in their fields of labor. There are one or two "old stand-bys," but a great number are too busy—is busy the right word—to write in. Some, we suspect, are a little bashful. Our suggestion is that they take a cue from our Congregational brethren. Not a week passes but what they have at least a page of good, live news. It is worth while, Brother Preacher, indeed it is.

"The assertion has been made that the principal source of gang power is the profit derived from the illegal liquor traffic, and that the elimination, by some means, of this source of revenue would put an end to criminal gangs and racketeering. In the recent income-tax prosecutions against a number of these organized gangsters, it was developed that, on an average, not over 20 per cent of their revenue came from the liquor traffic, and this has been diminishing; and if this be an indication of general conditions, the removal of illicit liquor traffic as a source of revenue would not end gangsterism and racketeering." —Hon. William D. Mitchell, Attorney-General of the United States.

A prize of fifty dollars was earned by the writer of the following on "Why I Read My Church Paper." It was awarded by Church Management, a magazine that deals with general church problems. It is reproduced with the hope that members of our own denomination will see in it substantial reasons for supporting their church publications. Here it is: "I read my Church paper for the same reason that a stockholder of a bank reads the report of his Board of Directors, that a merchant reads his trade paper, that a mechanic reads his trade union journal, that a doctor reads his medical magazine: that I may know and understand the latest developments of my trade and profession—that of being a Christian. I cannot be a real Christian and a worth-while member of my church unless I know its purposes, its aims, its plans, its needs, and how it proposes through the co-operation of its members to join hands with God in bringing them about. My Church paper, the text-book of my particular denomination tells me how."

MISSIONARY OFFERINGS.

FOR WEEK ENDING JULY 25, 1931.

Sunday School Offerings.

Previously acknowledged	$ 3,668.79
South Norfolk, Va.	5.11
Durham, N. C.	13.41
Pleasant Hill, Liberty, N. C.	3.43
Happy Home, Ruffin, N. C.	1.67
Auburn, N. C.	3.70
Berea (Nansemond), Driver, Va.	4.81
United Christian, Lynchburg, Va.	5.22
Providence-Memorial, Graham, N. C.	3.28
High Point, N. C.	3.09
Cary, N. C.	2.66
Antioch, Zuni, Va.	2.00
Woods' Chapel, New Market, Va.	1.00

Total $ 3,718.17

Dollar-a-Month Club.

Previously acknowledged	$ 141.00
Miss Ophelia Morris (Palm St. Church), Greensboro, N. C.	1.00
D. W. Cochran, Greenville, S. C.	5.00
Miss Georgie Bradley (Mt. Zion Church), Mebane, N. C.	1.00

Total $ 148.00

Woman's Board Southern Christian Convention.

Previously acknowledged	$ 8,983.17
Mountains of Virginia	200.00
Ocean View	200.00
South Norfolk	200.00
Raleigh	350.00
Japan, Sunday School	12.50
Japan, Bible Woman	25.00
Japan, Kindergarten	28.48
Japan, General Work	698.93
Porto Rico, General Work	204.99
Porto Rico, Kindergarten	28.49

Total $10,931.56

Specials.

Previously acknowledged	$ 4,232.58
Burlington (N. C.) Sunday School	55.28

Total $ 4,287.86

Summary.

Previously acknowledged	$22,031.34
Sunday Schools, Regular	49.38
Dollar-a-Month Club	7.00
Woman' Board, S. C. C.	1,948.39
Specials	55.28

Total $24,091.39

J. O. ATKINSON,
Mission Secretary.

(The above report was not received at the office of publication till about ten minutes before quitting time on Tuesday afternoon, and consequently too late to put in the first form of THE SUN, in which the "Missions Page" is located. It was necessary to pull enough matter from the Notes and Personals Page to include it here. Hence its position this week.)

FROM REV. G. D. HUNT.

Verbena, Ala., July 17, 1931.

Dear Bro. Editor:

Leaving home last Saturday, I went to Red Hill and Richland, Ga., where I held services on Sunday, having fine meetings at both places. I am rejoicing at the fine fellowship manifested by both of these churches.

I left Richland at 4:10 P. M., on the Seaboard train for Montgomery, Ala., en route to Verbena, Ala. I spent the night in Montgomery, and reached my destination Monday morning. I was met at Verbena by Rev. A. C. Nelson, pastor of the church at East View, where the meeting was, and is being held. We are having a fine meeting, largely attended, and seemingly much good is being done. Several people have already joined the church, and others are expected to follow. This church is located in a fine section of the State and has a great future before it.

Many of our old friends located here many years ago, quite a number of whom I have had the pleasure of meeting since I have been here. It has been a real pleasure to me to be here and worship with these people. The crops in this section are fine. The drouth has not been so severe here, but in many sections it is bad indeed. I trust our country may be blessed with a good season in time to make bread.

I leave for home tomorrow. Next week I am to assist in a meeting at Pleasant Grove Church, in Chambers County, Ala. The week following, on the fourth Sunday, I will be at New Hope, where I will attend the unveiling of the monument erected to the memory of Rev. W. M. Elder. That will be a great occasion for the Elder family and for the Christian Church.

G. D. HUNT.

CONFERENCES MEET.

Alabama United Conference meets at Phenix City, Ala., Second Tuesday morning in November, 1931.

Georgia and Alabama Conference and Southern Association will meet jointly———,———.

Virginia Valley Central Conference meets at Mt. Olivet, Greene County, August 5, 1931, Rev. B. J. Earp, pastor.

Eastern Virginia Conference meets at Cypress Chapel, Nansemond County, Wednesday before the first Sunday in November, 1931, at 10:30 A. M.

Western North Carolina Conference meets with Shiloh Christian Church, Randolph County, Tuesday after the first Sunday in November, 1931, at 10:30 A. M.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference meets at Mt. Bethel Church, Rockingham County, on Tuesday after the second Sunday in November, 1931.

Eastern North Carolina Conference meets at Shallow Well Church, Tuesday after the third Sunday in November, 1931.

NOTE.—Secretaries of Associations and Conferences will please supply omissions and make necessary corrections to the above.

NOTICE.

The Virginia Valley Conference will meet at Mt. Olivet, Greene Co., Aug. 5th. Those who come by auto follow State Highway No. 17 to the intersection of No. 704; then follow No. 704 to the church. Those who come by rail, come to Elkton or Charlottesville and notify Mr. Norman Morris, Dyke, Va.

B. J. EARP, Pastor.

CONGREGATIONAL NEWS

REV. E. C. GILLETTE, Editor; REV. F. P. ENSMINGER, and REV. M. J. SWEET, Associates.

JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA, Union Congregational Church, of which Dr. H. Samuel Fritsch is pastor, with the Snyder Memorial Methodist Church, First Christian, and First Presbyterian, is holding union evening services during the summer months.

UNITED CHURCH, SALISBURY, N. C. J. Howard Smith, Miss Priscilla Chase with Miss Josephine Valjito, are taking practically full charge of the church work. Mr. Smith does the pastoral work and assists the ladies in the D. V. A. Miss Chase directs the work and speaks every evening to young people interested in the program of the church.

MIDDLE GEORGIA does not meet this summer. An error crept into our news items a little while ago saying we did. Not so. The meeting of the Middle Georgia Association will be in connection with the State Conference at Barnesville next October, the exact date not yet fixed. At that time it is proposed to thoroughly go into the matter of reorganization. This will afford the Christian Churches of this region a chance to share in the building of an entirely new organization which, it is believed, will serve the district more efficiently.

REV. J. BRAINERD THRALL, pastor at Asheville for seventeen years is away out west in Minneapolis on his vacation. He speaks with great enthusiasm of the services of our S. S. S. worker, Mr. Kendrick Grobel of Chicago Theological Seminary, says, "He is a rare fellow and just the kind for a field like this—Thanks for sending us so fit a young man." And words like these come from most if not all, regarding our fine young people who are giving their vacation months to a religious need with whole hearted consecration. The people of Asheville ask for Mr. Grobel through to September. The need is unusual and the work very important.

LA GRANGE, GEORGIA, has called a great meeting to celebrate the union of the two churches, First Christian and First Congregational, for August 16th. It is proposed to hold an all-day meeting—morning, afternoon and evening. It is hoped that Dr. Atkinson, and Dr. Bloom, as well as the pastor at large, may be present and contribute to the effectiveness of the day's program. This is a significant step in advance for these churches, and a credit to their spirit and a great blessing to the whole city. The celebration really should be city wide. What the great Council was at Seattle to the country, this United Church movement in LaGrange is to that beautiful little city. We congratulate LaGrange.

EDWARDS, AT CHARLESTON, S. C., is quite a leader in inter-church relationships. He proposed and fathered and carried out a "Preachers' Picnic," with the ladies present. It was a great success. First time it ever happened in that city; everybody was happy, and so the Kingdom grows. But he is also active in other interests of city-wide activity, too many, in fact to mention here. A valuable man for Charleston, with his union services in his own church. Other churches come in to furnish the music and the devotional part of the hour, and then he tells them what kind of folks they are, by delivering an address on their denomination. He attends to his own business, too. Attendance at his church during the last quarter has increased about 60 per cent. He says, "The organ seems to be a factor."

Quite true, but the man in the pulpit is always the factor. They have a new organ in his church, and everybody is happy that such progress is being made.

FROM ANTIOCH CHURCH, near Bristol, Georgia, comes the news, telling of the closing days of our S. S. S. man, Mr. Floyd Price. Everybody is sorry to see him go. Antioch did worth while things during this busy season. Among other things, they voted unanimously to group their church with Friendship, Ambrose (Christian) and Union Hill, so making it possible for each church to have a full time pastor—a thing which will help each of these small churches effectively. Witness the Barnesville Parish under the care of Mr. Stanley, and the Macedonia Parish with Mr. Leverett leading. The success of these and other parishes of like-mindedness is encouraging others to adopt this policy, and it is predicted that in the near future, practically every one of our small churches will be yoked in a larger parish with some other churches. This will furnish a pastor to every church, and each church will no longer be merely a preaching point, but will be an integral part of a larger community enterprise in which three or four churches are vitally interested.

UNION TABERNACLE, Atlanta, gave a fine farewell party to our S. S. S. man, Mr. Theron Zimmerman, the last Saturday night he was there. They presented him with an autograph book in which sincere good wishes for him were written by all. Mr. Zimmerman prizes this book very highly. He feels it is an unusually sincere expression of appreciation which will oft give him courage in future days of his work for the kingdom. Mr. Zimmerman will be in LaGrange, Ga., for the next three weeks. He will here find not one church only, but now, by unanimous vote, another "United Congregational and Christian Church." These two churches have just sent in word that both have adapted a constitution and by-laws prepared for this Union. They are now planning a great Sabbath Day when both churches will meet for the first time as a United Church. They are planning to have Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Dr. W. Knighton Bloom, and Rev. M. J. Sweet, pastor-at-large, who has given them some advice in the process of union, present. At this meeting they expect to formally accept and to confirm and adopt the new constitution and appoint a time when together they may organize under its provisions, elect officers and in all ways perfect the organization. This is, so far as the writer knows, the first time such a union has been perfected in Georgia. It is another sign of genuine Christian character and vision. LaGrange will be one of the first to see how good and how pleasant it is to have two sets of people who see visions and then bring them into the realities of experience. The date of the great "Meeting of Rejoicing" cannot yet be announced but it will probably be some time in August, depending on the time the speakers they desire may be able to be present.

CAROLINAS AND VACATION SCHOOLS reach high standards. These schools have been welcomed to Raleigh, Caroleigh, Chapel Hill, Providence Chapel, Spies, Asheville, Flint Hill, Bailey's Grove, Sophia, Whitehall and Salisbury, with Columbia to be served in August. Yes, and Reidsville, won the honors in organization preparedness and numbers. Of course numbers usually come when proper preparedness has been done. Of course our extension worker, Miss Priscilla Chase has been at the bottom of things. No easy task to plan schools everywhere and than to man them with right personalities. Here are some of the people she has had to help in this really great work: J. Howard Smith, preacher, boy scout man, leader of boys, helper in all sorts of ways; Barbara Chase was yoked with Mabel Coghill; Annie Lou Arthur with Miss Leola Olmstead, with J. Howard assisting at times; Kendrick Groebel playing a lone hand at Asheville and doing a big piece of constructive work; Dorothy and Lois Halliday, at Hendersonville, with a fine group of boys and girls, and Miss Josephine Valjato with Miss Priscilla Chase doing valiant service with the older girls. This constitutes a worthy army of leaders, and they have served a total of fourteen schools, and there are three to follow Blue Ridge. And let us not forget the fine co-operation of parents and churches in this work. It was hot, O yes, who does not know it? But did anybody stop to mourn? Not one of the S. S. S. people of the Carolinas and Georgia. The writer believes that never has a stronger group done more for the communities served than have these wide-awake young people. And the end is not yet. Permanent results which can be seen are following in their wake. And one group of the Carolina children said significantly: "Tell that big man in Washington (Dr. Bloom) to send us the same teachers next year."

CONDITIONS OF CHRISTIAN UNION.

The union of the Christian Church and the Congregationalists consummated June 27, 1931, at noon, in Seattle, Washington, was well thought through before the vote was taken. The question had been before both churches for several years. This was pre-eminently wise, for a good many such moves fail because they are premature.

The hearty and joyful way in which it was received by all delegates present was a prophecy of the new joy and life that will come to the people of God when we can find a path to Christian union.

We can judge somewhat the course that must be taken, the principles that must be followed, the limitations that must be observed in order to reach Christian Union from the union platform of the Congregational and Christian Churches.

It is set forth in the following "Preamble and Basis":

"The Congregational and Christian Churches of the United States, by delegates assembled, reserving all the rights and cherished memories of their historic past and affirming loyalty to the basic principles of unity and democracy in church polity, hereby set forth the principles of Christian fellowship immemorably held by these churches.

"We hold sacred the freedom of the individual soul and the right of private judgment. We stand for the autonomy of the local church and its independence of ecclesiastical control. We cherish the fellowship of churches, united in district, State, and national bodies for counsel and co-operation. Affirming these convictions, we hold to the unity of the Church of Christ, and will unite with all its branches in fellowship and hearty co-operation; and we earnestly seek that the prayer of our Lord for the unity of his followers may be speedily answered.

"We find in the Bible the supreme rule of faith and life, but recognize wide room for differences in interpretation. We therefore base our union upon the acceptance of Christianity as primarily a way of life and not upon uniformity of theological opinion or any uniform practice of ordinances."

A close reading of this indicates that there is much work yet to do before the "union is one and
(Continued on page 15.)

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR

J. O. ATKINSON, ELON COLLEGE, N. C.

ASSOCIATE EDITOR

E. C. GILLETTE

117 W. Forsyth Street, Jacksonville, Fla.

CONTRIBUTING EDITORS

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

S. C. HARRELL

J. E. MCCAULEY

NEWS EDITOR

W. C. WICKER

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

(1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.

(2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.

(3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.

(4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship and of Church membership.

(5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

THEY THAT GO IN SHIPS.

(Editorial Correspondence.)

On Board Ship, July 24-31, 1931.

Where one takes even a brief sea-trip in summer time, one wonders why all the world doesn't leave the land and take to the water. King Solomon must have thought so, for he, the world's wisest man, was the first in the Good Book at least to go at ship-building seriously and make a whole fleet of ships. I am thinking today as I never seemed to think before of Solomon's ripe wisdom in this regard. The sea is beneath me, the blue vault above me, the broad expanse of waters about me, and this great old ship of five thousand tons burden, comfortable and palatial in appointment, seems to be carrying me safely and securely along in a veritable new heaven and a new earth.

Twelve hours ago I was weltering in the almost unbearable heat and humidity of and about Norfolk, wondering if it were possible to get cool and be comfortable again. Our good ship the Robert E. Lee, with nose pointing toward the Virginia Capes, the deep sea, the Jersey coast and New York, whither I am bound, had hardly left Norfolk harbor when a friendly breeze, vigorous, cool and soothing with the breath of the briny sea, made one forget humidity, heat, depression, perspiration and all other discomforts of a hot summer sun.

After an early and sumptuous dinner, such as can be found only on big ships that go down to the sea, I sat for hours alone on the deck in the mellow moonlight holding securely my cap lest an embryonic gale now sprung up tear it from me and send it whirling off to sea. And I wondered if it were possible for people in the dim distance beyond the shore line to be suffering from heat and mad from mosquito bites. Verily they are fortunate indeed, who for pleasure, profit or pursuits, can and do leave the land now and then at least and take to the sea. It is just a brief journey with me, out of Norfolk at 7:30 p. m., a perfectly glorious evening, a whole night of unbroken sleep, made doubly sweet and refreshing by the soothing bulge, gentle plunge and soft rocking of the ship—as sweet, as comforting, and as happy as the babe in the cradle, rocked by a loving mother's hand. If ever this writer grows nervous, has insomnia, or becomes unduly agitated and restless, take it from him now—he leaves the land for a season and keeps company with those who "go down in ships to the sea." Yes, Solomon was a very wise man. He built a great fleet of ships that his people might in a measure at least, and in season, go out to sea. The Psalmist was getting at the very heart of what I feel today, out here less than eighteen hours from shore." They that go down to the sea in ships, that do business in great waters; these see the works of Jehovah and his wonders in the deep." (Psa. 107: 23-24.)

God's wonders are in the deep as they are in all the earth, if we but look for them. But as for me, I seem to see these wonders more readily and more sublimely when out at sea with a great, good ship splashing and cutting the waters, the unmarked and unhindered expanse about, and the beautiful blue above reflecting its mellow light in the shimmering deep beneath.

Last week at the Sunday School Convention, Supt. Johnston's class from the Orphanage sang impressively, "This is a Beautiful World." It is. And the place to discover its beauty, and blessing, is out at sea, where man's ruthless hand has placed no barrier and where his greed has left no mark.

My destination is New York by the Robert E. Lee, where we are scheduled to dock this afternoon, only twenty hours out altogether, and then after a brief business stay and errand in New York, on to Northfield, Mass., grounds now made sacred as the last resting place of all that's earthy of the great D. L. Moody, and the meeting place each August of noted Bible teachers and anxious Bible students. Of this conference, some who are to lecture there, the high spots of life and inspiration there the next three weeks, I shall be happy to write later on in successive issues of THE SUN.

J. O. A.

THE EASTERN VIRGINIA CONVENTION.

This is the last to be held each year of the five of our Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Conventions, and is usually the most largely attended. This year the sessions were held at Oakland Church, Chuckatuck, Va., July 21st and 22nd, and this splendid rural church was about filled to capacity by the more than five hundred delegates and visitors. Rev. J. E. McCauley, of First Church, Norfolk, being executive secretary, is charged with the responsibility of making and managing the program. There were evidences of his faithful performance of duty throughout the sessions. Possibly the outstanding single event of the convention was the president's annual address. Mr. Jesse F. West, Jr., has been president for several years, and being a very active Sunday School official and enthusiast himself, his address came freighted with practical, pointed suggestions and helps for Sunday School students and workers. The address this year dealt with the unity, the oneness, the identity of Sunday School and Church. This oneness, this identity of interests is not in the minds of many in church or school, but should be, for the best interests of both. Mr. West has promised the full text of his address for THE SUN, and when printed, we bespeak for it a wide and profitable reading.

The convention received a warm welcome in the words of Mr. Mills E. Godwin, Jr., and this contained so many valuable and pertinent points that it is likewise to be printed in THE SUN. Rev. R. E. Brittle very happily and appropriately responded. Dr. Charles E. Shelton, First Congregational Church, Portsmouth, taught the convention a real lesson on the worth, merit and benefits of reading "Our Book and Our Books." Dr. Shelton says that minds and souls are fed, like our bodies, only on sanitary, wholesome food, and the reason why we have so many debilitated, weakened, and emaciated minds and souls is because they are not fed on that wholesome food found only in reading good books. And the best of all good books for mind and soul is the Bible. It was a very able and suggestive address.

At noon the convention was split up for 45 minutes into groups for the study of practical problems, Miss Esther Hall having a group interested in Primaries and Beginners; Rev. H. S. Hardcastle a group interested in Intermediates and Juniors, Rev. N. G. Newman a group interested in Adult and Home departments.

In the afternoon, after Rev. C. E. Geringer had conducted a very appropriate devotional period, Mrs. J. M. Harris, presented in writing the Report on Missions, pointing out that there were some fifteen schools in the convention not yet giving a monthly offering to Missions or the Orphanage, despite the pleadings and frequent decisions of the convention that all its schools do this good thing.

Mrs. B. D. Jones, who recently attended the Missionary Conference at Chambersburg, Pa., gave a fresh and most illuminating address, with suggestions, on "Missionary Education in the Sunday School." After a talk on "Missions a Spiritual Task," by the Secretary of Missions, the afternoon was given over to departmental reports: on Literature, by Rev. J. W. Fix, on Cradle Roll, by Mrs. M. T. Whitley; on Intermediates, by F. A. Osborne; on Young People, by Miss Lizzie Holland; on Young People's Congress, by Miss Lillye Spain.

At the evening session Supt. C. D. Johnston of the Christian Orphanage spoke of the work of that institution; and then, to the delight of all, a class from the orphanage, under the tutelage and leadership of Mrs. Wakefield of the orphanage, gave a most delightful program.

THE SUN's editor was away on other matters all day Wednesday, and to his deep regret missed the Christian Endeavor reports and program of that day. Reports by those present were that it was a great and good day, with a most helpful program. The body was regally entertained by Oakland Church and their committee, and all who attended felt that this was one of the best conventions ever held in this Conference. It was indeed good to be there. J. O. A.

A CHRISTIAN MORALITY.

The biggest challenge that faces the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ today is the challenge to build a Christian morality. It is a task of which the Church does not seem to be definitely aware. It is even more important than the question of world peace, or the question of church union, important as they are. The question of adequate moral standards and restraints touches the life of every individual in a most intimate way. The moral debacle that has taken place in recent years endangers the property of every individual. It is a constant threat against those whom we love, especially the members of the younger generation. The world is no longer a safe place in which to live and do business.

The causes of the wave of crime and immorality which has swept the world are many and far reaching. The world has been sowing dragon's teeth for a long time in the philosophy of selfish and unrestrained individualism that has been broadcast in most of the current literature for years. This dangerous individualism has been fostered by the teachings of our modern systems of education, and has in a large measure been sanctioned by the practices of every-day living in our homes. The complete breakdown has been hastened and aggravated by the World War. Crime, violence and immorality of all kinds are the inevitable aftermath of war.

There has been those who have boldly charged the church with the responsibility for a lawless and immoral world. It is the mode of these times to lay everything that is not as it should be at the doors of the church. Viewed in one light this is a childish and irrational attempt to escape responsibility; but in another light it contains a grain of truth that we cannot ignore. The specter of doubt is constantly arising as to whether the church is really measuring up to its responsibility for religious training of youth. We have taken great comfort from a few statistics as to the relatively few Sunday School boys that fall into the toils of the law; and have endeavored to convince ourselves that all is well. But investigators are going deeper. Tests are being conducted that show that boys and girls who have received what we call religious training are not so far ahead of those who have not received such training, when moral and ethical standards are put to the test.

We are now ready to consider the question, What is Christian morality. We have generally assumed that the moral standards of Jesus are the same as those of Moses. It is true that the Ten Commandments are the basic standards upon which Jesus builds his system of morality. But there is a wide difference between Old Testament morality and Christian morality. The results sought are the same; but the motivating power is entirely different. Old Testament morality has back of it the fear of the inevitable punishment of the law breaker. Christian morality is rooted in the dynamic love. To say that does not mean that the thought of love is entirely absent in the Old Testament. Nor is it to say that Jesus taught the abolishment of all punishment for the law breaker. It is only to say that in one the predominant motive power is fear, and that in the other the predominant motive is love.

Let it not be thought that this is a distinction that is of no consequence. It is a distinction so vital that it constantly engages the thought of Saint Paul in practically all of his letters that have come down to us. I do not believe it is over stating the case to say that Paul realized that Christianity must learn to build a moral and ethical life grounded in love or that it was fore-doomed to failure. Paul faced a world bound by the obsession that the only possible righteousness is a righteousness through law. Back of the law was always the fear of punishment that awaited the transgressor. It was this fear that gave the law its power. We leave it to you to say to what extent we have gone beyond this position in our own day.

It still behooves the church to build a righteousness within its members that is founded upon love; a righteousness that will find its expression in the highest morality that the world has ever known. It is perhaps impossible to say to what extent the church is teaching a morality based on love. It seems to me that we are mixing the motives of love and fear in a way that must inevitably lead to chaos. The fact is that most of us have not yet arrived at a faith that will permit us to risk anything upon the transforming power of love. We try to teach the love motive, but are none too sure of the outcome; and as soon as there are evidences that love is not succeeding, we are ready to fall back on the threat of punishment.

Somebody is immediately going to raise the issue as to whether or not we ought to have laws against crime, with police officers to arrest the lawbreakers, and with courts to try and to sentence the offenders, and with jails and penitentiaries in which to punish the guilty. Of course we must have such things. The longer the church lags at the task of inculcating a Christian morality, a morality founded on love, the more jails and penitentiaries we will have to have. If the church waits too long or is not equal to the task when it does undertake it, a complete collapse of our so-called Christian civilization is probable.

It is just here that the portion of the Protestant world that contends for the separation of Church and State has never been able to think itself clear of entanglements. When it comes to a question of morality we have identified the functions of Church and State. It is the State's function to maintain law and order by the threat of punishment. It is the function of the Church to establish men and women in the power of love that will make them in a noble sense, above the law. The church has always had to do its true work apart from the State, and sometimes in opposition to the State. The only reason that the State is able to hold things together now is because there are sufficient numbers of its citizens that are actuated by the motive of love. If the Church permits that number to decrease the work of the State becomes increasingly difficult and eventually impossible.

Does it sound like an impossible task to talk of building a morality based on love? The unloving will put it down at once as impossible. But to paraphrase a great New Testament text, "For the loving all things are possible." As a matter of fact the only morality that is worthy of the name, which exists today is that which is motivated by love. The only homes that have not fallen to pieces or that are not in the process of dissolution are those where love holds sway. The only citizens that have not been corrupted or who are not in the process of being corrupted are those who have a morality that is founded upon love. The task that challenges the Church to build a Christian morality, is the challenge to do in the hearts of many what it has in the past been able to accomplish in the hearts of a few.

S. C. H.

NEW TABERNACLE AT WAKEFIELD, VA.

CAMP MEETING.

The great camp meeting at Wakefield, Va., will be held July 31st to August 9th, inclusive. The meeting is entirely undenominational, the teaching thoroughly orthodox and scriptural. Jesus only is lifted up as an all sufficient Saviour, for all men, from sin. Rev. O. B. Newton, pastor of Asbury M. E. Church, South Richmond, Va., and Rev. H. C. Caviness, pastor of First Christian Church, Portsmouth, Va., are the ministers for this year's camp. Otho M. Cockes will be song leader and Mrs. O. M. Cockes pianist. Thousands of souls have been blest at these altars. The prayers and the co-operation of all ministers and churches are solicited in this battle against sin and the forces of evil. OTHO M. COCKES, Committee Chairman.

REVIVALS.

Our revival meeting at New Labanon was held the week following the first Sunday in July. Rev. T. J. Green, our faithful brother in Christ, was with us and brought real gospel messages of power. The church was greatly strengthened and revived and there were a number of conversions during the meeting. Seven united with the church at the last service and there will perhaps be others to join later. Brother Green was at his best for Christ and the people heard him gladly. We pray that we may follow the Lord more closely by reason of the meeting and render a greater service for His glory.

Our season of revival began at Shallow Ford the second Sunday in July. Rev. M. A. Pollard, a beloved and loyal servant of God, was with us there. Brother Pollard earnestly declared the whole counsel of God through the power of the Spirit and the hearts of the people were responsive. The church was greatly revived and a number of conversions were evidences of the work of the Holy Spirit. Five united with the church, and two presented themselves for membership in other churches.

In these days of trying experiences, God still meets with His people in fellowship and prayer and that to own and to bless. We are grateful for all that He has done for us, and desire to surrender more fully to serve His cause.

We are at present in our meeting at Mt. Bethel. Brother Pollard is with us here. We will write about results here later. Next Sunday, we are to begin our meeting at Apples' Chapel when Rev. A. W. Andes is to be with us.

R. A. WHITTEN.

Today is your day and mine—the only day we have, the day in which we play our part. What our part may signify in the great whole we may not understand; but we are here to play it, and now is our time. This we know: it is a part of action, not of whining. It is a part of love and not cynicism. It is for us to express love in terms of human helpfulness.—David Starr Jordan.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

The separate meetings of the General Convention of the Christian Church and the National Council of the Congregational Church at Seattle were well attended, and all questions were considered in the light of sound judgment and Christian spirit. The question of name was the most difficult to settle, as it involved historic and legal matters of vital importance as well as future policy and progress. Congregational-Christian seemed to be uppermost in the mind of both bodies, but the Congregational Church in all its history has been known as Congregational Churches; while the Christian history has carried the title Christian Church. The difference is the difference between church and churches.

The merging seems to be the coming together of two denominations, the Congregational and the Christian; and it seems to continue the use of the conjunction and, and make the name Congregational and Christian Churches, which would imply two distinct bodies; whereas Congregational Christian Church would mean that the two denominations have become one as a denomination. That, no doubt, will be the final name, and it would satisfy both bodies and be better understood by others.

The name of the Church paper is not satisfactory to either body, as it is so long—The Congregationalist and Herald of Gospel Liberty—a better title for the paper would be The Congregational Herald, as that would be simple and preserve both names of the papers as they existed before the merger was consummated. If the name for the new organization and the paper is once reduced to a simple and satisfactory expression of unity, it will go far to unity, in the sense for which Jesus prayed, "that they all may be one; as thou Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us; that the world may believe that thou hast sent me." (John 17:21.) Jesus did not pray for union, but for unity. It is a spiritual condition and not an intellectual agreement. In fact it was this spiritual condition in the hearts of these two bodies that led up to the action of the two bodies at Piqua, Ohio, on October 25, 1929. That spirit of unity, as it existed between the Father and the Son, had been in the hearts of these two denominations for years and finally expressed itself in joint official action.

It remains for the united bodies to eliminate technical differences and make the two bodies one in Christ. As long as intellectual differences remain, it will weaken the influence of this united body over other denominations that are one in heart, but still divided in creeds and governments. When these two denominations are completely united in this spiritual sense, then we can pray for the unity of other denominations. We cannot pray effectively for the unity of other denominations until all differences are removed from our minds and hearts. We are on the road to victory if we get self out of the way, and put Christ in our pulpits, pews, and life. W. W. STALEY.

SOUTHERN UNION LETTER.

THE CHURCH AND THE COLLEGE.

Said the great president of Harvard University, Dr. Charles W. Elliott, "The Church is the permanent organ of society's life." The history of education in this country bears out his statement in so far as education is concerned.

Elon College would never have even been a thought, but for the Christian Church. Piedmont College would never have had a day of existence, but for the Congregational Church. Bethlehem College would never have been even a name, but for the Christian Church; and it would have no existence today as Southern Union College, a memorial of our blessed union as Christian bodies, but for the Congregational Church uniting with the Christian.

Harvard, Yale, and so on for forty or more great institutions, would not have been even dreams, but for the Congregational Church. So of hundreds of other great educational institutions of America and of the world. A Church of some denomination was back of each.

But what of the College and the Church? A famous lawyer of New England was once asked why New England had produced so many great lawyers. "The New England pulpit is the reason," he replied. New England Churches exalted the College; the College sent back trained minds and hearts.

The Church and the College, that is the first consecutive; the College and the Church, is the second. And so they act and react in building each other and the Kingdom of God.

FRANK E. JENKINS.

IMPRESSIONS FROM SEATTLE.

WILSON P. MINTON, D. D., Secretary

Commission on Missions (Promotional Agency), Congregational and Christian Churches.

The editor has asked me to give some of my impressions of the Seattle meeting. I am glad to do just that, in a direct way and without very much elaboration, knowing that brethren from the South who were present, and who, by the way, made some substantial contributions to the sessions will go into more detail than I should here.

The first and outstanding impression to me is that Seattle witnessed the beginning of a new era in church life, through the completeness with which the Congregational and Christian Churches were merged. When the unanimous vote was taken by the joint body at high noon, Saturday, June 27th, adopting and putting into operation at once the constitution calling for complete union, there could be no doubt of the genuineness of the attitude on the part of both groups. From then on the consciousness of complete union in spirit and action became increasingly apparent.

Another impression is that of the thoroughness of the preparation for the sessions, and the constructive and far-reaching character of the program both in its conception and in the manner in which it was carried through. The plan of conducting simultaneously six seminars of five two-hour periods each, covering six themes of most vital interest to the Christian world, was new and untried in such a church gathering. Representatives of former Congregational and Christian Churches shared alike as leaders of and contributors to these seminars, with the result that the two final sessions of the entire council, given to the consideration of the findings of the seminars, produced pronouncements of remarkable strength which are bound to be heard from again.

The high calibre of statesmanship manifested by officers and secretaries of both groups is worthy of mention. It was shown in the exhibits of the departments where Congregational and Christian Secretaries collaborated with local Congregational and Christian churches throughout our brotherhood in presenting specimens of real work done in the effort to promote interest. We were glad to note a poster from Christian Temple, Norfolk, Va., another from Irvington, First Church, New Jersey, another from Elmwood, Providence, R. I., and folders and other material indicating the way in which the officers of the now united church will move forward together.

Not to be despised is the impression one received of the perfect setting for the Council meeting. Seattle is an ideal convention city, and Seattle and Tacoma Congregationalists are ideal convention hosts. They entertained their guests in splendid fashion without losing sight of the fact that they were there for a convention. The appointments of the Convention church and the superb but unassuming way in which it placed everything at the disposal of the delegates was inspiring and helpful. I have mentioned Tacoma Congregationalists because of the wonderful thing they did in carrying two hundred delegates (of which I happened to be one) to their city by boat on Sunday evening for a great service where Dr. S. Parkes Cadman delivered one of his great messages to two thousand people, while as many more had to be turned away. The Tacoma did her full share in helping to carry the delegates on the wonderful ride to Ranier National Park the following day.

I think I should add here a very personal impression—it is of the tremendous change in the city of Seattle since I landed there more than twenty-five years ago as a young chap just out of high school seeking my fortune. After thirteen strenuous months trying to make a living, I decided that the best thing for me to do was to go east and get an education.

Still another thing of special interest is the fact that both denominations had such splendid and representative delegations present. There were 536 voting members from the Congregational Churches and seventy-seven members from the Christian Churches, the latter being a slightly higher proportion, which is especially noteworthy when one recalls that we have no churches (excepting Montesano and Brooklyn, home mission points,) on the west coast.

But above everything else I have come away from Seattle with a growing feeling of the genuineness of the Christian fellowship displayed on every hand. The spirit of the union has long been upon us, and it was unmistakably demonstrated again and again. It is not an easy thing for a large church like the Congregationalist to make the necessary concessions for complete union with a church so much smaller—how well would we of the Christian Church do it were we uniting with a denomination one ninth our size?—and it is not an easy thing for a small church like ours to show the implicit trust necessary for a merger of this kind with a church so much larger. But anyone who witnessed the attitude of those present at Seattle ought to be completely convinced of the determination of both groups to demonstrate beyond question that such a union is possible. The spirit at Seattle was wonderful.

And this leads me to this final statement that since the union has now been effected, we have come back from Seattle with the realization that our united church has before it a tremendous challenge to undertake and carry through a program of world service far beyond anything we have ever attempted separately, and we must do this for the sake of Christian union with its inescapable effect on world Christianity.

Richard Cobden wrote in 1849: "The moral force of the masses lies in the temperance movement, and I confess I have no faith in anything apart from that movement for the elevation of the working class. We do not sufficiently estimate the amount of crime, vice, poverty, ignorance and destitution which springs from the drinking habits of the people."

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT.

By ROGER W. BABSON.

Apparently, people today are not only tired out physically, but are discouraged. They lack that faith which is essential to personal or national progress. Accompanying this lack of faith is a disrespect for law, order and experience. Children are self-sufficient of their parents; and parents are self-sufficient of their God. In fact, faith, to be effective, must be backed up by righteousness. Faith cannot be bought or quickly obtained when trouble—like medicine. Faith must be acquired slowly, before it is needed—like education. Faith comes through patient devotion, right living and service to others.

A great mass of wage workers, executives and young business people have never before witnessed a severe business depression. Ever since Germany declared war in 1914—with the exception of a very short readjustment period after the war ended—there has been a constant demand for labor. Not only was the supply of available labor reduced by the war, but an extra amount of labor was needed for rehabilitation work. Moreover, the willingness of American and other investors to purchase liberally foreign bonds has provided the funds for such rehabilitation. Today, the situation is entirely different. A new generation—too young to enter the war in 1914 to 1918—has swamped the labor markets of every country; the rehabilitation work has largely been completed; and owing to the reluctance of investors to buy more foreign bonds, no money is available for new work.

In view of the steady work and easy profits which the above-described condition made possible, this generation has felt sufficient in itself. Sabbath schools and churches have been neglected, family prayers have been given up, and Sunday has been made a common holiday. Hence, unlike previous generations, a large percentage of the people now unemployed, or losing money in business, have no faith upon which to fall back. When employed or making money, they did nothing to store up spiritual reserves and hence have none to draw upon, now that employment and profits have vanished. As a result, great masses of people are discouraged and know not where to turn. The material wealth upon which they solely depended has gone. They have no spiritual wealth upon which to draw, and they are tired out physically.

What is true of individuals is also true of nations. This is especially illustrated by conditions in England. England's courage and stability during the past centuries have been due to her religious faith. Although this faith has often exhibited an intolerance which is a blot on her history, yet even these acts were reactions from an abnormal and mislead religious belief. This faith, however, crude as it was, provided the foundation for England's power, growth and prosperity. Furthermore, the lack of religious faith may be the real cause of England's present economic difficulties. Says a famous English correspondent, Albert, Peel, in a recent article on England, entitled, "An Age Destitute of Faith":

"The other day I listened to a group of public men discussing the religious outlook of Great Britain. They were all of them men with peculiar opportunities for observation, and all had some claim to speak with authority on the subject. Some of them held that England could still be called a Christian nation; some, that we should be wise to recognize that Britain was now pagan. But all agreed that the masses of the people now made no place for organized religion in their lives, and had no real religious faith. Many personal experiences were offered to illustrate the view generally accepted.

"The churches still throw their doors open, but the people pass them by as they rush to their pleasures. Car and char-a-banc, golf and other games, fill up the day of rest and meditation, and millions live through Sunday as they do through the rest of the week, and never think of God at all. Truly, we live in an age destitute of faith!

"Everywhere the same story is told, as every pastor could witness countless times over. One day it is a girl at college, who tells you that she is the only girl in her 'set' who ever thinks of going to church. The next it is a youth, who believes that prayer is but the projection of one's own desires, and that life is controlled by instincts. The next two young married people, who ordered their married life without the slightest reference to considerations other than the physical and the material.

"Twenty years ago Sunday Schools were filled with children, whose parents, while perhaps making no religious profession themselves, yet believed it was well that their children should be taught the elements of the Christian faith. Now, in British cities, at any rate, we are surrounded by children and by young people in their teens who have never been near either church or Sunday School."

If the above analysis of the situation is correct, certainly preachers and churches can render a wonderful service at this time, both in England and in America. More religion—rather than more legislation—is the need of the hour. The solution of Britain's economic difficulties will come, as in the past, when a great religious revival sweeps the nation. This revival may be of a different form from those of 1880-1890, but its essential purpose—namely, to arouse the faith, purposes and ambitions of men to service—must be the same. Yea, I expect to see such a revival sweep Europe and America during the next decade. It seems inevitable to anyone who studies religious and economic history; in fact, I discussed it in the first edition of my book, Business Barometers, written in 1907. It has been repeated in each of the twenty-one editions since issued.

Hence, there is nothing new in the above observation. The law of Action and Reaction has always applied to religious conditions as well as to economic conditions. The so-called Cycle Theory (which I prefer to call the Spiral Theory, as the net result of each cycle is a real progress) underlies spiritual growth. There is nothing to worry about.

(Continued on page 15.)

OXFORD BIBLES for EVERY NEED

"The Oxford Bible is the Bible par excellence of the world"

THE HOME BIBLE

A Family Bible in Handy Size

An extra large type Oxford Text Bible, containing also, a family register and 12 beautifully colored maps. Size 9 x 5½ inches.

Specimen of Type

16 The LORD is King for ever and ever: the heathen are perished out

- Nos.
01600 Superior Cloth, round corners and red edges $2.75
01603 French Morocco, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, head-band, book-mark $4.75

The JUNIOR'S Bible

Self-Pronouncing

With 4,000 Questions and Answers, carefully selected "Aids to Bible Study," 16 beautifully colored and 15 black full-page illustrations, 6 colored maps and a presentation page. Children may readily pronounce correctly difficult Scripture names, as this Bible is self-pronouncing. Size 7 x 4¼ x 1¼ inches.

Type in Junior's Bible

2 Take the sum of all the of the children of Israel, years old and upward, thro

- No.
1815 French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges, head-bands and book-mark. Make some child happy with one of these fine Bibles $2.95

Child's ILLUSTRATED Bible

The beautifully colored illustrations in this new Bible are a delight to the children. It has clear, readable type and yet it measures only 5½ x 3½ inches.

Specimen of Type

2 My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the LORD: my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God.
10 Mercy and truth gathered together; righteousness kissed each other.
11 Truth shall spring

- No. 02112. French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, gold edges $2.50

Pocket REFERENCE Bible

Has over 50,000 center column references. Measures only 6¼ x 4½ inches. (A splendid gift for a young lady.)

Specimen of Type

9 Behold, "O God our shield, and look upon the face of thine anointed.
10 For a day in thy courts is better
Gen. 15. 1.
Ps. 56. 1.
Eccl. 1.
or, all

- No. 07523x French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $3.25

Concordance Edition

Type and size as No. 07523x, but with a Concordance, subject index and dictionary of Scripture names. An excellent edition for students and Christian workers No. 03272x $5.00

The Oxford imprint in a Bible guarantees satisfaction

OUR LEADER
Oxford Concordance Bible

Self-Pronouncing

This beautiful Oxford India paper edition is indeed the ideal Bible for the student, preacher and evangelist. Each proper name and difficult word is divided into syllables and accented, and though printed with large clear type, the volume measures only 8½ x 5½ x 1½ inches.

Specimen of Type

8 9 Jê-hô-y-â-chîn was 6 years old when he began t

- No. 03671x. Fine Grain Morocco leather, overlapping cover, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head-bands and book-mark $9.50

A UNIQUE GIFT BIBLE

With Basket Weave Binding

The Antique brown calf leather binding has a basket-weave grain, and button clasp. Has overlapping cover, art silk lined, with red under gold edges. With references. Printed on Oxford India paper. Type as Pocket Reference Bible. $5.50

No. 03255x.....

As No. 03255x, with concordance.

No. 03276x $6.50

Oxford TEACHER'S Bibles

Have over 50,000 center column references, and 300 double-column pages of up-to-date helps, conveniently arranged in alphabetical order. Also 32 full-page illustrations, and an indexed atlas of the Bible with 15 beautifully colored maps of Bible lands.

Easy-to-Read-Edition

Size 7¼ x 5 x 1½ inches

Specimen of Type

14 Like sheep they are laid in grave; death shall feed on th

Nos.

04453. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges. A durable and hand-some Bible $4.35

Oxford India Paper Edition

Only one inch thick.

- 0773x. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, head-bands and book-mark. A beautiful gift edition $7.00

RED LETTER Edition

Same size and type as style No. 04453, with same references and helps, but with all the words of Jesus Christ printed in red. White paper edition No. 05453. French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $5.00

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Secretary.

A PRAYER.

O great defender, God, send thou upon those who administer the church a divine sense of thy light and help. In understanding and faithfulness make the church true to its responsibility for the right use of every resource. By the summer-suspension of worship periods the church, like the little child, is saying "Goodbye, God, we do not need thee July and August," and thus companionate souls are deprived of holy intercourse with each other and of the sweetest Jesus-touch. Father, make Thy light the church's light, we humbly pray, Amen.

"L"

TO KNOW THE LOVE OF CHRIST.

What an ideal is set before men in these words—"To know the love of Christ!" To see that love in the midst of life's anguish; to feel its warmth when the chilly winter of our circumstances makes us wonder whether it is worth while to continue striving; to taste its sweetness when the waters of earth are as bitter as gall; and to know its power to bless and comfort even in the valley of the shadow of death!

It is the love of Christ that makes the music of life. He can turn the worst curse into the choicest blessing; He can so blend the discords of our life that they are resolved into a precious harmony. Nothing really matters when brain and heart and will are centered in the consuming ambition to know the love of Christ. The more deeply we penetrate into that love, which passeth knowledge, the more peaceful and radiant will become our daily lives.

With such an ideal before us we can see that it is possible to interpret life in terms of steady progress. We go on, however slowly, to know the Lord. When we reach that stage in our thinking about life when it is possible for us to say, "Hence-forth, my one consuming passion shall be to know the love of Christ," we are committed to a deep and vast exploration. On the other hand, when we permit self and self-aims to master our thinking, we are simply revolving in the vicious circle and find life full of swiftly-recurring bitterness, weariness, and discord.

Have we not discovered that, as long as we retain the passion to know the love of Christ, all our circumstances, favorable and unfavorable, seem to minister to that high end? Our failures help us to love Him more; and our dark night helps us to see His star more clearly. We find that, as long as we retain the passion to know the love of Christ, our circumstances cannot overthrow our peace, nor can the vicissitudes of daily life send a discordant note into the heavenly music which sounds within our hearts.

Now if a man is really intent on knowing the love of Christ, there are certain things he will do as a wise and earnest explorer.

For one thing, he will think a good deal about the Lord Jesus. The more we think about Christ, the deeper and clearer will be our understanding of His love. The more we think about Jesus, the more readily shall we perceive that His love is not a theological abstraction, but that it is revealed in certain clear and definite ways. The men who think most about Jesus are the men who are making progress in this sublime quest.

If, however, we are to think rightly about Him, our thoughts will need guidance; and that is why no believer who aspires to know the love of Christ can possibly neglect the Bible. We shall think a great deal about His death on the Cross, and of the infallible proofs of His resurrection. We shall think of Him as He is now in glory, and we shall contemplate Him in His coming again.

A word may be added as to our purpose in knowing the love of Christ. What reason for desiring to know this matchless love which passeth knowledge?

When we ask a similar question in other connections, we can readily supply the answers. If we desire to know the ethics of Aristotle, or the dramas of Euripides, or the poetry of Milton, we are attempting to satisfy an intellectual or æsthetic taste. Knowing the ethics of Aristotle does not mean necessarily that we shall become better employers; and understanding the poetry of Milton does not mean necessarily that we shall become more cheerful servants. Are we to think of knowing the love of Christ after this manner? The answer to the question is plain and straightforward: We are to know the love of Christ in order that we may reproduce that love in our own lives.

Strangely enough, the more clearly and consistently we reproduce His love in our lives, the more perfectly shall we know its height and depth, and breadth and length. If we make the love of Christ our lever, there is nothing we cannot accomplish. Possibly this is where the Church has failed through the centuries. The Church has acquired knowledge, amassed wealth, accumulated power; but she has been deficient in love. Let a man but use the love of Christ and reproduce it in his own life, and there is nothing that can stand against him.

"Lord, speak to me, that I may speak
In living echoes of Thy tone;
As Thou hast sought, so let me seek Thy erring children, lost and lone.

"Oh, teach me, Lord, that I may teach
The precious things Thou dost impart;
And wing my words, that they may reach
The hidden depths of many a heart.

"Oh, fill we with Thy fulness, Lord,
Until my very heart o'erflow,
In kindling thought and glowing word,
Thy love to tell, Thy praise to show."

—An Editorial in the "Life of Faith," London, England, reprinted in "The Wesleyan Methodist."

REPORTS NOT THE BASIS OF OUR MISSION INTEREST.

The above was one of the statements of Rev. Arthur Sherman, a China missionary, just now acting as Secretary for Missionary Education of the Episcopal Church.

He was speaking at Adelynrood, a retreat in north-eastern Massachusetts, which is holding its 5th Conference the week-end of our National Holiday, July 3-6. In the social room, the heavy dark wooden ceiling, the symbolic ornaments, the picture of a bare cross of wood with a distant and receding background of trees and mountains (it was a sketch of a cross here on the grounds), placed over the large stone fire-place, all took one away from the crowded beaches or the steady industry of the farm, just around the Retreat. It was in a suggestive and world-embracing atmosphere that the man of "China and the Mission Offices" spoke of cooperation with our missionaries.

"We must add new motives to the old motives, still keeping the old; we must stem the tide of secularism in the church, at home, and the non-religious wave sweeping over heathen lands—against all religions. We must be patient with slow progress." Here is where my title appears.

You who never wrote a Missionary Report would not notice that the speaker said it at all. I did. It wasn't his main theme; but to me it was. Now, it is not always a burden to write Mission Reports. On the whole, it is a joyful duty and privilege. Still, entertaining reports, breezy reports, catchy headlines—they fit sometimes—are not the basis of our interest in missions.

"What kind of reports did the Christians of the first century write in their general letters to the churches?" asked the man who had returned to America to say that his theological school work was given up and that the whole Christian educational work in China was at a stand-still because of laws unfavorable to the teaching of religion in private schools and also the fact that there is no dependable government in China. He is in the Apostolic Succession with one who reported, "Remember my bonds."

"Demas hath forsaken me, having loved this present world." "Alexander the coppersmith did me much evil." "At my first answer no man stood with me, but all men forsook me." No, all missionary reports are not reports of immediate victories that we long for and expect.

It is written of the martyr, Pionius, that his cheerfulness only failed him when he thought of those who had yielded. "I feel," he said with tears, "as if I were torn in pieces when I hear of the pearls of the Church being trodden under foot by swine. Alas, our sins are the cause."

It is no new thing to see the tide ebb for a time, to see the sun set with some of the day's plans not accomplished, to be in ill report as well as in good report.

"Lo, I am with you alway"—in failure and weakness as well as in success and strength.

"We look for the Saviour," . . . "He is able to subdue all things unto himself." He will complete our fragmentary reports.

M. A. T.

"HE TAUGHT AS ONE HAVING AUTHORITY."

Christianity is a revealed religion. In it a sovereign God reveals His will concerning man, through an inspired Book. He reveals how man fell into sin, that he is unable to extricate himself. He reveals His love for man, including redemption from sin through the suffering Son.

This revelation comes to us in an inspired Book. It speaks with final authority on questions of morals and faith—and on all else that it teaches. Modern attacks on the Bible and its revealed faith have sought to break down the sense of the authority of God. Not even the pulpit has escaped the deadening effect of it. Some preach philosophy and a certain sliding scale of ethics, preening themselves that they thus show comprehension and sympathy.

Back to the veretbræ Bible teachings! Back to the thunders of Sainai! Back to the cross on which the blood of God's own Son was spilled for our sins! Away from mollycoddle religion! Away from compromise with luxury-loving selfishness; O man of the pulpit, remember that thou art the ambassador of the Eternal Son before souls who have an eternal destiny!—Western Recorder.

"I have found in all my experience that in every temptation the victory much depends on resisting the first onset. To reason for a moment is dangerous. Is the object or gratification forbidden? That is enough, if we truly love the Lord our God. But when we deliberate, we throw ourselves into the arms of Satan. Neither ought consequences to be considered; God will see to them; better suffer anything than His frown. O May I ever walk by this rule, and live to please my God alone."—William Carvosso.

MONTHLY MISSIONARY PROGRAM.

AUGUST, 1931.

By MRS. W. M. JAY, Editor.

WOMAN'S SOCIETY.

Theme.—"Religious Conditions in Porto Rico."

Worship Helps.

Suggested Hymns.—"Jesus Shall Reign"; "When Wilt Thou Save Thy People."

Scripture.—Rev. 21:1-7.

Prayer.—For Rev. Charles Mohler, Superintendent of Congregational Churches in Porto Rico, and Rev. D. P. Barrett, representing the Christian Church work. For the pastors of the churches; the workers and members of the churches; and the teachers and young people in Sunday Schools.

Conference Period.

One should act as leader, and the others will participate as indicated in the little book, "Yesterday and Today in Porto Rico." Find out all you can about their religion and take your findings to the meeting. They will be of interest and help to all.

The Catholic Church.—For over 400 years the Catholic Church held full sway in Porto Rico. From 1493 to 1898, it had no competition except for one small Episcopal church. No other religious body was permitted to work on the island. The effect of this closed shop policy may be judged by a statement made by Father Sherman, son of General Sherman and chaplain to the army of occupation in Porto Rico. To a Catholic paper he wrote, "Porto Rico is a Catholic country, but without any religion whatever. The clergy do not seem to have any firm hold on the native population, nor have they much sympathy with the problems of the people."

The Protestant Churches.—Following the acquisition of Porto Rico by the United States, the Protestant forces arrived. Many Porto Ricans seemed to feel that because the United States was predominantly Protestant, this religion should be adopted by them also. The missionary societies were most wise. Upon coming to the island they adopted a plan of co-operation to prevent overlapping among the denominations. The Presbyterians' work is in the west, the Congregationalists' in the east, the Baptists' and Methodists' in the center; the United Brethren and Christians work near the south coast, and the Disciples work on the north coast. This wise plan has greatly simplified the interpretation of the gospel message. Recently the young people formed a Congress of Evangelical young people of Porto Rico. They are coming to realize that they must work shoulder to shoulder with the older people in carrying the message of Jesus Christ to their people.

Congregational and Christian Churches.—In Porto Rico are twelve Congregational and seven Christian churches. Many of the ministers of these churches were educated at the Union Theological Seminary of Porto Rico, at Rio Piedras, which is not far from Santurce, and is located directly across from the University of Porto Rico. The students take their academic work largely in the University. This Seminary has already sent out some strong leaders in religious work, not only on the island, but to Cuba and South America, as well as to the United States. Almost all churches are in charge of native workers, and an acquaintance with these men makes one most optimistic about the future of the Evangelical Church in Porto Rico.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY.

Chapter X.—"The Healing Touch."

I.—Business Period.

1. Gloria Patri.
2. Invocation.
3. Business—Old, New, and Miscellaneous.

II.—Study Period.

In review, the leader recalls the outstanding points of interest in the last lesson. "Many Paths, One Goal."

In the approach to today's subject, "The Healing Touch," he may give the word picture given on pp. 145 to 147.

1. Leader's Introduction to Lesson.
2. A Beloved Physician: Dr. Pennell—a Boy Member. (pp. 137-152.)
3. A Wizard of India (p. 152)—"During his long years," etc., (158.) A member.
4. The leader may use the last two paragraphs to show that success comes to those who put Christ first and themselves under the direction of the "Great Physician." This as the transition from Study to Worship Program.

III.—Worship Program.

Theme.—"The Healing Touch."

1. Instrumental Prelude: "The Great Physician Now is Near."
2. Call to Worship.—"Lord be merciful unto me: heal my soul; for I have sinned against thee."—Psalm 147:3.
3. Hymn.—"The Great Physician Now is Near."
4. Scripture.—Luke 4:16-21, also Luke 9:1-7.
5. Prayer.—Thanksgiving for Christ the Great Healer. Pray that we may realize the tremendous price Christ paid for the privilege of ministering unto us. In Isaiah's words, "He was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed." Pray for grace to be worthy of such a Healer. Pray that our lives may be so sacrificing that the healing power may flow from the Great Fountain source through us to a sick world.
6. Offertory.—Music: "Saviour, Thy Dying Love." Pianist plays softly while offering is being taken.
7. Hymn.—"Saviour, Thy Dying Love." Second stanza.
8. Hymn.—"Give Me a Faithful Heart," sung softly with bowed heads.
9. Mizpah Benediction.

WILLING WORKERS OR JUNIORS.

Theme.—"The Beauty of God's Word."

This should be a picnic meeting; but a short program might be held after supper.

1. Song.—"Day Is Dying in the West."
2. Short sentence prayers.
3. Story.—"The Rain that Came up from the Ground," by John G. Paton.
4. Close by singing.—"I Would Be True,," "Jesus Calls Us"; "Follow the Gleam."

NEWS ITEMS.

MRS. W. M. JAY, Editor.

Mrs. J. F. Morgan sends in the following interesting item from Berea, Norfolk:

"The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of Berea Christian Church met on Sunday, July 5th, in special regular session, with a good attendance. It was the occasion for our mite box opening.

"After our business and devotional program, presided over by the writer, an interesting talk on 'Education in Porto Rico' was made by Miss Bettie Whitehurst. This was followed by a brief study of the fifth chapter, fourth book, 'A Cloud of Witnesses.' An offering amounting to $15.00 was taken. Although this Society is one of the youngest in the Conference, interest is increasing and our organization is growing stronger.

"We pray that there may go out from this Society such a love and interest in Missions that the whole church shall be inspired and this wonderful work shall prosper more than ever at old Berea."

Mrs. C. E. Fulgham, Secretary of the Windsor Society writes:

"We are delighted to report that we are having largely attended and enthusiastic meetings of our Woman's Missionary Society of the Windsor Christian Church. Our Society is divided into 3 circles. Mrs. Lucy Roberts is leader of Circle No. 1; Mrs. Bessie Turner, leader, Circle No. 2; Mrs. E. B. White, leader, Circle No. 3. It is due to the efforts of these very capable and enthusiastic leaders that we expect to raise our quota. Mrs. J. M. Raby is our president.

"We have enjoyed the book, 'Bible Study by Periods' by Henry T. Sell, D. D., taught in our Circle meetings by our pastor, Rev. E. B. White. We are now planning to study a mission book on India.

"The wife of our pastor, Mrs. E. B. White, is the director of our 'Spiritual Life' and always arranges a very interesting program for each meeting. Both Rev. and Mrs. White are doing their utmost to develop the Spiritual life of the Society and are thoroughly missionary in spirit.

"We are very proud of our Young People's Missionary Society. Our boys and girls cooperate most loyally with their leader, Mrs. S. T. Holland and Mrs. E. B. White."

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us. Postage paid and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

MEN'S PENS—Capitol, $2.00; Mercantile, $2.50; Cardinal, $3.00.

LADIES' PENS, $2.00.

COMBINATION OFFER—To a new subscriber or for renewal, $2.25, either Gentleman's (Capitol) Pen or Ladies' Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. And to "Sun" subscribers, not in arrears, any Pen at one-fourth off. Address: THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1536 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN

ADVENTURES IN YOUTH FELLOWSHIP

"Youth at Work in the Church."

JEWEL TRUITT, Editor, Waverly, Virginia.

REPORT OF YOUNG PEOPLE'S DEPARTMENT.

(To E. Va. S. S. & C. E. Convention)

In presenting to this body our annual report on Young People's work, we are not unmindful of the increasing responsibility resting on the shoulders of the young people of our country and more especially the young people of the church.

The time was when youth was not consulted on questions of church policy, moral and social questions that affect the community, state and nation. If they had anything to do with a peace movement it was to hold their peace.

Today we have an entirely different situation. The young people are learning to think and reason for themselves. And in view of this fact it is simply fatal for the church or state or society to adopt policies, plans and programs without reckoning with youth and giving careful consideration to their point of view.

The future of the church, the state and society depends not on whether youth will follow such, but to what extent they will join in shaping the policies and plans of procedure for the future. They are holding annually their conferences and conventions, and discussing in their own way, not only youth's attitude toward religious and the church but taking decided positions on the questions such as prohibition, law enforcement, Sabbath observance and international peace.

Some are telling us that youth can not be trusted, that they are free lances, rebellious against long established customs, and reckless in their thinking and acting. It is likewise true that today, as always, the masses follow the most efficient leadership, and there never have been so many trained and efficient leaders among our young people as there are at this present time.

Witness if you will, the multitudes of young peoples' meetings held all over the land today, as touching the problems of church, morals and social welfare activities. Literally they are assembling by the hundreds and thousands, the very flower of youth, coming from all directions for hundreds of miles to show their interest, and share their views on the vital questions of the day. If we could only look in upon these groups of young people and witness their interest, zeal and sincerity, we would give them our prayers, our sympathy and whole-hearted cooperation.

We therefore recommend that 1st, our young people in the churches be encouraged to develop their powers of leadership in various church activities.

2nd. That they be encouraged to attend and participate in the various schools, agencies and assemblies fostered by the church and other worthy organizations, for the training of youth leadership.

3rd. That we seek not only their cooperation but their expressional influence on such questions as prohibition, law enforcement, Sabbath observance, and international peace etc.

4th. That as Lincoln once said, "I may never be President of the U. S. but I will prepare myself so that if my country needs me I will be ready," so, may we urge our young people to prepare themselves that they may be ready to meet the thousands of calls to worthy service constantly being made upon them. The demands are being made and someone must answer the call. Let youth be ready to say "Lord, here am I, send me."

LILLYE HOLLAND, Secretary.

NOTICE.

On the tenth day of August, The School of Leadership Training at Wadley, Alabama, will formally open with class work and recreational training and activities. Those planning to attend the Summer School should arrive at the school by seven-thirty, Monday morning, August 10th. Those who desire to do so may come on Sunday, August 9th, and spend the night on the college campus. A Sunday evening program will be prepared for those who arrive at the school on Sunday.

Leadership Training Courses in Children's and Young People's Work, in Recreation, in Worship, and in the Life of Christ, will be offered. This variety of courses will enable any Church or Sunday School worker to train in better preparation for real service. It is expected that Congregational and Christian Church people throughout Georgia, Alabama, and from Eastern Tennessee and Northern Florida, will avail themselves of this splendid opportunity. The fellowship spirit of the week spent with friends will be well worth any cost in time and effort to be present.

Board may be secured at the rate of $5.00 for the week, or special arrangements may be made with the dining hall as in previous years. Registration is one dollar for the week. A text-book is the only other cost besides travel to and from the school. Students furnish their own towels, sheets and pillows.

With Misses Campbell, Brackin, Davison and Truitt, and Rev. G. Staley Hunt, as faculty members, and a good attendance of students, Piedmont Junior Summer School promises to afford the best in training and recreation known in the history of the school.

JEWEL TRUITT.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

For August 9, 1931.

TOPIC: "Good and Bad Features in Amusements."

LESSON: Romans 14:13-23.

Prelude.—Music to "Stand Up for Jesus."

Call to Worship—

"Who shall ascend unto the hill of Jehovah?
And who shall stand in his holy place?"

Response—

"He that hath clean hands, and a pure heart."

Prayer.—"Father, we thank thee that thou hast so created us that by following certain ways of right living and thinking we may attain the abundant life. We feel our inability to reach the perfection of life thou hast made possible for us without thy help. May we face frankly and with open minds the problem of our amusements. Give us wisdom to discover what features would enable us to lead richer and more perfect lives and what features would weaken and mar our characters. Guide our thinking during this hour, we pray."

Hymn.—"I Would be true."

Leader's Talk.—(See material below.)

Discussion.—

Hymn.—"He Leadeth Me, O Blessed Tho't."

Benediction.—"During the coming days, Father, help us to find pleasure in things that give us new energies, new ambitions, and a more wholesome attitude toward life. We pray in Jesus' name. Amen."

Thoughts on the Topic.

There is nothing in the tone of the Gospels to indicate that Jesus did not wish his followers to enjoy wholesome recreation. John the Baptist was a recluse. Jesus was not. He entered into the everyday experiences of those around him, and these included weddings and feasts. But he did nothing that would hurt his influence, mar his character, or interfere with his life work. The Kingdom of God was always first.

Today, almost every conceivable form of recreation has been commercialized. The following are almost entirely under the control of commercial interests: motion pictures, theatres, vaudeville, public dance halls, pool rooms, amusement parks, race tracks, street carnivals, and professional athletics.

Is it best that these amusements be turned over entirely to managements where the cash box is the first consideration? What part should we take in fostering them under more ideal conditions? What should be our attitude toward them under present conditions.

Do commercial amusements tend to do away with our interest and ability to "make our own fun"? Is the tendency to let the other fellow provide the amusement while we look on likely to weaken our ability for real enjoyment. Are not our sensibilities, even now, so deadened to real pleasure and real amusements, that thrills, red peppered foods, questionable dancing and "high voltage" performances are necessary to arouse us from our lethargy?

Is there a tendency to commercialize school athletics? And what effect does it have upon the spirit of the players. A star player on a championship football team in the southwest made the statement before his fellow students that the sportsmanship we talk so much about did not exist in high-pressure games. He said that the sportsmanship decreased as bodily contact increased. What do you think?

What should be the Church's attitude toward baseball, basketball, golf, tennis, etc., etc? Are these games wrong of themselves? Can harm be made of them? On the other hand, can they not be made the allies of the Church in bringing the young people under its influence? Give your reaction toward dancing. Are there any conditions under which dancing should be sanctioned by the Church? If so what are they? Is it, or is it not a compromise with evil, when young people's organizations give dances in an effort to keep the youth of the Church from public dance halls?

These questions and many more might be asked. It will take a conscience that has not been stunted or stifled to answer them correctly. Ask God for help in making your answers.

Daily Readings.

August 3. "Dancing to Death."—Exodus 32:1-10.

August 4. "Cruel Sport."—Judges 16:23-31.

August 5. "Archery as a Hobby."—1 Sam. 20:35-42.

August 6. "Degrading Fun."—1 Peter 4:1-5.

August 7. "Restful Recreation."—Mark 6:30-32.

August 8. "Influence—Good or Evil."—I Corinthians 15:33.

I used to think that God's gifts were on shelves, one above the other; and that the taller we grew in Christian character, the easier we could reach them. I now find that God's gifts are on shelves one beneath the other; and that it is not a question of growing taller; but of stooping lower; and that we have to go down; always down; to get His best gifts.—F. B. Meyer, D. D., in Exchange.

Sunday School Lesson

By REV. H. S. HARDCASTLE.

SAUL CONVERTED.

LESSON VI—AUGUST 9, 1931.

GOLDEN TEXT: "I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision."—Acts 26: 19.

LESSON: Acts 9: 1-31; 22: 3-21; Gal. 1: 11-17; I Timothy 1: 12-17.

The central and dominant figure in Christianity is, of course, Jesus Christ. But after Jesus Christ comes Paul. It might be interesting to speculate about what Christianity might have become if there had not been a Paul, but it is not necessary. It is more profitable to consider what Christianity became because of Paul. In other words, it pleased God that Paul should have the privilege and honor of having the place next to Christ in Christianity so far as contribution and influence are concerned.

It was Paul who fashioned the Christian religion into the principal doctrinal forms in which it was held by the Church for centuries, who secured for it its first wide hearing before the Gentiles, who planted its churches in a score of strategic centers of the great Roman Empire, and who presented to the world an example of such boundless energy, devotion, courage, and self-sacrifice as to inspire admiration in all and to beget those same qualities in thousands of Christian believers. Furthermore, he gave to Christians, directly and indirectly, about half of the New Testament.

In the light of these facts, it is not strange that when God wanted to change Saul, the legalistic, bigoted Pharisee, into Paul, the gracious, liberal Christian, he did it in such a vital way that Paul and the world would know it. The title of the text, "Saul Converted," has a tremendous significance for Christianity.

A Voyager.

"And Saul, yet breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord, went unto the high priest and desired of him letters to Damascus . . . and as he journeyed he came near Damascus." Who was this voyager?

He was a Hebrew, of the tribe of Benjamin, a Pharisee, and a Roman citizen.

He was a native of Tarsus, a commercial city of cosmopolitan aspect, and the center of a great university.

He was probably thoroughly educated in Tarsus, and then later was sent to Jerusalem where he studied under Gamaliel.

He was a Pharisee, and as such he was not only well versed in the law, but passionately devoted to it.

He was, therefore, a persecutor, for he saw in the new movement the denial of what was so dear to him.

He was probably a member of the Sanhedrin and an influential person in the religious life of Judaism.

He was on his way to Damascus because his zeal for his faith had driven him to distant places in an effort to stamp out this new movement.

A Vision.

Paul had a vision of the Risen and Living Christ. From what he himself says, it was no merely subjective experience, a mere fantasy or hallucination, but an objective experience—he saw Jesus. Paul was ever sure after his conversion experience that he had seen Jesus. And this vision of Christ was the solid rock on which Paul stood throughout all the rest of his life. Paul never talked with empty-sounding words when he talked about Christ. He talked about Someone Who was very real to him, and Someone Whom he had seen.

A Voice.

"And heard a voice saying unto him, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? And he said, Who art thou, Lord? And the Lord said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest: It is hard for thee to kick against the pricks." Paul saw not only a vision of Christ; he also heard his voice. And there was in that voice a note of sadness rather than of condemnation. It was all because Jesus knew all too well what was going on in that voyager's heart. There was as he journeyed along, that picture of Stephen's face as it shone with a divine light, and that prayer for forgiveness, and that simple faith that committed his spirit into the Master's hands—all of them factors that made his death so tremendously impressive and so tremendously disturbing. Be sure of one thing—Paul had been thinking about that as he went along.

Then, too, there was in spite of his allegiance to the law and his punctiliousness in observing it, a hunger and a restlessness in his heart. There was the growing conviction that mere law, after all, could not satisfy. He was kicking against the goads; he knew it. But like so many of us, it is so hard to yield our stubborn wills and to do what we know is right.

A Vessel.

"And the Lord said unto Ananias . . . go thy way, for he is a chosen vessel unto me." A vessel was something in which water or wine was carried. Paul was to be a vessel through which God was to minister of His spirit to the Gentiles. Today as always, God seeks in all of us vessels fit for the Master's use.

A Vocation.

"For I have appeared unto thee for this purpose, to make thee a minister and a witness both of these things which thou hast seen and of those things which will appear unto thee." Here was a vocation that challenged all that was highest and best in Paul. But this is the vocation that challenges all of us and every one of us. We are to live worthy of the vocation wherewith we have been called.

(Continued on Page 14.)

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the number and price.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. . . . $3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. . . . $6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3/8 x 8 Inches, and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. . . . $4.00

Minion Type, Pocket Size, 4 x 6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold. . . . $1.60

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. . . . $4.50

2173—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges. . . . $6.00

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 16-16 of an Inch Thick.

133X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.00

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 5 3/8 Inches, and 1 inch thick, with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 5 3/8 Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.

65—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps. . . . $2.50

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3/8 x 8 3/8 Inches and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With Concise Bible Dictionary, combined Concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. . . . $4.75

RED-LETTER EDITION.

With All the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands; title stamped on side and back in pure gold. . . . $3.25

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations; special book for Sunday Schools. . . . 95c

Any of the above Bibles sent postpaid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY H. E. ROUNTREE
One of our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"O Lord, I beseech thee, let now thine ear be attentive to the prayer of thy servant, and to the prayer of thy servants, who desire to fear thy name, and prosper, I pray thee, thy servant this day."

MONDAY.

WHY WORRY?

"Are ye not much better than they?"—Mat. 6:26.

Our Lord Jessus offers a remedy for every ill. Here He is offering strength and courage to the faint in order to enable them to resist the temptations of carelessness and worldly cares, that whatever their earthly portion may be, they may still find happiness and praise God.

Carelessness and worldly cares vex, torture and kill the inner life, if we give them room. Our Saviour would protect us from this, saying first that it is unnecessary and second that it is unprofitable.

It is hard not to worry when trouble comes. Say, we have a family to support, employment is taken away, debts have piled up, members of the family are sick, mother is about to die. Can the flesh keep from worrying? No sree, it cannot!

There is only one remedy that drives away worry. Absolute, honest, close walk with God and unlimited belief and trust in Him to turn these things into something good. "He that spared not his own Son, but delivered him up for us all, shall he not with him also freely give us all things?"

Christ even reminds us that there is a psychology about it. "Which of you by taking thought can add one cubit? What does it accomplish? It only brings on more worry.

Prayer.—Lord God, Heavenly Father, help us to seek first Thy kingdom and Thy righteousness. Give us a childlike trust in Thee. Give us contented minds. We would not ask for prosperity, but we would ask for what we need as Thou seest our need. Satisfy us early with Thy mercy and make us glad all the time. Amen.

TUESDAY.

EXECUTIONER OR HELPER OF SOULS.

Bear ye one anothers burdens.

There is great need to bear one another's burdens. Admittedly each day furnishes each of us some example of our dependence upon some one else; of indulgence and assistance; but in real life when others need us or are objects of criticism, we often forget. The apostle says that the reason we forget is our desire for vain glory and the lack of self-proof of our own work. Such a one cannot enter into the burdens of others. What would you have done with Peter if you had been his judge at the trial of Jesus? What would you have done with the woman brought to Jesus charged with adultery? Neither case brought condemnation from Jesus. His example was prayer for them and urged them to do so no more. Too often when we pronounce on others we are unable ourselves to do what we would require of them. When we judge others we put ourselves in the place of an executioner of souls, thinking ourselves something when we are nothing, calling ourselves spiritual and lording it over needy souls.

Prayer.—Help us, O God, to go the way of the humble. Help us fulfill the laws of Christ. Help us to be right with others and reap everlasting life. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

HALF-HEARTED AND FICKLE.

"How long halt ye between two opinions? If the Lord be God, follow Him; but if Baal, then follow him."—Verse 21

Riches, honors, pleasures and personal advantage, pride and lust of power; are often in conflict with the right thing to do, and prove us to be fickle. Be on your guard. Jesus said, "Ye cannot serve God and mammon." The unregenerated one belongs to the devil, but yours is to belong wholly and entirely to the Lord.

If God gives you power and honor, you must all the more lie in abject humility at His feet. If you be but a servant, royal glory will prove itself in cheerful obedience, praise and thanks to God.

Prayer.—Dear Lord God, Thou knowest how the flesh and the world entice and tempt us; how the spirit of the age threatens to ensnare us, making us halt between two opinions. Save us faithful God. Let our hearts be wholly thine. Amen.

THURSDAY.

POOR RICHES.

"Keep thy heart with all diligence, for out of it are the issues of life . . . Let thine eyelids look straight before thee."—Prov. 4:20, 23, 25.

Everyone must have something or other as his treasure. The sane man holds to something, either good or bad.

Everything of the earth is passing away. It is foolish to rest one's heart on the fleeting earthly things. One may struggle and get treasures of the world, but just as he thinks to enjoy them they often bring disappointment and sorrow. He locks it up only to find that it has been stolen. What a wretched man is he who impoverishes his soul with the vanishing treasures of this world! The getting and holding of wealth makes poor, it darkens the whole existence with deplorable blindness; it shuts out the eternal light.

The eternal heritages of glory are the only treasures. It is the life of confidence and love that is eternal.

Prayer.—Help us, O God, the things of this world are ever before us and threaten to obscure our vision. Help us to use what Thou has loaned us in this world for good and to lay up treasures in heaven. Amen.

FRIDAY.

SELLING ALL.

"For the joy thereof, he goeth and selleth all that he hath."—Mat. 13:44-46.

This hidden treasure represents the hidden riches of God's mercy; that is, righteousness, peace and joy in the Holy Ghost. God's riches of Grace are often hidden from our reason and the mind of natural man. But when the Holy Spirit enlightens us, we are as foolish as the foolish virgins not to purchase and secure the priceless possession. As we launch our faith and life upon the bosom of Christ and His Kingdom, Christ becomes more evident and more precious to us as we go along, and our hearts are willing to sell everything in order to possess Him. Everything else, though good and sheading lustre on the life, recedes in importance. We may still keep them—home, family, kindred, health, location, profits, love of country—but none of these are held as our dearest treasure. Christ and righteousness are dearest, and all these things come to have a meaning in our living for Christ. It is in this sort of living that one may be content even in sorrow or misfortune. All who find the Lord and walk close to Him all the way, deny themselves for His sake.

Prayer.—O, thou Eternal Light who dost transcend all other light, fill our hearts. Cleanse and gladden our spirits and powers that we may cling to Thee with grateful devotion. Amen.

SATURDAY.

BODY AND SPIRIT.

"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, with all thy soul and with all thy strength and with all thy mind."—Luke 10:27.

No one should be able to read the Bible without feeling an impelling spirit to self-examination. The Bible does not tell us how to live, that is, it does not lay down rules of conduct for us. It enables us to discover for ourselves how to live. If we live unto and for self we are carnal. If we are spiritual we are seeking the things that be of God and self has no consideration. The spirit of Christ is in us.

How may we know whether we are carnal or spiritual minded? Let us see: Desires contrary to God and right, feeling no sorrow or pain on account of sin, Jesus, a stranger in the feelings, filled with lust of the age, and the pride of life, caring more for honors, riches and personal pleasures than the things that make a church; and boasting of self-righteousness.

How about the spiritual? To these the things of God are most important; Their first concern is the pleasing of God, acknowledging their sins, praying and living for grace. Doing good, loving folk into the Kingdom.

Pray for the spirit to make you sure of the life, cause you to taste of His peace, to rejoice in His way and to be glad to walk the way of self-denial in His strength. Thus we shall live no more after the flesh, and God will make aware in us enmity against Him. It seems a little thing to be a Christian, but it is great beyond measure.

Prayer.—Lord Jesus, save us from deceitfulness of the flesh; give us thy spirit and let us have peace in Thee. Come Holy Spirit and dwell in us, and let our whole lives become pleasing to Thee and the Father. Amen.

SUNDAY.

THE VOICE OF THY SOUL.

"All things work together for good to them that love God."—Romans 8:28.

LESSON: Romans 8:28-32.

Our lesson today is the voice of a soul which is filled with joy. It is a song of victory amidst every measure of danger and trouble. Too often we complain like David did, "How long wilt thou forget me, O Lord,—Forever?" This lesson ought to make our hearts glad in spite of all distresses. Paul found that fountain of joy and sang out: "Who shall separate us from the love of Christ?" To him there was but one condition—faith and the keeping of the commandments—and our text plainly tells us that all things: good fortune and bad fortune, temptation and sin, danger and death, all work together for good.

Rightly met with "the Sword of the Spirit," they encourage us, humble us, strengthen us, purify us and give us the victory over self, the world and the devil. There is much in the scriptures to justify this belief. St. James said, "Count it all joy when we fall into divers temptations." When everything seems to go dead wrong, this also may be for our good, for the eternal love of God embraces not only us, but all our ways. Through Jesus all are children of the Father and brethren.

If we live in unbelief or in the flesh we will complain. If we believe and trust Him, our unbelief and complainings will be silenced. If the Father loves, the devil cannot harm us.

Prayer.—Merciful God, give us this faith and courage. Amen.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN'S PULPIT

REV. JOSEPH W. FIX, Preacher.

THE MEANING OF PRAYER.

PART II.

By REV. FLOYD BALLARD, B. D.

The reason people see no real good in prayer is because they cease to pray. They lack the faith to venture, to dare to take Jesus at his word. We do not need a new philosophy of prayer as much as we need to resurrect the old philosophy of prayer which Jesus taught, and give it a fair trial.

What then shall we say is the basis for true prayer? Jesus taught that two elements of prayer were essential. The act of prayer itself, and the time element, "always." The fundamental theory on which Jesus proceeded to teach prayer was two-fold. The need of man and the desire of God to serve, "What thing soever ye desire when ye pray believe that ye shall receive them and ye shall receive them." (Mark 11:24.)

All true prayer must be born out of a felt need, "Lord help us or we perish," was the cry of the disciples when they were caught in a severe storm and were about to loose their lives. Again Peter said, "To whom shall we go, thou hast the words of eternal life." (John 6:68.) If prayer is to hold a vital place in the life of the individual, we must learn with Paul, "My God shall supply all your needs." (Phil. 4:19.) It is only to the extent a man senses his needs that he prays. But even this has two aspects, the individual feeling his need, and God knowing his need, prayer thus has a limitation. Like a child who approaches his father desirous of some gift which the father's better judgment tells him would be detrimental to the child to have his desire gratified. We, too, often approach God not knowing what we need. God being wiser than the individual may not see fit to grant him his prayer.

Prayer born out of a felt need must continue to function in desire. There must be the desire that "Not my will but thine be done." (Luke 22:22.) All of our prayers may not be answered. In fact all of our prayers are not answered, but it is not from the impossibility of God to answer prayer. There must be a further desire for a life freed from sin and selfish desires. A longing and a willingness to be used as a channel to bring the kingdom of God on earth, is necessary. There must be a desire for fellowship with Jesus, a love for our fellowman and a vision to serve.

Prayer that is born out of a felt need and which functions in the earnest desire that God's will may be done, will result in consecration. While prayer is both objective and subjective in its operation, its subjective effect will be more evident. God moves in form of a spirit, therefore making it impossible to see any objective evidence of prayer only as it acts subjectively. In the consecration of the individual there will be repentance of self, a yielding of the will, the volitions, the emotions and the ego itself. Such things as malice and hate toward the world will be eliminated.

The purpose of such prayer is primarily for moral and spiritual ends. There are many records in the Old Testament where prayer for material and temporal ends was answered: Solomon's prayer for wisdom, Elisha's prayer that the son of the widow might be restored, Hannah's prayer for a son, Jacob's prayer for deliverance from the hand of Esau, and others. The general tone of these prayers was not for personal glory, or for selfish ends, but were for material and temporal things which would ultimately serve as a means to a spiritual end. It is in this sense that prayer for material and temporal ends is spiritually ethical. To the individual who has prayed because of a felt need, and who has continued to pray in the desire that not his will but God's will be done and whose prayer has resulted in consecration of self. All things can be turned into spiritual ends and bear a relationship to the universe at large. The poet said, "Books in running brooks, sermons in stones, and good in every thing."

The primary purpose of prayer, however, is not for material ends. By material we mean the things which can be seen, "For the things which are seen are temporal, while the things unseen are eternal." It is the eternal value for which we should pray. The love of God, the desire to do his will, for sympathy, for understanding between individuals, for spiritual strength to live daily as Jesus lived, for forgiveness of sin. This should be the guiding motive in prayer. But what if our prayers are not answered?

There are three ways in which God answers prayer: Yes, no, and wait. We should not then cease to pray, even if our prayers are not answered immediately. When Jesus said, "Men ought always to pray," he knew man's limitations. Three principles, therefore, should guide us in answering this question. Did Jesus mean it when he said, "Men ought always to pray"?

The ignorance of asking has been suggested in a preceding paragraph. The use of prayer in fields where it does not belong, which has been discussed, lost the readiness of our own lives to receive the good we seek. The time element must enter into the program of divine discipline and answer to prayer. When the fullness of time came and Paul was ready to follow Jesus, he sent him to Asia and Europe. God will likewise answer our prayers when we have made the necessary preparation and our lives are prepared to receive the good we ask. The willingness of God to answer depends on the readiness of man, and prayer, continuous prayer, prepares us for the gracious reception of the graces and favors which God alone can give. "Men ought always to pray." Amen.

A BEAUTIFUL LESSON.

One of my neighbors was not prepared to welcome a dog in to his home, but finally he did so, and now no money could purchase that particular animal; and thereby hangs a tale: One day two dogs appeared at this gentleman's house. One of them, a large animal, had been seriously crippled in the back. The other was a little, short-legged creature, and not at all attractive to the eye. The crippled animal hid himself under the house; and whenever the little dog was fed, it was noticed that instead of eating the food he disappeared with it. He was followed several times, and on each occasion was seen to carry the food under the house, place it before the crippled animal, and stand wagging his tail as though grateful for the opportunity of doing this kindness. In a few days the two dogs disappeared. Several days later the smaller dog returned and took up his home on the premises. His very appearance suggested the name he now bears, "Scrubby," but there is nothing of the scrub in his characteristics. Because of the kindness he showed to his crippled companion, he found an appreciative master and a comfortable home. It is needless to say that he has found friends in the neighborhood among all who have learned of his interesting story.—Selected.

"When the Holy Spirit uses us in showing forth God's love to some one, then we ought to be grateful and glad."

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATED.

The Silver-plated Ware is of the very highest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses.$22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 85. 11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plated; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling).$22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90. 14.00

Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim.....$ 9.00
Bread Plate No. 4—Broad rim..... 9.00
Filler—Silver lined 6.00

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, - - Richmond, Virginia

Christian Orphanage

Dear friends:

The response to our call for Octagon soap wrappers is quite encouraging. A large number has sent in wrappers, and it will certainly be grand if we can get enough to buy our Frigidaire. We can always depend upon our good women. They never fail us. They have a motherly feeling for our little children.

All of the Sunday Schools in the North Carolina and Virginia Conference are on our list of monthly contributors except three. Concord, Salem Chapel and Union (Va.) joined this week. Only three left. Just three more to get on the list to make it a 100 per cent conference.

Two new ones from the Eastern North Carolina Conference came to our rescue this week. They are Bethlehem and New Hope. Our Western North Carolina Conference has only five schools not giving. Antioch, in the Eastern Virginia Conference was also entered on the list this week. That is a fine record, and we trust that all the Sunday Schools will give one offering each month at an early date. Help the little children to help themselves. Give them a chance and they will make good.

When you invest your money in the Christian Orphanage you are helping helpless, homeless, dependent children. Don't you get a real joy out of your contributions to the orphanage? If you have never sent a contribution to the orphanage, just try it out and see if you don't get a real joy out of it.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR JULY 30, 1931.

Brought forward..... $9,403.95

Sunday School Monthly Offerings.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference:

Hopedale	$ 5.00
Lynchburg United	3.07
Greensboro, Palm Street	6.00
Durham	16.04
Mt. Zion	1.63
Ingram	5.00
Salem Chapel	3.00
Reidsville	5.17
	44.91

Eastern North Carolina Conference:

Christian Light	$ 1.15
Liberty (Vance)	4.67
	5.82

Western North Carolina Conference:

Providence Memorial	$ 1.83
Pleasant Grove	2.95
Shiloh	1.28
	6.06

Eastern Virginia Conference:

Johnson's Grove	$.23
Franklin	5.10
First, Portsmouth	10.15
Cypress Chapel	5.80
Windsor	3.54
	7.54

Valley Virginia Central Conference:

Newport	$ 1.38
Palmyra	1.87
Winchester	4.29
	7.54

Alabama Conference:

Wadley	1.61
	7.54

Special Offerings.

Ocean View Sunday School	$ 5.00
W. A. Lee, support of boys	7.50
W. L. Cooper, Norfolk, Va.	5.00

Ladies Bible Class, Liberty, Vance	4.70
Mrs. J. M. Sutton, Altamahaw, ...	2.00
	24.20
Total for the week	$ 114.96
Grand Total	$9,518.91

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON. (Continued from page 11.)

A Victim.

"When Saul was come to Jerusalem he tried to join himself to the disciples; but they were afraid of him and believed not that he was a disciple." Here is a tragic parable of life. A man's past is always to be reckoned with. It will either be a blessing or a curse. Let every man, and especially every young person take heed unto his ways.

A Victor.

"I have fought a good fight; I have finished my course; I have kept the faith,"—thus writes the aged apostle as the end draws near. Paul was not disobedient to the heavenly vision. When he found out what God wanted him to do, he gave himself whole-heartedly to it. He was more than conqueror through Jesus Christ, who met him on the road to Damascus that day, who conquered him, and who, thereafter, dominated his life by his constraining love. We, too, can be victors through Christ.

"Guard well your spare moments. They are like uncut diamonds. Discard them and their value will never be known; improve them and they will become the brightest gems in a useful life."—Emerson.

Eilers Sunday School Maps.

On a Revolving Adjustable Steel Stand

The first 5 maps
are in Set No. 1,
with stand,
Price $15.00

Set No. 2
8 Maps,
Price $20.00

Fine large Maps. In 6 Colors 36x57; on linen finished Cloth. Mounted on a folding steel stand, which can be regulated, so that Maps may be seen to the best advantage. This set contains data for thorough Bible Study. Its large print and Cheerful Colors makes this set very instructive and attractive. Contains the five thoroughly up to date Maps necessary for the study of Bible History. New Testament Palestine, — Old Testament Palestine, — Roman empire and Bible Lands, showing Pauls Travels by Colored lines. — Lands of the Old Testament, from the Great Sea, to the Persian Gulf. — The Exodus, Egypt, showing by Colored lines the wanderings of the Israelites.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN,

1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia.

ALL
SELF-
PRONOUNCING

Holman Testaments

COMMAND
ATTENTION
AND APPROVAL

Holman Vest-Pocket Testament

Size, 2 5/8 x 4 1/2 inches

Specimen of Type
AND the third day there
was a marriage in
Cana of Galilee; and
the mother of Jesus was

The VEST POCKET is beyond question, the most popular Testament published.

2104. Dark Blue Silk Finished Cloth, with edges colored to match, gold titles.....	$.50
2123K. Morocco Grained Binding, flexible limp, gold edges and titles.....	.60
2114. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges.....	.85

VEST POCKET TESTAMENT AND PSALMS
2103KP. Morocco Grained Binding, limp, gold titles, round corners, gold edges.....
2114P. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges.....
2115P. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges.....

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS
With all the words of our Lord and Saviour printed in red.
13RL. French Morocco Leather, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, rounded corners, gold edges.....
15RLP. French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, gold title on red panel, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included.....

Holman Jewel Testament

INDIA PAPER ONLY—Size 2 1/2 x 4 1/4 inches x 3/8 inch
The JEWEL is the latest and most attractive Pocket Testament made.

The TYPE is black, bold and larger than that in the famous Vest Pocket edition, and the book itself is smaller.
It is printed exclusively on the famous Holman India paper, noted for its opaque quality and unusual tensile strength.
One advantage of this India paper is that the leaves do not cling together.

The size, 2 1/2 x 4 1/4 inches, is so small that the book practically fits the palm of the hand.

Specimen of Type

ST. MATTHEW 2 The three wise men carrying away into BETH-LEHEM fourteen generations;
and from the carrying away into BETH-LEHEM unto Christ are fourteen

5003X. Morocco Grained Binding, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges.....	$1.00
5015PX. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included.....	1.50
5036PX. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather linings to edge, silk sewed, red under gold edges, with Psalms.....	2.60

Holman GEM Testament

POCKET
SIZE
3 3/4 x 4 1/2
inches

Specimen of Gem Black Faced Type

CHAPTER 23.

THEN spake Jesus to the multitude, and to his disciples,

The GEM TESTAMENT has been steadily growing in popular favor ever since its first appearance.

In size, 3 3/4 x 4 1/2 inches, it is not much larger than the Vest Pocket. It is also the only Testament of its size with large bold type and pronouncing text.

The edition on India paper is ideal, and we know of no better gift at the price than one in the finer binding.

4102P. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red burnished edges, with Psalms.....	$.90
4113. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges.....	1.35
4115P. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included.....	1.90

RED LETTER GEM TESTAMENT
4113RL. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges.....

INDIA PAPER GEM TESTAMENT
4136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather linings to edge, red under gold edges, with Psalms.....
4136XPRL. Red Letter Edition with Psalms, same binding as 4136XP, but with the Sayings of Christ Printed in Red.....

Old Folks Testament

Extra Large Print

Pica, 16mo. Size, 5 3/4 x 7 3/4 inches

Old folks or those with poor sight will appreciate the advantage of this Testament. The type is a delight to the eye with its wide spacing between the lines. It is the most readable edition of all large print Testaments.

Specimen of Type.
THE book
of Jesus

PSALMS INCLUDED
2902P. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red edges, with Book of Psalms included.....

2913P. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included.....	$1.50
2913P. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included.....	2.95

RED LETTER EDITION
Same as above, with the Sayings of Christ in Red.
3913PRL. French Morocco Leather, flexible covers, gold side title on red panel, rounded corners, red under gold edges, and with Book of Psalms included.....

All styles sent postpaid at above prices

CONDITIONS OF CHRISTIAN UNION.

(Continued from page 3.)

undissoluble forever." They find it hard to break away from old moorings. We see them "reserving all the rights and cherished memories of their historic past." But on the face of it "these things must be" before real union will arrive.

Of course, we all understand that the several problems of Christian union are authority, freedom and the standards of united Christian action. Protestants generally declare the Bible to be their only rule of faith and practice, and the source book of Christian information. It leads to Christ and to duty, and as long as we actually follow this, all is well. But there are those who throw it off and try to put experience on the throne as authority. This is to introduce an impossible condition, for every man has his own experience, and if he regards that as the rule of his faith and practice instead of the Bible, then we have as many authorities as there are individuals. To try to follow them is to set up anarchy.

Not even conscience, personal liberty or private judgment can be put above explicit statements, commands and ordinances of the Lord Jesus Christ, the head of the Church; nor against the plain statements of the Bible, which is the record of his revelation. To hold any of Christ's words in abeyance in order to get one into the Church is to do the candidate an injustice and to force the whole church, the corporate body, to conform to the opinion of an individual. The only sufficient test of entrance into the church is to obey Jesus Christ in the things which are written in the New Testament as the initial and initiatory steps into his body, which is the Church. Good character, however fine or beautiful, cannot be put above any commandment of Jesus Christ, even the least one. The conversation between Christ and John the Baptist at the time of Christ's baptism settles that question. This is not legalism, nor formalism; but a heart experience which makes joining the church a spiritual reality.

We must have not only Christian character and the Christian message, good intentions and the thoughtful mind, but the New Testament psychology which no one can doubt, shows the way to find God. The Christian ordinances were given by Christ himself before the church was really founded, and are part of the full Christian witness. There can be no church union without them. They supersede all private opinion. Christ's words are our gospel, our law, our rule of life, and our justification for being a church. We must have the commission of Christ, the message of Christ, the ritual of Christ, the "all things whatsoever I have commanded you" of Christ in order to have the "lo I am with you always even unto the end of the world" of Christ. Christ is the end of the law and the end of argument. To have less than this is to mar the witness of the church, and leave the candidate for membership with less than is vouchsafed to him by the New Testament. To unite the churches on less than these will be followed again and again by revolt, and the church will be living with less than her full strength and beauty.—From "The Editorial Observatory" of "The Christian-Evangelist."

DON'T MISS THIS!

"You can't expect a growing boy to wear a ten-year-old suit all his life," says Rev. Emmons E. White, of Aruppukottai, India, telling of the Black Soil Village folks and their indomitable spirit in a story that will make you think, which appears in the June issue of the Missionary Herald. There will also be an exquisite cover, in color; several unique features, pictorial and otherwise, as well as a reproduction of J. Carroll Mansfield's "High Lights in History," depicting the Marcus Whitman episode. You will remember Mansfield's cartoons, which are a regular feature syndicated throughout the country in the daily press.

"The function of youth is to be young in fact, and the function of age is to be young in spirit."—Lord Dawson.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT.

(Continued from page 7.)

ry about in the present situation. Both spiritual and economic conditions will recover and be better than ever in the past. Their interrelation, however, should fearlessly be taught. People should understand that before prosperity can return there must be a renewed interest in the spiritual life by both individuals and nations. Nations should realize that the world has always possessed raw materials and labor; but has been prosperous only when the people have been actuated by a religious faith to use these resources for advancement and service. This is the law of life, and now is the time when it should be taught in churches, schools and colleges. Think it over.

ELON COLLEGE

AN ACCREDITED COLLEGE

of the

CONGREGATIONAL CHRISTIAN CHURCHES OF THE SOUTHEAST

ELON was founded to train Christian leaders for the New South.

ELON has done its task well—one graduate in seven being in the Christian ministry. The other six express Christian leadership in the various professions and vocations. Experience teaches that spiritual leadership must be indigenous.

The South is now a New South ready for an inclusive Church, the type of Church for which Elon has stood for forty years and for which she is prepared to produce capable leadership.

With no Church in the community, save the College Auditorium, ELON has practiced Christian Union for faculty, students, and community for four decades.

Its contribution to Christian Education is nationally known and approved.

Its Christian Education Building, providing laboratory facilities for religious leadership training, is unique and is the first college building of its type in the world.

ELON confines itself to undergraduate liberal arts work with that religious emphasis which befits the Christian College.

In ELON the Congregational-Christian Church has an asset of marvelous hopefulness.

The South needs her Yale, her Oberlin, her Carleton, her Pomona for the intellectual leadership of the United Church. Many regard ELON as strategically located and spiritually endowed to become such a center of illumination and leadership training.

THE CHRISTIAN EDUCATION BUILDING

The Heart of the Elon Program of Christian Education.

C. M. CANNON, Registrar

Elon College, - - - - North Carolina

Home Atmosphere—Reasonable Rates—Clean Athletics—Christian Spirit.

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the kingdom, as represented by the Congregational-Christian Church.

BOARD OF EDITORS.

J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
E. C. GILLETTE, D. D. Associate
W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
W. A. HARPER, LL.D. Associate
REV. S. C. HARRELL. Associate
J. E. McCAULEY. Associate
W. C. WICKER, D. D. News Editor
P. J. KERNODLE. Managing Editor
C. D. JOHNSTON. Circulation Manager

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Year$2.00
Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Postoffice, at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to The Christian Sun, C. D. Johnston, Circulation Manager, Elon College, N. C.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads" 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

Notices: Obituary and marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge; all over 100 words at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

OBITUARIES.

VERNON.

Mrs. Elizabeth McSherry Vernon was born January 26, 1858, and died July 1, 1931. Age 73 years, 5 months and 5 days. On February 17, 1880, she married C. Hogur Vernon. She is survived by her husband, five sons, two daughters, twenty grandchildren and one great-grandson, five sisters and two brothers. The children are H. E., A. B., W. W., M. C., Clay H., Mrs. Maud Hudson and Mrs. J. Z. Yarbarough. Her sisters are Mrs. P. L. Yarbarough, Mrs. J. A. Solomon, Mrs. J. M. Pulliam, Mrs. W. J. Muler, Mrs. Amelia Hindson, and the brothers are L. G. and G. E. McSherry.

Sister Vernon was a member of Lebanon Christian Church for fifty years. The older members say she was one of the most faithful. The funeral and burial was at Lebanon on the afternoon of July 3rd. The writer was assisted by Ministers from the Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian churches.

A faithful companion, devoted mother, friend and neighbor to all, has gone to her great reward. My prayer is that the broken family circle here may be united in the beyond, in the home prepared for the redeemed of the Lord.

C. E. NEWMAN.

LIPSCOMB.

Whereas, it has pleased God in His infinite wisdom to remove from our midst our friend and co-worker, Mrs. Annie Brothers Lipscomb.

And whereas, by her death the Ladies' Benevolent & Social Union of the Suffolk Christian Church has lost a valued member; her family circle a devoted mother and sister; and her large circle of friends one of gracious manner and genial disposition.

Therefore, be it resolved, that we humbly submit to God's will, knowing that He is too wise to err; and that we seek to emulate all that was good in the life

THE CONGREGATIONAL LATIN-AMERICAN INSTITUTE AND PILGRIM LATIN CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH OF WEST TAMPA, FLA.—

Are helping give the Gospel, which is "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth," to the forty thousand Latin people of Tampa. The evangelical forces working among the foreigners of Tampa are by no means covering the territory sufficiently.

Methodists have six preachers, Baptists two, Presbyterians one, Congregationalists one. Church workers and teachers must be supported for this great missionary work. Send check to

LESLIE S. BRAY, Treas.
Route 4, Box 468, - - Tampa, Fla.
Send boxes of clothing to Mrs. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

For literature, write Rev. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE

FOUR YEAR STANDARD COLLEGE

A Memorial of the Congregational-Christian Union.

FRANK E. JENKINS, Pres. MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD, Dean

OPENS WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1931.

Chartered BETHLEHEM COLLEGE June 2, 1922 Renamed PIEDMONT JUNIOR COLLEGE May 18, 1928
Renamed SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE, June 3, 1931

SCHOLARSHIP HIGH EXPENSES LOW CHARACTER SUPREME

A Strong Faculty, Educated in 25 Universities and Colleges in 12 States.

Unsectarian, but thoroughly Christian.

For Information about Entrance, write—

DEAN MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD,
WADLEY, ALABAMA.

For Other Information, write—

DR. FRANK E. JENKINS,
LA GRANGE, GEORGIA (To September 1st).

of our departed friend. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to her family, a copy to the Christian Sun, and a copy placed on the records of the Ladies' Benevolent & Social Union.

Mrs. H. S. HARDCASTLE,
Mrs. EMILY B. CROCKER,
Miss JULIA A. BRINKLEY.

666

LIQUID or TABLETS

Relieves a Headache or Neuralgia in 30 minutes, checks a Cold the first day, and checks Malaria in three days.

666 Salve for Baby's Cold

"SUPREME AUTHORITY"

WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY

Because

Hundreds of Supreme Court Judges concur in highest praise of the work as their Authority.

The Presidents of all leading Universities, Colleges, and Normal Schools give their indorsement.

The Schoolbooks of the Country adhere to the Merriam-Webster system of diacritical marks.

The Government Printing Office at Washington uses it as authority.

WRITE for a sample page of the New Words, specimen of Regular and India Papers, FREE.

G. & C.
Merriam
Company,
Springfield,
Mass.

Get
The Best!

HOLMAN BIBLES

LARGE PRINT TEACHERS' EDITION FOR ADULTS, TEACHERS AND PREACHERS

and all who would study the Word of God intelligently this edition is unsurpassed. The type is large, clear Bourgeois, Self-Pronouncing, with liberal space between the words and lines, which makes it easy to read.

Size, 8 x 5 1/4 inches.

Specimen of Type.
"From that time Jē to preach, and to say, 'I the kingdom of heaven'

Containing New Copyrighted Helps by most reliable Authorities. A Treasury of Biblical Information. Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, New Colored Maps.

No. 4712. Divinity Circuit Teachers' Bible, French Seal Leather, red under gold edges, Silk Head bands and Silk Marker.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 5.00

No. 812RL. Red Letter Teachers' Bible. The Words of Christ in the New Testament, Old Testament Passages Alluded to by Christ, Various Prophecies Relating to Christ in the Old Testament, etc., all PRINTED IN RED. Binding same as described above and same large Self-Pronouncing type.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 6.00

No. 733X. Holman India Paper, Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 10.65

Wedding or Gift Bible FOR THE HOME

Holman Self-Pronouncing Home Study Edition

A BEAUTIFUL PRESENTATION PAGE Marriage Certificate and Family Record makes this special edition a most desirable Bible for a wedding gift.

Full Bound size, 8 1/2 x 6 inches; nearly 1500 pages. Authorized Version with Marginal References.

Large Print—Easy to Read

The Helps are the latest and most practical published—prepared by the most reliable and well-known authorities, and consist of a TEACHERS' NEW READY REFERENCE HAND BOOK, which gives the salient and essential information needed in Bible study.

Illustrated Self-Pronouncing Bible Dictionary—Containing 150 illustrations.

Oriental Light on the Bible (Containing over 100 illustrations). A new kind of illuminating Bible help.

Treasury of Biblical Information.

A New Series of Maps. A selection of the most used, with Special Maps, the results of the most recent explorations.

A New Practical Comparative Concordance, with nearly 50,000 references. Four Thousand Questions and Answers on the Bible. ABSOLUTELY DURABLE BINDINGS that will not break in the back.

Specimen of the Print. Full size of the page is 5 1/2 x 8 inches.

Specimen of Type.
17 "From that time Jē began to preach, and to say, 'Repent: for the kingdom of heaven is at

A BEAUTIFUL PRESENTATION PAGE Marriage Certificate and Family Record makes this special edition a most desirable Bible for a wedding gift.

No. 4814. French Morocco flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker..... $5.50

Postage Paid

THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 East Broad Street

Richmond, - - - Virginia

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Representing the Southern Christian Convention and the Congregational Churches of the Southeast.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY

VOLUME LXXXIII

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, AUGUST 6, 1931

NUMBER 32.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

By Dr. W. C. WICKER.

DEFIANCE COLLEGE ELECTS PRESIDENT.—

Defiance College, former Christian Church institution now officially recognized by the newly merged Congregational Christian body, has a new president, Dr. W. Vernon Lytle, succeeding Dr. Albert G. Caris, who resigned last February. He is a native of Ohio and has been most recently in the Institute of Human Relations at Yale. The entire church will welcome this new official to the important position of college president of one of the leading colleges of the Church. It is well, other things being equal, to elect a man known to the immediate field in which the college is located. He can make personal contacts more readily and is known to the constituency. We bespeak for Dr. Lytle a successful administration of Defiance College and wish him much success.

KAGAWA AT WINONA CONFERENCE.—

Toyohiko Kagawa will attend the Bible conference at Winona Lake, Indiana, in August and speak on the 15th inst. Among the other speakers on the program this summer from August 14th to 23rd are G. Campbell Morgan, John Timothy Stone, Robert E. Speer, Billy Sunday, W. E. Biederwolf, Lewis Mudge, C. R. Erdman, J. C. Massee, Paul Rader, Clinton N. Howard, E. Scott McBride and James M. Gray. August 15th is Eighteenth Amendment day; August 20th Homecoming day. This conference is always a great meeting and, with the array of distinguished Bible scholars, this session promises to measure up to the high standard that has been maintained for many years and we bespeak for those who are so fortunate to attend a great time, much inspiration, and fine instruction. We shall hear from our editor, when he returns to his editorial sanctum.

THE STATE AND CONSCIENCE.—

Increasingly the issue of the state and the conscience of the individual Christian is coming to the fore. The Mackintosh case has brought it forcibly to the minds of thousands of our church people and the questionnaire of the World Tomorrow in regard to war has made many more cognizant of it. Speaking in the Marble Collegiate church the other day Dr. Albert W. Beaven, president of the Colgate-Rochester Divinity School, asked the crucial question, "Is the voice of the state to become the supreme interpretation of the will of God?" Our militarists will, of course, give a strong affirmative, but to this conscientious Christians can never agree. With the doctrine of complete separation of church and state, Americans who are both Christians and citizens should have a perfect right to settle questions of religion by the conscience and questions of state by the law. When there is a conflict, Christians should obey God rather than men.

SUMMER SCHOOL AT UNION.—

The summer school at Union Theological Seminary was well attended this summer. About 150 clergymen enrolled in this school for study of the course that will continue till August 15th. This is the third session for this feature at the seminary and the interest seems to grow from year to year. Some years ago when it was my privilege to be in attendance at the summer session of Columbus University, there were from nine to fourteen thousand students doing summer school work in various departments of the university, principally in education, but Union did not offer such a course as is now offered to ministers, but now the summer school in theology is a regular part of the summer session of Columbia University. Our most progressive ministers are continuing to advance their education and training for their high calling for the Kingdom and this trend bespeaks a progressive church and ministry and will result in the healthy growth of the church.

POLICE LEARNING.—

It is a source of gratification to record that the police are showing much more wisdom and skill in their handling of the so-called "red demonstrations." The other day about 500 communists and sympathizers, armed with the usual banners, staged an unemployment demonstration outside city hall park in New York, while the board of aldermen was in session. In many former days this would have been the signal for clubbing and beating, but in this case the police contented themselves with their proper function of preserving order and let them talk as much as they pleased. This course will commend itself to most sensible Americans. If you will let people talk over their troubles they will usually talk themselves dry and their troubles will vanish with the fog of excessive talk about their troubles. This is the way the psychiatrists do their patients and cure them, when society, the body politic, becomes abnormal and goes into hysteria, the same methods work.

PEACE CRUSADE.—

The young people of the Friends' Church, through the American Friends' service committee, are carrying into Ohio this summer an energetic and enthusiastic peace crusade. The sending out of "peace caravans" manned by college students, who travel two and two in second-hand flivvers or similar vehicles, camping at night by the wayside and spending the days in preaching the gospel of peace and good will wherever they can get a hearing, has for several years been a familiar activity of this organization.

This summer the annual campaign, which in past years has reached into 35 states, is being concentrated largely in Ohio. Fourteen caravans are on the road, and seven of them are in Ohio, the others being scattered over several states. Three pairs of girls and four pair of young men are engaged in the enterprise in Ohio. Before they enter upon the crusade they hold a two weeks conference period at Haverford College, and enter the field about the last of June and continues to the end of August.

LEGION AGAINST LIBERALS.—

The executive committee of the department of Ohio of the American Legion, in resolutions, has recommended dismissal of faculty members and students of the state-supported universities who encourage opposition to compulsory military training; who "promulgate radical pacificism" or who "promote or attempt to promote communistic ideas." Ohio State is the only one of five state-supported colleges and universities in Ohio that has compulsory military training, there being no such requirement at Ohio University, at Athens, Miami University, Kent College and Bowling Green College. The god of war would drive men to do what they believe neither right nor just and suppress the individual conscience; the God of righteousness would respect the individuality and personality of the person, respect freedom of conscience, the right of the person, the divinity of the human spirit, and the supremacy of religion for the individual in religious matters, the practice of non-resistance and the teachings of the Prince of Peace. Paganism is not dead yet and the god of war continually asserts himself as though he were superior to the God of Peace.

PEACE PATRIOTS' RECOGNITION.—

The Peace Patriots, an organization of men and women who refuse to take part in war, have just sent a petition to President Hoover affirming the stand of its members and asking that recognition be given all sincere conscientious objectors. After pointing out that the United States is a party of the Kellogg pact outlawing war and that it has in the past exempted men who were members of anti-war religious sects, the resolution concludes: "We, Peace Patriots, request that recognition of the exemptive status be now given to those organizations whose declared principles are against the participation of their members in war in any form, on the ground that by refusing all war service their members are practically supporting the government's own renunciation of war. Among such organizations are the Fellowship of Reconciliation and the War Re-sisters' League." Among the signers of the petition are such men as Rev. Peter Ainslie, Prof. George A. Coe, Prof. John Dewey, and Bishop Paul Jones. With such supporters the Peace Patriots should secure recognition as truly as any sect of conscientious objectors. The entire civilized and religious world should support such a movement and do away with war for all time.

NOTES-PERSONALS

The new man takes the old circumstances and bringing God to them, makes of them the new life.—Phillips Brooks.

A wise man is he who does not grieve for the thing which he has not, but rejoices for those which he has.—Epictetus.

Special attention is called to the short article on this page by Dr. L. E. Smith. Read it and then go your limit toward backing him in the emergency which now exists. Are you loyal?

Rev. Joseph W. Fix, Franklin, Va., preached at the First Christian Church, Richmond, on last Sunday. The writer was unable to be present, but from all reports, the service was most enjoyable. Rev. Mr. Fix is one of the outstanding younger preachers of our denomination.

Contributors and those having articles for THE SUN will confer quite a favor upon the publishers by sending in all material for the issues of August 20th and August 27th at the earliest daes possible. August is a vacation month, and your co-operation will be appreciated by the mechanical force as well as by the office.

Rev. E. T. Cotten, formerly of Eastern Virginia, and an Elon graduate, sometime of Canada, and at present located in Ohio, is visiting with relatives and friends in Richmond. He was a very pleasant visitor at the home of the Managing Editor last Tuesday morning. He says that he is much pleased with his work in Ohio, which is progressing nicely. He has a church of about 600 members.

A Hindu trader in India once said to a native Christian, "What medicine do you put on your face to make it shine so?" The other one answered with surprise, "I don't put on anything." "You may expect me to believe that if you like, but tell me, what do you put on?" "Nothing," answered the Christian again, "I don't put anything on." By this time the heathen was losing his patience and he said: "Yes you do; all Christians do. I have seen it in Agra, and I have seen it in Surat, and I have seen it in Bombay." Then the Christian understood, and his glowing face shone all the more as he said: "Yes, I'll tell you the secret. It is happiness of heart." It is a remarkable fact, attested by missionaries to China, that there is such a difference between the faces of native Christians and those of the heathen that it is impossible to make the mistake of the two.—The American Messenger.

ARE YOU LOYAL?

Through the years the Christian Church in the south has entered its efforts for education and the training of its youth largely at Elon College.

Through persistency and sacrifice our forefathers and many who are still with us have built a college recognized throughout the country for its equipment and scholarship.

In these days of financial depression educational institutions depending on the generosity of churches and institutions for all or a part of their support are finding it extremely difficult to keep creditors satisfied and forge ahead with progressive programs. Elon College is no exception.

A Business Administration Committee, has been appointed by the Board of Trustees, charged with the responsibility of piloting the college through this critical period. To do this the committee must have funds.

To meet outstanding obligations that are now pressing for settlement, the total of Fifty Thousand Dollars is required.

The Board of Trustees, thirty-two in number, has been requested to try to raise $1,000 each on or before September 1st. There ought to be 10,000 people in the Southern Christian Convention who would send a donation to our college in this time of financial need, and certainly there must be 1,000 who will.

Readers, alumnus, friend, are you loyal to your church, to your college? Prove your loyalty by your gifts. You may send your gifts to any member of the Board of Trustees, or to Mr. C. D. Johnston, Secretary-Treasurer of the Business Administration Committee, Elon College, N. C. But the chief thing, the loyal thing, the only safe thing for the college is to send it. The college has never needed your patronage more solely than she needs it today. Let not a loyal soul fail her.

Yours for co-operation and advance,
L. E. SMITH,
Chairman, Business Administration Committee.

FROM REV. G. D. HUNT.

We had a fine meeting at New Hope Church in Chambers County last week. Good attendance, good interest, good music. The names of ten young men and women were added to the roll, and much good was accomplished in every way. The church and community were made to rejoice.

During the meeting the monument erected to the memory of the sainted W. M. J. Elder was unveiled. This was a very fine service and was attended by a representative gathering, both of relatives and friends. Thus we, in the far south, seek to perpetuate the memory of the man who was the founder of the Christian Church in our State. This service seemed to be the more fitting because of the recent merger of the Congregational and Christian Churches. God bless the memory of our sainted pioneers.

Next Monday our School of Christian Education will convene at Wadley, Ala. We are praying for a great reunion of pastors, and Sunday School, and Christian Endeavor workers there. I do hope we will not be disappointed, I am pleading for this work because I see the need of it every day. Our people ought to avail themselves of every opportunity to get information.

Our revival will begin here the third Sunday in August, with Dr. C. C. Ryan as evangelist, we are expecting a good meeting. I will be this week at Bethany and Beulah Churches, with Rev. A. H. Shepard and Staly Hunt, as pastors. I have preached twice each day for three weeks, except on Saturday, I enjoy it, and the Lord is richly blessing me.

Pray for us.

G. D. HUNT.

DR. HARPER'S PLANS.

Dr. William A. Harper, until recently president of Elon College, North Carolina, where since 1911 he has been administrator, educator, author, inspirer and friend of all, will remain on the board of trustees and is being looked to as advisor in connection with the future of the institution. The adequate and beautiful buildings of the institution were erected very largely under the direction of Dr. Harper and the entire institution owes much to the consecration of his life.

Dr. Harper is on the faculty of the Summer School of Chicago University and it is likely that by September 1st he will reach a decision as to what his immediate future in educational circles will be. Meanwhile, before he definitely settles down, Dr. Harper has in mind going on an extended trip to Europe and the Near East, visiting among other places, Athens, Salonica, Syria, Switzerland, Germany, France, and Great Britain. During this period of travel Dr. Harper will visit educational institutions with special reference to missionary schools, and make a survey of what is being done in relation to religious education. Such an experience will add to the present outstanding values of Dr. Harper's life as an educator and also make possible a rich fund of travel experience that will be shared with others.

W. KNIGHTON BLOOM,
Washington, D. C.

NOTICE.

On the tenth day of August, The School of Leadership Training at Wadley, Alabama, will formally open with class work and recreational training and activities. Those planning to attend the Summer School should arrive at the school by seven-thirty, Monday morning, August 10th. Those who desire to do so may come on Sunday, August 9th, and spend the night on the college campus. A Sunday evening program will be prepared for those who arrive at the school on Sunday.

Leadership Training Courses in Children's and Young People's Work, in Recreation, in Worship, and in the Life of Christ, will be offered. This variety of courses will enable any Church or Sunday School worker to train in better preparation for real service. It is expected that Congregational and Christian Church people throughout Georgia, Alabama, and from Eastern Tennessee and Northern Florida, will avail themselves of this splendid opportunity. The fellowship spirit of the week spent with friends will be well worth any cost in time and effort to be present.

Board may be secured at the rate of $5.00 for the week, or special arrangements may be made with the dining hall as in previous years. Registration is one dollar for the week. A text-book is the only other cost besides travel to and from the school. Students furnish their own towels, sheets and pillows.

With Misses Campbell, Brackin, Davison and Truitt, and Rev. G. Staley Hunt, as faculty members, and a good attendance of students, Piedmont Junior Summer School promises to afford the best in training and recreation known in the history of the school.
JEWEL TRUITT.

CONFERENCES MEET.

Alabama United Conference meets at Phenix City, Ala., Second Tuesday morning in November, 1931.

Georgia and Alabama Conference and Southern Association will meet jointly———,———.

Eastern Virginia Conference meets at Cypress Chapel, Nansemond County, Wednesday before the first Sunday in November, 1931, at 10:30 A. M.

Western North Carolina Conference meets with Shiloh Christian Church, Randolph County, Tuesday after the first Sunday in November, 1931, at 10:30 A. M.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference meets at Mt. Bethel Church, Rockingham County, on Tuesday after the second Sunday in November, 1931.

Eastern North Carolina Conference meets at Shallow Well Church, Tuesday after the third Sunday in November, 1931.

NOTE.—Secretaries of Associations and Conferences will please supply omissions and make necessary corrections to the above.

CONGREGATIONAL NEWS

REV. E. C. GILLETTE, Editor; REV. F. P. ENSMINGER, and REV. M. J. SWEET, Associates.

MISS DORA BRACKIN has been successful in organizing a Sunday School at Pryon's Chapel near Baker, Florida. The original enrollment of 52 members growing to 70. About 80 people took part in the Children's Day program.

REV. J. H. HUGHES, OF PISGAH, ALABAMA, is now pastor of the Christian Church at his home and of two Congregational Churches: Mountain Grove of Steppville, and the Garden City church. He is a faithful and loved pastor.

MR. ED CONNER, a Piedmont College student, is working in his own community at Crossville, Tennessee, this year. The County School Board assisted the churches in a Union Vacation Bible School, which one day had 137 as its largest attendance.

Mr. FRANCIS EMERSON worked with Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Smith at Phenix City. He also practised new songs with young people who sang in the church choir. From Phenix City, Mr. Emerson went to the East Tallassee Church and conducted a Daily Vacation Bible School in the day time while a protracted meeting was being held.

REV. JAMES W. DAVENPORT, of Daily, Tennessee, has a Junior Church service 40 minutes before the Sunday School period. The exercises resemble a Children's Church service. The churches of Daisy are engaging in a joint protracted meeting. Brother Davenport is a leader at the annual student reunion on the grounds of the old Grandview Memorial and Industrial Institution.

MOUNTAIN GROVE CHURCH, Steppville, has a most efficient Junior Endeavor Society. The Smiths were present at one of their meetings and said it was the best planned meeting they had ever seen. Misses McGlawn, Fine and Verla Barnett, together with other leaders of the local Senior Society, are responsible for this efficiency. Miss Barnett is doing Vacation Bible School work in East Alabama.

AT DORCAS CHURCH, near Crestview, Florida, a Christian Life Conference was held under the able leadership of Miss Marguerite Davison, from July 10th to 12th. Rev. W. H. Tillman is the pastor of this church and in charge of a large area in West Florida. The young people of his churches acquitted attention well at the Dorcas Conference, which was well planned for and carried out.

REV. M. L. HARGRAVES reported that the people of his churches were much discouraged by seven weeks of drought and the lack of money, but added as a postscript, "Since writing the above we are having general rains in North Alabama. Everybody happy." Nearly every church woman is planning to can fruits and vegetables for the mission fund. The men have planted acres in cotton for the support of the pastor.

THE BOYS' CLUB WORK which is carried on throughout the year by Rev. A. Knightengale has 40 boys enrolled and is growing. Mr. Conner has held services at Slade Springs where the people have been converted to Mormonism. He found a Mormon convention there on one occasion. Among the many questions the people asked were, "Do you think the Old Testament has been done away with?" He had good attention. At Crossville he was chosen to umpire a baseball game.

REV. WALTER H. CURL writes that Friendship Church at Trinity, Alabama, had an audience of 600 people at the Mother's Day service. This church has a nice cotton patch in cultivation. The ladies have pledged 150½ quarts of fruits and vegetables for missions. At the Mount Moriah Church there were 150 people who attended Memorial Day service. The church people are raising cotton for the support of the pastor.

MR. ARTHUR SWARTZ, a student summer worker from the School of Religion, Vanderbilt University, conducted a Vacation Bible School at Garden City, and also rallied the people for the services of worship conducted by the new pastor, Rev. J. H. Hughes. This church has had no regular pastor heretofore for a year and a half. Rev. W. H. Curl, from Steppville, and the Christian Endeavorers of the Mountain Grove Church of Steppville, helped Mr. Swartz to revive the Garden City work, and later heard him preach in the Mountain Grove Church.

MR. JAMES H. WOODS is assisting Rev. N. A. Long in his Larger Parish in Southeast Alabama. Along with much solid work, he is having interesting experiences. There was a three day camp of the young people. At a church rally 200 people feasted on a bountiful spread on the church yard near Dozier. He finds that he enjoys picnics as well as young people with whom he works. He has learned to take his place in horse-shoe pitching competition with other young men. Mr. Woods is impressed by the contrast of preaching of churches of our kind and of holiness evangelistic hullabaloo.

REV. A. CALVIN NELSON, who preaches in four churches in Clanton and near Eclectic, was recently surprised by a birthday supper and the present of a nice Bible by the East View Church. The ladies of this church are pledged to can 102 quarts of fruits and vegetables to be sold for the benefit of missions. The Mountain Springs Church women have agreed to put up 120 quarts. The ladies of Union Church, Eclectic, agree to provide 146 quarts for the same cause. The people in the area have little ready money, but are willing to do all that they can.

EVARTS, KENTUCKY, was the scene of industrial disorder early this summer and is now guarded by soldiers. Mr. Allen Keedy has been sympathetic with the laboring people. He has conducted a Vacation Bible School and acted as supply pastor under the direction of J. M. Trosper, of Corbin. Mr. Keedy has moved the Christian Endeavor meeting to the middle of the week. He has children stories in the Sunday School hour to induce the children to stay to church. A Children's Day service was effective. The boys of his school enjoyed a treasure hunt, but vacillated between the old swimming hole and a horse-shoe tournament, which he had for them.

MR. AND MRS. GERALD SMITH began their student summer work with his father, Rev. Charles W. Smith, of Phenix City, Alabama. The Smiths are hard workers. After a term at Phenix City, they went on to Steppville, Oak Grove Church, near Trinity, and other North Alabama churches. In Phenix City, at the conclusion of the Bible School, two plays were presented, "The Life of David," and "Who is My Neighbor?" The pupils had a good exhibit of hand work. There were fifty-five in the school, twenty in the kindergarten department, nineteen juniors and sixteen intermediates. The Endeavorers had a straw ride at the close of the school.

IN ROBBINS RANGE PARISH, Rev. George L. Day reports that there have been Vacation Schools in all the churches and that the workers are busy and happy. The week-end Christian Life Conference was carried out by Miss Davison, Rev. Lucy H. Ayres, Miss Mildred Taylor, Miss Dorothy French, and Mr. Lawrence A. Roberts. There were 40 who attended the conference. Lodging and breakfast was given in the homes as never before, and 140 free meals were served in the church basement. It was the first conference of this kind in the section. The workers who remained in the parish were Miss Taylor, Mr. Roberts, and Miss Elizabeth Bonney, who came after the conference. At Deer Lodge 100 new members have been added to the community Sunday School by a protracted campaign.

MR. AND MRS. C. C. OSBORNE, who, for many months, have been doing volunteer work in Tennessee Ridge in the rough country of North Central Tennessee are now associated with our work. Mr. Osborne does landscape gardening and delights to "purty up" the door-yards of his neighbors. He introduces many flowers and many vegetables. In one quarter the Osbornes organized four pageants, a play, a country life conference, and a community dinner, and the people presented them with a fine autographed quilt as a token of gratitude. In a recent pageant the history of the community from prehistoric times down to 1815 was played by local people. Miss Azilee Johnston of Chattanooga University is the summer worker helping the Osbornes.

REV. ALMON O. STEVENS, of Stearns, Kentucky, preached baccalaureate sermons at Stearns and Fidelity, Kentucky, and at Robbins, Tennessee, and gave an address at the Pine Knot, Kentucky, commencement. The Stearns Church entertained a young peoples Christian Life Conference last quarter. The pastor has been chairman of the County Red Cross since April 1st. This organization spent over $11,00.00 in local relief work.

DR. C. REXFORD RAYMOND has become President of the Chattanooga Council of Religious Education. He has been called upon recently for many addresses in churches and institutions, and is president of the Board of Directors of the Atlanta Theological Seminary Foundation in Nashville. The Commercial Travelers Association of Chattanooga holds its annual memorial service at Pilgrim Church. The Pilgrim Church men's group after a year of successful activity has $50.00 in its treasury.

MR. SIDNEY H. DAVIES returned to the churches of the West Florida Association from the Vanderbilt School of Religion again this year. He has conducted Vacation Bible Schools in three communities which have not before enjoyed them. In one of them there was an almost entire absence of Bibles and good reading of any kind. Bibles were obtained for interested people. In another community six denominations worshipped in a dis-Union Church, where there is sectarianism and bitterness between the organizations. The Bible School was well attended and is desired again. It was a harmonizing force. In one community Mr. Davies was able to give first aid to a child in convulsions. No other person knew what to do. One of the Vacation Bible Schools was held in a two-room schoolhouse, as there was no church building. The young people of one of the schools caught fish out of the bay and had a fish fry for recreation. The children of this area were eager to learn. Mr. Davies gave Bible lectures in a number of homes.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR

J. O. ATKINSON, ELON COLLEGE, N. C.

ASSOCIATE EDITOR

E. C. GILLETTE

117 W. Forsyth Street, Jacksonville, Fla.

CONTRIBUTING EDITORS

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

S. C. HARRELL

J. E. McCAULEY

NEWS EDITOR

W. C. WICKER

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

(1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.

(2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.

(3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.

(4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship and of Church membership.

(5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

JUST A DAY

(Editorial Correspondence)

Northfield, Mass., July 31, 1931.

Writing once a week when one is off on a vacation is a doubtful and dangerous undertaking. Each day is different and one is prone to allow a week of days to flow into each other and then try to generalize, or strike an average and write not of the concrete, but the abstract. And life is not made up of averages, abstracts, and generalities. The only possible way then of being safe in writing of a vacation, or a vocation, or even an avocation is to select events, incidents, experiences, and try to make the new point what the eye saw, the mind thought, or the heart felt.

This July 31st has just been a day, but what a day! In the rolling lands, stretching fields, green pastures and clean villages of north eastern Massachusetts and the lower Vermont; through the foothills and then the high white mountains of New Hampshire; the thick verdant and shaded woods of Maine—now there lies a day for you to make the heart sing and the soul rejoice for a whole week, if there were no other scenes to sing about and no other experiences to crowd in. Such a day does not make other days less lively and interesting, but more so. The real glory of any day is its ability to gladden and cheer and illumine other days. That is why heaven itself can never grow old, with all its endless eternity of days and years. Each day will be so full of beauty and blessing, song and joy, that it will flow over into the next day, carrying all the overtures and melodies of its grand hallelujah chorus of the previous day with it. July 31st was a day of such ecstasy and delight, that its melody will not melt, nor disappear in the dim distance, but will sing itself out into other days and weeks to come.

In the first place the weather was perfect. No cloud or sign of impending storm to threaten, a breeze from the high hills or towering mountains, or off the blue-bosomed beckoning lakes, a breeze as cool and invigorating as ever filled the lungs and invigorated the body in life reviving April or lovely May—this put one in frame of body and mind to help the heart and soul drink in and absorb all that Dame Nature had to offer, and she offered much.

I have seen higher mountains than you will find in Vermont, New Hampshire or Maine, but nowhere have I seen more comely, more graceful, more shapely slopes and heights than these of the White Mountains. They lure, entrance and invite you, and speak not merely of the might and majesty of their Creator, but of His love of the beautiful and His power, artistic power, to fashion, form, or create a work of art that makes all art of man seem drab and dull and mean in comparison. And the verdure of hedge, field and wood. The green, ancient and graceful fern everywhere. Then the deep green of the graceful fir, the blushing green, almost blue, of the wavey spruce, the gorgeous spread of century old cedar, all meeting and mingling with mellow shade of the sugar maple, or the white and yellow birch.

The good Book tells us that God planted a garden. I can testify that He also made a mountain, a whole endless chain of mountains and then planted on their friendly bosoms lovely trees whose colors never fade, and whose native, untouched beauty is a joy to the heart, and sing a sweet melody to weary receptive soul.

In order to get all that the White Mountains, or the dense woods of Maine have to offer you, you must be in a comfortable car, with an agreeable company, and no one in a hurry, and under no restraints of comment or conversation, except when the mind and heart become too full for silence, and a word to give vent to the sensations within must be uttered. Such weather, such scenery, such company, such a day!

I am at Northfield for more than two weeks more to attend the Conference of Christian Workers. Previous conferences have lasted practically through the summer and are ended now, all finding their grand climax in this conference, but now begun. I am here to rest, and to try to find out if I can, what some of the greatest Bible teachers and preachers on earth think of the Book and its contents, and what they are now saying of it.

Here the last remains of our great Dr. D. L. Moody lie buried, but His work goes on forever.

J. O. A.

UNSATISFACTORY RELIGIOUS EXPERIENCE

There are many evidences, with which one is constantly meeting, that the religious experience of the average individual is not satisfying. One such evidence is to be found in the large number of people who retain nominal church membership, but who do not attend the services of the church and take no part in the organized activities of the church. It would be easy to dismiss the matter by saying that their inactivity is sufficient explanation of the fact that they are not finding a satisfying experience.

There are however many church members who are among the most constant church attendants, and who can be counted on for any service of which they are capable, who in confidence will tell you that they are not experiencing the joy which they at one time found in their religious life. If anyone ought to be living a joyous religious life surely such faithful ones ought to be among that number. And if these most faithful one are not finding all for which their hearts hunger surely there must be multitudes of church members whose religious experience is even more disappointing and unsatisfactory.

What is responsible for the fact that the glow has gone out of religion for so many people? We are very frank to say that we are seeking an answer to this question, and not arguing for a reason that we believe to be the explanation. Is the answer to be found in the trend and temper of the age in which we are living? This is certainly not preeminently an age of faith. It is an age of many superficialities. Most of us are possessed by a great many artificial desires and ambitions. Millions of dollars are being spent annually to convince the average individual that life can never be all that it ought to be without a great many things the average individual never had before and for which there has been no special desire. The material and the physical are certainly in the saddle today. It may be that his age is so materialistic that its impossible for those who are spiritually minded to feel perfectly at home and satisfied with things as they are. And it may be that those who are not deeply spiritual are experiencing a vague discontent and are not yet aware what is wrong.

It may be that the average church member is expecting too much of organized religion. There is a social side of religion, and there is an individual and personal side of religion just as there are those two sides or relationships of life. And we are well aware of the fact that there are those who seek all their pleasures of life from the social relationships, neglecting entirely the cultivation of those things of life that are individual and personal. They do not think for themselves. They do not feel deeply. They are never satisfied unless they are engaged in the whirl of some social activity, and never entirely satisfied then.

One wonders whether the soul who has had no experience of an inner communion with God can experience very much joy in the fellowship of those who are seeking a group fellowship with God. Can there be a revelation of God's presence to a group made up of individuals who know nothing of meditation, communion, Bible reading and prayer? The Bible seems to present the view that group worship is enriched by the uniting of the prayers, the praise, and the experiences of those who comprise the group. It also appears to be the case that the experience of such a group is more than the sum total of the experiences of the various individuals. But there is nothing to indicate that great things ever came from the assembling of a multitude of empty headed, empty handed, and empty hearted people, even when they assembled in the name of religion.

It seems to be pretty well agreed that the program of worship services as conducted in the average Protestant church leaves something to be desired. Whether we have an established order of service or not, most churches seem to have fallen into the habit of doing the same things in very much the same way Sunday after Sunday. There is much to be said for this sort of thing. It is very difficult to get the spirit of worship when we are surrounded by all that is strange and unfamiliar. But there is no reason why we might not as well become accustomed to that which is richly suggestive of the divine and which satisfies the deep hunger of the soul, as to be accustomed to that which is barren, prosaic and dull. Some of the best minds of Protestantism are studying the question of worship and are making the results of their studies available for all those who have the responsibility of building programs of worship.

The most important question is whether or not your religious experience is entirely satisfying the cravings of your soul. It is a well established fact that all through the ages there have been men and women who have found in religion a joyousness that they could only describe as heavenly. If there is such a joy to be found in religion surely God has provided a way whereby all may enter into and enjoy such a boundless happiness. If we are not enjoying such blessedness we should never be content until we have found our way into the secret of such bliss. And if we have already found, we should be eagerly seeking to share with others the joy that is ours.

S. C. H.

PREPARING FOR A GREAT CONFERENCE.

The Methodists throughout the world are preparing to hold an Ecumenical Conference in Atlanta Ga., beginning October 16th. It is proposed in this conference to call together representatives of all branches of Methodism from all over the world. The editor of the National Christian Advocate, in speaking of the conference, says it should be of great interest not only to Methodists, but to all Christian people, and that the spiritual results of it should affect world-wide Methodism and influence universal Christianity. The program being prepared is to center upon the great subjects which stirred the mind and heart of John Wesley, founder of Methodism. The germ of the thinking and of the program is to be founded on personal Christian experience.

Methodism has been divided for convenience into sections rather than into sects, for the time, there being a Western section in Cincinnati and an Eastern section in London. The program provides for speakers from Europe, India, China and various parts of the East. The spiritual note is to be sounded throughout the Convention, the closing service of each morning session to be under the leadership of the great world-wide evangelist, Rev. Gipsy Smith. Methodism had its origin in spiritual fervor and grew out of a zeal and a passion for winning souls to Christ through evangelism. Methodism has ever struck and emphasized the evangelistic and the missionary note, having the objective of winning those close by and afar off to a personal knowledge of Christ. Wesley declared that the world was his parish, and that wherever a soul could be reached with the message of our Lord, there Methodism should go and an effort made to plant the kingdom of God. It is hoped that this Ecumenical Conference will measure up to all the desires and expectations of the Methodist host of the world, and that the spiritual life of all churches will be influenced by the spiritual fervor of the host of Methodism.

J. O. A.

A CALL FOR LEADERSHIP.

"Our hearts unstirred are tombs in which the God lies buried."—Seneca.

The moment I began to speak of leadership, someone will doubtless wish to remind me that we have already far too many aspiring "would-be" leaders and far too few who are willing to submerge themselves in the ranks as an humble follower. This may be true, but we must not minimize the importance of either. Both are essential. And at this time I would like for us to concentrate our attention on the problem of leadership in our denomination. My remarks may be grouped in three divisions: 1. Why we need leaders; 2. What the leader needs; 3. Where leaders are needed.

Why We Need Leaders.

1. We need Christian leadership because the forces of evil are organized. Some of the world's greatest examples of leadership have been the product of selfishness and greed, and if we are to successfully compete with those movements, which are a menace to our civilization, the forces of righteousness must be directed by efficient leaders.

Then too, we must remember that the leader has made the history of man. A dozen million men did not invent the wheel; it was one aboriginal genius who played with power and saw that the rolling log might transport his goods. When a group is confronted by an unknown danger, it is not the half courage of the crowd that adds up to bravery and fearless fighting spirit, it is the one man who responds to the challenge with courage and sanity who inspires the rest with a similar feeling. During a storm and threatening disaster it was not the combined skill and courage of the sailors which brought calm to the sea and assurance to the passengers, but of a matchless leader who stood in their midst and said, "Peace, be still."

As I look out and see the fields white unto the harvest, when I see so much to be done and so little done, when I see small insignificant churches which ought to be majestic towers of Christian influence, when I see church members with the mercury of their enthusiasm below zero, I long for the rise of the prophet. One who will be able to discern the needs of our people, one who will stand on the lofty pinnacle of intellectual efficiency and as an ambassador of Christ, put courage into the hearts of men.

What the Leader Needs.

2. There are certain essentials to leadership. There are certain virtues essential to the formation of virtue.

(1). The leader must find himself. It is significant to note that the Prodigal Son was not dead when he was described as being lost. He was even at that time earning his bread by the sweat of his brow. In what way was he lost? He was lost because he was out of place. It was only when he "came to himself" that the potential became acute. The leader must take an inventory of his own capacity. Human limitations demand that a person shall be a leader in one field and a follower in another. The first need of a leader is to determine the nature and direction of his own talent. Then he is in a position to become a leader.

(2). The leader usually finds himself through visions and dreams. I do not pretend to be a mystic, but I do believe in visions. I believe in visions because the great achievements of history have been a product of visions. The vision preceded the automobile and aeroplane. A vision led to the discovery of America. A vision led to the Divine Creation. "In the beginning was the word, the reason, the vision."

"We shall see what will become of this dreamer!" Indeed you shall! Castles in the air have not been wasted if they lead to real achievement. Walter Hines Paige once said "There are dreamers who dream and thinkers who think, but the dreamer who thinks will ultimately succeed."

In the hour of vision, see a mountain of truth and a Socrates climbing it, a mountain of beauty and a Michael Angelo climbing it, a mountain of goodness and Jesus of Nazareth climbing it, and in the strength of this vision, go out to lift some new horizon, chart some new heaven, discover some new star of truth, dig into the Scripture gems with a new hope, a new brilliance, a new majesty. See a vision of world empires of thought mastered, literary Kingdoms subdued, spiritual thrones occupied, and to these visions devote your talent, your life blood, the fire of your soul, the glory of your emotions, the dynamite of your character.

(3). Another essential to leadership is the ability to make up the mind quickly. Someone had said that the difference between a leader and a follower is one minute. The decision will not always be accurate. In fact, I once heard a college president say that a successful executive was one who could make up his mind quickly and be right fifty-one per cent of the time.

Did you ever know people who never seem to be able to make any decisions that stay made? They never make a purchase of clothing without regretting the selection afterwards. They cannot enjoy anything that is going on because they are too much occupied with themselves, wishing they were what they are not, or were not what they are. The person who is continually limping between two opinions will never be a successful leader.

(4). Determination is an important word in the vocabulary of leadership. The leader is destined to have many apparent failures. Determination will make him the master, rather than the servant of temporary failure. He must prefer to lose himself in the service of the Master rather than find himself in the ranks of the Devil.

5. Determination must be combined with humility. There is no necessary antithesis between the two. In Moses and Jesus we find a perfect combination of these two qualities. A paragraph by Theodore G. Soares is significant. "The leadership of youth may keep us humble. Once an unknown teacher taught a peasant boy to write the Hebrew characters. Little he knew that his pupil was to be the planning Amos to utter the great cry for justice. Some simple scribe taught Jesus in the Synagogue. That Nazareth lad was to speak to all the world and to all the ages. We middle-aged folk are doing our work, few of us anything notable, but who knows what a boy or girl we may lead may do in the great tomorrow! Not arrogance because we know more than they, but humility because they may so far surpass us."

Definite Fields in Which Leadership Is Needed.

3. And now I desire to be more specific in my remarks. There are certain definite fields in which there is a need of leadership. There are certain causes which need to be championed, there are certain tasks which need to be performed.

(1). We need some leaders in the field of scholarship. Now I am aware of the fact that scholars are held in contempt by some people. They are commonly regarded as a social misfit, a rare specimen of humanity who discovers some distant North East corner of a gnat's heel and harps on it the rest of his life. He has been described as one who learns more and more about less and less until he knows everything about nothing. Nevertheless, where there is no scholarship the ministry will ultimately perish. For no minister can be morally and intellectually honest without an open mind and a willingness to follow the spirit of truth. This is the foundation of all scholarships. The destiny of Elon College is bound up in no small way with the development of scholastic leadership in our own immediate constituency. Now I think we have a splendid faculty at Elon, but the main objection to it is that it is largely imported. The members of the faculty are almost unknown to our people. We need teachers at Elon who know and are known by our people, who are able to enlist the sympathy and support of our local people at large. Therefore I trust that some of our young men may set their faces steadfastly toward the goal of scholarship and thus play a great part in carrying on the work of our denomination.

(2). There is also another field, somewhat related and yet different, in which there is a need of leaders. We need some young people to begin wielding the pen for the glory of God. We need some young people to turn their attention toward the art of writing. The CHRISTIAN SUN has a splendid editorial staff today. No encomium which might be spoken of our Editor and his associates could be classed as flattery. And yet,

(Continued from page 9.)

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

THE SEATTLE CONVENTION.

On Friday night, July 26, 1931, a public meeting was held in the Civic Auditorium, and two great addresses were delivered to a great audience of three thousand. Rev. Dr. Carl S. Patton delivered a masterly address on "Christianity in Action." It was a portrayal of what Christianity has done, and is doing, for the uplift of humanity and the salvation of the world. There is nothing so inspiring as a great audience and a great address. Music was furnished by the Seattle Congregational Choral Union, and the great audience responded gratefully to their splendid renditions. This great auditorium is outside of the city limits and is one of the greatest in the United States. That such an auditorium should be filled with Christian men and women, at their own expense in these times, shows that church people have the cause of Christ at heart and the welfare of mankind uppermost in their minds and work.

The second address was delivered by Rev. S. Parks Cadman, on "The Mission of the Republic." Dr. Cadman is nationally and internationally known as an orator, and millions have heard him over Radio broadcasting stations. The Republic has a mission as the product and agent of Christianity, and through agencies of its own can accomplish some things that the Church cannot do alone. In fact Christianity works through many channels and in many ways to save the world from sin, ignorance, poverty, and crime. Dr. Cadman's address was illuminating and inspiring. It is worth much for the average person to come in contact with great audiences and great speakers, and, by such opportunities, to have the horizon of their views enlarged, and the obligation of their mission strengthened. Individual Christian character is essential in the church, but wider vision and greater purpose are necessary for saving lost nations as well as lost souls.

This great meeting was held in the Civic Auditorium and not in the great Plymouth Congregational Church, where the great Convention and Council were held; and that illustrates the fundamental in Christianity, that it should go outside of the Church to do part of its work. Even individual Christians must let their light shine and their influence touch others through obedience to the will of God.

No man lives to himself, and that is certainly true of the Christian man. The great meeting in the Civic Auditorium was a demonstration of Christian example for the attraction of the outside world to the Church. As street cars, hundreds of automobiles, and thousands of people left the great city and the great church to go to that great auditorium, the community felt the force of that great meeting. Religion is more than an experience; it is an example and a force to compel them to come in. The Church is organized Christianity operating through congregations, instruction, music, and prayer, as the basis of all effort and all hope. All is vain without God and His help.

W. W. STALEY.

"GATHERING HOME"

The word home is one of the sweetest words in the English Language. Going home or gathering home always sounds good to the human ear. It inspires the Christian and calls the wanderer home. All of these thrills and urges came to the members, ex-members, pastors, and ex-pastors of the Ingram Christian Church on July 23rd. The occasion had been well advertised by announcements from the pulpit, the press, and by personal letters.

The day arrived for the Home-Coming. Bright and early the people started gathering home. And well they did for the good people at Ingram know how to make an occasion like that enjoyable to all. First there were the preachers who are always around at a time like that. The pastor, Rev. M. T. Sorrell, was there presiding and in his own good way helping to make all feel at home. Dr. T. S. Wilson, pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Oak Level, and a friend to all the churches of the community was there and delivered the memorial address. When it was announced that Dr. Wilson was to be the speaker of that occasion we all knew that a masterpiece was in store for us. It was indeed a great address delivered by a great man. He has given forty years of his life in service to the community. Next came Rev. C. E. Newnan, who preached the morning sermon. It is useless to say that this was indeed a great message coming from a great man, for all who know the Newman's know that when either of the three preachers are to speak that they always bring a thought provoking and a spirit filled message. Brother Newman is a former pastor of the church and was loved by all. Then the day was added to by the presence of Dr. C. C. Ryan, from Richmond, and Rev. J. H. Dollar, from Reidsville. Both of these brothers have conducted revival meetings at this church and felt much at home. Brother Dollar lead the singing for the day and Dr. Ryan conducted the devotional services for both the morning and afternoon. Rev. Joseph E. McCauley, of Norfolk, a former pastor, was there and spoke in the afternoon service.

Dr. S. T. A. Kent, the beloved physician of the community and teacher of the Bible class, delivered the welcome address. From the time Dr. Kent got up and you got a look at his face all present could tell that there was a welcome. His words of welcome were inspiring. Mrs. C. V. Dunn gave the history of the church. Mrs. Dunn always does a thing well. She prepared the history of this church so well that we will try to give THE SUN readers the benefit of it later.

The church at Ingram was established forty years ago this year. It is the home church of the Carltons, Boyds, Dunns, Ingrams, Adams, and many more that time and space forbid me to mention. There are several of the charter members still living and were present for the day. These names can be seen when the history of the church appears in a later edition.

Now as for the social life of the day it was grand. In arranging the program, two hours were allowed for dinner. This gave time for eating and visiting with old friends. The tables were loaded with good things to eat. The only fault that could be found with the event was that it was too short. The joy of such associations was sweet and only reminded one of that glad day when the Home-Coming will be in that better land, where all God's children will be "Gathered Home."

JOSEPH E. McCAULEY.

WELCOME ADDRESS.

By MILLS E. GODWIN, JR.

Delivered Before Eastern Christian Virginia Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Association, at Oakland, July 21, 1931.

Mr. Chairman, delegates, ladies and gentlemen:

Today, I have the rare privilege of welcoming each and all of you to this convention on behalf of Oakland Sunday School and Church. I feel that a great honor has been thrust upon me as I extend to you the right hand of welcome. Never have our smiles been more sincere, nor our words more true than when I tell you the people of Oakland welcome each and all of you to this meeting.

This is a glorious occasion for Oakland. Only once during the last thirty-three years has this convention met with us. During these years we have been looking forward to having you people convene with us in the great Eastern Virginia Christian Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention. Now our dream has come true!

In 1853 this church was first established as a Methodist church. It continued this way until 1869 when the Christians took it over. During these years our church has been of unestimable value to the people of this community. Our Sunday School has had a powerful influence too. In 1920, which was our banner year in Sunday School work, our membership increased from 58 to 187.

There are many of you who have long known of our work. There are many of you who have been affiliated with our church and Sunday School sometime during your lives. To you, we say Oakland has had members and pastors of whom she is still proud. Though not a boasting group of people, Oakland likes to make public a few of its outstanding individualities. We are proud of our Sunday School superintendent who has served us so faithfully for the past fourteen years. We are proud of our preacher's family which now has three brothers actively engaged in service. There are others, too, of whom we are proud, but, most of all, we are proud of our pastor, who has endeared himself to everyone of us because he has so unselfishly served us during the past thirty-three years. Not only has he preached to us on Sunday, but he was a great figure in procuring for us this church plant. During the days when we were struggling to build and pay for this church, Dr. Johnson was always present to offer his suggestions, his time, and even his money. Not only has he served our church efficiently, but he has served our entire community, our school and our local organizations. He is never tiring in his efforts to help others, and, if he can render no other service, he is, at least, always ready to read a marriage ceremony for those who come from far and near.

The Eastern Virginia Christian Sunday School Convention is a powerful organization. We expect to realize untold profit from these meetings. Throughout history it has been proved that man cannot live alone. The richest person in the world is not the financier, but the person who can form ideas of his own and yet listen to the suggestions of others. We want to know what you are doing in order to make your Sunday Schools better, and we hope you, too, may profit by what you hear during these sessions. It is through an organization like this that we receive our challenge. The very fact that we know where we stand in comparison with other Sunday Schools stirs our sense of duty and our desire to be of more service to mankind.

Delegates and visitors, you have come from nearby and from a distance to represent your Sunday School and churches in this convention, we hope you will enjoy your visit and feel that it has been worth your while to attend these meetings.

Old friends, we want you to feel that we are always glad to welcome you back home. Now, since you are back we bid you join us in making these new friends feel welcome too. Friends; you are all welcome to Oakland! We invite you to attend these meetings to meet our people, and to enjoy your visit. Not only do we welcome you to this convention, but Oakland's doors are always open to her friends.

A NEW PENTECOST.

A Message to the Churches on Evangelism.

The secretaries of evangelism and appointed representatives of a majority of the communions making up the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, at their conference and retreat held at Northfield, adopted the following message as the result of their deliberations and send it with deep solicitude to the constituent churches:

In times of religious stress and crisis the voice of God is heard speaking in unmistakable terms to those who seek to know and do His will. We believe that such a time is now upon us and that His call must not be disregarded. His message to the souls of men transcends in importance all temporary questions of social or political concern. Religion stands in the relation of cause and effect to all social reform and progress. We therefore urge that the church put the first thing first. To His disciples Jesus said, in substance: "Power over all personal and social evil comes only through prayer and self-denial." No human strength is adequate for the world's need. Therefore He said, "Tarry ye in Jerusalem until ye be endued with power." Pentecost was the fulfillment of His promise and the history of the Church proved that His words were true.

At a time when the fires are burning low on the altars of many hearts, and some churches seem to have lost the yearning soul and a passionate devotion, a New Pentecost must fall upon the church or we are undone. Judgment must begin at the altars of God. The hearts of those who minister there in holy things must be cleansed and their love renewed and their lips touched with a live coal from off God's altar. We long to hear again the old prophetic cry, "Here am I! Lord, send me!" Questioning and disputing which eventuate in nothing and benumb the soul and chill devotion must be laid aside. Is thy heart as my heart? If it be, give me thy hand. The superlative task of the ministry is to win men and women to the personal experience of Jesus Christ, the Savior of men.

The membership of the Church of God must go out to proclaim the gospel which they have experienced and to show in their lives the fruit of the Spirit.

Christian education must assert itself in the home and Sunday School with the birth and growth of Christian experience. The Church grows by spiritual contagion. How can one maintain his own religious life if he does not win somebody to the same blessed experience with every passing month? There are no vital questions in religion which cannot be settled by experience. "If any man will do His will, he shall know of the doctrine." If anyone is not winning others to Christ, let him know that he faces the awful doom of those whom Jesus calls cumberers of the ground.

We are interested in all social questions, but we are fully persuaded that we shall never find real solutions of social problems until we have a far more spiritual conception of life. We must make a new appraisal of values and give ourselves with uncalculating devotion to those things which are supreme. Matters of eternal life and death are at issue. The sins which broke the Savior's heart and sent Him to the cross should also break ours. He that would save his life shall lose it, and he that would lose his life for Christ's sake shall save it unto Life Eternal.—Adopted at the recent annual conference held at East Northfield, Mass., under the auspices of the Federal Council's Commission on Evangelism.

NO CAUSE FOR DESPAIR.

A tall chimney had been completed; and the scaffolding was being removed. One man remained on the top to superintend the process. A rope should have been left for him to descend by. His wife was at home washing when her little boy burst in with, "Mother, Mother, they've forgotten the rope, and he's going to throw himself down!" She paused; her lips moved in the agony of prayer; and she rushed forth. A crowd were looking up to the poor man, who was moving around and around the narrow cornice, terrified and bewildered. He seemed as if at any moment he might fall, or throw himself down in despair. His wife below cried out, "Wait, John!" The man became calm. Take off thy stocking; unravel the worsted." And he did so. "Now tie the end to a bit of mortar and lower gently." Down came the thread and the bit of mortar, swinging backwards and forwards. Lower and lower it descended, eagerly watched by many eyes; it is now within reach, and was gently seized by one of the crowd. They fastened some twine to the thread. "Now pull up." The man got hold of the twine. The rope was now fastened on. "Pull away again." At length he seized the rope, and made it secure. There were a few moments of suspense, and then, amidst the shouts of the people, he threw himself into the arms of his wife, sobbing, "Thou'st save, Mary!"

The worsted thread was not despised; after it the twine, the rope, the rescue! Ah! my friend, thou mayest be sunk very low down in sin and woe; but there is a thread of divine love, that comes from the throne of heaven, and touches even thee. Seize that thread. It may be small; but it is golden. Improve what you have, however little, and more shall be given. That thin thread of love, if you will not neglect it, shall lift even you up to God and glory. "Who hath despised the day of small things?"—Newman Hall.

OXFORD BIBLES for EVERY NEED

"The Oxford Bible is the Bible par excellence of the world"

THE HOME BIBLE

A Family Bible in Handy Size

An extra large type Oxford Text Bible, containing also, a family register and 12 beautifully colored maps. Size 9 x 5 1/2 inches.

Specimen of Type

16 The LORD is King for ever and ever: the heathen are perished out

- Nos.
01600 Superior Cloth, round corners and red edges $2.75
01603 French Morocco, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, head-band, book-mark $4.75

The JUNIOR'S Bible

Self-Pronouncing

With 4,000 Questions and Answers, carefully selected "Aids to Bible Study," 16 beautifully colored and 15 black full-page illustrations, 6 colored maps and a presentation page. Children may readily pronounce correctly difficult Scripture names, as this Bible is self-pronouncing. Size 7 x 4 7/8 x 1 1/4 inches.

Type in Junior's Bible

2 Take the sum of all the of the children of Is'ra-el, years old and upward, thro

- Nos.
1315 French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark. Make some child happy with one of these fine Bibles $2.95

Child's ILLUSTRATED Bible

The beautifully colored illustrations in this new Bible are a delight to the children. It has clear, readable type and yet it measures only 5 1/4 x 3 3/8 inches.

Specimen of Type

a My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the LORD: my heart and my flesh crieth out for thee, living God.
10 Mercy and truth
gathered righteousness:
I kissed each other.
11 Truth shall spring

- Nos. 02112. French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, gold edges $2.50

Pocket REFERENCE Bible

Has over 50,000 center column references. Measures only 6 1/4 x 4 3/8 inches. (A splendid gift for a young lady.)

Specimen of Type

9 Behold, "O God our shield, and look upon the face of thine anointed."
10 For a day in thy courts is better
a Gen. 15, 1.
b Ps. 54, 1.
c 67, 1.
d or, all

- Nos. 07523x French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $3.25

Concordance Edition

Type and size as No. 07523x, but with a Concordance, subject index and dictionary of Scripture names. An excellent edition for students and Christian workers No. 03272x $5.00

OUR LEADER Oxford Concordance Bible

Self-Pronouncing

This beautiful Oxford India paper edition is indeed the ideal Bible for the student, preacher and evangelist. Each proper name and difficult word is divided into syllables and accented, and though printed with large clear type, the volume measures only 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 x 1 15/16 inches.

Specimen of Type

8 7 Jē-hōi-ā-chin was 8 years old when he began to

- Nos. 03671x. Fine Grain Morocco leather, overlapping cover, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, silk headbands and book-mark $9.50

A UNIQUE GIFT BIBLE

With Basket Weave Binding

The Antique brown calf leather binding has a basket-weave grain, and button clasp. Has overlapping cover, art silk lined, with red under gold edges. With references. Printed on Oxford India paper. Type as Pocket Reference Bible. $5.50

Nos. 03255x

- As No. 03255x, with concordance. No. 03276x $6.50

Oxford TEACHER'S Bibles

Have over 50,000 center column references, and 300 double-column pages of up-to-date helps, conveniently arranged in alphabetical order. Also 32 full-page illustrations, and an indexed atlas of the Bible with 15 beautifully colored maps of Bible lands.

Easy-to-Read-Edition

Size 7 1/4 x 5 x 1 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type

14 Like sheep they are laid in grave; death shall feed on th

- Nos. 04453. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges. A durable and hand-some Bible $4.35

Oxford India Paper Edition

Only one inch thick.

- 0773x. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark. A beautiful gift edition $7.00

RED LETTER Edition

Same size and type as style No. 04453, with same references and helps, but with all the words of Jesus Christ printed in red. White paper edition No. 05453. French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $5.00

The Oxford imprint in a Bible guarantees satisfaction

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Secretary.

A PRAYER.

Father, we thank Thee that in Jesus every need is supplied. Trusting, both soul and body are fed. Following, one's path is safe and sure. Serving, others are succored and sustained. Loving, the gates of God swing wide and beckoning. Thou who lovest all men, although the evil that is in the world besets and hinders, make us willing to bide and tarry, eager to do Thy will, grateful for a part in helping others to find the way of loving, trusting, following, serving. More and more, in Thy light may all see light. For Jesus' sake,

SMALL BANTUS COULD TUCK IN NECKTIES —IF THEY WORE 'EM.

To have helped somebody is as good as wearing a gold medal, said K. E. Masinga, native teacher in one of the American Zulu Mission day schools at Bangihizo, South Africa, to his eager young charges. So he instructed them to come to school every Monday morning prepared to report after prayers on all the good deeds they had done that past week. The reports ran something like this: "I helped an old lady by fetching water from a distant river where she is unable to go." "I chopped wood for a widow." I plowed for a poor person who has no boys." I gave my dress to a girl who is poorer than me."

SCRIPTURES HAVE APPEARED IN 919 LANGUAGES.

The Bible or some part of it has appeared in 919 languages and dialects according to a statement issued recently by the American Bible Society. This figure, in which no duplication of languages or dialects occur, represents the publications of the three major Bible Societies functioning throughout the world: the American Bible Society, the British and Foreign Bible Society, the National Bible Society of Scotland, as well as some missionary organizations and others.

The figures are as follows:

Complete Bibles - - 172 languages
New Testaments - - 179 languages
Portions - - - - - 472 languages
(Complete book of the Bible.)
Selections - - - - - 96 languages
(Less than one book of the Bible)

The latest book from the press is the Gospel of St. Mark in Atche, a dialect used by one of the tribes on the French Ivory Coast of West Africa. Of the more than 500 languages and dialects spoken in Africa only about 275 have been published, while a large percentage of the remaining have not yet been reduced to writing. India has the Scriptures printed in only 111 languages although there are 179 languages and hundreds of dialects spoken in this thickly populated land. That a dearth of Scriptures also obtains in other countries is evidenced by the fact that there are millions of Indians throughout South America who have no Scriptures in their various dialects. The New Testament appears in but three of the many Indian tongues of South America. Of the two New Testaments so far published for the Indians of Central America the latest to appear is in Cakchiquel, issued recently by the American Bible Society for a tribe in Guatemala.

While it is estimated that some part of the Scriptures appears on an average every six weeks, the translations already published must, from time to time, also undergo revision in order to attain a greater faithfulness to the original Hebrew and Greek, thereby laying an additional obligation on the Bible Societies.

MISSIONARY OFFERINGS.

FOR WEEK ENDING AUGUST 1, 1931.

Sunday Schools.

Previously acknowledged	$ 3,705.67
Hank's Chapel, Pittsboro, N. C.	2.87
Ebenezer, Cary, N. C.	4.00
Howard's Chapel, Wentworth, N. C.	1.00
Lebanon, Semora, N. C.	.75
Biscoe, N. C.	2.85
Palm St., Greensboro, N. C.	6.00
Rosemont, Norfolk, Va.	10.92
Wake Chapel, Fuquay Spring, N. C.	5.00
Newport News, Va.	9.00
Long's Chapel, Mebane, N. C.	1.87
Union (Surry), Dendron, Va.	2.00
Bethlehem, Suffolk, Va.	2.31
Seagrove, N. C.	1.10
Antioch (R), Bennett, N. C.	.53
Hebron, Nelson, Va.	1.31
Hebron, Nelson, Va.	.95
Mt. Auburn, Manson, N. C.	2.00
New Hope, Harrisonburg, Va.	5.69
Children Day Services, New Hope S. S. Harrisonburg, Va.	1.77
Franklin, Va.	7.62
Holland, Va.	10.00
Hines Chapel, McLeansville, N. C.	2.20
Union (Va.), Virgilina, Va.	3.00
Mt. Zion, Mebane, N. C.	1.25
Noon Day, Wedowee, Ala.	.70
Noon Day C. E. Society, Wedowee, Ala.	.85
Windsor, Va.	1.51

Total $ 3,794.72

Individual and Church Offerings.

Previously acknowledged	$ 4,346.93
Damascus, Sunbury, N. C.	3.25
Mt. Bethel, Summerfield, N. C.	7.00
Total	$ 4,357.18

Dollar-a-Month Club.

Previously acknowledged	$ 148.00
Mrs. M. A. and Miss Edith Walker, Burl- ington, N. C., (Burlington Chr. Ch.)	1.00
Mrs. B. W. Fields' Class, Reidsville Sunday School, Reidsville, N. C.	1.00
Total	$ 150.00

Specials.

Previously acknowledged	$ 4,300.36
Rosemont Class No. 3, Norfolk, Va.	5.00
Mt. Bethel Missionary Society, Summer- field, N. C.	4.75
Caraleigh Christian Vacation School, Raleigh, N. C.	1.00
Total	$ 4,311.11

Summary.

Previously acknowledged	$24,091.39
Sunday Schools, Regular	89.05
Individual and Church Offerings	10.25
Dollar-a-Month Club	2.00
Specials	10.75
Total	$24,203.44

J. O. ATKINSON,
Secretary.

It is a dangerous thing for a young man to start out in life without the thought of God.—
Gladstone.

MONTHLY MISSIONARY PROGRAM.

AUGUST, 1931.

By MRS. W. M. JAY, Editor.

WOMAN'S SOCIETY.

Theme.—"Religious Conditions in Porto Rico."

Worship Helps.

Suggested Hymns.—"Jesus Shall Reign"; "When Wilt Thou Save Thy People."

Scripture.—Rev. 21:1-7.

Prayer.—For Rev. Charles Mohler, Superintendent of Congregational Churches in Porto Rico, and Rev. D. P. Barrett, representing the Christian Church work. For the pastors of the churches; the workers and members of the churches; and the teachers and young people in Sunday Schools.

Conference Period.

One should act as leader, and the others will participate as indicated in the little book, "Yesterday and Today in Porto Rico." Find out all you can about their religion and take your findings to the meeting. They will be of interest and help to all.

The Catholic Church.—For over 400 years the Catholic Church held full sway in Porto Rico. From 1493 to 1898, it had no competition except for one small Episcopal church. No other religious body was permitted to work on the island. The effect of this closed shop policy may be judged by a statement made by Father Sherman, son of General Sherman and chaplain to the army of occupation in Porto Rico. To a Catholic paper he wrote, "Porto Rico is a Catholic country, but without any religion whatever. The clergy do not seem to have any firm hold on the native population, nor have they much sympathy with the problems of the people."

The Protestant Churches.—Following the acquisition of Porto Rico by the United States, the Protestant forces arrived. Many Porto Ricans seemed to feel that because the United States was predominantly Protestant, this religion should be adopted by them also. The missionary societies were most wise. Upon coming to the island they adopted a plan of co-operation to prevent overlapping among the denominations. The Presbyterians' work is in the west, the Congregationalists' in the east, the Baptists' and Methodists' in the center; the United Brethren and Christians work near the south coast, and the Disciples work on the north coast. This wise plan has greatly simplified the interpretation of the gospel message. Recently the young people formed a Congress of Evangelical young people of Porto Rico. They are coming to realize that they must work shoulder to shoulder with the older people in carrying the message of Jesus Christ to their people.

Congregational and Christian Churches.—In Porto Rico are twelve Congregational and seven Christian churches. Many of the ministers of these churches were educated at the Union Theological Seminary of Porto Rico, at Rio Piedras, which is not far from Santurce, and is located directly across from the University of Porto Rico. The students take their academic work largely in the University. This Seminary has already sent out some strong leaders in religious work, not only on the island, but to Cuba and South America, as well as to the United States. Almost all churches are in charge of native workers, and an acquaintance with these men makes one most optimistic about the future of the Evangelical Church in Porto Rico.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY.

Chapter X.—"The Healing Touch."

I.—Business Period.

1. Gloria Patri.
2. Invocation.
3. Business—Old, New, and Miscellaneous.

II.—Study Period.

In review, the leader recalls the outstanding points of interest in the last lesson. "Many Paths, One Goal."

In the approach to today's subject, "The Healing Touch," he may give the word picture given on pp. 145 to 147.

1. Leader's Introduction to Lesson.

2. A Beloved Physician: Dr. Pennell—a Boy Member. (pp. 137-152.)

3. A Wizard of India (p. 152)—"During his long years," etc., (158.) A member.

4. The leader may use the last two paragraphs to show that success comes to those who put Christ first and themselves under the direction of the "Great Physician." This as the transition from Study to Worship Program.

III.—Worship Program.

Theme.—"The Healing Touch."

1. Instrumental Prelude: "The Great Physician Now is Near."

2. Call to Worship.—"Lord be merciful unto me: heal my soul; for I have sinned against thee."—Psalm 147:3.

3. Hymn.—"The Great Physician Now is Near."

4. Scripture.—Luke 4:16-21, also Luke 9:1-7.

5. Prayer.—Thanksgiving for Christ the Great Healer. Pray that we may realize the tremendous price Christ paid for the privilege of ministering unto us. In Isaiah's words, "He was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed." Pray for grace to be worthy of such a Healer. Pray that our lives may be so sacrificing that the healing power may flow from the Great Fountain source through us to a sick world.

6. Offertory.—Music: "Saviour, Thy Dying Love." Pianist plays softly while offering is being taken.

7. Hymn.—"Saviour, Thy Dying Love." Second stanza.

8. Hymn.—"Give Me a Faithful Heart," sung softly with bowed heads.

9. Mizpah Benediction.

WILLING WORKERS OR JUNIORS.

Theme.—"The Beauty of God's Word."

This should be a picnic meeting; but a short program might be held after supper.

1. Song.—"Day Is Dying in the West."

2. Short sentence prayers.

3. Story.—"The Rain that Came up from the Ground," by John G. Paton.

4. Close by singing.—"I Would Be True"; "Jesus Calls Us"; "Follow the Gleam."

NEWS ITEM

The Willing Worker Missionary Society of Holy Neck Church, Nansemond County, Virginia, gave their annual public program, Sunday night, July 19th. It consisted of missionary recitations and music and the playlet, "America for Americans."

Regular meetings have been held through the year and the mission book "Treasure Hunt," has been studied.

The society has twenty-two members and expects to meet its goal.

MRS. N. G. NEWMAN, Superintendent,
MRS. J. T. HARRELL, Assistant.

A CALL FOR LEADERSHIP.

(Continued from page 5.)

it is by no means an attempt to play the role of a prophet or pronounce a message of doom, when I declare that the hands which have wielded the pen so effectively will some day lay it down never to take it up again. Some one must take their place, so we must be growing editorial timber. It takes patience to write, but it has its own reward. It stimulates thought, it teaches us not only what to say, but also how to say it. Preachers need to write more of their sermons in full! Then when you have a real message which people need, and you have succeeded in writing it out so people can understand it, send it in for publication so the circle of your hearers may be enlarged and multiplied. If our denomination would champion great causes, if it would build conviction in the masses of the people, it must resort to the printed page. It is only in this way that great issues and profound problems come to crystallize and make possible a solid line of advance. God gave us men dedicated to this high and holy purpose.

(3). Then we need some leaders in the task of expanding our ministry and our field of service. Someone has said that success without successors is failure. There rests upon the leader in any field a grave duty, which only the few fulfil, yet, its omission always involves disaster. The leader must train some one to take his place. Moses fulfilled his duty in the training of Joshua as his successor. Jesus fulfilled it in the training of His disciples.

These people must be trained to take their own initiative, so that they may inaugurate their own plans and work out their own programs. Few leaders are big enough for such a task. They doubt the ability of their own graduates and try to do everything by themselves. But Jesus joyfully committed initiative to His followers. He showed them the work to be done, but left the ways and means with them.

Dr. John B. Mott reminds us that the minister is under obligation to exercise this recruiting capacity. He is as much under obligation to raise up a ministry for the next generation as he is to raise up a church membership for the next generation.

Is it not strange that there is so little literature defining in terms of the present age and opportunity? What other subject of such transcendent importances has been so neglected?

(4). Our denomination also awaits the coming of men who are willing to make a sacrifice in order to increase our field of service. Some wide awake ministers should be on the lookout for fields in which a church should be planted. There are those who say that we have plenty of churches. But that is not true in every case. Many towns and communities are constantly expanding. If a church can get a foothold in some growing suburb, its progress is almost guaranteed. If one denomination does not accept this challenge, then another will. First there will be first served. Too often a minister settles down in a well established church and loses the pioneering spirit. This same minister might use some spare time and money doing mission work. This is an investment which would yield large returns, and I believe I am safe in saying that the best way to increase our ministry is to increase the demand for ministers. Frankly, Christian friends, after two years in the ministry, I must confess that I hardly have the courage to urge boys to come into the Christian denomination. It is sad, and yet it is true, that some of our worthy and efficient ministers are out of work and are probably destined to some other denomination or vocation. In my opinion it is the sacred obligation of the minister and leading laymen of our denomination to be ever on the watch for unchurched territory. The church must be aggressive, on the march. It must expand or expire. Therefore, the call for leaders in the field of church expansion.

(5). Finally, I would sound a call for leadership in the local church. I long for the rise of some people in the local church who have vision and initiative, who are willing to become security for the progress of their church. So many potential leaders live a useless life and die in obscurity because they wait for some one else to do the job. Some people of ability must be everlastingly teased and begged before they will do anything. But if some one must beg you to be a leader, then some one must be a leader in the begging. An opportunity for service is an invitation to serve and it is the only invitation a person should desire. The leader must be more concerned with needs and opportunities than with invitations. Jesus invited Himself home with Zaccheus. Livingston never received an invitation to come to Africa. Christ came into his own and his own received him not. Amos did not come up to the capitol to make his address under the auspices of the Rotary Club, and even now, there must be some Christian daring. The leader must go where the need is greatest. It may be necessary for him to champion unpopular causes. Wherever there is an opportunity for progress there is demand for leadership.

N. D. Hillis has so forcibly reminded us what a promise for the leader was that of Christ. "Give and it shall be given unto you! Give sparingly to nature and sparingly shall thou receive again. Give bountifully, and bounty shall be given back. Give God thy one talent and, investing it, he returns ten. Give the cup of cold water and thou shall have rivers of water of life. Share thy crust and thy cloak, and thou shalt have banquet and robe and house of many mansions."

COMBINATION OFFER.—To a new subscriber or for renewal, $2.25, either Gentleman's (Capitol) Pen or Ladies' Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. And to "Sun" subscribers, not in arrears, any Pen at one-fourth off. Address: THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1536 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us. Postage paid and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer. MEN'S PENS—Capitol, $2.00; Mercantile, $2.50; Cardinal, $3.00. LADIES' PENS, $2.00.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN

ADVENTURES IN YOUTH FELLOWSHIP

"Youth at Work in the Church."

JEWEL TRUITT, Editor, Waverly, Virginia.

"MIKE," OUR GREATEST SCHOOL TEACHER.

I watched two gangs of small boys, rehearsing in the street, scenes they had feasted their eyes on in the moving picture theatre the night previous. The two parties were charging each other with wooden, or cap pistols in their hands, yelling in raucous tones: "Bang! bang! bang! I got you; you're dead."

Fine-looking, lovable lads, they were, sons of well-to-do apartment-house dwellers near by in this respectable suburb, which ought to grow good citizens if any part of the city can. But the microphone (abbreviated in our newspapers to "Mike") had been making them acquainted with the underworld of professional bootlegging, high-jacking, rum-running, border dope-smuggling and gangsters "taking for a ride" their rivals, and machine-gunning them off the stage.

One of these days some broken-heart mother will be demanding: "Who killed laddy boy?" And shall we answer: "Mike taught the murderer. Mike our most potent teacher."

He is the most highly evaluated teacher. William Fox estimates that the change from silent pictures to speaking pictures cost him $10,000,000. He wrote that amount off his books.

John McCormack is reported to have contracted his voice to the speaking films for three years for $500,000. That's the salary "Mike" demands for teaching our children. He is mightier than the school and the home combined.

And not only in America, but in the world, is "Mike" the coming teacher. He has power, it is prophesied, to change the language of the world. It is predicted that in a few decades more "Mike" will make the English language the speech of the film-theatre constituency of the world.

The reason for this is the overwhelming preponderance of English-speaking films. It cannot be an agreeable prospect to the rest of the world; but here's the nub of the agreement—the countries speaking other tongues, that are sweet-sounding and precious to them, simply do not produce many moving pictures, silent or speaking, and therefore cannot provide much of the material for radio broadcasts, which are largely phonograph records, or at least not films or records that can compete in low production costs with those made in the English language. So, it is claimed, the case is hopeless, the die is cast. For ninety per cent of the films of the world are "made in America."

"Mike," our most powerful teacher, the world's teacher, whether or no, draws the largest salary of any teacher, because the cost of filming pictures has been enormously increased by the introduction of "Mike." Take this illustration from movie-studio gossip: In filming a recent picture the director was shocked and puzzled at the roaring that came from the microphone as the leading lady entered the room wearing full court train.

Careful study revealed the fact that the rustling of her skirts on the floor, had been so magnified as to spoil the scene. Or, again, an actor spoke the sentence: "I say; sit still." The result was a sound like that of a flock of hissing geese. The speech had to be re-written to eliminate the duplication of the letter "S."

It seems that only the mechanical genius of the English-speaking peoples is equal to perfecting the speaking moving picture that is destined to overrun the entire world—that is, indeed, doing it already, and that, the supremacy of the speaking picture will make "Mike" the school teacher of the world.

We see how it works at home, in the Americanization of the children of our aliens, and of their parents. The speaking moving picture and the radio have become decisive factors in assimilating this raw material.

The Portland, Oregon, school authorities say that their schools are being equipped with speaking moving pictures and radios, in order to hasten the Americanization of alien pupils in the receiving rooms of the schools.

In one school, Chinese and Japanese students recently purchased their own receiving sets that they might the more rapidly assimilate our language and the spirit of our life.

Is not this a startling revelation of the potent role that "Mike" is to play in the life of our country and the world? "Mike" is a new species of Frankenstein that we have created, so mighty that we tremble as we realize his far-reaching power.

Must we destroy him to prevent him from destroying us? Or can this magic super-potency in influencing and changing civilization, either for better or for worse, be so controlled and made amenable to the highest ideals of society—the Christian ideals—that ages later men will be glad that "Mike" ever came into being, instead of sorry?

It seems to me that the attitude of the church towards such a phenomenon must be, not that of aloof conjecture, apprehension and criticism, while leaving to others with standards inimical to the Kingdom, the control of this dominating force. Should not the attitude of the church be like that of the old explorers, that the standard of the cross was to be set up on whatsoever new shore their feet touched, and all claimed in the name of their Divine Lord?

Do not all inventions and epoch-making instrumentalities belong to God? Should we not be resourceful enough, forward-looking enough, brave and adventurous enough to convert "Mike" to the service and glory of God?—John F. Cowan in Methodist Protestant-Recorder.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

LESSON FOR AUGUST 16, 1931.

(Adapted from C. E. Guide.)

TOPIC: "What Nature Teaches about God."—Psalm 147: 1-20.

Program.

Prelude—"Sweet Evening Star,"—Wagner.

Call to Worship—"The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament sheweth his handiwork."

Response.—Words of the chorus of "Day is Dying in the West."

"Day is dying in the west
Heav'n is touching earth with rest,
Wait and worship while the night,
Sets her evening lamps alight
Through all the sky."

Hymn—"God of the Earth, the Sky, the Sea."

Introductory Talk.—

Discussion.—

Prayer Hymn—"For the Beauty of the Earth."

Benediction.—

"Lord of the Sunlight,
Lord of the Starlight,
Lord of the Seasons,
Teach me to know

How best to love thee,
How best to serve thee,
Mid summer's flowers
Or winter's snow.

Thoughts on the Topic.

Introductory.—God has given to the world three great revelations of himself: the Bible, Jesus, and nature. There are many who find in nature the most perfect and satisfying revelation of God in our modern age. Many of the great men of science are men of deep religious convictions. They find God in the beauty, majesty, and orderliness of nature.

Nature has a message for every person, from the smallest child to the greatest scholar. A little girl just learning to write scribbled a letter to her aunt at the beginning of spring. Her vocabulary was limited and the word "pretty" appeared in almost every sentence. At the end of the letter she said, "It looks as if the whole world is so pretty, pretty, pretty." It is a tragedy that our eyes are not all as sensitive to beauty in God's great out-of-doors as those of the little girl.

Nature speaks to us of the living God in terms of beauty, majesty, power, perfection, and orderliness. It reveals God's infinite wisdom, his patience, and his concern for the welfare of the objects of his creation.

Discovering God in Nature.—From the days of the Psalmist to the present time poets have described for us the eternal, world-wide urge in man that sends him forth in search of God. As if answering the question which he raises as to where God may be found, the poet has revealed to us in poetic language the discovery of God in nature.

The goodness and providence of God are manifested in the gift of the seasons. "He hath made everything beautiful in its time." Winter brings us the cleansing, exhilarating cold and the beautiful snow to refresh the earth and protect the sleeping seeds and bulbs. Spring comes in all her beauty—"flowers appear on the earth, and the time of the singing of birds is come." Glorious summer presents her gifts of flowers and fruits, the beauty of starry nights and fair days. Then comes the autumn with her rich harvest of fruit and grain.

"When I consider thy heavens." God is a great God as we see him revealed in the wonders of this world, but when our vision expands to include the universe, he becomes infinitely greater and more powerful. So astounding are the terms of astronomy, that it is almost impossible for the person without scientific training to comprehend them. The distance to the star clusters, even those visible to the naked eye, is beyond human imagination. So vast is the universe that it takes light 200,000 years to travel from these most distant stars to our own earth.

Yet this great God of whom we are speaking is also the God of little things. He sees the sparrow fall and he is mindful of even the hairs of our heads. Truly indeed

"... the Lord is a great God,
And a great King above all gods.
In his hand are the deep places of the earth;
The heights of the mountains are his also.
The sea is his, and he made it;
And his hands formed the dry land."

Daily Readings.

- Aug. 10. "God's Providence."—Matt. 6:25-34.
- Aug. 11. "God is a Worker."—John 5:17.
- Aug. 12. "God is All-powerful."—Psa. 135:1-6.
- Aug. 13. "God is Good."—Psa. 104:10-14.
- Aug. 14. "God, Creator."—Genesis 1:1-5.
- Aug. 15. "Nature the Revealer."—Rom. 1:20.

Sunday School Lesson

By REV. H. S. HARDCASTLE.

SOWING AND REAPING.

LESSON VII—AUGUST 16, 1931

GOLDEN TEXT: "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap."—Galatians 6: 7.

LESSON: Galatians 6: 1-10.

Restoring Others.

"Brethren even if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual, restore such a one in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted." The average man means to do right, and when he does wrong he usually feels worse about it than anyone else. He is not to be condemned, but to be helped. The key to this verse is to be found in the word "brethren." We are members of one family, brothers and sisters in Christ. We are to help each other. We are to do it in a spirit of meekness, not in a "holier-than-thou" attitude, for if we think for a minute we will readily see not only that we do things just as bad, but also that we would want others to help us in the spirit of meekness and mutual sympathy. The adoption of this principle of Paul's would solve so many problems and save so much trouble.

Bearing Burdens.

"Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfil the law of Christ." vs. 2. For every man shall bear his own burden." vs. 5. These verses are not contradictory, even though we did not have to take into consideration the difference in meaning in the two Greek words used. We can always help to bear each others burdens. This is the law and the spirit and the example of Christ. But in another sense we must also bear our share of our own burdens. As a matter of fact there are burdens that we must bear, both with and without the help of others. And as we bear our own burdens we will be the better able to help others to bear their burdens. Conversely as we help others to bear their burdens we will be the better able to bear our own burdens.

Proving Ourselves.

"If a man thinketh himself to be something when he is nothing, he deceiveth himself. But let every man prove his own work, and then shall he have rejoicing in himself alone, and not in another." It is very easy to think too highly of ourselves. And it is very easy to develop a "holier-than-thou" attitude when we judge ourselves by others. Paul suggests that we should prove our own work and be glad in any good thing that we have done, and in any goodness that we may have. But to compare it with another's work, vaunting yourself over him, is not profitable for such comparisons decrease rather than increase one's worth.

Sowing-Reaping.

"Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." It is both a natural and spiritual law. The man who sows to the flesh, feeding his physical desires and pampering his physical appetites will reap eventually what he has sown. The finer values of life and the things of the spirit will be blighted and killed and he will reap only sorrow and ruin. But he who gives diligent attention to the virtues of life and the things of the spiritual life will reap peace and power and happiness and life everlasting. Let every man take heed how he sows.

Preserving.

"And let us not be weary in well doing." The main difference between the successful and the unsuccessful men in life is to be found in their varying ability to "keep on keeping on." It is one of the common weaknesses of human life to become discouraged and to stop when it does not see actual and immediate and visible results. But he who preserves in any good thing will eventually reap. Therefore be steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord.

Doing Good.

"As we have therefore opportunity let us do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith." It is reported in one of the short biographies of Jesus which Peter gives in his sermon in the house of Cornelius (Acts 10) that "Jesus of Nazareth . . . went about doing good." We cannot be like the Master in some ways, but we can be like Him in this respect—we can go about doing good.

WHAT PROHIBITION STOPPED.

No one would accuse the Chicago Tribune of being fanatical on the liquor question. Nevertheless, an editorial in that paper under date of July 11, 1917, paints a gripping picture of the evil the American people attacked in passing the prohibition amendment:

"If the secret records of the brewing and distilling industry were ever brought to light, they would tell a story of social and political corruption unequalled in the annals of our history.

"If the veritable narrative of the American saloon were ever written, it would make the decadence of Rome look like an age of pristine beauty in comparison. * * * If these men have not made a practice of committing murder and arson, it is because these crimes did not seem immediately profitable.

"The liquor business has been the faithful ally of every vicious element in American life. It has protected criminals, it has fostered the social evil and it has bribed politicians, juries and legislatures."—Methodist Protestant-Recorder.

"Why try to tell us that workingmen spend their wages, before their families can get the money for food and that men beat their wives and children as in the old days? It simply is not the case."—Evangeline Booth.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the number and price.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, and 1 3/4 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3/8 x 8 Inches, and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.00

Minion Type, Pocket Size, 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold. $1.60

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.50

2173—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges. $6.00

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 16-16 of an Inch Thick.

133X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.00

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 5 3/8 Inches, and 1 inch thick, with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 5 3/8 Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.

65—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps. $2.50

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3/8 x 8 1/2 Inches and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With Concise Bible Dictionary, combined Concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.75

RED-LETTER EDITION.

With All the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands; title stamped on side and back in pure gold. $3.25

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations; special book for Sunday Schools. 95c

Any of the above Bibles sent postpaid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street,

Richmond, Virginia

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY H. E. ROUNTREE
One of our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"O Lord, I beseech thee, let now thine ear be attentive to the prayer of thy servant, and to the prayer of thy servants, who desire to fear thy name, and prosper, I pray thee, thy servant this day."

By DR. AMOS R. WELLS.

MONDAY.

HIS LAMENESS.

"Thou writest bitter things against me, and makest me to inherit the iniquities of my youth."
—Read Job 13: 20-28.

Professor George Herbert Palmer, Harvard's revered philosopher, writes for the March Atlantis a most winsomely wise article telling how he has reached the age of eighty-seven in perfect health. He gives six rules, beginning with abstinence from stimulants of all kinds, and closing with religion—belief in a friendly God.

Though he is in perfect health, he has to add "only lame through my own folly. When, thirty years ago, I sprained my leg, the doctor warned me to keep quiet for a considerable time. As after some weeks I felt little pain, I began to move about the room. Healing stopped and has never been resumed. Since then I have had only one leg to walk with."

Thirty years of limping seems a large price to pay for a little impatience; but the Creator, for our good, lays a heavy charge on all carelessness. And especially long-continued are the results of sin. The patriarch Job felt that Jehovah had made him inherit the iniquities of his youth, and in that he was only one of all mankind. A moment's sin may leave an ineffaceable scar on the soul.

Prayer.—We would not have it otherwise, our loving Father. Make Thy warnings very plain, for us and for others. We do not enjoy them, but they keep us from further harm. We do not enjoy them, but we enjoy Thy love. Amen.

TUESDAY.

ABSALOM.

"O my son Absalom, my son, my son Absalom!"
—Read II Samuel 18:28-33.

The echoes of David's bitter cry over his dead and wayward son have come sadly down the centuries, and will move men's souls to the end of time. But there are other stories as sad, or even sadder, many of them related every week in our newspapers.

One, which shocked the entire nation a few days ago, told of a young fellow, a former college student, who was sent to a State prison for larceny. His father, an honored judge and once a State senator, brooded over the disgrace and at last killed himself. The harrowing tale of the widow's unutterable grief, and the wretched boy's collapse when he got the news in prison, set thousands to sobbing in deep sympathy.

Oh, the endlessness of sin! How it spreads! How it eats into lives! How impossible it is for the sinner to keep his misery to himself! How blessed it would be if all of us would think of these things before we sinned!

Prayer.—And if earthly fathers thus grieve over their erring children, how must it be with Thee, our heavenly Father! How is Thy pureness shocked with our iniquity, Thy wisdom aghast at our folly, Thy presence horrified by the knowledge of the long, long woe to come! Grant that we may never outrage such greatness of love.

Help us ever to live as Thy obedient children. In the name of Thy well-beloved Son we pray. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

CLOTHES.

"Branding instead of beauty." Read Isaiah 3: 16-24.

From the Vatican has gone out the most determined and the most thorough blast against indecent dress that has yet resounded through the Roman Catholic world. If outspoken and massive condemnation can effect any result, surely after this all Catholic women will dress modestly, and it is to be hoped that all Protestant women will follow their good example.

Of course, this is not to say that there are not millions of modestly attired women and girls in this country, and also, of course, it is not to oppose any dress reform that makes for the freedom and health of women. It is only to say that recent fashions, in their extreme form, have been both ugly and indecent, harmful to the morals of the wearers and of all that gaze upon them. Isaiah's burning description is not too violent a lash.

Every one, whether man or woman, should make clothes a matter of conscience as well as of good taste. Clothing is one very effective mode of expressing one's self, and so of influencing others. Beauty does not mean costliness, and certainly real beauty never calls for Isaiah's "branding." A lovely soul, modest and fine, manly and womanly, will so garb itself that beholders will think of the soul's beauty, and praise heaven for it.

Prayer.—We rejoice, O Creator, in the loveliness with which Thou hast filled Thy world, and we pray to be in tune with it all. May Thy flowers teach us their sweetness and Thy trees their sturdy strength. May all that see us be glad in us. Amen.

THURSDAY.

JUDGMENT.

"According to thy ways, and according to thy doings, shall they judge thee, saith the Lord, Jehovah." Read Ezekiel 24: 6-14.

Men do not want to be judged according to their deeds, but according to their designs. "I did not mean to," says the murderer. "It was a brain storm," says the adulterer. "I meant to put it back," says the embezzler. Over against these explanations sits the Law and looks at the deed, the bare and quivering deed.

Thus also God, our Judge. In a frenzy of rage, we lash out against a taunting man, and he falls dead. Is he less dead because we meant only to teach him a good lesson? Not a particle. God says, "According to thy doings shall they judge thee."

Does this mean that our human law and the divine law make no allowances for accidents? Of course not; they make all allowances. But carelessness is not an accident; it also is a deed. Passion is no accident, but an act. We cannot escape condemnation for our thoughts and feelings; their substance is imperishable, equally with our actions.

Prayer.—And so, our Lord God, we pray Thee to reign within us as well as outside us. Be to our inner consciousness all that Thou demonstrably art in the outer world, and so alone shall we be safe and happy. Amen.

FRIDAY.

PRISONS FOR BOYS.

"All these things have I observed from my youth." Read Mark 10: 17-22.

The rich young ruler had been a pure-minded, high-souled boy. Young as he was, though, he could fall and had fallen into one of the most perilous snares of maturity.

Governor Green of Michigan said the other day that they are compelled to keep on building prisons for very young fellows, youths of seventeen to twenty years. They are "young men who have never learned to work and who refused to work; who grab a pistol and take the money from those who do work." He said that the hardest problem he had to face is that of sitting before a sobbing mother, who knows that by the stroke of a pen, he can give her back her boy from prison.

The problem cannot be solved at the governor's end in the State house. It is to be solved at the home end, by wise fathers and mothers, who make it their chief business to rear their children in the fear and love of God. When we have everywhere the right kind of homes for boys, we shall need nowhere these dreadful prisons for boys.

Prayer.—Lead us, Father in Heaven, so that we may lead aright Thy boys and girls on earth. Make us wise. Make us loving. Make us strong. Amen.

SATURDAY.

TYING UP TEARS.

"Weeping may tarry for the night, but joy cometh in the morning." Read Psalm 30:1-12.

This is a striking figure of the psalmist, that Weeping is only an overnight guest, replaced in the morning by the bright new incomer, Joy. That may be the case with all of us. We cannot turn Weeping away, we may confidently expect the arrival of her lovely and sunshiny successor.

The newspapers have been telling about a girl in New England who, for nearly a week, was afflicted with incessant sobbing. There was no reason for it, she said, but she could not help it. Much of our sorrow has no deeper cause than that girl's sobbing. We start to grieving, we know not why, and having started, we keep right on. Sorrow easily becomes a habit. Misery runs away with us. We have given ourselves to grief.

Prayer.—Now let us give ourselves to Thee, O Thou living and eternal Joy! Now let us know that no evil can befall those that place their trust in Thee. Amen.

SUNDAY.

TAKING POISON.

"Surely He hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows."—Read Isaiah 53:1-6.

The most striking of recent news items comes from Oklahoma. It is how a mother gave her baby poison in the belief that it was medicine. The young father could not get a doctor, and in order to learn what antidote to use, he himself took a dose of the same poison. When he felt the poison burning his stomach, he judged that soda water would counteract it, and took some himself with good results. So he gave soda water to the baby, and when the child could be taken to the hospital, it was found that he had done the right thing.

It would be hard to find a finer illustration, on our finite human scale, of the infinite work that Christ did for the saving of humanity from sin. He became sin for us. He bore our griefs and carried our sorrows, that He might put Himself in touch with our affliction.

That young father in Oklahoma was ready for any risk in order to save his child. Our Saviour counted no loss too heavy, no pain too great, no shame and humiliation too severe, if only He might redeem us from our woe and save us to Himself. "Like as a father pitieth his children, so Jehovah pitieth them that fear him."

Prayer.—Dear Lord, what didst Thou not bear for us? What measure of love hast Thou not expended for us? And how can we ever thank Thee for all Thy benefits? Amen.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN'S PULPIT

REV. JOSEPH W. FIX, Preacher.

PAUL'S PARADOX.

BY REV. JOSEPH W. FIX, B. D.

" . . . That I should not be exalted overmuch, there was given me a thorn in the flesh . . . for when I am weak, then am I strong."

TEXT: II. Corinthians 12: 7-10.

There are many interesting paradoxes in the Bible. Upon the outset of this message, let us hear some of them. "Gain through loss (Phil. 3: 7.) "The Limitations of the Omnipotence." (Heb. 6: 13.) "We rest under a yoke." Matt. 11: 28-30.) "Seeing the Unseen Things." (II. Cor. 4: 18.) "Becoming exalted by becoming humble." (Matt. 23: 12.) "We live by dying." (John 12: 24.) And in our lesson today, we discover a man who becomes strong by becoming weak.

The epistles of Paul are very interesting. Most of them are given to church policy, Christian doctrines, clearing up misunderstandings, refuting errors, and undermining old prejudices. In a portion of Paul's letter to the Cornish church, he seems to pour out his soul in a way; not hitherto revealed. We see Paul the man, the human, the sufferer. This section of his work appears to be the most personal, passionate and intense message ever penned by this great missionary of the Gentile world.

Paul was facing hardship and was nearing the place wherein he would become the victim of defeat or victory. He is discouraged over the condition of his churches. He feels that much of his effort has been in vain. The Judiasters have come back, and have sought to persecute the churches again and thus undermine all of his strivings.

About the easiest way out of any difficult situation is to give up, but it is the most unwise. Paul took an account of himself and declared that he had been given a thorn in the flesh to bear and it seemed more than he could endure. Let us now listen to him as he describes the perils and victory of the occasion.

1. Paul's Personal Testimony is not one of great appeal to most of us for he declares that in the midst of his pain and hardship that there was given him a thorn in the flesh lest he should be exalted above measure. Now much has been written about this thorn in the flesh. No one knows the nature of it for Paul does not tell us. Suffice it to say that it was his cross to bear, his personal problem, his handicap. Whether it was physical or not we do not know, but even, if it were, it did not keep him from going forward. Often a physical thorn in the flesh is God's means for bringing men and women to realize their dependency upon him. Milton was blind, Bethoven was deaf, Helen Keller was blind, deaf and dumb. Michael Angelo had a broken nose. Pope was so crooked by disease that he was called a question mark. Alfred the Great was afflicted in such a manner that he seldom knew an hour of ease. We could name scores of other men and women who were afflicted with sore diseases, or thorns in the flesh, if space permitted. The point is that it is marvelous how many men and women who have achieved great things have been tortured with some physical infirmity. Bodily affliction is most often a blessing in disguise. Often the brightest characters and greatest successes are those who suffered. Paul testifies that he was given a thorn yet what a career he achieved in spite of that apparent draw-back. My friends, if you have been given a thorn in the flesh, you will gain nothing by complaining and whimpering about it. To surrender and give up because of your so called thorn in the flesh would be a very ignoble thing to do. Instead, let us do as did Paul, who declares in the second place that he took it to the Lord in prayer.

2. What Paul did about the Thorn in His Flesh. Paul writes in the 8th verse that he besought the Lord thrice about the thorn that seemed to buffet him. We see from this act of prayer that Paul practiced the words, "Pray without ceasing." He prayed not only once, or twice but three times. When one is injured he goes to a surgeon, when he has trouble with his eyes, he goes to a specialist, when one desires to master the art of music, he seeks a great master. Paul sought the help of the Lord. He went to One who said, "Cast your burdens on the Lord," and "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden." It does not good to worry about the hardships and sufferings of life. Simply let us take them to the Lord in prayer, and realize with one who declared:

"What a friend we have in Jesus,
All our sins and griefs to bear!
What a privilege to carry
Everything to God in prayer.
O what peace we often forfeit,
O what needless pain we bear,
All because we do not carry
Everything to God in prayer."

All of us desire to get rid of the thorns that pierce us. The only wise action to take is through the medium of prayer. Jesus wore a crown of thorns for the world. In his suffering and humiliation he prayed that God's will may be accomplished. David submitted his trials to the Lord declaring, "All the days of my appointed time will I wait till my change comes." Thorns are often given us to bring us to our knees in prayer.

3. Paul's Perfection. And the Lord answered him saying, "My grace is sufficient for thee, my strength is made perfect in weakness."

There is something about these words that lead us to believe in the goodness of the Lord. We see human and divine meet here. We see what happens to us today, and find it more comforting than if God removes the thorn, as Paul prayed He would. So in response to our prayers, often the thorn remains. If we knew the mind of God, we would have it as He rules, and never seek to change His mind.

Though God does not always remove the thorn, He helps us to bear whatever pain it brings. When we cry out, it is to Him we awlays cry. We say, "Lord, remove this thorn," but He replies, "My grace is sufficient for thee." God is the same today as ever. Cast thy burden upon Him, and He will remove thy burden—He may, but He may not. He says, "Cast thy burden on the Lord, and He shall sustain thee."

In conclusion, let us be reminded of the great work that can be accomplished by such men as Luther Burbank, in transforming the thorny cactus of the desert lands into green, nourishing vegetation for the cattle of the fields. Let us think of how he took the wild berry and, after grafting and experimenting, produced a delicious fruit; and in like manner, the walnut, the apple, the rose. All of these moved in obedience to the voice of this plant wizard. If man can take the thorny pear, the thorny cactus and the crab apple, and, with the help of God, evolve them into valuable foods, how much more can God take the lives of men, even though they be filled with the thorns of sin, and make them to be beautiful and useful in His service. Paul declared, "When I am weak, then am I strong." While the thorn was in his flesh, he was drawn closer to God.

So may we say in times of weakness:

"Have thine own way Lord, have thine own way;
Thou art the potter, I am the clay.
Mould me and make me after thy will,
While I am waiting, yielding and still.

"Have thine own way Lord, have thine own way;
Wounded and weary, help me I pray.
Power, all power, surely is thine.
Touch me and heal me, Saviour Divine.

"Have thine own way Lord, have thine own way;
Hold over my being, absolute sway.
Fill with thy spirit, 'till all shall see,
Christ only living, always in me."

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10. 2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10. 2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim. 1.60

SILVER-PLATED.

The Silver-plated Ware is of the very highest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses.$22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 85. 11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plated; fits Tray No. 85. . . 16.00
(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling). $22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90. . 16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90. 14.00

Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim. $ 9.00
Bread Plate No. 4—Broad rim. 9.00
Filler—Silver lined 6.00

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, - - Richmond, Virginia

Christian Orphanage

Dear friends:

It is still a busy time at the Christian Orphanage. Our friends are so good to us it keeps us busy. Our good friends Mr. Bruton and Mr. Steed, of Candor, N. C., which is in the peach orchard belt, wired us last week to bring trucks and get peaches to can. We took two trucks and got 100 bushels of extra fine peaches. We drafted into service all the girls large enough to peel a peach and all the boys to handle the peaches, and out of the two truck loads we put up 450 gallons. We want to get two more loads this week. There is a heavy crop in the "Sand Hills" this year and of a fine quality.

The weather has been dry and hot for ten days and our silage corn was suffering from the drought, but last Friday night we had a nice shower which revived everything and then on Saturday afternoon we had a splendid rain, which saved the day for our crops. The Lord is good to us—we are grateful.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR AUGUST 6, 1931.

Brought forward $9,518.91

Sunday School Monthly Offerings.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference:

Elon College $ 6.25

Greensboro, Palm St. 10.35

Greensboro, Palm St. 10.35

Kallam Grove77

Eastern North Carolina Conference:

Wake Chapel $ 5.94

Morrisville 2.00

Henderson 3.78

19.37

Western North Carolina Conference:

Zion 1.42

11.72

Eastern Virginia Conference:

Liberty Spring S. S. $ 5.00

Bertie Johnson Class 1.00

Ladies Bible Class 1.00

Senior Boys Class 1.00

$ 8.00

Holland 10.00

Bethlehem 5.00

First Richmond 5.00

Union Surry 3.00

Rosemont 10.040

41.00

Valley Virginia Central Conference:

Mt. Lebanon $ 1.82

New Hope 5.10

6.92

Alabama Conference:

New Hope 1.08

Special Offerings.

Mrs. Maynor, support of Rebecca... $10.00

Mrs. Maynor, special item..... 1.00

Sale of pigs..... 14.00

C. A. Penn, support of Miller children 50.00

Interest 12.56

87.56

Total for the week..... $ 169.07

Grand Total $9,687.98

The Capone case shows that the United States can call upon several resources not available to gangsters. For pitiful sums of money, plus the opportunity to serve, it can enlist intelligence, honesty, and courageous devotion.

HOPEWELL, VA.

Mrs. W. A. Warner sends in the following item from the Petersburg, Virginia, paper of July 28: "Rev. John C. Barrett resigned the pastorate of Hopewell Christian Church last night, and his resignation was accepted by the church with regrets. Rev. Mr. Barrett has been here only a few months but much has been accomplished toward shaping the business and policies of the church in that time for greater service. To his credit the duplex envelope system and every-member canvass has been installed with a financial secretary elected to carry out the plan. A financial committee has been appointed to complete the financial program of the system.

"Rev. Barrett stated in the business meeting last night that he reluctantly resigned for he regretted exceedingly to leave a people that he had learned to love so well, but owing to the financial strain that is upon the church at the present time, so many of the members out of work, that he considered it to the best interest of the cause for him to resign."

"The winning personality of Rev. Barrett has won him a place in many hearts which will remain even though he will no longer be with us in person. Their prayers and best wishes will follow him and his family into the field of labor which the Lord has for him to do.

"The Rev. T. N. Lowe, former pastor of the Elm Avenue Christian Church, Portsmouth, Va., was elected to succeed Rev. Barrett. He will take up his duties early in August. May the blessing of God rest on pastor and people."

Work is whatever you must do. Play is what you like to do. So why not like your work?—Van Amburgh.

Eilers Sunday School Maps.

On a Revolving Adjustable Steel Stand

The first 5 maps
are in Set No. 1,
with stand,
Price $15.00

Set No. 2
8 Maps,
Price $20.00

Fine large Maps, in 6 Colors 38x57, on linen finished Cloth. Mounted on a folding steel stand, which can be regulated, so that Maps may be seen to the best advantage. This set contains data for thorough Bible Study. Its large print and cheerful colors makes this set very instructive and attractive. Contains the five thoroughly up to date Maps necessary for the study of Bible History. New Testament Palestine, — Old Testament Palestine, — Roman empire and Bible Lands, showing Pauls Travels by Colored lines. — Lands of the Old Testament, from the Great Sea, to the Persian Gulf.—The Exodus, Egypt, showing by Colored lines the wanderings of the Israelites.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN,
1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia.

ALL
SELF-
PRONOUNCING

Holman Testaments

COMMAND
ATTENTION
AND APPROVAL

Holman Vest-Pocket Testament

Size, 2½x4½ inches

Specimen of Type.
AND the third day there
was a marriage in
Cana of Galilee; and
the mother of Jesus was

The VEST POCKET is, beyond question, the most popular Testament published.

2104. Dark Blue Silk Finished Cloth, with edges colored to match gold titles. .50
2105K. Morocco Grained Binding, flexible limp, gold edges and titles. .60
2114. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges. .85

VEST POCKET TESTAMENT AND PSALMS
2103KP. Morocco Grained Binding, limp, gold titles, round corners, gold edges. .70
2114P. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges. .90
2115P. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges. 1.10

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT
With all the words of our Lord and Saviour printed in red.
131L. French Morocco Leather, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, rounded corners, gold edges. .90
151RLP. French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, gold title on red panel, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 1.35

Holman Jewel Testament

INDIA PAPER ONLY—Size 2½x4½ inches x¾ inch
The JEWEL is the latest and most attractive Pocket Testament made.

The TYPE is black, bold and larger than that in the famous Vest Pocket edition, and the book itself is smaller.

It is printed exclusively on the famous Holman India paper, noted for its unique quality and unusual tensile strength.

One advantage of this India paper is that the leaves do not cling together.

The size, 2½x4½ inches, is so small that the book practically fits the palm of the hand.

Specimen of Type

ST. MATTHEW 2 The three wise men

carrying away into Egypt.
Y-lon are fourteen generations.
and from the carrying away into Babyl-on into Christ are fourteen

5003X. Morocco Grained Binding, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges. $1.00

5012PX. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges. 1.50

5036PX. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather hinges to edge silk sewed, red under gold edges, with Psalms 2.60

Holman GEM Testament

POCKET
SIZE
3½x4½
inches

Specimen of Gem Black Faced Type

CHAPTER 23.

THEN spake Jesus to the multitude, and to his disciples,

The GEM TESTAMENT has been steadily growing in popular favor ever since its first appearance.

In size, 3½x4½ inches, it is not much larger than the Vest Pocket. It is also the only Testament of its size with large bold type and pronouncing text.

The edition on India paper is ideal, and we know of no better gift at the price than one in the finer bindings.

4102P. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red burnished edges, with Psalms included. $.90

4113. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges. 1.35

4115P. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 1.90

RED LETTER GEM TESTAMENT

4113RL. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges. 1.50

INDIA PAPER GEM TESTAMENT

4136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather linings to edge, red under gold edges, with Psalms. 3.00

4136XPRL. Red Letter Edition with Psalms, same binding as 4136XP, but with the Sayings of Christ Printed in Red. 3.25

Old Folks Testament

Extra Large Print

Pica, 16mo. Size, 5½x7¼x¾ inches

Old folks or those with poor sight will appreciate the advantage of this Testament. The type is a delight to the eye with its wide spacing between the lines.

It is the most readable edition of all large print Testaments.

Specimen of Type.
THE book
of Jesus

PSALMS INCLUDED

2902P. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red edges, with Book of Psalms included. $1.50

THIN BIBLE PAPER EDITIONS

Same Large Print as Above

2913P. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 2.95

RED LETTER EDITION

Same as above, with the Sayings of Christ in Red.

3913PRL. French Morocco Leather, flexible covers, gold side title on red panel, rounded corners, red under gold edges, and with Book of Psalms included. 3.10

All styles sent postpaid at above prices

RELIGIOUS BOOKS

Reviewed by

W. A. HARPER, BOOK EDITOR.

(Any book reviewed in this Department may be had of The Christian Sun at the publisher's price.)

WORD PICTURES IN THE NEW TESTAMENT, VOL. IV, By Archibald Thomas Robertson, D. D., LL.D., Litt.D. Richard R. Smith, Inc.; $3.50; pp. 634.

The fourth volume of this series concerns itself with "The Epistles of Paul"; and it is a fitting companion to those who have preceded it. Dr. Robertson is Professor of New Testament Interpretation in the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary of Louisville, Kentucky, and a Greek scholar of ability. No one who wishes to really study the Pauline Epistles should forego the pleasure which this book is bound to give them, for in the words of "The Expositor," it is "an illuminating work, putting as far as may be the exact shade of meaning in the words of the New Testament, and throwing sidelights on the text from custom, habits and contemporary history." Especially valuable, also, to the Sunday School teacher, will be found this entire series of "Word Pictures in the New Testament." A valuable addition to any theological library. J. T. K.

HEATHEN RAGE. By Gerald Stanley Lee. Richard R. Smith, Inc.; $2.50; pp. 342.

There is something new under the sun, or certainly there is a new way of expressing it. "How is it people can seriously pick themselves out to be professors, physicians, lawyers, artists and even ministers in a day like this and a civilization like ours? What is our civilization doing and going to do with them, and what are they going to do with us? These are two of the questions that Mr. Lee asks—two that he leaves for you to answer after reading this most interesting volume. If you are over orthodox you will not agree with him in all he says, nevertheless, you will derive some good from the reading. As an example, in the chapter, "The Revolt of the Parsons," we find this: "One man in the ministry today in every city, who will be a pulpit Henry Ford, will have as steady, as unquenchable, as incredible a faith in what a minister can do, as Henry Ford has had in what a business man can do, would lift up the pulpit in this land to a vision of itself, to a dramatization of itself before our young people which would send the most gifted young men we have . . . flocking into our Theological Seminaries." Again, "The genius may be defined as the man who insists on being more normal than other people dare to be. His not being afraid to let the let-go in him go—his being eager to run the risk of struggle—to face the challenge of defeat, is what makes a genius a genius." Just released from the press, Heathens Rage, is well worth reading, and then re-reading again. J. T. K.

To Thine eternal arms, O God,
Take us, Thine erring children, in;
From dangerous paths too boldly trod,
From wandering thoughts and dreams of sin.

Those arms were round our childhood's ways,
A guard through helpless years to be;
O leave not our maturer days,
We still are helpless without Thee!

We trusted hope and pride and strength;
Our strength proved false, our pride was vain,
Our dreams have faded all at length,
We come to Thee, O Lord, again!

A guide to trembling steps yet be!
Give us of Thine eternal power!
So shall our paths all lead to Thee,
And life still smile, like childhood's hour.

The 1930 census found 63,489 blind persons in the United States, or 517 per million population. This was an increase of 10,922 over the 1920 blind census. The figures also listed 57,084 persons as deaf mutes, the ratio being 465 per million. This was an increase of 12,199 over 1920. There were 1,942 blind deaf mutes in 1930. New Mexico showed the highest ratio of blind, while Wyoming showed the lowest. Kansas had proportionately more deaf mutes and the District of Columbia the lowest ratio. New Mexico's blind totaled 607, or 1,434 per million. Wyoming, with 53 blind, had a ratio of only 235 per million. Kansas had 1,173 deaf mutes, or 642 per million. The District of Columbia's ratio of 242 per million was based upon a total of only 118. Wyoming, with the lowest ratio of blind, showed next to the lowest ratio of deaf mutes, having only 60, or 266 per million.

ELON COLLEGE

AN ACCREDITED COLLEGE
of the

CONGREGATIONAL CHRISTIAN CHURCHES OF THE SOUTHEAST

ELON was founded to train Christian leaders for the New South.

ELON has done its task well—one graduate in seven being in the Christian ministry. The other six express Christian leadership in the various professions and vocations. Experience teaches that spiritual leadership must be indigenous.

The South is now a New South ready for an inclusive Church, the type of Church for which Elon has stood for forty years and for which she is prepared to produce capable leadership.

With no Church in the community, save the College Auditorium, ELON has practiced Christian Union for faculty, students, and community for four decades.

Its contribution to Christian Education is nationally known and approved.

Its Christian Education Building, providing laboratory facilities for religious leadership training, is unique and is the first college building of its type in the world.

ELON confines itself to undergraduate liberal arts work with that religious emphasis which befits the Christian College.

In ELON the Congregational-Christian Church has an asset of marvelous hopefulness.

The South needs her Yale, her Oberlin, her Carleton, her Pomona for the intellectual leadership of the United Church. Many regard ELON as strategically located and spiritually endowed to become such a center of illumination and leadership training.

THE CHRISTIAN EDUCATION BUILDING

The Heart of the Elon Program of Christian Education.

C. M. CANNON, Registrar

Elon College, - - - North Carolina

Home Atmosphere—Reasonable Rates—Clean Athletics—Christian Spirit.

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the kingdom, as represented by the Congregational-Christian Church.

BOARD OF EDITORS.

J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
E. C. GILLETTE, D. D. Associate
W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
W. A. HARPER, LL.D. Associate
REV. S. C. HARRELL, Associate
J. E. McCAULEY, Associate
W. C. WICKER, D. D. News Editor
P. J. KERNODLE, Managing Editor
C. D. JOHNSTON, Circulation Manager

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Year$2.00
Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Postoffice, at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to The Christian Sun, C. D. Johnston, Circulation Manager, Elon College, N. C.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads" 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

Notices: Obituary and marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge; all over 100 words at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

OBITUARIES.

LOYD.

We, the members of the Woman's Missionary Society and Pastor of Turners Chapel Christian Church, offer the following resolutions of respect as a tribute to the memory of our co-worker and sister member, Mrs. I. M. Loyd:

First, That we bow in humble submission to Him who doeth all things well.

Second, That we will always cherish the memory of her personality, her willingness to serve and the love she had for the missionary work. While she had only been with us for a period of three months, she being a member of Jonesboro Presbyterian Church, she had endeared herself to the people of the community, and her work and conduct had shown a love and loyalty to that which is noblest and best in the human heart.

Third, That we extend to her bereaved family, husband and children our deepest sympathy in this dark hour, recommending them to our Heavenly Father for comfort and resignation to His divine will.

Fourth, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, one to be spread on our Missionary Society record and one sent to The Christian Sun and local papers for publication.

REV. J. A. DENTON,
MRS. R. L. ROSS,
MRS. J. W. MYERS,
Committee.

GILMORE.

Brother Charlie Gilmore, after a continued illness, passed out of this life at his home near Moncure, on July 16, 1931. Brother Charlie was the son of the late Haston Gilmore, who was well known in the Moncure section.

He leaves to mourn their loss, a wife, one son, and a little girl, who is an adopted child, besides four brothers, one sister and a host of friends.

THE CONGREGATIONAL LATIN-AMERICAN INSTITUTE AND PILGRIM LATIN CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH OF WEST TAMPA, FLA.—

Are helping give the Gospel, which is "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth," to the forty thousand Latin people of Tampa. The evangelical forces working among the foreigners of Tampa are by no means covering the territory sufficiently.

Methodists have six preachers, Baptists two, Presbyterians one, Congregationalists one. Church workers and teachers must be supported for this great missionary work. Send check to

LESLIE S. BRAY, Treas.

Route 4, Box 468, - - Tampa, Fla.
Send boxes of clothing to Mrs. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

For literature, write Rev. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

Brother Gilmore was a member of Zion Christian Church, where he will be missed.

The funeral was conducted in the church by the writer, assisted by Brother D. A. Mann. May the blessings of God be upon those who mourn.

J. A. DENTON.

666

LIQUID or TABLETS

Relieves a Headache or Neuralgia in 30 minutes, checks a Cold the first day, and checks Malaria in three days.

666 Salve for Baby's Cold

"SUPREME AUTHORITY"

WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY

Because

Hundreds of Supreme Court Judges concur in highest praise of the work as their Authority.

The Presidents of all leading Universities, Colleges, and Normal Schools give their indorsement.

The Schoolbooks of the Country adhere to the Merriam-Webster system of diacritical marks.

The Government Printing Office at Washington uses it as authority.

WRITE for a sample page of the New Words, specimen of Regular and India Papers, FREE.

G. & C.
Merriam
Company,
Springfield,
Mass.

Get
The Best!

HOLMAN BIBLES

LARGE PRINT TEACHERS' EDITION FOR ADULTS, TEACHERS AND PREACHERS

and all who would study the Word of God intelligently this edition is unsurpassed. The type is large, clear Bourgeois, Self-Pronouncing, with liberal space between the words and lines, which makes it easy to read.

Size, 8 x 5 1/2 inches.

Specimen of Type.

¶ "From that time Jē^s began to preach, and to say, ¶ I the kingdom of heaven

Containing New Copyrighted Helps by most reliable Authorities. A Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, New Colored Maps.

No. 4712. Divinity Circuit Teachers' Bible, French Seal Leather, red under gold edges, Silk Head bands and Silk Marker.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 5.00

No. 812RL. Red Letter Teachers' Bible. The Words of Christ in the New Testament, Old Testament Passages Alluded to by Christ, Various Prophecies Relating to Christ in the Old Testament, etc., all PRINTED IN RED. Binding same as described above and same large Self-Pronouncing type.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 6.00

No. 733X. Holman India Paper, Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 10.65

Wedding or Gift Bible FOR THE HOME

Holman Self-Pronouncing Home Study Edition

A BEAUTIFUL PRESENTATION PAGE Marriage Certificate and Family Record makes this special edition a most desirable Bible for a wedding gift.

Full Bound size, 8 1/2 x 6 inches; nearly 1800 pages. Authorized Version with Marginal References.

Large Print—Easy to Read

The Helps are the latest and most practical published—prepared by the most reliable and well-known authorities, and consist of a TEACHERS' NEW READY REFERENCE HAND BOOK, which gives the salient and essential information needed in Bible study.

Illustrated Self-Pronouncing Bible Dictionary—Containing 150 illustrations.

Oriental Light on the Bible (Containing over 100 illustrations). A new kind of illuminating Bible help.

Treasury of Biblical Information. A New Series of Maps. A selection of the most used, with Special Maps, the results of the most recent explorations.

A New Practical Comparative Concordance, with nearly 50,000 references. Four Thousand Questions and Answers on the Bible. ABSOLUTELY DURABLE BINDINGS that will not break in the back.

Specimen of the Print. Full size of the page is 5 1/2 x 8 inches.

Specimen of Type.

17 ¶ "From that time Jē^s began to preach, and to say, ¶ Repent: for the kingdom of heaven is at

A BEAUTIFUL PRESENTATION PAGE Marriage Certificate and Family Record makes this special edition a most desirable Bible for a wedding gift.

No. 4914. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker..... $5.50

Postage Paid

THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 East Broad Street

Richmond, - - - Virginia

SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE

FOUR YEAR STANDARD COLLEGE

A Memorial of the Congregational-Christian Union.

FRANK E. JENKINS, Pres.

MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD, Dean

OPENS WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1931.

Chartered BETHLEHEM COLLEGE
June 2, 1922

Renamed PIEDMONT JUNIOR COLLEGE
May 18, 1925
Renamed SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE, June 3, 1931

SCHOLARSHIP HIGH

EXPENSES LOW

CHARACTER SUPREME

A Strong Faculty, Educated in 25 Universities and Colleges in 12 States.

Unsectarian, but thoroughly Christian.

For Information about Entrance, write—

DEAN MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD,
WADLEY, ALABAMA.

For Other Information, write—

DR. FRANK E. JENKINS,
LA GRANGE, GEORGIA (To September 1st).

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Representing the Southern Christian Convention and the Congregational Churches of the Southeast.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY

VOLUME LXXXIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, AUGUST 13, 1931.

NUMBER 33.

•• THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY ••

By DR. W. C. WICKER.

SCOTS PREACH TO SCOTS.—

The Scots Church, in Sydney, Australia, has arranged for a number of special preachers for various periods. Last month, Dr. Boyd Scott returned to Scotland, after having completed his six months of service. Rev. Moffitt Gillan, his successor, who is also from Scotland, will serve for nine months. He is drawing large congregations, and by sane, strong evangelistic preaching, he is helping to build up the kingdom of God in the southern hemisphere. It is rumored that a distinguished Canadian minister will be invited as the next special preacher. It would pay many churches to keep thus a vital relationship between the home base and the far-flung battle line at the front of our missionary field.

HELEN KELLER VISITS THE BALKANS.—

The recent visit of Miss Helen Keller to Jugoslavia has amounted to nothing less than a sensation in educational and philanthropic circles. She was the guest of the nation and was received everywhere with the utmost attention. Her comment of communis agents, and such disturbances citous and her constant emphasis on the need for greater care for the blind has done much to stimulate interest in this special form of social service. Miss Keller was received in audience by King Alexander, who conversed with her for half an hour. Just previous to her departure for Zagreb and Ljubljana, Miss Keller received a high Jugoslav decoration. Interchange of such visits between the outstanding characters of nations will cultivate good will and help prevent war.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION IN GREECE.—

The holy synod of the Church of Greece has just instituted a committee of eight, presided over by the president of the synod, to study the problem of religious education in Greece, and to "undertake whatever seems necessary to bring the standards of religious education in Greece up to the best modern requirements." The marked increase of sermons in the church, almost unknown ten years ago, and the greatly enlarged social and philanthropic work of the church since the war, offer evidence that the Church of Greece is doing its utmost to meet the moral and social requirements of today. The commission now appointed is partly the result of the resolutions of the Greek theologians recently reported in American papers. Among its first actions, the commission has announced a prize to be awarded the author of the best study presented on the history of religious education.

PEACE-TIME WORK.—

Prof. Richard T. Ely, of the Institute of Research in Land Economics of Northwestern University, one of the leading economists of America, offers a proposal for the relief of unemployment.

After an interview by Carroll Binder and the story of the interview told in the Daily News, in response to a question as to what can be done for men now jobless, Prof. Ely replied: "Create a peace-time army!" But he does not mean an ordinary army. "I propose," says Prof. Ely, "the recruiting of the unemployed in a peace-time army which would engage in non-competitive occupations for the common good at non-competitive wages about the level of those paid to the United States soldiers." The removal of railroad crossings, the beautifying of the railroad right-of-ways, reforestation, campaigns for the elimination of mosquitoes, are some of the projects recommended. This would be better than unemployment, would be conducive to contentment, would enable a larger number to earn their living expenses, and tend toward peace and contentment.

ANTI-RELIGIOUS SOCIETIES.—

The latest movement of the radicals in Japan, and there can be little doubt that this has Russian antecedents, is the organization of anti-religious societies. This movement started only a few weeks ago, and thought at the time to be of very little significance, the movement has now assumed such proportions as to attract the attention of the government, and is considered by most religious sects to be a serious menace. Some, however, feel that such a movement can make little progress among the tolerant yet reverent Japanese populace. It may stimulate long decadent religious orders into activity to justify their existence. Paul thought that the religion of the Gentiles whom he led to accept Christ would provoke his countrymen to jealousy until they would seek to be grafted into the original religious life. If Buddhism has brought this curse upon its own head by its lack of vitality in an age of transition, the same may happen to the Christian religion for the lack of vitality and reality in worship. Many Buddhist leaders are out to demonstrate that the faith still has vigor and value for modern life. Christianity should wake up to the same task about the vigor and value and vitality of the religion of Jesus Christ which we profess.

NEW RELIGIOUS SECTS IN JAPAN.—

That Japan is essentially religious few who know the facts can doubt. The government is even now investigating a syncretic sect known as the Human-Way cult, which though less than five years old, is yet said to have two hundred thousand adherents, among whom are educators, military men and government officials. The phenomenal development of other such sects of comparatively recent origin undoubtedly points to the yearning of the Japanese soul for assurance of spiritual reality in a world of stress and strain. It is interesting that few of these sects offer any material or economic advantages, though some promise healings of bodily infirmities to the most faithful. The same tendency is seen in America when religion becomes mechanical, rational and formal, and leaves the consciousness of God out. The Protestant Church would do well to emphasize the worshipful element in religion and the consciousness of the presence of God in every service. Other elements may enter to good purpose, but without this as the central emphasis, the reality of religion is relegated to a subordinate place. "Seek first the Kingdom of God" in every service, and it will be reality itself and vitalize the religious life of America. It is better than any sect, society or organization which does not magnify God, and will win people back to the true religion.

RADICALISM ON INCREASE IN JAPAN.—

Radicalism seems on the increase among the students of Japan. There have been numerous cases of disturbances in the colleges and universities in recent months. Some students are protesting against a newly appointed president in one of the universities, and in another, Tokyo Imperial University, the students desire a co-operative dining hall rather than a concession to a commercial agent who gives as little service as possible and charges as much as the trade will bear. In both institutions demands are being made for permission for student self-government, and at one well known school when such demands were not granted a group of students danced in the street singing the hymn of the revolution. Such agitations, of course, have the encouragement of communistagents, and such disturbances may even be fomented thereby. But that every demonstration for self-expression, whether by students or by proletariat, is an incipient revolution calling for repression and punitive measures by police and courts, is an assumption calculated only to spread rather than control radicalism. Those who read church history know that persecution at all periods of church history has tended to increase self-assertion and independence even at the cost of life. Fairness, justice, respect for personality and human rights, even among students as well as citizens will do much to overcome radicalism. The American ideal of government, in State, in society, and in school is the democratic ideal, and when despotism, domination and repression are removed from such government, there will be no need for radicalism. There is something inherited in the instinctive nature of man that rebels against any man or set of men lording over the conscience and crushing out the personality. All wars of history, all the revolutions of nations, all the divisions of churches, and all the radicalism in schools and colleges have as their underlying motive that inborn demand for the respect of personality which asserts its rights to freedom and expression according to reason if it may and according to rebellion if it must.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Fix, of Franklin, Va., are attending the Massaneta Springs Bible Conference, near Harrisonburg, Va., this week

Dr. C. C. Ryan, of Richmond, Va., is in Georgia during the present week, assisting Rev. A. H. Sheppard in evangelistic services. During the coming week he will be with Rev. G. D. Hunt at Wadley, Alabama.

Rev. G. C. Crutchfield of Lynchburg, Va., assisted by the pastor, Dr. P. H. Fleming, conducted the annual revival week of the Union Christian Church, Union Ridge, N. C., beginning with two services on the fourth Sunday in July and continuing with evening services during the week. This revival week concluded Friday evening with fourteen new members added to the church.

We learn from Rev. E. B. White that he has accepted the call to return to the Windsor circuit for the coming year. Mr. White has been pastor of Windsor, Antioch and Isle of Wight Churches for the past two years, and he reports that the work at these churches shows improvement. He will also continue to pastor Damascus Church, Sunbury, N. C., where he has been for four years, and has been invited to supply for Eure's Christian Church, Eure, N. C., on the fourth Sunday afternoon, during the coming conference year. He says that he will do his best to comply with this request. Mr. White is now attending the Bible Conference at the Massanetta Springs, as are several other ministers from Eastern Virginia.

Rev. John C. Barrett, familiarly known to his many friends as "J. C.," has recently resigned his pastorate at the Christian Church at Hopewell, Virginia, and is open to consider a field of service during the coming conference year. Bro. Barrett has a wide acquaintance in the South, being an old Elon student and a native son of the Old Dominion. Since entering the ministry in 1917, he has served the Madisonville Christian Church, Moscow, Pa., Pleasant Hill Church at Albion, Ind., Gulph Mills Church, Conshohocken, Pa., and for a short while the Church at Hopewell, Virginia. Brother Barrett has a host of friends wherever he goes. Not only was he a student at Elon, but he graduated at Defiance (Christian) College, Defiance, Ohio. He is a member of the New Jersey Conference. After September 1st, he may be addressed at 2517 Balentine Boulevard, Norfolk, Va.

FROM E. M. CARTER'S FIELD.

The first of my meetings for the summer was at Youngsville. The services were conducted as before, except by the local pastors. I had charge of the singing; the pastor of the Baptist Church had charge of the prayer services, and the pastor of the Methodist Church did the preaching. We have never had a more harmonious meeting; and, so far as we are able to judge, the results were just as good. The people rather prefer the union meetings; and certainly one marked result is the spirit of unity in the community's interest. About fifteen members have so far been received into the churches.

My next meeting was at Mt. Carmel. During the first week, we were assisted in four services by Rev. R. Lee House. We had large congregations and good attention. When we came to close on Friday night, I suggested that during the next week I could meet them for services at night. The proposition was accepted. Three years before I became pastor, there arose some trouble, and as a result, we have lost members every year. Because of rain we only held three services, but the tide has changed. Thursday, the last night we held services, we received five members. It is very likely that there will be others to join at our next service. We are looking now for better conditions.

At the present we are having a union meeting with Pope's and Wesley's Chapels, Wesley's being of the M. E. Church, South. According to the custom, it was the time for Wesley's pastor to preach or have it done. Last week the services were held at Pope's Chapel, and we continue this week with services at Wesley's. We cannot tell just now what the results will be, but we are anxious that much good shall be accomplished. These are two of the oldest churches in this section, Pope's Chapel being one of those that seceded with James O'Kelley.

My next meeting will be with Good Hope Church; the place where the Southern Christian Convention was organized. E. M. CARTER.

REVIVAL AT CONCORD.

Our revival meeting began at Concord on July 26th and closed on July 31st. The services were held during the day only, with dinner on the grounds, according to a long-standing custom at this place. The attendance was very good from beginning to close.

Our friend, Rev. T. J. Green of Ramseur, N. C., was with us and did the preaching. He assisted here nine years ago. His acquaintances were glad to welcome him back again. His stay revived old friendships and made new ones. His messages were in language that children could understand. He believes in old time ways and methods in conducting a revival, and his sermons were highly Biblical and were food for the hungry soul. May the Lord bless him with many years of usefulness and activity in his Kingdom work.

Our fellowship was very pleasant, and we hope that he will be with us again. His services were highly appreciated by the church.

As to visible results, the church was greatly revived, one profession of faith in Christ was made, and there was one addition to the church. We are thankful for the blessings enjoyed and the good seed that were sown. All praise and honor be unto our Lord. L. L. WYRICK.

On the closing day of the meeting, during the noon hour, one of the members of the church came to our automobile with a package or two, and this was the signal to the rest. It was quite a surprise to the pastor. A pounding had been agreed to sometime during the week. So we have something to eat for awhile. Among the items found, which may be named were, apples, peaches, cucumbers, tomatoes, corn, meat, several bags of flour, sugar, canned fruit, jelly, preserves, honey, potatoes, peas, etc.

This is a good people to serve. May the Lord bless all who had a part and wished to have a hand in this pleasant surprise. We desire to show our appreciation by better and more prompt service. L. L. W.

REVIVAL SERVICES AT NEW HILL.

A series of revival services began at New Hill Church on Sunday, July 12th, and closed on Friday night, July 17th. We had beautiful weather during the week, which added to the attendance. Several other meetings were being conducted in the community the same week, but our congregation was good in view of the fact. A beautiful co-operative spirit prevailed during the entire meeting, which we greatly appreciated.

The services were enjoyed by those in attendance.

Rev. L. A. Nall of Elon College, N. C., did the preaching in a very acceptable manner. He is a preacher of the Bible truths, as many of our forefathers expressed their religious views. While here, Brother Nall made many friends.

As a result of the meeting the church people were encouraged and strengthened spiritually. Thirteen professed Christ as their Saviour, and closer bonds of Christian brotherhood were in evidence.

To the Lord be all praise for what was accomplished. L. L. WYRICK.

AN ACKNOWLEDGEMENT.

On Thursday last, the wife and I thought, when we saw the cars coming up the driveway and parking, that all our friends were about to make us a visit at once. However, when they began to pile out with chickens, flour, meat, potatoes, rice, jellies, sugar, roasting-ear corn, peas, beans, and many other good things to eat, well we just didn't know what to say. Now we are always glad to have our members from the Haw River Church visit us, but when they come with their arms loaded down with good things to eat, what can we say? That we're doubly glad?

It makes us feel that we are, of all the servants of God the most humble. May God bless them is our prayer. We will try to show our appreciation in honorable service for them and the Master. REV. AND MRS. ROY COULTER.

MT. BETHEL.

Our meeting at Mt. Bethel began the third Sunday in July. Rev. M. A. Pollard arrived on Monday and did the preaching. His messages were greatly enjoyed and the church revived.

At the close of the meeting, the pastor found his car filled with many good things, such as wheat, lard, canned fruits, vegetables, and lots of things required for the pantry. This unexpected shower of gifts rejoiced the heart of the pastor and his family, and we thank the good people who were so kind to remember us in such a splendid manner. May God bless each one of them is our sincere prayer, and to God we give praise and thanks. R. A. WHITTEN.

CONFERENCES MEET.

Eastern Virginia Conference meets at Cypress Chapel, Nansemond County, Wednesday before the first Sunday in November, 1931, at 10:30 A. M.

Georgia and Alabama Conference and Southern Association will meet jointly—, —, —.

Alabama United Conference meets at Phenix City, Ala., Second Tuesday morning in November, 1931.

Eastern North Carolina Conference meets at Shallow Well Church, Tuesday after the third Sunday in November, 1931.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference meets at Mt. Bethel Church, Rockingham County, on Tuesday after the second Sunday in November, 1931.

Western North Carolina Conference meets with Shiloh Christian Church, Randolph County, Tuesday after the first Sunday in November, NOTE.—Secretaries of Associations and Conferences will please supply omissions and make necessary corrections to the above.

NOTICE.

I am making a change in churches this Conference year, and will be glad to correspond with any church or churches desiring my services in regards to church work.

W. B. FULLER,
313 Greene St.,
Harrisonburg, Va.

CONGREGATIONAL NEWS

REV. E. C. GILLETTE, Editor; REV. F. P. ENSMINGER, and REV. M. J. SWEET, Associates.

REV. A. NIGHTINGALE is helping the medical forces of his area with typhoid patients and is endeavoring to secure a permanent health unit for the section.

REV. WALTER METCALF, of Tampa, Fla., is spending the month of August in the parsonage at Winter Park, and supplying the pulpit in the absence of Dr. Clarence A. Vincent.

THE CONGREGATIONALIST of July 30th contained an interesting report of the National Council Seminar on "The Gospel and the Church," written by Dr. Elisha A. King of Miami Beach.

Rev. and Mrs. A. L. DEJARNETTE, of Soddy, Tennessee, are specializing in boys and girls' club work this summer. It was a pleasure to see a good sized group of interested girls meeting with Mrs. DeJarnette in their home on the breezy hill-top.

REV. J. DELMAN KUYKENDALL, D. D., after attending the National Council, went to his old home in California. Mrs. Kuykendall and daughter were with him. Dr. Kuykendall preached at Grace Trinity, a united church in San Francisco, and at the North Congregational Church, in Berkley, California. Before returning to Florida, he will supply two Sundays at Greenwich, Connecticut and two at Burlington, Vermont.

REPORTS of Student Summer Workers, when read by a reader who knows the fields and their needs, gives thrill after thrill. We have a capable lot of summer workers this year. They are particular to know how they can help, and they give themselves readily and royally in service. Their approval of the regular work of our devoted pastors and church people is valued testimony of the progressive work which is being carried on in our rural regions.

STATISTICAL REPORTS from Church Vacation Schools are interesting. After the location, is given the number of Congregational and other children attending, also the number of pupils in kindergarten, primary, junior and intermediate grades. Then comes the list of text books, the number of paid and volunteer teachers, the length of the school in weeks, the number of days in the week used, and the number of hours in the day. The final item is the cost of the school.

REV. ORVILLE D. ULLOM, after completing two years of fine service as assistant pastor of the Miami Beach Community Church, will begin services in his new parish at Melbourne, Florida, on August 16th. Mr. and Mrs. Ullom were presented with several fine gifts by the societies of the Miami Beach Church in appreciation of their work there. After visiting with Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Stewart of Melbourne they are spending their vacation with Mrs. Ullom's parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. Rexford Raymond of Chattanooga, Tenn.

REV. EDWIN E. WHITE, of Pleasant Hill, is happy in his summer extension campaign which was started with a staff of nine workers. The first Vacation Bible Schools had large enrollments and were held at Bon Air, De Rosset, Browntown, Mobery, Eastland, Clifty, Ravenscroft, and a new point, Rodgedale. Pleasant Hill Academy students were coached before their commencement time for summer work in their home communities, and are carrying on other schools. Mrs. Ervin had a most successful camp for 4-H girls. Week-end chatauquas have supplemented the Bible Schools. The Pleasant Hill program is our largest summer program, carried forward from one point, in the Southeast.

REV. GEO. W. BLOUNT and his faithful church members are achieving remarkable results in the building of their new church at East Lake, Chattanooga. While some of the material of the old building is utilized in the new structure, it is a new church. The auditorium is much larger than the old one, and the building now has two floors instead of one. The building's entrance faces one street and fronts a park a block away, and flanks on another street. The new church has generous provision for the departments of the Church school. The basement affords room for social affairs. The site of the church is superb. The grounds extend along the street for a number of rods on each side of the building. The lot has shade trees and will be most attractive when landscaped. The pastor of this church is one of the most able leaders and assiduous pastors in the Southeast.

GEORGIA STATE CONFERENCE. According to the constitution, this conference should fall on October 27th, 28th, 29th. It is likely that these dates will stand. The only question is that by action of both bodies, Congregational and Christian, there is to be a joint meeting of these two bodies. The writer does not know who the Christian officials may be, so cannot confer directly with them. If these items should happen to fall under the eye of Christian officers of the Georgia Christian Conference will they kindly communicate with the pastor-at-large, Rev. Milo J. Sweet, 226 Henderson Street, Salisbury, N. C. Meanwhile it is hoped that all Christian Churches in Georgia will consider themselves as being most welcome to share in every way possible at this Georgia State Conference of Congregational and Christian Churches. It will be held at Barnesville, Georgia.

MR. LAWRENCE ROBERTS has been working at Robbins, Deer Lodge, and Glenmary. There were 90 children in the Vacation Bible School at Robbins. A meeting for the young people was held three nights a week, but they promptly requested two more nights' sessions, and 70 of them attended the meetings. Mr. Roberts noticed that they were seriously interested in the program of Christian life as outlined to them. At Deer Lodge he found that his willingness to do his best at baseball won many friends. All but one member of the team were present at his Christian Endeavor meeting. Deer Lodge, which is six miles from a railroad, celebrated the Fourth of July with speeches and an orderly gala day celebration, attended by 400 people. The young people have a debating club on Saturday nights. The older people attend church very little. In the Vacation Bible School the children made good answers to an oral quizz. The Vacation Bible School attendance increased daily. At Glenmary the people responded well to the Daily Vacation Bible School. This whole area in the mountains was hurt by the drought last season. The people are struggling for a living since the closing down of the few industrial plants.

NORTH GEORGIA ASSOCIATION.

The North Georgia Association was splendidly entertained by the Demorest Church on July 27th and 28th. Prof. Lisle Percy, acting Moderator, and later elected to that position for one year, had provided well, and with his helpers certainly gave the large delegations a hearty welcome. Outside of Atlanta, practically every church was represented. The program was well balanced. The devotional services were conducted by Prof. A. G. Axtel and Rev. J. W. Philip, and were marked by high standards of the prayer life and devotion to the teachings of Jesus. The sermon, by Rev. Theodore L. Leverett, pastor of the Macedonia Larger Parish, consisting of the Macedonia, Sardis, New Trinity and Liberty Churches, was one of the strongest presentations of why God loves the world and how the world was to find out about it, we have ever heard. In a word, it was by deep devotion and splendid sacrificial witnessing by unknown heroes, as well as the known ones, that the news is told. It were well for each to ask, "How can my community know that God loves it?" And then let the church demonstrate it.

The pastor of the churches at Duncan's Creek, Center, and County Line, Rev. Carl Parker, talked to the theme, "Needs and Accomplishments of the Country Church." He pointed out several important needs and then the time was up. Rev. A. W. Hutchins, Atlanta, Ga., spoke with entertaining ability of "What Must the Church do to be Saved?" The pastor-at-large gave an outline of work and fellowship for the three local associations and the State conference. His suggestions were unanimously adopted by the association.

Miss Viola Veley led the afternoon program on Young People's Activities, presenting the subject, "The Sunday School for and by All Ages." At four in the afternoon, there was a special period conducted by a group of our S. S. S. young folks.

The closing service was one of great interest. Dr. D. B. Atkinson, of Piedmont College, gave a masterly address on "Christian Citizenship." It was an exceptionally inspiring meeting.

BLUE RIDGE THE MIGHTY.

Folks who know Blue Ridge will rejoice to know that the M. E. M. Conference is to be continued next year as usual. Under the direction of Dr. W. Knighton Bloom, this year's conference, while somewhat smaller in numbers, due doubtless to the lateness of the dates of holding it, was one of the best to be held. The changes of the program by which greater freedom for recreation in the afternoons was made possible, contributed to the pleasure of all, and, incidentally to the amount of real work students could give to the courses. Both of these features are quite worth while.

Denominationally Congregationalists and Christians outnumbered by far any other denomination. However there were delegates from several others who gave much to the success of the conference.

Among the outstanding speakers at the open forum held each evening were Rev. Kirby Page, world famous lecturer and publicist; Rhinehold Niebuhr, Rev. Alva Taylor, Vanderbilt University, and Dr. R. B. Eleazer. On the regular faculty we find names such as Dr. Ernest M. Halliday of New York, Rev. Donald McGavern, Prof. Raymond Paty of Emory University, Rev. Ernest W. Riggs of Boston, Mrs. L. M. Awtrey, Rev. Abram W. Sparks, Dr. Gilbert Q. LeSourd, Miss Hazel V. Orton, Miss Priscilla Chase, Miss Sallie Deane, and Mrs. Alva G. Maxwell.

One of the most interesting features of daily occurrence was the vesper service conducted by Dr. Rexford Raymond of Chattanooga. Bringing long remembered by the crowds who rejoiced to "Come and worship" before this leader of souls.

The climax of all, perhaps, was the really great and wonderful Sunday morning service. This

(Continued on page 13.)

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR

J. O. ATKINSON, ELON COLLEGE, N. C.

ASSOCIATE EDITOR

E. C. GILLETTE

117 W. Forsyth Street, Jacksonville, Fla.

CONTRIBUTING EDITORS

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

S. C. HARRELL

J. E. McCAULEY

NEWS EDITOR

W. C. WICKER

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

JUST ANOTHER DAY.

(Editorial Correspondence.)

Northfield, Mass., August 16, 1931.

If I could make Northfield live, for one moment even, in the minds of SUN readers this would be a letter worth while. But this can't be done. For the word itself stands for a man, a movement and an idea, all three of which have assumed infinite proportions and signify world-wide values. And that is not exaggeration. In fact it only half states, and but poorly, an amazing fact.

Dwight L. Moody is the man, and he began movements which the world cannot stop, time retard, nor age enfeeble. And his idea of God as an everliving and very present reality is one which Northfield embodies, reveals and proclaims to all the world the year around.

Let me be specific. The world can't get around Dwight L. Moody. That man has been in his grave, the mortal part of him, since 1899, but he is more alive today than he ever has been. That he was a true prophet is nowhere more fully verified than in these lines which he wrote months, maybe years, before his death. "Some day you will read in the papers that D. L. Moody of East Northfield is dead. Don't believe a word of it. At that moment I shall be more alive than I am now. I shall have gone higher, that is all; gone out of this old tenement of clay into a house that is immortal; a body that death cannot touch, that sin cannot taint, a body like unto His own glorious body. I was born of the spirit in 1854. That which was born of the flesh may die. That which is born of the spirit will live forever."

There was your prophet for you, and after the mortal of him has slept in the grave nearly thirty-two years, the spirit of the man was never more alive and active in the world than it is today. I say again, the world can't get around Dwight L. Moody. It just can't be done. There was too much of God in the man to let the world get by him. No, I am not speaking now of the fact that he faced and preached to a hundred million souls, and prayed and pled with seven hundred thousand of them to turn from the sin and error of their ways and accept Christ as their personal Saviour, which countless thousands of them did. I am speaking of that marvelous man's insight, his power of penetration into the future and of his amazing ability to organize and set in motion ideas and movements that will never, never die.

Look at this. The body of him lies buried only a few rods from where I write. Well above that body have sprung up buildings of brick, stone and steel dedicated unalterably and eternally to the one idea that Jesus is the living Christ, an ever present Reality, and that men and women, boys and girls, need to hear, to learn, to be taught that fact. And so there gather in these buildings, some of them dormitories, some of them chapels and churches, some of them class-rooms and auditoriums, there gather here every summer thousands from all over this country, to breathe the atmosphere of this sublime and sacred place, to hear able men, some of the ablest men in the English speaking tongue, teach the vital and eternal truths of Scripture, hear messages of love, life and inspiration out of the minds and souls of men and women who have achieved mightily for God in their various fields of service, and be thrilled by songs and uplifted by music and melody that melt the heart and make it rejoice.

And then through the year, will just look at this. Northfield Seminary for girls, 607 of them enrolled here last year; 9,698 educated here since Moody founded the school in 1879. Hard by, Mount Hermon School for boys, 636 of them enrolled here last year, 13,584 of them educated here since Moody founded the school in 1881. These with a faculty of 109 employed, and given to the one purpose D. L. Moody had in founding the schools, as he said, "To help young men and young women of very limited means to get an education . . . to help them into lives that will count the most for the cause of Christ."

All students in these schools share every day in the labor of running the schools, and learn to labor intelligently with their hands while enlarging their minds with daily study in academic courses and all of them in daily study of the Word of God.

Well I began this letter to write of just one day here—some of the things heard, seen, felt, experienced here. That will have to go into another letter, other than to say it is glorious to meet and mingle with 750 other souls who, like myself, weary of body and more or less exhausted from our own mental activities, have come here to one of the beauty spots of our country to hear such men as G. Campbell Morgan, John A. Hutton, James I. Vance, Charles R. Eardman, A. T. Robertson, and to hear in song, Homer Rodeheaver—I just mention those I have heard today. Yes, "Just another day." But what a day! Out before me as I write the mountains rise in graceful outline, the unfading green of pine and fir and spruce, rests and gladdens the eye, the peaceful river winds like a hugh serpent in slumber, and calm blue lakes sleep in blissful repose along the valley and between the green hills.

Today G. Campbell Morgan arose to great heights of spiritual and intellectual power and proclaimed from the Word of God, "I am alive forevermore, saith Jesus." Yes, Jesus is alive forevermore. His Spirit of peace, of love, of brotherhood, abides and abounds forever—and God's beautiful world about us, as well as the voice of eternity within us, tells us that this—just another day—is God's day, His good day, which He has given us in which to rejoice, be glad and praise Him.

J. O. A.

AN EDUCATIONAL POLICY NEEDED.

There has perhaps never been a time in the history of the American Republic when the rank and file of Protestant Church members had less interest in the cause of higher education than at the present. And there has perhaps never been a time when there was a greater need for such interest. We are tremendously interested in the work of education; but our interest does not have a genuine Christian flavor.

The decline of interest in education from the churchly viewpoint is in a large measure due to the loss of appeal of the old denominational shibboleths and standards. There was a time when each denomination felt the need of a denominational college where its youth might be indoctrinated in the things for which the denomination stood. When such things no longer seem of paramount importance church people are inclined to take the attitude that it does not matter much where the youth are educated just so they are. Yet it seems that every Christian ought to be interested more deeply in seeing that young people are educated in the fundamental and universal truths of Christianity than ever they were in the inculcation of denominational peculiarities.

The entire philosophy of education today is in a process of change. It is being subjected to examination and criticism. The same thing is happening to the philosophy of life. There are those who believe in a philosophy of life that is pagan to the very core. Some of them are seeking with desperate efforts to make their pagan ideas the basis of our educational system. Others are passively exerting their influence to promote their pagan beliefs.

The theory of our constitutional government contends for the absolute separation of Church and State. This plays directly into the hands of those who are interested in the undermining of those things for which Christ stands. Those who were most interested in seeing our government so organized that its power might not be available for the promotion of any particular religious belief or organization, surely did not intend to make the forces of the government available for the promotion of anti-Christian and irreligious ideas. Yet in numerous instances that is exactly what has taken place. If it is forbidden for the Christian who is employed by the State to teach the beliefs of his religion, it ought also to be forbidden for the pagan to disseminate his pagan ideals under the disguise of education.

While we believe the theory of the organic separation of Church and State to be primarily sound, the great fundamental questions with which religion deals, are as fundamental to life as they are to religion. They must be met and answered by all minds that think honestly and deeply. If they cannot be fully answered there must be some sort of working hypothesis with which to proceed. To ignore such questions is to head straight for chaos, or for a soulless materialism.

The reason why so many millions of men and women are distrustful of the affiliation of Church and State is due to the fact that in the past the Church has demanded that men and women subscribe to a ready made philosophy of life and conform to a ready made plan and pattern of existence. Now the State rejecting the ready made system of the Church, has attempted to substitute a ready made system of its own. And there are those who are beginning to believe that the system that has been adopted by the State has all of the weaknesses and faults of the old Church system, and few if any of the strong points that the Church system had.

We are beginning to realize that education is not an end within itself; but only a means to an end. We believe in education; but education of what? Until that question is answered education must ever remain a hap-hazard, hit-or-miss affair. And is not that just about what education is at this present time? And while there is no definite end and objective for which and to which education is directed; there is no lack of organized and vested interests which are ready to surreptitiously lay hold of the educational system and direct it to their own ends.

The truth is that with all our loud shouting about the value of education, we have never begun to realize the potentialities of education. What is education? Perhaps some day those that are engaged in educational work may be able to agree upon a working definition. At present there are some who are engaged in educational work who hold it to be the acquiring of a certain amount of information which has been stored up in libraries. Others there are who hold that it is the perfecting of certain techniques and the acquiring of certain skills. Then there are a few who believe that education should lead the individual as far as humanity has been able to go in unraveling the mysteries of this universe, should acquaint the individual with at least a few of the potentialities of the human spirit, and in the light of these inspire him to so invest his life that the lives of others may be given a finer flavor.

To say that every boy and girl has a right to an education is to say that with which most people will agree. To say that education is peculiarly the function of the State will generally pass unchallenged. But when one takes into consideration just what the State is doing toward the regulation of traffic, toward the enforcement of prohibition, toward the prevention of crime, or even the matter of maintaining the price of grain; one might be pardoned a reasonable doubt as to whether or not the State is entirely competent to meet the requirements of the educational task.

There are those who contend that the Church or denominational college has served its day and that it had better leave the work of education to the State. But it seems that the church college will never have served its day until it shall have gathered a faculty, fashioned a curriculum, and created an atmosphere of idealism under whose influence boys and girls will grow into men and women with such lofty and unselfish ideals, with such unshakeable ethical convictions, and with such a willingness for hard work as will demonstrate to the world their superior worth. Where is there an institution that is equal to such a task? We believe that there are such institutions now in existence. And we believe that it is the duty of the Church to establish others; and to see that they render to the world this service which is so sorely needed.

S. C. H.

LEISURE AND LEARNING.

John Wesley is quoted as saying, "Leisure and I have parted company." No one who has read the life of this human dynamo of moral and spiritual power will doubt that he said it. One is amazed at the long hours he worked and the results he achieved.

But times have changed, and leisure has increased. Competition, intellectual and moral, and all the rest, is keener and the nerves of our time are strung up higher than in previous ages. Living has become more intricate and complicated, the human frame less gigantic in strength and more nervous in texture.

Improved implements and methods of production and output, as well as the increased strain on the nerves from competition, have forced more leisure and the necessity for it. It is not leisure that retards progress or harms society; it is the way in which leisure is spent that tells the story of human development. If leisure is spent in learning that which is wholesome and profitable, it is a blessing, indeed, and makes for human development and moral achievement. Only as we give ourselves, during our leisure moments, to those pursuits and privileges that make for our enlightenment and edification, will our leisure prove a blessing and not a curse, a boon and not a burden. Awhile ago a "busy business" man remarked that he spent much of his time of late looking after church work, charity and the things of the kingdom, and he must quit so much of this and give more attention to his affairs. That "busy business" man was overlooking the fact that half his time at his business now was worth more to that business than all his time was twenty-five years ago. This being true, why should he not devote a larger portion of his time to the affairs of the kingdom, to charity and benevolence? God has given increase of production, and multiplied the power and produce of man's toil. Why then should not man give more time out of his business to making this a better world, and thus through his leisure, get some of the sweetest and most sacred joys of life? There is something more to life than work. And the man who thinks of work only, is leaving out that which is essential, namely, leisure in which to learn and to do the best that life has to offer.

J. O. A.

THE UNITED CHURCH.

Since the union of the Christian and Congregational denominations, some local churches have received Congregational and Christian members into their memberships and have changed the name of the church into "The United Church." That name is unfortunate, because it does not signify anything for the church or for Christianity. Such an organization could be composed of Unitarians, Universalists, Christian Scientists, and still be called "the United Church." A name designates a person, thing, or denomination. "The United Church" does not express what a name is intended to express. The name of a local church should express the relation of that church to a religious organization, and should be so clear that the community could understand it. The name of a church should be so clear that any citizen passing by or entering into it would understand its denominational relation.

The name of a church implies certain beliefs and organization, but "United Church" implies nothing that tells what it stands for and what it really means. There is really no reason why a local church should change its name unless the chief organization to which it belongs has changed its name. In case of local churches within the bounds of the Southern Christian Convention there is no reason why the churches should not continue to be called Christian Churches, unless the church contain members from both Christian and Congregational faiths, and these members decide to call the church the "Congregational Christian Church," which implies that it is composed of members from both of these denominations. But "United Church" means nothing to others than the members of that local church. A name is not for those inside only, but for outsiders as well as insiders.

W. W. S.

"We heard of a young missionary lady coming out to one of our evangelical missions, who made this boast, 'They didn't even guess that I was a missionary, till nearing Bombay, I told them.' You will be relieved when I tell you she was not long in missionary work. She relieved the mission by getting married to a business man."—Wesleyan Methodist.

THE RELATION OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL TO THE CHURCH.

Annual Address Before Eastern Virginia Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention

By PRESIDENT J. F. WEST, JR.

The age in which we live is the most wonderful that ever recorded the march of time. Never before have the peoples of the earth witnessed such achievements in art, science, invention and government. Never before has the human race enjoyed so many comforts and conveniences in matters which pertain to this life. Distance has been annihilated, and the nations of the earth are being rapidly drawn together as members of a common family.

But this marvelous advancement is not confined to things purely temporal. The Church of God is stronger today than ever before. We have more buildings and better buildings dedicated to the service of God, more men and women who are wearing out their constitutions in the spreading of the Gospel among the children of men, and more people who have accepted the salvation of Christ than ever before in the history of the world. It is true we have many church members who do not live up to their opportunities and privileges—to say nothing of their Christian duties, yet I believe them living more exemplary Christian lives than did many leading church members many years ago.

The religion which Christ taught was one that makes man subdue self and live in large measure for his fellowman. The asylums, the orphanages, the homes for the sick, homes for the incurable and homes for the unfortunate and fallen, scattered throughout our land, bear testimony to the fact that we Americans are living the religion of the Savior of men.

At a recent conference in Washington, this question was asked: "Has the church made a scratch in her task of evangelizing the world?" Now, there are those who will say the world is growing worse and that the Church of God is on the decline. On the contrary, I believe the church is today exerting a greater influence for the civilization and Christianization of the world than ever before in its history. The world is admittedly 36 per cent Christianized. If we have been able to accomplish this in 1900 years, with the help of God and a consecrated determination, what will be the percentage in another 100 years? China and India alone can about double that percentage. What a goal and what a challenge!

It is an astonishing fact that for nearly 100 years after the church was first established in the world, one of the most beautiful luminaries of its system remained almost unnoticed. That Star represents the Sunday School, and as we view the moral heavens today none shine with brighter lustre.

For centuries the one and only great work of the church had been to lead men and women in the paths of right, thoughtless of the young minds and hearts upon which the future of the church must in a great measure depend. But finally recognizing the good which would result therefrom, the Sunday School was adopted as a department of the church, in which there is demand for the very best talent, with the sweet assurance of a sure reward in the life to come.

The Sunday School of today has assumed gigantic proportions. Its field of operation is as wide as the universe, and in its results it extends into the mysterious unknown. It is the hope of the church that from this grand Sunday School army will come forth men and women who will put on the whole armor of God and fight for Him until every foe is vanquished, and Christ is Lord indeed.

(Continued on page 7.)

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

SEATTLE.

Saturday, June 27th, was a great day for the Convention with the Ministers' Forum in charge of the Seminar on "The Christian Message for today." Chairman, Rev. E. W. Cross, D.D., Richmond Hill, N. Y. The Leader, Secretary Charles Emerson Burton, New York City. The Laymen's Forum, "Our Men—Their Work"; in the State, Supt. T. R. Faville, Wisconsin; in the Nation, Supt. C. S. Rice, Montana; Overseas, Mr. Lloyd L. Lorbeer, India. Then the Women's Forum, with Leader, Mrs. Franklin H. Warner, Claremont, California, "Changing Conditions on Our Mission Fields"; In America, Rev. Harold M. Kingsley, Chicago, Illinois; Overseas, Miss Margarita Wright, Guadalajara, Mexico; Miss Helen Dizney, Taiku, China, and others.

These Seminars were well attended, and the interest was enthusiastic, with fruit-bearing results. When Christian leaders and workers from all States and all nations get together in sincere conferences to study Kingdom interests, news, plans, purposes, and obligations, take on new faith and determination. Isolation is next to refrigeration. What nations, races, churches, all need is association and prayerful study of the common needs of humanity and the whole world.

No minister or layman can attend one of these seminars without a deepening of consecration, a widening of vision, and new resolutions to be of more service in the future than in the past. A gathering and study like this is a Seminary and a University combined into one school for heart and head. Money spent in attending such meetings is tuition spent in a real church school.

On Saturday night two Council Banquets were held in the Civic Auditorium, one for men and one for women. The auditoriums are one above the other. The women assembled in the lower room and the men in the upper room. At the women's dinner sixteen hundred sat down to enjoy the banquet and the addresses that followed. In the men's room fourteen hundred enjoyed a similar privilege. The banquet tickets were one dollar per plate. The two groups made three thousand in those council banquets. The women outnumbered the men by nearly two hundred, and that was a sample of what is going on in the church of today. The women lead in numbers and, in many respects, in efficiency of service.

Great addresses were delivered at these dinners. At the men's dinner Dr. S. Parks Cadman spoke on, "The Gospel for Our Age." It was a timely oration and stirred the great audience. Another informational address was delivered by Rev. Henry C. McDowell, of Africa, on "Typical Returns on an Investment of Congregationalists."

At the women's dinner, Mrs. S. B. L. Penrose, Walla Walla, Washington, spoke on "Training Leaders in the New Age," and President Aurelea Henry Reinhardt of Mills College, Oakland, California, spoke on "The New Evangelism."

These banquets were the largest ever held in that great city, and it proves that, in the last analysis, the Christian religion is the most potent agent in this country. Religion has its ebbs and floods, but the ocean of Christian activity continues its hold upon humanity. Saturday night closed with a great feast for body and soul, and the memory of the occasion inspires the three thousand men and women who will never forget that banquet.

W. W. STALEY.

Why not pay up your subscription now?

MILESTONES.

Twenty-seven years ago today a child was born—a new life began, which shall never end. The bearer of this life is headed for one of two places—one up, the other down. He has had an opportunity to do either good or bad. What has he done?

As I, today, look back over the years that have passed and gone into history never again to return, I cannot afford to pass the day through without trying to take stock of my accomplishments, which is always a serious thing for a man to do, but into every thoughtful man's life come times when he must attempt to do it.

Today, I look back and measure myself by myself. I am my own ledger, and I must do my own stock-taking, but in doing so, I find that I have really accomplished much less than I should have, and far less than I thought I had. Today, I look back upon time lost, golden opportunities neglected and wonderful aspirations unfulfilled.

From the vantage ground of the present, it is easy for me to discern the errors of the past, but time spent in regretting mistakes of bygone days is worse than wasted. Yesterday has vanished forever into the dim horizon of the past, and today is all that I have with me, and the succession of tomorrows which stretch before me, present my only opportunity to correct the errors and recoup the losses of the years that have passed and gone. I can no longer live in yesterday, but I must live today, and tomorrow, should there be a tomorrow. I cannot go on in the same old rut in which I was yesterday. I must steer out into the road that leads to worthwhile accomplishments, for no friendly wind is going to pilot my ship into the port of "Well Done." I must stand at the wheel myself and steer by the chart of persistent effort, if I expect to drop anchor in the harbor of spiritual success.

The golden opportunity immediately at hand is worth a thousand indefinite ones which might lie in the future. By taking advantage of the present, I not only profit by that, but I put myself in a position to benefit by whatever the future might bring.

The road to God and home is travelled, not by thinking things, but by doing them. The past is beyond recall. The future is always indefinite and uncertain. The present alone is mine, and I pray to God today as I grasp the wheel of my sailing ship and attempt to steer it into the harbor of Spiritual Success, so that when another year has passed and I shall again "take-stock" of my accomplishments, I may be able to sleep with a satisfied conscience.

July 26, 1931.

C. J. STRICKLAND.

ARE YOU LOYAL?

Through the years the Christian Church in the south has entered its efforts for education and the training of its youth largely at Elon College.

Through persistency and sacrifice our forefathers and many who are still with us have built a college recognized throughout the country for its equipment and scholarship.

In these days of financial depression educational institutions depending on the generosity of churches and institutions for all or a part of their support are finding it extremely difficult to keep creditors satisfied and forge ahead with progressive programs. Elon College is no exception.

A Business Administration Committee, has been appointed by the Board of Trustees, charged with the responsibility of piloting the college through this critical period. To do this the committee must have funds.

To meet outstanding obligations that are now pressing for settlement, the total of Fifty Thousand Dollars is required.

The Board of Trustees, thirty-two in number, has been requested to try to raise $1,000 each on or before September 1st. There ought to be 10,000 people in the Southern Christian Convention who would send a donation to our college in this time of financial need, and certainly there must be 1,000 who will.

Readers, alumnus, friend, are you loyal to your church, to your college? Prove your loyalty by your gifts. You may send your gifts to any member of the Board of Trustees, or to Mr. C. D. Johnston, Secretary-Treasurer of the Business Administration Committee, Elon College, N. C. But the chief thing, the loyal thing, the only safe thing for the college is to send it. The college has never needed your patronage more solely than she needs it today. Let not a loyal soul fail her.

Yours for co-operation and advance,

L. E. SMITH,

Chairman, Business Administration Committee.

AND WE PRAY "FOR CHRIST'S SAKE."

One day one of our boys, just a little fellow, looked up so inquiringly just after grace had been said, concluding with the words "for Christ's sake," and asked, "Papa, why do we say 'for Christ's sake'?" Perhaps you have been asked the same question. Well, here is a little story as taken from one of our exchanges which may be helpful:

"Some day," wrote a man to me some time ago, "you may want to write about the phrase with which most people end their prayers, 'for Christ's sake,' and may then find this little story useful."

It was a story of a judge who felt a great interest in our soldiers in the war days, particularly so because he had a boy of his own in the trenches somewhere.

Once, toward the end of the strife, he was very busy over some important case, and while so engaged made up his mind that he would not allow himself to be interrupted by any person begging for help.

One day, during this time, a poor soldier came into his office. His clothes were torn and thin, and his face showed that he was suffering from want and sickness. The judge went on with his work, pretending not to notice him.

The soldier was fumbling in his pockets for a good while, and then, seeing he was not welcome he said, in a disappointed tone, "I did have a letter for you, sir." The judge made no answer.

Presently the soldier's thin hand pushed a little note along the desk. The judge looked up, and was going to say, "I'm too busy now to attend to anything of the kind," when his eye fell on the note and he recognized the handwriting of his son.

In a moment he picked it up and read thus: "Dear father: the bearer of this note is one of our soldier boys. He has been dismissed from the hospital as incurable, and is going to die. Please help him, in any way you can for my sake."

"Come into my house, my friend, at once," said the judge, putting all his business aside. "You are welcome to anything we have."

Then a good meal was prepared for him. He was put to sleep in Charlie's bed. He was dressed in some of Charlie's clothes, and money was given to him to take him home in comfort. And all for Charlie's sake.—Anon.

By a vote of 58 to 14 the Tennessee House of Representatives refused to repeal the State law forbidding the teaching of the hypothesis of evolution in schools supported by State funds.

RELATION OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

(Continued from page 5.)

The mind of a child is as susceptible of a good impression as of a bad one. Hence the importance of getting them into the Sunday School at an early age. Time and again have science and invention marshalled their forces against the Christian religion. And the infidel is trying with his ingenious arguments and delusive conclusions to lead mortals from the true path of Christian belief. It is important therefore that the rising generations should be well grounded, in early life, in the principles of the Christian religion.

We need in our Sunday Schools no dogmatism to strip false theories of their apparent beauty, but teachers who are not only well acquainted with Holy Writ, but skilled in the practice of the Christian religion and enjoy daily some of its richest experiences. Such men and women will plant in the young hearts and minds seed which will spring up and bring forth an abundant harvest to the betterment of mankind and the glory of God! For such teachers as these, the Sunday School can o-n-l-y look to the church.

Thus the relation between the Sunday School and the church is very close. The Sunday school may be said to stand in the same relation to the church as the branch does to the vine. Just as taking from a living vine a living branch mars its symmetry and beauty, so to deprive a church of a thrifty Sunday School destroys its symmetry, checks its growth, and often causes it to dwarf and die. So it is that a church and Sunday School are of mutual benefit to each other; in fact, the one is dependent upon the other. Show me an active, flourishing Sunday School and as a rule you will show me an active, working church. I believe the Sunday Schools through the instrumentality of international series of Sunday School lessons are doing more to drive bigotry from our land than the churches themselves. And may the day soon come when God's people will stop fighting each other and combine all their forces to rout the enemies of the Cross. As a denomination, have we not most recently taken a step in a great and goodly direction?

Sunday Schools Unite the Energies of Church Members In the Advancement of Its Interests.

Before the foundation of the Sunday School by Robt. Raikes the Christian World had reached a state that it cared but little for its spiritual prosperity. The idea was prevalent that it was no one's duty to engage in the dissemination of the Gospel except ordained ministers. A cloud of inactivity brooded over the church; indeed this period may, perhaps, be considered one of the most critical in its history. Many of our villages and hamlets were filled with those who knew nothing of the Bible and doubtless cared less. The church was in a state of lethargy and naturally on the decline. Men's energies had never been brought into action, since they had never been taught to care for the souls of their fellowmen. But when the Sunday Schools were introduced, what a field was opened for the exercise of Christian energy. A field for the aged as well as for the young. Thus the pastor gained the sympathies of his people and was himself inspired with new zeal. Thus the energies of pastor and people were united and the church was enabled to burst asunder the ties of inactivity which had for so long a time prevented its growth. Show me a church which has kept its Sunday School in a flourishing condition, and you will show me one in which a state of Christian union and brotherly love exist, those Christian graces without which no church can accomplish, in the highest degree, the objects for which it was established. May the day fast approach when all the churches of this land will realize the true worth of a live, wide awake Sunday School.

Sunday Schools Arouse a Spirit of Activity In the Cause of Christianity, Thus Promoting the Prosperity of the Church.

No great object was ever accomplished in this world without some work. Away with the idea that the followers of Christ have nothing to do. Just as lack of physical exercise will render powerless the human body, so the want of spiritual activity will cause the spiritual life to dwarf and die. Every believer in Christ is under a sacred obligation either by word or deed to teach the truths of the Gospel to those around him and to assist in sending its light to dispel the darkness of distant heathen lands, until every nation shall know and every knee shall bow before the God of all salvation. Let us then rally around the Cross ever ready to participate in any good work which will promote the interest of the Church of God, remembering the sooner we engage the minds and hearts of the young people of this land in Bible study, the stronger men and women they will make in Christ. Behold even here the boundless fields where the church may reap a bountiful harvest from the Sunday School. It is from the Sunday School that the church has received most of her truest and greatest men for more than a century. The great and good Moody whose plain gospel sermons moved all Europe and America began his Christian career as a Sunday School teacher among the poorer classes of Chicago.

The Sunday School Is An Aid to the Church In the Dissemination of Most Important Knowledge.

As the most charming scenes in nature are not beautiful to the man who is physically blind, so the most precious truths of the Bible are regarded as valueless by those who are ignorant of them. Ignorance binds a man, as it were, with bands of steel from the service of God, hampers the Christian's energy and takes from him often times the power to discern right from wrong. It is one of the barriers which has always retarded the onward march of the church.

The Sunday School cannot be too highly regarded as an educator of the people. Notwithstanding the educational advantages of our modern life, many a poor boy has attained most of his intellectual training in the Sunday School and in

(Continued on page 15.)

OXFORD BIBLES for EVERY NEED

"The Oxford Bible is the Bible par excellence of the world"

THE HOME BIBLE

A Family Bible in Handy Size

An extra large type Oxford Text Bible, containing also, a family register and 12 beautifully colored maps. Size 9 x 5½ inches.

Specimen of Type

16 The LORD is King for ever and ever: the heathen are perished out

Nos.
01600 Superior Cloth, round corners and red edges $2.75
01603 French Morocco, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, head-band, book-mark $4.75

The JUNIOR'S Bible

Self-Pronouncing

With 4,000 Questions and Answers, carefully selected "Aids to Bible Study," 16 beautifully colored and 15 black full-page illustrations, 6 colored maps and a presentation page. Children may readily pronounce correctly difficult Scripture names, as this Bible is self-pronouncing. Size 7 x 4½ x 1¼ inches.

Type in Junior's Bible

2 I love the sum of all the of the children of Is'ra-el, years old and upward, thro

Nos.
1815 French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges, head-bands and book-mark. Make some child happy with one of these fine Bibles $2.95

Child's ILLUSTRATED Bible

The beautifully colored illustrations in this new Bible are a delight to the children. It has clear, readable type and yet it measures only 5½ x 3½ inches.

Specimen of Type

2 My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the LORD: my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God.

10 Mercy and truth gather: righteousness
kissed each other.
11 Truth shall sprin

Nos. 02112. French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, gold edges $2.50

Pocket REFERENCE Bible

Has over 50,000 center column references. Measures only 6¼ x 4½ inches. (A splendid gift for a young lady.)

Specimen of Type

9 Behold, "O God our shield,
look upon the face of thine anointed."
10 For a day in thy courts is better

a Gen. 16, 1. b Ps. 62, 1.
c 2 Cor. 1, 5.
d 2 Cor. 1, 5.

Nos. 07523x French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $3.25

Concordance Edition

Type and size as No. 07523x, but with a Concordance, subject index and dictionary of Scripture names. An excellent edition for students and Christian workers No. 03272x $5.00

OUR LEADER

Oxford Concordance Bible

Self-Pronouncing

This beautiful Oxford India paper edition is indeed the ideal Bible for the student, preacher and evangelist. Each proper name and difficult word is divided into syllables and accented, and though printed with large clear type, the volume measures only 8½ x 5½ x 1½ inches.

Specimen of Type

8 9 25 Jē-hōi'-ā-chin was 6 years old when he began t

Nos. 03671x. Fine Grain Morocco leather, overlapping cover, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head-bands and book-mark $9.50

A UNIQUE GIFT BIBLE

With Basket Weave Binding

The Antique brown calf leather binding has a basket-weave grain, and button clasp. Has overlapping cover, art silk lined, with red under gold edges. With references. Printed on Oxford India paper. Type as Pocket Reference Bible. No. 03255x $5.50

As No. 03255x, with concordance. No. 03276x $6.50

Oxford TEACHER'S Bibles

Have over 50,000 center column references, and 300 double-column pages of up-to-date helps, conveniently arranged in alphabetical order. Also 32 full-page illustrations, and an indexed atlas of the Bible with 15 beautifully colored maps of Bible lands.

Easy-to-Read-Edition

Size 7¼ x 5 x 1½ inches

Specimen of Type

14 Like sheep they are laid in grave; death shall feed on th

Nos. 04453. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges. A durable and hand-some Bible $4.35

Oxford India Paper Edition

Only one inch thick.

0773x. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, head-bands and book-mark. A beautiful gift edition $7.00

RED LETTER Edition

Same size and type as style No. 04453, with same references and helps, but with all the words of Jesus Christ printed in red. White paper edition No. 05453. French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $5.00

The Oxford imprint in a Bible guarantees satisfaction

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Secretary.

A PRAYER.

Father, we thank Thee that in Jesus every need is supplied. Trusting, both soul and body are fed. Following, one's path is safe and sure. Serving, others are succored and sustained. Loving, the gates of God swing wide and beckoning. Thou who lovest all men, although the evil that is in the world besets and hinders, make us willing to bide and tarry, eager to do Thy will, grateful for a part in helping others to find the way of loving, trusting, following, serving. More and more, in Thy light may all see light. For Jesus' sake, Amen.

"L."

SOME REASONS FOR TITHING.

The Church needs the tithe. It is said that the American Protestant Church gives only about one tenth of one per cent of the tithe. If this is true, is it any wonder our churches are in their present deplorable financial condition? If one half of the Church would bring their tithe into the Storehouse of the Lord, the preacher's flour barrel would never be empty, the church building would be kept in good repair, the needs for charity work would be provided, our orphans would be housed, our hungry fed, the naked would be clothed, the sick of our poor would be comfortably cared for in church hospitals, the glorious Gospel of the Son of God would soon be carried to the ends of the world, and the Church would march on to glorious victory, not a burden to charity, but a mighty factor in the relief of suffering, sorrowing, sinning humanity. The Church needs the tithe—can you withhold it?

Christ needs the tithe. In Paul's epistle to the Romans, the tenth chapter, beginning with verse twelve, "There is no difference between the Jew and the Greek; for the same Lord over all is rich unto all that call upon Him. For whosoever shall call upon Him shall be saved. How then shall they call on Him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in Him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher? and how shall they preach except they be sent?" And we might ask, "How shall Christ call, send, and sustain preachers on mission fields without His tenth, or the tithe?" Many missionaries have returned to the homeland in recent years because of lack of funds. For the same reason many more have never gone. Mission Boards cannot send them without money. God cannot supply the needs of the mission boards if His people do not pay Him His due, or the tithe. God needs the tenth, and must have the tithe in order to save the lost of this world.

A billion lost Souls need the tithe. The message of deliverance through Jesus Christ was given to the Church almost nineteen hundred years ago. The disciples were told to preach it in all the world. They have been at it these centuries, and still there are upward of a billion souls unevangelized. Most of them have never yet heard of the name "Jesus." They do not know that the Christ of God came to save them from their sins and superstitions. In India alone they are dying at the rate of ten million each year. In China twelve million go out into eternity every year, and in the other heathen countries at the same proportional rate. Think of the three million people dying each month without the message, over 100,000 each day, or 70 each minute the whole year through, with no white-winged angels to help them over the cold river of death, and no heavenly bells to welcome them home. All this is due largely to the scarcity of funds with which to do missionary work. A billion souls need the tithe.

Then, too, the tithes and offerings system is the only financial plan God has given for the Church. Nowhere in the sacred writings do we find a substitute for this plan of financing God's holy work. Not once do we read of a chicken pie supper, bazaar, or anything else of that kind, used as a means of securing funds for the needs of the church treasury. The devil hates anything and everything that God has ordained, and consequently hates the tithing system. Therefore, he has invented many substitutes, and has secured the adoption of them by many of the churches to their own detriment. Through these he has dragged them down to their present struggling condition. If we adopt God's plan we are sure of success, because He will not let His plan fail. God's plan once adopted and followed, the church is a positive success, and that which will be a success in the church will be a similar success in the life of every individual who will adopt it and faithfully follow it. Since this is God's only revealed financial plan for His Church and people, will we not faithfully preach it, pray it, talk it, and practice it?—Adapted from Wesleyan Methodist.

MISSIONARY OFFERINGS.

WEEK ENDING AUGUST 8, 1931.

Sunday Schools.

Previously acknowledged	$ 3,794.72
Noon Day, Wedowee, Ala.	4.14
Spring Hill, Waverly, Va.	1.00
First Christian, Greensboro, N. C.	14.04
Mt. Bethel, Summerfield, N. C.	5.78
Newport, Stanley, Va.	1.24
New Lebanon, Wentworth, N. C.	4.53
Holy Neck, Holland, Va.	8.00
Linville, Va.	4.56
Winchester, Va.	3.48
Ether, N. C.	.70
First Christian, Portsmouth, Va.	14.07
Roanoke, Ala.	1.12
Youngsville, N. C.	2.00
Timber Ridge, High View, W. Va.	3.66
Antioch, Harrisonburg, Va.	2.31
Palm Street, Greensboro, N. C.	4.94
Piney Plains, Carey, N. C.	1.00
Pleasant Ridge, Ramseur, N. C.	3.71
Parks Cross Roads, Ramseur, N. C.	2.00
Wentworth, McCullers, N. C.	4.17
Shiloh, Kemp's Mill, N. C.	1.00
Liberty (Vance), Henderson, N. C.	3.39
Total	$ 3,885.56

Individual and Church Offerings.

Previously acknowledged	$ 4,357.18
"A Friend," Elon College, N. C.	25.00
"A Friend," Elon College, N. C.	10.00
Total	$ 4,392.18

Dollar-a-Month Club.

Previously acknowledged	$ 150.00
J. W. Stanley (First Church), Reidsville ..	3.00
Miss Jewel Hatch (First Church), Burlington, N. C.	1.00
Miss Irene Headley (Christian Church), Winchester, Va.	1.00
Total	$ 155.00

Specials.

Previously acknowledged	$ 4,311.11
Mebane (N. C.) Sunday School	2.00

Total $ 4,313.11

Summary.

Previously acknowledged	$24,203.44
Sunday School, Regular	90.84
Individual and Church Collections	35.00
Dollar-a-Month Club	5.00
Specials	2.00

Total $24,336.28

J. O. ATKINSON,
Secretary.

QUARTERLY REPORT.

The following is the report of receipts and disbursements of the funds of the Woman's Board of Missions of the Southern Christian Convention for the quarter ending June 30, 1931:

Receipts.

Valley of Virginia Central Conference:
Womens Societies	$ 79.63
Young People's Societies	14.09
Cradle Roll Societies	10.21
Rally Offerings	13.99
	$ 117.92
Georgia and Alabama Conference:
Women's Societies	6.25
North Carolina Conference:
Women's Societies	$607.56
District Rallies	36.80
Young People's Societies	25.21
Willing Workers' Societies	27.29
Cradle Roll Societies	23.59
	720.45
Eastern Virginia Conference:
Women's Societies	$809.21
Young People's Societies	278.00
Willing Workers' Societies	79.50
Cradle Roll Societies	34.34
	1,201.09
Total Receipts	$2,045.71

Disbursements.

Home Missions:
Mountains of Virginia	$200.00
Ocean View	200.00
South Norfolk	200.00
Raleigh	350.00
	$ 950.00
Foreign Missions:
Japan	$698.93
Japan, Sunday School	12.50
Japan, Bible Woman	25.00
Japan, Kindergarten	28.48
	764.91
Porto Rico	$204.99
Porto Rico, Kindergarten	28.49
	233.48
Total Disbursements	$1,948.39

Respectfully submitted,
MRS. H. S. HARDCASTLE,
Treasurer.

MONTICELLO MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

On July 17th, the Women's Missionary Society of Monticello Church met in its regular meeting at the church. The subject for this meeting was, "Education in Porto Rico," the discussions being organized from Program II in the little booklet, "Yesterday and Today in Porto Rico." A large percentage of the members was present and took an active part in this program. Mrs. John Dixon was the leader, and Mrs. W. R. Rudd and Mrs. L. G. Faucette served refreshments.

MRS. D. E. MICHAEL,
Cor. Secretary.

TEACHING MISSIONS IN THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

By MRS. B. D. JONES, Holland, Va.

The Church School affords the most promising field that we have within reach for the seeds of missionary instruction. If we are to develop or build Christian character, we cannot begin too early with the job. Since the child grows and changes from year to year, we must be prepared to meet the change.

The great Sunday School world has made, and is at present making, attempts in different directions to meet the unquestioned need of adequate instruction in training the child to be missionary. The aim of missionary education is to aid the child to develop a right attitude toward others, to create in him a desire to render service, to give him adequate opportunity for showing a Christ-like attitude toward others. The vital point of missionary interest and missionary power is in the Sunday School, and the reason why the Christian Church today is as unconcerned about missions and as indifferent to missionary needs and opportunities as it is, is because we have not made, and have not sought to make, our Sunday Schools missionary in teaching, training and activity.

We have so far largely neglected the most fruitful field of missionary possibility and activity that we have anywhere in reach. Before our Church can come to be a missionary power in the world, it will have to get in its Sunday Schools missionary zeal, interest and enthusiasm. This will come as a result of proper missionary instruction, which is to be found in every Sunday School lesson of every Sunday in the year, if only the teacher will look for, find, and apply it. I wish it were possible to bring home to the hearts of every Sunday School officer and pupil the flaming words of George H. Trull, who never spoke truer than when he declared: "In the hands of Sunday School superintendents and teachers lies the real solution of the missionary problem. They hold the key to the whole situation, and if they improve their opportunity, there will be Sunday Schools whose intelligence about missions and zeal for them have never been equalled in the world's history."

Are our Sunday Schools giving our pupils a square deal? Not all are giving one Sunday's offering to missions yet. When they bring their nickels and dimes to Sunday School, thinking they are giving something to the Lord, be honest with them and tell them you are spending them to buy literature for themselves. We send these same children to day school, and out of our own pockets buy their books. Isn't there an error? Why such a distinction? One day this error will be corrected.

The Sunday School is both the teaching force and the training center of the Church. The Church is the greatest institution in the world. The Sunday School is the greatest organization of the Church, and the missionary enterprise is the greatest movement as well as the chief business of the Church and of the Sunday School. The greatest Missionary book ever written is the Bible. We are indifferent very largely ourselves because we were not taught missions when in the Sunday School, and our children are growing up indifferent because we are not teaching them. If we are convinced it is our job and our responsibility as adults to teach missions in the Sunday School, then let us engage in some serious study. "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed." I can scarcely conceive of a Sunday School lesson in which some phase of missions cannot be introduced.

We are doing almost nothing in missionary lines and are giving sums that are shamefully inadequate. We are sending out missionaries seldom, if ever, for no other reason than that we have not taught and are not teaching missions in the Sunday School. We are not developing the missionary passion. We are not bringing home to the minds of our youth the necessity of worldwide evangelization, the privilege and the joy of winning boys and girls, men and women in the home land and in heathen lands to Jesus Christ.

Bell M. Brain says: "The average teacher, even when willing, knows little or nothing about missions, and is therefore unable to teach a missionary lesson successfully. She also says: "Of all the organizations within the Church, none offers so promising a field for missionary work as the Sunday School." The Sunday School is the logical place for laying the foundation. The greatest missionary Teacher who ever visited this planet was Jesus of Nazareth.

John R. Mott says that the Sunday School is, in some respects, the largest undeveloped resource of the Church. How heavily then rests the missionary responsibility upon the present-day leaders in the Sunday School. Missionary education is necessary, because you are not a Christian if you do not believe in missions. One-half of the world goes to bed hungry, one half of the world cannot have a real doctor when they are ill, one half of the world cannot read and write—and some of these are not far from us. Are you teaching the boys and girls to share with others?

There are three very vital reasons why one is safe in declaring that the Sunday School is the pivotal point of missionary interest and power.

1. The Sunday School is already an organization—the biggest organization of the Church—which has the confidence, co-operation, and support of all classes, kinds and ages of Christians. Reach the Sunday School for missions and you have touched every time and temperament and mood of life from the cradle to the grave. The Sunday School is the Church teaching and learning, and there is nothing that strengthens the missionary cause and spirit like knowledge of needs and conditions in mission lands.

2. Among the scholars in the Sunday Schools of today are the missionaries of tomorrow. On this account, says William A. Brown, "The evangelization of the world waits alone upon the willingness of the workers in the Sunday School."

How true this statement is will be the more apparent when it is called to mind that billions of wealth now created, and to be created, will be possessed or controlled by those now in our Sunday Schools. These youths, taught in the Sunday School the lessons of morality, thrift, economy, and unselfishness, will be in very large measure the men and women who in a few years will be controlling industry, producing the bulk of wealth, and directing the affairs of Church, State and nation. Reach the Sunday School and you have opened up channels through which the ever increasing stream of living waters will flow to the enrichment of the Church at home and abroad.

3. The third reason for declaring it to be the pivotal point of missionary interest and power, is because it has been proved by undeniable facts and demonstrated in actual experiences.

There are many ways in which to teach missions. Have a live mission superintendent, giving her five minutes before the whole school every Sunday, or certainly one Sunday in each month. Do not expect too much of her. Give her the privilege of attending such a mission conference as that at Chambersburg. There she will meet missionaries from all parts of the world, the great missionary teachers and leaders. I wish every church would send at least one young person to such a school next summer. I was impressed with the number of young people there this summer, studying to teach about millions in the villages and rural districts of the world.

Have a Missionary Committee to put on a program from time to time and in various ways work to keep missions prominent in the minds of both teachers and pupils.

Form the teachers in a mission study group. If they can feel the need, get the vision, or be awakened to the opportunity and obligation, they will inspire their pupils to activity. Missions simply means the Bible in the Sunday School presented in its proper light and truth.

I urge Sunday Schools everywhere to undertake a real program of instruction, of information, of learning about missions. If by some means the teachers in our Sunday Schools could be induced to study missions and teach missions in all of their classes, it would be the greatest gift to missions ever made in our Christian Church.

A housemaid, when scolded for untidiness, said: "I am sure the rooms would be clean enough if it were not for the sun, which is always showing the dirty corners." Thus do men revile the Gospel because of their own sin. The fault of Jesus was His truth and purity that rebuked the lives of those who condemned Him.—S. S. Chronicle.

"A man cannot go forward with one foot if he goes backward with the other foot. Progress in life, to be real, must be well balanced."

COMBINATION OFFER—To a new subscriber or for renewal, $2.25, either Gentleman's (Capitol) Pen or Ladies' Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. And to "Sun" subscribers, not in arrears, any Pen at one-fourth off. Address: THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1536 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us. Postage paid and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer. MEN'S PENS—Capitol, $2.00; Mercantile, $2.50; Cardinal, $3.00. LADIES' PENS, $2.00.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN

ADVENTURES IN YOUTH FELLOWSHIP

"Youth at Work in the Church."

JEWEL TRUITT, Editor, Waverly, Virginia.

PROGRAM

OF THE FIFTH ANNUAL SESSION

of the

YOUNG PEOPLE'S CONGRESS

of the Eastern Virginia Christian Conference
Bethlehem Christian Church, August 20, 1931.

Theme: "Forward Together."

Morning Session.

"Forward Together in Local Church Community, and Nation."

10:00 Call to Order—Webb Burgess, Jr., President.
Song Service.

10:10 Welcome Address.

10:15 Response.

10:20 Worship Service.

10:30 Business Session.

10:50 Discussion Hour:

I.—"The Church and Young People."

Why do Young People attend Church?

Why do Young People not attend Church?

What I Expect of My Pastor.

What My Pastor has a Right to Expect of Me.

How May Young People Better Serve the Church?

II.—"Young People and the Community."

What does the Community Owe Its Young People?

What do Young People Owe the Community?

What is the Influence of Movies upon Young People?

What Can Young People do to Better the Civic and Moral life of the Community?

III.—"Young People and the Nation."

What are Some of My Duties as an American Citizen?

How Can Young People Help Solve the Prohibition Question?

11:50 Special Number—Eastern District.

12:00 Debate—"Resolved: That it is more difficult to be a Christian now than when our parents were young."

12:20 Announcements.

12:30 Adjournment for luncheon.

Afternoon Session.

"Forward Together in World Friendship and World Peace."

2:00 Call to Order—President.
Song Service.

2:10 Worship Service.

2:20 "Ask Me a Question about Porto Rico"—Mr. Alfred Barrett.

2:50 Special Number—Western District.

3:00 Report of Committees.
Business.

3:20 Address—Rev. F. C. Lester.

3:40 Closing Worship Program—Miss Jewel Truitt.

For the first time in more than a decade Uncle Sam closed the fiscal year in the red—to the tune of $903,000,000 as compared with a surplus of $184,000,000 in 1930. And that was a much better showing than was expected, for back in the middle of June the deficit was more than a billion. Payments on second quarter tax installments helped out, though they were far below previous years. In the last fiscal year the government took in, roughly, $3,300,000,000 and spent $1,170,000,000. There remained cash in the Treasury of about $500,000,000.

SEPTEMBER AND OCTOBER IN OUR CHURCHES.

Re-organization of Church Work.

Farewells to Going Away Students.

Opening of Schools:

Welcoming Public School Teachers.

Welcoming Students.

The Sunday School Anniversary.

Promotion Day.

Rally Day, or Rally Month.

Fall Greetings.

Sunday School Teacher Training.

Plans for the Coming Year.

Fall Picnics.

MISS TRUITT TO LEAVE WORK.

Miss Jewel Truitt, for two years connected with the Board of Christian Education as its Field Secretary, leaves that position on September 1st. Financial reasons have caused the change in the work of the Board. Further plans have not yet been made for the continuance of this important work. Miss Truitt will continue as editor of the "Young People's Page" in THE CHRISTIAN SUN, a task which she was assigned by the young people in their meeting last Christmas time. It will be her pleasure as editor of this page to keep in close touch with the work of the young people in the South in order that the best help may be rendered to the young people of our Church through THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

NO SUMMER SCHOOL AT WADLEY.

The School of Christian Education which was to have been held at Wadley, Alabama, this week, was called off at the last moment by those in charge of the Summer School in Alabama. A message to Rev. F. C. Lester, Dean of the School, saying that the prospects were against the school because of financial and other reasons, on last Friday afternoon, caused the school to be called off for this year. It is hoped that the failure to have the Summer School at Wadley this year will not be detrimental to the growth of the Summer School, and that in 1932 the school may be bigger and better than ever before.

Miss Truitt has been receiving requests for other articles about her recent trip in the Western part of the United States. These articles will be resumed within a few weeks.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

LESSON FOR AUGUST 23, 1931.

(Adapted from C. E. Guide.)

TOPIC: "Bible Truths Based on Nature."—Galatians 6: 7-9; John 15: 1-8.

Program.

Prelude.—Greig's "Butterfly," or some other selection of descriptive nature.

Call to Worship.—

When I consider thy heavens, the work of thy fingers,

The moon and the stars, which thou hast ordained:

What is man, that thou art mindful of him?

And the son of man, that thou visitest him?

For thou hast made him but little lower than God,

And crownest him with glory and honor.

Hymn.—"This is My Father's World."

Introductory Talk.—By the leader.

Solo.—Some appropriate selection.

Discussion.—

Closing Hymn.—"Now the Day is Over."

Benediction.—

"Unto the God of the mountains and valleys,

The rivers and the oceans,

The birds and the flowers,

The sun, moon and stars;

The God and Father of mankind,

We commit our lives. Amen."

Thoughts on the Topic.

Introductory.—One is amazed at the prominence of nature in the Bible when he looks through it with our topic in mind. It is indeed an out-door book. The men who wrote it lived near the heart of nature. When we think of the Bible there immediately comes to our minds thoughts of shepherds, husbandmen, fishermen, and tillers of the soil. It is no wonder that so many of the great truths of the Bible are drawn from nature.

The great events of the life of Jesus took place in the out-of-doors. His baptism marks the beginning of his public life. He spent the forty days of temptation in the wilderness. Before all the great crises of his life he sought the peace and comfort of his Father in desert and mountain.

Jesus told his disciples that just as a tree can be judged by its fruits, a man can be judged by his deeds. "By their fruits" said he, "shall ye know them. Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles? Even so every good tree bringeth forth good fruit, but the corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit. A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit."

The Psalmist uses a tree as a symbol of a righteous man:

"And he shall be like a tree planted by the streams of water,

That bringeth forth its fruit in its season,

Whose leaf also doth not wither;

And whatsoever he doeth shall prosper."

In nothing is God's care more beautifully manifested than in the way in which he has endowed the birds and animals with means for their self-preservation. Animals put on a heavy coat of fur in winter to protect them from the cold. Squirrels scurry around in the autumn with great industry gathering their nuts for their winter food. Birds fly south at the first signs of the coming cold weather.

Nature is the medium through which Jesus presented many great life principles and truths to his followers.

Looking out upon a world of sin, sorrow and disappointment, Jesus was sensitive to human need. He said to his disciples, "Say not ye, There are yet four months, and then cometh the harvest? Behold I say unto you, Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields that they are white already unto harvest." He continues: "The harvest indeed is plenteous, but the laborers are few. Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he send forth laborers into his harvest."

The fields today are still "white unto the harvest." Men and women are weary, discouraged, and perplexed. From the lowest to the highest, they are seeking a better way of life; a way of justice and mercy and brotherhood; a way of fair and equal opportunity for all; a way of abundant living.

Jesus calls us into his harvest fields.

Daily Readings.

Aug. 17. "Orderliness."—Ecclesiastes 3:1-8.

Aug. 18. "Influence of the Word."—Matt. 13:1-9.

Aug. 19. "Silent Influence."—Matt. 13:33.

Aug. 20. "Lesson from a Ploughman."—Luke 9:57-62.

Aug. 21. "No Spiritual Discernment."—Luks 12:54-57.

Aug. 22. "A New Birth."—John 3:1-12.

Sunday School Lesson

By REV. H. S. HARDCASTLE.

THE GOSPEL FOR ALL MEN.

LESSON VIII—AUGUST 23, 1931.

GOLDEN TEXT: "There is no distinction between Jew and Greek; for the same Lord is Lord of all, and is rich unto all that call upon him."—Romans 10: 12.

LESSON: Acts 10: 1-11: 18; I. Cor. 1: 23-25.

God from the beginning intended the gospel for all men and for all of man. It was needed by and adapted to all men. And it was for all of man, a force redeeming and renewing the physical, mental, social, moral, and spiritual life of man. But God had to be patient with man until He could bring man to share His vision and His purpose. Today's lesson deals with an important step in the process whereby God made it plain that His gospel was for all men and for all of man. This event is one of the mile-stones in the history of Christianity.

A Vision.

Cornelius, a centurion, that is a kind of captain over a hundred Roman soldiers, was a devout man, a worshipper of God, and a man generous in his gifts to the needy. He is one of that number whose name is legion, who are in the Army and Navy, but who are men of high ideals and sterling character. He evidently was a man of earnest spirit who hungered and thirsted for righteousness, and in response to this hunger God led him in the way of a large spiritual blessing. He had a vision which bade him send to Joppa for Simon Peter, and he was not disobedient to the heavenly vision, for he immediately sent some of his trusted men for Peter.

Peter also had a vision. He had been lodging with Simon, a tanner, and coming home one day and not finding dinner ready he went up on a house-top to pray. (He was unlike so many men who come home and find dinner not ready and who proceed to "make a scene.") His vision was suggestive. Here was a large vessel like a sheet let down from heaven filled with all kinds of beast and fowls. He was bidden to rise, kill and eat, and in reply to his protest that he had never eaten anything unclean, he was told that what God had cleansed he was not to call common or unclean. It is rather significant that this process was repeated three times, the number of times that Peter denied his Lord. While Peter was thinking over what all this could mean the men from Cornelius' house arrived at his home and asked for him. It is just one of those innumerable instances of how God works out his purposes, often by moving unbeknown on the hearts of those whom he would bring together and through whom he would work out his purposes.

A Visit.

Peter went with them; there was nothing else to do. But he went with "moral reservations." He took pains to tell Cornelius when he saw him that it "was unlawful for a man that is a Jew to keep company, or come unto one of another nation." But he added that God had opened his eyes to the great truth that those whom the Jews had been looking upon as Gentiles and as common and unclean, were also within the scope of God's grace and purpose. He had been obliged to admit that it was not racial privilege that made men acceptable to God, but that "in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted of Him." Thereupon he proceeded to preach to these Gentiles Jesus Christ. We have only an extract of Peter's remarks in the tenth chapter of Acts, but it is sufficient to show us that there was passion and power in Peter's message.

A Victory.

"While Peter yet spake these words, the Holy Ghost fell on all them which heard the word." It came as a surprise to these of the Jewish Christians who were with Peter that the gift of the Holy Spirit should be poured out on the Gentiles, but there was no denying the fact. God was showing men of all time that the gospel is for all men. No race or nation or religion has a monopoly on the Holy Spirit. To as many as receive Him to them gives He power to become the sons of God.

It was a great victory for all concerned. There was still skepticism at headquarters at Jerusalem, but after Peter had told simply and directly just what had happened there was only one conclusion. "They held their peace and glorified God saying, Then hath God also granted to the Gentiles repentance unto life."

But alas, there are many today who still believe that the gospel is for privileged classes and especially privileged races. There are still all too many who believe that there is a distinction between the Jew and the Greek, and who do not think that there is the same Lord over all, who is rich unto all that call upon Him. One of the most dangerous factors in the life of the church is that group who do not believe in "foreign missions" or at least who do not believe enough to do anything about it.

"Think not anything little wherein we may fulfill God's commandments. It is in the midst of common and ordinary duties that our life is placed; common occupations make up our lives. By faith and love we obey, but by obedience are the faith and love, which God gives us, strengthened. Then shall we indeed love our Lord when we seek to please him in all things, speak or are silent, sleep or wake, labor or rest, do or suffer, with a single eye to his service. God give us grace so to love him that we may in all things see him, in all obey, and, obeying, see him more clearly and love him less unworthily; and so, in that blissful harmony of obedience and of love, be prepared to see him 'face to face'!"—Selected.

Though we have received no official notice of the fact, we understand that the Newport News Church has extended a call to Rev. R. Lee House, which has been accepted. We congratulate both church and pastor.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the number and price.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3/8 x 8 Inches, and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

Minion Type, Pocket Size, 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold.....$1.60

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.50

2173—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges.....$6.00

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 16-16 of an Inch Thick.

133X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 5 3/8 Inches, and 1 inch thick, with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 5 3/8 Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.

65—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps.....$2.50

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3/8 x 8 1/2 Inches and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With Concise Bible Dictionary, combined Concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.75

RED-LETTER EDITION.

With All the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands; title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations; special book for Sunday Schools.....95c

Any of the above Bibles sent postpaid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street,

Richmond, Virginia

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY H. E. ROUNTREE

One of our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"O Lord, I beseech thee, let now thine ear be attentive to the prayer of thy servant, and to the prayer of thy servants, who desire to fear thy name, and prosper, I pray thee, thy servant this day."

MONDAY.

CAN IT BE?

Lesson: Psalm 34: 1-10.

"I will bless the Lord at all times."—Verse 1.

It is one of the greatest offences of our souls that we do not bless the Lord for all things, but spend much of our time complaining of many things. The fact is, we are dwelling in the Lord's domain all the time, we inhale his love every moment, we receive full forgiveness unstintedly, we are given his help in every need, and "he that maketh the most high God his habitation, no evil shall befall him, neither any plague shall come nigh his dwelling."

The eye of the Lord watches over us, and his ears are open to our cry. We sigh and his power delivers us. A ladder to heaven is before us always. There are many afflictions, indeed, but the Lord delivereth us from them all. God would have us know these facts and praise him.

We do not praise him all the time because of several reasons: First, We grow calous to that which is common. Second, Because blessings in the miseries of life are not apparent and we are unable to see beyond our immediate material circumstances. Third, We are unable to understand how blessed an effect our troubles have in making us whole and promoting our happiness.

His grace is given us that we may see the invisible in the divine plan of things and that he often makes even sin to serve him. It is given us that we may be content and have hope in him. It is hard to see, perhaps, but as we grow older and more experienced, we can look back and see how foolish we have been and we know the more how blessed it is to trust in the Lord.

Prayer.—Dear Lord, we desire to trust in thee. By thy Holy Spirit, grant us thy mercy and unction from on high to say, "Whether we live or die, we are the Lord's." Amen.

TUESDAY.

DEAD WHILE LIVING, LIVING WHILE DEAD.

Lesson: Luke 7: 11-17.

"She (he) that liveth in pleasure is dead while she liveth."—I Tim. 5: 6.

As we read the paper this morning—the many accounts of deaths and funerals, we reflect that life is one continuous funeral march which no one can stop. The whole earth is a cemetery and the whole human race is a funeral procession.

This also reflects that we carry death in ourselves. All that we are physically, will return to dust, and we will surrender our place to another where we will soon be forgotten as a blade of grass, Solomon says, whose place shall know it no more.

There is another death within us more threatening than these—the death of the soul, namely when man is separated from God through sin and unbelief. He who is so separated from God is dead while he lives, and is on his way to his eternal death, which, if we understand aright, means to be forever shut out from God, light and life. This will be the "pitch darkness" of gloom and despair.

Our lesson is heartening indeed. The procession of death coming out of Nain is met by a procession of life—Jesus and his true followers. After that, what? They that come forth in sorrow and tears went forth in joy and gladness. Jesus is still at the head of the column of life and they who meet Him, find death subdued, their sorrows flying away, and life is created anew and made beautiful forever.

They have "passed from death unto life," and need have no fear of the death eternal. When the body dies, it is but sleep, out of which they shall be awakened to be brought to the marriage feast of the lamb.

This is something we must learn to believe in order that we may have comfort in every sorrow; that while there is nothing but corruption in the flesh, of him and in him there is nothing but life. However paradoxical it may seem, it may even be true that the more of misery and death, the greater the wealth and comfort and life shall we find in Him. Remember His words: "Where sin doth abound, grace doth much more abound."

Prayer.—Lord Jesus, give us the light and the gifts of the Spirit to believe in and to hold fast to thee that thou Majesty give us eternal life. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

OVERMASTERING GRACE.

Lesson: Ephesians 3: 13-21.

"To know the love of Christ that passeth knowledge."

Love that passeth knowledge flows like a stream from God and embraces the whole world. It is the will of the Father to give us grace that in this love we may be rooted and grounded, through faith, in the noble things of life, and so rooted that nothing can separate us from it.

Prayer.—Do thou Lord, weighten so by the spirit and thus make us to believe, and may the power of Christ us prove itself in patience and joy. Amen.

THURSDAY.

SANE HEALTH FOR GLORY.

Lesson: Jno. 11: 1-13.

"Lord, behold, he whom Thou lovest is sick."—Verse 3.

These are beautiful words; words of pain to be sure, but words of more hope than pain. First it expresses humble submission of those concerned who seemed to place all their trouble on Jesus, as a reward of that trust they caught a vision that "this sickness is not unto death." In the meantime Lazarus died. What did they then think of Jesus?

Surely, they must have been deluded. The fact was: that their vision was not completed. Jesus wanted them to see clear through into the other world; so he allows his friend to die and be buried that they might see this.

It may seem strange that we have to pass through suffering, agonizing and torturous experiences to refine our souls and give us visions of eternal truth and beauty. But as it takes fire to refine gold so is it with the soul. He may try us with afflictions and remain away from us longer than seems right to us, yea, he may even let us wither and die. If He does, we can be assured that it is to burn out sin and death in order that we may awaken in perfect health for glory and have no doubt thereafter.

Prayer.—Lord Jesus, we know that thou lovest us, give us grace to love thee, come thou into our hearts and homes so that whether sick, suffering or dying, we may say, "The Lord gave and the Lord taketh away, blessed be the name of the Lord." Our sickness is not unto death, but for the glory of God. Amen.

FRIDAY.

HEAVEN WEEPING.

Lesson: Jno. 11: 33-38.

"Jesus wept."—Verse 35.

Jesus wept at the grave of Lazarus. Shortly after this he wept over Jerusalem, and then again in his spiritual agony in the Gethsemane.

The Son of God waters with His tears our cemeteries, our pleasure grounds and our paths of glory. This proves His human heart, His brotherly spirit and His friendly feeling towards us. Whatever our sorrows we can be assured of His sympathy. He takes upon Himself our sorrows, and our aims and buries them and by His resurrection we are resurrected from them unto life, happiness and glory. If we have occasion to weep, weep on, but by faith and holy living with infinite trust in Him, let it not be as those without hope.

Prayer.—Lord Jesus, we thank thee for Thy weepings. Teach us the meaning of Thy tears and grant that in them we may find the healing of our bodies and souls. Amen.

SATURDAY.

OBEDIENCE UNTO DEATH.

Lesson: Jno. 11: 39-45.

"Lazarus came forth."

Jesus performs a miracle, but not until He has proved and asked the Father's consent. He does this in the case of most miracles. He was equally omnipotent with the Father, but in His humiliation He left the use of that power often to His Father.

The will of Jesus always coincides with the will of His Father, for which reason His prayer is always answered. It was by this obedience that it is said He was "obedient unto death; even the death of the cross."

Thank God that our struggling faith shall obtain victory through His grace.

Prayer.—Lord, we pray Thee, increase our faith and make us to see Thy glory. Give us Thy Spirit, strengthen our weak faith and open our eyes to see Thy glory. Amen.

SUNDAY.

BOUND FOR HEAVEN.

Lesson: Rom. 5: 1-5.

"Being justified by faith, we have peace with God."

This week's readings and meditations have been along the line of the blessings of suffering and they have been an effort to see through the gloom and through the life and teaching of Jesus the light of glory beyond.

In vain the Devil accuses us on account of our bitter experiences. But Paul says that "they who sow in tears shall reap in joy." If the text means anything, it is that in Jesus we stand in grace unceasingly; clothed with righteousness, there is no other conclusion of the journey, but peace with God. This does not refer to our feeling, which are so limited in the flesh and which may go up or down according to the conditions of the liver; it refers to God's relation to us and offers us a faith which we may tie to, let conditions be what they may. "If God be for us who can be against us?"

So let us cheer up, down-hearted one, the world may persecute us, life may be full of labor vexations and troubles, but in Christ we can endure all without complaining. Christ has taken away our sins, God has bound us up in His family with a covenant of love and peace, and all is ours.

Prayer.—Give us, O God, faith undesignated; let our hope wax strong, sustain us in all trials, and help us to emerge always with victory and a firmer faith in the truth of the living God. Amen.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN'S PULPIT

REV. JOSEPH W. FIX, Preacher.

CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP.

By REV. JOSEPH W. FIX, B. D.

"Joash did that which was right in the eyes of the Lord all the days of Jehoida, the priest."—II. Chronicles 23:2.

Seldom, if ever, do we stop to consider the value of fellowship. This experience of which we speak, is of supreme helpfulness to Christians. Indeed, it is a privilege of inestimable value. I have recently read in the Old Testament, that most interesting account of that ancient king of Judah. If you will turn with me to the twenty-third chapter of second Chronicles, you will read in the second verse that this stalwart young king, "Joash, did that which was right in the sight of the Lord all the days of Jehoida, the priest." The implication here is apparent, for it shows that it was Jehoida's influence upon the life of this young man that kept him straight before God and man. We read that after Jehoida's death the young king missed the fellowship that meant so much to him. And because of the absence of one with whom he had shared even life itself, he commenced to listen to other counsellors, with the result that he and they "forsook the house of the Lord, the God of their fathers, and served the Asherim and the idols." But as long as Joash fellowshiped with this admirable priest, he did that which was right in the eyes of the Lord.

Fellowship that does not help another person is counted as time wasted. All of God's children are under obligation to share, through fellowship, the joy of their faith and experience. All of us know that there is nothing in our moral traditions that is of more value than the sense of doing right in the sight of the Lord. In a recent issue of The Congregationalist and Herald of Gospel Liberty, there was printed an article entitled, "Carroll's Code at Eighty." In brief, the writer, Dr. Charles Carroll, D. D., of the Middle Atlantic District of Congregational Churches, at the age of eighty years, sets forth some of the governing principles by which his life has been enriched. That which struck my attention may be found in the seventh item of the code: "Fear nothing but sin. An honest man or woman has nothing to fear, for he or she is guilty of nothing. Fear is our most enervating foe, but perfect love casteth out fear. Plan to help all the folks you meet by helping them to master self. Ask little and give much."

It is well to know that one's life and fellowship with others has enabled one to fear no evil. It is fine to know that one's influence upon another has enabled that one to say with Joash, that he has been enabled to do right. I believe that we are all debtors to some Jehoida. We are better men and women than we should have been, because of the silent pressure of unseen hands, the steadying influence of that moral tradition that others have made upon our lives. It is equally true that what we receive, we owe. Now the one great need of the world is just that which Christian fellowship alone can impart. I speak of the need of religion in such an age as this. Religion is the only power that can ever make anew and alive a dead world. It cannot be told, nor can it be taught. It must be caught. And the duty of our fellowship is to impart the power or religion to those who are out of harmony with God.

In Dr. George Jackson's little book on "The Guests of God," he takes the reader back to the first century and there tells of the origin of Christian fellowship. He tells us that the pattern and origin of our fellowship was that of Jesus and the twelve. Nothing in the record of His life is more instructive than the manner in which He wrought with men to live as He lived, by thus following Him daily. We remember especially the result it had upon Peter. On him, perhaps, more vehemently than on the others. In order that Peter might become a changed man Jesus prayed often for him. In the Master's words hear him say, "I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not." It is to be lamented that Peter fell, but as one of old quaintly said, "He fell softly, because he fell on his Master's prayer."

And now as to the fellowship of Jesus with Judas. Need there have been such a man as Judas among the twelve? At any rate Jesus prayed for him, too. Nothing was wanting when it came to Jesus and His duty of fellowship. He simply fulfilled it. He who prayed for Peter, lifted a prayer to God for the weaker man. But what about the other disciples? Had they done all they might have done to save poor Judas? It is not likely that they fellowshiped with him as they should. When Judas betrayed his Lord, and they heard about it, I wonder if they felt that perhaps some drop of His blood was upon them?

We do not know, but we cannot too often remind ourselves that we are debtors, and the best are responsible for the worst of men. Indeed, we are all our brother's keeper. This is true in the home, the school, the office and the church. When a man or a woman goes astray, it is generally true that another is to blame. When Joash fails, Jehoida has failed first.

God has set us in families, in communities, in fellowships of various kinds, and it is through them that many of life's best gifts are made. But, we cannot receive unless we give. He who desires gifts, happiness and good-will, must give as he expects to receive. So let us give of our best to the world, to mankind, and to God.

"Give of your best to the Master;

Give of the strength of your youth;
Throw your soul's fresh, glowing ardor
Into the battle for truth.
Jesus has set the example;
Dauntless was He, young and brave.
Give Him your loyal devotion,
Give Him the best that you have.

"Give of your best to the Master;

Give Him first place in your heart;
Give Him first place in your service,
Consecrate every part.
Give, and to you shall be given;
God His beloved Son gave;
Gratefully seeking to serve Him,
Give Him the best that you have."

BLUE RIDGE THE MIGHTY.

(Continued from page 3.)

was in charge of that master of detail, and so master of big programs, Dr. W. Knighton Bloom. He was ably assisted by the volunteer choir made up of delegates to the conference. They had never sung together before; they were not trained singers, hardly one of them. Yet, under the direction of Mr. Kendrick Grobel, Chicago Seminary and S. S. S. worker, stationed at Asheville, it was demonstrated what can be done in just a few days with people of fine spirits and co-operative dispositions. Their music was worthy of any church or cathedral.

As this is being written the conference is not yet closed, though it will have been when this reaches your attention. But one dares predict that few M. E. M. Conferences have had greater influence or inspiration than this one. The weather has been almost ideal and the people are all happy.

a different theme each evening before the wide porch of Robert E. Lee Hall, he brought the element of worship and instruction into close grips with each heart as delegates and friends sat before him with bowed heads or with voices uplifted in worshipful song. These vesper hours will be

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATED.

The Silver-plated Ware is of the very highest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 85. 11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plated; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling) $22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90. 14.00

Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim.....$ 9.00
Bread Plate No. 4—Broad rim..... 9.00
Filler—Silver lined 6.00

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, - - Richmond, Virginia

All styles sent postpaid at above prices

RELATION OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Continued from page 7.)

after years has proven himself a leading and worthy citizen of his community. The advantage to be gained by the education received in the Sunday School is that it improves both the mind and the heart and teaches the ignorant man that there is a God, but that a plan of redemption has been prepared for the sinful man and points him to the straight and narrow way which leads to life eternal. In short it teaches him his duty to his fellowman, to himself, and to his God. Can it be said that the diffusion of such knowledge will not aid in up-building the church? No. Let such knowledge be spread abroad throughout this land and soon the idols of the heathen lands will give place to the temples of the living God, and the kingdoms of this world will become the kingdoms of our Lord.

I repeat a thought left with you a year ago: Our Nation is without parallel in the annals of history. Our population represents every nationality upon the globe. We are trying to bring together in one union, the fiery, the phlegmatic, the sentimental and the brave. Among us are the worshippers of the true God, the children of the Pope, infidels, destructionalists and fanatics. Our population is rapidly increasing and our territory surpasses in value and area the fondest dreams of the monarchs of the old world. It is therefore necessary that our Government should rest upon a firm foundation. "The power which these United States must have to maintain a happy, peaceful liberty must be an intelligent, religious power. To us ignorance is death and the loss of virtue annihilation." Politics will never harmonize these conflicting interests and sentiments. The church, through the pulpit alone, can never accomplish the desired result. Only with the aid of the Sunday Schools of this land can it hope to fulfill its greatest and grandest mission in the world.

And so it is we assemble upon these annual occasions to review our work of the past year and plan for the days that lie ahead of us. What an undertaking! What an obligation upon us all. My friends and fellow workers in the Sunday Schools of this convention, I urge you to keep ever before you the responsibilities of your tasks. Into your care and keeping are placed the leaders of the church of tomorrow. Keep abreast of the times and bend every energy that will draw the young folks to you. Yours is a noble task, yours is a Christ given opportunity, yours is a sacred responsibility.

And to you my younger friends, an abiding interest in whom sponsors every Christian activity, I urge you in the name of the man of Galilee that you be steadfast in your devotions to your Christian duties. It is not the task of life to earn a mere living. The tragedy of a full granary, but with an empty soul!

God bless the future leaders of our church and Sunday School. May they each be a column and all together, under the direction of Heaven, a perpetual temple of peace, unshadowed by a Caesar's palace.

For after all whether church or Sunday School, it is our one task to make Christ known to all the world. The Christ who was so human, yet so divine. An infinite something played about his life. He was so human, He was born of a woman; He was so divine the angels announced His birth. He was so human He could weep at Lazarus' grave; He was so divine He raised him from the dead. He was so human He was hungry, and the Devil tempted Him to turn stones into bread; He was so divine He multiplied five loaves into enough to feed five thousand people. He was so human He was smitten and afflicted; He was so divine His very touch healed the sick. He was so human He slept in Peter's boat; so divine He rebuked the winds and the waves. So human He was put to death; so divine His dying groans shook the earth and opened graves and shrouded the earth in darkness. He was so human He was put in a grave; He was so divine He came forth from the grave and triumphed over death. He was so human He met His disciples in the hills of Galilee; He was so divine He told them to go forth and evangelize the world in His name.

In Greek literature some one asked the goddess Iole, "How did you know that Hercules was a God?" "Because," answered Iole, "I was CON-TENT the moment my eyes fell upon him." "When I beheld Theseus, I desired that I might see him offer battle, or at least guide his horse in the chariot race, but Hercules never WAITED for a contest. He conquered whither he stood, or walked, or talked, or sat, at whatever thing he did."

Thus we know that Jesus is God. Because He conquers where He stands, or where He sits, or walks, or talks, at whatever thing He does among the children of men.

"Happy is that people whose God is the Lord."

ELON COLLEGE

AN ACCREDITED COLLEGE
of the

CONGREGATIONAL CHRISTIAN CHURCHES OF THE SOUTHEAST

ELON was founded to train Christian leaders for the New South.

ELON has done its task well—one graduate in seven being in the Christian ministry. The other six express Christian leadership in the various professions and vocations. Experience teaches that spiritual leadership must be indigenous.

The South is now a New South ready for an inclusive Church, the type of Church for which Elon has stood for forty years and for which she is prepared to produce capable leadership.

With no Church in the community, save the College Auditorium, ELON has practiced Christian Union for faculty, students, and community for four decades.

Its contribution to Christian Education is nationally known and approved. Its Christian Education Building, providing laboratory facilities for religious leadership training, is unique and is the first college building of its type in the world.

ELON confines itself to undergraduate liberal arts work with that religious emphasis which befits the Christian College.

In ELON the Congregational-Christian Church has an asset of marvelous hopefulness.

The South needs her Yale, her Oberlin, her Carleton, her Pomona for the intellectual leadership of the United Church. Many regard ELON as strategically located and spiritually endowed to become such a center of illumination and leadership training.

THE CHRISTIAN EDUCATION BUILDING

The Heart of the Elon Program of Christian Education.

C. M. CANNON, Registrar

Elon College, - - - North Carolina
Home Atmosphere—Reasonable Rates—Clean Athletics—Christian Spirit.

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the kingdom, as represented by the Congregational-Christian Church.

BOARD OF EDITORS.

J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
E. C. GILLETTE, D. D. Associate
W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
W. A. HARPER, LL.D. Associate
REV. S. C. HARRELL. Associate
J. E. McCAULEY. Associate
W. C. WICKER, D. D. News Editor
P. J. KERNODLE. Managing Editor
C. D. JOHNSTON. Circulation Manager

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Year$2.00
Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Postoffice, at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to The Christian Sun, C. D. Johnston, Circulation Manager, Elon College, N. C.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads" 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

Notices: Obituary and marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge; all over 100 words at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

OBITUARIES.

CARPENTER.

In memory of Bro. S. E. Carpenter, who departed this life, at the home of his son, Rev. W. C. Carpenter, near Tifton, Ga., March 6, 1931, age 73 years. He was for several years prior to his death, senior Deacon of the First Christian Church at Roanoke, Alabama.

And we the committee appointed by the church to draw Resolutions in his memory submit the following:

1. Whereas Bro. Carpenter was a faithful member and a devoted officer of his church, and whereas he was attentive to its ordinances and faithful to its fellowship, therefore be it resolved that we seek to perpetuate his memory, first, by being faithful to all the requirements of the church and second, by our devotion to every Christian duty, and the faithful performance of the same.

2. That we commend his many noble virtues, and cherish in our memory a fond recollection of the many noble deeds wrought by him.

J. H. CRISLER
TED WALDREP
NELLIE R. SLEDGE
Committee.

THE MIGHTIEST MINISTRY.

The greatest need of the church today is not money, but intercessory prayer. This is the mightiest instrumentality for the world's advance. Once let the church get on her knees, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against her. Finney declared that it was the intercessory prayers of Abel Clary, who was on his cot dying of tuberculosis, that brought the outpouring of the Spirit to Utica, Syracuse, Rochester, Binghamton and Rome, and that even far-away Ceylon experienced a period of great spiritual refreshment as a result of the intercession

THE CONGREGATIONAL LATIN-AMERICAN INSTITUTE AND PILGRIM LATIN CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH OF WEST TAMPA, FLA.—

Are helping give the Gospel, which is "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth," to the forty thousand Latin people of Tampa. The evangelical forces working among the foreigners of Tampa are by no means covering the territory sufficiently.

Methodists have six preachers, Baptists two, Presbyterians one, Congregationalists one. Church workers and teachers must be supported for this great missionary work. Send check to

LESLIE S. BRAY, Treas.
Route 4, Box 468, - - Tampa, Fla.
Send boxes of clothing to Mrs. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

For literature, write Rev. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

of this invalid, who was scarcely able to lift his voice in audible petition. We may not be able to give, but we can pray.—Selected.

If you would be happy every day, find enjoyment in the purpose you are pursuing.—Selected.

666

LIQUID or TABLETS

Relieves a Headache or Neuralgia in 30 minutes, checks a Cold the first day, and checks Malaria in three days.

666 Salve for Baby's Cold

"SUPREME AUTHORITY"

WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY

Because

Hundreds of Supreme Court Judges concur in highest praise of the work as their Authority.

The Presidents of all leading Universities, Colleges, and Normal Schools give their indorsement.

The Schoolbooks of the Country adhere to the Merriam-Webster system of diacritical marks.

The Government Printing Office at Washington uses it as authority.

WRITE for a sample page of the New Words, specimen of Regular and India Papers, FREE.

G. & C.
Merriam
Company,
Springfield,
Mass.

Get
The Best!

SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE

FOUR YEAR STANDARD COLLEGE

A Memorial of the Congregational-Christian Union.

FRANK E. JENKINS, Pres.

MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD, Dean

OPENS WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1931.

Chartered BETHLEHEM COLLEGE
June 2, 1922

Renamed PIEDMONT JUNIOR COLLEGE
May 18, 1928

Renamed SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE, June 3, 1931

SCHOLARSHIP HIGH

EXPENSES LOW

CHARACTER SUPREME

A Strong Faculty, Educated in 25 Universities and Colleges in 12 States.

Unsectarian, but thoroughly Christian.

For Information about Entrance, write—

DEAN MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD,
WADLEY, ALABAMA.

For Other Information, write—

DR. FRANK E. JENKINS,
LA GRANGE, GEORGIA (To September 1st).

HOLMAN BIBLES

LARGE PRINT TEACHERS' EDITION FOR ADULTS, TEACHERS AND PREACHERS

and all who would study the Word of God intelligently this edition is unsurpassed. The type is large, clear Bourgeois, Self-Pronouncing, with liberal space between the words and lines, which makes it easy to read.

Size, 8 x 5½ inches.

Specimen of Type.
"From that time Jēsus to preach, and to say, 'I the kingdom of heaven'"

Containing New Copyrighted Helps by most reliable Authorities. A Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, New Colored Maps.

No. 4712. Divinity Circuit Teachers' Bible, French Seal Leather, red under gold edges, Silk Head bands and Silk Marker.

Our Price—Post Paid. 5.00

No. 812RL. Red Letter Teachers' Bible. The Words of Christ in the New Testament, Old Testament Passages Alluded to by Christ, Various Prophecies Relating to Christ in the Old Testament, etc., all PRINTED IN RED. Binding same as described above and same large Self-Pronouncing type.

Our Price—Post Paid. 6.00

No. 733X. Holman India Paper, Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Our Price—Post Paid. 10.65

Wedding or Gift Bible FOR THE HOME

Holman Self-Pronouncing Home Study Edition

A BEAUTIFUL PRESENTATION PAGE Marriage Certificate and Family Record makes this special edition a most desirable Bible for a wedding gift.

Full Bound size, 8½ x 6 inches; nearly 1800 pages. Authorized Version with Marginal References.

Large Print—Easy to Read

The Helps are the latest and most practical published—prepared by the most reliable and well-known authorities, and consist of a TEACHERS' NEW READY REFERENCE HAND BOOK, which gives the salient and essential information needed in Bible study.

Illustrated Self-Pronouncing Bible Dictionary—Containing 150 illustrations.

Oriental Light on the Bible (Containing over 100 illustrations). A new kind of illuminating Bible help.

Treasury of Biblical Information.

A New Series of Maps. A selection of the most used, with Special Maps, the results of the most recent explorations.

A New Practical Comparative Concordance, with nearly 50,000 references. Four Thousand Questions and Answers on the Bible.

ABSOLUTELY DURABLE BINDINGS that will not break in the back.

Specimen of the Print. Full size of the page is 5½ x 8 inches.

Specimen of Type.
"17 ¶ From that time Jēsus began to preach, and to say, 'Repent: for the kingdom of heaven is at'"

A BEAUTIFUL PRESENTATION PAGE Marriage Certificate and Family Record makes this special edition a most desirable Bible for a wedding gift.

No. 4914. French Morocco flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker. $5.50

Postage Paid

THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 East Broad Street

Richmond, - - - Virginia

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Representing the Southern Christian Convention and the Congregational Churches of the Southeast.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY

VOLUME LXXXIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, AUGUST 20, 1931.

NUMBER 34.

.. THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY ..

By Dr. W. C. WICKER.

JAPAN SUPPORTS CHRISTIAN MISSION.—

When, as a result of the World War, Germany ceded to Japan the Marshall Islands, one stipulation was that the people of the islands should continue to be taught the Protestant religion. This was agreed to by Japan and four Japanese Christian pastors were sent as missionaries. The number has since been increased to six. The Japanese government pays the salaries of these missionaries, provides each with a residence, medical allowance and an allowance for each child. A furlough is granted every three years.

CONGREGATIONALIST HONORED.—

Rev. T. Rhondda Williams, leading Congregationalist of Brighton, England, will preach the League of Nations sermon in Geneva at the opening of this year's assembly. Provision is made each year for this service by the English-speaking church of Geneva. It is a great thing to provide for the spirit of Christ to be presented at an assembly of international representatives sitting in council on the great problems of world peace. It was this spirit that gave birth to the peace idea and through His spirit this idea will be realized and war will cease when the lion and the lamb shall lie down together and a little child shall lead them. The entire Christian world is a perpetual league of peace working for the realization of Christ's ideals in a Christian spirit. John Calvin made Church history at Geneva, and the influence of Calvinism gave birth to the League of Nations.

RURAL CHURCH SLUMP.—

At the July Conference on Rural Life held in Ithica, New York, Prof. Dwight Sanderson, head of the department of rural social organization of Cornell University, declared that the Church itself is to blame for the decline of the rural church—not the drop in population, the coming of the automobile, the advent of the radio or any other popularly assigned cause. Despite the discouraging fact of decline of the rural church membership there are many hopeful things. "Far from being in a state of decay, the church will probably continue to remain the strongest institution in most rural communities," was the judgment of the conference. The judgment of the conference is decidedly in favor of fewer and better churches in all rural communities. The standards of rural people are rising in respect to their homes and their living, and they require a better type of church and better preaching.

KAGAWA IN AMERICA.—

This great Christian leader from Japan attended the great Y. M. C. A. conventions at Toronto and Cleveland recently in session and attracted great attention. His topic of conversation centered around the world but naturally focused upon Japan, of the soul of which Kagawa has so completely an understanding because he has put his own soul into it. Those who talk with him not only know more about Japan when the conversation is over, but more about religion and Christianity. The west has much to learn from this great Christian from the far east. He is too modest to come to America as a teacher of Christianity, because he realizes that if America is ever to have a Christianity which will purify its society and dominate its ideals, it must be native born and native grown, and not an importation from Japan. But indigenous or not, there are things that we can learn from the Kingdom of God movement in Japan.

THE RETURN OF IDEALISM.—

Speaking at the recent commencement exercises of the Training School for Jewish Work, New York City, Dr. Judah L. Magnes, chancellor of the Hebrew University in Palestine, pointed to current trends among "men of mind and spirit" as indicating an unprecedented spiritual hunger. "If you can hear the still, small voice of these certain philosophers, scientists and mystics of the world," he said, "you may catch a note that will tell you that the day of the ideal has come again, and that the time for service is here as never before." This idea is quite true for men with an upward look, but many men today in America keep their eyes on the earth and the material, rather than toward the heavens and the ideal life. Unless people give more attention to the ideal values, spiritual realities, and the higher life, America will degenerate into a materialistic and mechanistic conception and America's God will become a mere machine without spiritual value.

PULPIT PACIFICISM RESENTED.—

In Washington City, where all the larger churches have in their congregations army and navy officers or other officials of one or the other branches, pacifistic utterances by the preachers are not allowed to go unchallenged. One preacher who recommended Kirby Page's book, "National Defense," and who also declared himself in the "World Tomorrow" questionnaire as unwilling to sanction any future war, received notice from a long-time member that his membership would cease. He has united with another church where he hopes to hear less anti-war talk. It is remarkable, however, that so many of the preachers are taking so pronounced a stand against war. There are many places around the country where it is much easier to speak out against military activities than it is in Washington, where there are so many who are identified with the military system. It is natural for those who live by the sword to fight for self-preservation before they die by the sword. But the Eternal has declared that peace shall reign from the rivers to the ends of the earth, and while "the mills of the gods grind slowly, they grind exceedingly fine."

FOUR SONS ARE PREACHERS.—

Dr. G. Campbell Morgan, who is one of the great Bible scholars of the world, has reflected his life and influence in the fact that four of his sons have followed him into the ministry. These sons are substituting for their father in the pulpit of Tabernacle Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia, during his summer absence. His sons are: Rev. P. Campbell Morgan of Winnipeg, Canada; Rev. K. J. Morgan of Monticello, Ga.; Rev. H. M. Morgan of Lexington, Ky, and Rev. F. C. Morgan of Augusta, Ga. There is certainly a human side to a divine call to the ministry as well as a divine, and the human must respond to the divine. Many young people who are called to the ministry have their impressions stifled and suppressed by unholy influences, and they enter other pursuits which lead to failure. God has a purpose, a plan, and a place for every life, and unless we respond to His call and obey the heavenly vision, we are doomed to failure. Dr. G. Campbell Morgan exerted an influence that enabled his sons to hear and obey the call. Many parents influence their children either for or against the Kingdom and serve God or disobey Him in the delicate workings of the spirit.

ANOTHER GANDHI.—

The emergence of Abdul Gaffar Kahn as a leader of the Pathans in the Northwest frontier province, leading them in the paths of non-violence as expounded and lived out by Gandhi, is one of the most remarkable events in the history of Indian nationalism. He has organized a band of volunteers among the Pathans under the name Khudai Khidmatgars (Servants of God), who are pledged to do national service in the spirit of strict non-violence. During the civil disobedience movement in 1930, these volunteers played a great part in the frontier province. Kahn recently made this challenging statement in public about the work of his volunteers: "Let the government show me a single instance of violence on the part of my Khudai Khidmatgars. Although the provocation has been unbearable, our men have remained peaceful to the end. It is no small matter for a Pathan to keep his temper when he is insulted and is being stripped naked. There have been a number of cases of such provocation during last year's movement, and yet not one Pathan raised his finger in retaliation. It was nothing short of a miracle. The credit is due to Gandhiji, who has been more implicitly and loyally obeyed in my province than in any other." The psychology of the situation is interesting.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Rev. W. C. Hook supplied at the preaching service in the First Church of Richmond on last Sunday morning. His message was well received by the congregation. Rev. Mr. Hook is one of the most talented of the younger ministers of the Christian Church.

On the resignation of Rev. J. C. Barrett, the Hopewell Church extended a call to Rev. T. N. Lowe, a former Hopewell pastor and a man much loved there. We are not advised as to whether Bro. Lowe has accepted.

Rev. D. D. Nash, Box 791, Hopewell, Va., is open for pastoral work the coming year and will be glad to correspond with any church desiring his services. Bro. Nash is a consecrated man and a faithful student and preacher of the Word.

We learn that beginning on July 26th, the Cragford, Alabama, Church, was holding union revival meetings with the Cragford Methodist Church. The preaching for these services was done by Rev. R. S. Raines of the Methodist Church and Rev. G. H. Veazey, pastor of the Christian Church. The following week union services were held at Wadley by the Christian and Baptist churches.

Our thanks are expressed for the following: "Mr. and Mrs. William Warren Kimball request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter, Mary Burge, to Mr. Horace Mayfield Robinson, on Wednesday, August 26th, 5:30 P. M., 1931, Mount Auburn Christian Church, Manson, N. C." Miss Mary is an Elon College graduate and has a wide circle of friends who will join us in best wishes for a happy married life.

Brother G. H. Veazey writes: "We closed the best revival at Corinth recently that the church has had in several years. Miss Sallie Poore preached the first sermon and the pastor did the rest of the preaching. The church seemed ready for a revival, and the Holy Spirit did the work. The church was greatly revived and the faith of its members strengthened. Ten members were received, eight for baptism. We are more thoroughly convinced that God will hear and answer the prayers of His followers.

If you are a member of the Christian Church and have a son or daughter to send to college this fall, you should give our own Elon College first and most favorable consideration. It is our college, the best we have, and it is what we have made it. Let us help to make it better, if it is not all we desire it should be. Our local church may not be as perfect and efficient as we could wish, but it is ours and we are in a measure responsible for it now and are under obligation to attend it and help by prayer and patronage to make it better.

Rev. E. B. White, of Windsor, Va., writes: "We are having a great time here at the Massanetta Springs Summer Bible Conference. There are many able preachers and teachers here, and the daily programs are most excellent. Dr. Wm. Evans of Los Angeles, California, one of the greatest Bible teachers in America, speaks each day. Dr. J. Stuart Holden, of London, England, a spiritual, evangelical leader, is preaching gripping, spiritual sermons. This is indeed a great place for fellowship, information and inspiration. Many of our own ministers and their families are here, and this is a source of great joy to me."

Let our temper be under the rule of the love of Jesus. He cannot alone curb it—He can make us gentle and patient. Let the vow, that not an unkind word of others shall ever be heard from our lips, be laid trustingly at His feet. Let the gentleness that refuses to take offense, that is always ready to excuse, to think and hope the best, mark our intercourse with all. Let our life be one of self-sacrifice, always studying the welfare of others, finding our highest joy in blessing others. And let us, in studying the divine art of doing good, yield ourselves as obedient learners to the guidance of the Holy Spirit. By His grace, the most commonplace life can be transfigured with the brightness of a heavenly beauty, as the infinite love of a divine nature shines out through our frail humanity.—Murray.

REVIVAL SERVICES.

On the third Sunday in July we began a revival service at Long's Chapel, and on the fourth Sunday, at Union. Rev. G. C. Crutchfield of Lynchburg was with us in both meetings and preached to good acceptance. His sermons were plain, earnest and forceful. Large audiences attended the services. The interest was good; the attention fine, and the singing excellent. There were five additions at Long's Chapel and fifteen at Union. There were nineteen baptisms. The spirit of the meetings was good, and we hope that much good was accomplished in the name of Christ our Saviour.

P. H. FLEMING.

CONFERENCES MEET.

Eastern Virginia Conference meets at Cypress Chapel, Nansemond County, Wednesday before the first Sunday in November, 1931, at 10:30 A. M.

Georgia and Alabama Conference and Southern Association will meet jointly—

Alabama United Conference meets at Phenix City, Ala., Second Tuesday morning in November, 1931.

Eastern North Carolina Conference meets at Shallow Well Church, Tuesday after the third Sunday in November, 1931.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference meets at Mt. Bethel Church, Rockingham County, on Tuesday after the second Sunday in November, 1931.

Western North Carolina Conference meets with Shiloh Christian Church, Randolph County, Tuesday after the first Sunday in November, NOTE.—Secretaries of Associations and Conferences will please supply omissions and make necessary corrections to the above.

OBEDIENCE TO LAW.

The foundations of government, of whatsoever form, rest upon obedience to law. That element is far more essential, however, to the perpetuation of popular government than to any other type of government which the world has known.

Free government springs from the people. It is not handed down by a dictator, an oligarchy or a bureaucracy. If the representatives of the people fail to interpret the public will, the people can easily displace such representatives and substitute therefor others who will properly interpret that will. If abuses arise in the administration of the law the people can change administrations. If loop-holes in the law are discovered through experience, the people can remedy such defects. If conditions warrant a radical change, such a change by regularly constituted processes is within the power of the electorate. In all that has to do with the creation and the administration of popular government the people are supreme.

What is true in the matter of the creation of governments, the writing of constitutions and the enactment of statutes, is equally true in the matter of law obedience. There is one difference, however. Whereas, in the making of popular governments, the creation of constitutions, and the enactment of laws, the people operate through representatives, when it comes to law obedience the people for the most part act directly.

There is no power in the modern world sufficient to compel obedience where any large portion of the people fail or refuse to obey. Education may do much toward informing and arousing the people to the vital issues and consequences involved, but even education fails if the people are not willing to be influenced by the logic of facts.

Adequate law obedience is possible only when the people themselves, in the interest of the public welfare and their own protection, are willing to obey and respect the law, however inconvenient or distasteful to some of them it may be. The only power sufficient to create popular government or to secure obedience to its mandates, is public opinion.—Ernest H. Cherrington, in The American Issue.

FIND YOUR PURPOSE.

You are in this world, a part of it, not a dead part, but a living part, endowed with thought and feeling. Have you ever asked how you could make the world richer? You do not make the world richer by adding to your possessions of gold and silver and stocks and bonds. To do this is all right and very commendable. You do not need to be urged in the pursuit of wealth. You will pursue wealth. If you do not you will wish you had.

But make no mistake, a great accumulation of wealth does not make the world richer. To accomplish anything, you must have direction, a something toward which you go, a goal. If you say you have found your purpose, you simply mean that you have chosen your goal. It will depend upon what this goal is whether you will enrich the world.

But this is a simple law: The higher your purpose, the loftier it is, the more sure you will be to make the world richer, because the pursuit of a lofty and high purpose will be self-enrichment and the enrichment of yourself increases the riches of the world.

Find, then, the high purpose that should dominate you, and fling out to it the whole of your life.—Selected.

DUST AN EXPLOSIVE.

Don't stir up too much dust—it is an explosive to beware of. In tests conducted at the Arlington farm of the Department of Agriculture recently, certain kinds of dust mixed with other kinds of dust exploded like dynamite. The "charges" used were such common varieties of dust as starch, powdered cork and pulverized aluminum. These tests were to demonstrate the necessity for adequate ventilating places to serve as safety valves in grain elevators, factories and other buildings. Unless the explosive power of dust can escape through windows and other vents, said David J. Price, engineer in charge of the tests, great havoc might result. The department of Agriculture has found that the big industrial blasts which cost millions each year are caused by more than twenty kinds of dust. All that any one of them needs is a little spark. And where there's dust there's usually the makings of a spark.—Pathfinder.

CONGREGATIONAL NEWS

REV. E. C. GILLETTE, Editor; REV. F. P. ENSMINGER, and REV. M. J. SWEET, Associates.

REV. ROBERT G. HARBUTT of Penney Farms is supplying the pulpit of the United Congregational Church Jacksonville during the month of August, much to the delight of his friends in that church.

MACEDONIA PARISH will observe its second Parish Fifth Sunday Aug. 30th, at Liberty Church near Bowman. A full program is being worked out. The afternoon will be given over to the young people. In the morning the pastor-at-large is to give the message. A great day is expected.

REV. E. H. SPEROW, pastor at Columbia has resigned and will accept the chair of English Literature in the new college growing out of Piedmont Junior College. He will give up his work at Columbia Aug. 17th. The pastor-at-large will be in the pulpit the 23rd, and J. Howard Smith will care for the work during August.

ORDINATION SERVICE will take place at Albemarle Sept. 27th. The Church there is calling a Council for the purpose, and the program will include the dedication of the church. Although the church building was erected some time ago, yet it has never been dedicated. The call for a council to ordain the minister, Mr. George W. Penn, will include an invitation to assist in dedication of the church at the morning service. Some of the warmest personal friends of the pastor will be sharing in both services, the ordination service to take place in the evening.

CHAPEL HILL CHURCH has accepted the resignation of their minister, Rev. J. Brittan Howard, resigned after twelve years of service. Mr. Howard has not yet accepted another pastorate, but will be open for consideration of some church needing his services. He is noted for a fine quality of sermonic power and an especially fine spirit as counselor and personal friend. He has done much for many students connected with the University and is well loved by the whole city of Chapel Hill. The church has appointed a committee to seek out another man to take the leadership of this United Church, Congregational-Christian.

ALBEMARLE REJOICES in the beautiful union—the wedding of their minister, George W. Penn to Miss Dorothy Gaede. They were married in Florida by Rev. Miss Lucy Ayers. It was a magnificent affair enjoyed by the many friends of both parties. The sister of the groom was brides maid. Their honeymoon was spent at Blue Ridge in connection with the M. E. M. Conference. This was an opportunity for the eighty-five delegates from the United Church to give them a great reception at a well-planned dinner party one evening, much to the surprise of the happy pair. Speeches, humorous and laudatory, serious and didactic by their closest friends. We rejoice in the privilege to congratulate both Albemarle and the new minister and his capable wife.

DR. D. B. ATKINSON, Piedmont College, will assist Rev. M. J. Sweet, pastor-at-large, at the great Union Service at LaGrange Sunday, Aug. 16th. It will be an all day meeting, dinner will be served on the grounds by the folks of the churches. The occasion is the welding together of the First Congregational and First Christian Churches. They will become on that day "The United Church, Congregational-Christian, of La-Grange." The process of uniting has been carefully carried out during the last several months. Dr. Atkinson will preach the sermon in the morning. Mr. Sweet will preside at an organization meeting in the afternoon service, and both, with others, will share in the evening meeting which will climax the great day. Everybody rejoices at the union of these two churches and it is doubtful if a greater thing of this sort has taken place in LaGrange in all of its splendid history. It is understood that the Mill People are much interested in the action taken and everybody seems to be happy and expectant.

MIAMI BEACH, COMMUNITY CHURCH. Dr. Elisha A. King, Pastor, had returned from a nine thousand mile trip to Seattle, through the Canadian Rockies, the Yellowstone National Park Council, where he attended the meeting of the National Council, being a delegate from the State Conference of Florida. Dr. King was once the acting pastor of Plymouth church, Seattle, where the council was held; and for one year he was an executive secretary of the Washington State Conference. After the council meeting he spent the week-end at Yakima, Washington, where he was pastor for about five years. He preached there July 5th. Since his return from Seattle he has been preaching sermons about his trip both from his pulpit in the church and from radio station WIOD. Some of the themes have been, "The Joy of Christian Fellowship," "The Outlook from a Mountain Top," and "Controlled Power." He reports large Sunday morning congregations and larger Sunday School attendance this summer than any summer since 1925. The Christian Endeavor Society is well attended and the Boy Scouts continue through the season.

DR. DODGE RESIGNS.

After eight years as pastor of the Central Congregational Church, Dr. D. Witherspoon Dodge tendered his resignation to that church last Monday because of what he termed the lack of financial support of the church. It will become effective October 1st. The retiring pastor Sunday night announced that he had made no plans beyond that time.

At the time the resignation was tendered the following committee was appointed to confer with Dr. Dodge with a view to dissuading him from retiring; J. S. Blackburn, Watson Fuller, Jean Carson, T. R. Bryant and Mildred Askew. When the committee, after several conferences with Dr. Dodge, felt that the pastor could not be moved to reconsider, it adopted the following resolution which was approved by the resolutions committee of the church:

Whereas, our pastor, the Rev. Witherspoon Dodge, D. D., has presented his resignation as minister of the Central Congregational Church of Atlanta and the church has reluctantly accepted his resignation.

Resolved, that as members of the Central church we express our appreciation of his work in the church and in the Atlanta community.

His scholarly sermons week after week have proven his right to be considered a thorough student of the Bible and a discerning thinker on all religious subjects.

His deep interest in persons in sorrow and sickness has been manifested by many calls in all cases where he could carry comfort and help.

He has been one of the leaders of liberal theology in Atlanta, and his influence has been felt outside of the city. By means of his broadcast sermons over WGST his presentation of religious truth has extended over large and undefined areas of the southland.

In educational, civic and welfare work he has shown a practical and effective interest; his church has always been open for all plans of a progressive character.

By his addresses on various occasions and by his influence as a prominent member of the Lions' Club, his thoughtful and liberal views have been given a wide hearing.

During his eight years as pastor of the Central Church he has endeared himself to a great many people as a conscientious pastor and a faithful friend.

Be it therefore further resolved, that we heartily commend Dr. Dodge as a thoughtful, courageous and sympathetic Christian minister and a clear, impressive teacher of the great religious truths.

Be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to each of the three Atlanta newspapers.

COMMITTEE ON RESOLUTIONS,
CENTRAL CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

METHODS CORNER

By REV. ELISHA A. KING, D. D.

Miami Beach, Fla.

I am going to make this week's "corner" a little more personal than usual. I have recently returned from a 9,000 mile trip to the National Council at Seattle, Washington, where the Congregationalists and the Christians were married! "Let no man put asunder." It was a most interesting journey and a good Council and a pleasant experience. I joined the Denison party at Chicago and was with that group of fine folks all the way through to Seattle. We spent the day at Banff among the Canadian Rockies and a part of a day at Lake Louise. We took the steamer at Vancouver and sailed to Seattle by way of Victoria. The friendships made on that trip will never be forgotten or broken.

For me this journey was going back home. I was at one time for a year Acting Pastor of the Plymouth Church in Seattle where the Council was held. The church was therefore familiar to me, and it was a very great pleasure to meet so many of the old friends that I had not seen for sixteen years. I was interested to observe that many of the methods of work now in operation at Plymouth church are the fruitage of various discussions and plans suggested years ago. It is a down-town, institutional church with adequate equipment for carrying on a great program. It is doing this now with a staff of paid workers all trained for their particular line of work. That is what has to be done these days in a large church. The time was when the pastor was expected to do all the work except what he could induce the members to do. It placed a great burden on the pastor and meant that he became a director of activities and often neglected his study and thoughtful preparation of sermons. Theoretically the members of the church ought to be doing this sort of thing and in some churches, perhaps many, the men and women members actually look after all the detail of making the wheels go round. As a matter of fact in our large churches today no layman can devote enough time to these matters, so employed workers are required. Many people rather give their money toward the salary of an expert.

I met a number of old friends who were pastors
(Continued on page 7.)

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR

J. O. ATKINSON, ELON COLLEGE, N. C.

ASSOCIATE EDITOR

E. C. GILLETTE

117 W. Forsyth Street, Jacksonville, Fla.

CONTRIBUTING EDITORS

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

S. C. HARRELL

J. E. McCAULEY

NEWS EDITOR

W. C. WICKER

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

(1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.

(2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.

(3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.

(4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship and of Church membership.

(5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

A DAY THAT WAS DIFFERENT.

(Editorial Correspondence.)

E. Northfield, Mass.

August 10, 1931.

It was just another day, and yet how different was Sunday, August 9th. The weather was cool, threatening with lowering clouds. But "the tribes" had come up from far and near, possibly three thousand of us. And the object of our coming was to worship God. The day began with great expectancy and prayer meetings. Those who said grace at table voiced the spirit of praise and reverence. Then following breakfast, every parlor in all these vast buildings was turned into an altar where songs and praise and prayer were offered, for the space of fifteen minutes. At 9:30 the services of the great day began. Dr. James Moffatt, translator of the Moffatt Bible, opened in Sage Chapel with services of an hour.

What teaching! Take this, "It must not be forgotten that Christ is at the center of our faith, and if any other person or thing assumes prime importance, then our ministry has failed." Christ at the center, that is the theme and thought of Northfield. The great Moody made it so in the beginning, and it remains so. Jesus lifted up, exalted, magnified, proclaimed. Moffatt declared that the first motive of the New Testament is worship. The second motive is fellowship. The third is missions. Anyone who fails to preach Christianity beyond his own borders commits a fatal blunder, takes the strength out of the gospel, and wounds his Lord. Under the teaching of this sturdy Scotchman men and women are brought into a new relationship with one another, with the world, and with God.

But that which made this day especially different, and carried us up to the mount of transfiguration, was the eleven o'clock service, the three thousand eager souls who gathered in the great auditorium to worship and to hear that prince of preachers, G. Campbell Morgan. Without doubt, Dr. Morgan is the world's greatest living expositor of the Word of God. Under his preaching, the Word lives, speaks, becomes dynamic, and moves the soul toward God. Morgan is in a class alone, and none other can approach him in bringing out from the Word of God the depths and heights of mystery and meaning that lie hidden there. And no man is clearer in analysis nor plainer in presentation.

His text, Sunday, August 9th, was Matt. 27: 11, "Jesus stood before the governor." Just five words. But what words. A simple statement of an historical fact, and yet fraught with meaning and power that all subsequent ages have felt, and will feel. Pilate the governor represented Government—the Government of Rome. And it was Pilate, not Jesus who was being tried and judged that day. Pilate did not want to crucify Jesus, but he would have to have crucified Caiaphas. Jesus created a crisis:

1st. For the government. Will a government follow justice or policy? Well, today it followed policy and crucified justice. That was the beginning of the end with Rome—and all government—when it pursues policy instead of dealing out justice.

2nd. Between truth and traditions. The Jews clamored for their traditions, and contrary to truth, said Jesus ought to die.

3rd. Passion or principle. Pilate listened to the cry of passion, and let them crucify Christ against all principle of justice, mercy, fairness or law.

No outline can tell of the spirit of such an occasion. People had traveled hundreds, some of us thousands, of miles to see this day, hear these messages, engage in this worship—and we were not disappointed. On the spacious grounds were cars from practically every State in the Union, and some from Canada and Nova Scotia—three thousand souls gathered in the house of God on the day of God to worship in the beauty of holiness, while the world's greatest preacher, certainly in our English tongue, told us with a spirit, a magic and an eloquence, that no one can describe, of the wonders of God, as through the ages God is bringing to pass a kingdom without frontiers, and an empire that knows no end. Life is worth living to find a day like that once in awhile.

Then at 4 P. M., Dr. A. T. Robertson of Louisville, Ky., the greatest living New Testament Greek scholar, told us of Paul's triumphant life, and of the manner of his death. At 6:25 Rev. William Sunday, a Lutheran minister of New York, spoke on the "Transfiguration" that one feels and experiences in this holy atmosphere of Northfield. Then at 8 o'clock, a great throng, more than two thousand, gather again in the auditorium to hear the marvelous and matchless Morgan preach on "The Personality of the Man called Jesus."

Yes, such a day. If we look at the desecration of the Sabbath day, the violation of law, the sin, evil and crime in high places, we become discouraged. But as long as such places as Northfield exist, and carry on their holy work of grace, glory and redemption, there is hope in the world. And happy indeed is that person who can come apart for a season, up into the high and holy places of our Lord, and commune with Him, and have sweet fellowship with the thousands of others whose faces are likewise set toward the Lord and the coming of the King. Yes, for thousands of lives, Sunday, August 9th was, and ever will be, a day that was different. For "the Lord seemed high and lifted up, and His train did fill the temple."

J. O. A.

THE NEED OF A UNITED PROGRAM.

It is one of the tragic facts of Christendom, that at this time when there is such an urgent need for the forces of Christ to be united in their efforts to help a world that is in desperate straits, that the church is not united in its policy and program. For it is our sincere belief that the Church can do more than any other organization or agency to bring order out of this present chaos. So many of the programs that are being presented can do no more than to offer temporary relief. While the Church established on the true foundation ought to be building for the future.

While there are numerous divisions and lines of cleavage in the body of Christ, there are two main theories of the sort of service that the Church ought to be rendering. One concerns itself solely with what it is attempting to do with and for the individual. It preaches a gospel of individual salvation. It has no policy and plan for the betterment and redemption of the social order. In fact the extremists of this group declare that they do not believe it to be God's plan to seek the transformation of the world. They do not believe that it is possible to change the rank and file of humanity.

They manifest a most commendable zeal in their efforts to save the individual. They preach a wonderful gospel of God's power to change the individual. But they do not seem to have the faith to believe that the heaven will be able to do its work until the whole is leavened. And yet it seems to us that everywhere the Bible proceeds upon the assumption that transformed men will transform the environment in which they live and move. Whenever Christ touched the life of an individual who by his past life had been responsible for unsocial attitudes among his associates, he sent that individual back with the command to do what he could to set right the things that were wrong, even though there was nothing more that could be accomplished than was implied in the command to go and sin no more. It is a fact of experience that in every community there are scores of Christians, who by their combined efforts might make of their community a place in which it would be a delight to live. Yet they go on for years having the things they are endeavoring to do, made vastly more difficult because they have never directed their efforts toward the pest spots of the community.

There is another group of Christians who believe in what has come to be known as the Social Gospel. For this group the gospel of individual salvation has ceased to exert an appeal. If it is still held theoretically, it is no longer a dominant factor. This group can and does make a most convincing indictment of the conditions of things as they are. They also are able to formulate splendid pictures of things as they ought to be. Many of them show a splendid courage in living up to their convictions. They are willing to work to bring about the fulfillment of their ideals. Some of them show the spirit of the martyr in defending their cause. The question is whether the means they are using can ever accomplish the ends that they have in view.

The most of the social ills that burden and oppress mankind exist because men and women are selfish, cruel and evil. If the power were available to change all these things, unless there were a change in the hearts of men and women only a short time would be required for conditions to be just as bad as they were at first. That is what has brought the Prohibition issue to the place where it is today. The Church has put too much hope in the strong arm of the law, and has not done enough to bring into operation the Strong Arm of Salvation. Those who argue against social reform are perfectly correct when they say that not much can be done as long as human nature remains what it is. They also say you cannot change human nature. It is true that to change human nature is an impossible task for mere man; but it is not an impossible task for the Lord Jesus Christ. That is the very thing that Jesus has been doing all down through the ages, and that He is still doing today.

In the main the above outlines the general position of these two main groups of Christians. Each one has much of truth on its side. The trouble is that neither has all the truth. Somebody has said that the weakness of this present age is that it is strong on analysis but weak on synthesis. This is to say, we know how to take things apart, but we do not know how to put them together again. If the entire Church could manifest the passionate zeal of the believer in individual salvation and combine that with the social vision of the believer in the social gospel and his efforts to change society from what it is to what it ought to be, then the Church will be in a position to render its full measure of service. Only redeemed men are equal to the demands of the present day; and redeemed men should never be satisfied with a program that has for its ultimate goal anything less than to make the kingdoms of this world the kingdom of our Lord and of His Christ.

S. C. H.

DEPRESSION.

That word is more in the minds of people than any other word of this day. There must be a cause for this condition, and there must be a remedy for the future. The cause for depression involves a lack of consideration for others. "None of us liveth to himself, and no man dieth to himself." (Romans 14:7.) Each individual is a unit in society, and he prospers or suffers with society. Co-operation between big business and little business, between corporations and individuals, must work out mutual interests and mutual relations. Bricks and walls must be related according to the law of gravity and support each other. The wall is worthless unless supported by the bricks in their right place; and bricks have no value outside of wall value. Labor is the brick; capital is the wall. Separated, both fail; co-operating, both have value. Poverty and wealth bear the same relation to each other. If all were rich, no workers could be found; if all were poor, there would be no employment. That may be the reason "for ye have the poor always with you." (Matthew 26:11.) It takes both rich and poor to make human society. When prosperity comes they both enjoy it; when hard times come they both complain. If all would be Christian in experience and attitudes toward each other good times would continue; but selfishness and mistreatment in business and social life produce hard feelings and hard times.

Another cause of depression is debt. This is true not only of individuals, but of communities and nations. The nations are now trying to work out a plan of relief from war debts. The United States, Germany, France, Italy, Japan, and Great Britain have signed an agreement for what they hope will give relief. The Bible principle in this case, as in all others, is the safe way for individuals. "Owe no man anything, but to love one another; for he that loveth another hath fulfilled the law." (Romans 13:8.) When every body is in debt it makes hard times. Depression always finds people in debt and, usually, for things not necessary for a living. Any person or corporation in debt beyond ability to pay is thereby depressed; and when a whole community is in that condition depression is felt by all. The only safe way for individuals and small businesses is to pay as you go.

Even now, in this time of depression, people are spending more for luxuries than they once spent in good times. One can hardly cross the street for automobiles and, as one travels through the country, he often sees in the yard an automobile that cost more than the house in which the family dwells.

Evidences exist on every hand of debt, depression, and complaint. What society needs is to get back to the cash system for the individual. The reason for the existence and the success of the chain store is the cash system and no delivery. If the Post Office Department sold stamps on credit it would bankrupt that department in the course of years. The world is in debt today, and causes depression. If nations, States, cities, railroads, and other great debtors had to pay their debts they would be insolvent. Buy what you can pay for, pay as you go, live within your means, and you will not be depressed.

W. W. S.

MEMORIAL TO DANIEL W. KERR.

How negligent indeed our Christians have been of the heroes of faith to whom we owe so much! We would not wonder if there are thousands in our Christian Church who do not know who Daniel W. Kerr is, for instance. Well read elsewhere in THE SUN this week the brief article from the pen of Rev. J. F. Apple. He tells of a movement worth while, and one that should have the hearty co-operation, sympathy and support of every CHRISTIAN SUN reader. Nearly a hundred years ago, now, Kerr set in motion forces, factors, powers that have come down the generations with tremendous momentum. Hats off and heartiest felicitations to the Loyal Men's Bible Class of Burlington. Our hearts are with them in their worthy undertaking.

J. O. A.

REUBEN D. THOMPSON.

The subject of this sketch was born February, 1853, of Scotch decent, and inherited the strong moral and religious characteristic of his ancestry. In early life he professed faith in Christ and united with Pleasant Grove Christian Church, in Halifax County, Virginia. He was elected a deacon of the church two years afterwards at the age of twenty-six. Deacon Thompson served faithfully in this official capacity for fifty-two years, reflecting the excellent qualities that should adorn the life of such officers in all our churches. He was Sunday School superintendent of his own Sunday School for over forty years and served in this capacity with diligence, consecration and devotion, greatly endearing more than a generation of young people to himself for his untiring service. For a number of years he served in the afternoon as superintendent of the Baptist Sunday School near by, after having served in his own school in the morning. He was busy about the King's business all day Sunday. As a deacon of the church, in the absence of his pastor he officiated at many funeral services, not only for the deceased of his own church, but for the churches of the entire community of all denominations.

At the age of twenty-one he was married to Miss Fannie Dunnman, to which union there were born nine children, five of whom, together with his devoted companion, survive him to mourn their loss.

Brother Thompson was a faithful and acceptable member of the Masonic Fraternity, and following the funeral rites conducted by his pastor, assisted by the Presbyterian and Methodist ministers of the community, at his residence at South Boston, Va., and at his church, Pleasant Grove, Va., where a great concourse of his friends, many of whom had attended his Sunday School in childhood, assembled in loving memory and respect for his good name; the Masonic Fraternity concluded the funeral services with the beautiful ceremony, and consigned his remains to mother earth to await the morn of the resurrection and commended his spirit to God who gave it.

The abundant beautiful floral designs, the multitude of sorrowing friends, and the abundant life of service which he lived, bespeak the high esteem in which he was held by all who know him and should inspire young and old alike to strive to live a life of service and devotion, of loyalty and love, like his, hid with Christ in God, for it is a richer heritage than all the wealth of this world.

To his faithful, devoted companion, who walked with him in Christ for fifty-eight years, and his surviving children who mourn his going, we would commend the Christ whom he loved and served faithfully unto the end. In such a life as his we have a happy memory, a beautiful example of faithfulness and devotedness, and a rich heritage to inspire us to strive for the best as revealed in Christ. He could say with Paul, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith: Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day; and not to me only, but unto all them that love his appearing."

W. C. WICKER, Pastor.

ACTING THE CHRIST.

Anton Lang felt that a great honor had been conferred upon him when he was chosen to take the role of the Christ in the great play of Ober-Ammergau. He realized the importance of his part. He must try to bear it worthily. He must try to be like Christ in his behavior. His personal appearance must be like that of Christ as nearly as possible. His spirit and temper must be Christ-like. And he was careful to meet all the requirements successfully.

We are all players in the great passion play of life, and we are all given the part that was given to Anton Lang: we are all appointed to show forth the Christ. And we are not to be mere imitators of Christ. If that were all, we would be sorry figures. Christ himself must be in us as He was in Paul, and we must be actuated by His spirit. He said, He that is with you shall be in you. Those who are living a real Christian life and not a mere imitation of it realize that they are able to do it only because of constant inward help from Christ. He said, without me ye can do nothing. Paul said, Through Christ strengthening us we can do all things. Our responsibility is far greater than that of Anton Lang. Our success or failure involves far more than did his. We are to develop the spirit of Christ within us. Our inmost being must be Christ-like. In proportion as we become profoundly like Christ, can we impress with the spirit and purpose of Christ. Our own characters must be made good news of salvation. Many young people aspire to be actors on the stage. But no theatre offers its actors as great a part as is offered to us all on the stage of real life.

Our high calling is not an occasional avocation but a constant vocation. We are to be always employed about this great business. No vacations are to be taken, no days are to be skipped over. There is not too much time for life's great achievement. Leaving behind the things already attained, we must press forward daily to the sure acquisition of the great prize. The applause of men received by Anton Lang is a very insignificant reward in comparison with the applause of Christ which will be ours when we succeed in becoming thoroughly like Him. Our daily growth in Christ-likeness gives to life its chief joy and most glorious hope.—Methodist Protestant Herald.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

SEATTLE.

Sunday, June 28th, was given over to purely religious meetings. Memorial services and communion were conducted in the Plymouth Congregational Church, where the Convention was being held, by Dr. O. W. S. McCall of Berkley, California, assisted by Rev. W. W. Staley of Suffolk, Virginia.

The Council sermon was delivered by Rev. Harry P. Dewey, D. D., of Minneapolis, Minnesota, from Acts 17: 27, at 3:00 P. M.

The Young People's Rally was held in a Methodist Church at 3:00 P. M., with Secretary Harry T. Stock presiding. Dr. Henry C. McDowell, of Africa, spoke on "Pioneering in Africa"; and Rev. Dr. Allan K. Chalmers, of New York, spoke on "The Lonely God."

Evening meetings were held in sections. In Plymouth Congregational Church, devotions were conducted by Rev. Max Strang, Dallas, Texas. Addresses by Dr. Raymond G. Clark, pastor of the Christian Church in Piqua, Ohio, and by Dr. Allan K. Chalmers, New York.

At the Pilgrim Church devotions were conducted by Rev. Harold Cooper, Crete, Nebraska; and addresses were delivered by Drs. W. H. Denison of Dayton, Ohio, and J. W. G. Ward of Detroit, Michigan.

At the University Church, Dr. Alfred W. Hurst of Elon College, N. C., conducted the devotions; and Drs. Robert E. Brown of Oberlin College, Ohio, and Frank G. Smith of Omaha, Nebraska, delivered addresses.

At First Church, Tacoma, Washington, devotions were conducted by Dr. Carl A. Veazie of Tacoma; and a sermon was delivered by Dr. S. Parkes Cadman of Brooklyn, N. Y.

The entire Sunday was devoted to spiritual worship and the consideration of Biblical and spiritual questions. This was a good example for local churches in the observance of the fourth commandment: "Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy." So much is said in this day about the violation of the Eighteenth Amendment and the drinking of beverage alcohol, and the press says so much about the same thing, that it is well to consider two things: First, that the Commandment to keep the Sabbath day holy is even more binding than the human law, as it comes from God. This commandment of God is violated more than the Eighteenth Amendment. This Commandment of God is positive, while the Eighteenth Amendment is negative. But both positive and negative commandments, and both divine and human laws are binding. To violate the one is to be a sinner, to violate the other is to be a criminal. There are many church members who are both sinners and criminals. It is worse to violate the laws of God than to violate the laws of the State, because God cannot err in His laws, and the State may. But while a law exists, it is criminal to violate it. "Render therefore to Caesar the things that are Caesar's; and unto God the things that are God's." (Matt. 22:21.) One cannot be a good citizen unless he is a good Christian; one cannot be a good Christian unless he is a good citizen. The best church member is a good Christian citizen. That is the need of Christian civilization; and the church stands for obedience to the law of God and the law of State.

That was a great Sunday in Seattle, given over to church attendance and spiritual worship. If the whole nation would observe the Sabbath and worship God in spirit and in truth, depression in business would be unknown. Human relations would be so square, capital and labor would be so considerate of each other, that good will and prosperity would continue.

W. W. STALEY.

APPLE'S CHAPEL.

The annual protracted meeting began at Apple's Chapel the fourth Sunday in July. Rev. A. W. Andes was there again this year and inspired us with many faithful gospel messages. The church was greatly revived, and 39 converts confessed Christ as their personal Saviour.

Here we maintain the old, established altar of prayer, and those seeking the Lord knelt there while Christians prayed for their salvation. What a joy it was to see men, women, boys and girls, yield themselves to Christ. About thirty are uniting with the church and will share in the work of the church. It was a great meeting. God gave us much to be thankful for.

Brother Andes was disappointed because the water mellons were not ripe. However, some were bought and provided. He still remains, so far as I know, the champion water-mellon eater.

The entire congregation was very appreciative of Bro. Andes and his helpful gospel sermons. I believe that they would even consider having him again and take chances on their water mellon patches.

God bless Bro. Andes, the new converts, and the young church members, and may His grace enable us older Christians to lead them into fields of active service for our Lord.

R. A. WHITTEN.

MEMORIAL TO DANIEL W. KERR.

On the fourth Sunday in July, the Loyal Men's Bible Class of the Burlington Christian Church met with the Mt. Zion Sunday School on the spot where the first CHRISTIAN SUN was prepared. We had a very inspiring meeting. I gave a few facts concerning the life of Daniel W. Kerr and his relation to THE CHRISTIAN SUN. Lawyer Thomas of Burlington gave a fine address in connection with an explanation of the Sunday School lesson.

It was decided that some sort of a memorial should be erected on this spot in honor of Kerr, and the beginning of our Church paper. A committee was appointed as follows: Dr. C. M. McPherson, Mr. John Iseley, Mr. Jule Pace, Mr. Zeb Lynch and Mr. I. T. McAdams. This committee elected the writer secretary and treasurer. A general collection was taken which amounted to $17.40. This was placed in the bank to the credit of the "Kerr Memorial Fund."

Let's erect a suitable memorial to this great man who in 1844 published the first CHRISTIAN SUN. Any amount anyone desires to give for this purpose will be appreciated and given credit through THE SUN. Funds should be sent to me or to any member of the committee.

J. F. APPLE,
Elon College, N. C.

The man who is filled with his message and thrilled with its many truths can deliver it to others with a greater effect. The man who is practicing Christianity as he preaches it is doing the greatest good. We double the influence of our messages by living the right kind of life. A message that does not come from the heart is not apt to reach the hearts of those who hear.

THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH THAT UNITED WITH THE CONGREGATIONALISTS.

Editorial in "The Christian-Evangelist,"
National Weekly of the Disciples of Christ.

We have received several requests to explain what "Christian Church" it was that recently united with the Congregationalists. Some people seem to think it was the Disciples of Christ. This question could be answered in a paragraph, but it seems best to give the answer the larger setting of history, especially since this case of union is to be regarded as one of the major church events of 1931.

The body which united with the Congregationalists has been known by several different names in the course of its 137 years of history. These were the "New Lights"; the "Christian Connection" and the "Stoneites," after Barton W. Stone, one of the founders. In the census of the United States it is called the "Christian Church."

The origin of this fine body of Christ's followers seems to have been the confluence of at least three distinct movements, some of which reached back into the 17th century.

In 1793, Rev. James O'Kelly of North Carolina led a revolt with about 20 or 30 other ministers and 1,000 members against the Methodist Episcopal Church. They resented what they considered the arbitrary exercise of power by Bishop Coke and Bishop Asbury. This took place in Virginia and North Carolina. At first this O'Kelly movement was known as the O'Kellyites, perhaps in derision, and later as the "Republican Methodist Church." It soon, however, became known as the "Christian Church."

As nearly as we can determine, the name, "Christian," was suggested by Rev. Rice Haggard to a committee at Lebanon Church, Surry County, Virginia, in 1794, and again to Barton W. Stone, in Kentucky, in 1804.

Following close on O'Kelly's move for independence came one led by Abner Jones, a Baptist physician in Vermont. The church founded by him called itself "Christian."

A third movement was led by Barton W. Stone. He and others gave up membership in the Presbyterian Church in Kentucky and founded a group which took the name "Christian." This was in 1804. These three groups at first independent of each other, became acquainted and general meetings, co-operation and fellowship developed among them and they united and became another church. The body thus formed decided to wear no other name but "Christian" as Rice Haggard had suggested.

They declared the Bible their only rule of faith and practice, and character a sufficient test of fellowship; consequently they were not strict about the form, or even the practice of baptism. Of course, they have foreign missionary enterprises and are represented in all co-operative efforts of the Protestants in the United States, and their publishing house at Dayton, Ohio, has all kinds of literature essential to the intelligence of a Christian people, and to the equipment of their churches. Their church paper, The Herald of Gospel Liberty, was the oldest religious periodical in America. Since their union with the Congregationalists it has been absorbed by or combined with The Congregationalist which is published in Boston, Massachusetts. It is a very able Christian journal. This church also publishes THE CHRISTIAN SUN in Richmond, Virginia. It is in its 83rd year and continues as a distinct organ representing the "Southern Christian Convention and the Congregational Churches of the Southeast."

At the beginning of the year 1832, after considerable discussion and preparation, a mass-meeting was held in Lexington, Ky., with the object of uniting the Disciples of Christ and the Christian Churches. The Disciples had their start in Western Pennsylvania under Thomas Campbell and Alexander, his son, in the publication of The Declaration and Address, which was an appeal for Christian union. Barton W. Stone of the Christians and "Raccoon" John Smith of the Disciples of Christ were the speakers of the occasion. Smith made the first speech, in his impassioned manner, in which he set forth the Bible as the basis for the purposed union. Stone followed him and accepted his proposition. They shook hands as an outward symbol of their union, and the men and women present gave each other "The right hand of fellowship." The next day being Sunday they sat at the Lord's Table together and renewed their union vows. But the union was not complete with this, and John Rogers of the Christian Church and "Raccoon" John Smith of the Disciples of Christ were instructed to "ride through Kentucky" to win the churches over to the union. About fifty Christian Churches entered this Christian-Disciple of Christ union, but a number refused to do so. Every church of the Disciples accepted it, and probably every member. Naturally Barton W. Stone remained in the union with the Disciples, and his name stands beside that of Alexander Campbell as one of our great founders and pioneers. The churches and people of it were called "Christians" and "Disciples" indiscriminately, because both of the names were proposed for the body. Campbell preferred "Disciples of Christ" and Stone the name suggested by Rice Haggard. Gradually Campbell's idea won, partly because the Christian Churches that would not go into this union insisted on their old name "Christian." Finally the government made the choice. They were divided and those who remained out of the Lexington union went into the United States census as "Christians" and the younger body as "Disciples of Christ" without any jealousies or heart burnings. Both bodies recognizing the strong differences in their views on the ordinances, the conditions of membership in the churches, and possibly on other points, went forward each in its own way, and no other attempts at union were ever made between them. But the open membership mistake is a survival of the "Christian Church" or "New Light" ideals among the Disciples; while the spirited arguments for immersion in the Christian Church show the seed that was sown there by the influence of the Disciples.

The Christian Churches developed a general convention to which delegates from all their churches went. By the time of the fifties the slavery question was shaking the nation, and in 1854 the Christian Churches, "New Light" and "Christian Connection," in the South withdrew from "The General Convention of the Christian Church in the United States," their national meeting, and formed a separate convention. This was caused by the anti-slavery utterances of their general convention held that year in Cincinnati. This break was completely healed, and in 1890 the Southern churches renewed their connection with their sister churches of the North and began again to send delegates to their national general gathering. While these churches showed zeal and spirituality their growth was slow, partly because they had been crippled by the loss in the Lexington, Kentucky union, and partly because they had no very distinct characteristics. They were still quite like the Methodist and Presbyterian in their general views, while specific characteristics did not go much beyond the degree of just being good men and women, and perhaps their name, loved by and lovely to us all, hindered their growth even while it made everybody their friends. According to the statistics in the World Almanac of 1931, this Christian Church which recently united with the Congregationalists has 112,236 members,

1,047 ministers, and 118,000 Sunday School pupils. The Congregational and Christian Church body is 993,932, distributed chiefly through New England, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Virginia and North Carolina.

METHOD'S CORNER.

(Continued from page 3.)

near where I lived sixteen or eighteen years ago. We had numerous chats together. Perhaps the most satisfying experience I had at Seattle was meeting these men. One of them thanked me for my interest in his work when I used to live there. Another said that the fellowship he enjoyed had never been forgotten. The reason for this was very simple. I took an interest in these men who were working in small hard fields and I used to go to see them and fraternize with them in their homes and parishes. I wanted the fellowship myself and believed it was the Christian privilege to cooperate and encourage my brethren who were in harder places than I was. I mention this here because I want to say that I think ministers ought to help each other more than they do. I do not mean the duty of attending ministerial meetings, but the duty, if you please, of taking enough time to spend the day with some brother minister who would be cheered and encouraged by such a day's fellowship. The greatest compensation for living is friendship, why not develop friendship with some young minister. Friendship grows by self-revelation and answering trust.

Some elderly people are sweet and amiable in disposition, a pleasure to have around. Others are childish, fretful and sensitive. Their presence is painful. We avoid them when we can politely do so, and tolerate them when we have to. We charitably charge their ugly spirit up to the infirmities of age. Investigation, however, discloses that "childish" old people were "childish" before they got old. Normal old age doesn't work miracles in character either way. A beautiful or an ugly old age is the fruit of careful cultivation or wild neglect through the years. People who desire "sweet old age" should start the sugaring-up process early.—Gospel Advocate.

OXFORD BIBLES for EVERY NEED

"The Oxford Bible is the Bible par excellence of the world"

THE HOME BIBLE

A Family Bible in Handy Size

An extra large type Oxford Text Bible, containing also, a family register and 12 beautifully colored maps. Size 9 x 5 1/2 inches.

Specimen of Type

16 The LORD is King for ever and ever: the heathen are perished out

- Nos.
01600 Superior Cloth, round corners and red edges $2.75
01603 French Morocco, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, head-band, book-mark $4.75

The JUNIOR'S Bible

Self-Pronouncing

With 4,000 Questions and Answers, carefully selected "Aids to Bible Study," 16 beautifully colored and 15 black full-page illustrations, 6 colored maps and a presentation page. Children may readily pronounce correctly difficult Scripture names, as this Bible is self-pronouncing. Size 7 x 4 3/8 x 1 1/4 inches.

Type in Junior's Bible
2 Take the sum of all the of the children of Israel, years old and upward, thro

- Nos.
1815 French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges, head-bands and book-mark. Make some child happy with one of these fine $2.95 Bibles

Child's ILLUSTRATED Bible

The beautifully colored illustrations in this new Bible are a delight to the children. It has clear, readable type and yet it measures only 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches.

Specimen of Type

2 My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the LORD: my heart and my flesh crieth out for thee, O living God.
10 Mercy and truth are gathered together: righteousness shall kiss each other.
11 Truth shall praise thee, O LORD.

- Nos. 02112. French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, gold edges $2.50

Pocket REFERENCE Bible

Has over 50,000 center column references. Measures only 6 3/4 x 4 1/2 inches. (A splendid gift for a young lady.)

Specimen of Type

9 Behold, "O God our shield, and look upon the face of thine anointed.
10 For a day in thy courts is better than a thousand elsewhere."
2 or, all

- Nos. 07523x French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $3.25

Concordance Edition

Type and size as No. 07523x, but with a Concordance, subject index and dictionary of Scripture names. An excellent edition for students and Christian workers No. 03272x $5.00

OUR LEADER

Oxford Concordance Bible

Self-Pronouncing

This beautiful Oxford India paper edition is indeed the ideal Bible for the student, preacher and evangelist. Each proper name and difficult word is divided into syllables and accented, and though printed with large clear type, the volume measures only 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 x 1 5/16 inches.

Specimen of Type

8 9 20 Jē-hōi'-ā-chin was 6 years old when he began to

- No. 03671x. Fine Grain Morocco leather, overlapping cover, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head-bands and book-mark $9.50

A UNIQUE GIFT BIBLE

With Basket Weave Binding

The Antique brown calf leather binding has a basket-weave grain, and button clasp. Has overlapping cover, art silk lined, with red under gold edges. With references. Printed on Oxford India paper. Type as Pocket Reference Bible. $5.50

No. 03255x

- As No. 03255x, with concordance. No. 03276x $6.50

Oxford TEACHER'S Bibles

Have over 50,000 center column references, and 300 double-column pages of up-to-date helps, conveniently arranged in alphabetical order. Also 32 full-page illustrations, and an indexed atlas of the Bible with 15 beautifully colored maps of Bible lands.

Easy-to-Read-Edition

Size 7 1/4 x 5 x 1 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type

14 Like sheep they are laid in grave; death shall feed on th

- Nos. 04453. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges. A durable and hand-some Bible $4.35

Oxford India Paper Edition

Only one inch thick.

- 0773x. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, head-bands and book-mark. A beautiful gift edition $7.00

RED LETTER Edition

Same size and type as style No. 04453, with same references and helps, but with all the words of Jesus Christ printed in red. White paper edition No. 05453. French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $5.00

The Oxford imprint in a Bible guarantees satisfaction

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Secretary.

A PRAYER.

Father, we thank Thee that in Jesus every need is supplied. Trusting, both soul and body are fed. Following, one's path is safe and sure. Serving, others are succored and sustained. Loving, the gates of God swing wide and beckoning. Thou who lovest all men, although the evil that is in the world besets and hinders, make us willing to bide and tarry, eager to do Thy will, grateful for a part in helping others to find the way of loving, trusting, following, serving. More and more, in Thy light may all see light. For Jesus' sake, Amen. "L."

WHO WILL CARRY A MESSAGE?

A big battle was being fought between the English and Dutch navies. Sir John Narborough was the English admiral, and the masts of his ship had been shot away almost as soon as the fighting began. In spite of the greatest care and the most splendid bravery, Sir John saw that the English sailors must be beaten unless he could get help.

There were a few ships some distance off to the right, but they were to act as a reserve and would not enter into the battle without a message from him. Sir John stood a moment and wondered how that message would be sent. It was not possible to signal; there was only one way—the message must be carried.

Sir John wrote his order telling the captain of the reserve to come and help him at once; then he called aloud for anyone who was willing to be the messenger.

Think of the scene a moment, and then you will understand a little what a brave heart was needed to carry that note.

Below was the sea; above, around, in it there rained a heavy shower of bullets. The long swim would be trying enough, but to swim with the chance of being shot every second was terrible. Yet many sailors came forward at their admiral's call ready to risk their lives for their country's good.

They were all grown-up men, and they must have stared in wonder as one of the cabin boys, Cloudsley Shovel by name, stood up among them.

"Why, what can you do, my fearless lad?" said the admiral kindly.

"I can swim, sir; and if I am shot I shall be missed less than any one else."

After a moment's hesitation the paper was handed to the boy, who put it between his teeth and sprang overboard. How the men cheered and watched him as long as he could be seen. He reached the reserve ships in safety, and as they went into action at once, a victory was gained by the English.

When the sun was setting, Cloudsley Shovel stood once more on the deck of the admiral's ship and received his heartiest thanks. "I shall live to see you have a flagship of your own," he said; and the words came true, for the brave cabin boy became Sir Cloudsley Shovel, one of the greatest of British admirals.

The Captain of our salvation is engaged in a great warfare with Satan and his hosts of darkness, and He wants everyone to come to His help. He wants messengers to go to those who are fighting against Him, or who are doing nothing to help on His cause and tell them that if they will come to Him they will receive pardon of all their sins, and that God will give them victory over sin and a glorious reward in the end.

What say you, young folks, will any of you be brave enough to volunteer in this noble service?—The Youth's Evangelist.

TWO LONG IN TELLING IT.

A missionary in Egypt was telling a woman the story of the love of Jesus, and at the close she said, "It is a wonderful story; do the women in your country believe it?" "Yes!" said the missionary. The woman thought a moment, then she said, "I don't think they can all believe it, or they would not be so long in coming to tell us. Why, nobody has ever loved me. When I was born they wept seven days because I was a girl. At nine years of age I was married, but was not loved, and only the other day my own boy spat in my face because I am a woman. Now tell me that a man whom I never saw so loved me that He died for me! Why, I can hardly believe it."—The Foreign Field.

MISSIONARY OFFERINGS.

WEEK ENDING AUGUST 15, 1931.

Sunday Schools.

Previously acknowledged	$ 3,885.56
Elm Avenue, Portsmouth, Va.	2.59
Leaksville, Luray, Va.	1.91
Mayland, Broadway, Va.	1.75
Mt. Carmel, Carrsville, Va.	1.65
Palmyra, Edinburg, Va.	1.89
Zion, Sanford, N. C.	1.47
Dry Run, Seven Fountains, Va.	1.11
Ingram, Va.	3.00
Antioch, Zuni, Va.	1.25

Total $ 3,902.18

Individual and Church Collections.

Previously acknowledged	$ 4,392.18
Bethel, New Hill, N. C.	10.00
United Church, Salisbury, N. C.	6.25

Total $ 4,408.43

Summary.

Previously acknowledged	$24,336.28
Sunday Schools, Regular	16.62
Individual and Church Collections	16.25

Total to date $24,369.15

J. O. ATKINSON,
Secretary.

CRADLE ROLL RALLY.

A Cradle Roll Rally was held at Wake Chapel Christian Church on June 30, 1931, at 3:30 P. M. As the Superintendent, Mr. Chas. N. Johnson, had moved to Cary, N. C., the program was under the direction of Mrs. Lee Johnson and Miss Lora Johnson. The children gave a most interesting program. The collection with the mite-box opening, amounted to $8.56. After the program was over ice cream was served to all present, being furnished by some of the ladies of the Woman's Missionary Society. There were about sixty persons present, young and old, to enjoy the Rally. May God bless this good work by the children, that it will continue to grow.

MRS. CHAS. N. JOHNSON.

"Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all nations, . . . and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

THE CHAMBERSBURG CONFERENCE.

No. 1.

By MRS. J. CARTWRIGHT, Norfolk, Va.

Some Impressions of the 1931 Session of Wilson College Conference of Missions, Chambersburg, Pa.

This school is but a day's drive from Norfolk, Va., by motor-car, or if time is no object, one may enjoy the lovely bay trip to Baltimore and then on by train.

As we reached Chambersburg, the coaches carrying delegates and leaders were uncoupled from the main train and an engine pushed us on to the college campus. A committee gave us such a welcome that we soon felt at home among strangers and beautiful surroundings. This college is located on acres of a rolling green campus, with stately shade trees, unusual shrubbery and imposing buildings. The river forms a background, with the Appalachian Mountains in the distance. One can follow old Indian trails, enjoy swimming pools and tennis courts, or auto to Gettysburg or other interesting points. All the college had to offer was ours to enjoy for seven days. And it is an ideal place for recreation.

Three hundred and eighty women and girls met for mental improvement and spiritual uplift. The enrollment is limited to 400, as it is thought that better work can be done in smaller groups. Our train reached there about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and soon things began to hum. The young people, or those of them who could sing, were called together for choir practice. This choir furnished the Conference music. Every department had its director. This is an interdenominational conference, and the campus was made gay with denominational camp flags. The young people were there in numbers, together with their camp leaders. They were called together early in the day for planning, and worked late in the evenings, when some Conference leader would join them for a short talk.

Sometimes you would be awakened by their singing at a Sunrise Service. To look into their faces was to know of a Christian spirit, the new thoughts, the lessons of sharing which were taking hold upon them. Who knows how many really found themselves in this atmosphere; and that the world will be a better world because of their time spent at Chambersburg.

We met them everywhere. Great interest was centered in a large room filled with literature. A week's time and one felt it was the beginning of real finds in material to take back home. Could our churches, Sunday Schools and missionary societies, needing leadership, co-operation, and constructive programs, do a finer thing than send one or more delegates to such a conference?

The first supper was an occasion. At the dining hall door, you were asked what denomination you represented. Your answer gave you your table number. At our table, No. 29, we found two Congregational women and Mrs. B. D. Jones, who, together with myself from the Christian Church, made the big four Congregational-Christians. Every one seemed to what was taking place in Seattle, and would say what a fine thing it was and that it was what all churches should do. The spirit of Christian fellowship was so sweet and fine; everywhere one met and mingled with teachers, leaders, lecturers—one large family demonstrating the idea of sharing.

At 8:15 each morning there was a fifteen minute meditation, led by a returned missionary, who had been on the field in China for thirty years. Following this period, the first morning, Dr. Chas. N. Arbuckle lectured on "Religion and Life," using Psalms 23: 31-34 as the scriptural background. It was a wonderful beginning for wonderful days. Then to classes, or to as many as one could—we wanted to take everything. Our teachers were of a high order, and it was a joy to sit with them.

After 3 o'clock, the time was used for rest and recreation until sunset. At that time an "Oak Tree Worship Service" was held down by the river. Some part of the second chapter of Luke was used each evening by a conference leader. The setting was picturesque, and one's thoughts turned to Jesus and how He taught his disciples down by the Sea of Galilee.

The evenings were inspirational. An evening with twenty-two missionaries changed our impressions of those who go to live Christ in lands afar. We realized that this is a new day in missions, and our churches must awaken. We studied the findings of peace conferences, covered wagon trails, of committees sent out on higher education, the Home Mission Conference held in Washington, D. C. in 1930, and found all of these questions vital, especially in our church relationships. The law of nature is change; and we should not be afraid to be up to date, holding fast to those things we have proven good. Fifteen minutes each day if given to mission study would change our outlook.

A "Current Events" evening on peace movements and how the Christian women of the world could outlaw war, showed that our responsibility was great. Following this was a dramatization—"Mother Earth and Her Children."

Saturday afternoon, July 4th, was given over to "The Spirit of '76." It was an occasion of real fun and pleasure.

On Sunday morning, Dr. Oscar Buck, a member of the Commission on Higher Education, just returned from India, gave us a message that was a fitting climax to the conference week. Communion services were observed at sunset on the campus.

Monday evening the Conference closed with an impressive ceremony, "The Fellowship Fire." This flame was lighted thirteen years ago by women who had caught a vision of the central flame. Now a flag of red and white bears 24 gold stars, each representing a missionary who, having caught the gleam and with His reflection shining in their hearts, gave themselves at this conference. At this service everyone is given a candle, and as the two new missionaries whose stars had just been added, lighted their candles from a large candle placed in front of the altar, the march began. Singing "Fellow the Gleam," by twos the audience took their lights and followed down a long, winding corridor, lighted by candle bearers, on to the "gym." When all had circled that great room and sung the last verse, we extinguished our candles.

We realized that our work at Wilson College for 1931 was history. It had been a privilege to attend. It had given us inspiration and a new vision of a needy world. And our opportunity now is to share.

ANTIOCH CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The first Daily Vacation Bible School was held for Antioch Christian Church August 3-7, 1931, and was a great success.

Mrs. D. P. Barrett, Miss Mabel Barrett, and Mr. Alfred Barrett, all of Pence, P. R., were visiting in the neighborhood and kindly assisted. Mrs. Barrett superintended the school and taught the Bible classes, Miss Mabel had charge of the music, while Alfred taught the carpentry classes, and Mrs. J. H. Godwin, Misses Annita Landing and Winifred Clements and Mrs. W. K. Saunders had charge of the other classes.

There were seventeen families represented in the school, a total of 42 different ones through the week, who gave their interest, their presence and their finances to help make it a success. The school ran for one week only, but the teachers and pupils put their best in it, and many of them worked overtime to complete some of the things they wished to do. We believe that much good was accomplished, and know there was much interest shown by both parents and children.

One class made invitations for the members to take to their families to come to the closing exercises on Friday afternoon, August 7th, which was an old fashioned Sunday School picnic, with one of the morning programs of the D. V. B. S. The church was almost full, and the superintendent and teachers felt happy and encouraged with the co-operation of the patrons.

MRS. W. K. SAUNDERS,

Zuni, Va.

Church Clerk.

IF YOU WERE A CASTE GIRL.

If you were a caste girl in India, you would be spared the rush and hurry of catching cars, the pushing and jostling of the crowd and ever-increasing competition. You would not even cross the threshold of your home, but would remain all day in tiny, dimly lighted rooms or within the small courtyard enclosed by four white-washed walls. You would even be spared the exertion sometimes necessary on Sunday morning to get to church on time. Sunday would be just like any and every other day, and the offerings of rice, coconut or gingerly oil placed before the family idol would constitute your worship on that day as on every other day.

If you were a caste girl in India, you would have time to think. Hour after hour, day after day, week in and week out, there would be little else to do. The household tasks—providing there were no servants to do them—would soon be finished, and before you would be the rest of the morning with nothing to do. The noon-day meal over, and again before you would stretch long, wearisome hours with no work, no recreation, nothing to do but think. Darkness comes and with it more tedious, never-ending hours.

If you were a caste girl in India, you would be free from perplexing problems and from the necessity of making decisions. There would be no questions arising as to what line of work you should pursue or where you could best invest your life to yield the largest returns. Those matters were decided for you years before when you knew nothing about it. You were betrothed to a certain young man whom you will soon marry. You will be taken to his home and there he and his family will decide all matters pertaining to you without questioning your wishes.

Yes, you would be spared many of the cares and duties which you sometimes think so hard, but which give you so much satisfaction when once done. When tempted to complain of your lot, just pause a moment and think how dull and monotonous an existence you would have with no work and no responsibilities. Then thank God for the tasks, hard though they be, and the problems, however difficult to solve, which after all make life worth living.—Grace H. Reynolds, in Exchange.

A BIG ADVANTAGE.

The time was when many men went out and achieved success with meagre educational facilities, but that time is now past. The educated man has every advantage. He gets in a few years what the man who does not go to college must pick up in many years. He gets a big start in the race. He is already running his best, while the man who did not go to college is having to toil along and pick up information and training slowly in the school of experience.

Education furnishes a fund of knowledge and a mental discipline which are a great help to any man or woman.

A college education will increase efficiency, broaden vision, and enlarge capacity for service. It is increasingly necessary in order to meet twentieth-century competition. It will pay both in money and in influence.

It is a matter of common information that the untrained men and women are at this time overcrowded and unwanted, consequently are standing idle in great numbers; while on the other hand, those who are really trained for their work are being called up higher. Every business in America, every profession, is calling for men and women who can think, who can plan, who can handle men. These they are finding among college graduates. Here is a great responsibility for Christians. Education is such a powerful thing that we ought to weigh carefully what it contains. The right kind of an education can be a great blessing to the world. It can be of great service to the growth of Christianity. The wrong kind can choke Christianity out of the heart and wreck many lives.—Gospel Advocate.

NOTICE.

I am making a change in churches this Conference year, and will be glad to correspond with any church or churches desiring my services in regards to church work.

W. B. FULLER,
313 Greene St.,
Harrisonburg, Va.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us.

Postage paid and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

MEN'S PENS—Capitol, $2.00; Mercantile, $2.50; Cardinal, $3.00.

LADIES' PENS, $2.00.

COMBINATION OFFER—To a new subscriber or for renewal, $2.25, either Gentleman's (Capitol) Pen or Ladies' Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. And to "Sun" subscribers, not in arrears, any Pen at one-fourth off. Address: THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1536 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

ADVENTURES IN YOUTH FELLOWSHIP

"Youth at Work in the Church."

JEWEL TRUITT, Editor, Waverly, Virginia.

THE WHY OF RALLY DAY.

A reliable statistician has told us that our churches are less than fifty per cent efficient. Look over your list of members and compare that with the attendance, and see if your church is more or less efficient. Do you find the statement true? If you do you need to hold a Rally Day.

During the summer months people have drifted from your church. Vacations during August have just about played havoc with the Sunday School attendance. A good rousing campaign for attendance "in large numbers" for the first Sunday in October will rally many members back to their respective places as officers, teachers and pupils. It may take another Sunday or two to get everyone back in place and to enlist the new members that are yours for the asking. It will take time and work to get results, but the results are more than worth the effort.

It may be that there is a child in your community that needs the help that you can give. Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, health commissioner of Chicago, and one of the greatest health doctors in America, attributes everything he is to the Sunday School. At the age of nine he was already headed toward crime and its inevitable punishment to body and soul. A snowball hurled at the hat of a bishop knocked off the hat and got him an invitation to Sunday School. He went to the Sunday School and is, today, a staunch believer in the power of the Sunday School.

The Bugle Call.

The bugle was sounded in a certain church on Rally Day. It was a challenge to the working forces of that church to respond. After vacation is over and boys and girls are in school again, and business is going on and everything and everybody is getting back to normalcy, work is again on the calendar. A good rest and a little relief from the routine duties makes anyone ready to settle down again for a year. Why does the Sunday School or church hesitate to capitalize on this idea?

A good start in September and October means a year of progress and achievement. Rally Day is the bugle blast that calls to action. It gives the marching call and sets the pace for the year's work. Each worker will gladly answer, "Here am I."

"The Tooters."

Sousa once said that if he had seven or eight musicians, the rest of his sixty men could "just toot." In other words, the rest of the crowd follows the leaders. Bands are just about like churches. If there are a few to depend upon, all the time, there will be a good Church. Let it be the aspiration of each Sunday School superintendent and each minister in his respective church or churches this year to find the leaders for his band, put them to playing, and then invite the rest of the band to join in on the music.

A Progressive Idea.

One church let the children be the main attraction for the Rally Day program. And if you want to see adults come in droves, just put all of the children of the community "on exhibit" in a public performance! But you might like this idea we were talking about:

"Next Sunday Morning

"A Big Service for the Children

"A girl of nine will sing a solo, a boy of ten will read the Scripture, a girl of eleven will announce the hymns, a boy of twelve will make the announcements. A group of boys will take the offering. Reserved seats for boys and girls."

Would Your Church Like a Social Rally?

In the interest of the Sunday School and the church a Social Rally might be planned for every member of the Sunday School for some evening just before the Rally Day. Plan for refreshments, games and community singing. A young people's class might prepare advertising matter for the affair. A card might be used upon which the time and place could be printed along with, "Special Program, Games, Refreshments, Community Singing. The whole neighborhood, old and young, is invited." The idea might work in your community. It might be just what you're needing. It pays to try—and to advertise.

The Young People Will Rally.

Special programs will be put on by young people in Christian and Congregational Churches in the interest of the coming year's work. September will be the month for planning these special programs. October will be the month for actually putting them on. There will be pageants for those who like them, plays, speeches, addresses, discussions, hikes, picnics, and "get-togethers" by the dozen. While rallying "is the fashion," leaders in our church societies will be using it, not just for the results it may bring in new members and better attendance, but for the honest-to-goodness good times it will afford everybody. Come on, let's go!

Rally Day Helps.

Write to Miss Jewel Truitt, Field Secretary of the Board of Christian Education, Waverly, Va., for help for whatever type of program you may be planning.

Rally Day materials, such as post card invitations, buttons, slogans, etc., and plays and pageants and programs, may be secured from The Christian Publishing Association, Fifth and Ludlow Streets, Dayton, Ohio; The Pilgrim Press, 14 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass.; The Methodist Publishing House, Grace and Fifth Streets, Richmond, Va.; Meigs Publishing Company, 41 West Washington St., Indianapolis, Ind.; Goodenough and Woglom Co., 14 Vesey St., New York, and The Judson Press, 1701 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

For August 30, 1931.

TOPIC: "What Does the Bible Say about Missions."

SCRIPTURE LESSON: Matthew 28: 19-20.

This topic will give a chance for all to give their favorite opinions about missions, so long as they are based on the Bible. Of course, missions is still a very controversial subject in many churches. This meeting is not intended to convince anyone against his will one way or the other, but it can be very helpful if well planned.

A poster might be made to announce the topic. If the program given here is used, the poster might contain the following wording: "The Bible—Missions." It should be large and attractive. Put it in a conspicuous place.

For the program a debate might be used with the topic, "Resolved, That the Bible is a missionary book." If a debate is not wanted, or if further discussion is wanted, the questions given below may be suggestive.

For Thought and Discussion.

1. What does "missions mean. Who is a "missionary"?"
2. What types of work did Jesus do? Would you classify any of these as missionary? (See Matthew 4: 23.)
3. Did Jesus seem to have believed in missionary work? Give reasons for your answer.
4. Where did Jesus work, at home or among people of other races? By what did He limit the boundary of his work?
5. Did Jesus have more success among Jews or Gentiles? Why do you think this is true?
6. Did Jesus give any indication of what He expected his followers of today to do in regard to those who do not know of Him?
7. When was the first missionary service conducted, and by whom? (Acts 2.)
8. Who is called the first Christian missionary? Do you admire the man? Why?
9. Would you consider the Bible a missionary book? Would you be willing to part with your Bible? Did you know that missions gave it to you?
10. Do you think that missions is just a matter of "the heathen being converted," or does it make any difference to us whether we carry out the Last Command of Jesus?

Some Famous Arguments.

1. "We have enough to do to make America Christian without going to foreign lands." But, I ask you: Are we doing our dead level best in making America Christian when we refuse to help give the rest of the world a chance to be Christian? Can America be Christian alone, or do the other Christian nations help to make her Christian.

2. "We need all of our money to support the work of our local church." But, do we gain anything by acting selfishly? Will we not grow more by sharing with others than by trying to keep what we have to ourselves? Look around for churches which will show this.

3. "Those people have religions of their own, why not leave them alone. I ask you: Is their religion the best? Do we want to share with them the best we have, and the best that they have?"

4. "The non-Christian religions have many good things in them, and they are gradually being purified of the more objectionable features. Why bother them with another religion?" Now: What is causing the non-Christian religions to become purified? Does Christianity have anything to do with it? Why is Gandhi using Christian principles?

5. "When God is ready to save the heathen, He will do it without our aid." But: Will He? Does He say so? And, will He save us if we refuse them the Words of Life?

6. "God will not punish those who never heard of Christ. They will be saved if we leave them alone." Why deny others the blessing of the richness of life in Christ Jesus? History shows that ignorance has never saved much in material and physical things. Will it, in spiritual things, save souls.

Daily Readings.

- Aug. 24. "Jesus' Command."—Luke 24:44-48.
 Aug. 25. "The Power behind Missions."—Luke 24: 49.
 Aug. 26. "First Home Mission."—Acts 2:1-4, 41.
 Aug. 27. "First Foreign Mission."—Acts 10:34-48.
 Aug. 28. "Paul, Missionary."—2 Cor. 11:21-33.
 Aug. 29. "The Open Door Today."—Rev. 3:7.

Sunday School Lesson

BY REV. H. S. HARDCASTLE.

THE MISSION TO CYPRESS.

LESSON IX—AUGUST 30, 1931.

GOLDEN TEXT: "I am not ashamed of the gospel; for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth."—Romans 1: 16.

LESSON: Acts 12: 25-13: 12.

Jesus had said, "Ye shall be my witnesses both in Jerusalem and in Judea and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth." The circle had been enlarging as the lessons of the past few weeks have shown. We come today to that phase of the work which began the tasks of taking the gospel to the uttermost part of the earth.

The Missionaries.

"And Barnabas and Saul returned from Jerusalem, when they had fulfilled their ministration, taking with them John whose surname was Mark." Acts 12: 25.

Barnabas was "a good man, and full of the Holy Spirit and of faith." He was a prosperous man, large-hearted and generous, willing even to sell property in order to give to the needy. He had a liberal spirit and a friendly, sympathetic nature. He was the kind of man who believes in giving a fellow another chance, as is evidenced by the way he stood by John Mark later. Barnabas was one of those steady, substantial, serviceable men who gave himself fully to the Lord and was used largely by Him.

Saul, or Paul, as he is known to the Christian world, had a bright mind and a burning heart. He had had a great experience of Christ in a very intimate and personal way, and out of that experience had come a constraining love to share Christ with others. He had a cosmopolitan spirit, a genius for organization, and limitless faith and courage. He was undoubtedly the greatest product of Christianity.

John, or Mark, was a cousin of Barnabas, the son of the probably well-to-do woman in whose home the apostles met, and in whose home the Lord's Supper was celebrated. He had ability especially as a writer as his gospel evidences, for it was he who wrote the Gospel according to Mark, the earliest of the four gospels.

Here were the type of men who were worthy to represent Christianity to the world at large.

The Missionary Church.

Antioch, at the northeast corner of the Mediterranean, was the capital of Syria. It was an important city, of cosmopolitan character, and it was here that the gospel was first preached to the Greek-speaking Jews, and it was here that the disciples were first called Christians. It is not surprising that it was out of this church that the missionary enterprise had its first organized expression.

The Holy Spirit said, "Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them." The missionary enterprise was initiated by the Spirit of God Himself. It was through a church that was ministering unto the Lord, and that gave due place to the spiritual life, that God began the missionary campaign in the larger sense.

"Saul and Barnabas"—the two best men they had. This church did not keep the best for itself; it gave its best to others. It is to be kept in mind, however, that those who remained at home had in a way just as vital a part as those who went. The same principle is just as true today. If there is any difference toward missions today it is not on the part of the missionaries, but on the part of the church at home.

The Missionary Journey.

"So they being sent forth by the Holy Spirit departed unto Seleucia, and from thence they . . ."—The succeeding chapters of Acts give in a sketchy way where they went and what they did. They went first to Cyprus, Barnabas's old home. It was natural that he should be interested in taking the gospel to his own folks. Furthermore he would know best how to work among his own people.

Landing on one end of the island of Salamis, they went through it, preaching in the synagogues to the Jews, with whom they had, of course, a point of contact. At the other end of the island at Paphos, they had an experience that strengthened their own faith and made a profound impression on the people. There was a deputy, Sergius Paulus who was a prudent man, that is, of an inquiring mind, eager to learn. He desired to hear the word of God. But then as always there are those who would keep the word of God from having free course. In this case it was a sorcerer, Elymas by name, who like many today, because he feared a loss of both prestige and money, sought to prevent Paulus from embracing the faith. But there was in this gospel that which commended itself to him, and both because of this, and because of the effect of the miracle which demonstrated the true character of Elymas, Paulus believed. Like those who attempt to keep others blind, Elymas himself was stricken blind. It is a graphic illustration of a great spiritual truth.

How seemingly insignificant and comparatively unimportant it seemed perhaps to the main actors in the great drama of history. But Paul and Barnabas and John Mark were simply the first of that long list of those who have in a sense, turned the world upside down because they have preached and practiced the gospel of Jesus Christ.

NOTICE.

After much prayer and feeling that the Lord would have me give myself, for the present, to evangelistic work, I will be glad to help any pastor or people for the next few months. I believe in prayer for the promise to be fulfilled as mentioned in John 16: 8. The Lord has blessed my efforts in the past. References: Dr. T. F. Carroll, Charlottesville, Va., or Dr. W. D. Harward, Windsor, Va.

(REV.) ELISHA BRADSHAW,
Walters, Va.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the number and price.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3/8 x 8 Inches, and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.00

Minion Type, Pocket Size, 4 x 6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold. $1.60

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.50

2173—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges. $6.00

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 16-16 of an Inch Thick.

133X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.00

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 5 3/8 Inches, and 1 inch thick, with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 5 3/8 Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.

65—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps. $2.50

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3/8 x 8 1/2 Inches and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With Concise Bible Dictionary, combined Concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.75

RED-LETTER EDITION.

With All the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands; title stamped on side and back in pure gold. $3.25

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations; special book for Sunday Schools. 95c

Any of the above Bibles sent postpaid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street,

Richmond, Virginia

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY H. E. ROUNTREE

One of our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"O Lord, I beseech thee, let now thine ear be attentive to the prayer of thy servant, and to the prayer of thy servants, who desire to fear thy name, and prosper, I pray thee, thy servant this day."

MONDAY.

BUILT ON POWER.

"The earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof; . . . for He hath founded it upon the seas." Read Psalm 24: 1-6.

What a daring thought is that of the Psalmist! The earth is the Lord's we should say, because He has built it on the solid rock. But no: the reason the Psalmist gives for his belief that the earth is the Lord's, is just the opposite, because the contents lie on the swinging waves and rest on "the waters under the earth."

Modern science has carried the thought of the Psalmist very much farther, and has shown us an entire universe founded upon the seas and established on the floods. And yet it is stable as the being of God.

So is it with our human life. What endless and dismaying change seems beneath us and around us and above us! Ceaseless change, and yet the Christian feels that God is unchanged, and rests serenely upon his permanence. Because the Christian is God's, he is founded and established, though upon the surging sea.

Prayer.—Thou art from everlasting to everlasting, O God. Thou changest not, though all else should change. Thou, O God, art the Rock of Ages. Amen.

TUESDAY.

EXCELSIOR.

"Faint, yet pursuing." Read Judges 8: 1-9.

Gideon's heroic band of three hundred, after putting to flight the vast host of Midianites, were not content, but kept on after them, driving them over the Jordan. They were in sore need of food after their great exertions, a handful against swarming multitudes, but still they pressed on, "faint, yet pursuing."

A modern example of the same grit is Miss Elinor Smith, the eighteen-year-old aviatrix who sometime ago rose in her airplane to the height of 32,000 feet. At the summit of her climb of six miles her oxygen supply failed and she fainted away, finding herself, when she recovered her senses, nearly a mile lower. But she tried to climb back, making the attempt over and over, until the freezing of the oxygen regulator compelled her to come down.

Fainting is no valid excuse for ceasing. There will come a time when wisdom says "Stop!" and we must heed the admonition, as Miss Smith did; but that time is a long way after a timid soul will halt.

WEDNESDAY.

WHAT SAY YE?

"But who say ye that I am?" Read Matthew 16: 13-18.

Christ, desiring to learn the result of His long teaching and His many miracles, asked His disciples, "Who do men say that the Son of Man is?" He was not satisfied with their telling Him of the various popular conjectures, that He was John the Baptist risen from the dead, or Elijah or Jeremiah or some other prophet come back from the grave.

Quickly and eagerly He asked them, "But who say ye that I am?"

Once Mark Hopkins was conducting a recitation in a textbook, he himself had written, when a member of the class rose and reeled off a page or more of the book with great exactness. Said Dr. Hopkins: "I don't want to hear that; I want to know what you think about it."

Christ is not content if we merely accept what we have read or heard about Christianity. He knows that we are not genuine Christians until his words have become a part of our own personality. Paul had the right idea when he said boldly, "I have the mind of Christ." Every Christian must have the mind of Christ.

Prayer.—Our Saviour, we delight in thinking Thy thoughts after Thee, but we pray especially that we may think our own thoughts in Thy spirit. Amen.

THURSDAY.

ONE DUST GRAIN.

"O God, Thou knowest my foolishness: and my sins are not hid from Thee." Read Psalm 69: 1-6.

A new "black ultra-violet" ray has been discovered which has surprising properties. For instance, there may be two pitchers of pure water and into one of them may be dropped a mere dust grain of a harmless substance found in chestnuts. Under the new ray the water in the pitcher containing this fleck of substance will appear a brilliant blue, while the water in the other pitcher will remain white. It is suggested that thus the prohibition officers may discover the source of bootleg alcohol, as no amount of distillation will destroy this peculiarity.

So it is with the least admixture of sin in our lives. How clearly it stands out before the eye of God! How impossible it is to conceal it by any subterfuge! No pretence, however it may cheat us and other men, can for a moment deceive the All-wise.

Prayer.—May we realize, O God, that all we do or say or think lies naked and open before Thee. May we rejoice in Thy omniscience. It is good to have to do with such a God. Amen.

FRIDAY.

THE FOURTH "R."

"A debtor to do the whole law." Read Galatians 3: 1-9.

In his recent address to the Boy Scouts, President Hoover spoke of the three fundamentals of education, "readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic," the three R's, and said that "to this we must add one more R and that is responsibility—responsibility to the community—if we are not to have illiteracy in government."

That is the great need today, for old and young alike—a deeper sense of responsibility. We are responsible to God for the best use of all the good things He has given us. We are responsible to ourselves, that we may be true and upright and worthy in all things. This fourth R is worth all the rest put together, for it alone reaches out into the next world and lays hold of eternal life.

Prayer.—Our Saviour, whose life measured up to the full limits of responsibility, give us of Thy wisdom and power. We are debtors—and how much we owe! Help us to pay our debts, for Thy name's sake. Amen.

SATURDAY.

BEAUTY AND BANDS.

"I took unto me two staves; the one I called Beauty, and the other I called Bands." Read Zechariah 11: 7-14.

Zechariah took his staff Beauty, and broke it in two, because of the wickedness of his people; they were ugly in their souls. And he also cut asunder staff Bands, because the people had broken the bond that held them to their God. Thus graphically the prophet declared the truth that there is no loveliness and no unity in lives that have separated themselves from God.

Has the world lost to you the fresh beauty that it had in your youth? Do men, who were once so friendly to you now appear to be your foes? Find the reason in this, that you are no longer a lover of your Saviour. Your sins have broken the staff Beauty and the staff Bands, and graciousness and brotherhood have gone out of your life.

He who once worked in the carpenter's shop at Nazareth, if you seek Him with your whole heart, will mend your life to beauty and to control. He, and He alone, can give you joy and peace once more.

Prayer.—O Thou Repairer of souls, how we need Thee! Make us whole again, we pray Thee. Mend our staves, we beg Thee. And send us on our way rejoicing. Amen.

SUNDAY.

PENTECOSTAL FULNESS.

"It filled all the house . . . It sat upon each one of them . . . They were all filled with the Holy Spirit." Read Acts 2: 1-11.

As this year and month and day we reach the nineteen-hundredth anniversary of the coming of the Holy Spirit into our world, the hearts of all Christians are filled with new joy at the thought of the Comforter whom the Father has sent in the name of the Son. Not even the coming of Christ among men was so blessed an event as the coming of this third person of the Trinity to be with us forever. The coming of the Son meant our salvation; the coming of the Spirit meant our regeneration.

There is one note in the account of the first Pentecost that should stand out especially in our grateful thought, and that is the fulness of it. Christ had said that He came that we might have life, and have it abundantly. The Holy Spirit is the abounding life of which He spoke.

So let Pentecost lift us up into the splendor of Christianity. Let it make heroes and saints of us. Let it transform us forever from the mediocre and the commonplace. Let us be from this day Spirit-filled souls.

Prayer.—Not by measure, O God, dost Thou give Thyself. Thou dost carry us to the heights. Thou dost grant us the farthest horizons. All Thy treasure is ours. Amen.

"HE TAUGHT AS ONE HAVING AUTHORITY."

Christianity is a revealed religion. It is a sovereign God revealing His will concerning man through an inspired Book. He reveals how man fell into sin, that he is unable to extricate himself. He reveals His love for man, including redemption from sin through the suffering Son.

This revelation comes to us in an inspired Book. It speaks with final authority on questions of morals and faith—and on all else that it teaches. Modern attacks on the Bible and its revealed faith have sought to break down the sense of the authority of God. Not even the pulpit has escaped the deadening effect of it. Some preach philosophy and a certain sliding scale of ethics, preening themselves that they thus show comprehension and sympathy.

Back to the veritable Bible teachings! Back to the thunder of Sinai! Back to the cross on which the blood of God's own Son was spilled for our sins! Away from mollicoddle religion! Away from compromise with luxury-loving selfishness; O man of the pulpit, remember that you are the ambassador of the Eternal Son before souls who have an eternal destiny!—Western Recorder.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN'S PULPIT

REV. JOSEPH W. FIX, Preacher.

HE CALLETH FOR THEE.

(The sermon this week is taken from a magazine issued by a local church. I do not know the writer of the message, but it is so good, I feel that one cannot go wrong in copying it as printed.—J. W. F.)

"The Master is come and calleth for thee."—John 11: 28.

"The Master is come and calleth for thee." Special sweetness and significance are added to these words when we recall the one to whom they were spoken and the circumstances in her life which called them forth. They have often been made the basis for earnest appeals to the ungodly—those who are far from Christ. And they should continue to be so employed. Yet we may not forget that this gracious invitation was addressed to one who was eminent for her devotion to her Lord. Each of the three times Mary of Bethany is named in the gospels, we see her at the feet of Jesus—First, as a learner; second, as a mourner; third, in unreserved dedication to Him and his service. Yet to one who lived in constant nearness to her Lord the invitation came, "The Master is come and calleth for thee." No matter how near any one may be to Jesus, it is possible to come still nearer. No matter how large a measure of devotion to him any one has attained, no matter how large a depth of his fellowship one has experienced, Jesus is calling to every one, "Come near unto me." Every time we get a glimpse of Mary of Bethany, she is always at the feet of Jesus, and yet the message which Martha bore to her as she sat alone with her sorrow was, "The Master is come and is calling for thee."

All that Mary needed was the intimation that he had come and that he longed for her presence. "As soon as she heard that, she arose quickly and came unto him." There were doubts and misgivings in her soul as she drew near and cast herself at his feet. Her first words to him as she came into his presence were, "Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died." These were also Martha's first words when she went forth to meet him. There was a community of feeling in the hearts of the sisters—a failure to comprehend why the Master had not sooner responded to their call. Yet this lack of comprehension did not keep them from coming near to him. They came with their doubt and questioning, and by coming, all that doubt and misgiving was quickly dissolved.

Tears blinded the eyes of Mary when she heard the call, but she came in her tears, and looking up into his face she saw the rainbow of peace and hope. Jairus came to Jesus when his heart was torn with anguish as he saw his only daughter lying at the point of death. The Lord did not repulse him because it required such a sorrow to bring him into his presence. Neither will he repulse you, Oh, weeping reader, because hitherto you have resisted all the pleadings of his love. Do as Mary of Bethany did when her sorrow was pressing sore upon her, "Arise quickly and come unto him," and, like Mary, you will find a most gracious welcome and reception.

How richly Mary was repaid for coming to Jesus! Even if he had not exercised his omnipotence and given back her loved and lost one that day, she would have been well repaid if Jesus had done nothing more than mingle his tears with the tears of these weeping sisters. I often wonder at which to marvel most in that day's manifestations—the power which Jesus exercised in calling the dead to life, or the pity which he showed as his tears fell with those of the sisters to whose relief he had come. For it is at that juncture that we find that shortest and sweetest verse of the Bible, "Jesus wept."

We may always rest assured that we will receive the same overflowing compassion and love when we come to our Lord with our doubts and questionings and tears. He is the same yesterday, today and forever. He is always near to those who seek his consolations and support. The first words of the risen Lord—"Why weepest thou"—are still being whispered in the ear of every disconsolate soul. Do as Mary of Bethany did—"As soon as she heard that, she arose quickly and came unto him," and like Mary of Bethany, you will experience his tender pity and unfailing power in your heart and life.

WHY DID CHRIST DIE?

When we ask this question, we can answer it with three letters, "S-i-n." "He was wounded for our transgressions; he was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon him, and with his stripes we are healed."

Jesus Christ died because of the sins of others. It was sin that made his death necessary. For Christ also hath once suffered for sins, the just for the unjust, that he might bring us to God.

Judas betrayed him. The high priest, Pilot the governor, the Roman soldiers, and the multitude, contributed to his crucifixion; but it was sin that made it necessary. Not his own sin, but the sin of others. His death was in our place—a just one who deserved to live, dying in the place of unjust men who had the condemnation of sin upon them. He died for us, the just for the unjust, the righteous for the unrighteous. He, the righteous Son of God, bore our sins in his own body upon the cross, that we being dead to sin, should live unto righteousness.

We think of death as something to be very much dreaded, but Christ died in the most shameful and painful manner by which people were killed at that time. Crucifixion was not practiced by the Jews. The Romans, who introduced it into Palestine, did not inflict it on a Roman citizen, but on criminals, despised people and slaves. Jesus suffered the most shameful death, not because he deserved it, but because he loved us. Oh, what love was manifested towards us, that we might be saved from sin and its ruin.

Then, think of the love the Father manifested because He loved us and wanted to redeem us from sin. What would we as earthly fathers do if we had sent our son to a people that were strangers to us to serve them in every way possible, and they should take him and put him to death in the most cruel way they could; and he in great agony should cry to us, and we had the power to free him. Would we turn our backs on him for any love we had for them? The Father did this for us, not because we were worthy, but because He loved us and wanted to redeem us from sin. Let us remember that this sacrifice was made for all, and that we all need it.

God is no respecter of persons. He has provided for all. All have sinned and all need a Saviour. All must be saved the same way. God is no respecter of persons. He does not look upon sin lightly. All have sinned and all must meet the requirements, repent and believe. This has reference to all. The provision has been made for all, but we must meet the condition; the president in the chair, the king on the throne and the newsboy on the street; the most refined society woman and the servant in the kitchen; the white, the black, the red, the yellow—all people of all conditions of life. Let us praise God for such a Saviour and ask God to help us make him known to man.

ELISHA BRADSHAW.

Walters, Va.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATED.

The Silver-plated Ware is of the very highest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses.$22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 85. 11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plated; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling). $22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90. 14.00

Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim.....$ 9.00
Bread Plate No. 4—Broad rim..... 9.00
Filler—Silver lined 6.00

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, - - Richmond, Virginia

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

Three of our little boys had a thrill. Last week we had to change casings on our truck and machine. The little boys have been having a great time rolling the old casings on the side walk. It is an impossibility to keep our eyes on them all the time. We check them at meal times to see that we have all present, between meals it is impossible to watch them all the time.

Three little fellows decided they would go to Durham. One of them has a father living there, one had an aunt, the other just went along—ages 13, 11 and 9 years. They left sometime in the morning. They were missed at the noon hour. Search was made in the afternoon but they could not be found. Inquiry was made all in this section but to no avail. We phoned from Greensboro to Durham and all intervening points but could get no trace of them. We had been to Raleigh that day and returned in the afternoon along the road they went but did not see them. The father of one of the boys was notified and he came to Elon that night and went back but missed them both ways. They walked the railroad much of the way, and it was hard to catch them. They walked near to Durham, forty miles distance, that day. They were footsore, tired, thirsty and hungry when night came on. A lumber pile was the most inviting bed they saw, and they got in between the layers of lumber to slumber away the dark hours of the night in the rain. They walked nearly forty miles without water or anything to eat. When they got out on the highway the next morning near Durham, the father of one of the little boys picked them up and returned them to the orphanage. They had no reason to go. They had not been punished for anything. They are much richer for their experience, and they say the food at the orphanage tastes good now, and that the beds are real soft and comfortable, and that the orphanage is a real good home to be in. They say that they are fully amused and will never repeat this escapade again. It was the first boy to run away in five years; but it is occasions of this kind when we live several years in a few hours and the worry makes our hair turn gray.

We can imagine so many things that could happen to them; but the good Lord keeps watch over them and the guardian angel permitted no harm to befall them.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR AUGUST 20, 1931.

Brought forward $ 9,876.63

Sunday School Monthly Offerings.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference:

Shallow Ford $ 2.55
Belew Creek 1.00
Mt. Zion 1.70
Hines' Chapel 4.14
Howard's Chapel 2.00
Ingram 5.00
New Lebanon 2.00
New Lebanon Baracca Class 2.00

20.39

Eastern North Carolina Conference:

Wentworth $ 9.46
Youngsville 1.00
Shallow Well 2.00
Piney Plains 5.35
Cary 3.09

20.90

Western North Carolina Conference:

Shiloh 1.00

Eastern Virginia Conference:
Wakefield $ 2.76
Mt. Carmel 5.18
Cypress Chapel 5.05
South Norfolk 5.97
Berea Nansemond 10.00
Elm Avenue, Portsmouth 2.71
First Richmond 4.86

36.53

Valley Virginia Central Conference:
Bethel (July and August) $ 2.90
Concord 1.52
Leaksville 2.50
Dry Run 2.63

9.55

Special Offerings.

A friend, Durham, N. C. $15.00
J. S. Love, support of child 60.00

75.00

Total for the week $ 163.37

Grand total $10,040.00

SEPTEMBER AND OCTOBER IN OUR CHURCHES.

Re-organization of Church Work.
Farewells to Going Away Students.
Opening of Schools.
Welcoming Public School Teachers.
Welcoming Students.
The Sunday School Anniversary.
Promotion Day.
Rally Day, or Rally Month.
Fall Greetings.
Sunday School Teacher Training.
Plans for the Coming Year.
Fall Picnics.

Eifers Sunday School Maps.

On a Revolving Adjustable Steel Stand.

The first 5 maps
are in Set No. 1,
with stand,
Price $15.00

Set No. 2
8 Maps,
Price $20.00

Fine large Maps, in 6 Colors 36x57, on linen finished Cloth. Mounted on a folding steel stand, which can be regulated, so that Maps may be seen to the best advantage. This set contains data for thorough Bible Study. Its large print and cheerful colors makes this set very instructive and attractive. Contains the five thoroughly up to date Maps necessary to the study of Bible History.

New Testament Palestine, — Old Testament Palestine, — Roman empire and Bible Lands, showing Pauls Travels by colored lines. — Lands of the Old Testament, from the Great Sea, to the Persian Gulf. — The Exodus, Egypt, showing by colored lines the wanderings of the Israelites.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN,

1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia.

ALL
SELF-
PRONOUNCING

Holman Testaments

COMMAND
ATTENTION
AND APPROVAL

Holman Vest-Pocket Testament

Size, 2½x4½ inches

Specimen of Type.
AND the third day there
was a marriage in
Cana of Galilee; and
the mother of Jesus was

The VEST POCKET is, beyond question, the most popular Testament published. In size, 2½x4½ inches, it is not much larger than the Vest Pocket. It is also the only Testament of its size with large bold type and pronouncing text.

2104. Dark Blue Silk Finished Cloth, with edges colored to match, gold titles. $.50
2103K. Morocco Grained Binding, flexible limp, gold edges and titles.60
2114. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold title, round corners, red under gold edges.85

VEST POCKET TESTAMENT AND PSALMS
2103KP. Morocco Grained Binding, limp, gold titles, round corners, gold edges.70
2114P. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges.90
2115P. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges. 1.10

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS
With all the words of our Lord and Saviour printed in red.
131RL. French Morocco Leather, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, rounded corners, gold edges.90
151RLP. French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, gold title on red panel, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 1.35

Holman Jewel Testament.

INDIA PAPER ONLY—Size 2½x4½ inches x ¾ inch
The JEWEL is the latest and most attractive Pocket Testament made. The TYPE is black, bold and larger than that in the famous Vest Pocket edition, and the book itself is smaller. It is printed exclusively on the famous Holman India paper, noted for its opening quality and unusual tensile strength. One advantage of this India paper is that the leaves do not cling together.
The size, 2½x4½ inches, is so small that the book practically fits the palm of the hand.

Specimen of Type
ST. MATTHEW 2 The three wise men carrying away into Babylon are fourteen generations; and from the carrying away into Babylon unto Christ are fourteen ing interpreted is, God with us.
24 Then Jesus being raised from sleep did as the angel of the Lord had

5003X. Morocco Grained Binding, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges. $1.00
5015PX. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, Psalms included. 1.50
5016PX. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather hinges to edge, silk sewed, red under gold edges, with Psalms 2.60

Holman GEM Testament

POCKET
SIZE
3½x4½
inches

Specimen of Gem Black Faced Type
CHAPTER 23.
THEN spake Jesus to the multitude, and to his disciples,

The GEM TESTAMENT has been steadily growing in popular favor ever since its first appearance.

In size, 3½x4½ inches, it is not much larger than the Vest Pocket. It is also the only Testament of its size with large bold type and pronouncing text.

The edition on India paper is ideal, and we know of no better gift at the price than one in the finer binding.
4102P. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red burnished edges, with Psalms. $.90
4113. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges. 1.35
4115P. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 1.90

RED LETTER GEM TESTAMENT
4113RL. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges. 1.50

INDIA PAPER GEM TESTAMENT
4136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather linings to edge, red under gold edges, with Psalms. 3.00
4136XPRL. Red Letter Edition with Psalms, same binding as 4136XP, but with the Sayings of Christ Printed in Red. 3.25

Old Folks Testament

Extra Large Print

Pica, 16mo. Size, 5½x7¼x¾ inches

Old folks or those with poor sight will appreciate the advantage of this Testament. The type is a delight to the eye with its wide spacing between the lines. It is the most readable edition of all large print Testaments.

Specimen of Type.
THE book
of Jesus

PSALMS INCLUDED
2902P. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red edges, with Book of Psalms included. $1.50
THIN BIBLE PAPER EDITIONS
Same Large Print as Above
2913P. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 2.95
Same as above, with the Sayings of Christ in Red.
2913PRL. French Morocco Leather, flexible covers, gold side title on red panel, rounded corners, red under gold edges, and with Book of Psalms included. 3.10

All styles sent postpaid at above prices

A REMARKABLE INCIDENT.

A visitor among the poor was one day climbing the broken staircase which led to a garret in one of the worst parts of London, when his attention was arrested by a man of a peculiarly ferocious and repulsive countenance, who stood upon the landing place with folded arms, leaning against the wall.

There was something about the man's appearance which made the visitor shudder, and his first impulse was to go back. He made an effort, however, to get into conversation with him, and told him that he came there with the desire to see him happy, and that the book he had in his hand contained the secret of happiness.

The man shook him off as if he had been a viper, and bade him begone with his nonsense, or he would kick him down the stairs. While the visitor was endeavoring with gentleness and patience to argue the point with him, he was startled by hearing a feeble voice, which appeared to come from behind one of the broken doors which opened upon the landing, saying: "Does your book tell of the blood that cleanseth from all sin?"

For a moment the visitor was too much absorbed in the case of the hardened sinner before him to answer the inquiry, and it was repeated in earnest and thrilling tones: "Tell me, oh, tell me, does your book tell of the blood which cleanseth from all sin?"

The visitor pushed open the door and entered the room. It was a wretched place, wholly destitute of furniture, except a three-legged stool and a bundle of straw in the corner, on which was stretched the wasted form of an aged woman. When the visitor entered she raised herself upon one elbow, fixed her eyes eagerly upon him, and repeated her former question: "Does your book tell of the blood which cleanseth from all sin?"

He sat down upon the stool beside her and inquired, "My poor friend, what do you want to know about the blood which cleanseth from all sin?"

There was something fearful in the energy of her voice and manner as she replied, "What do I want to know about? Man, I am dying! I have been a wicked woman all my life. I shall have to answer for everything I have done," and she groaned bitterly as the thought of a lifetime of iniquity that seemed to crush her soul. "But once, years ago, I came to the door of a church, and I went in—I don't know what for. I was soon out again, but one word I heard I could never forget. It was something I heard about blood which cleanseth from all sin. Oh, if I could but hear it now! Tell me, tell me, if there is anything about that blood in your book!"

The visitor answered by reading the first chapter in the first epistle of John. The poor creature seemed to devour the words, and when he paused, she exclaimed, "Read more! Read more!"

He read the second chapter. A slight noise made him look around. The savage man had followed him into his mother's room, and though his face was partly turned away, the visitor could perceive tears rolling down his cheeks. The visitor read the third, fourth and fifth chapters, before he could get the poor listener to consent that he should stop, and then she would not let him go till he had promised to come again the next day.

He never, from that time, missed a day reading to her until she died, six weeks afterward; and very blessed was it to see how, almost from the first, she seemed to find peace by believing in Jesus. Every day the son followed the visitor into his mother's room, and listened with silent interest; and blessing came not alone to the mother, for the remarkable change wrought in the son who also testified to the saving power of God's grace.

On the day of her funeral, he beckoned the visitor to one side, and as they were filling up her grave he said, "I have been thinking there is nothing I should like as much as to tell others of the blood which cleanseth from all sin."—The Wesleyan Methodist, Author Unknown.

In 1914, there were 1,700,000 motor vehicles in the United States; today there are 26,500,000. People employed in the manufacture of motor vehicles total 325,124, with wages of $647,588,438.

The man with a college education has more than nine hundred times the chance of being successful than the uneducated man has.—Exchange.

FLOWERS.

"They humbly rise from out the sod
And smile on us the smile of God:
They breathe on us their fragrance rare
And sweet perfume fills all the air.

"They come arrayed in garbs of grace,
And make our world a charming place;
With loving look they linger near
Lest we forget their presence dear.

"Our constant friends they prove to be,
Still faithful in adversity.
The flowers, the flowers! high heaven's gift,
So freely given for our uplift."

ELON COLLEGE

AN ACCREDITED COLLEGE

of the

CONGREGATIONAL CHRISTIAN CHURCHES OF THE SOUTHEAST

ELON was founded to train Christian leaders for the New South.

ELON has done its task well—one graduate in seven being in the Christian ministry. The other six express Christian leadership in the various professions and vocations. Experience teaches that spiritual leadership must be indigenous.

The South is now a New South ready for an inclusive Church, the type of Church for which Elon has stood for forty years and for which she is prepared to produce capable leadership.

With no Church in the community, save the College Auditorium, ELON has practiced Christian Union for faculty, students, and community for four decades.

Its contribution to Christian Education is nationally known and approved.

Its Christian Education Building, providing laboratory facilities for religious leadership training, is unique and is the first college building of its type in the world.

ELON confines itself to undergraduate liberal arts work with that religious emphasis which befits the Christian College.

In ELON the Congregational-Christian Church has an asset of marvelous hopefulness.

The South needs her Yale, her Oberlin, her Carleton, her Pomona for the intellectual leadership of the United Church. Many regard ELON as strategically located and spiritually endowed to become such a center of illumination and leadership training.

THE CHRISTIAN EDUCATION BUILDING
The Heart of the Elon Program of Christian Education.

C. M. CANNON, Registrar

Elon College, - - - - - North Carolina

Home Atmosphere—Reasonable Rates—Clean Athletics—Christian Spirit.

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the kingdom, as represented by the Congregational-Christian Church.

BOARD OF EDITORS.

J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
E. C. GILLETTE, D. D. Associate
W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
W. A. HARPER, LL.D. Associate
REV. S. C. HARRELL, D. D. Associate
J. E. McCAULEY, D. D. Associate
W. C. WICKER, D. D. News Editor
P. J. KERNODLE, D. D. Managing Editor
C. D. JOHNSTON, D. D. Circulation Manager

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Year $2.00
Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Postoffice, at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to The Christian Sun, C. D. Johnston, Circulation Manager, Elon College, N. C.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads" 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

Notices: Obituary and marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge; all over 100 words at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

MARRIAGES

DAVIS—TEAGUE.

Married, July 29, 1931, at the residence of the writer, Burlington, N. C., Mr. Foster E. Davis and Miss Elsie Teague, of Liberty, N. C. A few of their many friends accompanied them and witnessed the beautiful ring marriage ceremony. The bride is a daughter of P. D. Teague of our Pleasant Hill Church community. Friends of the happy couple extend congratulations and wish for them a long and prosperous life.

P. H. FLEMING.

OBITUARIES.

CHRISMON.

Burial services were conducted at Apple's Chapel, August 1st for Gaiher Lee Chrismon, who died July 30, 1931, age 33 years.

He is survived by his widow, his father and many other relatives and friends. May God comfort the bereaved.

R. A. WHITTEN.

APPLE.

Jesse L. Apple was born Nov. 1, 1883, and died July 24, 1931, aged 47 years, 7 months and 24 days.

He was married to Miss Iola Brown, December 10, 1912. To this union were born four children, Lester, Inez, Alene and Mabel. The children, his companion, his father and mother, and four sisters and brothers survive.

Brother Apple was for many years a faithful and loyal member of Apple's Chapel, and lived a quiet, Christian life.

The funeral service was held at the church on the afternoon of July 25th. The following ministers were in charge: Rev. L. V. Harris, Rev. C. A. Brown, Rev. J. W. Patton, Rev. T. J. Green, and the writer. A very large congregation of friends and relatives assembled to pay a last tribute of respect.

THE CONGREGATIONAL LATIN-AMERICAN INSTITUTE AND PILGRIM LATIN CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH OF WEST TAMPA, FLA.—

Are helping give the Gospel, which is "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth," to the forty thousand Latin people of Tampa. The evangelical forces working among the foreigners of Tampa are by no means covering the territory sufficiently.

Methodists have six preachers, Baptists two, Presbyterians one, Congregationalists one. Church workers and teachers must be supported for this great missionary work. Send check to

LESLIE S. BRAY, Treas.

Route 4, Box 468, - - Tampa, Fla.
Send boxes of clothing to Mrs. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

For literature, write Rev. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

His untimely going was a shock to his loved ones and friends. However, God doeth all things well. May we bow in humble submission to His divine will, for our sorrow is, we believe, great joy for our deceased brother.

R. A. WHITTEN.

666

LIQUID or TABLETS

Relieves a Headache or Neuralgia in 30 minutes, checks a Cold the first day, and checks Malaria in three days.

666 Salve for Baby's Cold

PIEDMONT COLLEGE

A SENIOR COEDUCATIONAL INSTITUTION

OFFERS

Standard Courses leading to the usual Academic Degrees; also Courses in Music and Home Economics.

Thorough Instruction in Speech and in the Commercial Branches.

A beautiful location in the "Foothills of the Blue Ridge"; altitude of 1,500 feet; spring waters and invigorating climatic conditions.

An enviable reputation for sound scholarship, wholesome student life and Christian Idealism.

Expenses exceptionally light: $318.50 for the College Year.

For Catalogue, write,

JONATHAN C. ROGERS, Dean,
Demorest, Georgia

LARGE PRINT TEACHERS' EDITION FOR ADULTS, TEACHERS AND PREACHERS

and all who would study the Word of God intelligently this edition is unsurpassed. The type is large, clear, Bourgeois, Self-Pronouncing, with liberal space between the words and lines, which makes it easy to read.

Size, 8 x 5 1/2 inches.

Exposition of Type.
"From that time Jesus began to preach, and to say, 'The kingdom of heaven is at hand.'"

Containing New Copyrighted Helps by most reliable Authorities. A Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, New Colored Maps.

No. 4712. Divinity Circuit Teachers' Bible, French Seal Leather, red under gold edges, Silk Head bands and Silk Marker.

Our Price—Post Paid 5.00

No. 812RL. Red Letter Teachers' Bible. The Words of Christ in the New Testament, Old Testament Passages Alluded to by Christ, Various Prophecies Relating to Christ in the Old Testament, etc., all PRINTED IN RED. Binding same as described above and same large Self-Pronouncing type.

Our Price—Post Paid 6.00

No. 733X. Holman India Paper, Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Our Price—Post Paid 10.65

SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE

FOUR YEAR STANDARD COLLEGE

A Memorial of the Congregational-Christian Union.

FRANK E. JENKINS, Pres.

MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD, Dean

OPENS WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1931.

Chartered BETHLEHEM COLLEGE
June 2, 1922

Renamed PIEDMONT JUNIOR COLLEGE
May 18, 1928

Renamed SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE, June 3, 1931

SCHOLARSHIP HIGH

EXPENSES LOW

CHARACTER SUPREME

A Strong Faculty, Educated in 25 Universities and Colleges in 12 States.

Unsectarian, but thoroughly Christian.

For Information about Entrance, write—

DEAN MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD,
WADLEY, ALABAMA.

For Other Information, write—

DR. FRANK E. JENKINS,
LA GRANGE, GEORGIA (To September 1st).

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Representing the Southern Christian Convention and the Congregational Churches of the Southeast.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY

VOLUME LXXXIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, AUGUST 27, 1931.

NUMBER 35.

.. THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY ..

By DR. W. C. WICKER.

THE DELHI PACT.—

The Delhi pact signed last March by Mahatma Gandhi and Lord Irwin, then viceroy, provided among other things for: Abandonment of the boycott as a political weapon; abandonment of the civil disobedience campaign; release of prisoners held for non-violent offences; recognition of the right of residents in the sale area to make their own salt; permission of non-aggressive picketing; withdrawal of repressive ordinances issued during the civil disobedience campaign; recognition of the legality of transactions in which property confiscated for taxes was sold to a third party; non-interference with sales and purchase of British goods; and participation by the nationalists in a second round table conference.

DR. PAUL VIETH GOES TO YALE.—

Dr. Paul H. Vieth, for the past six years superintendent of educational administration and director of research of the international council of religious education has resigned, to become associate professor of religious education in Yale divinity school on September 1. Dr. Vieth was professor of religious education at Duke university last year and is succeeded by Dr. H. Shelton Smith this year and succeeds to the position left vacant by Dr. Smith who resigned at Yale to take a position with Duke university as head of the department of religious education in the school of religion. We are glad to welcome Dr. Smith back to his native state after having filled several important positions in the North and West since his graduation at Elon College and Yale University.

SUMMER CONFERENCES.—

The Congregationalists are bringing together in their summer conferences in Minnesota nearly two thousand young people and are occupying the new Minneapolis Y. M. C. A. boys' camp which was opened this spring for the first time. Thirty-two acres of beautiful wooded shore has been improved by the erection of $75,000 worth of buildings, making an ideal camp just outside the city limits a few miles. This is the young people age and unless they greatly improve on what the young people of the past generation did they will be recreant to their trust. The young people of this age are not only better than they were in the past but they are forging ahead with venturesome initiative and will bring things to pass worthwhile if the older generation will have faith in them and give them encouragement.

GANDHI PROPOSES.—

Mahatma Gandhi's hold upon the millions of India is greatly strengthened by his stand for the elimination of caste distinctions. Dedication of a whole Hindu temple recently Gandhi, the son of a high caste Hindu family, pleaded for the opening of the temple to the 70,000,000 "untouchables," saying that sins committed against this caste were responsible for India's failure to obtain self-government. He declared: "It is the memory of these sins which has led me to include the removal of untouchability as a plank in the nationalist platform. God recognizes no difference between the high caste Brahmin and the sweeper." This is the spirit of christianity even though taught by the Hindu religion and many nominal christians would do well to adopt it in practice as well as in theory. Christ said that the children of this world are wiser than the children of light. We boast of freedom from the caste system in America but practice it in many ways of conduct.

MODERN WAR.—

Modern war is a loaded pistol aimed at the heart of civilization itself with its hair trigger held by an unsteady hand. The approaching disarmament conference will show whether the size and power of that pistol is to be increased or decreased, or the hand rendered more unsteady. The hope lies not in the statesmen but in the peoples of the world, the strength of the peoples depends not upon a few elect spirits but on the extent to which popular knowledge is thorough and deep, and so fortifies the representatives of the people with the support of an informed and resolute public opinion. The time has come when the church people of our country should have a unanimous voice in public affairs by doing their individual duty at the ballot box and in positions of public trust. We believe in separation of church and state but we should not believe in neglect of public duty of Christians as citizens, but should use all the powers of the Christian conscience to make the Lord reign in the earth. When this day shall come the Kingdom of God will come.

APATHETIC INDIFFERENCES.—

"It is when the community is apathetic and disregardful of its own interests, that our confidence lags. More than once within the last two years we have feared that the community had lost its sense of indignation, its capacity to wrench itself free from mis-government and official inefficiency—We have been startled to learn that a minority of the citizens of New Haven are registered as voters under the law which gives them the right to participate in party caucuses and primaries. Only 40 per cent of those who voted in the election last fall for one of the parties are on the registry lists; 95 per cent of the other. "The quickest way for a citizen to keep down taxes and public expenditures within the means to pay for them is for him to be a citizen in all that that term implies." This recalls the quaint but wise prayer: "O Lord, make the indifferent different!" Many of our people are indifferent to the duties of citizenship and should be made different or stop complaining about conditions as they exist today. Every citizen should do his whole duty on all things pertaining to government, education and religion.

NEED FOR RELIEF ACUTE.—

Every report from every informed agency indicates that the need for relief steadily increases. It may be, as some think, that we have touched bottom and have now begun the upward climb. But even if this be true, the fact that many families have used up their savings during long periods of unemployment means that there is an accumulating mass of human need to be ministered to. In a statement issued July 27th, Mr. Joel D. Hunter, superintendent of United Charities, Chicago, points out that 10,049 families were helped in June, 1931, as against 1,134 in June, 1930—almost nine times as many! This condition is typical of many of our large cities and Mr. Hunter pays a deserved tribute to the United Charities workers, who are carrying many times the burden of work which they carry in ordinary times, when he says that "the unselfish way in which they have responded to the situation can be compared to that spirit which prevailed during the war period, when every one was overwhelmed with anxiety for his fellowmen." Many who are crying hard times and depression, if they would stop such a cry, might share their plenty in sacrifice for those who suffer for the bare necessities of life.

DAILY VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL.—

The education of public opinion must begin with the children. For this reason the success of the Daily Vacation Bible School in the little Rhode Island mill village, Hill Grove, which claimed the largest enrollment of any in the state, is a credit to the Methodist church which conducted it and an encouragement to other churches responsible for a distinct community. The total enrollment was 233. At three of its twelve sessions, 203 were actually in attendance. Nearly 300 attended the graduating exercises, when 150 pupils received diplomas, and the address was appropriately given by the superintendent of the Providence district. Such a movement as this can take place among people of Rhode Island, it can also be brought to pass in every school district of the sunny southland if—if our Christian people will only see the imperative need of religious education, Bible training, training in worship, etc., to save our civilization from crime and from imprisonment. Individual churches can have such schools in the summer, and groups of churches can combine and hold such schools. Churches of different denominations will be the better because of such union and cooperative work. Plan for such a Daily Vacation Bible School for next summer.

NOTES-PERSONALS

"Nothing is true pleasure that is not pleasant to remember."

Richmond suffered from the effects of a cloud-burst on last Thursday. It was a most spectacular affair, and quite considerable property damage was done.

The young people of the Valley of Virginia took quite an active part in the Valley Central Conference this year. It is good to see that the younger groups are awakening to the value of things spiritual.

"The leading mark of Christianity is the remedy it provides for sin. This is the glory and excellence of the Gospel. It meets a man as he really is. It tells him of a remedy equal to the disease; a great forgiveness for great sinners."

Dr. C. C. Ryan, who has for the past two weeks been holding revival services in Georgia and Alabama, returned to Richmond on Wednesday of this week. Dr. Ryan has promised to give us a report of his visit for next week's issue of THE SUN.

Rev. G. H. Veazey reports that he has been in a Union meeting at Wadley, Alabama, that the preaching was good, and the prospects for the results hopeful. We hope that the results of the meeting were encouraging and that many were added to the Kingdom. Brother Veazey also reports a meeting at Rock Springs with much interest manifested.

Rev. Tilman N. Lowe, having recently accepted the call to the Hopewell Congregational Christian Church, extended him a few weeks ago, preached his first sermon last Sunday morning as pastor of the church. He was at one time pastor of Hopewell Methodist Church, later serving as pastor of the Elm Avenue Christian Church of Portsmouth. He is the successor of Rev. John C. Barrett, who recently resigned. Rev. Lowe used as his first sermon, "Christian Freedom," and a large crowd was present to hear him. At the evening service Rev. Barrett preached his farewell sermon. For the next several weeks he will be willing to supply for churches desiring his services.

The Annual Bible Conference at Massanetta Springs closed on Sunday, August 24th, after one of the most successful Bible Conferences that ever has been held at this place. The speakers included men of renown and prominence from all sections of this country, as well as from abroad. The Conference was of two weeks' duration, but the writer of this paragraph was only able to attend the last four days, and for this we were more than amply repaid. The speakers for the last four days included Bishop Arthur J. Moore of Los Angeles, California, an evangelistic speaker of great ability and fervor; Dr. Donald MacKenzie, formerly of Edinburgh, Scotland, now of the Western Theological Seminary of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; Dr. John A. Hutton of London, England, who is editor of the British Weekly; and Dr. Robert E. Speer of New York City. The music was furnished by Signor Mario Capelli, Hammondtree of Chicago, Illinois, and special music was furnished by Signor Morio Capelli, famous tenor, including an evening's program on Thursday. The entire conference was under the direction of Dr. Wm. E. Hudson of the Presbyterian Church, and the conference was under the auspices of that denomination. The Christian Church was well represented by its ministers. We were delighted to see Rev. Alfred W. Andes and Rev. W. B. Fuller of Harrisonburg; Rev. R. Lee Williamson of Winchester; Rev. O. D. Poythress and Dr. L. E. Smith of Norfolk; Dr. I. W. Johnson of Suffolk, and Rev. E. B. White of Windsor, Virginia. Rev. J. W. Fix of Franklin, and Rev. J. F. Morgan of Norfolk, were present during the first part of the conference, but left before we arrived. Among the ladies present during the conference we noted Mrs. A. W. Andes and Miss Andes, Mrs. I. W. Johnson, and Mrs. J. W. Fix. The writer and Mrs. J. T. Kernodle represented the lay constituency of our Church from Eastern Virginia. We left for Richmond on Monday morning, being accompanied by Dr. Smith, who caught the evening train into Norfolk. It was a most enjoyable five days' outing and a most wonderful and inspiring conference.

LINES BY DANIEL ALBRIGHT LONG.

(Born May 22, 1844.)

In the bright and breezy morn of youth,
What is the dearest story?
Many plays and happy days
Leading on to glory.

What is the sweetest dream that comes with age?
What smooths the furrows in the brow?
To think of loved ones gone before,
Waiting for us now.

As we near the bridgeless river,
We hear the Pilot call,
In the house of "Mansions"
There is room for all.

One by one the happy pilgrims
Now await the muffled oar,
While fronded palms wave welcome
To the bright celestial shore.

Hark! Sweetest music!
Tidings from afar!
Angel choirs singing welcome
While pilgrims cross the bar.

As we keep our sweetest flowers
Through summer heat and winter cold,
So our Father keeps His children
Safe within the Shepherd's fold.

There within the gates of glory
We shall find them "hand in hand,"
Waiting for us in the "springtime"
Of that fair, eternal land.

CONFERENCES MEET.

Eastern Virginia Conference meets at Cypress Chapel, Nansemond County, Wednesday before the first Sunday in November, 1931, at 10:30 A. M.

Georgia and Alabama Conference and Southern Association will meet jointly—, —, —.

Alabama United Conference meets at Phenix City, Ala., Second Tuesday morning in November, 1931.

Eastern North Carolina Conference meets at Shallow Well Church, Tuesday after the third Sunday in November, 1931.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference meets at Mt. Bethel Church, Rockingham County, on Tuesday after the second Sunday in November, 1931.

Western North Carolina Conference meets with Shiloh Christian Church, Randolph County, Tuesday after the first Sunday in November.

NOTE.—Secretaries of Associations and Conferences will please supply omissions and make necessary corrections to the above.

METHODS CORNER

By REV. ELISHA A. KING, D. D.

Miami Beach, Fla.

It was my privilege to attend the Seminar on "The Gospel and the Church" at the National Council in Seattle. During that period of discussion the question of Church attendance was taken up and discussed at length. It seems that there is a committee of 1,000 that is keeping track of attendance. Probably the members of this committee are scattered about throughout the country and are counting attendance on the quiet. The report said that so far 950 churches have been studied. The total number attending on a given Sunday was 254,188 or an average of 254 which is 40 per cent of the membership. These figures seem to indicate that less than half of the church members attend church services!

In any such studies of attendances it must always be understood that there are many church members in every church that cannot attend church regularly. There are the sick, the nurses and doctors, mothers of small children and adult men who may have Sunday duties. I think every church should have a large enough constituency outside of its membership to make up these losses. In counting attendance it is impossible for the tabulator to know how many people present are members. Perhaps this counting gets nowhere after all. It certainly would mean nothing much here. During the winter we have a crowded church, but nearly all are winter residents or visitors. Compared with our membership we would go down on the tabulation as having an attendance many times beyond our actual membership!

During the summer, even, the attendance is comparatively large, but even then the visitors outnumber the members.

I suppose the point of all this investigation is to show that church attendance is not what it ought to be. People are not crowding our churches anywhere, that is not regularly. Some churches are filled, of course, due partly to the unusual drawing power of the preacher or the exceptional quality of the music. Nevertheless it must be said that a great many church auditoriums are not even half filled. Some minister said once to his small congregation, "I do not like the wood-family," and he asked his small congregation to sit up closer to the pulpit so he could not see so many wooden benches! Small congregations are very uninspiring to the minister. It almost seems a duty of every church member to attend service at least once on Sunday. But people do not look upon church attendance as a duty anymore. There must be something about the church or the service to draw them. I hope to tell about that in my next "Corner."

Brother preacher, don't take it for granted that because you have been preaching a simple truth for twenty years, the fellow right in front of you knows all about it. It may be the very thing he needs. Another thing: A sermon that isn't worth repeating on occasion, wasn't worth preaching the first time. A preacher can ruin a meeting by getting smart and trying to preach something "new" and "original." The people need the plain gospel.—Gospel Advocate.

NOTICE.

Dr. W. A. Harper will be glad to rent his 12 room home at Elon College with all modern conveniences, furnished completely, to some one who wishes to spend the winter and educate his children at our college in Piedmont North Carolina. Here is a fine opportunity for some one. Address Dr. W. A. Harper, 1366 E. 57th St., Chicago, Ill.

CONGREGATIONAL NEWS

REV. E. C. GILLETTE, Editor; REV. F. P. LNSMINGER, and REV. M. J. SWEET, Associates.

THE UNITED CHURCH, Congregational-Christian, of LaGrange, Georgia, announces the happy consummation of its dreams. At a wonderfully inspiring service Sunday, August 16th, the final adoption of articles of association and by-laws, together with an election of a full set of officers and the careful outlining of a progressive program was cared for in the afternoon. At the morning service Dr. D. B. Atkinson, Vice Moderator of the General Council of Congregational and Christian Churches delivered a telling sermon which fittingly prepared the hearts and minds for the strenuous task of the afternoon. A picnic luncheon was served by the ladies of the two churches at noon. It was another wonderful social hour in which all joined heartily with good cheer.

At two o'clock began the devotional service conducted by Rev. Theron Zimmeran, S. S. worker. This struck a high note of spiritual desire. A very appropriate address of welcome was given by the pastor of the Christian church, where all the meetings were held. Then followed introductory remarks by the chairman of the special joint committee which had held many meetings and worked hard to bring about the union. Mr. R. L. Farrar and Mr. G. C. Cole gave the reports. The Rev. M. J. Sweet, pastor at large, was elected moderator. He conducted the business of the afternoon which all thought made history for the churches of LaGrange.

While all the officers and committees are to work hard through the remainder of August and September getting things ready for the work to follow, the actual functioning of the new church will not begin until the first week in October. It is then that the officers will be installed and a new program of religious education through the United Sunday School begun. Mr. Theron Zimmerman will continue with the churches until the middle of September and help the new organization in every way.

CANDLE LIGHTING SERVICE.

The following Candle Lighting Service was prepared by Miss Priscilla Chase for a young people's meeting. Candle lighting services are very beautiful and impressive. Each one taking a special part in the service should have a four inch candle. All others in the audience should be furnished with small candles to be lighted at the proper time.

In the following program, if it is impossible to have printed programs, the responses may be omitted and some person designated to respond to all of the challenges at the conclusion of the speech of the Spirit of Love.

CALL TO WORSHIP:

The day goeth away, and the shadows of the evening are stretched out; But it shall come to pass that at the evening time there shall be light. Abide with us, for it is toward evening and the day is far spent.

LEADER:

"O come, let us walk in the light of the Lord,
He will teach us of His ways,
And we will walk in His paths."

"Father of lights, in whom there is no shadows,
Giver of every good and perfect gift!
With one accord we seek Thy holy presence,
Gladly our hearts to Thee in praise we lift."

HYMN: "Now the Day is Over."

PRAYER: "O God, with whom there is no darkness, but the night shineth as the day, keep and defend us, and all Thy people, in soul and body, during the coming night. May we rest in the consciousness of Thy favor; in the peace of a good conscience; in the hope of a better life; in the faith of Thy providence; in the love of Thy Spirit.

May we rise up again to diligence in our several callings, to work the work of God while the day lasts, seeing the night cometh in which no man can work. And whether we wake or whether we sleep, may we live together with Christ.—Amen.

SCRIPTURE: (Lighting candle representing the Christ. This candle should be a large one and should be in a holder on a table in front of the room, or audience if the meeting is held out-of-doors.)

"God is light, and in Him is no darkness at all. If I say, 'Surely the darkness shall cover me And the light about me shall be night, Even the darkness hideth not from Thee, But the night shineth as the day; The darkness and the light are both alike to Thee.'"

Jesus said, "I am the light of the world; he that followeth Me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life."

(Each of the following lights a taper from the central candle as he speaks.)

THE SPIRIT OF TRUTH: I am the Spirit of Truth, the truth that makes men free. I light a candle so that God's truth may shine upon our pathway, making the road clear for the feet of men.

Response (by audience): Help us, O God, gladly to accept the gift of the Truth, and boldly to walk in its bright light.

THE SPIRIT OF JOY: I am the Spirit of Joy. I come direct from the heart of God. Clear through the year may the beams of this candle shine, bearing gladness to the hearts of men, and driving the sorrows of life away.

Response: We thank Thee, O Father, for the Joy thou sendest into our lives. Grant that, throughout the coming year, we may live in fellowship with it.

THE SPIRIT OF GOOD WILL: I, the Spirit of Good Will, light a candle in the earnest hope that it will clear to men the gracious character of God, and stir within their hearts an eager desire to be gracious in all their dealings one with another.

Response: We would live in the light of Thy Good Will, our Father, and by our gracious conduct in all the relationships of life, would show our growing likeness to Thee.

THE SPIRIT OF PEACE: I am the Spirit of Peace—the peace for whose coming the world devoutly prays. I come with a flame from the altars of God. With it, I light a candle in the ardent hope that men will welcome its rays, and by their aid make their way out of the darkness in which they strive into the light where they may hold true fellowship with each other.

Response: Grant, O Father, that we may joyfully welcome the light Thy peace sheds on our problems, and that we may find our way forward to the building of a peaceful world.

THE SPIRIT OF FAITH: I am the Spirit of Faith. I light a candle and trust that its light will shine far and wide, giving comfort and strength to those who believe, and help to those who struggle with doubts and fears.

Response: Help us, O Father, gratefully to accept the light Faith throws on the path whereon we walk.

THE SPIRIT OF HOPE: I am the Spirit of Hope. I dwell in the heart of man as well as in the heart of God. I light a candle in the eager expectation that its bright rays will give inspiration to the many folks who work and pray for the coming of a better day for mankind.

Response: For Hope, which keeps the fires burning in our hearts, we thank Thee, O Lord.

THE SPIRIT OF LOVE: I am the Spirit of Love. I bring to the world God's most precious gift. I light a candle in the hope that Love will shine brightly through all the coming days, and will cast its gentle rays into the hearts of one and all, making them tender, making them strong, fashioning them like the heart of God.

Response: We welcome the gift of Love, our Father, and pray that its bright rays may ever light our hearts, and control all that we say and do.

SOLO: "The Light of the World."

PRAYER OF CONSECRATION AND BENEDICTION.

(The compiler of this program is grateful to Rev. E. A. Ralph for the use of material from his printed orders of worship.)

CANADA'S DRINK BILL.

"The report of the liquor boards and commissioners have been presented to their various provincial legislatures, and it is now possible to compute the expenditures for liquor in Canada for the periods covered. Some provinces close their liquor year in the spring and others in the fall. The former will parallel only about six months of depression, the latter practically a full year," writes Dr. A. J. Irwin, acting secretary of the Canadian Temperance Federation. Dr. Irwin continues:

"For Quebec, Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia, the retail value of the beer sales by licenses is estimated on a conservative basis and added. The cost of permits is included. The results are as follows:

Nova Scotia (sale for 43 days only).....	$ 621,587
New Brunswick (an increase).....	4,809,734
Quebec (an increase).....	75,700,550
Ontario (a decrease).....	54,945,832
Manitoba (an increase).....	10,632,392
Saskatchewan (a decrease).....	12,380,672
Alberta (a decrease).....	14,997,225
British Columbia (an increase).....	19,532,682

Total 193,620,682

"Last year, on the same basis, the amount was $192,968,504. If the sales in Nova Scotia, which have no parallel in last year's amount, are deducted, the bill is still up $30,583.

"If any allowance is made to cover illegal sales, it is fair to say that expenditures for liquor in Canada are still approximately $200,000,000.

"In 1930, our imports fell off 22.4 per cent; our domestic exports were less by 25.1 per cent; our railway earnings were down $80,000,000, and our bank deposits, usually regarded as a fair index of general trade, decreased by over $9,000,000,000, or 12 per cent.

"The magnitude of the liquor trade, its grip upon the people, and its rivalry of other trades scarcely needs comment."

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR

J. O. ATKINSON, ELON COLLEGE, N. C.

ASSOCIATE EDITOR

E. C. GILLETTE

117 W. Forsyth Street, Jacksonville, Fla.

CONTRIBUTING EDITORS

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

S. C. HARRELL

J. E. McCAULEY

NEWS EDITOR

W. C. WICKER

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

IN "THE MAINE WOODS."

(Editorial Correspondence.)

Weld, Maine, August 21, 1931.

"The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof; the world and they that dwell therein." No, I am not preaching a sermon, and that verse from the twenty-fourth Psalm is not my text. It is by way of introduction to say that this earth is the Lord's, and if one will look, far and wide enough, one can find favored spots and regions where the glory of the Creator seems to crowd out and overshadow all else even people. The Psalmist knew what to write when he penned; or sung the words "And they that dwell therein," which words give the lie to the screaming headlines across the front pages of the daily papers crying out to the world that one half of the people of the earth are murderers and gangsters and the other half renegades, thieves and reprobates. Now, before my reader, "gentle" or otherwise, shall turn from this prosaic piece to find something more interesting in another column, let me say what my heart yearns now to say, and that which all of us at times feel like saying, namely, God did not quit planting gardens creating natural beauty and crowding His glory and grandeur into small spots when the first man and the first woman were driven out of the garden He had planted. The good God is still doing just that.

"I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills." All right. If one can't find enough divine love in the fresh fragrance of a beaming blushing beautiful garden then let one lift up one's eyes to the high and majestic hills to the towering blue-domed mountains, and rejoice there in the majesty and might of God, as one rejoiced awhile ago in the beauty and beneficence of God's garden.

That introduction is all too long, but what is one to do when the beauty of God, and the wide silent spaces of God, and the majestic mountains of God all come together and crowd in on the mind to be told about, or fill the soul with melodies and music that one must need sing about.

All my life I had been hearing about "The Woods of Maine." I thought it singular. Some States boast of their far stretching sea-line, some of their rolling hills and rugged crags and peaks, but why should any State become famous for its "woods." Having seen now I can say as one said of Solomon's glory, "The half has never been told." The State of Maine has other assets and other claims to fortune and to fame. By the grace of God, the guidance of acquaintances and the generosity of friends I literally dropped down, not out of the sky, but out of a seat on a friendly automobile, into the very heart of the Maine woods. I guess this is the heart of it for it seems to throb and thrill with the energy of new life and the calm confidence of satisfaction and sufficiency. There isn't a railroad nor the blowing of a steam whistle within a radius of fourteen miles. I feel now as if I should call it the last "Empire of Silence." Nature sings her sweet, soothing, unbroken songs of divine love, infinite repose, holy calms. The "woods" did I say! I have looked into the woods, loitered and lolled about in the woods, walked and wondered and romped through the woods till the blue spruce, the green fir, the graceful, pure, protecting white birch all seem to be my friends, and I say with the rhymist,

"Poems are made by fools like me,
But only God can make a tree."

The woods indeed: The folks who live here, many of them, have caught the spirit of Him who planted the woods, and others too have planted. Within a stones throw of me as I write, and in full view of my window is a garden whose scenery and riot of color is enough to charm the eye, and soothe the soul, of the fairies—if the fairies have souls. Purple and pink, white and yellow, red and violet all blush and blend and beckon there, and tell to loiterer or passer-by, "Stop and behold me if you wish to see what the Master Artist of the universe can do when a friendly soul is found who loves flowers and will enter with me into my prominent work of planting a garden." The woods of Maine: Yes, the garden also along the highways that gladden and even glorifies the woods. But more! Out in front of my window—I just walked down there—is a balmy blue lake six miles wide, resting serenely and embraced lovingly, by friendly far-flung mountains that rise like silent sentinels above to show that the Creator loves and protects His own. So if you see the woods of Maine you will and must see the flower gardens of Maine, the lakes of Maine, the beautiful blue mountains of Maine.

I said the chief asset of Maine is her woods, her mountains, matchless and indescribable timbered forests. The State has an acreage of twenty-one million, we are told. Of this, fifteen million is timber (woods), the standing timber, to say nothing of the rich and unestimated undergrowth, is forty billion feet—twenty-five billion is spruce and fir, five billion white pine, three billion cedar, one billion hemlock, five billion hard-woods, of these about one billion feet are cut annually to supply pulp and paper mills and lumber industries.

Be it remembered that Maine is as large as all the other New England States combined and that over two-thirds, nearly three-fourths of the states acreage is "woods." Her "woods" an asset did you say? Why in addition to the 15,000 people employed in her paper and pulp mills, the 12,000 employed in her lumber industry, her summer tourist business, people like this scribe, coming here to see and to enjoy her vast "Empire of Silence," brings to the State over $50,000,000 a year. The State has 2,000 lakes nestled in blue and secure in the heart of her woods. I spent two and a half hours on a puffing, powerful steamer three days ago traversing less than one half of her lakes and I thought my heart would sing itself out in delight and ecstasy at the glorious, green woods about, and the high domed encircling mountains coming to the very edge of the more than forty mile stretch of lake with its hundreds of green islands studding it like emeralds set in diamonds.

Well they told us at Northfield last week, one great teacher did, that the Psalms close as they begin, and so even this modest and unpretentious line may end as it began "The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof, the world and they that dwell therein." If one does not see and feel that this earth is the Lord's and that His goodness and glory fill it, and that there are good and divine souls in it they had better pray, "Lord open thou mine eyes that I may behold this goodness and thy love."

J. O. A.

GIVING TO THE LORD.

There are at least three methods of giving prescribed in the Scriptures: tithing, to lay by on the first day of the week, and as the Lord prospers us. "Upon the first day of the week let everyone of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him, that there be no gatherings when I come." 1 Cor. 16: 2. In other words, system and liberality are urged upon followers of Christ. Technical observance of these methods may not be necessary for faithful discharge of Christian duty in giving; but some of these methods will control the liberal giver. A few things are implied in all of the directions for giving. Three may be named as a general rule for giving: it should be personal, systematic, and liberal. Every member of the church should feel a personal responsibility for the financial expenses and benevolences of the Church. System is essential to success in all undertakings. The rising and setting of the sun, the change of seasons, the tides of the ocean, suggest system. The schedules of trains, schools, and post offices, illustrate the importance and value of system. Once a week, once a month, or whatever the church schedule of the regular meetings may be, is a good rule for givers. The better the system, the better the result of giving. If you miss your church paper you can feel the loss to the Church when you fail to attend and fail to give. A sense of personal responsibility, and a system in regular operation, will increase the efficiency of the financial business of the Church.

The third, but by no means the least, is liberal giving. That does not mean large giving, but giving as the Lord prospers us. A poor member can give liberally as well as a rich member. Both classes fail through false conceptions of responsibility. The poor member feels that he is not under obligation to give because he can give so little; and the rich member thinks he ought not to give all, and the poor give nothing. The truth is that both can give liberally "as the Lord hath prospered them." The poor member who has a dollar, and gives ten cents, is as liberal as the member who has a hundred dollars and gives ten dollars. The gift of the one is equal to the gift of the other. Both have tithed. If one gives twenty cents, and the other twenty dollars, they have both given liberally, and the one deserves as much credit as the other. If both would make their offerings personal, systematic, and liberal, the Church would prosper and a sweeter spirit would be in the Church.

W. W. S.

REVITALIZING RELIGION.

By RUSSELL J. CLINCHY.

Two facts create a perplexing and baffling problem in our religious life today. The first is the startling decrease in both missionary gifts and interest, and the second is the equally startling decline in membership and in financial receipts of the churches at home. Practically every foreign mission board has announced a deficit and a curtailment of its program, and the headquarters of every denomination have announced, if not an actual decrease in membership, a declining percentage of growth.

There are a thousand reasons for the decline in interest in, and the giving of funds to the Christian cause both at home and abroad, and all of them would be true when local conditions are examined. But it seems as though three main factors have visibly caused the situation.

1—We have definitely lost the sense of the immediacy of the gospel message. Everyone knows that the Christian message of even two generations ago was founded upon the belief that there was not a moment's time to be lost in the proclamation of the "good news." Men and women were dying, and their immortal souls were being lost, because the message of salvation had not been given to them. It was not so long ago but that we can remember the sermons which ended with the plea to "Come tonight," to "make your decision now for by tomorrow you may be standing before the judgment bar." And we remember the hymns of those days, hymns which have practically disappeared from our hymnology. They were "Throw out the lifeline" and "Rescue the perishing."

When we consider the cause of missions the case stands out in startling clarity. The old missionary address, depicting heathen races being engulfed in hell because enlightened lands were too selfish or slow to send out heralds to give the message that would save them before death overtook them, is simply not being delivered any more. The content of the sermons has changed as radically as the words of the hymns.

Of course, there has been no planned effort to change consciously either the missionary appeal or the content of what was called the gospel sermon. It has simply come about that we now understand that the mere declaration of the gospel, and its mental acceptance in a moment of time, is not enough. We now know that it takes more than a moment to inculcate a religious spirit in a man. It takes a lifetime. But while to some the change in this process may make the urgency of beginning the long educational venture all the more immediate, the fact remains that to the average man it has made the process seem very complicated, and therefore remote. He could be stirred into action by the alarm to "Rescue the perishing," but an educational plan is too far removed from his sphere to arouse a spirited interest, and with the immediacy gone, he has slipped back into apathy and nonchalance.

How this actually works is depicted by an incident which happened in a church which has supported a school in China as its special project. This had always been given loyal support by the people as a missionary cause. Last year one of the teachers of that school came to the church and in his address revealed that which many did not know, that the Chinese government had forbidden all religious propaganda in schools, and so what had been known as evangelism had ceased. He explained how the missionaries simply tried to be servants of the Chinese people in their needs and went about trying to live as nearly a Christlike life as they could, and left that to make its impression. At the close of the address one member of the church said, "What earthly use is there in supporting a mission in China that is not trying to save people?" The values in new approach of missions did not make their impressions in that case, even as they do not in cases of most individual givers to missions today. They are people who were trained to give money and interest to a cause that was as immediate as throwing out a lifeline. When it becomes a task of teaching people how to swim, the nerve of interest is cut.

2—The sense of necessity has also been lost. This seems due to the change that has occurred in the old conception that life could not be complete without religion. For an older generation, of course, a question concerning this never arose except in limited and isolated intellectual circles, but the condition has greatly changed since then, until it is probably true to say that the majority of people today are under the influence of the suggestion that the good life may be found without the benefit of religion, or, at least, without what has been the definition of religion of the majority.

This undoubtedly came out of the post-war reaction, and most people who recognized the tendency expected it to subside with many of the other extravagances of that unsettled period. But instead of disappearing it has grown both in volume and in strength, though it must be said that most of it is inarticulate and unnamed. Surely all of us can say that no matter what the circle of our acquaintanceship may be it includes some who have deliberately dropped religion out of their thinking, and many more who have unconsciously lost the sense of its necessity, and are going serenely along in their lives oblivious of the change.

The experience of one family will illustrate the experience of many others. This is a family brought up in the strictest orthodoxy, which was active in all church affairs, loyal in meeting church obligations and burdens, and punctual in church attendance. The members of that family have made no decision regarding religion, they have simply dropped it out of their lives as they would drop out membership in a club which had ceased to interest them. Today they are church casuals. They have found that life contains the same experiences for them, the same number of joys and sorrows, gains and losses, without religion as with, and they are much less bothered. For them, there is simply no necessity for religion.

Others have taken a conscious attitude and have decided that it is not necessary. These fall into two groups, the first of which vitally affects the missionary program. They are the people who have made a study of other faiths of mankind and have found their values and truths which have made them hesitate to state that their religion is a necessity in the light of the truth which the world already contains. Even those who are conscious of the value of the Christian way of life for themselves are becoming extremely hesitant at attempting to tell the disciples of Gandhi that sacrifice is the way of life, or at speaking to Tagore of the idea of a spiritual conception of God. Some of us may believe that a new conception of missions which is defined in Dr. Fleming's phrase of "sharing one's faith with others," makes our new definition of Christian missions more important, but the man in the street has not contemplated this conception, and because he has caught a glimmering of an idea of the validity of other faiths it has cut his belief in the necessity of his own.

The other group has consciously and confidently given up religion and put its faith in education. These men and women believe they are safe only in the measure of their knowledge of the material and physical world. To them religion is a handicap rather than a necessity. Some of them are reinterpreting religion for us in terms of sociology, psychology and other forms of education, and are using the forces of life which are generally defined as spiritual under other connotations. But they have definitely given up the name of religion, and they believe that its values are best found in the sphere of education. It is no longer religion, but education, which has become the necessity of life for them. There are vast extremes between these two groups, but they both have divested themselves of the necessity of religion.

3—Others have changed the sphere of the importance of religion to other realms of activity. There always have been other forms of activity but up to the present time religion has always been able to maintain its crown as the activity of the greatest significance. Literature and drama and art could flourish in Greece, Israel and Rome, but the temple still remains supreme. The power of the state could grow in the middle ages, and commerce could inflame men's minds in later centuries, but each finally acknowledged the pope at Rome, or the rule of the Calvinistic church authority. The priest at the altar, and later the black-gowned minister in the pulpit, still ranked as the activity of greatest importance.

But there is no vocation that is willing to have religion outrank it in importance today. In the day of expression we have reached that very healthy state of mind for the expression of beauty and the truth, and that if the drama or art, or engineering, or medicine expresses life in terms of that beauty and truth, it is that which we have always called religion. And scientific research claims its place of importance beside the altar, and indeed, when a Nougachi dies while experimenting with disease on the coast of Africa it is willing to ask if there is anything different from religion in that? The social worker has also made his belief clear that religion may be interesting to those who have leisure for it, but that justice must come first and then there may be time for a mystical experience. It is no piece of chance that the greatest social experiment in history, that of the soviet adventure in Russia, is stating in clear and unmistakable words that religion is no longer not only unimportant, but really dangerous to the welfare of mankind. From the nonchalance of those who throw away religion as they throw away a burnt match, to those who hate it so that they set out to destroy its very existence, there is a very widespread dissatisfaction with the ancient idea that religion has a superior or even equal place with other activities and expressions of life.

For whatever other delineation we may make concerning the characteristics of the people of this age, it seems true to say that to most people religion is not the important factor that it was in the life of previous generations. Men know that they cannot live without education, economic security and the arts. They are beginning to believe that they can do without religion, and so they are beginning to define religion as a luxury, pleasant, but not important.

Then if this is so—and even a casual scrutiny of our times seems to lead us to this conclusion—a tremendous task lies before all those who believe that in religion we may find values and meanings which are of immediate necessity, and can be important factors in human existence. But surely it is true that the only method by which the church can create an interest in these values is by an adventurous search for them in company with those who may be seeking for them under different names.

4—The two realms wherein that search must be made are those very apparent ones of the idea of God, and the basis for authority of a code of ethics which will be accepted by educated people.

It has come to pass now that we have entered into a time when we talk about believing in an idea of God, or of not believing in God, without a definition of our terms, and so we are in a position where one does not know what the actual

(Continued on page 9.)

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

The fifth annual session of the Young People's Congress, of the Eastern Virginia Christian Conference, was held today, August 20, 1931, in Bethlehem Christian Church, three miles from Suffolk. Webb Burgess, Jr., president, Miss Thelma Boone was vice-president, Miss Lilly Spain was secretary, and Mrs. Ophelia Taylor, treasurer. About a hundred delegates registered, and there were others as visitors. Delegates brought their own lunches which they enjoyed together with ice tea. That is a simple, inexpensive, and satisfactory way for large groups to enjoy the intermission, and it relieves the local church of a burden that should not be borne. The Young People's Congress of this Conference meets in Bethlehem Church each year, as it is the most accessible church by rail, bus, and car, in the conference. Rev. R. E. Brittle is the beloved present pastor.

Welcome address and response and worship service, and a business session, cleared the slate and opened the way for addresses and discussions. Topics treated by leaders, and then discussed as individuals chose to speak on them: "Why Do Young People Attend Church?"; "Why Do Young People Not Attend Church?"; "What I Expect of My Pastor?"; "What My Pastor Has a Right to Expect of Me?"; "How May Young People Better Serve the Church?" These topics were developed in fine spirit, and illuminating way. It revealed the fact that the young people of the Church are thinking and feeling in the line of progress. This is an encouraging sign in the life of the young people for the future of the Church. Other topics, as, "What Does the Community Owe Its Young People?"; "What Do the Young People Owe the Community?"; "What is the Influence of Movies On Young People?"; "What Can Young People Do to Better the Civic and Moral Life of the Community?"; "How Can Young People Help Solve the Prohibition Question?"

The questions and discussions reveal a hunger on the part of young people to find the true road to Christian growth on the part of the Church. With increased education there is increased desire to make the church lead in the best character before the audience with the subject: "Ask Me A the most useful service."

In the afternoon Mr. Alfred Barrett, son of Rev. and Mrs. D. P. Barrett, of Porto Rico, was Questioned About Porto Rico. Many questions were propounded and he answered them promptly and successfully. Brother Barrett has made a good impression upon all the meetings he has attended since he and his mother have been in this country on their vacation. The following ministers were present and manifested deep interest in the discussions. Revs. W. M. Jay, D. D., N. G. Newman, D. D., R. E. Brittle, and W. W. Staley.

An address was delivered by Rev. F. C. Lester on the great tour of the west and Miss Jewel Truitt conducted a sweet closing service which all enjoyed. This congress is only five years old, but it speaks and sings and plans like a mature organization. The Church is beginning to learn that, as the nations have fought their battles with young men, she must fight her battles against evil with the young men and young women who will be the leaders in years to come.

One of the great values of this congress is the coming together of the young people and the ideas they carry back home.

W. W. STALEY.

PIEDMONT COLLEGE LETTER.

Piedmont College is located in the "highlands of Habersham," a very delightful place for a summer school. The elevation is sufficient to make the summer climate pleasant. The summer session closed August twelfth. There were one hundred eighty students enrolled. The college is making a genuine contribution to the educational achievements of the south. Some students complete the major part of their work for the bachelor's degree during the summer sessions. There were twenty-six candidates for this degree this summer.

Many teachers come to the college for the educational courses. Teachers, principals, and superintendents are enrolled for these courses. Special courses have been given this year for teachers in the rural schools. Trained and experienced instructors were secured for these courses. The institution has been fully approved by the State Department of Education of Georgia and its graduates are granted teachers' certificates by the department.

The North Georgia Association of Congregational and Christian churches held its annual meeting in Demorest, July 27th-28th. Prof. Percy of Piedmont College was elected moderator. A fine spirit of Christian fellowship was manifest in all the sessions. Addresses were delivered by Rev. W. Carl Parker, Dr. M. J. Sweet, Pastor at Large, Dean J. C. Rogers, Rev. A. W. Hutchins of Atlanta, Rev. J. W. Philp of Demorest, Daniel B. Atkinson, and others.

D. B. A.

FROM REV. G. D. HUNT.

Dear Bro. Editor:

On the second Sunday in August, we began our meeting at old Providence Chapel in Georgia. The threatening weather interfered with us Monday and Monday night. We had fine weather and fine crowds the remainder of the meeting. Interest increasing at every service until the close of the meeting. We continued the meeting until Thursday night. At the closing service five members were received to fellowship. I had no ministerial help. The people were attentive and kind and many kind hospitalities were shown the pastor and we are under many obligations to those good people for the same.

I am in a glorious meeting with the First Christian Church at Roanoke, Ala. Rev. C. C. Ryan, of Richmond, Va., is doing the preaching, and doing it in a wonderful way. Congregations and interest increasing at every service. Meeting will close next Sunday night.

I am due next week at Spring Hill Church in Clay Co., Ala., for a meeting and I am expecting a good meeting there. This is six weeks of continued revival work. God is richly blessing my soul.

G. D. HUNT.

FROM ALABAMA.

I am on my way to North Alabama to assist Rev. J. H. Hughes in a revival meeting. I shall go from there to South Georgia to assist Rev. W. C. Carpenter in a meeting at Vanceville. Brother Carpenter assisted me in my meeting at Lanett and we had a great meeting. His messages were plain and practical, and were greatly appreciated by the congregation. The church was greatly revived and twenty-five members have been added to the church as a result of the meeting.

Rev. J. H. Hughes held our meeting at Noonday. His preaching was good and appreciated by the people. The church was revived and twenty-three members were added to our church. I assisted Rev. H. M. Gray at Longdale a few weeks ago. We had a real good meeting and twenty members were added to the church there.

This week I have been with Brother Gray at Foresthorne Church where we had a real good revival. I shall report the results of my further work later. Pray for our success in our evangelistic work.

J. D. DOLLAR.

Lanett, Alabama.
August 14, 1931.

JOY IN SUBMISSION.

A young lad, just entering his teens, desired very much to attend a social gathering in the neighborhood, but his mother while seeing no harm in it did not think it best for him to go. No particular reason could be given against his going, yet there was a feeling that it would not be best. The boy showed a spirit of rebellion for a little time, but later the mother and son had an intimate talk together and a different spirit prevailed. As the boy left his mother's room to retire for the night the mother said, "Son, are you willing that mother should have her way?"

He answered, "Yes, but I will probably cry myself to sleep."

Left alone the words of an old song came to the mother: "My Jesus, as Thou Wilt; Tho' Seen Through Many a Tear"; and she thought of a dear desire of her own heart that she wanted to see accomplished. It was something that she felt would be the glory of God, and she was praying and working with all her heart to bring it to pass, yet always trying to keep in the will of the Lord. went on she often dwelt upon it in her thoughts. The little incident stayed with her and as time went on she often dwelt upon it in her thoughts. The desire of her heart was not being accomplished as she had wished and the question often came, "Is it not Thy will, my Father?" Tears, yes, and heartaches; was there rebellion? For it seemed that the accomplishment of the desire would be to His glory and the good of many souls. She wanted the Lord's will to be done, but was sorrowful because it was not being done in the way that she wanted it done.

How often we say through falling teardrops, "Thy will be done," not realizing as we do so that the tears are not in harmony with the words. There should be no sadness in submitting our will to God's will for we know that He wills only those things to come into our lives that will bring us into closer fellowship with Him. That should be our greatest desire as His children and we should welcome with joy whatever He permits to come into our lives for all are but stepping stones that lead to the prize that is set before us. If we were permitted to have our way in our desires what cause we might have to weep for we know not what the future has in store for us and only as we know that our Heavenly Father knows the way and holds the key can we have the faith to go through this world of sin and woe. So may we say with the poet:

"My Jesus, as Thou wilt;
All shall be well for me;
Each changing future scene
I gladly trust with Thee;
Straight to my home above
I travel calmly on,
And sing, in life or death,
My Lord, Thy will be done."

"W."

If we have knowledge, let others light their candles at it.—Fuller.

THE TIME HAS COME FOR ACTION!

It was at a dinner in Washington. Around the table sat governors and senators, statesmen and leaders of thought in many lines. Near the head of the table sat Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania.

The conversation turned to prohibition and a Democrat from a mid-western state who had once been governor leaned across the table and addressed Gov. Pinchot.

"But, governor, can prohibition be enforced?" There was doubt in his voice and hesitation in his manner. You could tell he expected a doubtful answer or a plain "No. It cannot."

Gov. Pinchot's jaws snapped in a way that reminded one of his great chief—Theodore Roosevelt.

"Absolutely yes," said Pinchot.

It was a final answer. No one questioned the reply and no one doubted that Pinchot's acts as a law-enforcing governor squared with his words.

If Pinchot is right (and we know he must be everlastingly so) then we undertake to say that the chief responsibility for future enforcement now lies upon the Christian laymen of America. They hold the power in their hands to make Pinchot's words a reality in every state of the union—yes, even in New York.

What is the matter? Where are we failing to function?

We repeat, in the hands of a definite group of American citizens lies the power to revolutionize sentiment and practice and public policy on prohibition in every place where that law is defied. No outside help is needed, no new laws are needed. The laymen as a group can supply the dynamics, the civic spirit.

How? By organization, by vigilance and by condemning the recreant official and upholding the hands of the faithful one. All right, but isn't this the old story? Why not give us something new, something novel? Listen. That is exactly what is wrong with most of our thinking, our reforms, our activities, our enthusiasms. This everlasting search for something new and novel.

Unless it is novel, it is no longer dramatic; unless it is different we think it outworn and pedantic. Change your thinking at once and get down to facts. An ugly, vicious snarling minority in America has definitely set about to break down law; they laugh and sneer at and evade and defy one law in particular—the Eighteenth Amendment. This minority brazenly announces that it will keep on until it sneers the amendment out of the constitution and breaks down both respect for law and observance of it. This brutal un-American doctrine boldly asserts itself in high places, in "swell" clubs, in cheap jokes in theatres, in the sneerings of a wet press, often bought and kept and paid for to fight the ideals of the Christian God-fearing people of America.

Between this outlaw policy and the ideals of the Christian people of this country there is an eternal conflict. One or the other must win.

Where are you, Mr. Christian layman, in this fight? On the side-lines? Too busy making money? Afraid some one will hurt your business? Indifferently staying at home and letting some one else do it? Supposing the men at Valley Forge had gone home to comfortable firesides and good meals and warm clothes to let some one else do it—would you have a stars and stripes floating over you today? Supposing the men at Shiloh and Gettysburg had backed out and sought comfort and ease? Would we have a reunited nation of 120 million souls today?

What then is the call of the hour? How can we do our duty? The answer is so plain, the plan is so simple as to seem absurd. Here are the steps: First, form a local group of not over ten in your own town, or city, and in a large city a group of not over fifty. Call it the Eternal Vigilance Committee. Have no officers, no constitution or by-laws, no dues and no ritual. Meet and survey the prohibition situation in your town and decide on the wet spots, the danger points, the weak officials and the strong ones.

Call in a body on the strong officials to commend them and let them know you are backing them up.

Call in a body on the weak ones and tell them you will back them up in the doing of their sworn duty.

Name a committee to check every place where liquor is said to be sold.

When you have evidence lay it before the proper officials. They are sworn to stop it. If there is no graft, no bribery, they will stop it so fast you will see a transformed community.

If they side step or quit or refuse to do their sworn duty then act at once, call on the district attorney, the mayor or governor and demand their removal. You have them; there is no getting away from official duty under oath of office. An officer must obey his oath or resign. He has no alternative in the face of a smart, wide-awake, fearless group of Christian laymen in any city in America.

Will some get mad? Yes. Will some make threats to your business and safety? Yes. Will some defy and bear grudges? Yes. Will some even be killed? Maybe.

But remember this is a duty, this is citizenship functioning in government. This is the Christian laymen in action. We have had the speeches, the inspiration, the calls to duty, the proclaiming of high ideals, the exhortations in books and on the platform and in the pulpit. We have sung and prayed and talked and resolute and let the forces of sin and law defiance run amuck.

The time has come for action.

The Disciples of Christ of Louisiana, meeting in Natchitoches in June, adopted the following resolution: "That vigorous support be accorded the work of the young people's societies, (Christian Endeavor) and that the young people's societies be given a place on the church convention program next year."

OXFORD BIBLES for EVERY NEED

"The Oxford Bible is the Bible par excellence of the world"

THE HOME BIBLE

A Family Bible in Handy Size

An extra large type Oxford Text Bible, containing also, a family register and 12 beautifully colored maps. Size 9 x 5½ inches.

— Specimen of Type —

16 The LORD is King for ever and ever: the heathen are perished out

Nos. 01600 Superior Cloth, round corners and red edges $2.75
01603 French Morocco, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, head-band, book-mark $4.75

The JUNIOR'S Bible

Self-Pronouncing

With 4,000 Questions and Answers, carefully selected "Aids to Bible Study," 16 beautifully colored and 15 black full-page illustrations, 6 colored maps and a presentation page. Children may readily pronounce correctly difficult Scripture names, as this Bible is self-pronouncing. Size 7 x 4½ x 1¼ inches.

— Type in Junior's Bible —
2 Take the sum of all the of the children of Israel, three years old and upward, three

No. 1815 French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges, head-bands and book-mark. Make some child happy with one of these fine Bibles $2.95

Child's ILLUSTRATED Bible

The beautifully colored illustrations in this new Bible are a delight to the children. It has clear, readable type and yet it measures only 5½ x 3½ inches.

— Specimen of Type —

2 My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the LORD: my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God.
10 Mercy and truth
kissed each other.
11 Truth shall spring

No. 02112. French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, gold edges $2.50

Pocket REFERENCE Bible

Has over 50,000 center column references. Measures only 6¾ x 4½ inches. (A splendid gift for a young lady.)

— Specimen of Type —

9 Behold, "O God our shield, and look upon the face of thine anointed.
10 For a day in thy courts is better
2 or, all

No. 07523x French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $3.25

Concordance Edition

Type and size as No. 07523x, but with a Concordance, subject index and dictionary of Scripture names. An excellent edition for students and Christian workers No. 03272x $5.00

OUR LEADER

Oxford Concordance Bible

Self-Pronouncing

This beautiful Oxford India paper edition is indeed the ideal Bible for the student, preacher and evangelist. Each proper name and difficult word is divided into syllables and accented, and though printed with large clear type, the volume measures only 8½ x 5½ x 1½ inches.

— Specimen of Type —

8 7 Jē-hōi-ā-chin was 6 years old when he began to

No. 03671x. Fine Grain Morocco leather, overlapping cover, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head-bands and book-mark $9.50

A UNIQUE GIFT BIBLE

With Basket Weave Binding

The Antique brown calf leather binding has a basket-weave grain, and button clasp. Has overlapping cover, art silk lined, with red under gold edges. With references. Printed on Oxford India paper. Type as Pocket Reference Bible. $5.50
No. 03255x

As No. 03255x, with concordance. No. 03276x $6.50

Oxford TEACHER'S Bibles

Have over 50,000 center column references, and 300 double-column pages of up-to-date helps, conveniently arranged in alphabetical order. Also 32 full-page illustrations, and an indexed atlas of the Bible with 15 beautifully colored maps of Bible lands.

Easy-to-Read-Edition

Size 7¼ x 5 x 1½ inches

— Specimen of Type —

14 Like sheep they are laid in grave; death shall feed on th

Nos. 04453. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges. A durable and hand-some Bible $4.35

Oxford India Paper Edition

Only one inch thick.

0773x. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, head-bands and book-mark. A beautiful gift edition $7.00

RED LETTER Edition

Same size and type as style No. 04453, with same references and helps, but with all the words of Jesus Christ printed in red. White paper edition No. 05453. French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $5.00

The Oxford imprint in a Bible guarantees satisfaction

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Secretary.

A PRAYER.

Father, we thank Thee that in Jesus every need is supplied. Trusting, both soul and body are fed. Following, one's path is safe and sure. Serving, others are succored and sustained. Loving, the gates of God swing wide and beckoning. Thou who lovest all men, although the evil that is in the world besets and hinders, make us willing to bide and tarry, eager to do Thy will, grateful for a part in helping others to find the way of loving, trusting, following, serving. More and more, in Thy light may all see light. For Jesus' sake, Amen. "L."

IN DEBT FOR THE GOSPEL.

Saint Paul acknowledged the force of this matter in his statement: "I am debtor, both to the Greeks and to the Barbarians; both to the wise and to the unwise." As a rule a condition of debt is not a comfortable state. When we owe, we have something that another has a claim upon. The law will not allow us to forget this always, for debtors must take account of reckoning days.

God's investment of salvation for us and in us is with a view of our willingness to get the good word out to others. There is a tremendous urge in this matter to the soul that interprets correctly the Lord's plan for the advancement of His kingdom. I have heard my father tell of the great anxiety and toil that he shared with his family in paying off the mortgage on the homestead of my childhood. I was the eighth child of nine, and by the time I knew of business affairs that skeleton in the closet had been thrown out. But he said it was with them day and night, winter and summer, through seasons that were good and seasons that were bad—that debt!

Do you, as a servant of God, know what this debt to others means? Has this great yearning of soul laid hold on you, that people may be brought to know God in saving power? I am debtor! That states it exactly. You have hope, and faith, and heaven in prospect, while they labor on without the Christian's glorious outlook. —Wesleyan Methodist.

THEY GAVE A TENTH.

The Jews gave a tenth. They lived under an imperfect covenant. They look forward to the coming of the Messiah and the blessings that his life would bring to the world. They greeted the promises from afar. And yet they gave a tenth. We live in the full enjoyment of the earthly blessings that the Saviour brought and in the glorious hope of the gospel. We are enjoying the blessings of fellowship in Christ. We live under the greatest blessings, both temporal and spiritual, that the world has ever known. The Jews gave a tenth. Shall we in the church of the Lord Jesus Christ give less?

MISSIONARY MEETING.

Miss Josephine Graham, Church Reporter, of Union Christian Church, Union Ridge, N. C., writes:

"The Ladies' Missionary Society of Union Christian Church, Union Ridge, N. C., held its monthly meeting at the Sunday School Hut Thursday afternoon, August 13, 1931, with fifteen members and eight visitors present.

After a business session which included the election of new officers for the coming year, Mrs. L. L. Hooper led an interesting discussion of the lesson for the month. This was an extended study of Paul's missionary work. The lesson was followed with delicious refreshments of ice cream and cake, which were served by Mrs. J. A. Gilliam, Mrs. Willie Pace, and Mrs. L. L. Hooper, the acting hostesses for the meeting.

The Society adjourned to meet at the home of Mrs. S. F. Scott on the second Thursday in September."

MISSIONARY OFFERINGS.

FOR WEEK ENDING AUGUST 22, 1931.

Sunday Schools.

Previously acknowledged	$ 3,902.18
Mt. Auburn, Manson, N. C.	2.45
Happy Home, Ruffin, N. C.	1.73
First Christian, Porstmouth, Va.	18.00
Dendron, Va.	5.00
Bethlehem, Timberville, Va.	3.82
Suffolk, Va.	25.00
Rosemon, Norfolk, Va.	01.00
Franklin, Va.	7.76
Berea (Nans.), Driver, Va.	3.42
South Norfolk, Va.	5.97
High Point, N. C.	3.33
United Christian, Lynchburg, Va.	3.64
Cary, N. C.	2.61
Spring Hill, Waverly, Va.	1.00
Pleasant Hill, Liberty, N. C.	3.30
Danville, Va.	4.79
Biscoe, N. C.	2.46

Total $ 4,006.46

Individual and Church Collections.

Previously acknowledged	$ 4,408.43
Browns Chapel, Spies, N. C.	2.70
Hayes Chapel, Garner, N. C.	7.00
Total	$ 4,418.13

Dollar-a-Month Club.

Previously acknowledged	$ 155.00
Miss Ophelia Morris, Greensboro, N. C., (Palm St. Ch.)	1.00
R. O. Rothgeb, Luray, Va., (Leaksville Ch.)	1.00
O. T. Parks, Hallison, N. C.	5.00

Total $ 162.00

Specials.

Previously acknowledged	$ 4,313.11
Burlington Sunday School, Burlington, N. C.	60.50
Total	$ 4,373.61

Mountain Work.

Previously acknowledged	$ 8.87
Liberty (Vance) C. E. Society, Henderson, N. C.	2.71
Total	$ 11.58

Summary.

Previously acknowledged	$24,369.15
Sunday Schools, Regular, August 22, 1931	104.28
Individual and Church Collections, August 22, 1931	9.70
Dollar-a-month Club, August 22, 1930....	7.00
Specials, August 22, 1931.....	60.50
Mountain Work, August 22, 1931	2.71
Total to date	$24,553.34

J. O. ATKINSON, Secretary.

MISSIONARY PROGRAM FOR SEPTEMBER.

By MRS. W. M. JAY.

Women's Societies.

What to do in September:

Have an enthusiastic rally, making great effort to have every member present at the meeting so as to finish the year's work in good order. See that all dues and special offerings are sent your conference treasurer. In your election of officers be sure to notify your conference treasurer of any change. Invite prospective members to be present and lay plans for a drive for new members and plan work for the new year. Be sure to send in your news items to be published in the CHRISTIAN SUN. As this is the closing meeting of the year, a mite box offering program is suggested. There are many beautiful ways in which this may be observed so use your own ideas along with the following: Make the place attractive so that the very atmosphere of the place will be that of cheerful giving. Devise some unique way of receiving the offering and make it as impressive as possible. Invitations might be sent to all the members in the form of little mite boxes with appropriate verses of scripture or poetry.

PROGRAM.

Opening thought: "God has chosen to work out His designs, not in spite of you, but through you; and where you fail, He halts." "We are laborers together with God."

Hymn: "The Morning Light is Breaking."

Scripture Lesson: Verses of scripture on giving to be repeated by members of society.

Prayer: Singing softly, "Open My Eyes."

Roll call: Answer with the name of a Bible woman.

Did you reach the standard of excellence? Why? A five minutes talk.

Topics for discussion by members of society:

"The mite box and its relation to the society."

"When is a mite box a might box."

"Reasons for using the mite box."

Personal benefits in the use of a mite box."

"Mite box experiences."

Leaflet, "The mission of a mite box," by Helen Barrett Montgomery.

Mite box opening.

After all has been received the members may form a circle and sing the consecration hymn, "Take My Silver and My Gold," and close with a prayer.

Business period.

Missionary Doxology.

Mispah Benediction.

Young People's Societies.

PROGRAM OF CHAPTER XI:

"Men and Heroes."

I. Business. 1. Gloria Patri. 2. Invocation. 3. Business, old, new, miscellaneous.

II. Study Period.

1. Leader's approach: A few lessons back we centered our attention upon the first four outstanding Christian Heralds to India; Xavier from Spain, Schwartz from Germany, Carey from England and Judson from America. We ask the question "Who follows in their train?" Since that time we have been making a regular roll call: (a) Professor Ramabai, the noble woman who carried the light behind the curtain. (b) Professor Karne, a Hindu of high caste who caught the Gleam and is helping to give to the woman of India her rightful place. (c) Josephine, the little American girl and her christian parents, who established one of the best kindergarten schools in all India. (d) Mr. Tyndale Biscoe, the persevering Boy Scout Worker. (e) Miss Sutherland, the founder of the great School for Indian Girls. (f) Tom Dodson who gave his life to help the farmers who were imposed on by Indian bankers and traders. (g) Dr. Theodore Pennell, the fearless English physician with a keen sense of humor. (h) Jesus Christ and Dr. Wanless "The Wizard of India." And now today we are to add to the roll five new Indian names: (i) Shivalal, later, "David." (j) Mr. and Mrs. Tilak. (k) Prakash (which means light) a native pastor. (l) Govindrao, his important high caste convert. (m) Lakshman, who together went through a Firey Furnace. I'm going to ask ——— to tell us the story of:

2. Shivalal, the boy after God's own heart. (pages 160-165) a member.

3. Tilak, A Christian Poet (pages 165-166); a member.

4. "Mr. Sight" and "Mr. Truth," Pastor and Police. (pages 166-169) a member.

5. Lakshman, the survivor of a Firey Furnace (pages 169-171) a member.

6. Conclusion to chapter and preparation to worship period: Of course we realize that there are countless others whose names are "stars in the sparkling galaxy" shining in India. We cannot know them all now. But what a brilliant assembly they will make some day! Let us try to be worthy of a place among those who have made India a happy place in which to live! If we really achieve this goal, we could do no better than adopt Shivalal's goal and strive to be "After God's Own Heart."

III. Worship Program.

Theme: "After God's Own Heart."

1. Instrumental Prelude: Nearer My God to Thee.

2. Call to worship: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself."

3. Hymn: "Father in Heaven, Who Lovest All."

4. Scripture: Romans 10:1-15.

5. Prayer.

6. Offeratory Service: Pianist playing softly, "Follow the Gleam," while offering is being taken.

7. Hymn: "Saviour, Hear Us, We Pray," (very softly with bowed heads.)

PROGRAM OF CHAPTER XII.

"All Kinds of Brothers."

I. Business. 1. Gloria Patri. 2. Invocation.

3. Business, old, new, miscellaneous.

II. Study Period:

1. Leader's approach (with contents of first paragraph, page 175.)

2. Lighting the Leper's Way (pages 175-177) a member. (Perhaps this scene might be dramatized.)

3. Reclaiming the "Crims" (pages 178-187). A reliable boy member.

4. East and West together (page 188 to last paragraph on page 192). A girl member.

5. Leader's conclusion and transition from Study to Worship Program. (The last paragraph is suggestive.)

III. Worship Program:

Theme: "Of One Blood."

1. Instrumental Prelude: "The Morning Light is Breaking."

2. Call to Worship: "And" (God) "hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth." Acts 17:26.

3. Hymn: "In Christ There is no East or West."

4. Scripture: "The Great Commission." Matt. 28:16-20.

5. Prayer: Pray for the Universal brotherhood of men; for a zeal to follow the Star of Jesus to the ends of the earth if needs be just as did the Wise Men from the East years ago. That we may have a part in showing its beauty to our brothers and sisters of the East who yet remain in darkness.

6. Offeratory Service: Pianist plays softly, "Follow the Gleam," while offering is being taken.

7. "Bless Be the Tie That Binds."

8. Mizpah Benediction.

NOTE: There is an easy Alto-Soprano Duet by McAfee, and published by Lorenz Publishing Co., Dayton, Ohio, entitled, "The Heart of God" that would fit most beautifully in program XI.

These lovely programs for the entire year were prepared by Mrs. Stanley C. Harrell, Durham, N. C., and no doubt our young people's societies have gained a keen insight of this wonderful book through them. We appreciate her work.

Willing Workers or Juniors.

Let this be a meeting to elect officers for the coming year. It would be well to have a committee meet the week before time for the meeting and make a simple invitation to be sent to each member. If mite boxes have been used, have some attractive way planned to receive them at this time. As there will be some business, only a short worship service may be used to open.

Worship Service.

1. Song: "Jesus Loves Me."

2. Scripture: Psalm 100.

3. The Lord's Prayer in unison.

4. Song: "I Love to Tell the Story."

5. Offering or mite box opening.

6. Song: "Fling Out the Banner."

7. Benediction.

NEWS ITEMS.

Following is a report of the Missionary Rally of the Missionary Society of Rosemont Christian Church, which is reported by W. M. Sparkman, Jr., secretary.

The Rally was held on Thursday, June 11th, at eight o'clock in the assembly room of Rosemont Church. Meeting was opened and devotional services conducted by the president, Miss Sallie W. Morrison; our pastor, Rev. J. F. Morgan, led in prayer. Following this, we had a special Missionary Program, including a brief play of mission work in India, after which the regular mite box offering was received. Then following a social hour, during which we played games, sang hymns, etc. The society presented Mr. Morgan with a huge birthday cake, with a candle for each year he had been with us. Refreshments were then served to all, and the meeting adjourned about ten o'clock.

REVITALIZING RELIGION.

(Continued from page 5.)

meaning is of the book or article he is reading. One man who says he believes in God may be farther away in his deductions from another man who states his belief in God, than he is from a man who cannot discern any trace of what he would call God. The fundamentalist, the modernist, and the humanist use the term God with practically three distinct definitions, and almost any debate upon the subject ends in futility. We need a frank recognition of the fact that the fundamentalist and the humanist, and all the various shades of opinion between, are conjuring up fancies in their minds as to what they think God must or must not be, and then berating one another for having a different conception.

It is now time for all of us to say that we build our faith in either God or man upon a wistful hope. The humanist hopes that man may prove true the faith he has placed in him. He has never seen any man, or men, who have done so, but he still has faith. And the theist hopes that a more complete research into the nature of the universe will prove true the faith he has placed in a God of mind and spirit. But it is still a vague hope.

Yet there are too many educated, earnest and open-minded men who state that they cannot discern any trace of God, and too many educated, earnest and open-minded men who are willing to say that they cannot rationalize existence without some definition which may be called God, to allow us to rest in our present state. A Lippmann and a Fosdick, and the many lesser Lippmanns and Fosdicks, do not belong in separate camps, but should be comrades upon the same quest. Most of us want to admit that we see through a glass darkly, but we are eager to join minds, as well as arms, with all who dream that some day they will perceive the meaning and the reality, face to face.

And a quest for an ethics which will command our intellectual respect and empower our wills must be part of the adventure. The authoritarian era has gone, except for those souls who prefer the monetary to reality, and our ethics must pass through the test tubes of our sociology, psychology and kindred sciences, and be judged by the white light of human experience. From the ten commandments to the sermon on the mount the test is being made, and the answer shall be given only to those who are willing to make a search in this realm with any comrad who also is seeking, no matter what may be his name. Then what an experience lies before those who believe that religion does hold the vitality and the mind to make such an adventure!—The Christian Century.

COMBINATION OFFER—To a new subscriber or for renewal, $2.25, either Gentleman's (Capitol) Pen or Ladies' Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. And to "Sun" subscribers, not in arrears, any Pen at one-fourth off. Address: THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1536 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us. Postage paid and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

MEN'S PENS—Capitol, $2.00; Mercantile, $2.50; Cardinal, $3.00.

LADIES' PENS, $2.00.

ADVENTURES IN YOUTH FELLOWSHIP

"Youth at Work in the Church."

JEWEL TRUITT, Editor, Waverly, Virginia.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S CONGRESS.

C. E. Warrington of 811 Fauquier St., Norfolk, Virginia, will head the work of the Young People's Congress of the Eastern Virginia Christian Conference for the coming year. Mr. Warrington and his associates were elected unanimously at the Congress held at Bethlehem Christian Church, August 20th. Miles Godwin, Jr., will serve as Vice-President; Miss Irene Cotten of Dendron, Va., as Secretary, and Miss Mary Knoeller of Waverly, Va., as Treasurer. Prospects are bright for a splendid year of progress in this great movement of the youth of the Christian Church.

Officers who presided over last Thursday's session of the Congress are: Webb Burgess, Jr., of Norfolk; Miss Thelma Boone, Route 3, Suffolk, Va.; Miss Lilly Spain of Waverly, Va., and Mrs. J. A. Taylor of Route 3, Suffolk, Va. The retiring officers rendered their service well and are to be congratulated upon the success of the Congress.

Features of the day's program included a discussion hour in which the relation of Young People to the Church, the pastor, the community and the nation was discussed. Indications show that youth is capable of thinking through some of these problems that it is to face from time to time, in a fine and uplifting way. In the afternoon session, Mr. Alfred Barrett of Ponce, Porto Rico, delighted the group with his very interesting and charming way of conducting the "Ask Me a Question about Porto Rico" period. Charts showing the amount and kind of work done by the different churches represented, were awarded to representatives of churches present. Rev. F. C. Lester, one of the pastor-counselors of the group, gave the closing address, a very inspiring message in which he used as illustrations many of the beautiful sights seen on his recent trip to the Western Coast. The closing Worship Program of the Congress was conducted by Miss Jewel Truitt, in which the young people were charged to "take upon themselves" the task of being real Christians, and living the courageous, helpful life that Christ would have all men live.

Goals adopted for the coming year of the Congress are:

1. Send four delegates to the Holiday Conference. Two from each District.
2. Hold at least one meeting during the year of each District.
3. Young people of each church visit the young people's organizations of other churches, to learn new methods of working and for the inspiration to be gained.
4. Charts placed in every church, and used.
5. Have a key-worker in every church, whose duty it shall be to (a) Receive mail and share it with the young people's organizations of the church; (b) keep chart and goals before the young people's organizations, and (c) report to the editor of the Young People's Page of THE SUN news items of interest in their local church.

Counselors for the new year are, Rev. F. C. Lester, Rev. R. E. Brittle, and Miss Lilly Holland.

USE LEADERSHIP THROUGH CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Bert Davis' new "Leadership Through Christian Endeavor" is a success. What a welcome it has received from coast to coast! It fills a long felt need as a text book in summer conferences, conventions and in unions and societies. Thousands of Christian Endeavor experts have been waiting for an advanced course. Now they have it.

Three of the largest classes using the text to date are 1. The San Francisco Convention, where the author was the teacher; 2. The Northfield Summer Conference at Northfield, Mass.; 3. The Pennsylvania Summer Assembly at State College.

Christian Endeavor leaders will find it usable at state, district and county conventions as a basis of study. The Virginia Convention at Winchester gave an hour each day before the entire convention for presenting it. Summer Conferences—denominational and interdenominational—will use it generously, since many of them have waited for just such a book. The Southern Presbyterian Conference at Centre College in Kentucky used it with profit this year.

City and county unions throughout the South are planning classes, some meeting for an hour before the monthly meeting, some meeting each week for six or twelve weeks, while others will have classes for six or twelve successive nights. Certainly no union can afford to overlook the opportunity of conducting a normal class, which will fit teachers to teach this text in every society in the Union.

With many unions conducting Retreats and Union Officers' Conferences this fall and winter, "Leadership Through Christian Endeavor" will be found at the very center of thought and discussion.

Many leaders, who have returned from the San Francisco Convention, Summer Conferences and State Conventions with determination and plans for making their society more effective than it ever was before, will build their new expectations around an enthusiastic group studying "Leadership Through Christian Endeavor." Ministers and adult leaders will grasp the opportunity to assist when requested to teach the book.

One good friend always on the outlook to encourage the working relationship between his State Christian Endeavor Union and the field workers in his denomination is ordering twenty copies to be used as gifts. Well, I think it's a mighty practical gift and certainly one that will be appreciated.

I wish that we could make this a great year of study along with our aggressive action. It ought to be impossible in our union organizations for one to hold any sort of office beyond December 31st until he has qualified as one who has mastered "Leadership Through Christian Endeavor."

I wish every one of you could personally know the quiet mannered, efficient, effective Bert H. Davis, the author of this book. Keen as can be, a thorough student, he is a living example of "Leadership Through Christian Endeavor."

VIRGINIA C. E. UNION CONFERENCE.

Second Annual Meeting, Farmville, Va.,
September 5th, 6th, 7th.

On Saturday, September 5th, at noon, the Second Annual Conference of the Virginia Christian Endeavor Union, will get under way, and will continue until after lunch on Monday, Sept. 7th. The Prince Edward hotel will serve as headquarters for the occasion.

Since the program planned is such a splendid one—both instructive and inspirational—all individual society, city, county, district and state union officials should plan to attend!

And now for a word about the program. It will include the following: Plans for societies, city and county unions and for districts; a presentation of the International program and our own state program; and a class in "Leadership Through Christian Endeavor." Of course, the social side of our stay in Farmville has been taken care of. Incidentally, don't forget your bathing suit, etc.

The Registrar for the Conference is Miss Corrie Wilkes, 319 S. Pitt St., Alexandria, Va., and the fee is one dollar ($1.00). Your expenses while you are in Farmville will be about $3.50. Get a whole bunch to drive down together in a car and your total expenses will be very small.

Register now!

MARSHALL F. HAYDEN,
Publicity Superintendent.

Virginia is to be congratulated on the number of young people who attended the Christian Endeavor Convention in San Francisco, July 11th to 16th. This great meeting celebrated the Golden Anniversary of the founding of Christian Endeavor by Rev. Francis E. Clark, and drew more than ten thousand young people from the United States, Canada, Hawaii and other countries. Among those present was the following group from Virginia: Mr. Peachy Hockman, Winchester, Miss Frances Powell, Newport News, Mrs. Lucy Moss, Clarendon, Miss Margaret Stickley, Clarendon, Miss Bertha Bolen, Clarendon, Miss Ethel Burks, Richmond, Miss Thelma Brown, Richmond, Miss Phyllis Brown, Richmond, Mr. V. L. Phillips, Dayton, Rev. F. C. Lester, Waverly, Miss Fannie L. Boothe, Waverly, Miss Stella Lotts, Troutville, and Miss Jewel Truitt, Waverly.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

For September 6, 1931.

(Consecration Meeting.)

TOPIC: "Prayer—Jesus' Teaching and Example."

SCRIPTURE: Luke 11:1-13.

Program.

Hymn.—"My Faith Looks Up to Thee."

Hymn.—"I Need Thee Every Hour."

Scripture.—To the above Scripture other selections may be added, with four people reading, Luke 18:1-8; Luke 18:9-14; and Matthew 5:9-13.

Hymn.—"The Beautiful Garden of Prayer."

Prayer.—

Dramatized Hymn.—"Sweet Hour of Prayer."

A girl should be dressed to represent "Mother." She sits by a table upon which there is a lighted lamp, reading her Bible during the singing of the hymn by a soloist. During the singing of the last stanza, she kneels.

Silent Prayer.—The pianist plays the tune to "Sweet Hour of Prayer" softly during this time.

Talk on "Prayer."—Discussion of the topic.

Hymn.—"What a Friend."

A Poem on Prayer.—Read or recited by one of the younger members.

Prayer of Consecration and Dedication.

Hymn.—"Just as I Am, Thine Own to Be."

Mizpah.

Daily Readings.

Aug. 31. "The Model Prayer."—Matt 6:9-13.

Sept. 1. "Pray Together."—Matt. 18:19.

Sept. 2. "Pray in Faith."—Mark 11:24.

Sept. 3. "Pray in the Right Spirit."—Mark 11:25-26.

Sept. 4. "Pray in Jesus' Name."—John 14:11-14.

Sept. 5. "Jesus' Greatest Prayer."—John 17:1-5, 18-26.

Sunday School Lesson

By REV. H. S. HARDCASTLE.

TURNING TO THE GENTILES.

LESSON X—SEPTEMBER 6, 1931.

GOLDEN TEXT: "I have set thee for a light of the Gentiles, that thou shouldst be for salvation unto the uttermost parts of the earth."—Acts 13: 47.

LESSON: Acts 13: 13-52; Romans 1: 14-16; 11: 1-24.

Westward Ho!

"They came to Perga in Pamphylia"—they had the pioneer instinct for subduing the world for Christ. They were not content to rest on success already achieved. They wanted as far as possible to share the good news with all the world.

The Man Who Went Back—and "Came Back."
 "And John Mark departing from them returned to Jerusalem." We do not know just why he went back, but apparently Paul thought that it was not for a good and sufficient reason, for when they started out on their second journey and John Mark wanted to go along, Paul refused to have him. In slang, Mark probably got "cold feet," he was unwilling to pay the price. But there is a glorious after-chapter to the story. Mark came back. Barnabas believed in him, took him with him on a missionary journey, and eventually Mark wrote the gospel which bears his name. Let no man give up because he has failed or fallen. It is never too late to try again.

Antioch in Pisidia.

The trip to Antioch involved hardships and dangers. There were streams to be forded, cold and hunger to be endured, bandits to be avoided. Paul and Barnabas were indeed as was later said of them, men who had hazarded their lives for Jesus Christ. How soft and unworthy is so much of our Christian faith and fortitude as compared with these Christians.

They got a hearing in the synagogue at Antioch from a congregation made up of Jews and proselytes. Paul preached a masterly sermon, showing how from the earliest history of the nation God had been fulfilling His plan and purpose which found its climax in Jesus Christ. Paul laid special emphasis upon the fact that God had raised Jesus from the dead, that He had been seen of many who could bear witness to this fact, and that through this same Jesus they could have forgiveness of sins and find a peace that the law could not possibly give. He warned them against making the mistake that the Jews in Jerusalem had already made. His message made a profound impression on the Gentiles and they asked Paul to speak to them on the next Sabbath.

Jealousy.

"But when the Jews saw the multitudes they were filled with envy. Alas for the jealousy that exists among church folks, and the tragic toll which it exacts both in the lives of those who are jealous and in the Kingdom itself. Anyone who deals with church folks soon finds out that there is a vast amount of petty envy and jealousy on the part of those who are engaged in the work. And it is usually because others can do work better or achieve better success than the ones who are jealous.

Persecution.

"But the Jews stirred up the devout and honorable women and chief men of the city and raised persecution against Paul and Barnabas and expelled them out of their coasts." There are still those in positions of high authority and those who are social leaders who are not friendly to the gospel of Jesus Christ. Civic leaders and social leaders
 (Continued on page 13.)

RELIGIOUS BOOKS

Reviewed by

W. A. HARPER, BOOK EDITOR.

(Any book reviewed in this Department may be had of The Christian Sun at the publisher's price.)

RELIGION IN HIGHER EDUCATION. By Milton C. Towner, Editor. The University of Chicago, 1931; $3.00; pp 327.

An engaging theme in educational circles today is Religion in Higher Education. This book responding to that interest grows out of the third triennial "Conference of Church Workers in Universities and Colleges" and contains the principal addresses read to that body when it met in Chicago, December 30, 1930 to January 2, 1931. The editor, Dr. Milton C. Towner, as president of the Conference, was largely responsible for the program and is very appropriately the editor of this volume, in which he includes two addresses given elsewhere—one by R. R. Wicks of Princeton on "The Reality of Moral Obligation" and the other by George A. Coe on "Intellectual Righteousness or Let Us Be Intelligent." Dean Shailer Mathews and Frederick J. Kelly have written introductions for the book.

It is not often that the introduction to a book says anything significant. Such introductions are usually mere perfunctoriness. But Dean Mathews utilizes his opportunity in his introduction to say something worthwhile. In his opening sentence he asserts that "religion in a university or college must be the expression of institutional life." Here is a fresh, vigorous, new idea, which Chicago, Princeton, Yale, Harvard, Duke, Colorado College among the smaller colleges and others are endeavoring to actualize on their campuses by organizing their religious life around great cathedral chapels erected or in the process of erection—an idea that bids fair to revolutionize the religious life of institutions of higher learning. In due process of time when this idea shall have borne its perfect fruit, these institutions will cease to be the battle ground of warring sects and no longer will they be objects of extraneous evangelization programs for their salvation. As Dean Mathews sees it, colleges and universities must give organic expression to the religious values in—
 (Continued on page 14.)

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the number and price.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3/8 x 8 Inches, and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

Minion Type, Pocket Size, 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold.....$1.60

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.50

2173—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges.....$6.00

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 16-16 of an Inch Thick.

133X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 5 3/8 Inches, and 1 inch thick, with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 5 3/8 Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.

65—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps.....$2.50

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3/8 x 8 1/2 Inches and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With Concise Bible Dictionary, combined Concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.75

RED-LETTER EDITION.

With All the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands; title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations; special book for Sunday Schools.....95c

Any of the above Bibles sent postpaid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street,

Richmond, Virginia

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY H. E. ROUNTREE
One of our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"O Lord, I beseech thee, let now thine ear be attentive to the prayer of thy servant, and to the prayer of thy servants, who desire to fear thy name, and prosper, I pray thee, thy servant this day."

MONDAY.

WARMING ALL OUTDOORS.

"Who bringeth forth the wind of his treasures."
Read Psalm 135: 1-7.

The tendency of today is to put weather-strips around all our windows and doors, and make the house as nearly as possible hermetically sealed against the outer air. Thus, we argue, we save heat, and we no longer are obliged to "warm all outdoors" before we can warm ourselves. More than that, we keep out the dust, and so save ourselves much labor, besides preserving the furniture, rugs, and hangings.

But do we preserve ourselves? Do we not go far toward sealing ourselves in our own tomb? For the human plant needs fresh air, a lot of it, and needs it all the time. We must go outdoors, and when we come in, we must bring outdoors in with us. God brings forth the wind out of His treasures; fresh air is one of His chief treasures for the blessing of man.

So also is it true that man must not shut himself in from the wind of the Spirit, the blowing of God's providences around the world. We must keep the windows of our soul wide open to the breezes of eternal purpose. We must hear the voices of neighbors, the sounds of labor, the fire-bells of disaster, the chimes from far across the fields in other villages. No shut windows in a godly life, and no spiritual weather-strips!

Prayer.—Blow, winds of God, and drive away all miasmas! Blow, divine breezes, and invigorate our spirits! Blow hard, winds from all four corners of heaven—health and riches from the treasures of the Lord! Amen.

TUESDAY.

TIED TO THE TRIVIAL.

"Every great matter they shall bring unto Thee, but every small matter they shall judge themselves." Read Exodus 8: 13-26.

Moses was fortunate in having a sagacious father-in-law and in possessing the wisdom to listen to his advice and follow it. The great law-giver had been frittering away his time and strength on petty affairs which could be quite as well handled by lesser men. His father-in-law taught him to reserve himself for the most important matters.

Thus we also should focus our powers on the biggest things of which we are capable, and refuse to be tied up with trivialities. In Thoreau's Journal he relates how once the great orator and statesman, Webster, sailing with his man Peterson, saw a sea-serpent rearing a horselike head some six feet above the water, with a body the thickness of a cask trailing behind. Said Webster to Peterson: "Never say a word about this to anyone; for should it be known, I would have to tell the story to every one I met." What to a smaller man would have seemed the big event of his life, was to the master mind of Daniel Webster a trifle to which he would not have his reputation bound.

Prayer.—There are the great things of Thy kingdom, Lord Jesus, and they shall be the substance of our lives. When we touch little things, it shall be to lift them up into that greatness.

Guard us from the tyranny of trifles, for Thy great name's sake. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

LICENSED PEDESTRIANS.

"They that wait for Jehovah . . . shall walk, and not faint." Read Isaiah 40: 27-31.

It has been jocularly suggested that, in this motorized age, there is every reason why pedestrians should be examined and licensed before they are given the right to use the highways. Clumsy, confused and awkward walkers cause quite as many accidents as heedless drivers. The suggestion is added that those who are unable to pass the pedestrian's examination should be compelled to hire walking chauffeurs, to guide them across the streets.

Whatever we may think of this idea—and in a motorized age there is every reason why pedestrians should regard the law as well as motorists—it is quite certain that many more errors are made in the ordinary than in the extraordinary affairs of life. Everyone thinks that he can eat, sleep, talk, and clothe himself without training; but it is in such common matters that education is chiefly needed. Millions of people "dig their graves with their teeth." Millions of people tear down their business with their tongues.

If things are not going well with us, we need first of all to examine our common places. We are fooled by the familiar.

Prayer.—Make us wise every day, our Father. Guide our "walk and conversation." May we not save wisdom for emergencies. Fill the common things of life with Thyself. Amen.

THURSDAY.

GOD'S VISITS.

"I have visited you, and seen that which is done to you." Read Exodus 3: 13-16.

Queen Victoria, when at her home in Scotland, often went out, unaccompanied, to visit the cottagers, and one day she found an old man, bedridden and alone. Not knowing Victoria, the old man explained that "all his folks were away hoping to get a glimpse of the Queen." She said nothing to that, but sat with the old man a long time, chatting pleasantly, and then she read to him out of the Bible she loved. As she left she gave him twenty-five dollars, saying, "When your people come back, tell them that while they have been to see the Queen, the Queen has been to see you."

In much the same way, when deserted by men, we are sure to be visited by God. "When my father and mother forsake me, then the Lord will take me up." No one is so forgotten by his fellows as to be forgotten by his Creator. The need of Him is a pledge of Him. No neighbor is so neighborly as God.

Prayer.—Our Father, when we are busiest at our tasks, may we become conscious of a Helper. Fill the day with Thyself, and it shall be full of gratitude and praise. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

FRIDAY.

CALLING.

"I have called thee by thy name, thou art mine!" Read Isaiah 43: 1-7.

Once a farmer who lived in Minnesota, set out to cross a lake in a small sailboat after dark. The wind upset his boat, throwing him into the water, which was crowded with cakes of ice. He was a good swimmer, but he lost his direction, and was wildly beating about, drifting away from his home instead of toward it. Suddenly he heard his little girl calling in the darkness, "Father! Father!" He swam toward the call, breaking the ice as he went. The little girl kept on calling, and at last she had the joy of seeing her father drag himself from the water. Her faithful calling had saved him!

Is it not thus that God calls us, through a myriad loving voices of earth? "The night is dark, and I am far from home," but the call of dear ones comes to me across the icy storm-swept waters; there are the many voices of the blessed Book, and all of them are guiding me to my eternal home.

Prayer.—Thanks be to God for all His direct ing love. Thanks to the Lord for His multiplied guidance. I shall not be lost in the sea, hearing the calls from the shore. Amen.

SATURDAY.

A CURE FOR INSANITY.

"If ye will obey My voice indeed, and keep My covenant, then ye shall be Mine own possession from among all peoples." Read Exodus 19: 1-6.

Once Dr. Charles M. Sheldon was to speak in the asylum for the insane at Topeka. He asked the superintendent what he should preach about, and the superintendent answered: "Preach about the sin of disobedience to God and its results. They will understand that kind of preaching, for most of them are here because they have disobeyed the laws of God."

Truly the only sane course for anyone is to find out God's way and then walk in it. God alone knows the right way. He has formed us, He knows our beginning and our destined end. Any course, therefore, but His course will lead us astray and wandering feet mean a wandering mind and a distraught soul.

Preach obedience to your soul, then, if you would keep out of the insane asylum of the universe.

Prayer.—Thy ways, O God, are the ways of wisdom, the paths of a sound mind. We will keep our brains clear and our eyes steadily fixed on the goal. Thou shalt be our Guide all the way and we will obey Thy precepts. Amen.

SUNDAY.

BEHIND GOD'S BACK.

"Thou hast cast all my sins behind thy back."
Read Isaiah 38: 9-20.

In one of George Macdonald's most beautiful stories a little boy takes rides "At the Back of the North Wind," finds everything warm and comfortable there and learns that the North Wind, who had seemed so cruel, was really very kind.

That is what every Christian should learn about the providences of God, that seem at first to be cold and severe. Get around behind their back; yield yourself to them and be borne along by them; you will discover that God in all things is love.

King Hezekiah had learned when he said, "Thou hast cast all my sins behind Thy back." That is anthropomorphism, the critics say, seeking to knock down a great truth with a long word. But how are we to know God if not through His works, and especially through man, the noblest of His works? Man is made in the image of God, as everything created necessarily reflects its creator, so that we have a perfect and logical right to reason back from man to God. And if man can put things behind him, forgetting all about them, so certainly can God. And if man can forgive sins, it would indeed be strange if man's Maker could not.

Prayer.—Let us dwell, O God, in the shadow of Thy wings. There we shall go, with all our sins and imperfections, and there Thy wilt forget them forever. For the shadow of Thy wings is the shadow of the cross of Christ! Amen.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN'S PULPIT

REV. JOSEPH W. FIX, Preacher.

THE LOVE OF CHRIST.

By REV. JOSEPH W. FIX.

"Abide ye in my love."

TEXT: John 15: 9-17.

The fifteenth chapter of John's Gospel portrays the love of Christ as both a revelation and a standard. This beloved writer of truth and good tidings shows his readers that the Love of Christ is a new conception of God's nature and attitude toward us. He tells us that love must be the height toward which we must strive in our own lives, and that we are to deal with others in the manner in which we would have them deal with us. These supreme verses of scripture divide themselves into three logical lines of approach, through which we may better understand the meaning of the Love of Christ.

In the first place the quality of Christ's love is shown in such words as "Even as the Father hath loved me, I also have loved you: abide ye in my love." The relation of the Father to the Son is like unto the love of the Son of God for the people. Such love is both an inspiration and a revelation. It ought to make us meek and humble. We ought to feel grateful to Him for His love toward us—a love such as the Father bestowed upon Him. The wonderful height from which Jesus's love flows mingled down is, that, "Even as the Father hath loved me, so have I loved." As waters always find a level, so the love of Christ finds its level in mankind and toward all races and kindred. Such love is designed to be permanent and steadfast. "If ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love; even as I have kept my Father's commandments and abide in His love." Hence we declare the quality of His love is that it never fails. True Christian love abideth forever. When this new love, even the love of Christ, takes possession of the human heart, there is a source of happiness such as comes from no other source, save from Him, who loved us and gave Himself a ransom. Those who know the quality of this great love, desire that it shall abide with them throughout all time. Christ shows to such ones that it can only abide through keeping His commandments. "If ye love me keep my commandments."

In the second place the source from which his love comes to us is through self sacrifice. He declares in the 13th verse of the chapter that "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." Such self sacrificing love is truly called the High Water mark of Christianity. Friends can demand nothing more than a love devoted to them such as Jesus displayed from Calvary. To give one's life for a loved one is a glorious act of martyrdom. Classic literature is filled with examples wherein men went down to their graves for the sake of others. But Jesus was first in this realm. In so doing, he identifies himself with the sons of men. The love so admirably set forth by Him is the love we are to manifest toward one another, for it is the love that hath no limit. It is the love of Christ.

"Could we with ink the ocean fill,
Were every stick on earth a quill,
Were the whole sky of parchment made,
And every man a scribe by trade,
To write the love of Christ,
Would drain the ocean dry;
Nor could the scroll contain the whole,
Though stretched from sky to sky."

In the third place this text refers to the Love of Christ as being a partnership between the Divine One and man. Henceforth, I call you not servants; for the servant knoweth not what his lord doeth; but I have called you friends; for all things that I have heard of my Father, I have made known unto you. Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you and ordained you, that ye shall go and bring forth fruit and that your fruit shall remain; that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in my name, he may give it you." History tells us that in times of slavery, those who were in bondage were told what they had to do and what they were not to do. Slavery did not permit its victims to choose or to refuse. Slaves were not given the satisfaction of seeing what their labor was intended to produce. The very right of choosing the ends of life were taken away and with this opportunity went the essence of manhood.

I believe that the higher in the scale of development is man, the higher his possibilities, the more strongly he will desire, in the work to which he gives his life, to see something of the outcome of his labors. The follower of Christ becomes a partner with Him, and that partnership immediately lifts Him out of his narrow realm, and he lives with Christ. When man lives with his Redeemer, he knows, by faith, that all things will work for good and that his life is counting for the very most in Kingdom service. As we serve Him, let us declare with the poet:

"In Christ here is no East nor West,
In Him no South nor North;
But one great fellowship of Love
Throughout the whole wide earth.

"In Him shall true hearts everywhere,
Their high communion find;
His service is the golden cord
Close binding all mankind."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

(Continued from page 11.)

ers cannot always be counted on to stand on the right side of the moral issues in the community.

Joy.

"And the disciples were filled with joy and with the Holy Spirit." They had found newness of life in the gospel message which is as Paul says the power of God unto salvation unto all who believe, to the Jew and also to the Greek. The tragedy is that so many people lose this joy. There are so many members of the church who have lost the joy they had when they began their Christian life. Indifference, carelessness, disobedience have come into their lives and joy has gone out.

Forfeited Privilege.

"Lo, we turn to the Gentiles." It is the sentence of forfeited privilege. It is one of the inevitable laws of life that those who do not accept their privileges forfeit their privileges. What a difference it would have made in the lives of those Jews and in the history of that city if they had responded to the claim of the gospel. Their house was left unto them desolate.

Grafted Branches.

In the famous section Romans 11: 1-24 Paul compares the Jewish nation to an olive tree, some of whose branches have been cut off that shoots of a wild-olive tree, the Gentiles may be grafted on to bear rich fruit. But Paul looks forward to the time when the Jewish branches will be grafted back again, and his prophecy will be fulfilled when Christians awake to the great task of evangelizing the Jews.

NOTICE.

I am making a change in churches this Conference year, and will be glad to correspond with any church or churches desiring my services in regards to church work.

W. B. FULLER,
313 Greene St.,
Harrisonburg, Va.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATED.

The Silver-plated Ware is of the very highest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses.$22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 85. 11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plated; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling). $22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90. 14.00

Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim.....$ 9.00
Bread Plate No. 4—Broad rim..... 9.00
Filler—Silver lined 6.00

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, - - Richmond, Virginia

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

Our friends in the Sand Hills Peach Orchard Section was very kind to us this season and gave us lots of peaches. We canned quite a few and made preserves, marmalade, etc., and stored for the winter. We are like the little busy ants laying up something for the winter while we have the opportunity. We always have a more contented feeling and peace of mind when we have corn in the crib and meat in the smoke house.

But alas, with many blessings, misfortune slips in. Two weeks ago hog cholera slipped in our pen of stock hogs and we lost five fine ones and five shoats besides fifteen little pigs. It is the first time we have had a case of cholera in the history of the orphanage. We had not heard of any in the community. It slipped up on us like a thief in the night and took its full share. We had all our pen hogs vaccinated and so far have had none of this lot to take sick. It makes our heart ache to see large fine hogs stricken and die when nothing can be done. No remedy has yet been found that will cure them after they get it.

Our singing class has quite a number of invitations to sing. We are always glad to go if we do not have previous engagements.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR AUGUST 27, 1931.

Brought forward $10,040.00

Sunday School Monthly Offerings.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference.
Greensboro, 1st	$ 2.15
Lynchburg	2.17
Reidsville	5.81
Union, Va.	3.75
Greensboro, Palm St.	3.68
Pleasant Ridge	1.00
Liberty	1.70

20.26

Eastern North Carolina Conference.

Pleasant Hill	$ 2.00
Christian Light	2.00
Mt. Auburn	2.45

6.45

Western North Carolina Conference.

Antioch	$.50
Zion	1.25
Pattersons Grove	1.53

3.28

Eastern Virginia Conference.

Spring Hill	$ 1.00
First Portsmouth	12.39
Windsor	3.10
Suffolk	30.00
Dendron	3.00
Barretts	.88
Berea Norfolk	14.05

64.42

Valley Virginia Central Conference.

Newport	$ 1.52
Bethlehem	3.27
Woods Chapel	1.00

5.79

Special Offerings.

Ida S. Robinson, Mamaroneck, N. Y.	$ 5.00
W. A. Lee support of children.	7.50
Ingram Church S. S. Picnic.	12.21
R. J. Miller support of children.	37.50

62.21

Total for the week $ 162.41

Grand Total $10,202.41

RELIGIOUS BOOKS.

(Continued from page 11.)

hearing in their situations, and in so doing they will build character in their faculty and students and send forth workers of righteousness to reconstruct the Great Society. It is an alluring challenge. Let us hope that some rational body of religious workers will ere long build a program around this idea and so explore the colleges and universities as situations in which inhere ample character-building resources and suggest practical measures for making them functional in institutional and student life.

Dr. Towner, however, built his program on a different basis. These objectives are specifically stated: (1.) To state as clearly as possible the reality of the spiritual; (2.) To discover current trends in scientific and social thought; (3.) To present the practical approaches that are now being made to the general problem of religion in higher education. After experts have in each instance presented the findings in their several fields, a summary statement should be made by another expert in behalf of the Conference.

Rufus M. Jones, the Quaker philosophical mystic, was assigned the task of introducing the Conference to the reality of the spiritual, which he found in personal experience. His address and that of Wm. P. Lemon witness eloquently to spiritual reality and gave the Conference a becoming orientation for its later discussions.

Prof. Edward S. Conklin, psychologist, Prof. Charles A. Ellwood, social scientist, and W. C. D. Dampier-Whetman, physicist, presented the trends in their respective fields and related them to religion. The summarizing address on thought trends and religion was given by Dean Charles W. Gilkey, who reminded the Conference that re-

Eilers Sunday School Maps.

On a Revolving Adjustable Steel Stand

The first 5 maps
are in Set No. 1,
with stand,
Price $15.00

Set No. 2
8 Maps.
Price $20.00

Fine large Maps, in 6 Colors 38x57, on linen finished Cloth. Mounted on a folding steel stand, which can be regulated, so that Maps may be seen to the best advantage. This set contains data for thorough Bible Study. Its large print and Cheerful Colors makes this set very instructive and attractive. Contains the five thoroughly up to date Maps necessary for the study of Bible History. New Testament Palestine. — Old Testament Palestine. — Roman empire and Bible Lands, showing Pauls Travels by Colored lines. — Lands of the Old Testament, from the Great Sea, to the Persian Gulf. — The Exodus, Egypt, showing by Colored lines the wanderings of the Israelites.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN,
1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia.

ALL
SELF-
PRONOUNCING

Holman Testaments

COMMAND
ATTENTION
AND APPROVAL

Holman Vest-Pocket Testament

Size, 2 5/8 x 4 1/2 inches

Specimen of Type.

AND the third day there
was a marriage in
CANA of GALILEE; and
the mother of JESUS was

The VEST POCKET is, beyond question, the most popular Testament published.

2104. Dark Blue Silk Finished Cloth, with edges colored to match, gold titles.	$.50
2103K. Morocco Grained Binding, flexible limp, gold edges and titles.	.60
2114. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges.	.85

VEST POCKET TESTAMENT AND PSALMS
2103KP. Morocco Grained Binding, limp, gold titles, round corners, gold edges.	.70
2114P. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges.	.90
2115P. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges.	1.10

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

13RL. French Morocco Leather, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, rounded corners, gold edges.	.90
15RLP. French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, gold title on red panel, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included.	1.35

Holman Jewel Testament

INDIA PAPER ONLY—Size 2 1/2 x 4 1/2 inches x 3/4 inch

The JEWEL is the latest and most attractive Pocket Testament made. The TYPE is black, bold and larger than that in the famous Vest Pocket edition, and the book itself is smaller. It is printed exclusively on the famous Holman India paper, noted for its opaque quality and unusual tensile strength. One advantage of this India paper is that the leaves do not cling together. The size, 2 1/2 x 4 1/2 inches, is so small that the book practically fits the palm of the hand.

Specimen of Type

ST. MATTHEW 2

The three wise men

carrying away into Egypt—
y-lonarefourteen generations; and from the carrying away into Bab'y-lon unto Christ are fourteen

ing interpreted is, God
with us.
24 Then Jē'seph being raised from sleep did as the angel of the Lord had

5003X. Morocco Grained Binding, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges.	$1.00
5015PX. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, Psalms included.	1.50
5015PXL. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather binding to edges, silk sewed, red under gold edges, with Psalms	2.60

Holman GEM Testament

POCKET
SIZE
3 3/4 x 4 1/2
inches

Specimen of Gem Black Faced Type

CHAPTER 23.

THEN spake Jē'sus to the multitude, and to his disciples,

The GEM TESTAMENT has been steadily growing in popular favor ever since its first appearance.

In size, 3 3/4 x 4 1/2 inches, it is not much larger than the Vest Pocket. It is also the only Testament of its size with large bold type and pronounced text.

The edition on India paper is ideal, and we know of no better gift at the price than one in the finer bindings.

4102P. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red burnished edges, with Psalms.	$.90
4113. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges.	1.35
4115P. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included.	1.90

RED LETTER GEM TESTAMENT
4113RL. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges.	1.50

INDIA PAPER GEM TESTAMENT
4136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather binding to edge, red under gold edges, with Psalms.	3.00

4136XPRL. Red Letter Edition with Psalms, same binding as 4136XP, but with the Sayings of Christ Printed in Red.	3.25
---	------

Old Folks Testament

Extra Large Print

Pica, 16mo. Size, 5 1/2 x 7 1/2 x 3/4 inches

Old folks or those with poor sight will appreciate the advantage of this Testament. The type is a delight to the eye with its wide spacing between the lines. It is the most readable edition of all large print Testaments.

Specimen of Type.
THE book
of Jē'sus

2902P. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red edges, with Book of Psalms included.	$1.50
---	--------

THIN BIBLE PAPER EDITIONS
Same Large Print as Above
2913P. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included.	2.95

RED LETTER EDITION
Same as above, with the Sayings of Christ in Red.
3913PRL. French Morocco Leather, flexible covers, gold side title on red panel, rounded corners, red under gold edges, and with Book of Psalms included.	3.10

All styles sent postpaid at above prices

ligion is ultimately a call to creative adventure. One closes the reading of this section with the conviction that modern thought in the scientific realm is undergirding rather than undercutting religion. It is gratifying, for example, to know that physics now lends its support to freedom of the will and finds a place in the universe for moral responsibility—fundamental tenets of religion, cherished despite seeming negative conclusions of science as formally conceived. It is also gratifying to have social scientists and psychologists depict for us the healing and restorative possibilities and values resident in human nature and to chart the pathway of future progress—tenets also cherished by religion and now happily given highest scientific support.

Two-thirds of the volume is assigned to what is being done in the field of religion and how the several agencies and their agents are doing it. The contributions made by the major religious groups—Protestants, Catholics and Jews—separately and unitedly are set forth. The work of college preachers, university pastors, professional teachers of religion, directors of religious life and of social service, and the secretaries of the Y. W. and Y. M. is described, together with exposition of the professional training they will require. The cooperative religious work of typical university centers is ably presented by experts. What this section, comprising the bulk of the book, says, has, for the most part, been said again and again, but nowhere so well as in this volume. Here is a photograph, not a portrait, of our best present practice and it is far from a discouraging picture. The colleges and universities evidently sense their religious opportunities and they are alert to grasp them. Professional workers in the field of religion will be especially rewarded by studying Professor Bower's major for the religious culture of undergraduates and by Professor Aubrey's description of the preparation necessary for the effective professional teacher of religion. Noteworthy, too, is Professor Shedd's scientific demonstration that the work of the university pastor and of the Christian Association secretary is the same and requires the same preparation. What this involves for the future of these professions presents a problem for serious thought. It may mean the disappearance of the Y. W. and Y. M. from the university, as at Pennsylvania.

One seriously misses in this volume the clear recognition of certain implications that inhere in the obligation of these institutions of higher learning to their supporting constituencies. These institutions are not isolated groups, but part and parcel of the on-going process we call civilization. They must not only develop their students culturally in the religious field, but they must motivate them to be social and religious engineers, no matter what their vocational interests may be. And so they must not only prepare persons to be professional teachers of religion, but they have a real obligation as well as to prepare others, the vast majority, to be workers avocationally in social and spiritual reconstruction. Professor Bower senses this latter need, but does not enlarge upon it.

Much yet remains to be done before we have an adequate philosophy of religion in higher education. We need to know what are the religious values inherent in the college and university situation, how to bring them to consciousness, how to make them function in life. Before we can do this we must reconstruct, reattitudinize our administrations (including Boards of Trustees), our faculties, our departments of finance and personnel work, the alumni, and also the communities in which these institutions are located. In addition we must discover the values for character-building inherent in the various provisions and agencies for serving the life of students whether institutionally controlled or voluntary or cooperatively, such as fraternities, religious groupings, publications, athletics, etc., etc., and institute methods to make them positively functional. And so we wait for a Conference or a book or an experiment in higher education that will begin with the college or university where it is and demonstrate how to make of such an institution a character-building agency by the utilization of its own inherent religious values, as Dean Mathews so pointedly suggests.

This book is a mile-post pointing in that direction and as such it merits the thoughtful consideration of all who are interested in religion in higher education.

NOTICE.

After much prayer and feeling that the Lord would have me give myself, for the present, to evangelistic work, I will be glad to help any pastor or people for the next few months. I believe in prayer for the promise to be fulfilled as mentioned in John 16: 8. The Lord has blessed my efforts in the past. References: Dr. T. F. Carroll, Charlottesville, Va., or Dr. W. D. Harward, Windsor, Va.

(REV.) ELISHA BRADSHAW,
Walters, Va.

"Our heaviest burdens are those we borrow."

ELON COLLEGE

AN ACCREDITED COLLEGE

of the

CONGREGATIONAL CHRISTIAN CHURCHES OF THE SOUTHEAST

ELON was founded to train Christian leaders for the New South.

ELON has done its task well—one graduate in seven being in the Christian ministry. The other six express Christian leadership in the various professions and vocations. Experience teaches that spiritual leadership must be indigenous.

The South is now a New South ready for an inclusive Church, the type of Church for which Elon has stood for forty years and for which she is prepared to produce capable leadership.

With no Church in the community, save the College Auditorium, ELON has practiced Christian Union for faculty, students, and community for four decades.

Its contribution to Christian Education is nationally known and approved.

Its Christian Education Building, providing laboratory facilities for religious leadership training, is unique and is the first college building of its type in the world.

ELON confines itself to undergraduate liberal arts work with that religious emphasis which befits the Christian College.

In ELON the Congregational-Christian Church has an asset of marvelous hopefulness.

The South needs her Yale, her Oberlin, her Carleton, her Pomona for the intellectual leadership of the United Church. Many regard ELON as strategically located and spiritually endowed to become such a center of illumination and leadership training.

THE CHRISTIAN EDUCATION BUILDING

The Heart of the Elon Program of Christian Education.

C. M. CANNON, Registrar

Elon College, - - - - - North Carolina

Home Atmosphere—Reasonable Rates—Clean Athletics—Christian Spirit.

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the kingdom, as represented by the Congregational-Christian Church.

BOARD OF EDITORS.

J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
E. C. GILLETTE, D. D. Associate
W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
W. A. HARPER, LL.D. Associate
REV. S. C. HARRELL, Associate
J. E. McCAULEY, Associate
W. C. WICKER, D. D. News Editor
P. J. KERNODLE, Managing Editor
C. D. JOHNSTON, Circulation Manager

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Year $2.00
Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Postoffice, at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to The Christian Sun, C. D. Johnston, Circulation Manager, Elon College, N. C.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads" 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

Notices: Obituary and marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge; all over 100 words at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

OBITUARIES.

MORICLE.

Whereas our heavenly Father in His infinite wisdom and love, has called to his eternal home our beloved co-worker and fellow member, Lee Harper Moricle, we the Sunday School of Mt. Bethel Christian Church, offer the following tribute to his memory. Therefore be it resolved:

First. That God in His all-wise providence, doeth all things well, so, while we mourn the loss of one who was ever faithful and one who meant so much to our Sunday School, we bow in humble submission to His divine will.

Second. That we hold in loving remembrance his faithful attendance, and trust that his separation from us will only draw us nearer the throne.

Third. That we extend our deepest sympathy and love to the family in their loss, and commend them to Him who can sustain and comfort.

Fourth. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, one put on the secretary's book and one sent to The Christian Sun for publication.

Mrs. J. T. STEWART,
Mrs. J. W. McCOLLUM,
Miss ELIZABETH McCOLLUM,
Committee.

TEMPTATION.

We are never out of the reach of temptation. Both at home and abroad, we are liable to meet with allurements to evil; the morning opening finds us still in jeopardy. They are well kept whom God keeps, but woe unto those who go forth into the world, or even dare to walk their own house unarmed. Those who think themselves secure are more exposed to danger than any others. The armor-bearer of Sin is Self-confidence. Be not secure. We need a watchman for the night as well as a guardian for the

THE CONGREGATIONAL LATIN-AMERICAN INSTITUTE AND PILGRIM LATIN CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH OF WEST TAMPA, FLA.—

Are helping give the Gospel, which is "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth," to the forty thousand Latin people of Tampa. The evangelical forces working among the foreigners of Tampa are by no means covering the territory sufficiently.

Methodists have six preachers, Baptists two, Presbyterians one, Congregationalists one. Church workers and teachers must be supported for this great missionary work. Send check to

LESLIE S. BRAY, Treas.

Route 4, Box 468, - - Tampa, Fla.
Send boxes of clothing to Mrs. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

For literature, write Rev. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

HOLMAN BIBLES

LARGE PRINT TEACHERS' EDITION FOR ADULTS, TEACHERS AND PREACHERS

and all who would study the Word of God intelligently this edition is unsurpassed. The type is large, clear Bourgeois, Self-Pronouncing, with liberal space between the words and lines, which makes it easy to read.

Size, 8 x 5 1/2 inches.

Specimen of Type.

"From that time Jesus began to preach, and to say, 'I the kingdom of heaven'"

Containing New Copyrighted Helps by most reliable Authorities. A Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, New Colored Maps.

No. 4712. Divinity Circuit Teachers' Bible, French Seal Leather, red under gold edges, Silk Head bands and Silk Marker.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 5.00

No. 812RL. Red Letter Teachers' Bible. The Words of Christ in the New Testament, Old Testament Passages Alluded to by Christ, Various Prophecies Relating to Christ in the Old Testament, etc., all PRINTED IN RED. Binding same as described above and same large Self-Pronouncing type.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 6.00

No. 733X. Holman India Paper, Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 10.65

day. Oh, for the constraining love of Jesus to keep us active and useful.—C. H. Spurgeon.

If there is something to be done, do it yourself, the "let George do it" habit is a curse both to you and to others.

666

LIQUID or TABLETS

Relieves a Headache or Neuralgia in 30 minutes, checks a Cold the first day, and checks Malaria in three days.

666 Salve for Baby's Cold

PIEDMONT COLLEGE

A SENIOR COEDUCATIONAL INSTITUTION

OFFERS

Standard Courses leading to the usual Academic Degrees; also Courses in Music and Home Economics.

Thorough Instruction in Speech and in the Commercial Branches.

A beautiful location in the "Foothills of the Blue Ridge"; altitude of 1,500 feet; spring waters and invigorating climatic conditions.

An enviable reputation for sound scholarship, wholesome student life and Christian Idealism.

Expenses exceptionally light: $318.50 for the College Year.

For Catalogue, write,

JONATHAN C. ROGERS, Dean,
Demorest, Georgia

SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE

FOUR YEAR STANDARD COLLEGE

A Memorial of the Congregational-Christian Union.

FRANK E. JENKINS, Pres. MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD, Dean

OPENS WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1931.

Chartered BETHLEHEM COLLEGE June 2, 1922 Renamed PIEDMONT JUNIOR COLLEGE May 18, 1928

Renamed SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE, June 3, 1931

SCHOLARSHIP HIGH

EXPENSES LOW

CHARACTER SUPREME

A Strong Faculty, Educated in 25 Universities and Colleges in 12 States.

Unsectarian, but thoroughly Christian.

For Information about Entrance, write—

DEAN MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD,
WADLEY, ALABAMA.

For Other Information, write—

DR. FRANK E. JENKINS,
LA GRANGE, GEORGIA (To September 1st).

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Representing the Southern Christian Convention and the Congregational Churches of the Southeast.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY

VOLUME LXXXIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1931.

NUMBER 36.

.. THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY ..

By DR. W. C. WICKER.

"AWAKE THOU THAT SLEEPEST."

Sweeden is a small country, but last year her Christian people contributed $1,322,792 to foreign missions, which meant an increase of 13 per cent. There are sixteen missionary organizations which have missions in twenty-nine fields, including China, Africa and India. Last year 797 missionaries were employed abroad. America is a large country, but her religious needs are great indeed. Here are some searching facts: There are ten thousand communities in which there is no church of any kind, Jewish, Roman Catholic or Protestant; thirty thousand communities with no resident pastor; thirteen million four hundred children under twelve years of age who get no religious instruction of any kind; more than half of the total population of America unconnected with any institution representing organized religion.

UNEMPLOYMENT AGAIN.—

Dr. John McDowell, secretary of the committee on social and industrial relations of the Presbyterian Board of National Missions has just sent out letters to the Presbyterians of the country urging each of them to appoint a committee on unemployment. Dr. McDowell's committee on industrial relations is also busily engaged in the preparation of outlines and pamphlets to guide the various church groups in their study of the industrial problem this coming fall and winter. The committee has as its aim the development of a growing body of information which, "eventually will find expression in an effort to establish a more Christian social order." All churches of Christendom should engage in such a study and co-operate in solving the social problems so as to save society from suffering in times of economic depression.

A BOOK ON UNEMPLOYMENT.—

The addresses delivered at the last Conference on Permanent Preventives of Unemployment, held in Washington last January, are now offered in booklet form by the Federal Council of Churches, 105 E. 22nd Street, New York City. The conference was held under the auspices of the council, the National Catholic Welfare Conference, and the Central Conference of American Rabbis. Among the speakers reported in full are, Leifur Magnusson, William T. Foster, John Frey, Geo. Soule, John R. Commons, Senator R. F. Wagner, Darwin J. Mersevole, Harry F. Ward, Father John A. Ryan and Rabbi Edward L. Israel. The book, which is entitled "Permanent Preventives of Unemployment," is sold at 50 cents a copy, or $20 a hundred. Those who wish to study this problem in social and economic conditions would do well to secure copies.

WARNING TO GIRLS.—

The Welfare Council of New York, an organization coordinating the various social agencies, has issued a timely warning to young women out of work to avoid New York. The council points out that the alluring pictures of life spread by fiction writers and moving picture producers are utterly false. From its investigation of conditions here it is estimated that there are 100,000 girls and unmarried young women among the army of unemployed in that city. The warning says: "The cost of living has gone down in New York, but so have wages for girls. The combination of long continued unemployment and greatly reduced earnings when work is finally secured has forced thousands and thousands of girls to lower and lower standards of living. Many girls try to save on rent and so seek rooms in poorer neighborhoods, often with distressing results." The gist of the whole matter is: "Today it is harder than ever for the out-of-town girls to find work here."

DR. POLING ON PROHIBITION.—

Daniel A. Poling, chairman of the allied forces for prohibition, returned the other day from an extensive trip in the pivotal cities of the West. He believes that the outlook for the dry cause is growing very much brighter, in that the dries are burying their differences and renewing their enthusiasm. "The fact that nearly every legislative contest has resulted in a reverse for the wets has helped create a new dry psychology. Thus far, if legislative votes are taken as a guide, increased wet activities has resulted generally in new dry strength. It certainly has brought up hidden reserves." It is pleasing to many of us to find that Dr. Poling does not make prohibition the only issue and also to find him declaring that unemployment and poverty must be destroyed. To use his own words: "The same genius which pioneered the West, which has given to America economic world supremacy, can and will reorganize industry. We must match the passion of the soviets to win a class war with a fervor to perfect our own freedom." Such a spirit of enthusiasm for a righteous cause will win the cause of prohibition, and every Christian man, woman and child can afford to enlist in such a movement.

Y. M. C. A. CONFERENCE.—

Preparatory to the legislative convention of the World's Young Men's Christian Association, at Cleveland, two world assemblies were held for conference. One of these conferences was held at the University of Toronto. It would not be just to gauge these conferences by the speeches delivered, but one might venture to suggest that the great personalities were not forced into the open. These places were rather for "inspirational" speakers. Still the platform did utter some great words and reveal significant trends. The assemblies broke up into two sets of groups. Each morning the members gathered in discussion groups of about thirty to consider the reality of God as found in the manifold phases of contemporary life, but especially as found in Jesus Christ. Each afternoon found those who were equal to the task gathered in seminars, the subjects of which may be mentioned as indicating the scope of the assembly: "What Light Does Psychology Throw on Religious experience?" "The Bearing of Natural Science on the Christian Conceptions of Life"; "Educational Methods and Religious Growth"; "In What Does the Uniqueness of the Christian Faith Consist?" "The One Faith and the Many Churches"; "The Place of Sex in the Christian Life"; "Industrialism, Socialism and Christianity"; "The Christian Attitude toward Nation and Race"; "Social Forces and Their Bearing on Christianity." With such an array of subjects, covering such a wide field of religious thought, those who were so fortunate as to attend these seminars and group discussions were greatly stimulated in religious thought and insight into the great problems which are engaging the attention of the theologians of today.

SEMINAR ON REORGANIZATION.—

The discussion of economic reorganization was disappointing to some who attended the meeting. If there had been deliberate purpose to settle this question, the action taken in the seminar assigned this field was calculated to give this impression. It is true that the seminar does not contemplate control by the leader; but it does require such organization of discussion as is likely to be fruitful. In this seminar there would have been an impossibility for any fruitful result to have followed, because of the aimless cataloguing which provided the program. For each seminar there had been prepared in advance a preliminary statement by a competent exponent of problems involved; and in this case Dr. Andre Philip had submitted a first class piece of work of over forty pages. The author lacked neither courage nor insight nor historical accuracy, and his arrangement of material ought to have led to a highly stimulating seminar. Perhaps difficulty arose from the extraordinary definition given of capitalism as "not only a means of repartition of riches and of economic organization, but also as a particular type of civilization, characterized by the emancipation of the social life from all ethical control and the glorification of economic virtues." But if there was here no suggestion of serious effort to change things, the findings of the assembly as presented by the committee on policy at the closing sessions justified a more hopeful interpretation; for there it was declared to be part of the young men's division to "give to all young men capable of understanding an insight into the nature of modern economic life an ability to play a creative part in its transformation."

NOTES-PERSONALS

We are advised that Rev. R. Lee House has accepted a call to Newport News Church. Bro. House is well prepared by training and culture for the great task of the city church, and here is hoping and praying that he may have wisdom and strength to sustain him in the great field to which he has been called.

Rev. Roy D. Coulter, pastor, recently closed a meeting with Carolina Christian Church, which Church was organized a few months ago with thirteen members. As a result of the recent meeting, there were nineteen accessions to the church, and both the membership and the pastor feel encouraged and happy over the outlook.

Dr. D. B. Atkinson, for years vice-president of the General Convention and well-known throughout the Church, goes to Piedmont College, Demorest, Ga., as assistant dean and professor of Psychology in Religious Education. His wife, Mrs. Atkinson, was with Piedmont last year and is preceptress of Campbell Hall and teacher of Mathematics. We congratulate Piedmont College.

The Christian Orphanage had its Home-Coming on Sunday, August 30th. It was a great and good day at the Orphanage. A goodly number of those who had gone out from the Orphanage returned for the day and many relatives of the children at the Orphanage came. One of the features of the program was the singing by a trio from Hank's Chapel, which was a delight to the entire audience. Mr. J. M. Darden, Suffolk, Va., President of the board of Trustees, presided, and also made an address. On the whole it was a very happy and interesting occasion.

We regret to learn that Rev. H. S. Hardcastle, beloved pastor of Suffolk Christian Church, is laid up with continuous illness in a hospital near the place to which he had gone with his family to spend his vacation the month of August. Mrs. Hardcastle, writing from St. Albans Bay, Vermont, says: "Mr. Hardcastle was taken sick as soon as we arrived here and is now in a hospital at St. Albans Bay with an attack of undulant fever. It is a most rare disease and where he contracted it is the supreme mystery. I suppose some doctors practice their professions a whole lifetime and never have a case of it to treat, but he has it just the same. It is not such an alarming fever as some, but it is so tenacious. He will be a long time getting rid of it. Fortunately he suffers no pain but is very weak. His physician hopes to have him well enough to go home toward the latter part of September. Aa it is, we are very much marooned here, but we are among very dear friends here at camp and certainly it is a very beautiful country to be in." Here is hoping Brother Hardcastle will soon be restored and back stronger than ever at the work among his beloved people who esteem him so highly and love him so dearly.

Life is an interesting and instructive game of give and take.

Short-change others and they will short weigh you.

What we give is measured back to us.

If we give gladness, we receive happiness from others and happiness from our own thoughts.

If we bring to the mirror an ugly, hateful look, the mirror will reflect that mental attitude—an attitude that accomplishes nothing in the way of permanent success.—Van Amburgh.

HISTORY OF INGRAM CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

At Ingram, Va., on November 13, 1891, a Christian Church was organized by Rev. P. T. Klapp, the following agreement being subscribed to:

We, whose names are hereto annexed members, as we trust of the body of Christ, having exercised repentance toward God and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ, being desirous of associating ourselves together as a church, agree to be governed by the following principles:

1. Christ, the only Head of the Church.
2. The name Christians only name by which we will be known to the exclusion of all party or sectarian names.
3. The Holy Bible, the scripture of the old and new Testament, is our only creed or confession of faith.
4. Christian character is a true scriptural test of fellowship and of church membership.
5. The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to and exercised by all.

The following are charter members, half of whom are living: Scott Boyd, M. E. Boyd, Myrtle Boyd, Wellons Boyd, Ida L. Adams, J. W. Carlton, Lizzie Jackson, L. E. Carlton, Herbert Carlton, Charlie Dunn, Sallie Will Dunn, James E. Henderson, Mary Ferrell, Lydia Dunn, and Mary Landrum. Of the eight charter members living, six were present.

Perhaps no one of this list labored more faithfully than did Bros. Scott Boyd and J. W. Carlton and their wives.

Bro. Klapp stayed with us nine years, rendering most faithful service. While Brother Klapp was our pastor, Dr. S. T. A. Kent came to us from the M. E. Church. All these years, he has brought sunshine to the church, being deacon as well as our Bible teacher for all these years.

Our first deacons were J. W. Carlton and J. E. Henderson who have passed to their reward. Bro. R. H. Adams and his good wife came to us from the Baptist church. He was made a deacon and is now 79 years old—our oldest living member.

Rev. J. W. Patton was our next pastor, who rendered us good service for one year.

W. T. Walters served us for awhile, but being a student at Elon, he could not stay, so his place was filled by J. W. Holt. Rev. Holt worked with us two years but being an elderly man and having to come so far, he resigned. His place was filled by S. B. Klapp who stayed with us six years. He, too, was loyal, but his health failed. Then W. S. Long was called and served one year.

R. F. Brown was our pastor the next year. He left to finish his education. The following year Rev. C. E. Newman served faithfully, after whom J. G. Truitt was called. He was our pastor for three years.

Rev. J. E. McCauley came to our church next. He was our second pastor who lived among us and was beloved by all who knew him. He was a teacher in Oak Level High School and lived with us for four years, after which he left to pursue his studies in the University.

Then came to our midst, W. B. Terrell, who stayed with us just a short time, but was loyal and filled his place well.

T. F. Wright was next called. He, too, lived in our midst four years. He was not only beloved by his own denomination but by the others as well.

Bro. M. T. Sorrell, who is our present pastor, has been faithful and has rendered good service. We all love him.

With all of these pastors who have come and gone, four have passed to their reward. Their memory we will cherish, as well as those who still live.

Our good brother, Dr. T. S. Wilson, has meant a lot to us through all these years and his association will live in our memory. For a long time we did not have a pastor to live among us, so Dr. Wilson was called on to marry our young and to bury our dead.

As you notice from the date, the church will be forty years old this coming November. During its forty years existence, there has never been a church trial, fuss, or any disturbances among its members. It was founded for the purpose of making Christ known in the community and it has lived up to its high ideals and purpose. Its name could well be changed to "Harmony Christian Church" at Ingram, Va.

MRS. C. V. DUNN.

IN AND AROUND WINSTON-SALEM.

It was the writer's privilege to be with Dr. W. C. Wicker in an evangelistic campaign at Belews Creek the week of July 26th to 31st, and it was a genuine pleasure to be associated with my former teacher at Elon in this work. Dr. Wicker is beloved by his whole membership, and there is a hopeful outlook for Belews Creek. There is surely a great challenge to the church there. There are a great number of young people and children to whom this fine rural church can minister. Dr. Wicker hopes to make his church a community center for this progressive section.

The first week in August found us in a meeting at Salem Chapel, one of the historic churches of our denomination. Salem Chapel was organized and the house of worship built about 1854, and it has been a ministering hand to hosts of people during these years. It was a genuine pleasure to be in this meeting with Rev. Roy Coulter, the pastor.

Both of these churches, being rural and near Winston-Salem, have been constant feeders to that city. Many members have been lost to the Christian Church because we have had no church in Winston-Salem. There has been talk of beginning a work there for the past quarter of a century, but nothing definite has been started. However, there is a movement on foot now to begin something in Winston-Salem this fall. Dr. Wicker and the writer, upon the suggestion of Dr. J. O. Atkinson, visited in Winston-Salem and met with a sympathetic reception among present and former Christian Church folks. Many are delighted at the prospect of having a church in Winston-Salem. As yet we have not located any Congregational people there, but there surely must be a number, and an effort is now being made to locate them.

Present plans call for a great rally of Christian and Congregational Church people at the Winston Y. W. C. A. on Sunday night, September 13th. Dr. W. Knighton Bloom, secretary of Congregational work in the Southeast will be present, and we are hoping to have Dr. Atkinson, too. We want to make that rally an expression of interest in beginning a work in this fast growing city, and we would like to have people from miles around, who are interested, to come and help make this meeting a great success. A great host of people from Salem Chapel and Belews Creek sections will be present.

Let's begin a work in Winston-Salem!

W. T. SCOTT.

Salisbury, N. C.

NOTICE.

The Mission Board of the Southern Convention will meet in annual session at Suffolk, Va., 9:30 a. m., September 16th. Those having affairs to present to the Board should send the same in writing to the Chairman, Col. J. E. West, Suffolk, Va., or to the Secretary, J. O. Atkinson, Elon College, N. C.

CONGREGATIONAL NEWS

REV. E. C. GILLETTE, Editor; REV. F. P. LNSMINGER, and REV. M. J. SWEET, Associates.

REV. H. M. GRAY, of LaGrange, Ga., recently conducted a successful revival meeting at Mt. Olivet Church.

REV. J. L. BARKER, of Tallassee, assisted pastors Dopson and Nelson in meetings at Balm of Gilead and Union Churches near Eclectic, Alabama.

THE MANY FRIENDS of Mrs. Richard A. McKay, wife of the pastor of Mt. Olive church, Tallassee, Alabama, hope that she will soon recover from her recent operation.

REV. J. BERNARD ROOT and family, after spending a six weeks vacation in the vicinity of Blue Ridge, resume services in the Congregational church of Sanford, Florida, on August 23rd.

REV. ARTHUR G. LYON, D. D., formerly of Arlington Heights, Mass., has accepted the call to the pastorate of the Lake Helen Congregational church and will begin services on September 1st.

WORD HAS BEEN RECEIVED of the death of Mrs. Scott F. Hershey in Lancaster, Ohio. Dr. Hershey, who was pastor many years of the Congregational church at Lake Helen, died several months ago.

REV. THOMAS H. DERRICK, of Orange City, Fla., who is the Department Chaplain of the Spanish War Veterans for Florida, leaves shortly for the National Encampment of that organization in New Orleans for ten days.

DR. C. REXFORD RAYMOND was a busy man at Blue Ridge, where he taught a class and conducted the Vesper Services. He also wrote the happy verse which was sung to the tune of "Annie Laurie" at the wedding supper given in honor of Rev. and Mrs. George Penn.

REV. DAVID B. SPENCER, D. D., is supplying the pulpit of the First Congregational church of Daytona Beach, Florida, for the months of July and August in the absence of Dr. C. Arthur Lincoln. Dr. Spencer is pastor of Mount Dora Congregational church and will resume services there on September 1st.

REV. STANLEY A. GOULD, of Ceredo, W. Va., which is just across the line from Ashland, Kentucky, aided the Blue Ridge Conference by putting out two issues of a conference paper called "Mountain Echoes." He has been helpful in the religious education program which is being carried out around Ashland, Kentucky.

REV. J. MARION DOPSON, of Eclectic, Ala., was ordained at the meeting of the Central Alabama Association. The ordination parts were carried out by Rev. Joseph E. Each, Rev. A. C. Nelson, Rev. Andrew J. Holman and the Conference Superintendent. His father, now along in years, is one of the original Congregational Methodists.

SIX CHURCHES under the leadership of Rev. A. C. Nelson and Rev. J. Marion Dopson will choose two representatives each to consider the organization of a Larger Parish Council. These and neighboring churches are planning big Union Meetings to be held on fifth Sundays of the month, the first coming together being at the Mountain Creek church in November.

THE CONGREGATIONAL AND METHODIST churches of Orange City, Fla., have united for summer services. Rev. Thomas H. Derrick preached to the united congregations during July and early August, while Dr. Murkett was sojourning in Michigan. The services are now being conducted by Dr. Murkett until September 13th. The audiences have been fine during the summer months.

THE SOUTH ALABAMA ASSOCIATION met with Blackwoods Church. Mr. Woods conducted all of the devotional services. Rev. Elmer W. Butler preached the Sunday sermon and conducted the closing communion service. In line with the program the county agents from two counties and home demonstrator of one of the counties told of their work and its benefit to church communities. Miss Davison recorded the reports of churches and Sunday schools on the wall charts. She also conducted a vesper service with a supper and games, and had a Saturday night program for young people where these reports were heard and their problems discussed. Rev. James J. Brudshaw and Rev. Marion L. Thrasher were Association preachers. Misses Lillian McKee and Lorena Primm, of Thorsby, and Mr. Francis Emerson, a Summer Worker from Salisbury, N. C., who had previously conducted Vacation Bible Schools at two churches near Tallassee, assisted Miss Davison in the young people's programs. The Association asked churches and citizens to stand by the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment. Rev. J. C. Butler and Mr. Jack Johnson, church leaders who passed on during the year, were remembered. On the statistical wall charts advance was apparent in church organization and support and missionary giving.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE CONGREGATIONAL-CHRISTIAN PASTORS-WORKERS GROUP.

The Congregational-Christian Pastors and Workers Group meeting at Blue Ridge, N. C., July 27th to August 7th, were summarized thus:

Between twenty-five and thirty people went from the denominational meeting into a session each day for the eight days.

The program dealt with community church work, the needs of the mill towns and of the mountains, the industrial clash, ecstatic religion, a right denominational attitude, interpretative Bible readings and the history and genius of the Christian Church.

The report of the committee on findings is as follows:

"We approve the program; both the contribution of the speakers and the liberty of opinions and manifest fine fellowship of the participants in discussion.

We appreciate the presence and personality of Secretary Halliday of New York City who has brought information and inspiration, and learned more of the extensive and varied work of the Southeast.

It is a matter of congratulation that members of the component Christian and Congregational groups have been indistinguishable in the merger body.

We are happy to say that there was no observable lack of a spirit of devoted community service on the part of the workers.

We recommend the strengthening of a spiritual education program in rural, mill and mountain areas to which devoted ministers, educators, and young people are bringing a larger and truer life.

To offset the devastation of ignorant emotionalism it is well to deal with the problem with the arguments and words of St. Paul.

Another years program may be enriched by the discussion of individual worker's problems. We believe that consideration should be given to action on the part of ministers and Student Summer Service workers as they encounter critical industrial and social situations, particular reference being had to the conservation of the influence of the local churches.

It is important both that the Denomination should co-operate fully with other branches of the Church of Christ, and also that the public should be informed concerning the ideals, aims and activities of our Fellowship.

We strongly advise the issuance in the Southeast of a leaflet setting forth our ideals and objectives. We ask our leader also to use all proper efforts to inform our people at large concerning the extensive and effective work of the Extension Boards in the Southeastern area.

ALVA W. DE JARNETTE
ABRAM W. SPARKS
WILLIAM H. TILLMAN
GERTRUDE M. BRYANT
Committee.

THE BLUE RIDGE CONFERENCE.

Six automobiles for Blue Ridge left Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama and West Florida with Congregational groups just before the M. E. M. Conference. The expeditions were in charge of Miss Mildred Taylor, Pine Knot, Kentucky; Mrs. George L. Day, Robbins, Tenn.; Rev. James M. Davenport, Daisy, Tenn.; Dr. C. Rexford Raymond, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Miss Marguerite Davison, Thorsby, Ala. and Rev. Wm. H. Tillman, Crestview, Fla. The saving of travel cost enabled more people to attend the Conference. The cars were useful at the conference grounds. Most of the parties consisted of five people, who were ministers, extension service and summer workers or young people. Miss Davison is good in arranging parties.

Mr. William O. Gilreath, the principal of the Pine Knot, Kentucky, High and Graded school, made an excellent contribution to the Pastors' and Workers' discussion group at the Blue Ridge Conference by describing mountain conditions.

Secretary A. W. Sparks, of the Blue Ridge faculty told of the Christian Church organization.

Dr. Ernest M. Halliday greatly delighted and helped the group by a program of interpretative Bible readings, and Rev. Lucy Ayers spoke on religious and denominational attitudes which she observed in her work as a traveling preacher in the southeast.

Rev. A. L. DeJarnette had two entire sessions for the description and discussion of most interesting community and co-operative church work. Mr. Allen Keedy related his experience as a summer worker who found himself in the midst of an industrial clash in the coal region of eastern Kentucky. He asked the advice of experienced workers. Rev. George W. Penn told of the needs of the mill town as they presented themselves to a pastor.

Mrs. George L. Day, of Robbins, Tennessee, appeared with others at Blue Ridge as a returned foreign missionary and gave an admirable short talk on experiences in Jerusalem.

Dr. Bloom was heartily chosen Chairman of the next M. E. M. Conference. By some marvelous alchemy he had extricated the Conference from debt, lined up a good faculty and program in co-operation with his committee and secured the largest denominational delegation. Such success calls for more of it.

Miss Dorothy French, of Chattanooga, Tenn., might have been called Dr. Bloom's general assistant at Blue Ridge as she was generally useful.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR

J. O. ATKINSON, ELON COLLEGE, N. C.

ASSOCIATE EDITOR

E. C. GILLETTE

117 W. Forsyth Street, Jacksonville, Fla.

CONTRIBUTING EDITORS

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

S. C. HARRELL

J. E. McCAULEY

NEWS EDITOR

W. C. WICKER

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

(1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.

(2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.

(3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.

(4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship and of Church membership.

(5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

DWIGHT L. MOODY.

One of the most refreshing and wholesome experiences of life is contact with, or study of, a great man. Thomas Carlyle, I think it is, says that, "all history is biography, and we know and have history not through events, but through individuals, for the lives of great men are both index and the mirror of all history." Dwight L. Moody not only was, but is, a maker of history. His life and labors not only found expression and wielding power in his day, but are ever finding new expressions and wielding more power as the years come and go. We know of no life and of no record that should be read with such care and emphasis, and can be read in our day with as much profit, as that of Moody.

It is not necessary now to recall some of the outstanding and notable incidents and events of his life, surprising and monumental as they were at the time. Many of us, for instance, are ignorant of the fact that this layman, unknown to fame, uneducated, almost wholly without training in schools, went to Europe even before he had made a reputation in America and, without recommendation or prestige, taught and preached in Edinburgh, in Glasgow, and in London, till the whole continent was stirred as it had not been for centuries. As the historian says, "Not only Edinburgh, but the whole of Scotland were, according to competent judges, moved as never before." This man, unlettered, untutored, unsung, went to staid and cultured Cambridge and Oxford, and at his first services young English students hissed at him and made fun of his breaks in grammar, in pronunciation and other errors of speech and delivery, but in a few brief weeks he had not only won hundreds of students in these staid old English universities to profession of faith in Christ, but had gripped and won the minds and hearts and hearty acclaim of the teachers and officials of English cultural life. Possibly many of us do not know that when Moody was holding a meeting in Philadelphia, soon after his return from England, that the judges of the Supreme Court, the president of the United States (U. S. Grant) and most of the cabinet, went from Washington to hear Moody preach and were not disappointed. It may be of little consequence to us now that in his life-time this man who did not understand letters, not only charmed and captivated the learned and the unlearned of the great cities of America—Boston, New York, Chicago, St. Louis—but also won his way into the confidence, high esteem and profound respect and admiration of universities and colleges throughout the country.

These, I say, are merely incidents which have faded from memory now, and appear as facts on the pages of history which are of little import. That which is of import, and that which remains, as marvellous and monumental is the fact that a third of a century after this man's voice has been hushed and his body has returned to its mother-earth, the sheer import and inspiration of his personality, is greater and reaches in more directions and touches more lives today than ever before. Every institution, every enterprise, every movement that this man of God gave his hand and heart to while in the flesh, loom up today in larger power and proportions than ever before. Surely it is impossible, wholly beyond the reach of fancy, or the imagination, to esteem the weight and evaluate the worth of this one man's life in the world. The Bible schools and institutions that he planted, the colleges that he founded, the publishing interests that he began, theological and other schools that he initiated, are carrying on today in larger proportion and with greater results than ever before. These things too are matters of mere history which one may learn for one's self. What is the explanation of it? The answer in succinct form is this: "He believed that he knew God; and he believed it with all his soul. To him God was the most unquestioned of realities, an unfailing Presence, a loving Father." In the early years of his life he told a friend "I have decided to give God all my time." "But how are you going to live?" asked the friend. "God will provide for me if He wishes me to keep on, and I shall keep on until I am obliged to stop."

Here, indeed, was a prophet of God yielding his time and talent and all that he was or ever hoped to be to the one Supreme power Whom he trusted implicitly. The historian says of him: "A prophet must have a divinely inspired message. Moody found his in the Bible. That was the one book that he knew, but he knew that book; at least he knew its content, and the vital message it has for the hearts and lives of men. Of most other books he knew but little. His ignorance of art and science and history and music and literature was evident. But he knew the written word of God, and he knew men." To quote again from a history that reveals the secret of this man's amazing power and influence in the world: "He believed in the presence of God, he knew the word of God, he yielded himself to the will of God, he was empowered by the Spirit of God." This explains to the world Dwight L. Moody. He was a God's man, whose public utterance, sole purpose, and consuming passion were all to one end, that he might serve God with all his strength, and make Him known to the day and generation in which he lived, and thus to all succeeding generations.

J. O. A.

VACATION DAYS.

For the most part vacation days are over. One is ready to agree with ex-president Coolidge that a vacation is helpful and necessary. It at least gives one a new perspective and the privilege of beginning again. Nature has set the example and established the precedent. It has its time of vigorous growth, engagement and activity. Then follows its time of relaxation, of recreation and expectant adaptation. Whether we go away from home or circumstances compel us to remain at home, experiences change, the outlook becomes with the season, and the mind itself, as well as the body, goes on a vacation. The body requires this, the mind is driven to it, the soul welcomes it. This is the method by which God keeps his world fresh and free and full and fragrant and new. The running brook with life and expectancy, because the current of time changed at sunset and passed through darkness and the night. Night and day! day and night! these are the processes that counterbalance each other, and purify the stream of time. Cloud and sunshine, sunshine and shower, these are the processes through the atmosphere is clarified and the breath that we breathe brings life instead of stagnation and death. Spring-time and summer! autumn and winter! these are the changes, these are the processes through crops are created, vegetation grows and the earth blossoms, bears its fruit, and comes back again with added strength. God not only creates, He re-creates; He not only gives strength, He gives added strength; He not only gives life, He gives abundant life. "He giveth power to the faint; and to them that have no might He increaseth strength;" saith the Prophet, "and they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; and they shall walk and not faint." For many SUN readers vacation is over beginning with September. The "invitation to live and labor and love and look up," comes with added force and strength, and, grateful for the joys and delights of the past, the mind, peopled with pleasant places and personalities, looks upon future days and tasks with added strength, with increased courage. God gives the days, and by creating us anew with them, gives added strength for increasing task, duties, obligations.

J. O. A.

DOES IT PAY TO BE A CHRISTIAN?

Payments are not all made in money, though men usually think in terms of money when the word pay is in his mind. There are other conditions that satisfy obligations and meet the demands of human society. There are social, moral and spiritual obligations that can be met by words and attitudes. "Honesty is the best policy" is likely to be rewarded by success, if not in money. It pays to be honest in self-satisfaction and reputation. Nothing hurts business more than dishonesty. It damages the character of the man himself and his business, and it makes men suspicious of one another. Nothing strengthens business more than confidence in men. The present conditions illustrate this principle. Men are afraid to trust one another and the future. Depression results from lack of confidence in men, business and the Church. Faith lies at the bottom of all religion and all society. "Without faith it is impossible to please him (God); for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him." (Heb. 11:6). Without faith it is impossible to please man in social life, business life or church life. To lose faith in men and in institutions is to weaken their influence and their value.

One thing is historically true and that is that progressive and prosperous nations are the Christian nations. Pagan nations have never prospered as christian nations. Where Christ is unknown society is ignorant, poor and backward even in civil conditions. In Christian society the most prosperous individuals are those that are most Christian. This is manifest to any reasonable observer of human society. Where there seems to be an exception a careful investigation will show that the prosperity enjoyed is derived from Christian society that makes conditions for prosperity. In any Christian community it will be seen that the leading members of the Churches are the prosperous business men of the town, city or country. Even in this country, the people are most prosperous where churches are located. It pays financially, socially, educationally, politically and religiously to be a Christian. The challenge is to find a community in country or city where there is no Sunday School or Church, that is in as good condition in the home, in the store, in the factory, in the school, and on the farm, as where there is a church that observes the Sabbath and preaches the gospel to the poor. Has property as much value in the slums and the back-woods of the country as in those centers where religion controls the thought, speech, and conduct of society. When society drifts away from the Bible, the Church, and God, it is on the road to distrust, dishonesty and ruin. What this age and this time need is more religion, more faith in God, more faith in His word, and more faith in man—in self and others. W. W. S.

DR. MAYO ON PROHIBITION.

You can get along with a wooden leg, but you can't get along with a wooden head. The physical value of man is not so much. Man as analyzed in our laboratories is worth about ninety-eight cents. Seven bars of soap, lime enough to whiten a chicken coop, phosphorous enough to cover the heads of a thousand matches, is not so much, you see. It is brain that counts, but in order that your brain may be kept clear you must keep your body fit and well. That cannot be done if one drinks liquor. A man who has to drag around a habit that is dangerous and a menace to society ought to go off to the woods and live alone. We do not tolerate the obvious use of morphine or cocaine or opium and we should not tolerate intoxicating liquors, because I tell you these things are what break down the command of the individual over his own life and his own destiny. Through alcoholic stimulation man loses his co-ordination. That is why liquor is no advantage to the brain. You hear people tell how they had their wits quickened for the first half hour by liquor, but they do not tell how later their body could not act in co-ordination with the brain. You will hear on every side men bewail the loss of their drinks, of their personal rights. The few who cannot see ahead or have the future of their nation at heart must be regulated to safeguard that body of future citizens who are ready to step into the ranks. You boys have something ahead of you in the problem of preventing the return of liquor. We have not lived up to our laws, but I repeat, education is that we need to combat this condition. When we have our younger generation completely educated we will not have types to say: "Why should I not have my rights as a citizen?" It is through the boys of today that we hope to see a sound and everlasting prohibition worked in this country. If there ever was any great man who accomplished anything through the use of alcohol I would like to have the fact pointed out. We in the United States have tried to give you a field of action free from the barricades which used to be set up by the legalized liquor traffic: Keep yourselves from all entangling habits. Remember, it's the brain that counts.—Dr. Charles Mayo in the Journal of the National Education Association.

THE USE OF LABELS.

Dr. Snowden, the editor of the Presbyterian Banner, in a recent editorial, makes such excellent use of sentences culled from an address given by Dr. Robert E. Speer, that we are publishing the editorial in full because it is so germane to the times. Calling each other names will not get us far, and yet we are all more or less guilty of this silly practice at times. We think that when we have labeled a man we know all about him and are content to admire him or abhor him in conformity with the label we have attached to him. While this practice obtains strongly in politics, it is not wanting in church circles. Rationalist, reactionary, radical, liberal, conservative, fundamentalist, and modernist, are terms that are sacrosanct or anathema according to the shade of our thought or the bilious condition of our thinking. This is what Dr. Snowden has to say on "The Use of Labels":

"Dr. Robert E. Speer, according to the custom of a number of years, is filling the pulpit of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York during the month of July: that means strong preaching with straight speech uttered with convincing conviction. From a report of his sermon on July 12th we gave this passage: The use of 'labels' to create animosity and distrust among the peoples of the world should be discontinued as 'un-Christian,'" he said, 'Advocating the growth of a "spirit of personal, denominational trust," he warned that "we have to quit this business of partisanship, quit calling each other by factional names." "We know how many names are being bandied around today," he commented. "A man is called a rationalist, a reactionary, a radical, a liberal, a conservative, a fundamentalist, a modernist. There is a sense in which every man ought to be every one of these things." The use of labels to brand men has done a lot of mischief in all our churches. A label may thus become a lie and when fastened on a man may bring him under unjust suspicion and injure him. Yet, as Dr. Speer points out, these labels have a good as well as a bad sense and there is a sense in which every man ought to be every one of these things.

A Rationalist.

"This word may be pronounced in such a tone or used in such a way as to strike terror into the minds of the ultraorthodox and mark a man at once as a bad man; and yet the word itself is perfectly innocent of such connotation and is a good and noble word. Rightly used it means one who uses his reason in his endeavor to find truth and form judgments, and it goes as a matter of course that we ought thus to use our reason. Without reason we are blind, stumbling along in the path of tradition and prejudice, and perhaps governed by ignorance or passion. Reason was given to use and God himself bids us, 'Come now, and let us reason together.' The man of cool reason looks every fact in the face and endeavors to reach sound conclusions on every subject. In this sense every man ought to be a rationalist. But the word has acquired the sinister sense of reason that disdains guidance and relies exclusively upon itself. It repudiates authority and especially divine authority. It casts out the supernatural forthwith and will have none of it. This is in itself unreasonable and we should refuse to narrow the word and use it in this sense.

Reactionary and Radical.

"These differ and yet may be taken together. A reactionary rebounds from anything and acts against it. It is a negative attitude and is suspicious of new things, especially in the line of progress. We ought to react against error and wrong of every kind, but we make a mistake when we have a temper of mind that reacts against truth or good itself when it appears to us in new form.

"A radical is a root; this word describes one who in his attitude and investigation of any thing digs down to its roots. He is not content with superficial facts and views, but wants to know from what they spring and what is at the bottom of them. We ought to be radicals in uprooting evils, for example, the liquor traffic. But this attitude and method also goes wrong when it digs up the good along with the evil, the wheat with the tares. As used in religion and politics a radical is usually a destructionist of what is generally regarded as true and good, tested by long experience, and we are rightly against such an attitude and method.

Liberal and Conservative.

"These two words go in pairs and balance or complement each other. A liberal is one that claims the rights and privileges of liberty, especially in the fields of thought and action. He believes that truth is growing and he is opposed to binding it so as to prevent or hinder its growth. He wants room in which to think his own thoughts, form his own views and breathe through his own lungs. But the danger at this point is that liberty will pass over into license and exercise its liberty in wrong thinking and evil doing, and then it becomes destructive. A conservative is one who conserves what he has. He appreciates the past and holds on to it. He is uneasy about new things and what calls itself progress as means of discrediting and repudiating the past. Such a course would quickly prove ruinous, for we grow out of the past and carry with us its accumulated treasures of truth and life and we would disown the past at our peril. But again we may be a good conservative in that we appreciate and honor and use the good we have, and in a mistaken sense we may be a conservative when we have such hide-bound convictions and dim vision of growing truth that we cannot see and use it.

Fundamentalist and Modernist.

"Another pair of complementary words, both good or bad, according as they are used. Fundamental means foundational, and of course we must have foundations and keep them unimpaired. A fundamentalist, then, is properly one that lays or finds what he believes to be solid foundations which he guards. But when he only guards the foundations and does not build on it rising structures of new truth and life, and especially when he denounces all other men's foundations and says that his only are true and good, he becomes narrow and unbroadly and exhibits an unchristian spirit. A modernist, according to the meaning of the word, is one that holds to truth as it now exists and builds the new into the old and thus brings his total view up to date. He welcomes all growing truth and believes the new and the old can be harmonized into a broader and stronger and richer system. But the modernist is in danger of carrying his principle too far and under-rating or disparaging or sacrificing the old in the interest of the new, and then he becomes a liberal and radical in the unfortunate sense of the words.

It is plain, then, that every man 'ought to be every one of these things,' in their true sense and due proportion; but every one ought to be on his guard against passing from the true over into the wrong sense of these words and becoming one-sided and twisted or extreme and fanatical or an intense partisan so that he can see no side of any subject but his own and thinks that all men are wrong except himself. Truth is very wide and rich and it takes all terms to compass it, and we should welcome and use in its best sense all labels that worthily describe it.—Methodist Protestant-Recorder.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

SEATTLE.

The great Convention was attended by 800 delegates and 3,000 visitors; 6,670 churches were represented with 1,050,000 members and 3,000,000 adherents. It was an important meeting in area, membership, adherents, educational and missionary work. The spiritual influence of such a meeting is not only great in the city where it is held, but when these thousands return to their own churches, communities, and homes, it continues its spirit of inspiration and aspiration for years to come.

The Convention recessed on Monday, June 29, 1931, for an all day auto outing to Paradise Valley, a National Park at the base of Mount Ranier. More than 900 were guests of Seattle Congregationalists in 350 autos, a distance of 103 miles. It was a fine road, a happy throng, and changeable weather. The sun was shining when we started, then it became cloudy, later it rained, and then it hailed, and when we reached the mountain, it snowed. Great banks of snow were piled about the building where the great crowd enjoyed a fine cafeteria dinner.

On the way we passed fountains, geysers, waterfalls, mountains snow-capped in the distance and, at one point, a wild bear with two cubs. The winding way up the mountain furnished thrills for many not accustomed to mountain roads. It was a great day, a great throng, and a great experience. Nature furnishes spiritual as well as scientific lessons for those who have eyes to see, hearts to believe, and minds to interpret God's wisdom in the world he made for man. "The Heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament sheweth His handiwork. Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night sheweth knowledge. There is no speech nor language, their voice is not heard." Psalm 19:1-3. Even the picture of a great artist tells more than he could tell with voice and words. Life speaks much louder than words. After that grand trip the Convention was better qualified to resume its work in the interest of the Kingdom. Time is not wasted when given to the study and communion with nature as God's provision for man. Mount Ranier was not visible with its snowcapped summit on account of the heavy clouds; but that evening when we returned to the city, its snow top could be seen clearly a hundred miles away. All through these western mountains one can see snow caps, geysers, waterfalls, and grand scenes a hundred miles from the road you travel, either by train or automobile. This is a great world and man is improving it all the time. Man was instructed by the Creator to dress and keep the world, and this he has been doing through all the centuries.

The trip back down the mountains through Tacoma was greatly enjoyed and all felt that the day had been well spent. No night is more restful than after a great day out with nature and in association with Christian men and women. The winding way up the mountain sides is a revelation of nature's grandeur and God's artistic designs. Excursions are not only enjoyable but educational and recreative. Mount Ranier and the National Park a hundred miles from Seattle will linger in the minds of the thousand visitors who climbed her heights as guests of the Seattle Congregationalists on that Monday that was not blue but white with snow, sweet with Christian associations, and fraught since then with memories rich in thought, faith, and spiritual purpose to do the will of God.

W. W. STALEY.

VALLEY LETTER.

It was my very great pleasure to be with Rev. R. A. Whitten a few days the latter part of July, in a good meeting at Apple's Chapel. They are a fine people, and it is a rare treat to visit and work with them in a meeting. Brother Whitten tells of the meeting in his letter in THE SUN of August 20th. It was a blessing to me to be there, and I hope the meeting was a blessing to many others. Brother Whitten seems to think that I may be the champion watermelon eater. How I should like to remove every vestige of doubt from his mind and give him conclusive proof that I am. I feel sure I could do that if the supply were bountiful enough, and the melons were of the Apple's Chapel variety.

The Virginia Valley Central Conference met at Mt. Olivet, in Green County, Virginia, August 5th to 7th. We had a good conference. The attendance was good, though, perhaps not quite so good as in some former years, due to the fact that we were meeting at the extreme eastern end of the conference boundary. Mt. Olivet is one of our wide awake churches, and can hardly be excelled in the fine art of extending the hand of hospitality to the stranger within their gates.

All of the churches sent in their reports except Christian Chapel, High Point and Washington. Sixteen of the twenty-seven churches were represented by one or more delegates. In the matter of conference apportionments we are not up to the standard of former years. The total amount paid in is $952.00. The amount paid in last year was $1,240.00, and the year before, $1,448.00. The following are banner churches this year: Bethel, Dry Run, Leaksville, Mayland, Mt. Olivet (G), and Woods' Chapel—six. Last year there were nine, and the year before, sixteen. Isn't it time for us to wake up a little? I wonder if our expenditures for pleasure and luxuries have decreased at the same rate. No church ought to be satisfied with less than it used to do.

The conference voted to have two sessions a year, one meeting one day in March, the date and place to be selected by the executive committee, and the other session to meet on Wednesday and Thursday before the second Sunday in August. Both sessions are to be composed of delegates and visitors as usual. Churches should make note of this, and not forget to elect their delegates to the March session.

No church extended an invitation to the conference next year. The executive committee is ready to receive invitations.

While the March session will be composed of delegates and can transact business, regular reports from churches and standing committees will be expected only at the August session.

The conference was greatly helped by the presence of Dr. W. H. Denison of Dayton, Ohio, who spoke so helpfully on various subjects pertaining to the work of the church and the kingdom. Brother C. D. Johnston represented THE CHRISTIAN SUN and the Christian Orphanage, and Dean A. L. Hook represented Elon College and the cause of Education.

The duties of the new conference year are upon us. What will our answer be?

A. W. ANDES.

Harrisonburg, Va.

FROM ALABAMA.

Last October I organized a Christian Church in Langdale, Alabama, with sixteen members, and at this time we have fifty members. We have a good Sunday School, with an average attendance of thirty-five. We are holding services in the Sears Memorial Building, and have a nice place in which to carry on our work. The mill company is very kind to let us have the use of the building. The church has called me for half-time next year, and I am going to move to Langdale and do my best for I believe that we can do a good work at Langdale.

I helped Rev. C. W. Hanson in a two weeks' meeting at the First Christian Church, LaGrange, Georgia, last January. We had a fine meeting. I then held a two weeks' meeting at Hillside Christian Church. Rev. C. W. Hanson assisted me and we had a good meeting. Rev. Hanson also assisted in a fine meeting at East LaGrange. It seems that this meeting got a hold upon the young people, for since that time the Sunday School has averaged about 75 and the Christian Endeavor about 40. Both organizations are doing fine work.

I have resigned from Hillside and East LaGrange, so that I could accept the call at Langdale and move there and give them half time. Rev. C. W. Hanson has received a call to serve Hillside and East LaGrange Churches.

The first of June, I held a two weeks' meeting at Langdale, Alabama, with Rev. J. D. Dollar assisting in the preaching and S. S. Weir having charge of the music. We had a good revival.

I helped Rev. T. W. Gray at Cavar's Grove for a week, and we had a fine meeting. Four members were added to the church, and the congregation was greatly revived. The first week in August was spent with Rev. R. A. McKay at Mt. Olive Congregational Church, Tallassee, Alabama, and it was a great meeting. Everyone who came to this meeting seemed to get a blessing. Bro. McKay, the pastor, could not be with us in the meeting on account of his wife's illness. She was in the hospital at Birmingham at the time, and Bro. McKay was with her. We were very sorry that he could not be with us. The people at Mt. Olive were fine people, and I certainly enjoyed being with them in the meeting. I shall never forget them, they were so nice to me.

Following this, I held a week's meeting at Forest Home, near Roanoke, Alabama. Rev. J. D. Dollar assisted me, and we had a great time. Everybody that attended the meeting got a blessing.

I will go to Ambrose Christian Church, in South Georgia, the middle of September to help Rev. W. C. Carpenter. Dear readers of THE CHRISTIAN SUN, pray for us that we may have a great revival at Ambrose.

This has been a good year with me and my churches and with the churches where I have helped in revivals, in a spiritual way. But when it comes to the monetary side of life, they haven't it, and I do not blame them, for they cannot help it now. God says that all things work together for good to them that love God, so we will come out ahead anyway.

H. M. GRAY.

DOWN IN ALABAMA.

It was a real pleasure for me to spend two weeks in Evangelistic work with the people in the Alabama Conference.

The week following Sunday, August 9th, I spent with Rev. A. H. Shepherd of Glen, Georgia, in a meeting at Antioch, and it was a meeting indeed. The pastor and people did all they could to make my stay pleasant and the meeting successful. Quite a number did make a confession of their acceptance of Christ and united with the church.

Beginning Sunday, August 16th, and closing Sunday, August 23rd, I was with the church at Roanoke, Alabama, of which the Rev. G. D. Hunt is the beloved pastor. Never was I treated better than by this pastor and people; and never have I found a sweeter fellowship between members of the different churches and pastors. The singing at both meetings was good, and the interest was at a high pitch when the meeting closed.

At these services I met and enjoyed the fellowship of the following preachers. There were of our own church, Rev. G. D. Hunt, Rev. G. Staley Hunt, Rev. Roy Walker, Rev. A. H. Shepherd, Rev. G. H. Veazey, Rev. W. T. Meacham, Rev. Jesse Dollar, Rev. Carl Dollar, Dr. S. L. Beougher. Of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Rev. Ellis and Rev. O'Bryan; of the Disciples, Rev. Mr. White, and of the Baptist Church, Rev. Mr. Moore. Dr. Ensminger represented the Congregationalists.

These men may lack some things which it would be a delight to possess, but they have got "religion." I mean by that, they have the Spirit of their Master, and they are making heroic sacrifices for the sake of the Kingdom of God. In fact the sacrifice being made by both pastor and people is only a little short of the sacrifice shown in the early days of the church.

There is a great field of opportunity in this conference, and someday the conference will have great churches filled with consecrated people—for as sure as God lives, such folks and such sacrifices will be honored by our God.

Both of these churches did experience a revival and received added strength by folks uniting with them.

C. C. RYAN.

Richmond, Va.

FROM REV. G. D. HUNT.

We began our meeting at the Roanoke, Alabama, First Christian Church the third Sunday in August, and closed the fourth Sunday night following. Dr. C. C. Ryan of Richmond, Virginia, did the preaching, and it was well done. The crowds were large and good attention was evident throughout the meeting. The interest increased at each service, the climax being reached at the closing service, in the midst of a packed house. Dr. Ryan did his best, and he was unanimously invited to come back next year.

Twenty-one members were received to fellowship, and four had already been received. We now have a hundred members, and we are planning larger things for the Kingdom. This was the best meeting that we have ever held in Roanoke.

I have been this week at Spring Hill Church, in Clay County, Alabama, where we had a real "spiritual" revival. The people all enjoyed the meeting and were anxious for it to continue, but we closed Thursday at 11 A. M., with a sweet communion service. This was one of the most profound services I have ever attended. The crowd was not large, but was most devout. Our theme was "The Church's Contribution to the World." This little church is greatly revived. When the meeting closed, I remained in the house to say good bye to some of the people, and when I walked out of the church, the people had surrounded my Ford. Brother Arthur Mitchel demanded the key, and they began the operations of loading a car. And when they were through, it was loaded with fresh fruit, canned fruit, dried fruit, sugar, flour, preserves, jelly, and pickles. To finish the job, Brother Tim Orr gave us a fine watermelon. For all of this we thank the people and the Lord.

I have been seven weeks in revival work, and have done all of the preaching except one week. I have two more meetings ahead, and then some more. God bless our church, and may His Kingdom grow like the cedars of Lebanon and flourish like the palm tree.

G. D. HUNT.

E. M. CARTER'S FIELD.

There is a fellowship in a union meeting peculiar to that of any other. It takes away the shade and effect of one's denominational boundaries and permits one to view Christianity in a broader way. In the meeting with Pope's and Wesley's Chapels we had this wonderful effect. The meeting continued through the second week—hindered some by the rain. We received three members by profession of faith, two for Pope's Chapel and one for Wesley's.

The meeting at Good Hope continued for six days, with Rev. N. A. Catlett, of Delmar, Del., as the preacher. We had good attendance, especially in the afternoon. The people here prefer the services in the day time to the night. Mr. Catlett preached fine sermons; and apparently, the people enjoyed the services, but we had no visible results. This church is weak in active membership but strong in church loyalty. Last month we put a new roof on the building and we announced at the close of the meeting that the order for the paint had been given with which to paint the building, inside and out.

The meeting at New Elam began the third

Sunday in August. We had no assistance in the meeting; besides, I had preached in the last three meetings; so we began with a realization of our dependence upon the Holy Spirit and the church. The rain hindered right much, but the attendance was good when the weather permitted, and the co-operation of the church was excellent. The Holy Spirit was present in great power. This church has a great future before it, and we are praying that these possibilities may be developed. Three members were received into the fellowship of the church.

Our last meeting for this year is to be with the church at Mt. Gilead, beginning the first Sunday in September.

E. M. CARTER.

"Today unsullied comes to thee—new born,
Tomorrow is not thine;
The sun may cease to shine
For thee, ere earth shall greet its morn.
Be earnest, then, in thought and deed,
Nor fear approaching night;
Calm comes with evening light,
And hope and peace. Today thy duty heed."
—Ruskin.

OXFORD BIBLES for EVERY NEED

"The Oxford Bible is the Bible par excellence of the world"

THE HOME BIBLE

A Family Bible in Handy Size

An extra large type Oxford Text Bible, containing also, a family register and 12 beautifully colored maps. Size 9 x 5½ inches.

Specimen of Type

16 The LORD is King for ever and ever: the heathen are perished out

Nos. 01600 Superior Cloth, round corners and red edges $2.75

01603 French Morocco, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, head-band, book-mark $4.75

The JUNIOR'S Bible

Self-Pronouncing

With 4,000 Questions and Answers, carefully selected "Aids to Bible Study," 16 beautifully colored and 15 black full-page illustrations, 6 colored maps and a presentation page. Children may readily pronounce correctly difficult Scripture names, as this Bible is self-pronouncing. Size 7 x 4½ x 1¼ inches.

Type in Junior's Bible

2 Take the sum of all the years of the children of Israel, years old and upward, thro

Nos. 1815 French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges, head-bands and book-mark. Make some child happy with one of these fine Bibles $2.95

Child's ILLUSTRATED Bible

The beautifully colored illustrations in this new Bible are a delight to the children. It has clear, readable type and yet it measures only 5½ x 3¾ inches.

Specimen of Type

2 My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the LORD: my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God.

Nos. 02112 French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, gold edges $2.50

Pocket REFERENCE Bible

Has over 50,000 center column references. Measures only 6¼ x 4½ inches. (A splendid gift for a young lady.)

Specimen of Type

9 Behold, "O God our shield, and look upon the face of thine anointed.

Nos. 07523x French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $3.25

Concordance Edition

Type and size as No. 07523x, but with a Concordance, subject index and dictionary of Scripture names. An excellent edition for students and Christian workers No. 03272x $5.00

The Oxford imprint in a Bible guarantees satisfaction

OUR LEADER Oxford Concordance Bible

Self-Pronouncing

This beautiful Oxford India paper edition is indeed the ideal Bible for the student, preacher and evangelist. Each proper name and difficult word is divided into syllables and accented, and though printed with large clear type, the volume measures only 8½ x 5½ x 1½ inches.

Specimen of Type

8 9 10 Jē-hōi'-ā-chin was e years old when he began t

Nos. 03671x. Fine Grain Morocco leather, overlapping cover, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head-bands and book-mark $9.50

A UNIQUE GIFT BIBLE

With Basket Weave Binding

The Antique brown calf leather binding has a basket-weave grain, and button clasp. Has overlapping cover, art silk lined, with red under gold edges. With references. Printed on Oxford India paper. Type as Pocket Reference Bible. $5.50

No. 03255x

As No. 03255x, with concordance. No. 03276x $6.50

Oxford TEACHER'S Bibles

Have over 50,000 center column references, and 300 double-column pages of up-to-date helps, conveniently arranged in alphabetical order. Also 32 full-page illustrations, and an indexed atlas of the Bible with 15 beautifully colored maps of Bible lands.

Easy-to-Read-Edition

Size 7¼ x 5 x 1½ inches

Specimen of Type

14 Like sheep they are laid in grave; death shall feed on th

Nos. 04453. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges. A durable and hand-some Bible $4.35

Oxford India Paper Edition

Only one inch thick

0773x. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, head-bands and book-mark. A beautiful gift edition $7.00

RED LETTER Edition

Same size and type as style No. 04453, with same references and helps, but with all the words of Jesus Christ printed in red. White paper edition No. 05453. French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $5.00

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Secretary.

A PRAYER.

Almighty God, how corrupted and squandered are the strength of youth and the wisdom of years! We look to Thee for the healing of the nations and we bless Thee that not all the people have forgotten thy eternal precepts. Bring Thou to naught every issue that tends to displace thy holy law. Turn back the nations from surrendering righteous concepts. Cause governments to uphold the Sinai banner, "Remember." Restore in believers the faith and zeal by which Christian foundations are preserved. And may thy Kingdom come, we humbly pray. Amen. "L."

THE VOICE OF VICTORY.

If you ever become despondent, before you despair, read the Bible. If you have problems that you cannot solve, read the Bible. If you have doubts, and face dark situations, read the Bible. The Bible faces more problems, confronts more situations, deals with more despair, throws light upon more clouds and darkness than any book ever written. And there is not a despondent line on any page of that Book, nor word of doubt confronting any situation. It is the most optimistic, the most cheerful and re-assuring Book of all time. This is because it is revealing the mind of God, showing us the attitude of God, and declaring the power of God. Nothing is more illustrative of this than the last book of the Bible, Revelation. One can no more analyze that book than one can analyze a grand hallelujah chorus. From start to finish it is a shout of triumph and of victory. And yet the book was written by an old man, homeless, banished, living upon a lonely isle, bereft of friends, deprived of property, and left to die alone. And yet the book he wrote is nothing else than a song of conquest and victory.

John had to clothe his language in figures and mystical forms. Had he written out plainly what he was saying, likely the Romans would not have banished him; they would have hung him. And yet no note in any book is more emphatic of ultimate triumph and assured victory, than the Book of Revelation. It is the Book of song and of certainty. It is the Book of vision and of voice, and in it both the vision and the voice reveal clearly the ultimate and assured victory in the task to which our Lord had set Himself and towards which the ages move. The writer says, "And lo a great multitude which no man could number of all nations and kindreds and peoples and tongues, stood before the throne and before the Lamb;" for declares the writer further, "There are on the East three gates and on the West three gates," showing that men and women from all corners of the earth have admittance and shall be admitted to that City that hath foundations.

In the Bible, sin, wickedness, depravity, are not looked upon as conquering foes and forces, but as inviting fields for service and opportunity. When Jesus looked out over the multitudes of wicked and sinning people He did not raise a voice of despair, but scudded a note of hope, and called the multitude a harvest. "Truly the harvest is plenteous, and the laborers are few, pray ye, therefore, the Lord of the harvest that He will send forth laborers into His harvest." Wherever the wicked and the sinning, the downcast and the downtrodden are, there is a harvest rich and ripe for the service of the Lord.

One recalls in this connection that when Paul looked out and meditated upon a similar scene, "A great door, and an effectual, is open unto me, and there are adversaries. Observe that Paul counted the adversaries as a part of the challenge and coordinate with the open door, and there are adversaries.

There can be no other explanation of all this than the fact that God has committed Himself to the task of giving the gospel of His son to the world. You and I may falter and hesitate and withhold and refuse, but our God is marching on, and having begun the work He will never quit. The work of God, however difficult, and at times depressing, is an assurance of victory.

MISSIONARY OFFERINGS.

WEEK ENDING AUGUST 29, 1931.

Sunday Schools.

Previously acknowledged	$ 4,006.46
Berea (Norfolk), Hickory, Va.	3.40
Randleman, N. C.	1.10
Newport News, Va.	7.00
Durham, N. C.	10.38
Ramseur, N. C.	8.00
Ebenezer, Cary, N. C.	1.27
Monticello, Brown Summit, N. C.	3.00
Apples Chapel, Brown Summit, N. C.	3.00
Wakefield, Va.	1.91
Union (Va.), Virgilina, Va.	2.50
Lebanon, Semora, N. C.	.97
Hopedale, Burlington, N. C.	1.75
Mt. Olivet (G), Dyke, Va.	5.47
Howard's Chapel, Wentworth, N. C.	1.00
Mt. Pleasant, Overhills, N. C.	1.39
Youngsville, N. C.	1.00
Dry Run, Seven Fountains, Va.	1.67
Pleasant Ridge, Ramseur, N. C.	4.17
Hines Chapel, McLeansville, N. C.	2.06
Mt. Bethel, Summerfield, N. C.	1.80

Total $ 4,069.30

Dollar-a-Month Club.

Previously acknowledged	$ 162.00
Mrs. G. R. Abell, Richland, Ga., Church ..	3.00
Irvin L. Alger, (Newport Church), Aliquippa, Pa.	2.00

Total $ 167.00

Specials.

Previously acknowledged	$ 4,373.61
Woman's Missionary Society of Lowell
Christian Church, Roanoke, Ala.	1.00

Total $ 4,374.61

Summary.

Previously acknowledged	$24,553.34
Sunday Schools, Regular	62.84
Dollar-a-Month Club	5.00
Specials	1.00

Total to date $24,622.18

J. O. ATKINSON,
Secretary.

HOLY NECK.

The Missionary Aid Society of the Holy Neck Christian Church has had a very successful year thus far. The year's calendar was planned and discussed at the first meeting of the year, and thus we have had a goal to work toward.

During the year the Aid Society has purchased silver and table linen.

Our regular thank-offering was made in November, and a special missionary program was given under the supervision of our Spiritual Life Superintendent, Mrs. N. G. Newman. "Guest Books" have been used, and the study book, "A Cloud of Witnesses," was enjoyed by all.

In January, a Progressive Tea was given, which was well patronized and a substantial sum realized. The "World Day of Prayer" was observed jointly with the Holland Christian Church Societies. The Fifteenth Anniversary of the society was observed in March, at which time the members entertained their husbands and friends. The annual Lawn Party was held in June.

The study of the book of Romans was begun in February, and we have been using that epistle as our devotional study at the monthly meetings.

Our auxiliary societies have done splendid work this year. The Young People's Society, with Miss Lillye Holland as superintendent; the Willing Workers, under the direction of Mrs. N. G. Newman, and the Cradle Roll, under Mrs. Jesse Harcum, have put on wonderful programs. The annual Cradle Roll Rally was held in June, and a splendid program was rendered by the small tots, at the conclusion of which the superintendent called the roll and each child came forward with his mite box and received a favor.

We feel that our success as a society has been largely due to the untiring efforts of our president and leader, Mrs. E. T. Holland, and to the loyalty and hearty co-operation of every member.

MRS. JUNE DAVIDSON,
Secretary.

NEWS ITEMS.

The Berta Rowland Missionary Society of the Holland Christian Church has made favorable progress during the past year, and is hoping to raise its apportionment. Lessons from the book of Romans were taught by Mrs. W. M. Jay, and the study book, "A Cloud of Witnesses," was studied each Wednesday night at the mid-week services for six weeks.

At Easter time a special musical program was put on and an address by Dr. J. O. Atkinson. Some local work has been done, and a child was given clothing so as he could continue in school.

Plans are being made to give a memorial for Mrs. H. A. Luke, who at the time of her death was an officer of this society. Mrs. J. R. Darden is the wide-awake president, and she has spared no time nor effort in making it a standard society.

MRS. W. M. JAY,
Editor.

KERR MEMORIAL FUND.

As treasurer, I have received to date the following on the Daniel W. Kerr Memorial Fund:

Previously acknowledged.....	$ 17.40
T. J. Holland, Ambrose, Ga.....	1.00

Total..... $ 18.40

This fund is being raised with which to erect a memorial to Daniel W. Kerr, the founder and first editor of THE CHRISTIAN SUN. This worthy and far-sighted man began publishing THE CHRISTIAN SUN in 1844, and edited the same in an office at a spot near Mt. Zion Christian Church in Orange County. The exact spot where the first office is authentically known and should have been permanently marked long ago. Any who desire to help in establishing this Memorial, will please send the funds to me as Treasurer, and the same will be acknowledged through THE CHRISTIAN SUN. A committee from Mt. Zion Church and the Burlington Men's Loyal Bible Class has been created to sponsor the work. This committee has elected me, being the pastor of Mt. Zion Church, as their Treasurer. If every CHRISTIAN SUN subscriber would send even as much as twenty-five cents, the work could be done. It is certainly hoped that many will send much more than this. We will be grateful for any amount that any interested friend may send.

J. F. APPLE.

MISSIONARY PROGRAM FOR SEPTEMBER.

By MRS. W. M. JAY.

Women's Societies.

What to do in September:

Have an enthusiastic rally, making great effort to have every member present at the meeting so as to finish the year's work in good order. See that all dues and special offerings are sent your conference treasurer. In your election of officers be sure to notify your conference treasurer of any change. Invite prospective members to be present and lay plans for a drive for new members and plan work for the new year. Be sure to send in your news items to be published in the CHRISTIAN SUN. As this is the closing meeting of the year, a mite box offering program is suggested. There are many beautiful ways in which this may be observed so use your own ideas along with the following: Make the place attractive so that the very atmosphere of the place will be that of cheerful giving. Devise some unique way of receiving the offering and make it as impressive as possible. Invitations might be sent to all the members in the form of little mite boxes with appropriate verses of scripture or poetry.

PROGRAM.

Opening thought: "God has chosen to work out His designs, not in spite of you, but through you; and where you fail, He halts." "We are laborers together with God."

Hymn: "The Morning Light is Breaking."

Scripture Lesson: Verses of scripture on giving to be repeated by members of society.

Prayer: Singing softly, "Open My Eyes."

Roll call: Answer with the name of a Bible woman.

Did you reach the standard of excellence? Why? A five minutes talk.

Topics for discussion by members of society: "The mite box and its relation to the society."

"When is a mite box a might box."

"Reasons for using the mite box."

Personal benefits in the use of a mite box."

"Mite box experiences."

Leaflet, "The mission of a mite box," by Helen Barrett Montgomery.

Mite box opening.

After all has been received the members may form a circle and sing the consecration hymn, "Take My Silver and My Gold," and close with a prayer.

Business period.

Missionary Doxology.

Mispah Benediction.

Young People's Societies.

PROGRAM OF CHAPTER XI:

"Men and Heroes."

I. Business. 1. Gloria Patri. 2. Invocation. 3. Business, old, new, miscellaneous.

II. Study Period.

1. Leader's approach: A few lessons back we centered our attention upon the first four outstanding Christian Heralds to India; Xavier from Spain, Schwartz from Germany, Carey from England and Judson from America. We ask the question "Who follows in their train?" Since that time we have been making a regular roll call: (a) Professor Ramabai, the noble woman who carried the light behind the curtain. (b) Professor Karne, a Hindu of high caste who caught the Gleam and is helping to give to the woman of India her rightful place. (c) Josephine, the little American girl and her christian parents, who established one of the best kindergarten schools in all India. (d) Mr. Tyndale Biscoe, the persevering Boy Scout Worker. (e) Miss Sutherland, the founder of the great School for Indian Girls. (f) Tom Dodson who gave his life to help the farmers who were imposed on by Indian bankers and traders. (g) Dr. Theodore Pennell, the fearless English physician with a keen sense of humor. (h) Jesus Christ and Dr. Wanless "The Wizard of India," And now today we are to add to the roll five new Indian names: (i) Shivalal, later, "David." (j) Mr. and Mrs. Tilak. (k) Prakash (which means light) a native pastor. (l) Govindrao, his important high caste convert. (m) Lakshman, who together went through a Firey Furnace. I'm going to ask _____ to tell us the story of:

2. Shivalal, the boy after God's own heart. (pages 160-165) a member.

3. Tilak, A Christian Poet (pages 165-166); a member.

4. "Mr. Sight" and "Mr. Truth," Pastor and Police. (pages 166-169) a member.

5. Lakshman, the survivor of a Firey Furnace (pages 169-171) a member.

6. Conclusion to chapter and preparation to worship period: Of course we realize that there are countless others whose names are "stars in the sparkling galaxy" shining in India. We cannot know them all now. But what a brilliant assembly they will make some day! Let us try to be worthy of a place among those who have made India a happy place in which to live! If we really achieve this goal, we could do no better than adopt Shivalal's goal and strive to be "After God's Own Heart."

III. Worship Program.

Theme: "After God's Own Heart."

1. Instrumental Prelude: Nearer My God to Thee.

2. Call to worship: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself."

3. Hymn: "Father in Heaven, Who Lovest All."

4. Scripture: Romans 10:1-15.

5. Prayer.

6. Offeratory Service: Pianist playing softly, "Follow the Gleam," while offering is being taken.

7. Hymn: "Saviour, Hear Us, We Pray," (very softly with bowed heads.)

PROGRAM OF CHAPTER XII.

"All Kinds of Brothers."

I. Business. 1. Gloria Patri. 2. Invocation. 3. Business, old, new, miscellaneous.

II. Study Period:

1. Leader's approach (with contents of first paragraph, page 175.)

2. Lighting the Leper's Way (pages 175-177) a member. (Perhaps this scene might be dramatized.)

3. Reclaiming the "Criminals" (pages 178-187). A reliable boy member.

4. East and West together (page 188 to last paragraph on page 192). A girl member.

5. Leader's conclusion and transition from Study to Worship Program. (The last paragraph is suggestive.)

III. Worship Program:

Theme: "Of One Blood."

1. Instrumental Prelude: "The Morning Light is Breaking."

2. Call to Worship: "And" (God) "hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth." Acts 17:26.

3. Hymn: "In Christ There is no East or West."

4. Scripture: "The Great Commission." Matt. 28:16-20.

5. Prayer: Pray for the Universal brotherhood of men; for a zeal to follow the Star of Jesus to the ends of the earth if needs be just as did the Wise Men from the East years ago. That we may have a part in showing its beauty to our brothers and sisters of the East who yet remain in darkness.

6. Offeratory Service: Pianist plays softly, "Follow the Gleam," while offering is being taken.

7. "Bless Be the Tie That Binds."

8. Mizpah Benediction.

NOTE: There is an easy Alto-Soprano Duet by McAfee, and published by Lorenz Publishing Co., Dayton, Ohio, entitled, "The Heart of God" that would fit most beautifully in program XI.

These lovely programs for the entire year were prepared by Mrs. Stanley C. Harrell, Durham, N. C., and no doubt our young people's societies have gained a keen insight of this wonderful book through them. We appreciate her work.

Willing Workers or Juniors.

Let this be a meeting to elect officers for the coming year. It would be well to have a committee meet the week before time for the meeting and make a simple invitation to be sent to each member. If mite boxes have been used, have some attractive way planned to receive them at this time. As there will be some business, only a short worship service may be used to open.

Worship Service.

1. Song: "Jesus Loves Me."

2. Scripture: Psalm 100.

3. The Lord's Prayer in unison.

4. Song: "I Love to Tell the Story."

5. Offering or mite box opening.

6. Song: "Fling Out the Banner."

7. Benediction.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1336 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

COMBINATION OFFER—To a new subscriber or for renewal, $2.25, either Gentlemen's (Capitol) Pen or Ladies' Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. And to "Sun" subscribers, not in arrears, any Pen at one-fourth off. Address:

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN

LADIES' PENS, $2.00.

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us. Postage paid and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer. MEN'S PENS—Capitol, $2.00; Mercantile, $2.50; Cardinal, $3.00.

ADVENTURES IN YOUTH FELLOWSHIP

"Youth at Work in the Church."

JEWEL TRUITT, Editor, Waverly, Virginia.

YOUNG PEOPLE OF VALLEY CONFERENCE HOLD "YOUTH FELLOWSHIP" BANQUET.

Everyone present at the Virginia Valley Central Congregational-Christian Conference, which met with the Mt. Olivet Christian Church in Greene County, August 5th, 6th, 7th, realized that the young people played an important part in the work of our churches. This fact was in evidence during the general sessions of the Conference by the excellent talks of Thelma Morris and Fred Miller, incoming Sophmores at Elon College, and by the readings and music presented by Misses Ethel Boone, Dorothy Miller and Doris Renigar, all of the Christian Orphanage.

The mountain peak of the young people's part in the Conference was reached on Thursday evening when the Youth Fellowship Banquet was held in the Dining Hall of the Blue Ridge Industrial School. The committee in charge, headed by the efficient President and Vice-President of the Youth Fellowship, Miss Dofflemeyer and Mr. Morris, went to a good deal of trouble in preparing this banquet. The committee consisted of an optimistic group. They ordered a minimum of seventy-five plates and had more than a hundred tickets printed before the Conference opened. When Conference opened and other young people began to arrive the committee began to sell tickets and to encourage all the young people who were delegates and visitors to attend the banquet.

Thursday evening at seven o'clock there appeared a happy group of young people and those interested in young people's work. This jolly crowd was soon lined up and led to the Dining Hall by Rev. B. J. Earp, toastmaster, and his competent assistants, Miss Dofflemeyer and Mr. Morris.

Due to the unavoidable absence of Dr. Mayo, President of the Blue Ridge Industrial School, his personal representative, Mr. John Morris, welcomed all present in behalf of the School. To this hearty welcome the Youth Fellowship President, Miss Leona Dofflemeyer responded. She in turn extended the welcome to all guests on behalf of the Youth Fellowship organization. To this welcome Dr. W. H. Denison responded in a few well-chosen remarks of a congratulatory nature.

After a few appropriate jokes had been told and a portion of the excellent food had disappeared (much to the satisfaction of all), Toastmaster Earp turned the attention to Miss Dofflemeyer who presided during the election of officers for the coming year. The election resulted in the President and Vice-President exchanging places and Mr. Billy Andes becoming the new Secretary-Treasurer. The new officers pledged their support in brief talks.

Following the election of officers Mr. Alfred A. Dofflemeyer, former student at Elon College and at present on the faculty of the King North Carolina Schools, addressed the group on "The Why of Young People's Work." Mr. Dofflemeyer stressed Brotherhood and University Peace as necessary forward steps. He showed the practical side of cooperation among both old and young, and declared it to be a modern necessity. "Doffy," as he is familiarly known to many, stressed the fact that if we put all we have into the Church, all that we need will come back to us.

The President of the Valley Conference, Rev. R. L. Williamson, was present and spoke to the group assembled. Rev. A. W. Andes also adressed the banqueters. Mrs. A. W. Andes directed the songs and a few stunts and contests.

Soon, all too soon it seemed, the time had come to pronounce the benediction. But even that was not the last feature of the banquet because it was suggested that the Elon College song be sung. Thus, the first banquet of the Youth Fellowship in the Valley Conference, adjourned with the joining of nearly one hundred voices in praising an institution which many of the group had attended and an institution dear to the hearts of all.

The banquet was followed by a special young people's message delivered in the school auditorium by Dr. W. H. Denison. Dr. Denison's address included some excellent humor and was centered around the theme "What Can We as Young People Do for the Church?" He stated that Christ wants us: First, "To develop potential qualities of leadership." Second, "To initiate and promote a part of the Church's activities." Third, "To train in real worship."

"A 'PRAYER' PRAYER MEETING."

By MRS. W. B. WILLIAMS.

(This program was worked up from an idea I found in the 'C. E. World' about two years ago. It might be used when the topic is "Prayer.")

Prelude:—"Sweet Hour of Prayer."

Call to Worship:—

'Dear Lord, who sought at dawn of day
The solitary woods to pray,
In quietness we come to seek
Thy guidance for the coming week.'

Topic:—"Let Us Pray." "Jesus Teaching Us to Pray."

Hymn:—"Sweet Hour of Prayer."

Scripture:—Matthew 6:5-13, and comments.

Hymn:—"Abide With Me."

Opening Talk:—"Jesus Teaching Us to Pray."

Varieties of Prayer:—

1. Silent Prayer:—(Explanation of Silent Prayer.)

Period of Silent Prayer:—(Play softly one verse of "Sweet Hour of Prayer.")

2. Sentence Prayer:—(Explanation of Sentence Prayer.)

Sentence Prayers:—Led by . . . Closed by . . .

3. Directed Prayer:—(Explanation of Directed Prayer.)

Period of Directed Prayer:—(Play softly "Sweet Hour of Prayer.")

4. Written Prayer:—(Explanation of written Prayer.)

Have someone read a Prayer.

5. Public Prayer:—(Explanation of Public Prayer.)

Have someone offer Prayer. (Give the above five talks to five Endeavorers.)

Hymn:—" 'Tis So Sweet to Trust in Jesus."

Pantomime:—"The Beautiful Garden of Prayer."

(Arrange the platform as a garden. Have a girl dressed in a long white robe—preferably a girl with long hair, as it looks very beautiful with the light shining on her head—enter the garden as the song is sung, and kneel as in prayer. Have all lights turned out and a flashlight focused on the girl.) Have the hymn sung as a solo. Have the picture "Christ in Gethsemane" placed on a table or pedestal in the center of the room, have either lighted candles on each side of it or keep the flashlight on, while the pastor or some other able person (without announcement, but immediately as the last strains of the above hymn is heard) tell the story of "Christ in Gethsemane."

Closing Hymn:—"My Faith Looks Up to Thee." Benediction.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

September 13, 1931.

TOPIC:—"What Our Meetings Should Accomplish."

SCRIPTURE: II. Peter 1:5-11.

The purpose of this meeting is to check up on what the Society is trying to do. It is inventory time. Even organizations need to take inventory to keep from getting in ruts. Plan this meeting for general discussion of topics presented here and others that may suggest themselves as the past year's work of your society is checked over.

Some of the things our Sunday evening meetings should accomplish are:

I.—Increase Store of Knowledge of Individual Society Members.

It is not to be thought today that each person can live his own life alone. Every person is related to hosts of others. Public health, public education, public welfare—all these are common terms today. To safeguard one's self, he must help safeguard others. To protect one's own child, the children of others must be protected. No thinking person can close his eyes to the strides of the "laboring man," to the sweat-shop system, to child labor, or to lawlessness. The time has come when all must pull together, or the situation becomes worse than at first.

II.—Teach of Christ and His Way of Life.

We learn of Christ from our Bible. We can also learn of Him from other men and women. It is important to know how statesmen, historians, men of affairs, men of science, musicians, teachers, poets, and writers, feel about Him.

In our society meetings we should learn how to develop the Christian qualities becoming to followers of the lowly Nazarine; the qualities listed in our Scripture, faith, courage, knowledge, temperance, patience, godliness, virtue, brotherly-kindness.

III.—Train in Worship.

This important part of the spiritual life of the members should find expression in each Society meeting. Group worship is helpful. Real worship should be carefully planned for and expected.

IV.—Unite the Group in Serving Christ.

To be "hearers only" is not enough. We must work. Working together binds a group into unity of mind and purpose. When the whole world shall learn to serve Christ together in unity this will be a happy world.

V.—Win Members and Other to Christ.

There is something lacking in the Society that is repeatedly unable to attract its associate members to Christ and win them for His service. Make your Society a soul-winning group.

VI.—Develops Leaders.

Christian Endeavor is a training school. It is an organization that gives inspiration. In the Christian Endeavor we learn from others, work with others, help others with our own ideas and experiences. In doing these things Christian Endeavor challenges its members and gives tasks to leaders and workers in its ranks.

Daily Readings.

Sept. 7th—I. Cor. 12:4-12.

Sept. 8th—Psalm 84:1-4.

Sept. 9th—Hebrews 10:24-25.

Sept. 10th—Acts 1:12-14.

Sept. 11th—I. Cor. 12:25-31.

Sept. 12th—James 1:22-27,

Sunday School Lesson

By REV. H. S. HARDCASTLE.

SOME MISSIONARY EXPERIENCES.

LESSON XI—SEPTEMBER 13, 1931.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Blessed are they that have been persecuted for righteousness' sake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven."—Matt. 5: 10.

LESSON: Acts 14; Eph. 6: 10-20.

Iconium.

In keeping with their custom Paul and Barnabas went into the synagogue with the Jews, as the best place to make contact with the people, especially with those who would have the background of a knowledge of a true God. "They so spake that a great multitude both of Jews and also of the Greeks believed." This is the goal of preaching and Sunday School teaching—to help people into the larger faith and into a more vital way of life. The central impulse of the preacher or teacher ought to be to speak in such a way that those who hear them shall believe. And of course it needs to be said that they should live in such a way that their lives will help rather than hinder the message. "But the unbelieving Jews stirred up the Gentiles and made their minds evil affected against the brethren." There are always those who seek to obstruct the influence of the gospel message, and to thwart the coming of the kingdom. Truth has no easy way. It must make its way against unbelief and opposition.

"Long time therefore they abode there speaking boldly in the Lord." These men knew that they were right, and they had evidence that God was on their side. They were therefore not afraid to go on with their work and they did not become discouraged or faint-hearted even though the going became rough. It is significant, however, that they did not presume upon the providence of God and when an assault was made on them they departed into another city.

Lystra.

Paul and Barnabas had a remarkable experience at Lystra. A certain lame man who had been a cripple from his birth so appealed to Paul and so impressed him by his earnestness and faith, that Paul commanded him to stand upon his feet. A remarkable thing happened—the man leaped up and walked. "Stand upright on thy feet"—it was the command of an apostle to a hopeless cripple. But it was also one of the central messages of Christianity. One of the chief glories of the gospel of Jesus Christ is that it takes men and women who are down and out, who are crippled, who see life from lower levels, and who have distorted perspectives, and causes them to stand upright and to walk in paths of righteousness and in ways of faithful service.

The gracious act of Paul almost got him into trouble. There was an old story that Jupiter and Mercury had once come to earth and had not been received by the people. The people of Lystra were going to make sure that this did not happen again, and mistaking Barnabas and Paul for these two gods the priest brought oxen and garlands unto the gates and were going to offer sacrifice to them. Paul's report contains some significant statements. He told the men that he and Barnabas were simply ordinary men like themselves and that whatever good they might be able to accomplish was simply due to the fact that they had yielded themselves to the one true and living God. He told them that their purpose in the city was to turn them from vain things unto the living God. He told them that God had not left himself without witness, but had been making himself known through the blessings which he had bestowed upon them. And yet it was with difficulty that Paul restrained the people from making sacrifice unto them.

Derbe.

Bigotry and prejudice die hard, and the Jews from Antioch and Iconium stoned Paul and threw him out of the city supposing him to be dead. As soon as he recovered, however, he was up and off for Derbe where they preached and taught the people. There is a persistence and a passionate loyalty to Jesus Christ about Paul that should shame us with so much of our indifference and compromise.

Turning Toward Home.

Paul had the heart of a pastor. He turned back therefore to visit the cities from which he had been driven in order to confirm the souls of the disciples and to encourage them to continue in the Christian faith. It is rather significant too that he frankly told them "That we must through much tribulation enter into the kingdom of God." Paul knew that disease and accident and trouble and death were no respecters of persons or of character. Being a Christian does not render one immune to any or all of these things. But Paul did know that over-ruling all these things there was a conquering purpose for inclusive love that made all these things work together for good to all those who loved God.

He also ordained elders undoubtedly men of maturity and integrity of character who were the natural leaders in the church.

Home.

And then they turned back to Antioch. What feelings he and Barnabas must have had as they thought about the experiences they had had since they left the home church. What joy they must have had as they realized what they had been able to accomplish by the grace of God. And what an inspiration the home church had as it heard the story of these things and realized that they had had a part in it. What a difference it would make in the life of the churches which support missionaries or those who contribute to the missionary enterprise if they could see just at first hand what their dollars and prayers do on the mission field.

NOTICE.

I am making a change in churches this Conference year, and will be glad to correspond with any church or churches desiring my services in regards to church work.

W. B. FULLER,
313 Greene St.,
Harrisonburg, Va.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the number and price.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, and 1 3/4 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3/8 x 8 Inches, and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

Minion Type, Pocket Size, 4 x 6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold.....$1.60

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.50

2173—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges.....$6.00

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 16-16 of an Inch Thick.

133X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 5 3/8 Inches, and 1 inch thick, with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 5 3/8 Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.

65—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps.....$2.50

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3/8 x 8 1/4 Inches and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With Concise Bible Dictionary, combined Concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.75

RED-LETTER EDITION.

With All the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands; title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations; special book for Sunday Schools.....95c

Any of the above Bibles sent postpaid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY H. E. ROUNTREE
One of our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"O Lord, I beseech thee, let now thine ear be attentive to the prayer of thy servant, and to the prayer of thy servants, who desire to fear thy name, and prosper, I pray thee, thy servant this day."

MONDAY.

IF—AND WHAT—?

"I will walk before the Lord in the land of the living." Psalms 116:1-9.

If Israel loved the Lord—they who knew nothing about Jesus Christ the Son, and a personal Saviour—how much more should we who do know Him as the deliverer of our souls from darkness, sin and death?

Through Jesus, our Saviour, we have love, joy, peace and salvation. He has gone before us and given us a heritage in Heaven. He hath delivered us from many temptations and dangers; He keeps and helps us, and tries to fulfill His purpose in us. It makes us feel very unworthy, so far short of meriting these blessings. Well may we ask with David, "What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits toward me?"

Prayer.—Of our hearts we love thee, dear Lord; but we earnestly beseech thee to quicken that love to the fullest extent possible and to praise thy holy name. Amen.

TUESDAY.

ONE SPIRIT.

"There is one body and one spirit . . . one hope of your calling, etc." Eph. 4:1-6.

All believers are united in the love of Jesus Christ. Though strangers on earth, they march together toward Heaven, and their hope is that they may dwell together in the same glory beyond the pale of this fitful world. Jesus is leader and Saviour of all; all have the same standards to fight for, and at last all shall stand before the same judgment seat.

The great admonition is: do not violate this holy unity, but prove to the world our discipleship. To do this, we are called upon to walk lowly and meekly, long suffering, forbearing one another in love, presenting an unbroken front in the fight against sin and all those things that mar love, unity and the bond of peace.

Prayer.—Lord Jesus, unite thy children and help all of them to obey Thee in walking in lowliness of mind and love. Give us grace to see the other's good and follow thy example to wash their feet in the spirit of humility and love. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

ONLY INCREASE?

"Fulfil Ye my joy." Phil. 2:1-4.

Paul rehearses the Christian graces and the elements of Christian character, and then asks, Do ye increase in them more and more?

We are reminded of the teachings of Jesus in the parables of the talents wherein to do well in an honest effort for increase is the only acceptable thing. It reminds us of Christ's own words, "I have . . . ordained you that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain."

To do this, Paul says we must walk in lowliness of mind, love others better than ourselves, mortify our own pride with the mind of Jesus, increase in charity, and fulfil the joys of life by living in a continuous undisturbed purpose of fellowship in love.

Prayer.—Lord Jesus, give us thy lowly and loving mind, and keep us steadfast in the effort to perfection. Prevent the devil from entering in, and when tempted, enable us to overcome. Amen.

THURSDAY.

HUMILITY.

"Whosoever will be great among you, let him be your minister; and whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant." Matt. 20:25-28.

This is a heavenly lesson which the carnal mind is unable to grasp; but to the spiritual minded, it is a word of wisdom and an experience of happiness. The world says, the great are great, the mighty are mighty, the ruler rules, but Christ says, the least are the greatest, the weakest are the most mighty, and the servant is the ruler. There is nothing which the Lord said any greater number of times than this, "Whosoever shall exalt himself shall be abased; and he that shall humble himself, shall be exalted." This means to let one's condition be that which God has ordained, whether honored or obscure, that is, not to desire to be great but to regard one's self as a servant. This is the true dignity of love and manhood. Remember what Jesus told the mother of Zebedee's children.

Prayer.—Lord Jesus, give us thy love. Let us come near thee. Give us hearts like thine. Give us the true idea of ministering on earth, that we may live in the power of redemption, love and peace, and devote ourselves wholly to service for the good of things and folks around us. Amen.

FRIDAY.

WHAT WILL YOU DO?

"Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." Luke 14:1-6.

The Scriptures through and through warn us against the pride of the Pharisees who challenged the Saviour in his use of the Sabbath.

The world makes Sunday a day on which to indulge the flesh. James says that pure religion consists in keeping one's self "unspotted from the world." It would seem, therefore, that the superior ways of keeping the Sabbath would be to worship God and pray; take His word within our hearts and apply its life to ours; to make it a day of rest and recreation of body and soul; to "draw out thy soul to the hungry and satisfy them;" to indulge the flesh to that extent which makes the Sabbath a superior delight holy unto the Lord; then He will cause us to "ride in the high places of the earth" and "feed us with His heritage."

Sunday is two days ahead of us. How are we going to spend it? Our automobile and friends, and the beaches, summer resorts, etc., will attract us, and the appeal of indulgences may cause us to forget what we owe Him, and we will become strangers to the church. It is urged that fathers, mothers guardians and all those who have the direction of the life of children, or a child, think of the importance of this in their lives and set the example right.

Prayer.—Lord God, give us humble hearts, that we gladly hear thy word and keep it as our most precious treasure. Give us power to mortify the lusts of the flesh and to rise to life in Jesus, to God forever. Amen.

SATURDAY.

"MAKE US."

"Blessed are they that dwell in thy house." Psalms 84:1-7.

The "Courts of the Lord" in olden times were the tabernacles, later the temples. The true courts of the Lord now are the great realm of Christian living of which the church and the cross is the symbol. This is where the valleys of tears are turned to wells of refreshing and delight, and where the Lord reigns and blesses those that dwell in his house.

It is the realm of the heart. "Keep thy heart with all diligence, for out of it are the issues of life."

Prayer.—O Lord God of Hosts, hear our prayers. Make us—dear Lord, make us—make us to feel in our hearts that a day in the Courts is better than a thousand; that thou art our Christ; that thou will give grace and glory; that thou wilt withhold nothing good from us if we walk upright. O Lord, God of Hosts, make us. Amen.

SUNDAY.

TRUE OR FALSE—WHICH?

"Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled." Psalm 42:1-5.

True Christians long after righteousness, have an imperative desire for communion with God in their hearts. They cannot do without him. When there are divine services, or the church doors are open, with the instinct of a child in search for its mother's breast, they feel the necessity to be present, and when unable to be present, they miss it. A thirsty person needs no command to drink. What is the answer when there are offered so many silly excuses for absence at church? Yet the Lord enjoins us to "remember."

Friends, it is a dead feeling when one goes on day after day without God, prayers or something devotional to satisfy the soul. He who has no desire for the Courts of the Lord, how can he have a part in the Kingdom?

His word keeps from despair; keeps hope alive; guides in ways of helpfulness, pleasantness and peace. His word and His way are shields and weapons. They are the light and comfort of all saints.

Prayer.—Dear Lord, thy word doth abide, and thou art by our side. Grant us the gifts of the spirit, and the desire to enter into thy Courts of praise, thy temple of worship and thy Kingdom of love. Amen.

COLORS PUT AWAY BY NATURE.

One of the dense jungles on earth today lies along the Motago river in Guatemala. Should nature, by the process of the coal age, transform that jungle into a coal seam, it would be only a few inches thick. What a forest of tree life it must have been to produce the seams of coal which we mine today. One of the thickest on record is 66 feet. While nature was storing away the sun heat captured by the prehistoric jungles, nature also put away the color of that tropical world. Within the last 50 years chemists have discovered vats of every imaginable color concealed in gummy black coal tar. Modern styles for women's clothing quickly took possession of these color "mines," so our avenues are brilliant with the hues of luxuriant herbage which we may imagine beautified our earth, millions and millions of years ago.—National Geographic Society Magazine.

NOTICE.

Dr. W. A. Harper will be glad to rent his 12 room home at Elon College with all modern conveniences, furnished completely, to some one who wishes to spend the winter and educate his children at our college in Piedmont North Carolina. Here is a fine opportunity for some one. Address Dr. W. A. Harper, 1366 E. 57th St., Chicago, Ill.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN'S PULPIT

REV. JOSEPH W. FIX, Preacher.

WHAT IS THE CHRISTIAN LIFE?

By REV. ALMON O. STEVENS.

Delivered before the Young People's Conference at Stearnes, Kentucky.

"Where is the guest-chamber, where I shall eat the passover with my disciples?"—Luke 22:11.

Our young friends have been conferring respecting the Christian life. What is the Christian life? To this question various and confusing answers have been given. One person informs us that it is to be saved. Possibly it is—provided we mean something vital by being saved, and not being vaccinated against future punishment.

Another tells us that the Christian life is accepting a creed. But no intelligent person can accept another's creed. Our creeds—if they be real—are hammered out on the anvils of our own souls. Others may help by suggestion and guidance; but we make our own creeds if they are real.

Or we are told that the Christian life is the observance of certain forms and ceremonies. Forms and ceremonies have their value. They are the robes of religion, the setting of the jewel, the halo about the sun. They are not religion, nor the jewel nor the sun.

Many persons tell us that the Christian life is conduct. This is not far from the truth; but it is not all of the truth. Virtuous conduct is a pure stream in the high hills. But there would be no mountain stream unless there were a fountain higher in the hills. The Christian life is the fountain whence the stream of conduct flows.

The Christian life is living with God. It is living in the conscious sense of the Most Holy Presence. It is dwelling in Him as the branch dwells in the vine. If this sounds mystical, then all high truth is mystical. And it is by the high truths that we are to live.

We need the immediate presence of God if we are not to lose our way in this difficult world. As many of the pioneers bound for Kentucky were lost in the wilderness, so it is easy for us to become lost in the perplexities of life.

How confusing our advisers are. One tells us that we should have all the good times we can; another solemnly warns us to avoid worldly amusements. One bids us postpone Christian baptism until we have become mature, another asks us to consecrate our children by this holy rite in earliest infancy. One bids us to be thrifty, laying up means for a time of need; another tells us that we should not lay up treasures on earth. One bids us be governed by the Bible or the rules of the church; another bids us to think for ourselves.

One person bids us to love our country, to fight for it when danger threatens, and to die for it if need arise; another tells us that the love of country is the root of all evil, and asks us to pledge ourselves not to fight even in a just cause.

How shall we extricate ourselves from this tangled maze?

There is but one answer: Receive the Spirit of God and walk by His guidance. Who honestly and sincerely seeks the companionship of the Great Guide, who is reverent and devout, may make mistakes, but will not go far astray.

We need the presence of Him who ate the passover with His disciples in the guest-chamber, that we may be able to resist the evil influences of the world. Ever since the beginning of history man has been compelled to fight for his virtue. There are the age-old temptations of strong drink, the sin of unchastity, gambling, and the uncontrolled temper. In the counties from which these young people come, half the youth ruin their lives with vice. We make vast sacrifices to send our boys and girls to college and university; but a large proportion of them spend their nights in revelings, wasting their substance in riotous living; coming home unfit for marriage, unfit for professions, unfit for citizenship. What are we going to do about it? Blame college and university authorities for not doing for youth what we cannot do for them? What are you going to do about it? Going with the crowd, even though the crowd seems to be going to destruction?

The problem of right and wrong is very simple. Donald Hankey, the soldier without reproach, who like Sir Philip Sidney, died gloriously on the field of battle, has told us in his book, "The Student in Arms." Speaking of the evils of militarism and the vices of camp life, he avers that practically all men are immoral except those who are saved by a great love or a great purpose.

Young men, there is one thing that will save you from evil—two things: the love of a pure and high-minded girl, and the love of God. Young women, there is one thing that will save you from flippancy, from immodesty, from badness—yes, two things: the love of a manly man, and the love of your Saviour.

We need the Great Companion to comfort us in our sorrows, and help us to bear the overwhelming burdens of life. To young people this may seem something far-away—but not very far-away. Our path may seem to be flower-lined, but just around the corner trouble awaits us. Even youth is not exempt. Youth knows its heartaches and heart-breaks; youth has its disappointments and disillusionments. When I was very young in the ministry, I was called to comfort the parents of a promising young woman, preparing for her life work, but who overcome by the burden of sorrow which she saw on every side, on a bright summer Sunday morning like this—threw herself into lake Michigan. Youth is not exempt from the bitter cup. Jesus and His disciples—who were young men—rode to Jerusalem on Palm Sunday over a carpet of garments and palm branches. But only four days ahead was Gethsemane; and but five days ahead was Calvary.

How shall we fare when the storm breaks? Will we go down in the troubled waters? or will we ride the storm out in triumph? He who keeps company with the Christ will ride the storm out. Religion may not save us from sorrows; but it turns all sorrows into sweetness.

How shall we acquire this overwhelming sense of the Master? How shall we make ourselves very sure of God? How shall religion become vital to us?

In part, by doing Christly things. I am not an authority on teaching; but I have a few ideas. When it comes to vital things, I think we learn very little from instruction. We learn rather by association, example, inspiration, and by doing.

How did we learn our wonderful English language, with its richness of expression, its infinite tenderness, its seriousness, its beauty and dignity? By studying rules of grammar? By parsing its words and analyzing its sentences? Not I. We learned it rather by listening and by speaking. We learned by doing.

So we learn Christ chiefly by doing Christly things. He who spoke like Arnold Tonybee and Jane Addams, like Florence Nightingale and Clara Barton, spends himself bearing a cup of cold water to the thirsting; who accomplishes what little he can to relieve the distress of the weary and heavy-laden people who in these hard times come trooping to the Red Cross; he who in public (Continued on page 15.)

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATED.

The Silver-plated Ware is of the very highest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 85. 11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plated; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling). $22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90. 14.00

Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim..... $ 9.00
Bread Plate No. 4—Broad rim..... 9.00
Filler—Silver lined 6.00

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, - - Richmond, Virginia

RELIGIOUS BOOKS

Reviewed by

W. A. HARPER, BOOK EDITOR.

(Any book reviewed in this Department may be had of The Christian Sun at the publisher's price.)

BY THE WATERS OF BABYLON. By Louis Wallis. Macmillan; pp. 222; $2.00.

A well-known biblical and sociological scholar, in this book using the thrilling method of the novel, makes the story of ancient Israel live anew. The viewpoint of modern biblical scholarship is maintained throughout, as the relations between a wealthy Jewish family and a poor family of a South Judean village are dramatically described. To begin the book is to finish it. W. A. H.

THE SUN'S PULPIT.

(Continued from page 13.)

matters walks in the footsteps of Washington and Lincoln and Wilson and Hoover, will learn of Christ. "The dyer's hand is subdued by that it works in."

It is thus that men become soldiers; not by smart exercises in military camp, but up in the front line trenches, where the earth trembles with the stamping of the big guns, when at the sound of the whistle at zero hour, the new recruit first goes over the top, then the civilian becomes a soldier. The disciples of Jesus became companions of the Master by going about with him doing Christly things.

We enter into the great companionship by worship and prayer. One of your topics for discussion was "Why young people do not pray." I did not exactly like the question. I think young people do pray. Perhaps they do not say prayers. Possibly the time of saying prayers has pretty much passed away, but serious people still pray; always have prayed, and always will pray.

Prayer and worship are the windows through which the light of heaven streams into our souls.

We have not lived in this world these countless centuries in vain. We have learned some things. Slowly and painfully a few truths have emerged. One of these great truths which the race has learned is that success does not come by luck, but by long and arduous and patient effort; that the man who tries to get some one's else money without earning it, whether it be by lottery ticket, by embezzling a trust fund, or by stealing from his employer, comes to no good end. Success crowns merit rather than chance or fraud.

Another important lesson which the human race has learned in its long journey upward is reserved for the young man and woman who come to the marriage altar chaste and clean. Others may get by; but will never enter into the most holy place.

One further lesson we have learned; that the soul needs its hour of waiting upon God in quietness. It is thus that we find ourselves. It is thus that we come into our own. It is thus that we pierce the mists which enshroud the eternal.

Without worship and prayer we may possess many virtues, but will not reach our heart's desire. Like some temple will seem our soul—

"... where naught is changed and incense rolls

Around the altar, only God is gone

And some dark spirit sitteth in His seat."

Fathers and mothers, if you were more devout, if you more truly worshipped and prayed, many of your sons and daughters would be doing very differently from what we see.

I am not a strict sabbatarian. My views on the Sabbath are so liberal that I hesitate to speak them lest I hurt some tender feelings. But I do not like automobiling and picnicing and golfing and caddying at the hour of prayer. We neglect the place and hour of prayer only at infinite loss to our souls.

Young men and young women of this conference, whom I have come to love; some of whom are almost as sons and daughters to me: If I could leave with you one parting word, I would breathe upon you and say: "Receive the Holy Spirit."

BEREA CHURCH.

We held our meeting at Berea Christian Church beginning the first Sunday in August and closing the following Sunday. Rev. R. A. Whitten did the preaching. Brother brought real gospel messages, and the people did appreciate the messages so much and spoke in the highest terms of the preacher and of his fine Christian spirit as he went in and out of the homes of the people.

Although we were hindered by being rained out three nights and by some sickness in the community, the church was revived and benefitted greatly by the meeting. We were glad to have quite a few from Apples Chapel, Shallowford and Bethlehem Churches attend the services. Bethlehem and Berea are so near each other and are of the same faith, so they have an opportunity to co-operate and help each other against the mighty foe.

A. P. HURST, Pastor.

ELON COLLEGE

AN ACCREDITED COLLEGE

of the

CONGREGATIONAL CHRISTIAN CHURCHES OF THE SOUTHEAST

ELON was founded to train Christian leaders for the New South.

ELON has done its task well—one graduate in seven being in the Christian ministry. The other six express Christian leadership in the various professions and vocations. Experience teaches that spiritual leadership must be indigenous.

The South is now a New South ready for an inclusive Church, the type of Church for which Elon has stood for forty years and for which she is prepared to produce capable leadership.

With no Church in the community, save the College Auditorium, ELON has practiced Christian Union for faculty, students, and community for four decades.

Its contribution to Christian Education is nationally known and approved.

Its Christian Education Building, providing laboratory facilities for religious leadership training, is unique and is the first college building of its type in the world.

ELON confines itself to undergraduate liberal arts work with that religious emphasis which befits the Christian College.

In ELON the Congregational-Christian Church has an asset of marvelous hopefulness.

The South needs her Yale, her Oberlin, her Carleton, her Pomona for the intellectual leadership of the United Church. Many regard ELON as strategically located and spiritually endowed to become such a center of illumination and leadership training.

THE CHRISTIAN EDUCATION BUILDING
The Heart of the Elon Program of Christian Education.

C. M. CANNON, Registrar

Elon College, - - - North Carolina

Home Atmosphere—Reasonable Rates—Clean Athletics—Christian Spirit.

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the kingdom, as represented by the Congregational-Christian Church.

BOARD OF EDITORS.

J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
E. C. GILLETTE, D. D. Associate
W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
W. A. HARPER, LL.D. Associate
REV. S. C. HARRELL, Associate
J. E. McCAULEY, Associate
W. C. WICKER, D. D. News Editor
P. J. KERNODLE, Managing Editor
C. D. JOHNSTON, Circulation Manager

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Year$2.00
Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Postoffice, at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to The Christian Sun, C. D. Johnston, Circulation Manager, Elon College, N. C.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads" 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

Notices: Obituary and marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge; all over 100 words at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

OBITUARIES.

RESOLUTION OF RESPECT.

Whereas it has pleased Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, in His wise Providence, to call from this life to his eternal reward our beloved brother, Deacon Reuben Dickson Thompson, July 28, 1931, at the ripe age of seventy-nine years, who has been a loyal and faithful member of Pleasant Grove Christian Church for over fifty-four years, a trusted and capable deacon for fifty-two years and a much beloved Sunday School superintendent for over forty years; be it resolved that we the church in quarterly conference assembled offer the following resolution:

First, that this church record its high regard and appreciation for the long and useful Christian life of our deceased brother, and commend his loyalty, devotion and consecration to Christian service, to all the surviving members of he church of which he was a member.

Second, that while we deeply deplore the great loss we have sustained in his going, we humbly bow to the will of Him who doeth all things well and who is too wise to err and too merciful to be unkind.

Third, that our church has sustained the loss of one of its most devoted and loyal members and most faithful officers, whose place it will be difficult to fill.

Fourth, that the community has lost one of its best citizens who filled every position of public trust committed to him with honor to himself and credit to those who reposed confidence in him.

Fifth, that we extend to the family our tenderest sympathy in this, their sad bereavement and commend to them the Christ whom he loved and served so faithfully, and who will sustain them in this their hour of sorrow.

Sixth, that a copy of these resolutions be spread on our church record, a copy be published in The Christian Sun, and a

THE CONGREGATIONAL LATIN-AMERICAN INSTITUTE AND PILGRIM LATIN CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH OF WEST TAMPA, FLA.—

Are helping give the Gospel, which is "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth," to the forty thousand Latin people of Tampa. The evangelical forces working among the foreigners of Tampa are by no means covering the territory sufficiently.

Methodists have six preachers, Baptists two, Presbyterians one, Congregationalists one. Church workers and teachers must be supported for this great missionary work. Send check to

LESLIE S. BRAY, Treas.
Route 4, Box 468, - - Tampa, Fla.
Send boxes of clothing to Mrs. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

For literature, write Rev. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

HOLMAN BIBLES

LARGE PRINT TEACHERS' EDITION FOR ADULTS, TEACHERS AND PREACHERS

and all who would study the Word of God intelligently this edition is unsurpassed. The type is large, clear, Bourgeois, Self-Pronouncing, with liberal space between the words and lines, which makes it easy to read.

Size, 8 x 5½ inches.

Specimen of Type.
"From that time Jesus to preach, and to say, 'I the kingdom of heaven'"

Containing New Copyrighted Helps by most reliable Authorities. A Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, New Colored Maps.

No. 4712. Divinity Circuit Teachers' Bible, French Seal Leather, red under gold edges, Silk Head bands and Silk Marker.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 5.00

No. 812RL. Red Letter Teachers' Bible. The Words of Christ in the New Testament, Old Testament Passages Alluded to by Christ, Various Prophecies Relating to Christ in the Old Testament, etc., all PRINTED IN RED. Binding same as described above and same large Self-Pronouncing type.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 6.00

No. 733X. Holman India Paper, Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 10.65

copy be sent to the family.

C. D. S. FARMER,
O. W. FARMER,
R. O. STRANGE,
JOSEPH FARMER,
G. C. TALBERT,
Deacons.

666

LIQUID or TABLETS

Relieves a Headache or Neuralgia in 30 minutes, checks a Cold the first day, and checks Malaria in three days.

666 Salve for Baby's Cold

PIEDMONT COLLEGE

A SENIOR COEDUCATIONAL INSTITUTION

OFFERS

Standard Courses leading to the usual Academic Degrees; also Courses in Music and Home Economics.

Thorough Instruction in Speech and in the Commercial Branches.

A beautiful location in the "Foothills of the Blue Ridge"; altitude of 1,500 feet; spring waters and invigorating climatic conditions.

An enviable reputation for sound scholarship, wholesome student life and Christian Idealism.

Expenses exceptionally light: $318.50 for the College Year.

For Catalogue, write,

JONATHAN C. ROGERS, Dean,
Demorest, Georgia

SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE

FOUR YEAR STANDARD COLLEGE

A Memorial of the Congregational-Christian Union.

FRANK E. JENKINS, Pres. MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD, Dean

OPENS WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1931.

Chartered BETHLEHEM COLLEGE June 2, 1922
Renamed PIEDMONT JUNIOR COLLEGE May 18, 1928
Renamed SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE, June 3, 1931

SCHOLARSHIP HIGH EXPENSES LOW CHARACTER SUPREME

A Strong Faculty, Educated in 25 Universities and Colleges in 12 States.

Unsectarian, but thoroughly Christian.

For Information about Entrance, write—

DEAN MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD,
WADLEY, ALABAMA.

For Other Information, write—

DR. FRANK E. JENKINS,
LA GRANGE, GEORGIA (To September 1st).

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Representing the Southern Christian Convention and the Congregational Churches of the Southeast.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY

VOLUME LXXXIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1931.

NUMBER 37.

.. THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY ..

By DR. W. C. WICKER.

GREAT MISSIONARY PASSES.—

Charles George Sparham was a greatly beloved missionary in China for forty-four years. He retired from his work there to undertake in old age, a responsible job for the Religious Tract Society, and he died suddenly in London, the first of August, this year. Sparham was a close friend and son-in-law of Griffith John, one of the apostles of China. In the school of daring faith which gathered around Griffith John, he learned lessons which he came himself to apply in after years. He was a very modest man, content if he could be a helper to Griffith John. But he was called to leadership in the London Missionary Society, and in a large measure in the whole missionary enterprise in China. The life of such a man should be an inspiration to the many missionaries of the far-flung battle line of the mission fields of all lands.

STARVATION IN CHINA.—

Another vast welter of death and suffering was slowly being revealed today as President Chiang Kai-Shek estimated that fifty million Chinese flood victims were on the verge of starvation. While national effort was being made to relieve Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang, where a quarter-million persons were estimated to have died of flood starvation and exposure during August, attention was diverted to Northern Kiangsu province, where the once happy and fruitful basin between the Grand Canal and the sea has been transformed into a death trap for scores of thousands. The flooded area there approximates 5,000 square miles in which 10,000,000 persons dwell. The most intense misery has been inflicted upon five rich farming counties, each supporting 1,000,000. Mission work here would give immediate relief where help is needed.

KAGAWA VISITS AMERICA.—

This saint, prophet, evangelist and social worker of Japan, who believes in the practical working of the Law of Love as a working principle for the whole world and the whole of life, has recently visited our country, and this visit represents one of the outstanding events of this period. Not often does one make contact with so great a soul. He has many speaking engagements at important meetings of national proportions. He has a message that will grip the world, for it is the message of the Gospel of Christianity, representing the working power of the Golden Rule, not only in theory but in fact and practical application. He lectured under the auspices of the divinity school of the University of Chicago while in that city and will visit many other institutions of higher learning and leave his message with the leaders of thought in our intellectual centers.

"PEACE CARAVAN."—

The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, which is making a trans-continental tour with its "Peace Caravan" passed through Chicago last month. This caravan originated on the Pacific coast. It is moving eastward toward the Atlantic, and is gathering, on the way, thousands of supporters for international disarmament. The caravan is intended to call attention dramatically to the World Conference on Disarmament to be held at Geneva, in February, 1932, and is securing signatures to petitions urging world disarmament at this time, to be presented to President Hoover when the caravan completes its journey. Such agitation and creation of public sentiment in favor of disarmament and peace will prepare the world consciousness for good will, conciliation, and the brotherhood of man. The movement is in the direction of the Christian ideal for the whole world which Christ came to establish as a reality.

DRINK DECLINING IN INDIA.—

The general economic depression has contributed to the decline in revenues from drink; but the anti-drink campaign carried on by the national congress and its thousands of volunteers all over the country is an important factor in bringing about this decline in the revenues from drink. The total loss for one year in all the provinces is 34,845,000 rupes, Bombay province being the one most affected, evidently because the anti-drink movement of the congress has been most active there. The question is now asked, "Who is going to make up this loss in revenue?" Is it by reduction of expenditures in the military and other departments of the government or is it by increased taxation? It is not a sad situation for any country to be in, that if the inhabitants of that country decide to become virtuous and abstain from drinking, there is an enormous drop in the public revenue and it becomes difficult for the administration to be carried on?

TWO SEMINARIES MERGE.—

"The Newton Theological Institution, Baptist, and the Andover Theological Seminary, Congregational, have joined their titles, faculties, libraries, and administrations, and will be known henceforth as the Andover-Newton Theological School. The combination consolidates two of the oldest seminaries in America. (Andover was founded in 1807, Newton in 1825.) They have a common background in Calvinistic theology, the same congregational polity, and the same educational standards." The trend of the times is in the direction of union in Christian service, Christian education, church organization and Christian fellowship. We are all working for the same Kingdom, for the evangelization of the world, the redemption of the whole human race, and there is nothing gained by dividing our forces over small differences nor in remaining apart when our differences are minor and our common purposes are the same. The whole church should face a common foe and co-operate for a common goal.

UNION SEMINARY IN INDIA.—

Three Lutheran churches in India and four missions supporting them have joined hands in establishing at Madras a union Lutheran theological seminary which opened its doors last month. Each co-operating body furnishes one professor, either Indian or foreign. The organizations co-operating are the Danish Lutheran Church in South India and the Danish missionary society, the Lutheran Church in the Andhra country, and the United Lutheran Church mission, and the Tamil Evangelical Lutheran mission, and the church of the Swedish mission. As soon as possible, churches doing mission work in foreign countries should promote such ideas in the preparation of native ministers and place the responsibility of promoting the missionary program by native leaders. No people will ever do much for self-development, individual initiative, or personal responsibility as long as they are kept dependent upon others for leadership and responsibility. Responsibility and confidence inspire people as well as individuals to develop and measure up to the best that is in them.

SUFFERING IN CITIES.—

During the coming winter the probability is that there will be more real suffering than usual. The unemployment problem still stares us in the face and grows more desperate as fall and winter approach. In Chicago, Governor Emmerson's commission on unemployment relief is being reorganized, and is getting down to work. The commission will undertake to raise a fund of $8,000,000. Last winter the commission raised $5,000,000 by subscription, and ministered to the needs of more than 138,000 families. It is fully recognized that the job will be a bigger one this winter. This is the condition in most of the larger cities, and similar situations exist in the smaller cities throughout the country. We have had abundant crops of food stuff and can supply all the needs of all the unemployed with the necessities of life if a proper distribution can be made to those who cannot support themselves. The Christian and charitable people of America have an excellent opportunity to render service where service is needed in devising some means whereby the abundance of bread stuff may be made available for the hungry millions.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Dr. C. C. Ryan, pastor of First Church of Richmond, is assisting Rev. J. F. Morgan in revival services during this week. He will return to Richmond for services Sunday.

Elon College has its opening day for the registration of freshmen on Saturday, September 12th, and the opening day for upper classmen, Tuesday, September 15th. The college plant is being put in good shape for the opening, and busy hands are getting ready for that event.

Rev. J. L. Neese, the pastor of Palm Street Church, Greensboro, N. C., was a pleasant visitor at the editorial offices of THE SUN the past week. He is engaged in evangelistic service with Rev. Roy D. Coulter at Haw River, and is rejoicing in the work and the prospect of a good revival at this church.

The following is gratefully acknowledged: "Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Summers announce the marriage of their daughter, Fleda Estelle, to Mr. Starlin Castles Whitaker, on Saturday, the 15th of August, 1931, First Presbyterian Church, Durham, N. C. At home, 17 Cobb Terrace, Chapel Hill, N. C."

Many of the faculty and employees of Elon College have returned to their homes and the campus at Elon, and the spirit of a new school session, and the work of another academic year, is in evidence in and about the college. All report a pleasant summer either in study or rest, preparatory to the strenuous year before them.

Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Harper were visitors for two or three days at the college the past week, but left the last of the week for New York, whence they sail for a trip abroad for several months. We wish them bon voyage, health and happiness in all their journey and pursuits, and a safe return when the months of their travels abroad are ended.

Prof. J. W. Barney, Chairman of the Faculty of Elon College, has spent the summer at the University of Virginia, where he is pursuing a course in summer work, and expects at an early date to receive a degree from that institution. Prof. Barney is an able scholar and teacher, the son of a Christian minister, and is deeply interested in Christian Education and all that goes to Christian culture and kingdom enlargement.

Rev. A. W. Hurst, pastor of Elon Church, issued to all his members last week a real "love letter," inviting all members and friends to be present on Sunday, September 6th, which was the first Sunday of the Church year at Elon, thus telling through the mail how glad the pastor would be to greet again and lock into the face of those with whom he labors and whom he has learned to love, and, it may be added, who have also learned to love him.

Rev. Stanley C. Harrell of the Durham Christian Church preached for Dr. Ryan, in Richmond on last Sunday evening. Mr. Harrell was accompanied by Mr. R. J. Kernodle, superintendent of the Durham Sunday School. Both were welcome guests in the home of the managing editor while in Richmond. Mr. Harrell was compelled to return to Durham on Monday, but Mr. Kernodle remained until Tuesday, when he left for Washington where he has relatives.

Rev. W. T. Scott, pastor of our Salisbury Church, has visited this summer many of our people in Winston-Salem, where we should have had a church long ago. Brother Scott has appointed a meeting in the Y. W. C. A. Building, First and Church Streets, Winston-Salem, for Sunday evening, September 13th. He hopes to have from 100 to 150 present for this meeting. Dr. Bloom of the Congregational Board and our Mission Secretary, J. O. Atkinson, are to be present for this meeting.

Rev. J. H. Dollar, pastor of our Reidsville, N. C., Church, has resigned, his resignation, we are advised, to take effect the close of the present Conference year. Brother Dollar has done a great work at Reidsville and has built up one of the largest Sunday Schools of any church in that city. The church has gone forward tremendously under his consecrated and capable leadership. There is deep regret at his expressed feeling that he should make a change. That will be a fortunate church and pastorate that secures him as its minister and spiritual leader.

Rev. S. E. Madren, pastor, writes under date of September 3rd: "I am now carrying on a meeting at Elk Spur. It has been going on for over a week. I had ministerial help promised, but circumstances prevented, therefore it falls to my lot to do the preaching. There have not been any converts as yet, but the audience is very large and well behaved, and I am preaching mainly to 'The Church.' We had a house full last Sunday night for service. This was the first time we have had that large an audience for quite a while. Everything seems to be going well in the work at present." Rocky Ford Church was dedicated this summer, and this gave impetus to the work there, while the meeting at Elk Spur gives encouragement there. We have some very faithful and loyal members at both churches, whose hearts and lives are in the work, and this will count for much in the future.

DR. AND MRS. HARPER SAIL.

Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Harper sailed from New York on September 5th, on the Leviathan for Cherbourg, France. They will spend a few days in Paris enroute to Istanbul, Turkey. They will also, before reaching Istanbul, visit Rome and Athens, and perhaps Florence and Venice.

Dr. and Mrs. Harper are to spend four months in the Near East where as special representatives of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, they will study Religious Education in Moslem lands. The schedule as arranged for them, includes a special study of the educational institutions of Turkey, Persia, Syria, Palestine and Egypt. In particular they will visit all the colleges in the Near East and the main mission stations of the several denominations. Superintendents of public instruction will also be interviewed in the effort to discover the character building influences that are now operative in Moslem lands.

Dr. and Mrs. Harper are scheduled to sail from Alexandria, Egypt, on the 24th of November for London. It is likely that they will, after spending some time in London and Scotland, visit Germany and Belgium before returning to this country.

RALLY AT WINSTON-SALEM.

There will be a Congregational Christian Church Rally at Winston-Salem, North Carolina, Sunday night, September 13th, at 7:45 o'clock, in the Y. W. C. A., located at the corner of First and Church Streets. The purpose of the rally is to get an expression from Congregational and Christian Church members living in that city as to their desire to have a Congregational Christian Church there. There are some 85 or 90 former and present Christian Church members in the city who have been favorable toward and desirous of a church. There are doubtless a number of Congregationalists there also, and effort is being made to locate them and have them present for the rally.

The idea of the rally grew out of work done in Winston by Dr. W. C. Wicker last year and visitation recently made there by Rev. W. T. Scott, Dr. W. C. Wicker, and Rev. Milo J. Sweet. Dr. J. O. Atkinson for sometime has had Winston in mind as a new project for the Southern Convention, and it was out of his plans to do something that Dr. Wicker went there last year.

The rally will be of a high quality program, for Dr. W. Knighton Bloom of Washington, D. C., will be present to meet any Congregationalists, and Dr. J. O. Atkinson will be present to greet the Christian Church folks. It is especially urged that members of Salem Chapel and Belevs Creek Churches be present for this interesting meeting.

Announce the rally to your friends. Be present yourself.
W. T. SCOTT.

NOTICE.

To the Ministers and Churches of the Alabama Christian Conference.—

The next session of the Conference will meet at Pisgah, Alabama, on Tuesday after the second Sunday in October, at 3 o'clock p. m., instead of at 10 a. m. This will give our ministers and delegates time to get to the Conference without undue worry or anxiety. Now let every minister get ready to go, and let every Church prepare to send a delegation. Where two or more of the churches are conveniently located, they might divide the expenses, which will be a small item, and every church can be represented. Let us show the Pisgah Church that we appreciate their invitation by going. The program will soon be announced. We invite all of our Congregational brethren to attend this meeting.

G. D. HUNT.

NOTICE.

The Mission Board of the Southern Convention will meet in annual session at Suffolk, Va., 9:30 a. m., September 16th. Those having affairs to present to the Board should send the same in writing to the Chairman, Col. J. E. West, Suffolk, Va., or to the Secretary, J. O. Atkinson, Elon College, N. C.

CONFERENCES MEET.

Eastern Virginia Conference meets at Cypress Chapel, Nansemond County, Wednesday before the first Sunday in November, 1931, at 10:30 A. M.

Georgia and Alabama Conference and Southern Association will meet jointly—

Alabama United Conference meets at Phenix City, Ala., Second Tuesday morning in November, 1931.

Eastern North Carolina Conference meets at Shallow Well Church, Tuesday after the third Sunday in November, 1931.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference meets at Mt. Bethel Church, Rockingham County, on Tuesday after the second Sunday in November, 1931.

Western North Carolina Conference meets with Shiloh Christian Church, Randolph County, Tuesday after the first Sunday in November.

NOTE.—Secretaries of Associations and Conferences will please supply omissions and make necessary corrections to the above.

CONGREGATIONAL NEWS

REV. E. C. GILLETTE, Editor; REV. F. P. INSMINGER, and REV. M. J. SWEET, Associates.

REV. DON G. HENSHAW, who went to New York for summer studies at Union Theological Seminary, has returned to the church at Coral Gables, where he has been pastor for the past three years.

MR. CHARLES B. FULTON has completed his service as Student Summer Service pastor at Holly Hill, Florida and returns to his home in Lake Worth. The church was so well pleased that they asked him to continue in the pastorate of the church, which he was unable to do.

MR. JOHN RAE CHAPMAN, who has been Student Summer pastor at Coral Gables has completed his work and has returned to his home in Massachusetts, after which he will continue his studies at Union Theological Seminary. Mr. Chapman's work with the church was greatly appreciated.

THE BEST NEWS the associate editor from Georgia and the Carolinas has heard in months is that Dr. Edwin C. Gillette is back from his vacation. His associate in the Jacksonville office has done wonderfully in handling the work and we give her a hearty vote of thanks and appreciation.

SOUTH GEORGIA held a Young People's Conference at Friendship Church near Baxley, Saturday and Sunday, August 29th and 30th. Miss Annie R. Campbell was the leader and many others participated. She is also preparing for a week end retreat or Young People's Leadership Conference to be held at Brunswick on September 11th, 12th and 13th, in a cottage which has been given free of charge to them by a fine friend at Waycross.

REV. ORVILLE D. ULLOM arrived in Melbourne, Florida, to begin his pastorate there, but was taken seriously ill and spent about ten days in the hospital. He has recovered and has begun his work with the church. Mr. UlloM was the pastor at Holly Hill for one season and later was assistant pastor in the Miami Beach Church, where he rendered especially fine service in work with the young people. He succeeds Dr. George L. Hanscom, who has retired from active service and moved to Mount Dora, Florida.

REV. FRANK ATKINSON has begun his service as pastor of the Union Church at West Palm Beach. Mr. Atkinson comes to the church after a notable pastorate in Houston, Texas. During his pastorate there a beautiful new church was built and dedicated. Dr. Atkinson comes to West Palm Beach with faith in the future of that church and is welcomed by a very loyal and devoted membership. Mr. Atkinson is married and has four children, three sons and one daughter. He is cordially welcomed to the Florida fellowship.

ST. PETERSBURG, FLORIDA. Attended by approximately one hundred and twenty-five young people, a Christian Endeavor Echo Rally was held at the Congregational Church recently. The meeting included morning service with a sermon by Rev. Oscar H. Denney, acting pastor, and a pot-luck supper with a fine musical program followed with vespers in North Shore Park. There were representatives from Coral Gables, New Port Richey, Sanford, West Tampa, Tampa, and Haines City. Alex Pasetti of West Tampa was "Echo of Camp," featuring Camp Immokalee songs. Marie Weir was "Echo of Miami." A talk, "Echo of Blue Ridge," was given by Carol Cushman and the Rev. Ralph Krout of New Port Richey. Plans were made tentatively to meet next fall in Coral Gables.

THE CENTRAL ALABAMA ASSOCIATION held their meeting at Liberty Church, East Tallassee, of which Rev. J. L. Barker is pastor. Rev. Andrew J. Holman became Moderator and Rev. Joseph E. Each continued to serve as Scribe. Lay delegates made full and satisfactory reports for Churches, Sunday Schools, Young People's and Women's Societies. They took part in discussions. A high point was the report of the Rural Pastors' School at Nashville, by Pastors Dopson, Each and Nelson. There was a thrill in the report that Liberty Church has already paid its missionary apportionment for 1931 and has eighty-two people who expect to make quarterly gifts to denominational benevolences. This church and the one at Thorsby made donations of canned goods to Thorsby Institute. Most of the churches are actively engaged in the effort to can fruits and vegetables which are to be sold to secure money for missions. Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Nelson have secured the largest number of cans from the people of their churches.

COUNTRY LIFE ACADEMY.

Country Life Academy took up its work this year on September 1st, instead of October 1st, as in years gone by. The new dean, Mr. George Colclough, formerly connected with Elon College, as financial agent, and before that a very successful superintendent of schools in North Carolina, began work August 15th. He is enthusiastic over the prospects. Of course one of the leading features this year is the connection of the Academy with the Star-Ether High School. By special arrangement with the trustees these schools are able to unite in certain departments and so to cooperate as to give the community a full-fledged department of scientific agriculture and another of home economics. In other ways the tendency seems to be in the direction of establishing a vocational and religious education school of high rank on the side of the work of the Academy, and at the same time furnish the entire community with exceptionally well organized scholastic advantages in all lines of regular high school preparation for college entrance. The president and trustees, as well as the dean and other members of the faculty, are greatly pleased at the prospects. The promise of a large increase in the student body is good.

FRIENDSHIP MEETING.

Liberty Church, of the Macedonia Larger Parish, did itself proud on Sunday, August 30th. It was the second great Fellowship Meeting of the four churches belonging to this group. Rev. Theodore L. Leverett has been the pastor of this parish since last March. His far-seeing leadership and refined qualities of spirit and kindness of disposition make him loved by all. Each church, Liberty, Macedonia, Sardis and New Trinity, has developed beyond what any of them dreamed, and each is happy. Liberty, where this meeting was held, was thoughtful to the last detail and had prepared well for the gathering. They have an inspiring Sunday School, a fine Christian Endeavor Society and a good church.

People came from Sardis and Macedonia, each about eighty miles distant.

The sermon was given by the pastor at large, Rev. M. J. Sweet. It was his first meeting with this parish since he assisted in organizing it. He was highly pleased at the changed life of the communities represented and feels that this parish is highly demonstrating what can be done in our rural churches where they are working in contiguous territory and are willing to unite even at some sacrifice in certain directions. As he sees it, the only hope for some of these outlying rural churches is to unite in a group and engage some man who can devote all his time to the pastorate of the whole group.

A great dinner was eaten out of doors around heavily laden tables, and in the midst of a beautiful grove of fine old trees. The afternoon service was in the hands of the Young People, directed by Jean Fullington and David W. Shepherd, S. S. S. workers in Georgia. They presented a pageant which inspired all.

At the business meeting Sardis Church, near Oxford, was chosen for the next meeting to be held on the fifth Sunday in November.

It was voted to ask the minister to work out a system of points to guide the four churches in holding a friendly contest during the last quarter of the year. Much is to be expected from this good natured rivalry.

METHODS CORNER

By REV. ELISHA A. KING, D. D.
Miami Beach, Fla.

In my last "Corner" I wrote about church attendance and promised to take up some methods of increasing attendance. It is not easy to get people to church during the summer time. In warm climates it is quite uncomfortable for men to dress up and wear coats, and sit for an hour and a half in a warm church building. Many churches have made it a rule that men come to church without their coats. That has made considerable difference. Then the church may be supplied with fans. These may be had of numerous advertising firms, but if churches prefer they can buy fans without advertising. If the janitor will see that the windows are open and the ventilation is free that will help. So far as possible the hot air of the morning service should be disposed of before the evening service. Electric fans may be used in strategic places. Ice water with individual paper cups at the church entrance helps. The pulpit and chancel may be made beautiful with flowers. Thoughtful ushers help a lot.

This is about all the lay-man can do. The minister has something to do about it also. He can plan to shorten the service without spoiling its dignity or spiritual unity. The sermon ought not be more than 20 minutes long. Congregational singing will also help. Then there is this to be said, the people who do come should not be scolded because other people do not come! And the sermon should be a thoughtful one. The people who go to church in the summer time deserve good sermons and the ministers should prepare carefully though the temptation is to "let up" in preparation because it is summer time.

It is sometimes thought that just because it is summer time there is no need of spending money on publicity. The truth is that is the time good publicity pays. We mean that it helps to bring people to church, they increase the size of the congregation, and they contribute more money than the publicity costs. A larger congregation encourages the minister and he preaches better sermons and the larger congregation gives him a better chance to reach the people with his message.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-LEDITOR*J. O. ATKINSON, ELON COLLEGE, N. C.*ASSOCIATE EDITOR*E. C. GILLETTE*117 W. Forsyth Street, Jacksonville, Fla.*CONTRIBUTING EDITORS*W. W. STALEY*W. A. HARPER*S. C. HARRELL*J. E. McCAULEY*NEWS EDITOR*W. C. WICKER*PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

OUR ELON AND HISTORY.

September 12-15, 1931, marks another epoch in the history of our Christian Church in the South. This is the period when the fall semester of our own Elon College begins. Opening her doors for the reception of students, for the first time, in September, 1890, the term to begin, September 12-15, of this year, will mark the forty-second year of her history and deeds on the field of culture and Christian education.

Elon has, indeed, an honorable career and a notable history; for the career of our College and her history are one with the career and history since that date, September 1, 1890, of the Southern Christian Convention. Into this institution our our membership and thousands of friends of our Church in the South have put their prayers, their sacrifices, their services, and in many instances, their lives. One cannot think of Elon College without at the same time thinking of unselfish service, deep devotion, noble sacrifice, consecrated effort and splendid achievement.

In writing such lines, one's mind flashes in many directions, and the temptation, as well as the desire, is to indulge the impulse to name persons and pay tribute to souls sincere and devout, who have done their best for Elon College. But there is no end, if one begins in that direction, for their name is legion from the day the College began until this good hour. Elon College, like any other enterprise of the Church and of almighty God, has its foes and its adversaries. It would not have the human side, and be directed by human beings, if it did not make mistakes, beget antagonisms, and develop critics. Since the day our Lord Christ, with supreme and infinite love, battled His way even to a cruel cross, and endured the nails driven through His hands by hatred and opposition, even till this good hour, every enterprise and institution in His name, and existing for His sake, and carrying on the righteous cause He championed, has had its foes, developed its animosities, fallen heir to prejudices and encountered opposition. This seems to be the way of righteousness and righteous enterprises beneath the sun. But the cause of righteousness goes marching on, and institutions and enterprises founded and fostered in His name, and for His sake, have in them that life that will not die, that courage that cannot be conquered, that supreme virtue that refuses to be vanquished.

Elon College is no exception to these historical facts and stands out today as an institution beloved, esteemed, honored, revered, because of the deeds of righteousness it has wrought, because of the lives it has inspired, because of the motives that have guided it, and because of her high and holy achievements for the Church and the world. Practically every pulpit in our Southern Convention has been occupied, or is today occupied, by ministers who have received their instruction and inspiration, cultural and religious guidance at Elon College, and every church in the Convention has felt the power of its impact and the quickening influence of its leadership. Practically every home in the churches of the Southern Convention, and in many directions outside of the Convention, has been blessed and benefitted directly or indirectly by the life and labors of Elon College.

Every term of the College, therefore, marks an epoch in our history. September 12, 1931, is registration day for freshmen, and three days are to be given to the freshman period of instruction for new students. Then old students will register on September 15th, and the classes will begin on the 16th. A force of workmen have been busily engaged for the past two weeks cleaning and preparing the campus and buildings, and putting the dormitories in shape for the opening. The registrar says: "While it is expected that the depression will cause a small drop in enrollment this year, nevertheless a good student body is anticipated, and the college authorities are looking forward to a good year of college work. Several of the teachers and faculty members have already arrived to prepare for the opening after their attendance at summer sessions in various schools and universities."

Friends are putting forth their best efforts and hundreds are offering their prayers daily and doing everything within their reach to make the coming year the very best of all the years so far, hoping that the opening on September 12th-15th will be an auspicious occasion, and one to carry joy and gratification to all friends of the College and throughout the Church.

Again let the editor say that Elon College is our College. It may not be as large as some other colleges, but we love it just the same. It may not be as pretentious as some, but we honor it; and it may not have achieved as much as some, but we esteem it, for it is what we have made it, and it is the best that we of the Southern Convention have as our own up to this good hour. It is ours. Its success and growth mean success and growth for our Church, especially throughout the South. Its failure is unthinkable, for it would spell ruin to, and the undoing of every enterprise and institution in the Southern Christian Convention. We cannot think of ourselves without thinking of Elon College, and we cannot respect and honor our history and our achievements without respecting and honoring Elon College. Too many prayers have been put into this institution, too many lives have been consecrated upon her altars, too many souls have been inspired by her sacrifices, and too much depends upon her present and her future, to think one moment of her failure or of a discontinuance of her progress, her prestige and her power. God bless Elon and help one and all of us to pray more devoutly for her progress, give more liberally to her support, and rally more hopefully to her banner and her courageous leadership

J. O. A.

SACRIFICING LUXURIES.

It may be strange, but it is nevertheless true, that people will sacrifice necessities before they will sacrifice luxuries; they will give up some necessities before they will forego luxuries. Some one has pointed out that if our "English cousins" had been aware of this characteristic of human nature, they would have put a tax on some necessity of life and not on tea, which is a luxury, and which tax and which unfortunate incident precipitated "the Boston tea-party" and the Revolutionary War. People will fight for luxuries. Ask a member to give up smoking a cigarette or a cigar for the sake of the Church or the cause of the Kingdom, and that person will turn a deaf ear to your request. Ask that same person to give up some necessity of life, some portion of his daily food or convenience or comfort, and he will more likely yield, for then he feels that he is making a sacrifice.

Possibly this, in a measure, explains why it is that the American people, in this time of depression, stick to their habits of indulging the luxuries while they forego many of the necessities of life. In a recent front page article in one of our great dailies, Thomas L. Stokes, of the United Press, Washington, gives the following:

"The American sticks to his habits despite the depression. He continues to smoke about as many cigarettes as ever, to play cards just as eagerly, to consume about the same amount of pop, to eat nearly as much candy, to drink more coffee, to find recreation in golf, baseball and tennis, and to file into the moving picture show about as often as before the business slump began, according to government and industrial figures. A grand total of 115,379,197,000 cigarettes was sold last year, compared with 117,963,870,000 in the boom year of 1929, according to figures compiled here. Moving picture theatres took in a billion dollars in 1930. This was $300,000,000 below 1929, but more than 1928, when the total was $900,000,000. Candy consumption dropped just a bit from a total of 1,570,251,790 pounds in 1929 to 1,545,387,563 in 1930. The per capita consumption of candy incidentally is largest in Nevada, the playground of divorce, and lowest in South Carolina, where there is no divorce. The comparative per capita figures are 23.62 pounds in Nevada and 6.25 pounds in South Carolina, annually. Coffee imports into the United States for the first six months of this year were far above those of the corresponding period of 1930."

These facts can only be explained by the psychological phenomenon, that people who are undergoing hard times seek and will have the relaxation or the indulgence, the forgetfulness or the pleasure, that comes from luxuries. Here is the deeper fact that shows the weakness of human nature in a time of depression. Thousands of good people, not foregoing or sacrificing their luxuries, will cut off their contributions to church, to charity, to the cause of righteousness. Here is a plea that may be made: In a time like this when we are sacrificing the necessities for the luxuries of life, why not sacrifice some of the material and physical necessities for the moral and spiritual necessities? In this way the spiritual life will be enriched, while the economical life is being impoverished. And what our world today needs is a deepening of the spiritual life, a quickening of moral perception, a reverence and devotion to things supreme and divine. The kingdom of righteousness is supported and enlarged through self-denial.

J. O. A.

INDIVIDUAL RESPONSIBILITY.

One of the weak links in organized Protestantism is the sense of individual responsibility for the work of the Church. Within recent years it has been a favorite sport of those both within and outside of the Church to enlarge upon the responsibilities of the Church. Much of this discussion has been of great benefit. It has enlarged the vision of the possibilities that may be accomplished by organized religion. It has given the leaders in religion a larger sense of responsibility.

But between the ideal of what the Church ought to be and do, and the responsibility that is accepted by the average church member there is a great gulf fixed. It is impossible to adequately account for the lack of sense of responsibility as it is found in so many church members. There are those within most every congregation who feel that their responsibility goes no further than their own personal interest. They will lend their support to those enterprises in which they have an interest, but beyond that they will not go. There are others who feel that separating themselves from the church relieves them of all personal responsibility whatever. They will blandly tell you that they are no longer attending church, as if that absolved them from every obligation.

It is possible that the striving after numbers is responsible for much of this lack of a sense of obligation. Churches are quick to accept all comers without much questioning. This is the case when members are transferred from one organization to another. It is generally true when members are being received into the church for the first time. It may be the fact of church membership being so easily acquired is responsible for its being so lightly held. If it were made harder for people to get into the Church, they might be of more service once they are in.

It is also true in most democratic organizations that when an individual has been elected to office, those who have elected him feel that they are relieved of any further personal responsibility. This is certainly true of the church. It is true of denominational enterprises. Conferences consider the things that need to be done, appoint a secretary or a committee and charge them with the responsibility and straightway forget all about the matter until it is time for a report on what has been accomplished. That is why so many church enterprises are one-man affairs. Great enterprises can only be accomplished by the cooperation of all those who are concerned. There is more potential energy going to waste in the church than any other institution in the world.

The facts that we have been discussing above throw a tremendous task upon the shoulders of the preacher. But they also open the door to a tremendous opportunity. It has reached the point that if the work of the Church is to go on, that the preacher must be able to do the work of an expert in vocational guidance. He must be able to recognize the abilities and the adaptabilities of his membership and in the light of these facts seek those whom he may call to places of responsibility. The preacher must also be constantly engaged in the task of enlarging the interests of his members. This may be done through personal conversations, through sermons, and through enterprises which are presented to the local congregation.

There ought to be, however, a sense of responsibility resting upon each individual of which he is definitely aware. There is something fundamentally wrong with the message of the Church when individuals can thus ignore all sense of personal responsibility. An awareness of personal salvation ought to carry with it a sense of obligation to serve. Fellowship with a suffering Saviour ought to be a perpetual challenge to self-sacrifice.

It is doubtful that we shall ever recover an adequate sense of personal responsibility until we get back to the realization of a Church led by the Holy Spirit. Whatever may be the true status of affairs the average church member feels that the program of service is essentially man-made. The realization that the call for service is the call of God does not carry over to the average individual. We have too much confidence in the wisdom of our own plans. There is not enough earnest prayer that the will of the Lord may be revealed to the congregation; and as a consequence we are not aware of divinely ordained objectives. No individual is equal to the task of serving God through the Church unless he be Spirit-called, Spirit-led, and Spirit empowered. And for the average church member this state of which he is so pitifully unaware that he is not even seeking it.

S. C. H.

WHAT THIS COUNTRY NEEDS.

To obey the fourth Commandment: "Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy." Nothing is more neglected and violated than this command given by God for human welfare. Recreation is as necessary as work, and nothing gives rest to mind and body like spiritual worship. The body rests by mental enjoyment, and the mind and body both rest by spiritual worship. The human life cannot exercise body, mind and spirit, all the time. Each one has its own function and is at its best when it exercises in its own field. A community that does not keep the Sabbath is a low community and its citizenship is low in the scale of civilization. The same is true of a family, or an individual. The State renders business unlawful on Sunday. A deed given on Sunday would be useless. If citizens must obey the fourth Commandment, church members should by their own volition.

To attend church as well as Sunday School. Many go to Sunday School, and then leave the church and go on some run for pleasure. They overlook the fact that there would be no Sunday School, if there were no church; and that there would be no place to meet, if there were no church. The church opens the doors, furnishes the heat in cold weather, the pianos and organs, and welcomes all who come—grown people and children. The poorest enjoy the same privileges as the richest; all share alike. The Sunday School cannot live without the church, and the Sunday School should remain for the regular services. That would be the ideal church, and that is the reason the country church furnishes the leading members of the city churches, as well as the preachers. That is the fact, and the reason is that all remain for the preaching service. The ideal church will be the church in which the Sunday School remains for the regular service in the town and the city.

To live within their means. There is entirely too much going in debt, by States, cities, churches, families, and individuals. Debt is the chief cause of hard times. When wages, prices, salaries, are all high in flush times, people imagine that such conditions will continue; and they go in debt to realize when conditions change that they are in a strain. The only safe time to go in debt is when business is flat and people are crying hard times. There is as much money in the country now as when times were prosperous; but it is idle. Money is a circulating medium, but when it is tied up, it cannot circulate, and times get hard.

Most of all, the country needs a great spiritual revival to soften human hearts, strengthen human wills, and improve human behavior. There is too much intellectual preaching, too much head religion, too much outward forms in worship, and not enough of the Biblical and Spiritual in the church. Many sermons hardly touch the Bible, and many Christians think their religion without real experience. Emotion, stirred by the Spirit, experience, felt as a new life, "a conscience void of offence toward God and man" (Acts 24: 16), spirituality rather than intellectuality, experience rather than education, loyal hearts rather than mental attitudes, seem to be the need of this country at this time.

W. W. S.

WAS HE IN HIS RIGHT MIND?

A man died, partly from the effects of starvation, the other day; a man who had inherited and given away a great fortune and who persistently spent as little as possible on himself.

By no fault of his own he left an estate estimated as worth $500,000 to $1,000,000 which will be used "for the sole use and benefit of the workers of the world, and especially for the education of the unemployed."

He was a theological graduate, an M. D., and "the millionaire hobo." As a giver of himself and his possessions, he has had no equal in our time.

Even in his student days he repeatedly gave away his hats, coats, gloves, to poor folk he had met on the street. He would mend broken fences and rotten sidewalks, take care of the sick, tend babies, and do any sort of menial work that nobody else seemed willing to tackle.

He was an indiscriminate giver; he was rather more interested in the unworthy than the worthy; and undoubtedly he was at times a little crazy by all our standards of prudence.

The papers said little about him when he died, and his memory will be kept green chiefly by the down-and-outs to whom for so many years he dedicated himself. While he lived he was always sure of a paragraph when he would gather his hoboes about him and let them take full advantage of his undiscourageable bounty.

Most people who heard of him thought James Eads How a fool, or a crank, or plain lunatic. Perhaps he was a little of all three.

And yet, when you read the details of his life, you are startled to discover how much of the story could be described in the very words once used to tell of another rich young man who for the sake of others became poor.

Almost one could go so far as to say of James Eads How, "He saved others; himself he could not save."

Who knows? Maybe there is something trifling out of gear in a society which can think of such a man as mentally deranged.—Northwestern Christian Advocate.

JOSEPH COOK'S HOROLOGUE.

Near the close of his long and eventful career as a scholar and lecturer, Dr. Joseph Cook of Boston wrote the following summary of life. It recognizes the solemn fact that life at last brings us to stand before God to give account. Happy shall we be with Him then.

"Man's life means

Tender teens,
Teachable twenties,
Tireless thirties,
Firey forties,
Forcible fifties,
Serious sixties,
Sacred seventies,
Aching eighties,
Shortening breath,
Death,
The sod,
God."

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

SEATTLE.

Tuesday, June 30, 1931, was spent in meetings of the Home Boards, lecture by Dr. Albert W. Palmer, Chicago Theological Seminary on "Paths to the Presence of God"; and an address by Rev. H. C. McDowell of Angola, West Africa.

Wednesday, an Animated Edition of "The American Missionary," monthly magazine number of the Congregationalist and Herald of Gospel Liberty, was presented by the Home Boards through young people in an interesting fashion.

Thursday was occupied largely in the discussion and voting upon the Seminar Findings in the subjects which they had discussed. A bird's-eye view of our Denominational Set-up and Program was introduced by Secretaries Drs. C. E. Burton, W. H. Denison, and C. E. Merrill. At the evening hour, Dr. Wynn C. Fairchild delivered an address on "Facing the Facts in the Far East"; and Col. Raymond Robbins delivered a marvelous address on "The Constitution—Shall We Scrap It." It was, in many respects, the most outstanding address delivered during the Convention.

Friday, the closing day, was occupied by fine addresses, business, and a great address was delivered by Dr. N. W. Pendleton of Grace-Trinity Center United Church (Congregational-Methodist-Presbyterian) San Francisco, on "The Morale of Unity." Fraternal Greetings were brought from the United Church of Canada by Rev. Geo. O. Fallis, B. D., C. B. E., of Vancouver, British Columbia.

The meetings all the way through were characterized by order, unity, and a search after truth for the church and all its purposes and undertakings. It was very unique as it was the first union of separate denominations on the basis of equality without any doctrinal agreement. It represented the union of two denominations similar in their government and their position. The chief difference was in their names: one the Congregational Churches; the other, the Christian Church. The name for the united organization is to be worked out as early as possible in the future. It is to be hoped, at least by this writer, that the name Christian will be the surname. Let Congregational be the given name and Christian the surname. Then it will be the Congregational Christian Church, not churches. That would be a denomination, as it should be, and not simply churches. The name Christian is the name that is universally used by all people when speaking or writing of the Church of Jesus Christ. It is the Christian Religion, the Christian Era, the Christian Doctrine, the History of the Christian Church; one may claim to be a member of the Catholic or of any Protestant Church, but the first and main claim is that of being a Christian. (Acts 11:26.) "And the disciples were called Christians first in Antioch." That name has never been changed, and it never will. Disciples are born of Jesus Christ. He is our spiritual Parent and He gives us our surname. Any name other than Christian is not derived from birth, but is a given name, as Congregational, Methodist, Baptist, or Presbyterian. No other name can furnish the basis for union, but that name furnishes a basis for the union of all denominations. In fact the given name need not be changed, provided the surname is used, and all denominations can answer the prayer of Jesus for unity in John 17:21, "That they all may be one; as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us."

W. W. STALEY.

ELON COLLEGE TO OPEN SEPTEMBER 12TH.

Preparations have been going forward for the past several weeks for the opening of Elon College for its 42nd Session, and everything will be in readiness to receive the new students on September 12th. Three days will be given over to the freshmen period of instruction, and then the upperclassmen will come in on the 15th for registration.

Most of the faculty members are already at the college at this writing, and the remaining ones will reach the college on Monday, September 7th, so as to have time to get their courses set up and ready for the arrival of students.

Four new faculty members have been added to the staff for this year:

Miss Margaret Shaw of New York City, a graduate of Peabody Conservatory and Columbia University, will take charge of the Music Department of the College while Professor Velie is away on a year's leave of absence. Prof. M. J. Benyumes, who has had a wide experience in music work, especially violin, band and orchestra teaching and directing, will teach these subjects at the college this year.

Miss Naomi C. Brady becomes teacher of Home Economics and dietician for the college dining hall. Miss Brady holds her A. B. degree from Oklahoma College of Women, and her M. S. from Columbia University.

Prof. H. L. Snuggs becomes a member of the English Faculty, and will take some of the freshman and sophomore courses as well as offer two courses for juniors and seniors. He is a graduate of Wake Forest College, and holds his M. A. from Duke University. He has taught English and Latin at Boiling Springs College before coming to Elon. He is now working toward his Ph. D. degree in English at Duke University.

Many of the faculty members have been away for the summer attending summer school and teaching in summer work. Professor J. W. Barney, Chairman of the Faculty at Elon this year, has just returned from the University of Virginia, where he spent twelve weeks in graduate study. Others who have engaged in summer educational work and research are: Dr. T. C. Amick, Prof. T. E. White, Prof. A. R. VanCleave, Dr. J. A. Clarke, Prof. L. G. Bryngelsson, Prof. C. J. Velie, Miss Lila Newman, Miss Margaret Shaw, Miss Naomi C. Brady, and Prof. H. L. Snuggs.

Saturday, Sunday and Monday will be given over to freshmen registration, orientation and instruction. During these three days they will study with faculty advisers their relation to the college, and how to get started on the right foot in their college duties. This period will start off with an assembly in the auditorium after the registration is completed in the forenoon, and a reception for the freshmen and faculty members in the Y. W. C. A. hall. Such subjects as the student's religious life while a member of the college student body, their social life, and the student activities will be discussed during this period. Also such items will be taken up as to how the students may make the best use of the library and other facilities of the college, as well as a wise use of their time and their money.

The college authorities are optimistic and are looking forward to a good year. While the general depression and stringent financial conditions of the students are expected to have their effect upon enrollment figures, it is hoped that at the last minute many students who are in doubt about returning to the college will find that they can come. Applications from new students have come in as well as could be expected during the summer, and even yet many are being received. It is expected, however, that there will be a drop in the enrollment of 367 last year to something between 325 and 350 this year. This will, however, in no way affect the work of the college, as a full line-up of courses will be offered, and there will be no special curtailments along any line.

C. M. CANNON.

FRIENDS THAT HELP.

It is a common experience that we are not ourselves in the company of some people. One man stimulates our thoughts, quickens our faculties, sharpens our intellects, opens the floodgates of language and sentiment, while another dampens our enthusiasm and depresses all our faculties.

Some people act like a tonic or an invigorating and refreshing breeze. They make us feel like new beings. Under the inspiration of these presence we can say and do things it would be impossible for us to say and do under different conditions.

From others emanates an atmosphere which paralyzes thought, dwarfs expression and destroys naturalness.

To grow, we must cultivate the society of those who stimulate us along the line of higher endeavor, who open up visions to our inner eyes, who make us long to be more, to know more and to do more; who make us conscious of greater powers, make us believe more firmly in ourselves, and arouse in us a determination to do the very best of which we are capable.

Those who appreciate the good in you and help to build you up instead of destroying your self-confidence, double your power of accomplishment. Your best friends never embarrass you with your inferiority or accentuate your weaknesses.

We can never forget those who help us to unfold our possibilities. The discouraged pupil never forgets the teacher who sees in him that which his parents and other friends failed to see; and nothing else so spurs him on to make the most of himself as his desire not to disappoint the teacher who has confidence in his ability to do something when no one else believes in him.

Beecher said he was never the same man again after he had read Ruskin. Fortunate is the man all through life who in the formative period of his youth had one broad-minded, whole-souled, optimistic friend. His soul-vision will be clear and the things of his life will be things worth while. Storms may blow his ship out of its course, but his compass stands true and the rudder steady, and the ship will ride safe home. More fortunate still is he who remembers that the formative period of life never ends, and always selects friends who direct his thoughts and ideas upward, never downward.

And what our friends can do for us in this respect we can do for them.—Selected.

"All Gaul is divided into three parts" countless Latin students will be reading within a few weeks. All time should be divided into three parts—time for sleep, time for work, and time for play. He who lives best and wisest observes this grouping for his time.

Christian Endeavorers from Dendron and Waverly went to Wakefield, Va., each evening last week to cooperate in a Christian Endeavor Expert Class. The three societies enjoyed the fellowship together and look forward to "Greater Things Than These" in the new year's work.

NOT A TIME FOR "ISMS."

No one questions the present period of depression. Yet, it is not a new development in economics. Since history began there have been periods of inflation, followed by those of deflation. In spite of all modern legislation, theories, research and plans, the centuries-old laws of supply and demand continue to exert themselves. A shortage in the supply means higher prices. Higher prices are a stimulus to production. A stimulated production soon meets the shortage. Consumption cannot be increased beyond a certain extent. Soon there is a large surplus—money becomes scarce. A period of depression exists.

All these steps were recently taken. During and after the war, sources of supply in Europe were crippled. A large demand was created for American products. Factories sprang up over night. Wages were doubled and redoubled. Prices soared and practically everyone was endowed with plenty. Then the inevitable. Conditions in Europe were restored to normal. Consumption in this country could not be further increased. There existed a decreasing demand—an increasing supply. As a result, the present depression.

In retrospect it appears surprising that very few during prosperity foresaw the likelihood of a change in conditions or made any preparation for a rainy day. The majority went ahead spending beyond their means, living from day to day, with perfect assurance that such prosperity would continue forever. For them there appeared no tomorrow to be prepared for, but like grasshoppers they sang and frolicked in the sunshine of plenty with no thought of a possible winter.

Many suffer during the present times and the deprivation seems doubly difficult after having experienced a time of comparative ease. Though there is no doubt that the times are hard, it is wondered if the reports are not exaggerated to an extent. It appears forgotten that there has always existed a certain amount of unemployment. There was never a time when there were not some who were more fortunate than others in the possession of worldly goods.

One of the real dangers of the present period is that many will be carried to extremes by present conditions and be brought to accept unsound theories. Certain organizations, representing sinister influences, are taking advantage of conditions to spread their propaganda and make converts to their cause.

An example of one that has come within the sphere of such influence is evidenced by a letter recently received in this office. The writer for some time has been conducting an unsuccessful search for employment. He writes of his contemplated return to his home: "I will be passed by large new automobiles driven by men who through greed are in part responsible for my present plight—men who have not been necessary to the production of things of life. I will be in towns that have as officials those whose positions and luxuries are the products of blood money which they have sucked like vampires from the life work of producers. Under such conditions," he continues, "if Bolshevism or any other kind of ism presents itself and offers relief, what would be the natural effect on me? . . . Now allow me to say in the voice of millions of 100 per cent Americans who are hungry, that Russian Bolshevism is not the worst menace we have in our midst but Americans who propagate and sponsor a system that makes millionaires and paupers out of American citizens through the same processes of industry.

"Banish the vampires of industry, the gangsters of the stock markets, the blood suckers of our treasury. Give to the producer a more equitable portion of his product. Give him a chance to surround himself with a security that assures him the necessity of life with sufficient leisure and luxuries. Compensate him for his productive ability and Bolshevism will find no place in his life and thinking."

It is not wished to criticize the writer of the letter quoted. He was merely quoting the possible thoughts of a hungry man and stated that he did not yet subscribe to those views. Nor is it very hard to guess the origin of such expressions. Similar propaganda is being poured forth by paid foreign agents throughout the country with but one thought in mind—the disruption of the American Government. They are envious of this, the most fortunate of all nations, and long for the opportunity to exploit its riches. With lurid adjectives they draw distorted pictures of conditions in this country and attempt to excite the use of force to aid their ends by awakening greed and avarice in the minds of men. Do they give logical reasons why conditions would be better under the systems they urge? Can they point to Russia with its bread lines, forced labor and unrest, and truthfully show that the working man there is living in ease and luxury? Can they explain the want and poverty of that country? Is it desirable to be summarily evicted from one's home—to have one's goods taken without any compensation—to live herded together in barn-like structures—to have someone else dictate what one may wear, eat or own?

Admitted that in this country during the present depression there are instances where men who are willing and able to work suffer from the lack of employment. But they do not bear the burden alone. The examples are just as many where former employers are in want. Last year there were 1,345 bank failures and 26,355 business failures. Employers lost not only the lack of an opportunity to work but their business, which was often the fruits of years of labor. The employer, usually referred to in uncomplimentary terms by agitators, seldom occupies a "bed of roses." Generally, after the employees' day is over, the employer must lay awake wondering and worrying how bills are to be met and the business kept going. It is the employer of labor rather than the laborer who is most often driven to suicide as a means of escape from worry. It is true that there are those who have amassed fortunes but it was generally by saving while others spent, by denying

(Continued on page 15.)

OXFORD BIBLES for EVERY NEED

"The Oxford Bible is the Bible par excellence of the world"

THE HOME BIBLE

A Family Bible in Handy Size

An extra large type Oxford Text Bible, containing also, a family register and 12 beautifully colored maps. Size 9 x 5½ inches.

Specimen of Type

16 The LORD is King for ever and ever: the heathen are perished out

Nos.
01600 Superior Cloth, round corners and red edges $2.75
01603 French Morocco, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, head-band, book-mark $4.75

The JUNIOR'S Bible

Self-Pronouncing

With 4,000 Questions and Answers, carefully selected "Aids to Bible Study," 16 beautifully colored and 15 black full-page illustrations, 6 colored maps and a presentation page. Children may readily pronounce correctly difficult Scripture names, as this Bible is self-pronouncing. Size 7 x 4½ x 1¼ inches.

Type in Junior's Bible
2 Take the sum of all the of the children of Israel,
years old and upward, thro

Nos.
1815 French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark. Make some child happy with one of these fine Bibles $2.95

Child's ILLUSTRATED Bible

The beautifully colored illustrations in this new Bible are a delight to the children. It has clear, readable type and yet it measures only 5½ x 3¾ inches.

Specimen of Type

2 My soul longeth, yea, even faint-
eth for the courts of the LORD: my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God.
10 Mercy and truth
kissed; righteousness gathered
11 Truth shall spring
from the mouth of the LORD.
No. 02112. French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, gold edges $2.50

Pocket REFERENCE Bible

Has over 50,000 center column references. Measures only 6¼ x 4½ inches. (A splendid gift for a young lady.)

Specimen of Type

9 Behold, "O God our shield, and look upon the face of thine anointed.
10 For a day in thy courts is better than many days in the house of our fathers.
No. 07523x French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $3.25

Concordance Edition

Type and size as No. 07523x, but with a Concordance, subject index and dictionary of Scripture names. An excellent edition for students and Christian workers No. 03272x $5.00

The Oxford imprint in a Bible guarantees satisfaction

OUR LEADER

Oxford Concordance Bible

Self-Pronouncing

This beautiful Oxford India paper edition is indeed the ideal Bible for the student, preacher and evangelist. Each proper name and difficult word is divided into syllables and accented, and though printed with large clear type, the volume measures only 8½ x 5½ x 1½ inches.

Specimen of Type

8 7 2 Jē-hōi'-ā-chin was 6
years old when he began t

No. 03671x. Fine Grain Morocco leather, overlapping cover, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, silk headbands and book-mark $9.50

A UNIQUE GIFT BIBLE

With Basket Weave Binding

The Antique brown calf leather binding has a basket-weave grain, and button clasp. Has overlapping cover, art silk lined, with red under gold edges. With references. Printed on Oxford India paper. Type as Pocket Reference Bible $5.50

No. 03255x. As No. 03255x, with concordance. No. 03276x $6.50

Oxford TEACHER'S Bibles

Have over 50,000 center column references, and 300 double-column pages of up-to-date helps, conveniently arranged in alphabetical order. Also 32 full-page illustrations, and an indexed atlas of the Bible with 15 beautifully colored maps of Bible lands.

Easy-to-Read-Edition

Size 7¼ x 5 x 1¼ inches

Specimen of Type

14 Like sheep they are laid in grave; death shall feed on th

Nos.
04453. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges. A durable and hand-some Bible $4.35
Oxford India Paper Edition
Only one inch thick.

0773x. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark. A beautiful gift edition $7.00

RED LETTER Edition

Same size and type as style No. 04453, with same references and helps, but with all the words of Jesus Christ printed in red. White paper edition No. 05453. French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $5.00

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Secretary.

A PRAYER.

Almighty God, how corrupted and squandered are the strength of youth and the wisdom of years! We look to Thee for the healing of the nations and we bless Thee that not all the people have forgotten thy eternal precepts. Bring Thou to naught every issue that tends to displace thy holy law. Turn back the nations from surrendering righteous concepts. Cause governments to uphold the Sinai banner, "Remember." Restore in believers the faith and zeal by which Christian foundations are preserved. And may thy Kingdom come, we humbly pray. Amen. "L."

INDIA'S LATEST CENSUS.

First information is now available regarding this year's census of India. The total population of this great land is now 351,000,000, an increase of 32,000,000, or ten per cent in ten years. Judging by the preceding census, the Christian population, including Protestants and Catholics, probably will show a thirty per cent increase, bringing the present total to over six millions. Rejoicing is tempered by the fact that there are 30,000,000 more to be evangelized now than there were ten years ago. Add to this the fact that nearly all of the large mission boards find their finances reduced to such an extent that retrenchment on a large scale has been forced upon them.—Missionary Review.

NEWS ITEMS.

Mrs. W. M. Jay.

Here is a news item that will be of interest to all, and one in which we rejoice.

On August 11th, Mrs. W. K. Saunders of the Antioch Church near Zuni, Va., invited about twenty ladies to her home to meet her guest, our missionary, Mrs. D. P. Barrett, who is here in our midst convalescing from an operation. The day was stormy, so only about half came, but a pleasant hour was spent together talking over the work in Porto Rico, and discussing plans towards reorganization. This society had disbanded about a year ago because of financial stress, but the general testimony of the members was that they had very much missed their monthly meetings, and had not gained by disbanding. Plans were made to meet Sept. 1st at the home of Mrs. W. E. Garrison, and the following is the result of this meeting. After a short program of worship and study, the society was reorganized and the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. E. B. White; vice-president, Mrs. H. E. Pierce; secretary, Mrs. J. H. Godwin; treasurer, Mrs. W. E. Garrison; pianist, Mrs. W. N. Bland. These women are to lead in the responsibility, and each member is asked to assume her share in the spiritual and financial program of the year. They are hopeful of a good year of work and study together, and with Mrs. Barrett in their midst, they are sure of plenty of help. Here's hoping for a successful year for them, and we want to congratulate them for this fine determination. Hurrah for Antioch!

MISSIONARY OFFERINGS.

(Received since September 1, 1931.)

September first, each year, begins a new year with our accounting, and with disbursements and receipts for missions. Quite a few churches have not yet sent in their offerings, though we know the offering, in some instances, has been taken. These offerings, when they come in, will be counted on the year beginning September 1, 1931. As recorded in last week's SUN, we received from Sept. 1, 1930 to August 29, 1931, $24,622.18.

We are grateful for every dollar that has come in, and we feel that many have made sacrifices in order to help carry forward the work. Our Mission work, like all other work for the Church and the kingdom of righteousness, feels keenly the general depression and suffers from economic conditions. It should not be so, but many cut off their offerings to the Church, to benevolences and to the cause of the kingdom even before they cut off anything in expenditure for luxury, comfort or necessities. On the other hand, very many make sacrifices that they may help to carry on the work of their Lord, and these are they who are building up the kingdom on earth.

WEEK ENDING SEPTEMBER 5, 1931

Sunday Schools.

Holland, Va.	$ 10.00
Reidsville, N. C.	6.58
Henderson, N. C.	3.44
Christian Endeavor Society, Roanoke, Ala., Christian Church	1.00
First Christian Church, Norfolk, Va.	12.91
Providence-Memorial, Graham, N. C.	1.33
Elm Avenue, Portsmouth, Va.	2.09
Piney Plains, Cary, N. C.	1.00
First Christian, Greensboro, N. C.	15.89
Hebron, Nelson, Va.	.43
Holy Neck, Holland, Va.	8.00
Total	$ 62.67

Individual and Church Offerings

"A Friend," Elon College, N. C.	$ 25.00
"A Friend," Elon College, N. C.	10.00
Mt. Bethel, Summerfield, N. C.	1.00
Rocky Ford, Fancy Gap, Va.	4.00
Total	$ 40.00

Dollar-a-Month Club.

Mrs. Sallie S. McCauley, (Damascus Ch.) Chapel Hill, N. C.	$ 1.00
Miss Jewell Hatch, Burlington (N. C.) Church	1.00
John A. May, (Antioch Church), Lynn- wood, Va.	2.00
Mrs. M. A. and Miss Edith Walker, Burl- ington (N. C.) Church	2.00
Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dunn, Lynchburg, Va. B. F. Frank, (Catawba Springs Church), Raleigh, N. C.	1.00
Mrs. B. A. Knight, (Mt. Olivet Church), March, Va.	1.00
E. S. Morris, (Mt. Olivet Church), March, Va.	4.00
Total	$ 14.00

Specials.

E. S. Morris, (Mt. Olivet), March, Va. ..	$ 15.00
---	----------

Summary.

Sunday Schools, Regular	$ 62.67
Individual and Church Offerings	40.00
Dollar-a-Month Club	14.00
Specials	15.00

Total to date $ 131.67

J. O. ATKINSON,
Secretary.

THE CHAMBERSBURG CONFERENCE.

No. 2.

By Mrs. J. CARTWRIGHT.

The welcome by Dr. Warfield, president of Wilson College, exemplified the spirit of the conference.

When I think of persons, I have in mind Miss Martha Hartman of Philadelphia, Pa., chairman of committees. She handled the conference affairs capably. So attractive every one wanted to know her, she met that desire naturally. She presided on all formal occasions and was so friendly that we were loath to say good-by when the conference closed.

It is surprising how much of work, study and play can be packed in seven days, when following a schedule. When 380 women and girls arrive for intensive training and preparation, and things run smoothly, I am wondering how much thought is given the committees whose hard work made such workable programs possible. It was a constructive schedule. Some were disappointed because Mrs. Helen Barrett Montgomery could not be present; she is said to be a whole conference. But it was not hard to pass that over when other things crowded in so fast.

Speakers and teachers came to us burdened with the message of this new day, and as we listened, we knew that Christ was walking the "American Road." This is such a beautiful world given us to tend, we cannot think of women and children not knowing our Christ. So this matter of missions is a very personal matter. We have sent the Gospel to the uttermost parts; missions have been tremendously successful; but there remain great fields to be conquered. The plan of approach must be changed in this age of materialism, for the whole world is changing rapidly. It is going to be hard work to reconstruct, but Christian men and women have met the challenge in the past ages, and we can now. We must first give ourselves—personal salvation—purse and all. The local church is the key to the Home Mission problem—a necessary link. It matters not what you do or where you work, I wish you to remember a motto which was used so often at Chambersburg: "Remember Jesus Christ."

Dr. Chas. N. Arbuckle, Boston teacher and minister, lectured each morning on "Religion and Life." He drew pictures and analyzed a great many things in our every day life which we do not stop to analyze. He told us how religion would help solve problems. It gives the right scale of values. We should carry the twenty-third Psalm in our hearts. His was a wonderful contribution to the conference.

The Book of Amos was taught by Miss Betsy Hopkins, Professor of Bible at the Biblical Seminary of New York. We would do well to read this book through. It has messages for us today. We miss much if we do not get the Old Testament background for the New.

There were twenty-two missionaries present, most of whom were young women, representing fields in Burma, Africa, India, China, Japan, Bagdad, Egypt. There were others from the home field. You would scarcely believe that these women had been away from the United States. They are advanced thinkers in international relationships. In educational problems, they know the countries in which they work. The little lady from Bagdad said she was amazed at our smug complacency, that we did not take time to study international affairs.

Buddhist or Mohammedan, they discuss us freely. We are not studying peace movements, we do not spend enough time reading good books. We must remember Jesus Christ—He is tremendously interested in world affairs. I would like to have made such a contribution as any one of these missionaries made.

During the evening Miss Hannah Miller gave echoes of the North American Congress held in Washington in 1930. We realized the remarkable developments which had taken place in Home Missions in recent years, but we are far short of the ideal of Christ. Our greatest need is the development of personal religious life. Communities are still untouched, millions are still unevangelized and unsaved, and many human needs are imperfectly satisfied. "Remember Jesus Christ."

Maggie Simpson, of Greensboro, N. C., a Negro worker in Migrant Camp, Houston, Delaware, spoke freely on the problems of a negro girl trying to be a Christian. We were impressed with her personality, her ability, and her sense of fairness.

Whether the messages came from Migrant Camp, the Mountains of Kentucky, or North Africa, they were roads leading from home—millions of homes where mother and child should be the center and Christ a welcome guest. Of these homes we shall soon begin to study, and how we are affected by them.

Two attractive young women brought their contribution from Vellore, India. They represented the Woman's Union College of South India and St. Christopher's. Christian education for the leadership of India is at stake. There are not enough colleges, and those we have are inadequately equipped. A great opportunity faces American women. We are facing facts. We must take forward steps based on conviction and consecration, for "When we know, we care; when we care, we serve."

Dr. Oscar Buck, Professor of Missions, Drew Theological Seminary of New Jersey, was a most interesting speaker. His mother has for sixty years been a missionary to India, and though now in her 87th year, is still active. He had recently returned from India, having been sent there as a member of a commission to study the Christian colleges in relation to the life of the men of the universities of India. He visited forty-three colleges in India, Burma and Ceylon. He sat in the presence of presidents and governing boards, directors of public instruction, university faculties, governors of provinces, the Viceroy, and natives of all descriptions, and talked over problems. While there he paid two visits to Gandhi. He was filled with his experiences as few speakers seem to be. He visits India every five years, and part of his life has been spent there as a missionary. As he related facts, we realized how badly India needs the Christian leadership which must come through our Christian colleges.

We have got to face the new day that is dawning. We must do more than repair—in Christian missions—we must rebuild—rebuild in our attitudes and our technique. Things may be right for what the world has been, but things are not right for what is coming. We must get our lamps trimmed and be ready. We women of America are standing in front of an avalanche. The women of the Orient are going to demand higher education. Shall we give them Christian leaders? Are you looking for romance? you will find it in missions. If you will use your imagination rightly, you may see the invisible, you may see the beauties of the unknown.

The challenge of change thrills and appeals. The best speakers and teachers brought lessons at the Sunset Service, using "And Jesus grew in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man." They pictured His early years in the home, His growth to manhood, as He went out in the world to active work, the period of preparation.

It was brought to our minds that Chambersburg Conference was a place of vision and privilege, it was a time of preparation and as privilege and responsibility are so closely associated, we felt that we were responsible to God as to how we received His messages and from responsibility of hearing we come to the responsibility of sharing, for as we share, there comes back God's promises fulfilled, that truth shall be revealed to us as we share that truth with others. The lessons about vision, privilege, responsibility, sharing, personality, were ever in the foreground. Then our bodies are temples, and should be kept clean within and clean without. I am again reminded that Dr. Arbuckle told us we could not control the things that fly about over our heads, but we were responsible for the nests built in our hair. Now if we have given an impression worth while, I am glad. I am hoping some girl or woman may begin now to think of going to Chambersburg next summer.

CAMP MEETING REPORT.

The great Camp Meeting held at the new tabernacle, Wakefield, Va., camp grounds, which came to a close on Sunday night, August 9th, was a wonderful success, notwithstanding the odds of depression, a bank failure in the vicinity and the extreme hot and oppressive weather.

Rev. O. B. Newton, pastor of Asbury M. E. church, Richmond, Va., a great preacher and teacher, and Rev. H. C. Caviness, pastor First Christian Church, Portsmouth, Va., also an evangelist of power, brought wonderful gospel messages, which produced great conviction for sin, and hunger for the deeper things of God.

Dr. W. D. Harward, of Windsor, Va., and Rev. T. N. Lowe, of Hopewell, Va., also brought great messages during the meeting.

A large number of seekers came to the altar with a heart-cry for the need of their souls. At the closing service on Sunday night, there were 20 professions of conversion, and some for heart purity. The Holy Ghost was manifestly present to execute His office work in every hungry seeking heart.

There were a number of campers on the grounds from various cities and towns. Two pianos were loaned us by R. C. Bristow & Son, Petersburg, Va. Mrs. Otho M. Cockes, Elberon, Va., and Mrs. F. S. Traylor of Wakefield, Va., officiated as pianists, with Otho M. Cockes as music director and song leader. Several contributed by service with cornets and violins, and specials in vocals that added wonderfully to the effectiveness of the music, which was soul-stirring.

Rev. and Mrs. H. B. Hall and daughter, Dorothy, of Richmond, Va., had charge of the dining hall, furnishing delicious food, and Miss Emma Hedd, of Washington, D. C., was matron of the grounds, doing her best to make everybody comfortable.

All told, it was one of the best meetings in the history of the camp. "C."

DENDRON VA. MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The Young People's Missionary Society at Dendron meets regularly every third Sunday morning, at the Church, immediately after Sunday School. We have very interesting meetings which are planned by some member of the society assisted by the superintendent.

We have been represented at the missionary conferences by delegates, also at the "Youth's Congress."

We are very proud of our work here at Dendron and hope that we can continue doing our part of the work successfully during the coming year. B. BARRETT.

That person is wise indeed who knows what to say, and says it at the right time. Do not just think that you know, watch yourself and see. Then try to improve upon this, a truly Christian virtue.

JUST TRY.

Do you feel an urge to do a task,
A something you've not tried,
Yet somehow have a lurking fear;
To fail would hurt your pride?
Cast off the doubt that holds you down,
Bid timid fears good-by;
You know not what you may attain,
If you but "up and try."

The way that looks so dark ahead,
Will open to your view;
Each step will show a progress made,
And help you "carry through."
Don't think of failure, but instead
Just hold your courage high;
And do the very best you can,
At least you've made "a try."

Suppose you fail, well, try again
Others have done the same;
Practice makes perfect, don't you know,
Stick to it, wins the game.
Don't quit because you loose a point,
Just seek the reason why;
You'll make it surely in the end,
So don't give up—just try.

F. W. Workman.

"You can tell how much of the Bible a man believes when you know how much of it he lives."

COMBINATION OFFER—To a new subscriber or for renewal, $2.25, either Gentleman's (Capitol) Pen or Ladies' Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. And to "Sun" subscribers, not in arrears, any Pen at one-fourth off. Address: THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1536 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us. Postage paid and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer. MEN'S PENS—Capitol, $2.00; Mercantile, $2.50; Cardinal, $3.00. LADIES' PENS, $2.00.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN

ADVENTURES IN YOUTH FELLOWSHIP

"Youth at Work in the Church."

JEWEL TRUITT, Editor, Waverly, Virginia.

WHY YOUNG PEOPLE ATTEND CHURCH.

By RUBY PILAND.

(Delivered before the Young People's Conference at Suffolk, Va., August 20, 1931.)

Have we, as young people, ever stopped to think why we attend church?

How easy it is for older people to forget the thoughts that occupied their minds when they were younger. How often they overlook the fact that each year that has crept on may have changed their way of looking at different things that are a part of life. How easy it is for them to convince themselves that the young people of today are different entirely from what they were in their early youth, that when they were young, they were settled in their ways of thinking, while the youth of today are not, and have no goal or purpose in their minds. Why is this idea settled in the minds of our elders? Simply because they are not able to see from the viewpoint of youth and understand their motives in dealing with problems of life.

Search history, if you will, to see if the world has ever brought to light a generation of young men and young women who were so willing and anxious to help in the great tasks that lie before church and society. Search and study church records, and see if young people have ever before held such responsible positions in the church or rendered any service that is comparable to the service the youth of today are rendering in the life and activity of the church.

Today the question is asked, "Why do young people attend church?" Some who do not thoroughly understand the motives of youth have given answers which are not correct. We find all types of young people, and according to the types are their reasons for attending church.

Some have said they go to church because of curiosity—to see and be seen. This answer will not bear questioning. If young people wanted to see sights and to be seen, certainly they would not choose the church. Instead, on Sunday they would go on excursions and to beaches where they would see hundreds more than can be possibly found at one church. In the case of this reply, false judgments and answers are given which are unrealized by youth.

We find a few who attend to cover their sinful doings and to pretend to be what they are not.

We admit that some attend church because they were brought up to attend regularly, and finally it became a habit. We do not continue to go to school because we were brought up to go to school until it became a habit. Those who go to church simply because it is a habit are soon to be found breaking that habit.

There are some who go to discuss daily topics and to see their friends. This situation is found chiefly in country churches.

Some go to try to get others linked to Jesus Christ, and with each other, through the church, in a great Christian venture to spread the good news of His kingdom. If only there were more of us who went to church for this reason!

We will not hesitate to say in all truth and sincerity, after finding out the real motives of youth, that young people are persuaded in their own minds to become a part of the church from the motive of service. The youth of our day are full of life and energy. They like to see things making progress and moving along. They are full of power which needs to be used, and if it can only be connected with the wheels of progress, it will make things go! That church which will give its young people places of responsibility and service is the church whose young people are most active in attendance. Responsibility in the church will also cause them to get others to go to church.

Let me illustrate with twelve young people who may be in any church. Give six of them places of responsibility and service. Just let the other six stay in the church. Which group has the best attendance record at the end of the year? In most cases the ones who held the positions of service. This shows that some attend church to serve.

When young people have high, lofty and noble ideals, they are full of energy and want to be doing something. If the church will take them in, give them a place to put that energy to work and something to do, they will by means of a suitable program interest them and cause the church's interests to be their interests, else they are going to some place not so wholesome, where they may exert themselves. Then we hear people say, "Our young people are going to the bad." Who is to blame?

C. E. PROGRAM ADOPTED.

At the recent Annual meeting of the Young People of the Reformed Church in the United States in the state of North Carolina, the Christian Endeavor program was adopted as the agency for this group. The Reformed Church has always stood for the World Wide Christian Endeavor Movement, but through this action, the Young People of the churches which are located in North Carolina have determined to definitely use Christian Endeavor as their major instrument for development. They have done this because they believe that there is power to be gained in the wider outlook and broader fellowship of this great movement for God and youth. Christ must have the best that young people can offer. This can be found in a great united effort. Since this is true, the Reformed Church Young People's Conference in this Southern state took action that all Young People's Societies in their Classes affiliated with the state C. E. Work. Societies were urged to join city and county unions, and where there are none, to aid in forming such.

Not only did the youth of the church adopt Christian Endeavor, but the committee on young people's work of the North Carolina Classes in making their annual report recommended that the Pastors and Delegate Elders take similar action. This was done in order that the young people might know that they have the sanction and backing of the ministry of the church. It is hoped that these youths will help Christian Endeavor and that Christian Endeavor will help them and all for God.

No one can fill exactly the place you are supposed to fill, so you must learn to fill your own place and stand on your own mental, moral and spiritual feet.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

September 20, 1931.

OUR SHARE IN MAKING CHRIST KNOWN TO THE WORLD.

This meeting May well be a time when plans for the future missionary activities and programs of the Society may be discussed. The share of our denomination may be studied, as well as our local church's share in making the Gospel of Christ known to others. A definite goal towards which to work will help the Society in accomplishing something definite and tangible.

At the meeting some one may give the following facts, in regards to things accomplished for missions in your local church for the past year:

1. Amount church gave to missions last year.
2. Amount young people gave to missions last year.
3. Per capita amount for each church member.
4. Per capita for each young person.
5. How many people in the church actually contributed anything to missions?
6. Did the young people lead, or lag behind, in this work?
7. How many people in your local church gave time and effort to local home-missionary work?
8. How many young people help in this work?

As an incentive for better giving among your Society members for the coming year present these figures to the Society: $50.00 will pay a native pastor's salary for six months in Africa, India or Tibet; $5.00 will care for an orphan for a month in either of these countries; $2.00 will support a mission hospital bed for a month. Similar figures may be found in our missionary magazine The Missionary Herald.

About fifty per cent of Christian Churches in the South contribute regularly to Missions. This means at certain regular times. Of this fifty per cent, many give very small sums. Of course, money is not all the contribution we can, or must, give if our missionary enterprise is to succeed. We can give of our time and prayers, too. But some money is necessary. If we are not willing to give our money the chances are almost always against our working or praying. Every church should be on the list of liberal givers to the work of spreading the Gospel of Christ.

The influence of Christian personality and living in home, school, and community counts in making Christ known. It is a "pet theory" of the writer of these notes: That if every Christian lived the kind of life it is possible for Christians to live, and which they should strive to live, that Christianity would win its own converts. Under these conditions other nations would probably send people to Christian countries to study Christianity as they now send educators to study educational systems and projects.

One fact that some Christians manage to overlook is that Christ left this work of telling the Gospel to His followers. He did not say that a few were to do the task. It is true that only a few will go to other countries, but there is telling to be done at home. Many who may live near your own door have not heard the Gospel in a soul-satisfying way. And a statistician has given us the fact that less than fifty per cent of the mothers and children of the world know the story of Jesus well enough to tell it to their own children. Indeed, some of our share in making Christ known to the world needs to be done at home. But the Story of Jesus does not and should not stop there. It should be shared with the world, and we who know it are the ones to share it.

Daily Readings.

September 14th, Acts 10:24-48.

September 15th, Acts 8:1.

September 16th, I Corinthians 2:1-5.

September 17th, Philippians 4:10-19.

September 18th, Mark 5:35-51.

September 19th, John 1:35-51.

JEWEL TRUITT.

Sunday School Lesson

By REV. H. S. HARDCASTLE.

THE COUNCIL IN JERUSALEM.

LESSON XII—SEPTEMBER 20, 1931.

GOLDEN TEXT: "For ye, brethren, were called for freedom; only use not your freedom for an occasion to the flesh, but through love be servants one to another."—Gal. 5: 13.

LESSON: Acts 15: 1-35; Gal. 2.

An Acute Problem.

Christianity was facing the crisis. There was a certain group which insisted that the only way in which a man could become a Christian or could be saved was by observing all the laws of Moses, that is by law. They were boldly declaring this in the church at Antioch. Paul with his inspired insight saw this was a denial of the very heart of Christianity and of the spirit of Christ. He insisted that faith in Christ's atonement is the only condition of salvation. The issue was clear-cut and vital. It is the question of today also: What is essential to Christianity?

A Sound Suggestion.

These people used common sense in the matter. They decided to go to Jerusalem where many of the apostles and church leaders who had known Christ in the flesh were still living. How much better it would be if when folks had differences they would meet in a friendly spirit to discuss these differences. What an encouraging sign it is that nations are coming to see the wisdom of sitting down to consider their differences and to study their problems in friendly council and in common purpose to find a way out. The League of Nations and the World Court are becoming increasingly effective.

A Friendly Council.

This was the first council, Paul and Barnabas and those who came with them told a small group at the sitting. But there were those in that group who believed that salvation was the law of Moses. In a friendly spirit, therefore, they called a full meeting of the church, and proceeded to hear the evidence. Simon Peter gave a very striking testimony. He told of his experience with Cornelius and the power of God himself, who put his seal upon salvation by faith by sending his spirit upon the Gentiles. He suggested, therefore, that it would be inconsistent for them to refuse to accept the Gentiles on that basis that he was saved.

Paul and Barnabas then spoke to the question. They declared the miracles and wonders which God had wrought among the Gentiles by them. And they had not preached the law—everywhere they went they had exalted Christ and insisted that men believe on Him, and be saved. One of the most stubborn facts that the opponents of Christianity has to deal with is the transformed lives of those who have come under the influence of the gospel. There is evidence that cannot be denied or ruled out of order.

A Satisfactory Solution.

When the evidence was all in there was but one verdict. James, the brother of Jesus himself, who had become a believer when Christ rose from the dead stated that verdict. The Gentiles were to be accepted on the basis of faith in Jesus Christ. Circumcision and conformity with ceremonial law was made unnecessary. But in the interest of harmony and out of respect of Jewish feelings Gentiles were to refrain from their old indecencies of their old idolatry especially fornication, and should yield to Jewish laws by not drinking blood or eating animals that had been offered to idols. It was a compromise in which no principle was violated, and that was a very satisfactory solution to the situation.

RELIGIOUS BOOKS

Reviewed by

W. A. HARPER, BOOK EDITOR.

(Any book reviewed in this Department may be had of The Christian Sun at the publisher's price.)

LIVING PHILOSOPHERS. By Twenty-two Representative Modern Thinkers. Simon and Schuster; pp. 334; $2.50.

It is the fashion now-a-days in the book world to gather together a hodge-podge of opinions and palm the result off as scientific. The procedure is certainly not psychologically sound when it presumes to secure from each contributor his "credo about the universe." But every such contributor will strut and pose rather than present a photographic account of his philosophy. The writers in this book, chosen from all parts of the world, are guilty of this practice. The reader feels it as he mulls over the several chapters—invariably feels it. A far better method of ascertaining the life philosophy of these writers would be to read what they have said, and said on occasions entirely removed from the stage-play for philosophic discussion. The true philosophy will then be found.

Then again of what particular value philosophically and religiously speaking (and most of these 22 slip over into religion unconsciously) is the opinion of such men as Einstein, Mencken, Haldane, Babbitt, Dreiser, Russell? John Dewey is a philosopher, and a good one, but the others are scientists or literateurs, iconoclasts, or what not. Dean Sage is the only minister whose opinion is sought, and, too, is not so gloomy on this intellectual strut as he is known to be elsewhere. One feels especially the omission of such leaders as Gandhi, Rufus M. Jones, Kagawa, Fosdick, to mention only a few.

The men chosen are neither religionists nor philosophers, and though they are mighty interesting men and women, the book is valueless for scientific purposes. It is nevertheless interesting reading.

W. A. H.

An Abiding Principle.

In Paul's letter to the Galatians, second chapter, we have another account of this battle for Christian liberty and freedom. Paul saw that everything was at stake and he used all his powers of mind and heart establishing once for all the principle that men are to be saved by trusting in Christ's atoning death and not in any "works of the law," anything that they can do for themselves.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the number and price.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75
India Paper Edition, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00
Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3/8 x 8 Inches, and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.00
Minion Type, Pocket Size, 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold.....$1.60
Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.50
2173—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges$6.00

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 16-16 of an Inch Thick.

133X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 5 1/2 Inches, and 1 inch thick, with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 5 1/2 Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.

65—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps$2.50

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3/8 x 8 1/2 Inches and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With Concise Bible Dictionary, combined Concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.75

RED-LETTER EDITION.

With All the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands; title stamped on side and back in pure gold$3.25

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations; special book for Sunday Schools95c

Any of the above Bibles sent postpaid. Address
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY H. E. ROUNTREE

One of our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"O Lord, I beseech thee, let now thine ear be attentive to the prayer of thy servant, and to the prayer of thy servants, who desire to fear thy name, and prosper, I pray thee, thy servant this day."

MONDAY.

LIP OR HEART SERVICE.

Lesson: Mark 7: 6-13.

This people honoreth me with their lips, but their heart is far from me. . . . Making the Word of God of none effect." Verses 6 and 13.

This may be true of anyone who goes to church, reads his prayers, sings the songs, takes the communion, leads a decent life; yet is spiritually dead and has no consciousness of sin nor grace, and will not admit the necessity for repentance and a new birth. It is too bad, there are many such, even among those who are regarded as patterns of piety,—they are without the daily knowledge of sin and the grace of the blood of Jesus Christ. They are severe in their pronouncements upon the children of the world, but they give short measure, top a basket of little berries with large, luscious ones, are willing to profit at the expense of others, and drive hard bargains. These are the greatest hindrance to the Church and the advancement of the Kingdom. Let none think that such are the truly pious.

It is time for us all to examine ourselves in the light of God's Word as in the sight of God. We should study to shun the very semblance of hypocrisy as the lowest of satan's works. It is time we had a keen sense of obedience to God's Word and a conscience void of offense.

Prayer.—Help us, O God, that our hearts may fear Thee, and that we may in truth honor Thee. Grant us grace to live true holiness, in holy charity. Amen.

TUESDAY.

SWEET WORD.

Lesson: Psalm 119: 97-105.

"O how love I thy law. . . . How sweet are thy words unto my taste!" Verses 97 and 103.

We ponder and we wonder sometimes how many Christians felt as David did about it. We ponder just how much we ourselves find God's Word our greatest treasure. Then, when we find ourselves reading it on and on with delight, and suffering heart aches when observing so many about us who not only know nothing of its sweetness, but who know nothing of it at all, we begin to realize somewhat of its precious delights to us, and we pray God to make His Word a delight to us as it must have been to the writer of this Psalm.

Thousands read the newspapers, the magazines, and books ravenously, play cards all day and all night, and the Word of life, happiness and peace lies covered with dust, or packed away for safe keeping. They have time for balls and banquets, but they are too busy to read His Word or to go to church; and when they do go, it is not for the purpose of hearing what the Lord will say unto them.

What is wrong? They are not partakers of the blessings of the Holy Ghost. When so blessed, they will love the word and would not miss its truths for anything.

God's word is our only source of light; it shows the Father's tender love and leads us to our home above. Meditate upon it when you are not obliged to spend your thoughts with other work and do not forget that God is present. Then, walk faithfully in the light, hating every false way, and undertake nothing without inquiring for the light. There are those who never tire of this and their lives bear the glory of transfiguration and they love the gospel.

Prayer.—Merciful God, grant us the favor of delight in thy word. Enlighten us by thy spirit, and make it our holy desire to live according to thy precepts. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

"THOU SHALT LOVE."

Lesson: Matt. 22:34-46.

What a beautiful commandment! Love is the best thing in life and there is no salvation without it. Love God above all things. and thy neighbor as thyself; this do and thou shalt live. (Luke 10:27, 28.)

What a just thing it is! It embraces everything that is good. All the other commandments are but reflections of this one.

Have we that love or have we lost it? If we have it not, we are unhappy, discontented, condemned and lost. Would that there were some way in which such hearts could give up their resistance, agree with God's law that the love and will of God might become their wills and desires. Yes, there is a way: By the gift of the Holy Ghost, through Jesus the Son, any one can be begotten anew—made a new creature and realize that love. Christ has fulfilled the love for us, has loved us with a perfect love, and has secured pardon on the cross that whosoever believeth on him might live. The Holy Ghost gives us grace to believe this, to act upon it and partake of it. Thus we are in Christ and He in us. So born again, we can and will practice love by obedience to all the commandments and all that is to the contrary, love of self, hate, covetousness and all the lusts of the flesh—will die, that we may sit in the heavenly place of love.

Prayer.—Dear Lord, enable us to make diligent use of the power which Thou hast given us, obey Thy voice, conform to Thy spirit, and take Christ in our souls. Amen.

THURSDAY.

WITHOUT BLAME.

Lesson: Eph. 1:3-7.

"That we should be holy and without blame before him." Verse 4.

God has given us His son, and by his life, death and resurrection, redeemed us from death and the devil; received us into his fellowship; forgiven us of our sins; created in us a new heart; given us spiritual light; and keeps us by his power unto the appointed end of glory. All believers are included in this salvation wherein "the spirits of just men are made perfect." "That we should be holy and without blame."

Prayer.—Dear Lord God, we are deeply sensible of our unworthiness, but we are deeply thankful that in thy good pleasure Thou hast redeemed us through Christ and adopted us into thy family. We will, then, by Thy grace, serve Thee with all our souls. So help us by Thy spirit. Amen.

FRIDAY.

IMPERATIVE THANKSGIVING.

Lesson: I Cor. 1:4-8.

"I thank God always on your behalf." Verse 4.

We are told that Paul wrote to the Corinthians with a sad heart because of the wickedness of the church, yet his love for them, his incite into their lives, is occasion for continuous thanksgiving.

In like manner we should be able to see that the numerous infirmities of the Church should never for one moment interrupt our thanksgiving.

The Scriptures with their enriching life are open to us; we walk nowhere in darkness; we have all the knowledge necessary as a key to the highest life; there are many everywhere upon whose hearts the Holy Ghost has placed the seal of salvation; all of which should hearten us.

There may be reason for complaints, as Paul had, but likewise with him we have fellowship with God. Pure eyes look upon that which is pure and rejoice in every virtue. It is by this kind of life that society shall be delivered. All shall become perfect in holiness and the Church shall stand at last an undefiled bride at the Lord's side.

These are things, it appears, which were continually before Paul and for which he gave thanks always.

Prayer.—Give us, O God, the humble and grateful spirit of faith; and confirm us in the truth unto the end, for Jesus' sake. Amen.

SATURDAY.

GATHERING TOGETHER.

Lesson: Eph. 1:8-14.

"He might gather together in one all things in Christ." Verse 10.

Causing "all things to work together for good" and the gathering together all things in Christ, and to bring all things ultimately to praise him, seems to be the unquestionable pleasure of the Lord.

He who sees this cannot let Him go. He expects salvation at His hands, worships with child-like love and confidence; and has his peace and joy in Him. The longing after God, and the joy in God's love, is our seal which cannot fail to be valid.

Let not imperfection create any doubt. He shall not fail until every enemy is destroyed and the perfect is come.

Prayer.—Our Father, praise be to Thee. Enlighten us that we may know the excellence of Thy way through the maze of this wicked world. Give us grace to gather together with Thee all that be of Thee and unite all in Christ. Amen.

SUNDAY.

WITHOUT CONDEMNATION.

Lesson: Rom. 8:1-4.

"There is . . . no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus." Verse 1.

What a secure and happy feeling it is to have a clear conscience—to be guilty of nothing in which we can be condemned! To have; a clear conscience void of offense presupposes of course, that we have a conscience, or that, having one, we have not seared it beyond feeling, or sand-bagged it into unconsciousness. There are some who fall into the ways of the world and reach the state where they have no sense or compunction of conscience about sin any more. May God be merciful until they come to life again. Frivolous, carnal, pleasure-bent, self-righteous persons do not know that they are condemned, and thus remain unmoved when they read or hear the words of life. Of course they have no spiritual difficulties as the devil does not assail their faith. It is dead. At the same time, it is a fact which every one can reasonably know that he who feels no condemnation and has no knowledge of the fight of faith, there is nothing for him. It is like closing the eyes to the beyond and glory of a full bloom flower garden and saying "there are no flowers."

The fact is, we have to forget and lose ourselves in all that we do and say and look to Christ only for the light, for the life and for the uplift. We may be able to find some comfort in our own feel-

(Continued on page 13.)

THE CHRISTIAN SUN'S PULPIT

REV. JOSEPH W. FIX, Preacher.

THE SANCTUARY OF SOLITUDE.

By REV. WM. F. SAYE.

"And in the morning, rising up a great while before day, He went out into a solitary place, and there prayed."—Mark 1: 35.

There are two great sanctuaries of the religious life. One is where we gather together to publicly worship God as one unified body of Christian believers. Here is where we initiate the commandment to love our fellow-men. The other sanctuary is where and when we go "out into a solitary place, and there pray." It is to be found wherever the individual meets God alone in prayer and meditation. Truly this sanctuary can be called the Holy of Holies of our religious lives. It is upon this sanctuary, the sanctuary of solitude, that I wish to speak for a while.

In the latter part of the book of Psalms there are fifteen short songs which show us the thoughts and feelings of a good religious Jew at various stages on his pilgrimage to Jerusalem to keep one of the great feasts of a religious holiday. Says Dean Sperry of Harvard Divinity School, commenting on these songs, "They begin in solitude and end in society, as does all true worship. The pilgrim starts from the far country of Divine discontent and ends in the temple which is the place of Divine grace."

But do we begin in solitude? It would probably be embarrassing, I know, for me to personally ask each one of you this question, "Do you ever withdraw into a solitary place for prayer and thought?" Jesus did. If the truth were actually revealed on this matter it would be very embarrassing for the majority of us Christians. The church is the only place in our lives for worship. I suppose from this fact alone the church has a legitimate place in society, for without it there would be little attention paid by the most of us to the worshipful side of religion. Few are they who worship God in the beauty of nature. Fewer still are they who worship God in silence. If only we would learn to begin the journey of worship in solitude, what a great change would take place in the sanctuary of public worship. A sense of Divine presence would come into the collective service which would be incalculable and immeasurable.

May we ask ourselves why is there this lack of the real in the sanctuary of solitude? In the first place, is it not true that we have been taught and have learned to depend upon public worship to deepen and enrich and spiritualize our religious natures? Few of us would worship in song if there were not those to sing with us. It is so much easier to lift one's voice heavenward in the crowd. How many of us pray the Lord's prayer alone with God? O yes, we repeat it, as we say. It is to us too often a repetition of so many unmeaningful words. Yet what meaning we have in these words, and what little use we make of it! Were we to destroy all our religion but this prayer with the knowledge of the person who first prayed it and who lived out its teachings, we would still have enough to yet build the greatest religion ever known or ever to be known.

Still another reason for our lack of the real in the sanctuary of solitude is, we are too busy with the day's work and pleasures. The long day's work, that is if we work, and the night's pleasures exhaust our bodily and mental strength until we stand barren before the great God of strength. Night calls our weary eyes and tired bodies into unconscious sleep. The brain and the body are too completely overpowered with fatigue so that we cannot concentrate upon Reality Divine. Like the disciples of old we sleep while the Master calls, "Could ye not watch with me one hour?"

Jesus' whole busy life, though, was connected with the sanctuary of solitude. "In the morning, rising up a great while before day, he went out into a solitary place, and there prayed." Jesus always withdrew apart to renew his strength from the source of the All-powerful. When He chose his vocation as Saviour He spent forty days alone with God in the wilderness. When He asked men to follow Him, He spent the whole night before in prayer. Facing the crucifixion, He took his disciples apart in the garden of Gethsemane, while He withdrew into a sanctuary of solitude, and there He prayed as if drops of blood were flowing from his sorrowful brow. Never get the idea that Jesus was a hermit who withdrew from the world in a monkish fashion, but too remember He connected his work with the sanctuary of solitude.

If anyone had an excuse for rest from a busy day's work, it was Jesus. His entire ministry was filled with work. But instead of gaining refreshment in unconscious sleep altogether, He drew apart in conscious fellowship with God. Religious fellowship with God will often bring restful quietude as unconsciousness will not. "God is our refuge and strength, a present help in time of need."—The Christian-Evangelist.

FAMILY ALTAR.

(Continued from page 12.)

ings. But that is pharisaical and shallow. That is the rocky soil the sower sowed seed in, said the Master. But they who are taught to believe and who are taught to launch out on the deep, to cast over the net, to do so then shall find themselves free from the load of sin and death.

Prayer.—Dear God, our Father, help us in this most important of all concerns. Teach us and guide us, that Jesus may be to us the way, the truth, the life. Amen.

FROM ALABAMA.

Dear Bro. Editor:

On the second Sunday in June I went over to LaGrange, Ga., to assist Bro. C. W. Hanson in a two weeks revival. We had a splendid meeting from the beginning, the interest and cooperation was just splendid. I enjoyed every moment of my time while there.

I came from there to my work at Lowell, Roanoke, and began our revival the fourth Sunday night in June. Bro. C. W. Hanson preached each night and I preached each day, for ten days. Had a real revival with 47 additions to the church, 10 upon profession of faith. I am expecting more to come soon.

Beginning the first Sunday in August, we enjoyed a real revival at Mt. Zion. We appreciated having Miss Sallie Poose to do the preaching. There were four additions to the church.

After being engaged in revival work for eight weeks, I had the pleasure of attending the revival at the first Christian Church, Roanoke, Ala., Rev. G. D. Hunt, pastor, assisted by Rev. C. C. Ryan, D. D., of Richmond, Va., who did the preaching in a most excellent way.

We are looking forward to the time when Bro. Ryan will be with us again.

I have enjoyed my work this year very much despite the hardships and difficulties that were my own to overcome. I thank my Lord and my Christ for all this. I am requesting the SUN family to pray for me that I may become a more successful pastor and preacher.

W. T. MEACHAM.

Lowell, Roanoke, Ala.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATED.

The Silver-plated Ware is of the very highest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses.$22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 85. 11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plated; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling). $22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90. 14.00

Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim.....$ 9.00
Bread Plate No. 4—Broad rim..... 9.00
Filler—Silver lined 6.00

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, - - Richmond, Virginia

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

The Orphanage had a good day on Sunday, August 30th. It was the meeting of the "Home Coming Day Society." A number of the former children came home. The devotional services were conducted by Dr. J. O. Atkinson, and the principle address was delivered by our good friend, J. M. Darden, who is president of the society. Mr. Darden is deeply interested in the Christian Orphanage, and he gives it of his time as well as financial aid. He is loved by every child in the institution, and when he comes to talk to the children, he always brings a message that is inspiring and gripping. It is interesting to notice the undivided attention they give him—they almost forget to breathe. His message was timely and to the point.

Lunch was served in picnic style, and the orphanage family and visitors mingled together and had a good day. In the afternoon the society held its annual meeting and elected officers for the ensuing year.

We trust that the interest of the children who have been reared here and gone out will grow as time goes on and that in a few years we will have a large membership.

The orphanage is feeling the depression very keenly, and the income has been far below the expense account. We cut every item of expense that is possible and stretch every dollar to the limit. The children eat and wear as much when money comes in slowly as they do when it comes in bountifully. Let every one come to our aid at this time.

The Octagon soap coupons have been coming in nicely. If every Sunday School would send a thousand, we could get our refrigerator.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR SEPTEMBER 10, 1931.

Brought forward	$10,352.93
Sunday School Monthly Offerings.
North Carolina and Virginia Conference:
Greensboro First	$ 9.70
Salem Chapel	1.35
	11.05
Western North Carolina Conference:
Providence Memorial	1.65
Eastern Virginia Conference:
First Norfolk	$ 4.72
Holland	10.00
Antioch	1.35
	16.07
Valley Virginia Central Conference:
Mt. Lebanon	.70
Special Offerings.
Mrs. Newberry, support Lavalette ..	$ 5.00
C. A. Penn, support Miller children ..	50.00
Mr. Blizzard, support of children ..	5.00
"A Friend," Chapel Hill, N. C., support of Thelma Long	10.00
C. M. Horner, support of Hazel ...	20.00
Christian Church, Roanoke, Ala. ...	1.00
Interest	57.16
Mrs. J. U. Newman	1.60
Mrs. Maynor, support of Rebecca ..	10.00
Refund on gasoline by State	60.24
	220.00
Total for the week	$ 249.47
Grand total	$10,602.40

The annual report of Rev. Clark Williamson, General Secretary of Young People's work for the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, shows that there have been 118 societies added during the year. There was a net gain of 69 and there is now a total on roll of 463 societies. These 463 societies are found in 377 churches. There was a gain of 72 churches. This year 193 societies contributed $1,339.72, where last year 151 societies contributed $1,112.84, showing a gain of 42 societies contributing.

ORIGINS.

By ANNA LLOYD.

I am surrounded by such primal things:

This desk that shares my songs was once a tree
Nurtured by sun and rain. The lamp that brings

Me cheer is linked with lightning's majesty;
And I am pillowed on the breasts of birds.

My sheets are flowers and my blankets lambs;
And in my rugs I see the camel-herds

On Orient hills in deep-hued diagrams.

I play upon the tusks of jungle beasts,
And loop the sea in corals round my throat;

Silver is mined to ornament my feasts;

Cocoons concerned in fashioning my coat.

I would live reverently, encompassed by These sacrificial things—for who am I?

—New York Times.

NOTICE.

I am making a change in churches this Conference year, and will be glad to correspond with any church or churches desiring my services in regards to church work.

W. B. FULLER,
313 Greene St.,
Harrisonburg, Va.

Eiffers Sunday School Maps.

On a Revolving Adjustable Steel Stand

The first 5 maps
are in Set No. 1,
with stand,
Price $15.00

Set No. 2
8 Maps,
Price $20.00

Fine large Maps, in 6 Colors 36x57, on linen finished Cloth. Mounted on a folding steel stand, which can be regulated, so that Maps may be seen to the best advantage. This set contains data for thorough Bible Study. Its large print and Cheerful Colors makes this set very instructive and attractive. Contains the five thoroughly up to date Maps necessary to the study of Bible History.

New Testament Palestine, — Old Testament Palestine, — Roman empire and Bible Lands, showing Pauls Travels by Colored lines. — Lands of the Old Testament, from the Great Sea, to the Persian Gulf. — The Exodus, Egypt, showing by Colored lines the wanderings of the Israelites.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN,

1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia.

ALL
SELF-
PRONOUNCING

holman Testaments

COMMAND
ATTENTION
AND APPROVAL

Holman Vest-Pocket Testament

Size, 2 5/8 x 4 1/2 inches

Specimen of Type.

AND the third day there
was a marriage in
Cana of Galilee; and
the mother of Je'sus was

The VEST POCKET is, beyond question, the most popular Testament published. In size, 2 5/8 x 4 1/2 inches, it is not much larger than the Vest Pocket. It is also the only Testament of its size with large bold type and pronouncing text.

2104. Dark Blue Silk Finished Cloth, with edges colored to match, gold titles. $.50
2103K. Morocco Grained Binding, flexible limp, gold edges and titles.60
2114. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges.85

VEST POCKET TESTAMENT AND PSALMS
2103KP. Morocco Grained Binding, limp, gold titles, round corners, gold edges.70
2114P. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges.90
2115P. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges. 1.10

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS
With all the words of our Lord and Saviour printed in red.
13RL. French Morocco Leather, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, rounded corners, gold edges.90
15RLP. French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, gold title on red panel, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 1.35

Holman Jewel Testament

INDIA PAPER ONLY—Size 2 1/4 x 4 1/4 inches x 3/4 inch
The JEWEL is the latest and most attractive Pocket Testament made. The TYPE is black, bold and larger than that in the famous Vest Pocket edition, and the book itself is smaller. It is printed exclusively on the famous Holman India paper, noted for its opaque quality and unusual tensile strength. One advantage of this India paper is that the leaves do not cling together. The size, 2 1/4 x 4 1/4 inches, is so small that the book practically fits the palm of the hand.

Specimen of Type

ST. MATTHEW 2 The three wise men
carrying away into Babylon are fourteen generations; and from the carrying away into Babylon unto Christ are fourteen

5003X. Morocco Grained Binding, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges. $1.00
5015PX. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, Psalms included. 1.50
5036PX. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather linings to edge, silk sewed, red under gold edges, with Psalms. 2.60

Holman GEM Testament

POCKET
SIZE
3 3/4 x 4 1/2
inches

Specimen of Gem Black Faced Type

CHAPTER 23.

THEN spake Je'sus to the multitude, and to his disciples,

The GEM TESTAMENT has been steadily growing in popular favor ever since its first appearance. In size, 3 3/4 x 4 1/2 inches, it is not much larger than the Vest Pocket. It is also the only Testament of its size with large bold type and pronouncing text.

The edition on India paper is ideal, and we know of no better gift at the price than one in the finer bindings.

4102P. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red burnished edges, with Psalms. $.90
4113. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges. 1.35
4115P. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 1.90

RED LETTER GEM TESTAMENT

4113RL. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges. 1.50
INDIA PAPER GEM TESTAMENT
4136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather linings to edge, red under gold edges, with Psalms. 3.00
4136XPRL. Red Letter Edition with Psalms, same binding as 4136XP, but with the Sayings of Christ Printed in Red. 3.25

Old Folks Testament

Extra Large Print
Pica, 16mo. Size, 5 1/4 x 7 1/4 inches
Old folks or those with poor sight will appreciate the advantage of this Testament. The type is a delight to the eye with its wide spacing between the lines. It is the most readable edition of all large print Testaments.

Specimen of Type.
THE book
of Je'sus

PSALMS INCLUDED
2902P. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red edges, with Book of Psalms included. $1.50

THIN BIBLE PAPER EDITIONS
Same Large Print as Above

2913P. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 2.95

Same as above, with the Sayings of Christ in Red.
3913PRL. French Morocco Leather, flexible covers, gold side title on red panel, rounded corners, red under gold edges, and with Book of Psalms included. 3.10

All styles sent postpaid at above prices

GIVE US JESUS.

"Give us Jesus," said a Hindu to me, "just Jesus. Do not be afraid that we will make a human Jesus out of Him, for His divinity will shine out of its own accord."

At any rate there was never a situation in which Jesus was not master, and never more so than when He was upon the cross, and even in the tomb. He will be master upon the Indian Road—yes, even at the crossroads of India, where rival creed and clashing thought flow—

"Where cross the crowded ways of life,
Where sound the cries of race and clan
Above the noise of selfish strife,
We hear thy voice, O Son of Man."

—E. Stanley Jones.

AN EXPERIMENT IN REGULATION.

Many of our cities prohibit the sale and the use of Fourth of July fire works. This is "absolute prohibition," enforced in the interests of the safety of the people, and for the prevention of fires with the consequent destruction of thousands of dollars of property. But most particularly it is a prohibition to protect the "life and limb" of young America. And young America does not fancy it. He may never have heard of that precious shibboleth of the wets, "personal liberty," but whether he can express himself in this term or not he has a feeling that his rights are being interfered with.

Since our cities have adopted this absolute prohibition policy there has been a remarkable decrease in Fourth of July fatalities and property loss. Here prohibition is proving to be the best solution for the Fourth of July worries of several decades ago which used to drive anxious parents frantic.

Pittsburgh's experiment with regulation, therefore, is interesting. A majority of the city council of Pittsburgh decided that license is superior to prohibition in promoting a "sane Fourth." The arguments of the wets in their plea for the license of liquor were the same arguments used by the Pittsburgh city council in behalf of licensed sale of explosives.

"License retailers of fire works and thereby drive out of business those fellows who are selling fire works surreptitiously; the licensed dealer would be operating under a permit for which he would pay the city $50, thereby bringing in a handsome revenue, but would be under strict supervision of the authorities, therefore, the explosives he would sell would be robbed of their power to maim or to start fires," were the arguments used. It was a beautiful theory but it didn't work.

The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette of July 16, in an editorial, tells why. The following are excerpts from the editorial:

"... The noise and the inevitable casualty list left no doubt of the general sale. The total of the casualties, indicated in the preliminary reports as heavy, may not be known for more than a month. One of the most saddening features is that the outcome in some of the cases of injury is yet in doubt."

But that is not all. Regulation did not prevent bootlegging of fire works for the editorial says:

"... The total fireworks sales permits reported in the city to date is only around seventy-nine, whereas there are claims that the explosives were purchaseable at from 1,500 to 2,000 places. The aggregate of the seventy-nine licenses, at $50 each, is $3,950. ... If fireworks were sold at 1,500 places within the city instead of only seventy-nine, then the municipality should have collected $75,000 instead of $3,950."

But that is not all. The Post-Gazette speculates as to who is responsible for this bootlegging of fire works and strongly intimates that the same power that protects bootleggers of prohibited liquors has got in its work in this case. The editorial says:

"... Suspicion would be directed toward political leaders for the ignoring of the permit requirement."

All of which confirms the belief that regulating an evil or a menace to public welfare by a revenue partnership arrangement with the government and the sharing of the profits with the government is not a cure for that evil. There is only one remedy. That remedy is prohibition.

NOT A TIME FOR "ISMS."

(Continued from page 7.)

themselves luxuries and ease, by working while others slept, and by being always ready to take advantage of opportunities.

The solution of this country's problem does not lie by way of revolution. A betterment of conditions will not be attained by the adoption of isms and the radical doctrines of foreign agitators. It is a time when co-operation between labor and capital is needed for the benefit of both. It is a time for peacefully pulling together to bring about the solution of economic problems. — Supreme Council Bulletin.

ELON COLLEGE

AN ACCREDITED COLLEGE

of the

CONGREGATIONAL CHRISTIAN CHURCHES OF THE SOUTHEAST

ELON was founded to train Christian leaders for the New South.

ELON has done its task well—one graduate in seven being in the Christian ministry. The other six express Christian leadership in the various professions and vocations. Experience teaches that spiritual leadership must be indigenous.

The South is now a New South ready for an inclusive Church, the type of Church for which Elon has stood for forty years and for which she is prepared to produce capable leadership.

With no Church in the community, save the College Auditorium, ELON has practiced Christian Union for faculty, students, and community for four decades.

Its contribution to Christian Education is nationally known and approved.

Its Christian Education Building, providing laboratory facilities for religious leadership training, is unique and is the first college building of its type in the world.

ELON confines itself to undergraduate liberal arts work with that religious emphasis which befits the Christian College.

In ELON the Congregational-Christian Church has an asset of marvelous hopefulness.

The South needs her Yale, her Oberlin, her Carleton, her Pomona for the intellectual leadership of the United Church. Many regard ELON as strategically located and spiritually endowed to become such a center of illumination and leadership training.

THE CHRISTIAN EDUCATION BUILDING

The Heart of the Elon Program of Christian Education.

C. M. CANNON, Registrar

Elon College,

North Carolina

Home Atmosphere—Reasonable Rates—Clean Athletics—Christian Spirit.

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the kingdom, as represented by the Congregational-Christian Church.

BOARD OF EDITORS.

J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
E. C. GILLETTE, D. D. Associate
W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
W. A. HARPER, LL.D. Associate
REV. S. C. HARRELL. Associate
J. E. McCAULEY. Associate
W. C. WICKER, D. D. News Editor
P. J. KERNODLE. Managing Editor
C. D. JOHNSTON. Circulation Manager

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Year $2.00
Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Postoffice, at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to The Christian Sun, C. D. Johnston, Circulation Manager, Elon College, N. C.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads" 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

Notices: Obituary and marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge; all over 100 words at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

OBITUARIES.

ORNDORFF.

Anna Eliza Orndorff was born February 1, 1862, and died July 17, 1931. She had lived to the age of 69 years, 5 months and 16 days, and died in the faith that saves, and in the enjoyment of the highest esteem of a host of friends. She was a faithful member of the Timber Ridge Christian Church. She is survived by six sons, four daughters, and six grand-children, her husband, Bro. Ed. Orndorff, having died several years ago. Funeral services were held at Timber Ridge, July 20, 1931. A. W. A.

CAMPBELL.

Mary C. Campbell was born March 12, 1852, and departed this life August 16, 1931, making her age, therefore, 79 years, 5 months and 4 days. She was a consistent member of the Newport Christian Church, where she united at the age of sixteen. She was faithful to the Lord and loyal to her church, and interested in all its interests. She is survived by two sons, three daughters and several grandchildren. Funeral services were held Aug. 18th at the home of her son, David, where she spent her last days, and interment in a family burying ground near by. A. W. ANDES.

ZIRKLE.

Benjamin Franklin Zirkle was born September 20, 1844, and died July 14, 1931, at the age of 86 years, 9 months and 24 days. Bro. Zirkle was a faithful member of Antioch Christian Church, and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. The last thirty years of his life were spent in total blindness; but in spite of this and other afflictions, he was usually cheerful, and always full of faith in the Lord. The death of his faithful wife eleven years ago was a great loss

THE CONGREGATIONAL LATIN-AMERICAN INSTITUTE AND PILGRIM LATIN CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH OF WEST TAMPA, FLA.—

Are helping give the Gospel, which is "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth," to the forty thousand Latin people of Tampa. The evangelical forces working among the foreigners of Tampa are by no means covering the territory sufficiently.

Methodists have six preachers, Baptists two, Presbyterians one, Congregationalists one. Church workers and teachers must be supported for this great missionary work. Send check to LESLIE S. BRAY, Treas.

Route 4, Box 468, - - Tampa, Fla.
Send boxes of clothing to Mrs. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

For literature, write Rev. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

LARGE PRINT TEACHERS' EDITION FOR ADULTS, TEACHERS AND PREACHERS

and all who would study the Word of God intelligently this edition is unsurpassed. The type is large, clear, Bourgeois, Self-Pronouncing, with liberal space between the words and lines, which makes it easy to read.

Size, 8 x 5 1/2 inches.

Specimen of Type.
"From that time Jesus to preach, and to say, 'I the kingdom of heaven'"

Containing New Copyrighted Helps by most reliable Authorities. A Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, New Colored Maps.

No. 4712. Divinity Circuit Teachers' Bible, French Seal Leather, red under gold edges, Silk Head bands and Silk Marker.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 5.00

No. 812RL. Red Letter Teachers' Bible. The Words of Christ in the New Testament, Old Testament Passages Alluded to by Christ, Various Prophecies Relating to Christ in the Old Testament, etc., all PRINTED IN RED. Binding same as described above and same large Self-Pronouncing type.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 6.00

No. 733X. Holman India Paper, Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 10.65

to him. The last nine years of his life were spent in the home of Bro. W. C. Wampler, of Antioch, where he was well cared for, and given every attention that kind hearts and hands could give. Funeral services were held at Antioch July 16, 1931. A. W. ANDES.

666

LIQUID or TABLETS

Relieves a Headache or Neuralgia in 30 minutes, checks a Cold the first day, and checks Malaria in three days.

666 Salve for Baby's Cold

PIEDMONT COLLEGE

A SENIOR COEDUCATIONAL INSTITUTION

OFFERS

Standard Courses leading to the usual Academic Degrees; also Courses in Music and Home Economics.

Thorough Instruction in Speech and in the Commercial Branches.

A beautiful location in the "Foothills of the Blue Ridge"; altitude of 1,500 feet; spring waters and invigorating climatic conditions.

An enviable reputation for sound scholarship, wholesome student life and Christian Idealism.

Expenses exceptionally light: $318.50 for the College Year. For Catalogue, write,

JONATHAN C. ROGERS, Dean,
Demorest, Georgia

SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE

FOUR YEAR STANDARD COLLEGE

A Memorial of the Congregational-Christian Union.

FRANK E. JENKINS, Pres. MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD, Dean

OPENS WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1931.

Chartered BETHLEHEM COLLEGE June 2, 1922 Renamed PIEDMONT JUNIOR COLLEGE May 18, 1928
Renamed SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE, June 3, 1931

SCHOLARSHIP HIGH

EXPENSES LOW

CHARACTER SUPREME

A Strong Faculty, Educated in 25 Universities and Colleges in 12 States.

Unsectarian, but thoroughly Christian.

For Information about Entrance, write—

DEAN MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD,
WADLEY, ALABAMA.

For Other Information, write—

DR. FRANK E. JENKINS,
LA GRANGE, GEORGIA (To September 1st).

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Representing the Southern Christian Convention and the Congregational Churches of the Southeast.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY

VOLUME LXXXIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1931.

NUMBER 38.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

By DR. W. C. WICKER.

PROHIBITION IN RUSSIA.—

"Total prohibition has been ordered on all railways in the Soviet Union." The preceding quotation is from a recent news item. That is one good step that has been taken by the Russian government. The country evidently has found out that the Five Year Plan cannot possibly succeed without sobriety. Liquor drinking must be ended if progress is to continue. A drunken nation the engine of progressive civilization. It is even possible yet that Russia may really awake from her lethargy of sin.

POPE PIUS DISTURBED.—

The laying of a corner-stone of a large Methodist church at Taliacozzo, near the city of Rome, has caused considerable irritation at the Vatican, it was recently learned. The elaborate ceremonies, with many Methodists from Rome attending to swell the crowd, was claimed to be a direct challenge to the Roman Catholic Church which regards itself protected as the Italian State religion under the Lateran Treaty.

The ceremony was conducted in Italian, during which a copy of the King James Version of the Bible was placed in the corner-stone and a telegram of devotion was sent to Mussolini.

Now that the Ital-Vatican difficulties are reported to have been settled it does not indicate that the Protestant churches will be relieved of the discrimination practiced toward them.

American Methodist pastors in the town of Anticoli, Carrado, distributed Bibles to the people and the priest at that place asked the residents to bring them to him, after which he publically burned the sacred volumes.

FURTHER CHURCH UNION.—

At the recent meeting of the Ohio Universalist convention in Cincinnati a resolution was passed requesting the Central Convention of Universalist churches which meets this fall, to create a commission to meet with a similar commission of the Unitarian churches to consider steps looking to organic union of the two fellowships. The Congregational and Christian churches have set the pace and the example of the organic union of churches of different policy and doctrines and there will likely be many other communions which will follow until we shall have a united Protestantism which shall present a solid front against the forces of sin and paganism and hasten the coming Kingdom of God upon the earth. We cannot think that the prayer of Jesus that the church might be one will not in His own good time be answered and the spirit of union be realized even if organic union may never be reached in our day. The Christian world was never more united in spirit than at the present time and all who unite in our Lord's prayer will rejoice to see the forces of righteousness united against the forces of evil.

FREE GUIDE SERVICE.—

Free auto caravan guide-service for week-ends has been inaugurated in the Yorktown section of the Colonial National Monument, Va. This new feature, it is stated by acting Director of the National Park Service of the Interior Department, is the first definite step to provide local visitors to the Colonial National Monument with a background of local history, and is in line with the service furnished by ranger naturalists in the scenic parks of the West.

Those desiring to attend the tours are requested to assemble at 3 o'clock, p. m., Saturdays, and 10 a. m. and 3 p. m., Sundays, across Main street from the Court House, at which periods a brief lecture is given on the colonial background of Yorktown and the significance of the Surrender Field, where the Susquicentennial Celebration will be held on October 16-19. Many lovers of American History will visit here during the Centennial Celebration and see the exhibits from practically all of the National Parks, and the motion pictures of some of the best-known Parks, which are all world-famous for beautiful scenery, and which will be shown in the third National Park service tent.

DROP IN CHURCH RECEIPTS.—

A decrease of $4,876,682 in contributions to church causes for the year ending March 31, 1931, has just been reported by the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A. Total contributions were $58,171,381; the major decrease was that of $4,079,496 in local congregational receipts. An increase of 15,023 was reported in the communicant membership, which at the end of March totaled 1,999,131. An increase of 27 ministers brings the total up to 10,014. In support of the official boards of the church, the benevolence contributions totaled $8,240,235, a decrease of $550,742 from the preceding year. This condition holds true in most of the churches and indicates that the depression is felt in the church as well as in business. Many people make heavier cuts in their contributions to the church than they do in luxuries, amusements, and in the necessities of life. If the divine plan of religious support is the tithe as many hold to be true, the contributions for the support of the church should be increased rather than decreased because few churches are contributing one tenth of their income for the support of the Kingdom now. Many ministers will have to look to other lines of employment for a support than the ministry for before the decrease many of them were forced to engage in secular employment for the bare necessities of life.

REPORT ON CRIME.—

The National Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement made a report recently to the President on the cost of crime, which confirms the belief that crime imposes a tremendous economic burden on the country. The following recommendations were included in the report: First, that steps be taken to lessen the economic burden which now falls on those members of the public who are required to serve as jurors and attend as witnesses in criminal cases; second, that steps be taken to develop accurate comprehensive statistics as to the cost of administration of criminal justice by the Federal Government and by the states; third, that a comparative study of municipal cost of criminal justice with which the investigators have made much progress but which they were unable to complete, be completed along lines they have indicated; fourth, that a scientific study of racketeering and organized extortion and of criminal fraud be made. The Christian religion seeks to head off crime by bringing about a change in the person before the crime occurs; the law courts seek to correct crime after the crime is committed. The church should put forth its utmost efforts to save our country from the growth and development of criminals by beginning with children in the home, the Sunday school the church and religious education.

UNEMPLOYMENT STUDY.—

Many groups in our churches will wish to study the unemployment situation during this fall and winter. To do this effectively some kind of outline or text-book is needed. Anticipating this need the Associated Press has just published "Unemployment: A Discussion Outlined," which has been prepared by Harrison Elliot, Erdman Harris, Nellie M. Day, and James Myers. This is a small pamphlet of something over 40 pages with leading questions, source material and bibliography. It should prove of real help to the groups in our churches who recognize the necessity of a thorough study of this critical question. It would be well for study groups to be organized in our churches, young people's societies, and other organizations to study the unemployment situation so as to have an intelligent conception of the real conditions among the unemployed in our country which the churches will be called on to help to handle during the coming winter. The economic, industrial, and business conditions of the country have created this situation but Christian people will be called upon to provide against human suffering by large contributions from the membership. There is plenty produced in our country to provide amply for all if proper distribution were made, but those who have ground down upon the laboring people with an iron heel will be slowest to contribute to the alleviation of the situation.

NOTES-PERSONALS

THE CHRISTIAN SUN certainly does need some renewals and new subscriptions now. How about sending that $2.00 today?

Rev. W. J. Edwards, 429 Willowbrook St., High Point, N. C., is open for work as pastor for any church desiring his services the coming year.

Rev. J. W. Fix, Franklin, Va., has accepted the pastorate of Urbana, Illinois, Church, we are advised, and will move to Urbana at an early date.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther E. Carlton of Paces, Va., proved their love and loyalty to Elon by coming on opening day and bringing two new students for matriculation.

The Georgia and Alabama Conference meets with East LaGrange Church, LaGrange, Ga., October 6th and 7th. Rev. J. D. Dollar, Lanett, Ala., is president and is hopeful of a good session.

Elon College is having its 42nd annual opening when this is being written. New and old students are coming in, teachers and helpers are on hand, and Elon again puts on the appearance of life and activity.

Rev. J. E. McCauley, First Church, Norfolk, Va., has been called to the pastorate of First Church, Richmond, and has accepted. Dr. C. C. Ryan, pastor, Richmond, we are advised, goes to Elkhart, Indiana.

Surely Rev. G. D. Hunt is a man abundant in labors and full of fervor for the church. If one doubts, let one read the "Roanoke Letter" this week. It is through the life, labors and sacrifices of His faithful servants that our Lord's work goes forward.

A friend in the time of need is a true friend indeed. By this token, Elon College now needs the support, sympathy, patronage and sacrifices of its friends. The financial strain is great, but not too great, if her real friends will give the helping hand.

Supt. C. D. Johnston, of the Orphanage, and also Circulation Manager of THE SUN, in brief, our "beloved Uncle Charlie, God bless him," has been taking a much needed rest, trying to recuperate a bit at Fuquay Springs, N. C., the past week. We had to make him go, for since when did that man ever have a day's or a week's rest?

Elon College community church starts off the new year well. It enjoyed the largest attendance and the most enthusiastic church meeting on Wednesday night, September 9th, we have witnessed at Elon. Pastor Hurst is beloved by his entire membership and he is proving himself a capable and competent leader in spiritual things.

Our good friend, Bro. John C. Dean, writing from Quicksburg, Va., September 9th, says: "Rev. B. J. Earp, our pastor, has just closed a two-weeks' meeting in our church (Whistler's Chapel), and twenty-seven members were added to the church roll. Brother Earp is a great instrument used of our Lord for building up the church. We love him."

Rev. G. C. Crutchfield, with the close of the present Conference year, will close his pastorate at United Church, Lynchburg, Va. Bro. Crutchfield will move with his family back to Guilford County, to be near his father, to whom he feels he owes now a first duty. Should there be churches needing his service which he may reach from his home near Guilford College, he will be glad to correspond with them.

Miss Jewel Truitt, who has rendered such valuable aid as field secretary to the Board of Religious Education, has resigned her position. We understand that it was lack of funds and income to the Board that caused her to lay down the work she had so faithfully pursued. It's a pity that in time of general depression and economic stringency, church activities have to be curtailed and suffer. The field of Religious Education needs an active worker to keep up contacts and lead the Sunday School and Christian Endeavor forces to greater efficiency and achievement.

The Alamance County Sunday School Convention is to meet at Union Christian Church, Union Ridge, N. C., for a morning and afternoon session, Friday, Sept. 25th. This meeting will be held under the auspices of the Alamance County, and North Carolina Sunday School Associations and is for all Sunday School workers of all denominations. The theme: "A Trained Christian Leadership." Mr. J. B. Robertson is president and Mrs. R. L. Walker is secretary of the Association. Union Church may be depended upon to extend the hand of good fellowship and cordial hospitality.

Dr. H. Shelton Smith, who came from Hines Chapel Christian Church in Guilford County to Elon College and graduated from this institution some years ago, has accepted appointment as head of the Department of Religious Education in Duke University, Durham, N. C. Dr. Smith, after graduating from Elon, took his Doctor's degree from Yale Divinity School. After his graduation from Yale, he became a secretary of the International Council of Religious Education with headquarters at Chicago, and after some years there returned a year or more ago to the Yale Divinity School Faculty. Duke University offers great opportunity for consecrated talent, and so Dr. Smith enters a field of great promise for kingdom service.

Rev. H. S. Hardcastle, because of continued illness from a stubborn fever, is compelled to give up all outside work, and thus will be unable to supply his Sunday school notes for the Christian Sun beginning with the first issue of October. When Bro. Hardcastle was taken ill the first of August, by habits of industry and energy he had prepared the notes for two months ahead. He has done splendid work, as those who read his department in THE SUN from week to week will testify. Rev. S. A. Bennett of the Department of Religious Education of Elon College, though not accustomed to writing for the public, has kindly consented to furnish the Sunday School notes for the time being, and will begin with the first week of October. We are sure that Prof. Bennett's notes will be helpful to Sunday School teachers and pupils who turn to this department for help and instructions in the Sunday School lesson.

NOTICE.

I am making a change in churches this Conference year, and will be glad to correspond with any church or churches desiring my services in regards to church work.

W. B. FULLER,
313 Greene St.,
Harrisonburg, Va.

NOTICE.

To the Ministers and Churches of the Alabama Christian Conference.—

The next session of the Conference will meet at Pisgah, Alabama, on Tuesday after the second Sunday in October, at 3 o'clock p. m., instead of at 10 a. m. This will give our ministers and delegates time to get to the Conference without undue worry or anxiety. Now let every minister get ready to go, and let every Church prepare to send a delegation. Where two or more of the churches are conveniently located, they might divide the expenses, which will be a small item, and every church can be represented. Let us show the Pisgah Church that we appreciate their invitation by going. The program will soon be announced. We invite all of our Congregational brethren to attend this meeting.

G. D. HUNT.

PROGRAM OF THE GEORGIA AND ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

The Eighty Sixth Annual Session of the Georgia and Alabama Christian Conference will meet with the East LaGrange Christian Church, LaGrange, Georgia, Tuesday and Wednesday, October 6-7, 1931.

The program follows.

FIRST DAY—MORNING SESSION.

Called to order at 10:30 o'clock.
Devotionals by the President.
Words of Welcome—Richard Vinson.
Response—Rev. C. C. Hamilton.
Report of the Executive Committee.
Adjourn for Lunch at noon.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Called to order at 1:30 o'clock.
Devotionals by Rev. A. H. Sheppard.
Report on Education—Rev. W. C. Carpenter, Chairman.
Address by Dr. Frank E. Jenkins.
Report of Christian Orphanage—Chas. D. Johnston, Superintendent.
Reading of Ministerial and Church Reports.
Business Session.
Adjournment.

EVENING SESSION.

Meeting of the Missionary Association, Rev. C. W. Hanson, President, at 7:30 o'clock.

Devotionals by Rev. W. T. Crowder.
Report on Superannuation—Rev. A. H. Sheppard, Chairman.
Report on Moral Reform—Rev. H. M. Gray, Chairman.
Report on Foreign Missions—Rev. T. W. Gray, Chairman.
Address by Dr. J. O. Atkinson.
Preaching by Rev. G. D. Hunt.
Adjourn for Lunch.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Devotionals by Rev. Bro. Prince.
Report on Religious Literature—Rev. W. C. Carpenter, Chairman.
Report on Sunday Schools and C. E. Societies—Rev. C. W. Hanson, Chairman.
Report on Home Missions—Rev. J. D. Dollar, Chairman of the Board.

The Program will be interspersed with music. We hope to have every church in the Conference represented by a full delegation. Let's do our best on our apportionments.

Come praying that the Lord may direct in all that may be done, that we may have a real feast of spiritual things.

Please come on time, and come to stay until the work is finished.

J. D. DOLLAR, President,
MRS. J. O. MABRY, Secretary.

CONGREGATIONAL NEWS

REV. E. C. GILLETTE, Editor; REV. F. P. ENSMINGER, and REV. M. J. SWEET, Associates.

MR. AND MRS. GERALD SMITH conducted a Vacation Bible School at Caddo church near Trinity, Alabama. This young married couple, with their enthusiasm for the work, is quite helpful to the church life.

MR. JAMES HENRY WOODS, the Summer Worker associated with Rev. N. A. Long, has been working on the parish house and library program at Blackwoods church. Mr. Theo Brackin is librarian.

MR. LAWRENCE ROBERTS, as Summer Worker at Glanmany, Tenn., was called upon to officiate at the funeral of a man who died suddenly. He cleaned the church, tolled the bell, sang a solo, played the piano and made the sympathetic address which comforted the mourners.

MISS AZELIE JOHNSTON of Chattanooga, who was a Summer Worker with Mr. and Mrs. Osborne at Tennessee Ridge, Tenn., went to Stearns, Kentucky, to help establish a Sunday School at Barren Forks, a mining community. She also has club work for the girls there.

REV. DON G. HENSHAW, pastor of Coral Gables Congregational Church, during the summer not only took courses in the summer school of Union Theological Seminary but also took a special course of study in the studios of the National Broadcasting Company. He also attended the International Convention of Lions Club in Toronto, Canada.

MISS CAMILLA MacCALLOM, of West Florida and a student at Thorsby Institute, has been the efficient helper of Mr. Sidney Davies in West Florida. Mr. Davies covers an astonishingly large territory, helping Rev. Wm. H. Tillman and the associated pastors in revival meetings and conducting Bible Schools in churches, school houses and homes.

REV. C. ARTHUR LINCOLN, pastor of the church at Daytona Beach, Florida, during his vacation, which was spent at a lake in Connecticut, supplied several important pulpits. Among them were the Center Church, the Asylem Hill Church and South Church of Hartford, Conn., and the Presbyterian Church at Rye, Conn. The Hartford Courant in two successive Monday issues printed extracts from Mr. Lincoln's sermons. Mr. Lincoln and his family have returned to Daytona Beach.

GEORGIA STATE CONFERENCE meets with Fredonia Church, Barnesville, Ga., Oct. 27-28, 1931. Do not forget this. It is hoped every church, Christian as well as Congregational, will be well represented. Will pastors please notice and urge congregations to share in this great movement? And let South Georgia not forget the Congregational-Christian Association of South Georgia meeting at the Ambrose Christian Church, October 2nd, 3rd and 4th. All churches of these two groups now united as one please be on the alert to promote these meetings.

THE SPIRIT OF UNION breaks out again. This time it is the definite decision of the Vanceville Christian Church and the Enigma Church to unite with the New Light Congregational Church in a group which will have one man to be pastor. The New Light Church has called Rev. C. W. Carpenter to be their pastor. This completes the third group of churches which have determined to work for greater efficiency by the grouping method. In this connection perhaps it should be said that Rev. Thomas Richter closed his pastorate at New Light Church with the month of August. He is still the pastor, however, of the Poplar Arbor Church and has recently held some successful meetings there.

FORT MYERS, FLORIDA. Rev. O. T. Anderson, the pastor of this church announces that the church is completed, and they are now purchasing the necessary pulpit and other furnishings for the building. It is expected that the church will be used for the first time on Sunday, October 11th, which is the sixth anniversary of the of the beginning of service in the present building, which is a combination community house and parsonage. Mr. Anderson is the organizer of this church and to him belongs the credit of leading it to its present achievement. The new building is the first unit of what is hoped to be eventually a fine plant, beautifully located in Edison Park, surrounded by trees and shrubs, and facing the homes of Thomas A. Edison and Henry Ford.

REV. E. LYMAN HOOD, D. D., passed to his eternal reward on August 14th. Word of his death has recently been received. Dr. Hood was at one time pastor of the Union Congregational Church of Jacksonville and was the first president of Atlanta Theological Seminary and was responsible for the securing of the Atlanta Campus and the building of the two principal buildings there. Dr. Hood has been a man of great usefulness in the Congregational denomination and had rendered a varied and interesting and vital service in several different fields. He had retired and was living at Pilgrim Place, Claremont, Cal. A man of indomitable spirit he had attended the General Council but was taken sick on the way home and never recovered. The Congregational Churches of the Southeast owe him a great debt of gratitude and pay tribute to a great leader.

FLORIDA MINISTERS' CONVOCATION.

The annual Florida Convocation of Congregational Ministers will be held at the Seaside Inn at Daytona Beach, beginning on the evening of October 5th and ending on the morning of October 8th. The same arrangements for entertainment have been made as obtained last year. The ministers are urged to bring their wives.

Dr. Hugh Vernon White of Boston, Mass., is to be the principal speaker, delivering five addresses and leading the discussions on the subject, "Vital Religion in the World of Modern Thought." Dr. White was for eight years pastor of the important Congregational Church at Stockton, California, is a deep student and thinker, and has a vital interest in the world-wide Kingdom, having recently accepted the call to the secretaryship of the American Board to serve with special responsibility in the field of missionary education. By special request Dr. White will also conduct an evening of discussion on "The Modern Criticisms of Missions."

Rev. Watson L. Lewis of New Smyrna will deliver three sermon lectures on the subject "What Has Civilization Done to Us." Dr. Elisha A. King and Dr. J. Delman Kuykendall will present the General Council and lead the discussion of some of the important problems considered at the Council. There will be also a period for the presentation of summer vacation experiences. In connection with the Convocation there will be a meeting of the directors of the State Conference.

METHODS CORNER

BY REV. ELISHA A. KING, D. D.
Miami Beach, Fla.

I am going to continue the subject of how to get more people to attend church. This time I call your attention to the value of "Rally Day" in September (or any other suitable month). After the summer time something is needed to arouse the people and get them started once more on their regular winter round of duties (if duties they are). I am writing out of personal experience in parishes of different sizes and kinds. They are all alike in respect to the need of arousalment.

We first set a Sunday far enough ahead so as to work up to it. Next we arrange a program. The program is the most important part of the day. To make it effective it ought to include the whole church. If the Sunday School is held before the church service it may be possible to have a combination service one running into the other. Generally speaking, Rally Day emphasizes the Sunday School and its importance.

One of the most interesting and successful programs we ever had was built on the idea of a Railroad Excursion. We issued a long ticket using paper that the printer secured such as railroad tickets are printed on. The name of the church with its location, etc., was printed at the top. Then came the "time table" beginning at 9:30 a. m. and running through a carefully graduated series of events with so many minutes allotted to each item.

The minister of the church was Superintendent of the road and the S. S. Superintendent was conductor. Other positions were designated. There were hymns, solos, scripture reading, talks by the pastor and others and numerous other things all calculated to carry out the railroad excursion idea.

The tickets, of course, constituted the invitation and at the bottom of the ticket we had a perforated coupon on which every person who came signed their name and address and this coupon was placed in a box by the door. We had ushers at the door with tickets and pencils to make sure that everyone registered. This we considered a very important point. After the rally was over we examined the coupons carefully and discovered changes in addresses and a few old pupils that we had lost track of turned up.

In sending out the invitations we included every one we could think of who might be interested in attending. This included all the members of the School, the Church, the attendants on the young people's societies and the constituency list. Then, of course, we advertised in the newspapers.

Someone may say that this is too expensive, but we inclosed with every invitation an offering envelope and the gifts received more than covered all the extra expense. The usual offering was taken this way and that was larger. No one need hesitate on account of the cost, it cares for itself.

Anyone interested in having a Rally Day would do well to write to The Pilgrim Press, 14 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass., or to the Chicago office, 418 S. Market Street. Both of these stores have a supply of Rally Day material. Some splendid ideas may be secured from Duplex Envelope Co., Richmond, Va. The Standard Publishing Co., of Cincinnati, Ohio, have many helpful devices and Goodenough and Woglom, 296 Broadway, N. Y., always has a lot of helps.

The purpose of Rally Day, of course, is to get everybody back into the regular program of the Church and to win just as many new people as possible. If the arousalment is followed up with calling and enlisting it will have been a great success.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR

J. O. ATKINSON, ELON COLLEGE, N. C.

ASSOCIATE EDITOR

E. C. GILLETTE

117 W. Forsyth Street, Jacksonville, Fla.

CONTRIBUTING EDITORS

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

S. C. HARRELL

J. E. MCCAULEY

NEWS EDITOR

W. C. WICKER

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The Christian Church did not come into existence just to be one among denominations, or to make another denomination. It came because of denominations, and a protest against denominations, certainly as divided into sects and isms. Taking James O'Kelly and his followers, as an example, one finds a determination not to create a division in church forces, but to cure such division; not to divide and separate the followers of Christ, but to unite and to consolidate the forces of righteousness, in and through the Church. True, the churches of the various denominations have come a long way in their thinking, and in their practices, since the Christian Church began its career. It is likely that if the denominations had been as tolerant and as liberal in their attitude toward each other in 1800 as they are in 1931, the Christian Church may not have had its beginning, certainly not such a beginning as history tells us it had. But such was not the case. The theology, the thinking and the attitude of the church people in 1800 were far different from what they are today, and there was certainly need for tolerance then, as there is now, and for charity to all, and animosity to none. The Churches, as well as our national and state governments, have changed in their attitude. We no longer have a Thomas Jefferson to build a platform for democracy, but certainly there is as much need for the spirit of democracy in government today, as there ever has been, possibly more need. And so while the churches have become more tolerant and liberal in their attitude one to another, the end of the journey is not reached, and the necessity for unifying the forces of righteousness on the broad principles of tolerance, charity, brotherly love and Christian attitude, is as pressing today as it ever was. There are yet those in the world who feel that if you do not believe even about non-essentials as they believe, you cannot belong to their sect or creed; there are yet those who feel that if you cannot submit to their kind of church government, you cannot be one with them in church membership and Christian fellowship.

Our Christian Church may have drifted into denominationalism through tradition and through short-sighted legislation, but the spirit of its founders is yet alive in the world, and, that which is more to the point, the spirit of its founders is as necessary in the world as it ever was, and more so. There is yet room in the world for a people who believe that the forces of Christendom should be united on the broad basis of Christian fellowship, with Christ alone as leader, and with His spirit of toleration for universal brotherhood as the supreme guiding principle of life and conduct.

One looks about, after more than one hundred years, and finds weakness, slow growth, failure in many undertakings and enterprises of our Christian Church. If one will read the story of democracy in government, one will find the same to be true. When the German Imperial Government in the early stages of the World War was functioning with absolute efficiency and with seemingly assured success and victory, Ambassador Bryce of England pointed out in an American journal that democracies were always slow, and very often fumbled, tottered and fell, but with all their weaknesses, heartaches and tragedies they, democracies, finally arrived and achieved. Ambassador Bryce in that statement was not only repeating history, but was proving himself a prophet. England and France and the United States and the others seemed quite impotent and insufficient in comparison with the unerring aim and efficiency of the Imperial German Government, but they finally arrived and achieved, and German efficiency did not avail.

The fact is, democracy in religion is like democracy in government. It is an ideal ever to be sought after, and a program ever to be pursued, rather than a plan to be perfected or a task to be finished. There is something better in the world than efficiency, and that something is effort in the right direction, and determination not to give up in that effort, because results are not immediately apparent. This Christian Church of ours, always Congregational in government and thoroughly democratic in polity and purpose, has made a vast contribution to history and the cause of righteousness, and it seems destined now to make a larger contribution than it has ever made. A great church that emphasized its democracy, liberality and tolerance, by declaring through its name that the local congregation was the supreme power, viz: The Congregational Church, realizes that our Christian Church has always had the same spirit of toleration, and liberty, and the desire for broad fellowship that it has had. And this Christian Church of ours which has emphasized by its name the spirit and the life of its Founder, the Lord Jesus Christ, has ever insisted that the right of authority was in the local congregation, and that the congregation was the supreme unit, and that it was willing at all times to be governed by the spirit of individual Christians, composing the local church, when that spirit was the spirit of our Lord and His Christ. These two great churches have always stood for church union, on the broad basis of Christian fellowship, and church government through genuine democracy in the local congregation. We have a long way to go yet before all the churches will come to this spirit of fellowship and toleration. The Christian Church, is not ready to go out of business and has a mission in the world, and that mission is the salvation of the world through Jesus Christ, and unifying the forces of righteousness in an attempt to make all one even as He and His Father are one. Once in a dark, trying, and to some, quite a doubtful hour, a great general was called upon to surrender, and in reply to that call he issued that famous slogan: "We have just begun to fight."

The army of the Lord under the sole and supreme leadership of Christ has great battles yet to fight and in His name has great victories to win. And not the least of these battles is that for tolerance, and a fellowship that includes all who are sons and daughters of God. J. O. A.

CHINA CALLS.

Other nations and people are talking about hard times, and unemployment. While the rest of us are talking, China undergoes the experience.

We have a storm that sweeps away a few hundred homes and carries to a watery grave a thousand or more lives, and we lament the awful visitation of such a fate. But it is reserved for poor suffering China to be called upon to show how millions lose their homes and their lives by inundations that, over-night, sweep away villages and wipe out cities. We are told that ten million people either lost their lives or were rendered homeless by the recent flood in the Yantze River. The nation, already impoverished by civil war and internecine strife, is damaged by the recent flood, to the extent of $300,000,000.00. In the wake of such flood, famine, pestilence and death stalked abroad and swept thousands of helpless victims to an untimely grave.

It was estimated recently that five million people in America were either unemployed, or facing the prospect of unemployment at an early date. The Chinese Minister of Industry tells the world that the number of unemployed in China is more than the total population of the United States—200,000,000 in fact, or nearly half of China's population. We are told that we are suffering in this country from over-production, and that the reason why products are so cheap is because there is an over-supply. At this very time millions are on the verge of starvation in China because they have not, and cannot secure, the barest necessities to sustain life. We have more wheat than our markets can handle while millions are suffering in China because they have no bread.

It is recalled that a few years ago there was a Boxer Uprising in China in which thousands of lawless people murdered foreigners and destroyed property belonging to foreigners. When the Chinese government got possession of the situation, an indemnity of several million dollars was paid to the government. And then our government did the magnanimous thing in giving back to China every dollar that she paid as indemnity. From that day till this, China has been our friend and not our foe. It would seem that the time has arrived when our government with its millions of bushels of surplus wheat and other food products could do the magnanimous thing again with little hurt, if any, to ourselves and with great help to China and her starving millions. Why may not governments be magnanimous as well as individuals?

There is no call quite as clear and distinct as the call of need, of suffering, of starvation. The Chinese people may have inadequate laws, and may practice poor economy, and may be ignorant of the ways of cultivation, production and exchange. She may be and she is bound down by superstition, the idolatry and the strange worship of ancestry. One day she will embrace, as many of her people have already embraced, the teachings of the better way, and the practice of the only principles of economy by which the people may be safely guided and governed, viz: The practice of economy laid down by, and wrought out in the life of our Lord Jesus. Until she learns that better way, a call will go out to the rest of the world, and the world of Christian charity and benevolence will not turn a deaf ear nor a cold heart to that call.

J. O. A.

MAKING TIMES GOOD.

"How long before these hard-times will be over?" "How long before the return of prosperity?" "How long before we are to have good times again?" These are the questions that many are asking and few, if any, seem to answer.

There is one phenomenon that is evident everywhere. We seem to think that governments can legislate good times, and that the government must be depended upon, independently of our own individual conduct, to usher in prosperity. We seem to think the government has a magic wand which it may wave mysteriously, and prosperity will immediately return. What a delusion and what a snare!

We have hard-times, physically and materially, because we have practiced poor economy. And we will not have a return of good times until we learn to practice a better economy. If Bill Smith earns, or has an income of $1,000.00 a year for himself and family, and by the indulgence of creditors lives as if he had an income of $2,000 a year, and actually spends upon himself and family $2,000 a year, then that man is practicing poor economy and is headed for hard-times. If Joe Brown has an income of $3,000 a year and by the indulgence of creditors, whether on installment plan, or long time promise, consumes on himself and family $5,000 a year, then Joe Brown is headed for hard-times. And it will never be good times and prosperity for Bill Smith and Joe Brown, until they face about and practice a different principle of economy. They need not expect the government to legislate them into easy living and prosperity. If the government does that it has injured rather than helped them. Hard-times are always just around the corner for those who live beyond their income, and that is exactly what thousands and millions were doing in our land and in other lands. We had over-purchased, spent faster than we earned and pay-day had to come. It has come and come with a vengeance.

That which the writer wishes to say in this line is that prosperity cannot come by the wave of some magic wand, even by the government, and it will come through individual efforts at economy, sane living and safe conduct. The father may work hard and pay the gas bill for his son, while his son rides around and earns nothing. That son and the father both are headed for hard times unless the income of the father is more than the gas bills for which the father is responsible. It will be hard-times for that son until he learns that what he spends must be made or saved by himself and some one else. It is up to us as individuals to restore good times. It cannot be done in a day, but it can be done. We as individuals must get on to that line of economy that will enable us to pay our obligations as we make them, and restore confidence of those who have indulged us, and this must be done throughout the nations before hard-times are abolished.

It may be poor economy, but all economy is poor, that does not consider the interest and the rights of the other fellow along with our interests and our rights. When we consider only our interests and use up our own income and, through credit and courtesy, use the savings and the income of others, we are practicing poor economy and poor morals. After all the only safe economy in this world is the Golden Rule, "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you." The noblest and the best Economist that ever taught, preached or lived was none other than Jesus Himself, the only Hope and Redeemer. We must as individuals learn to follow Him, for in His life there is more power, safety and security than there is in the magic wand and mysteries of government.

J. O. A.

THE EVIDENCE OF A CHRISTIAN.

One of the most frequent questions asked during a series of meetings is, "Do you think an individual knows when he is a Christian?" This thought is sometimes perplexing to the church member and non-church member. In answering the question for yourself and others, it is not hard to answer in terms of the scripture which is more desirable than any answer that the writer or any other human being might give.

The first answer to this question is to be found in the first Epistle of John, ch. 3, v. 14: "We know we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren. He that loveth not his brother abideth in death."

The second evidence is that of doing right. In John 2:29, we find these words: "If ye know that he is righteous, ye know that every one doeth righteousness is born of him."

In the third place as an evidence, we go back to John 3, ch. 9, and we find these words: "Whoever is born of God doth not commit sin; for his seed remaineth in him, and he can not sin, because he is born of God."

The above quotation is taken from the King James version. We find in the Greek this quotation: "He that is born of God doth not practice sin." This is an easy means of judging as to whether we have tasted of the love of God or not. Any individual is likely to err in life. But the individual who is born of God will not make a practice of wilfully committing sin or the same sin. He will profit by the former mistakes. An individual may stumble and fall, but if he is born of God, he will not continue to fall into the pitfall.

Another evidence of one's knowledge of his birth from above or birth of the spirit, is that of his belief in Christ. Not as a historical Christ but as a personal Savior. In St. John 3:18, we have these words: "He that believeth on Him is not condemned; but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed on the name of the only begotten Son of God."

If I believe in a person fully, I do not hesitate to trust that individual. I would especially trust him to do something that I could not do if I believed he could. That is just what Christ wants His children to do to Him. We cannot save ourselves. So He wants us to believe in Him and trust Him to that end. If we do that, we do not have to wait until death to know, but according to His own statement, we may know now that we are His and have been born of Him. It seems to the writer that the above evidences are enough to convince anyone as to whether he has been born of the spirit or not. These quotations are not taken out of their sitting to prove a conclusion. They are the words of Jesus and the Holy Spirit's warning from the pen of the beloved disciples. It is conclusive evidence of a Christian.

J. E. Mc.

THE PRAYER MEETING.

The mid-week prayer meeting is the heart of the Church. The Bible says, "Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life." Prov. 4:23. If it is important to keep the heart of the individual, it must be just as important to keep the heart of the church. There is too much provision made for and too much effort to train the head rather than the heart. Many parents not only spend more money for the education of their children, but more time in helping them with their school lessons than with their Sunday School lessons and the development of their hearts. Prayer is neglected and head education is emphasized. The result of increased schooling and neglect of church worship accounts for many losing interest in the Bible and the church. As the head is trained and the heart is neglected in the individual, so is the Sunday service cultivated to the neglect of the mid-week prayer meeting. In fact it is the current report that the prayer meeting is growing less. Moreover, when people speak of church attendance, they are thinking of the preaching service.

When physicians examine a patient for any special ailment that report favorably if the heart is in good condition. There is such a thing as heart-disease, and when that is discovered, it is cause for alarm. As long as the heart is in good condition the doctor is hopeful of successful treatment and recovery. If that is true of a patient, it must be true of the church. A good prayer meeting is a source of hope for the church; but when the heart ceases to function, all the organs fail to do their part; when the prayer meeting, the heart of the church, ceases to function, it weakens all the organs of the body. There would have been no Pentecost had there been no prayer meeting for ten days. "They were all with one accord in one place." Acts 2:1. The Church was born in a prayer meeting and it cannot live without prayer. Even a sermon would lose its place and power if there were no prayer at the service. Prayer is essential to the life of the church, the preaching of the gospel, and the songs of praise. "Pray without ceasing." I Thes. 5:17, and "men ought always to pray, and not to faint." Luke 18:1, indicate the importance and value of prayer. In great stress and great trouble, Christians resort to prayer, and even the nation, in great calamities, ask the churches to pray. Members of the church should regard the prayer meeting as a great privilege and a great obligation.

W. W. S.

A SUNSET.

In a certain locality, I was told that the most beautiful sunsets in all our country could be seen, if one cared to observe. I cared. For four evenings my vigil was keenly kept, only to say, in the deepening twilight, "I see nothing spectacular or unusual about the sunsets here!" Those were clear days and not a cloud, even the size of a man's hand hovered about the place of the departing King of day. The fifth evening was different. A long bank of cloud, more like a mountain range than a cloud, slowly lifted its blue, bulky body just above the peaks and doons of the high mountains and separated them and the intervening earth from the face of the sun. Then a miracle happened. The whole horizon in the west became transfigured, and one indescribable blinding and riot of rare rich coloring took place. The heavens then declared the splendor of God, and the glory of His hand was reflected in a picture, the like of which no artist will ever rival or approach.

And then like a voice out of the blue, I heard a speech which recited, "This is life. Your sunsets the few past evenings could not be beautiful or unusual because all were clear and there was no cloud. Your sunset now is beautiful, filled with gladness, joy and glory, because there were clouds on which the sun could show its power and its richness." That was all. Does it require some shadow, some sorrow, some disappointment in life that the glory of the sun itself may be seen, and the radiance of life itself may be apparent? Elsewhat is the meaning of a beautiful sunset only when and if there are clouds? J. O. A.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

Protracted meeting is a United States phrase to express meetings which are usually called revival meetings. Four of these were recently held in four churches near Suffolk. One at Cypress Chapel by Rev. R. E. Brittle, assisted by Rev. H. E. Crutchfield, of Henderson, N. C.; Bethlehem by pastor, Rev. R. E. Brittle, assisted by Rev. J. E. McCauley of First Church, Norfolk, Va.; another at Liberty Spring Church by pastor, Dr. I. W. Johnson, assisted by Rev. J. F. Morgan, Rosemont Church; the fourth at Oakland Church by pastor, Dr. I. W. Johnson, assisted also by Rev. J. F. Morgan of Rosemont. These meetings were all well attended with two services a day, in the afternoon and at night. The singing was good, the sermons were spiritual, and the meetings more of the old-time meetings than are usually conducted.

The results were good in conversions, re-consecrations, and additions to the churches, and the impression upon the communities was really religious. The religious atmosphere in a revival in a country church lasts in the community. People think about the meeting, the preacher, and talk of it for weeks afterward. It is that after conversation that plants the seeds of a good revival in the hearts of people, which seeds sprout, grow, blossom, and bear fruit. The value of a country church is rooted in these annual revivals and then in regular services that run through the year in which whole families attend church, including the Sunday School, and that puts the religious interest in the whole community. In the cities, religious opportunities are so divided, and so few Sunday School attendants remain for the Church services, and all are so occupied with other things, when they leave the church, the religion has only a fraction of time, thought, and conversation. It is a real inspiration to get out into a country revival and to hear people talk in the church yard before they go to their homes. That is the reason why the leading workers in city churches come from country churches. Time is important in religion as well as in education. No doubt that was in the mind of Geo. C. Stebbins when he composed "Take Time to be Holy." This age is so rapid in its thought, its action, and its decisions, that religion, social life and business all suffer in the hurry and neglect of things that require time and patient consideration.

Much is said and written in these days about the decline in religion, the waywardness of young people, and hard times. These all result from recklessness, extravagance, neglect of the church, and the love of money which is the root of all evil. The altar of prayer, keeping the Sabbath day holy, liberality toward missions, care for the poor, obedience to law, and love for mankind, all in operation, would change the times because it would change the people. Society needs something like a country revival moved by prayer in concert, preaching in simple gospel of the Biblical Spiritual type. There is no love without feeling and the command is to love one another. Love is of God, for God is love. Intellectual progress has shut out spiritual emotion and religious zeal. The pulpit, the altar, and the pew, must unite in penitence, faith, and reconsecration for service for the unsaved.

W. W. STALEY.

SOUTHERN UNION LETTER.

A REPORT OF PROGRESS AND PLANS.

Southern Union College opened on Wednesday, Sept. 9th, with a body of students of as fine qualities and as great possibilities as those of any college in America. A strong Faculty of twelve members with Bachelor's, Master's and Doctor's degrees, educated in twelve states and twenty-five universities and colleges, is entering upon its work with enthusiasm and delightful cooperation.

The Administration Building with its large auditorium and seventeen commodious class rooms and office rooms has been completed throughout and is a joy to faculty, students, and friends alike. The woman's dormitory has been thoroughly renovated, decorated and adequately furnished; the Wadley Hotel has been taken on a five year lease, with an option to buy, for a men's dormitory. It has been thoroughly renovated, reconditioned and supplied with all modern conveniences, including running hot and cold water, an abundance of baths and steam heat, about $6,000 being expended on these repairs and additions. The campus grounds have been graded and are to be covered with green lawns and beds of flowers all laid out by a landscape engineer.

We invite all friends of the Christian institution to visit it, see the improvements that have been made, catch the prevailing feeling of progress and coming development; and thus realize something of what the Southern Christian Convention started when it chartered "Bethlehem College," June 2, 1922, which has now become Southern Union College, a Memorial of the Congregational-Christian Union.

The writer has been working as President of the Board of Trustees for some months; first, to save the college from bankruptcy and then to develop it for its larger work. The financial problem has been a difficult one to solve in the face of the present conditions throughout the country and world. Our Christian constituency seems to have lost either confidence or interest and has not been supporting it. I have raised for it during these past few months $11,015.50, $500 of which came from a Baptist, $10,475.50 from Congregationalists and $40.00 from Christians.

The Board of Trustees, after the resignation of Dr. Beougher, elected me President of the college. It was not in my plans to assume again the full responsibilities of the headship of a college. Another line of work, which I had been urged by the American Association for Adult Education and by the United States Expert and Head of the Government Bureau for Adult Education to undertake was claiming my attention. However, I saw the possibilities of linking up Adult Education as a department of the Southern Union College and its extension work, and I declared to accept the election to the presidency to this college, as Acting President, until the college should be financed and developed to a degree that will command the services of someone adequate to the further development of a growing college with a vast field.

As President of the Board of Trustees and Acting President of the college, I am undertaking to finance a Budget of $35,000 together with the management of the debt that I found threatening the bankruptcy of the college. I realize that it is a large undertaking in the face of the present financial conditions of the country and I bespeak the hearty sympathy of, and all possible help from, Christian people of these Southern States, whose Southern Christian Convention owns and officially controls the Southern Union College. I have laid my plans to secure from Congregationalists $30,000 with the hope that the people of the Christian Churches will supply at least $5,000 more. I earnestly ask each one who reads this to pray for this Christian College in its large field of educational need and possibilities.

FRANK E. JENKINS,
Acting President.

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C.

The brethren of the First Christian (Disciple) Church at Rocky Mount, N. C., are expressing their delight in having Prof. A. R. Flowers with them for four engagements recently. Bro. Flowers is well known in this section of North Carolina and has no trouble in finding all he can do with the leading churches of the different denominations. Most of his time is spent in the interest of the young people, especially in the matter of making it possible, so far as he can, for deserving poor boys and poor girls to be educated for the high calling of Christian service. He is a firm believer in the fellowship of all true Christians, a thing that I have preached and practiced, myself, through all my Christian ministry for thirty years. I have found much pleasure in reading copies of THE CHRISTIAN SUN that have been sent to me by Bro. Flowers, however, this periodical is the organ of a branch of the Christian Church of which little is known by the average person in eastern North Carolina. But I bid them God speed in the great work they are doing.

B. F. DIXON.

*The Freewill Baptist Church,
Rocky Mount, N. C.*

REVIVALS.

My revivals began the fourth Saturday in July with Rock Stand Christian Church. We have a splendid band of young people here who had charge of the devotional services through the meeting which added much to the success. Rev. W. T. Meacham came to us here on Monday evening and did splendid preaching. The attendance was good until the close of the meeting.

We came to Bethany on the first Sunday in August. Rev. C. W. Carter came to us here on Tuesday and gave us some good gospel sermons, which were helpful to all who heard them. The services closed here Thursday night with three accessions to the church.

We went to Antioch the second Sunday in August. Rev. C. C. Ryan was with us there from Tuesday until Friday night. The interest was good from the beginning until the close of the meeting. Dr. Ryan did some splendid preaching and made many friends in the community. The meeting closed here Friday night with the church greatly revived and thirteen accessions to the church.

A. H. SHEPPARD.

REV. H. S. HARDCASTLE.

Rev. H. S. Hardcastle has been in the hospital in St. Albans, Vermont, since the first of August with Undulant Fever.

Dr. D. L. Harrell of Lake View Hospital, Suffolk, Va., his wife, and E. H. Rawles, Treasurer of the Suffolk Church, were sent by the church to visit their pastor. Upon their return, Dr. Harrell reports that Brother Hardcastle's condition is not serious except for the long period required for Undulant Fever to run its course.

The following telegram from Mrs. Hardcastle is the latest information I have received:

St. Albans, Vt., Sept. 5, 1931.

Dr. W. W. Staley,

Hardy's condition same as when Dr. Harrell was here. Had visit from Mr. and Mrs. George Earl Rogers and friends yesterday. Children and I with friends at camp. Hardy sends greetings to choir and congregation upon entering Fall service. MARY M. HARDCASTLE.

W. W. STALEY.

(Received too late for last issue of THE SUN.)

ROANOKE, ALABAMA.

On the first Sunday in September, our meeting began at Shady Grove Christian Church, in Clay County, Alabama. Brother G. R. Walker preached the sermon at 11 o'clock that day. Rev. J. E. Amerson of the Congregational Methodist Church was also present.

Monday following, Rev. J. D. Dollar and I appeared on the scene, and I preached at 11 o'clock, Monday. Brother Dollar preached three times and I did the remainder of the preaching. We had a good meeting.

Shady Grove Church is one of our weaker churches, having been without a pastor for two years, and they as well as others in that section, were anxious for a meeting. New Harmony and Spring Hill united with them and a great meeting was the result.

On Wednesday we held a united conference of the three churches. They formed a group pastorate and called a pastor for the ensuing year. Cragford having already called Bro. G. H. Veazey, these three other churches did likewise, and extended him a unanimous call. Arrangements are being made for their pastor to live in their midst. It is understood that if for any reason Bro. Veazey cannot accept the call, some one else will be offered the work. This is a step in the right direction. It should have been done long ago. I have rarely ever seen people so happy as these people were. An expression of joy was upon every countenance, and at the closing service, on Thursday at 11 a. m., God's name was praised aloud in the sanctuary. It was good to be there.

We have in this immediate territory the three churches, not including Cragford, and these will be a desirable pastorate, conveniently situated, and will afford a fine opportunity for some good, consecrated preacher. This was one of the best meetings that I have attended in all the nine weeks of revival work of the summer.

Bro. Dollar and I were very kindly remembered by the people when we were ready to take our leave. Our car was loaded with many things that were good to the taste and sweet to the smell, and pleasant to the eye. There must have been twelve or fifteen dollars worth of provisions, including fruit and canned goods, and six dollars in cash in addition. God bless everybody who had a part in the contribution.

I am now at home for a day—tired, worn and dusty—but will leave tomorrow for Richland, Ga., my last trip before Conference meets. This year has been my hardest year, and the best year in my memory, of service to the church. Our churches are in fairly good condition, spiritually, but financially very much discouraged. I am still trusting my Father to lead.

G. D. HUNT.

HOW TWO LIVES BECAME AS ONE.

In the charming days of school life attachments were formed which were never to be broken. Each was reared in Christian families. The natural beauties of the country homes made lasting impressions upon their young lives. The love that binds hearts together awakens within them ties of friendship, while life's varied experiences only unites them closer and closer.

She came to find in him a friend which filled her life with the richest of life's blessings. The passing years brought weakness and affliction, and the sad departure one by one of the inmates of the old homestead. Where love, joy, peace and plenty once smiled upon that happy circle around the old hearth-stone, these brought sad memories. Not that the lives of its members were evil, but disease fastened itself upon them. Separation and silence overshadowed the old home, and she was the only remaining member of that happy home. She was comforted, however, with the growing attachment which filled her life and his with lasting peace. Her life was of that pure, unselfish, gentle, kind, noble and true type which enabled her husband to safely trust in her. While her confidence in him grew with her years until she was willing to commit all she had, and all her physical well-being into his hands, for he had always been honest, truthful, sympathetic and reliable in taking care of her, and all her earthly possessions. In her last illness, she commended him many times for the good care he had taken of her, and how good he had been to her. Long years have come and gone since she passed to the Home Beyond, but lasting comfort and peace have been given him, and the assurance and hope that fills his heart as he approaches the sunset of this life, and is cheered with the dawning of that new day which is to come, fills his soul with delight.

Like Victor Hugo, he says,

"Winter is on my head,
But Eternal Spring is in my heart."

B. F. VAUGHAN,

Centerville, Ohio.

WILLING TO WASH WINDOWS.

A neat, rather prepossessing young man applied to John Wanamaker for a job a number of years ago, in Philadelphia, and when told there was no job for him, said, "I am willing to do anything."

Thinking to get rid of him, Mr. Wanamaker said, "The only job I have is a job of washing windows." "I will take it," said the young man. He washed those windows as they had never been washed. In time he became manager of the great store.

When this manager died, after twenty-five years of splendid service, Mr. Wanamaker said, "I am willing to pay as high as one hundred thousand dollars a year for a manager who can fill the place of the one I lost."

What the church needs is men and women who are willing to "wash windows" for the sake of the Kingdom.—Canadian Churchman.

Have the courage to do without that which you do not need, however much you may admire it.—King Stanislas.

OXFORD BIBLES for EVERY NEED

"The Oxford Bible is the Bible par excellence of the world"

THE HOME BIBLE

A Family Bible in Handy Size

An extra large type Oxford Text Bible, containing also, a family register and 12 beautifully colored maps. Size 9 x 5½ inches.

Specimen of Type

16 The LORD is King for ever and ever: the heathen are perished out

Nos. 01600 Superior Cloth, round corners and red edges $2.75
01603 French Morocco, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, head-band, book-mark $4.75

The JUNIOR'S Bible

Self-Pronouncing

With 4,000 Questions and Answers, carefully selected "Aids to Bible Study," 16 beautifully colored and 15 black full-page illustrations, 6 colored maps and a presentation page. Children may readily pronounce correctly difficult Scripture names, as this Bible is self-pronouncing. Size 7 x 4½ x 1¼ inches.

Type in Junior's Bible
2 Take the sum or all the
of the children of Isra-el.
years old and upward, thro

No. 1815 French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges, head-bands and book-mark. Make some child happy with one of these fine Bibles $2.95

Child's ILLUSTRATED Bible

The beautifully colored illustrations in this new Bible are a delight to the children. It has clear, readable type and yet it measures only 5½ x 3½ inches.

Specimen of Type

2 My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the LORD: my heart and my flesh crieth out for thee living God.
10 Mercy and truth
gathered; righteousness
kissed each other.
11 Truth shall spring

No. 02112 French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, gold edges $2.50

Pocket REFERENCE Bible

Has over 50,000 center column references. Measures only 6¾ x 4½ inches. (A splendid gift for a young lady.)

Specimen of Type

9 Behold, "O God our shield, and look upon the face of thine anointed."
10 For a day in thy courts is better
a Gen. 15. 1.
b Ps. 56. 1.
c 57. 1.
d or, all

No. 07523x French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $3.25

Concordance Edition

Type and size as No. 07523x, but with a Concordance, subject index and dictionary of Scripture names. An excellent edition for students and Christian workers No. 03272x $5.00

The Oxford imprint in a Bible guarantees satisfaction

OUR LEADER
Oxford Concordance Bible

Self-Pronouncing

This beautiful Oxford India paper edition is indeed the ideal Bible for the student, preacher and evangelist. Each proper name and difficult word is divided into syllables and accented, and though printed with large clear type, the volume measures only 8½ x 5½ x 1½ inches.

Specimen of Type

8 9 "Jē-hōi'-ā-chin was 6
years old when he began t

No. 03671x Fine Grain Morocco leather, overlapping cover, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head-bands and book-mark $9.50

A UNIQUE GIFT BIBLE

With Basket Weave Binding

The Antique brown calf leather binding has a basket-weave grain, and button clasp. Has overlapping cover, art silk lined, with red under gold edges. With references. Printed on Oxford India paper. Type as Pocket Reference Bible. $5.50

No. 03255x

As No. 03255x, with concordance. No. 03276x $6.50

Oxford TEACHER'S Bibles

Have over 50,000 center column references, and 300 double-column pages of up-to-date helps, conveniently arranged in alphabetical order. Also 32 full-page illustrations, and an indexed atlas of the Bible with 15 beautifully colored maps of Bible lands.

Easy-to-Read-Edition

Size 7¼ x 5 x 1½ inches

Specimen of Type

14 Like sheep they are laid in grave; death shall feed on th

Nos. 04453. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges. A durable and handsome Bible. Oxford India Paper Edition. Only one inch thick.

0773x. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, head-bands and book-mark. A beautiful gift edition $7.00

RED LETTER Edition

Same size and type as style No. 04453, with same references and helps, but with all the words of Jesus Christ printed in red. White paper edition No. 05453. French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $5.00

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Secretary.

A PRAYER.

Almighty God, how corrupted and squandered are the strength of youth and the wisdom of years! We look to Thee for the healing of the nations and we bless Thee that not all the people have forgotten thy eternal precepts. Bring Thou to naught every issue that tends to displace thy holy law. Turn back the nations from surrendering righteous concepts. Cause governments to uphold the Sinai banner, "Remember." Restore in believers the faith and zeal by which Christian foundations are preserved. And may thy Kingdom come, we humbly pray. Amen. "L."

MAKING THE MOST OF LIFE.

Some years ago Dr. Sam Higginbottom received the following letter from Prof. N. A. Nitale:

"I am an assistant professor of biology in Wilson College, Bombay. The doctor has just told me that I am a leper and must give up my work here at once. Will you receive me into your institution and let me do some work for my suffering fellow men while I have yet strength?"

He was admitted and immediately set up a laboratory where he has worked out several valuable tests. He has discovered that most lepers have hookworm, malaria or some form of intestinal trouble, all of which must be eliminated before there is any hope for cure. Not content with this great service, he has organized a training school composed of young men and women who have been cured of leprosy. These young people are being trained in laboratory work so that they can go out and help in other institutions where they are sorely needed. In order that the training, which requires about three years, may be as thorough as possible, Professor Nitale requires the study of English, mathematics, physiology, sanitation and the elements of chemistry and biology, all of which he himself teaches.—Missionary Review.

FLOODS IN CHINA.

Some thirty years ago we listened to an illustrated lecture by a representative of the state forestry department of Pennsylvania, in which the matter was strongly emphasized that the uplands of our country must not have the forests cut away and killed off if we would avoid the floods and famines that mark China in recent centuries. The lecture was enforced by pictures of hill country without a spear of grass or a tree, and with no soil in which they could grow if planted. Now, the reports from China are once more telling of floods and famine, with the lives of thirty millions of people imperiled by the loss of property, starvation and pestilence. One who has traveled over the uplands where the great river systems of our country rise, and observed the waste and recklessness of the timber-cutting customs will not be surprised to read of the consequent floods down on the Ohio and Mississippi. The remedy: plant trees and keep down forest fires, and cut out of the forests the matured trees without ruining the stand of young timber. Are you a lover of trees? If not, you have something to learn yet, for trees represent some of the finest handiwork of God.—Editorial in Wesleyan Methodist.

A Christian without trials would be like a mill without wind or water. What place should we have for patience, meekness, readiness to forgive, if we had nothing to try us?—John Newton.

MISSIONARY OFFERINGS.

WEEK ENDING SEPTEMBER 12, 1931.

Sunday Schools.

Previously acknowledged, since Sept. 1st.	$ 62.67
Spring Hill, Lineville, Ala.	.30
Mt. Auburn, Manson, N. C.	2.37
United Christian, Lynchburg, Va.	1.78
Smithwood, Liberty, N. C.	1.05
Friendship B. C., Oakland, Suffolk, Va. .	2.25
Antioch, Harrisonburg, Va.	2.41
Elon College, N. C.	18.75
Whistler's Chapel, Quicksburg, Va.	1.00
Linville, Va.	6.35
Roanoke, Ala.	1.10
Newport, Stanley, Va.	1.96
Turner's Chapel, Sanford, N. C.	1.50
Liberty (Vance), Henderson, N. C.	3.57
Suffolk, Va.	25.00
Bethlehem, Suffolk, Va.	1.35
Moore Union, Sanford, N. C.	2.00
Wadley, Ala.	1.48
Noon Day, Wedowee, Ala.	1.10
Noon Day C. E. Society, Wedowee, Ala. .	.25
Palm Street, Greensboro, N. C.	4.81
Elon College, N. C.	25.00
Total	$ 168.05

NOTE.—These last four offerings should have been acknowledged in last week's Sun.

Individual and Church Offerings.

Previously acknowledged, since Sept. 1st.	$ 40.00
Burlington, N. C.	10.00
Barretts, Wakefield, Va.	.80
Turner's Chapel, Sanford, N. C.	3.50
Miss Birdie Wilson, Virgilina, Va.	1.00
Ocean View, Va.	25.00
Total	$ 80.00

Dollar-a-Month Club.

Previously acknowledged, since Sept. 1st.	$ 14.00
Mrs. B. W. Fields' Class, Reidsville S. S. .	1.00
Miss Stella Sharp, Summerfield, N. C.	5.00
Total	$ 20.00

Specials.

Previously acknowledged, since Sept. 1st.	$ 15.00
Mebane S. S., Mebane, N. C.	2.00
Grover C. Stoneberger, Stanley, Va.	2.50
Total	$ 19.50

Summary.

Previously acknowledged, since Sept. 1st.	$ 131.67
Sunday Schools, Regular	105.38
Individual and Church Offerings	40.30
Dollar-a-Month Club	6.00
Specials	4.50
Total to date	$ 287.85

J. O. ATKINSON,
Secretary.

NEWS ITEMS.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Holland Christian Church has held its monthly meeting regularly with a splendid attendance and an increase of membership. The most interesting and instructive feature of the year has been the study of the book of Romans. The mission study book "The Cloud of Witnesses" was greatly enjoyed using the mission study class method. The Society held one public entertainment in connection with the Berta Rowland society. Mrs. B. J.

Beale is the president and Mrs. L. J. Daughtry secretary of this thriving society. They have just closed the year's work with their apportionment. All met and with a greater zeal for the new year. This society together with the Berta Rowland society is looking forward to entertaining the Woman's Conference in October.

MISSION STUDY.

STUDY BOOKS AND PARELLEL MATERIAL FOR 1931-1932.

I have said little about Teachers who taught the Mission Books at Chambersburg. They were outstanding women. They came to us with minds filled with the challenge of changed conditions, with new thoughts for this new age, with new experiences after close study and much travel. They talked about a larger Christ which we must discover anew. They taught by the pouring in process (lecturing), and they used the discussion method. The last method best.

The program is education as to world conditions, world need. We must develop the outlook and appreciation of other people and nations, as we think in times of no more selfishness and no more racial prejudice.

Our consciences will be awakened as we study world movement tendencies. But before going forward we must have a definite heart experience. I quote Stanly Jones, "We cannot go forward until we go deeper."

Doors of opportunity are open, enter, discover, enjoy. Get ready to brighten your lights.

As you get your Mission material for the year, try to use the books suggested and taught at all Mission Conferences. Close study is necessary if we are to serve. If we cooperate, we must not neglect it. The books are background for the future.

This is a year when every one will be interested in the Home Book. It is a mirror showing what the church has accomplished and challenges us to go forward and make America a Christian nation. It must be studied in the light of the findings of the North American Congress, Washington, 1930. Christ threw wide open the windows of the world, and through these world windows we are to see the village life and interpret the Rural Billion—home, mother, child. This subject should be studied in the light of the finding Jerusalem Conference. The books are new in this approach to the Mission problem.

For Women and Young People, Foreign Missions: "Christ Comes to the Village." Price 50c.

Parallel Reading: "The Rural Billion." 60c.

Home Book for Women: "The Challenge of Change." 60c.

Home Book for Young People: "God and the Census." 60c.

Willing Workers: "Open Windows." 50c.

Leaders' Helps for the books, each, 25c.

Program Suggestions for Women's Societies. Free.

Miscellaneous Programs, etc. 10c.

Teaching Pictures on Rural Life, set of 8. 50c.

Order your books from the Commission on Missions, 14 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass.

I have a supply of leaflets bearing on the above subjects. Use the Bulletin Board to give Missions to the Sunday School and the church. Get your young folks to make attractive posters. I will be glad to aid in any way. Ask me.

MRS. J. CARTWRIGHT, Lit. Supt.,
1732 La Salle Ave.,
Norfolk, Va.

WHAT MAKES A COLLEGE CHRISTIAN?

To call a college "Christian" obviously does not make it such. The fact that a college was founded by men of Christian faith or that it is sponsored by religious organization may give promise, but not assurance, that the institution is Christian.

Compulsory chapel and required courses in Bible or Ethics are tokens of religious emphasis, but they cannot guarantee the Christian character of the institution where they exist. Christian Associations on the campus are wholesome influences, but they may easily become merely forums for the discussion of economic and sociological questions, duplicates of classroom performances under another name, with any distinctively spiritual value wholly absent. We can hardly hold these student organizations responsible for making or keeping the college Christian.

Formerly it was the practice to select college presidents almost wholly from the ranks of the ministry. To put a college under the leadership of a Christian minister might be the strong earnest of making the college a Christian institution. Yet a minister, trained in the technique of religious leadership, when transferred to the president's chair, cannot, single-handed, make his college Christian.

What, then, makes a college Christian? We shall all agree that no college, any more than a church, can be expected to be one hundred per cent Christian. Our real question is not what makes a perfectly or ideally Christian college, but what, with all the inevitable human limitations, will give the college such an atmosphere and such a tone, that, in its ideals and in its practices, will enable it, without a misapplication of the term, to call itself a Christian college.

Whether a college thus can qualify will depend in the first place on the ideal of education for which the college stands. There are two pretty clearly recognized ideals extant. If a college fosters the idea that an education is to be sought primarily for its own sake or for the personal profit of the student, it fosters a pagan idea and therefore cannot be called a Christian institution. When the ideal is a pagan one no amount of religious machinery and no amount of campus activities, practiced in the name of Christianity, can succeed in making the college Christian. The ultimate purpose of education and therefore of the entire educational program must be interpreted and executed in terms of the Christian philosophy of life, if the college is to be thought of as a Christian college.

Another qualification of a Christian college is to be found in its attitude toward truth. Over the doorway of every college that calls itself Christian should be written the words, "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." The same passion for reality that marks the founder of Christianity should mark every institution that dares to take his name. The Christian college should be the synonym for the open mind. Classrooms, libraries and laboratories should be open doors leading to the discovery of the truth. The Christian college must have respect for tradition but reverence for truth. Intellectual suicide leads to moral suicide. Both are unchristian.

Again, to be Christian, a college must be honest. It must not advertise one thing and sell another. It must not cheat the students by offering them an inferior article. It must not invite them to an educational banquet and then attempt to conceal the omission of the main course by a long and eloquent invocation or by the fervent interjection of the dear old college hymn. To change the figure, beautiful stained glass in our chapel windows cannot serve as a substitute for shoddy goods on our educational counters.

But the most significant factor in making the college Christian is the teacher. The men and women who, through the subjects they teach, are far more significantly revealing their own philosophies of life, their own responses and attitudes and ideals—these more than anybody else or anything else determine whether or not the college is Christian. The note struck again and again by the teacher in the classroom finally becomes the dominant note in the student's thinking. There may be no such thing as Christian chemistry or Christian mathematics or Christian history, but chemistry or mathematics or history taught by a man with a Christian experience and from a Christian point of view interprets to the student a quite different world from that revealed by the same subjects taught from an atheistic or a pagan point of view.

The teacher, therefore, is the key to the situation. No catalogue declarations, no campus religious organizations, no inspirational chapel talks, no church vigilant committees, no traditional faith of the founders, can avail in making a college Christian in the presence of a daily classroom contact of students with teachers who, in spirit and attitude, are either indifferently Christian or positively pagan.

The spirit of the college is largely the expression of the personalities of the teachers of that college. If these be Christian personalities, the dominant tone of the campus will be Christian. Other influences and factors there are, tangible and intangible, but the most potent influence and the most determining factor in the Christian life of an institution is the teacher. In the last analysis, then, it is the Christian teacher that makes the Christian college.—Congregational Herald of Gospel Liberty.

THE MASSANETTA BIBLE CONFERENCE.

A number of our ministers for the past four or five years have been greatly interested in the helpful programs put on at Massanetta Springs under the direction of the Synod of the Presbyterian Church of Virginia.

For the past session of the Bible Conference there were present from the Christian Church Revs. I. W. Johnson, J. F. Morgan, W. M. Jay, O. D. Pythress, E. B. White, J. W. Fix, B. J. Earp, W. B. Fuller, A. W. Andes, R. L. Williamson, L. E. Smith and a number of laymen. All of us who were there were greatly benefited and are anxious that a large number of our ministers and laymen take advantage of this splendid program for the coming year.

During the month of July there are Assemblies and Encampments for the young people representing practically all denominations in Virginia. During the month of August they have a music school under the personal direction of Dr. J. Fenley Williamson, which cannot be too highly commended. If the choirs of our churches could come under the influence of this school, it would certainly be a blessing and a benediction to our people at worship.

The Bible Conference program is one of the strongest and most complete programs of its kind presented in this country, having on its roster men like Drs. Hutton and Holden of England, Drs. Evans, Zwemer and Spear and Bishop Moore of this country. The music for the Bible Conference is usually under the direction of Mr. Hammetree, who is an interpreter of sacred music and always brings an evangelistic atmosphere to the Conference that is inspiring.

Dr. William E. Hudson is the manager of the Encampment and is largely responsible for the pronounced spiritual atmosphere that literally pervades the grounds.

I trust that many of the readers of this article may begin now to prepare to spend at least two weeks at Massanetta Springs for the coming year. Those in charge will be glad to have you and will give you every possible consideration and advantage and you will make a contribution to this most needed work. But, in addition to all this, you will be able to bring away much more than you can possibly contribute. I am sure that the ministers and laymen of the church who were present at the recent session of the Bible Conference will concur with me heartily in these expressions and solicitations.

L. E. SMITH, President,
The Southern Christian Convention.

NOTICE.

The Eastern Virginia Woman's Missionary Conference will meet with the Holland Christian Church Thursday, October 15th. The morning session opens at 10:30.

The pastor of each church is invited, and each society is earnestly requested to meet its requirements, and have a large representation present.

Mrs. F. I. Johnson, President of the Woman's Federated Boards of Foreign Missions of America, will be the speaker.

MRS. W. L. STAGG, Secy.

COMBINATION OFFER—To a new subscriber or for renewal, $2.25, either Gentlemen's (Capitol) Pen or Ladies' Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. And to "Sun" subscribers, not in arrears, any Pen at one-fourth off. Address: THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1536 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us. Postage paid and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer. MEN'S PENS—Capitol, $2.00; Mercantile, $2.50; Cardinal, $3.00. LADIES' PENS, $2.00.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN

ADVENTURES IN YOUTH FELLOWSHIP

"Youth at Work in the Church."
JEWEL TRUITT, Editor, Waverly, Virginia.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND CHURCH MUSIC.

Do young people demand "jazzy" songs in church school and church? Or do some of their elders think they demand it, when they themselves are satisfied with or appealed to by this type of music? If young people do not like real music, it is not because the church has failed to train them to an appreciation of it? Questions like these should be taken into account by the committee on Religious Education, or better still the Music Committee.

What is the opportunity of the church with reference to music? First, only good music should be used. But, in addition there should be some instruction in the meaning and value of it. Part of the Church School curriculum for young people should deal with, develop appreciations: appreciation of music, of art in general, of religious literature, of nature.

The National Bureau for the Advancement of Music is able to be of considerable help to church groups. It has a booklet, "Young People in Church Music," which discusses the opportunities in general, and lists a considerable number of ways in which the understanding and use of good music may be fostered. They also offer a number of other materials which will be found helpful. Write to this organization at 45 West 45th St., New York City.

"RAINBOW PROMISE MEETING."

By MRS. W. B. WILLIAMS.

(This program was worked up from ideas gotten from a book of plans for Prayer Meetings.)

Prelude:—"A Rainbow on the Cloud."

Call to Worship:—Genesis 9:12-17.

Hymn:—"If Your Heart Keeps Right."

Prayer:

Topic:—"A Rainbow Promise Meeting," "Learning to Trust God's Promises."

Scripture:—Matthew 5:1-12.

Talk:—"The Significance of the Rainbow." (Tell of the first rainbow.)

Hymn:—"A Rainbow on the Cloud."

Bible Verses of Promise:—Before the meeting find verses in the Bible relating to 'promises,' form a rainbow in the Bible by having a color of the rainbow to mark the place where the verses are to be found, give to six members each one a color to match the ones used as a book mark, call for the verses by color. Use the Bible as a centerpiece on the leader's table instead of flowers.

Period of Directed Prayer:—Pianist play softly, "God Will Take Care of You."

Pray:—

1. Thank God for His Promises.
2. Thank God for sending His Son into the World.
3. Thank God for the Promise of Eternal Life. Close with prayer by leader.

Talk:—"The Master has promised, 'Lo, I Am With You Always.'"

Special Music:—"I Know God's Promise is True." (Have a girl dress in white, tie rainbow colors around her head for a band—most any bright colored scarf will do—stand in a background of ferns—turn out all lights and focus a flashlight on her while she sings this as a solo.)

Leader's Talk:—"Learning from Jesus to Trust in God's Promises."

Consecration Period:—Have a tall white candle to represent Christ. Turn out all lights. Leader says: "And God said, 'Let there be light,' and there was light," while she lights the candle. Ask for reconsecration of all. Have a small candle on the table for each—call for them to come forward by groups of colors (that is, as each one comes to the meeting, hand them a slip of paper the color of one part of the rainbow—that is, give one red, orange, yellow, green, blue, violet—and then start the colors over again so that an even number of each color will be distributed) and as each lights their candle, repeat a verse of scripture and form in a circle, during this part of the program, pianist plays softly, "Tis So Sweet to Trust in Jesus." After all candles are lighted and the circle complete, offer prayer, after which sing from memory one verse "Tis So Sweet to Trust in Jesus."

der says: "And God said, 'Let there be light,' and there was light," while she lights the candle. Ask for reconsecration of all. Have a small candle on the table for each—call for them to come forward by groups of colors (that is, as each one comes to the meeting, hand them a slip of paper the color of one part of the rainbow—that is, give one red, orange, yellow, green, blue, violet—and then start the colors over again so that an even number of each color will be distributed) and as each lights their candle, repeat a verse of scripture and form in a circle, during this part of the program, pianist plays softly, "Tis So Sweet to Trust in Jesus." After all candles are lighted and the circle complete, offer prayer, after which sing from memory one verse "Tis So Sweet to Trust in Jesus."

Benediction.

SALEM CHAPEL C. E. SOCIETY.

Salem Chapel Christian Endeavor Society held a unique and very inspirational out-door meeting last Friday evening.

In the midst of a beautiful natural setting, a picnic and watermelon feast were enjoyed by 30 members. Following this, the young people gathered around the campfire and discussed the subject of missions. The discussion was led by Miss Josephine Valjato, of Schauffler College, Cleveland, Ohio.

The evening was completed with singing at the home of Mr. Silas M. Johnson. F. M.

YOUNG PEOPLE, NOTICE.

The Eastern Virginia Young People's Missionary Conference will meet on October 9th, at 8:00 p. m., in the Suffolk Christian Church. An interesting program is being planned with an outstanding young person as speaker. It is hoped and urged that the attendance be larger than ever before. Missions has a vital interest for each one, and we, the young people, are deeply concerned about conditions, and are looking toward the future when the whole world shall know of the Savior.

Remember the banner which will be given to the society having the largest attendance. This means those who are members of the society, and all others that they bring from their church.

Let us make October 9th a gala day in the life of missions when we come together for our fourth annual Young People's Meeting.

MARY LEE WILLIAMS,

Pres. Young People's Missionary Conference.
Franklin, Va.

A HOBBY.

Doctor Mayo, one of the world's most eminent surgeons, in addressing an audience of medical students on his recent tour of British hospitality, gave a word of advice which ought to be heeded by all young people. He said that every one ought to adopt a hobby, not for the profit it might bring him, but as an interest for his leisure hours. True education, he explained, enables one to enjoy his own society; and one of the evils of the day is that few persons are contented to be alone. The best real rest from labor is a change of work, which is as good as play. Youth is the time to choose what this is to be; and the best choice is one which keeps us in touch with nature.—Selected.

A RALLY DAY PROGRAM.

FOR THE YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY.

THEME: Jesus as Our Leader.

PRaise HYMN: "Praise Him! Praise Him!"

PRAYER OF DEVOTION TO JESUS CHRIST by the leader.

HYMN: "I Would Be True."

READING BY TWO LEADERS:

First Reader, Read Matthew 21:6-9.

Second Reader:

It is still true that "the most part" of the people do honor Jesus—by an occasional singing of hymns, by saying that they believe in Him, by according Him a high place in history. But more is demanded! How many do "as He appoints?" How many walk in His paths, think His thoughts, do His work? What place does Jesus occupy in our lives? Is He a great hero in whom we believe, or is He the leader who determines all of our imaginations and actions?

First Reader, Read Matthew 7:21 and Luke 6:46.

Second Reader: Jesus depended upon His disciples to carry forward His work. In spite of their many faults and weaknesses, the eleven were faithful. They suffer all manner of hardships in order to do the will of Jesus. In each generation, others have taken their places. If Christianity is going to save the world, we—who call ourselves Christians—must give Jesus the place of leadership in our lives. And we must be willing to follow Him as our great leader. Jesus alone answers the needs of our own lives, your life and my life, and the needs of the whole world.

ADDRESS: "Youth's Opportunities in Christian Citizenship."

ADDRESS: "Youth's Opportunities in Christian Leadership."

DEDICATORY HYMN: "Follow the Gleam." "A Charge to Keep." "Lord, speak to Me That I May Speak."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

What our society plans to do this year (Rally Day)

SCRIPTURE READING: Ecclesiastes 9:10; 11:6.

In planning this year's program of work, it will be well worth while to consider the program which is guiding the whole group of Christian Church youth during this year. A committee appointed by the President of your society should get informations and materials from Miss Lucy M. Eldridge, Young People's Secretary, C. P. A. Building, Dayton, Ohio, or from Miss Jewel Truitt, Glen Raven, N. C. These materials will include a chart of suggested work to be done by each Young People's group in Christian and Congregational Churches during 1931-1932. This chart includes work in Study, Fellowship and Recreation, Devotional Life, World Fellowship, Leadership Training, and Organization. Under each heading, or "Pathway," several items are listed. The Society is to try to accomplish these designed things. All of them will not be new to any Society, and a careful study of these suggested "aims" of goals for the year's work will doubtless result in a better prepared and more inspiring program. Write for the chart at once.

Daily Readings.

- | | |
|----------|-------------------------|
| Sept. 21 | Romans 12:1, 2. |
| Sept. 22 | Romans 10:1-13. |
| Sept. 23 | Romans 15:26-33. |
| Sept. 24 | I Thessalonians 1:2-10. |
| Sept. 25 | 17:10-12. |
| Sept. 26 | Malachi 3:7-12. |

JEWEL TRUITT.

Sunday School Lesson

By REV. H. S. HARDCASTLE.

THE SPREAD OF CHRISTIANITY IN ASIA.

LESSON XIII.—SEPTEMBER 27, 1931.

GOLDEN TEXTS "And when they were come, and had gathered the church together, they rehearsed all that God had done with them, and how he had opened the door of faith unto the Gentiles."—Acts 14: 27.

Pentecost.

Pentecost is the birthday of the church. To use a proper expression as a birthday gift to the church God gave the Holy Spirit. This Holy Spirit was the secret of the power of the early church, and it is the secret of any power that the church may have today. It is not by organizations or by numbers or by programs, as good and as desirable as these may be, that the church is to make progress, but by the spirit of the living God.

Plain Preaching.

The apostles were very bold in proclaiming their message. They knew that Jesus was alive, and they knew that he was with them. They, therefore, determined to obey God rather than man. They preached with a boldness that was inspiring to believers and disturbing to opponents. But with all their boldness they had a sympathetic heart for those who were in trouble. The Holy Spirit made them fruitful as well as courageous.

Helping Others.

The early church was compelled to face a situation in which there were those who were in need. They recognized the supreme importance of the ministry of prayer and preaching, but they also recognized the importance of ministry unto the bodily needs of the children of God. Their social service was prompted by genuine sympathy and was rendered in a personal way.

Persecution.

The early church thrived on opposition and persecution. As a matter of fact, the life of the church has been most vital when the going has been roughest. Woe unto that church or person who has too easy a time.

Phillip.

The man who puts himself under the orders of the Holy Spirit as Phillip did will always find profitable work to do. He may be sent on seemingly strange errands and to out of way places, but if he obeys he shall find meaning back of it all and fruitfulness in the Master's service.

Saul and Paul.

God had a good work for Saul to do. One of the most vital factors in his preparation for his work was his conversion. In a way it seemed sudden, but as a matter of fact it had been long in preparation. Ministers and Sunday School teachers must not be weary in well doing, for if they sow the seed which is the word of God, God will eventually give a harvest. When Paul was converted, he gave all that he had to the service of the Master. We can do as much.

Sowing and Reaping.

There is a law of the spiritual world. A man reaps what he has sown, and in proportionate measure the man who gives to the world the best that he has eventually will find the best coming back again. Furthermore, the glory of life is to share with others.

A Gospel for All Men.

The gospel was for all men and for all time. Cornelius had prayed for more light, and he received it. Peter had not prayed for more light, but he followed the light when it came. This was the beginning of that long process by which the gospel finally came even to those of us who read these notes.

Missionaries.

The Holy Spirit moved on the church at Antioch, and it responded by giving its best for the Master's service. The first missionaries went forth as a result of and in the spirit of prayer. The missionary enterprise is primarily a spiritual enterprise. The reason why the church is not doing more for missions today is because the church is not filled with the Holy Spirit.

Forfeited Privileges.

The Jews had the first opportunity to receive the gospel but as a race they rejected it. Paul and Barnabas, therefore, turned to the Gentiles. It is a law of life that privilege rejected means privilege forfeited. The Christian Church has a large responsibility to the Jewish people as touching the gospel of Christ.

Courage and Perseverance.

The story of the work of Paul and Barnabas in Asia-Minor is the story of courage and perseverance in the things which we must face and do.

Seeing Things Right.

When a very vital issue was at stake the apostles gathered in friendly council to seek a solution. Many difficult situations come in life, but are happily solved when groups and individuals have the spirit of good will and the purpose to come to an understanding. It is inevitable that Christians should have different sides of the truth and find divergent opinions. But though minds may be at variance, hearts may and should be as one.

A PRAYER.

Give me, O Lord, that quietness of heart which makes the most of labor and of rest. Save me from passionate excitement, petulant fretfulness, and idle fear, keeping me ever in the restful presence of Thy love. Teach me to be alert, and wise in all responsibilities, without hurry and without neglect. Tame Thou and rule my tongue, that I may not transgress Thy law of love. When others censure, may I seek Thine image in each fellowman, judging with charity as one who shall be judged. Banish envy from my thought, and hatred from my lips. Help me to be content amid the strife of tongues, with my unspoken thought. When anxious cares threaten my peace, help me to run to Thee, that I may find rest, and be made strong for calm endurance and for valiant service, in the name of Jesus Christ my Lord. Amen.

B. F. V.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the number and price.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75
India Paper Edition, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00
Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3/8 x 8 Inches, and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00
Minion Type, Pocket Size, 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold.....$1.60
Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.50

2173—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges.....$6.00

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 16-16 of an Inch Thick.

133X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$4.00

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 5 3/8 Inches, and 1 inch thick, with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 5 3/8 Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.

65—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps.....$2.50

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3/8 x 8 1/2 Inches and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With Concise Bible Dictionary, combined Concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.75

RED-LETTER EDITION.

With All the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands; title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations; special book for Sunday Schools.....95c

Any of the above Bibles sent postpaid. Address
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY H. E. ROUNTREE

One of our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"O Lord, I beseech thee, let now thine ear be attentive to the prayer of thy servant, and to the prayer of thy servants, who desire to fear thy name, and prosper, I pray thee, thy servant this day."

By DR. AMOS R. WELLS.

MONDAY.

LAW HAPPINESS.

"When there is no vision, the people cast off restraint, but he that keepeth the law, happy is he."—Proverbs 29:7-18.

The Bible on which President Hoover took his inaugural oath was open at this verse, which is appropriate to the high office Mr. Hoover entered. Back of law enforcement and law observance is the vision of what the law seeks to gain.

For example, back of the Prohibition law is the vision of a pure humanity; of men with clear heads and true hearts; of women whose lives are sweetened with love and confidence in an assured future; of children reared in an atmosphere of honor and affection.

Happy are we if we have clear vision of right, and if we observe the laws of God and man through which the ideal is made actual. Fortunate are we if we combine insight with practicality, religion with morality, theory with common sense, purpose with action.

Prayer.—Ever blessed Son of God, we rejoice that Thou, the supreme source of law, madest Thyself obedient to law. And we pray that we, having seen the heavenly vision, may not be disobedient to it on earth. Amen.

TUESDAY.

THE HIGHER VISION.

"Now we see in a mirror, darkly, but then face to face."—I Cor. 13:4-12

The Indians of Arizona, in pre-historic days, constructed hundreds of miles of irrigation canals which have since been filled up and can no longer be discerned on the ground; but aviators two thousand feet in the air can map the canals with their cameras, and sometimes can trace their long-forgotten courses with their own eyes.

Many think that they must get close to a thing to understand it, but the reverse is often the case. People that puzzle us or fret us when we are near them become comprehensible and likeable at a little remove. Problems that seem insoluble now will clear themselves up after a few years. Much that we cannot see in our lives here on earth we shall see clearly and understandingly from the view-point of heaven.

Prayer.—And may we not, O Father, look at all things all the time with this upper vision? The sight of earth is confused and indistinct. Clarify it, we pray Thee, by placing our souls on high. For Christ's sake. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

"NOT BUSINESS."

"That thy goodness shall not as of necessity, but of free will."—Philemon 8-14.

One of the great Jewish merchants of the country is Louis Bamberger, of Newark, N. J. Not long ago he sold out to a leading firm of New York City, and proceeded to express his appreciation of the employees who had been with him fifteen years or more by giving them checks ranging from $200 to $18,000, the total gift being no less than $1,019,000. The most striking thing in the whole splendid act was Mr. Bamberger's saying, "It isn't business, it's just a personal matter."

Truly such a monumental deed of kindness is not business, as business is ordinarily understood, but it is the "Father's business" of which Christ spoke, the "King's business" of the Old Testament. It is business of the highest sort, the kind of business that is transacted in the Kingdom of heaven. It is the fashion of business that Paul recommended to Philemon when he urged him to receive kindly the runaway slave, Onesimus—not business of necessity but business of freewill.

And if this is the sort of business in which we are some day to engage, the business of the next world, why not accustom ourselves to it in this world?

Prayer.—Our Father who art in heaven, Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done in this world as it is done in heaven. Here and now and forever more. Amen.

THURSDAY.

THE MEANING OF THE CLOUD.

"As they were looking, He was taken up, and a cloud received Him out of their sight."—Acts 1:1-11.

We have reached Ascension Day, forty days after Easter. He had been accustoming them to His absence by appearances at longer and longer intervals, and it was necessary for their good to break off altogether His presentation to the senses that the spiritual world might be more real to their souls.

For think how it is with us when some dear one leaves us for a distant city. What importance at once every bit of news from that city assumes in our eyes!

So is it when any dear one follows Christ to the world of spirits. How near that world at once appears to us! How often we think of it, and wonder what the beloved is doing there!

Prayer.—Yes, Lord Jesus, ever with Thee. And ever with the earthly friends from whom we are separated for only a short time. It is our heaven now it is Thine, and Thou art preparing a place for us. Amen.

FRIDAY.

SICK SOULS.

"Heal my soul, for I have sinned against thee."—Psalm 41:1-10.

Ancient bronze statues, coins and other metallic objects are subject to sicknesses which are much like the infections of human beings. They crumble away as with tuberculosis. They are eaten as with cancers. They suffer as from ulcers. And each of their many diseases requires a different method of treatment, which properly applied, brings back their former accurate lines, the shining of their beauty, the charm of expression, the delicacy of form.

In human beings sin is a sickness, the soul is diseased. It suffers from many different maladies, requiring many different treatments. There is only one Physician of the soul, and that is the Son of God. When on the earth He healed fevers, restored lepers, and brought back to life corpses that had been lying in the grave. What He did for sick bodies He did also for sick souls, and does for sick souls today.

Sick folks know they are sick. If their bodies are sick, how they rush to physicians of known skill! Why not to the proved Physician of souls? Why seek to heal the spirit ourselves, when we would not dare attempt to heal the body?

Prayer.—Heal Thou my soul, O Christ, for I have sinned against Thee. Be Thou, and Thou alone, my strength, my purity, and my peace. Amen.

SATURDAY.

SILLY COURAGE.

"They were not afraid, nor rent their garments, neither the king, nor any of his servants that heard all these words."—Jeremiah 36:20-26.

When King Jehoiakim cut up the prophecy of Jeremiah and burned that message of Jehovah piece by piece in the fire, the prophet was amazed at his hardihood and the hardihood of his servants. He himself so revered the word of God that he could not understand how any one would dare such a deed. Jeremiah would sooner defy an earthquake than thus deride the law of the Most High.

There is a courage which so far being admirable deserves only contempt. Instead of exhibiting heroism, it displayed idiocy. In human affairs the silliest and most childish of men would not be so foolish as men venture to be in confronting the Lord of the universe.

We speak of "daring sins," but sins are not daring; they are the product of despicable cowardice. Men sin because they are afraid of silly sneers, or because they have not manliness enough to have it out with the devil, to face temptation and overcome it. There is never any real courage in evil doing.

Prayer.—Endow us with Thy might, O Thou overcoming Christ! May we be wise enough to flee before iniquity. May we never dare to do what Thou dost condemn. Amen.

SUNDAY.

CAR PAINTING IN AN HOUR.

"He made haste, and came down, and received him joyfully."—Luke 19:1-10.

Before 1922 thirty-one days were required to paint an automobile in first-class style; now the job is done, and well done, in one hour. A special lacquer was invented and blown on with an air brush, and thus what was considered impossible was accomplished.

Similar quick work is often done in Christian evangelization. Who would have said, an hour before Jesus went to dine with that unscrupulous cruelly oppressive chief of the tax-collectors that before the setting of the sun that day he would be promising to give half of his fortune to the poor, and use the remainder to restore fourfold what he had exacted from his victims? Yet that is exactly what happened.

Prayer.—We believe in Thy miracles, O Thou restorative Christ! We know that Thou canst instantly make a good man out of a bad man, if he comes to Thee in faith. Time is nothing to Thee, and there are no difficulties with Thee, but faith is omnipotent, and in Thee we place our confidence. Amen.

"No Christian and civilized community can afford to show a happy-go-lucky lack of concern for the youth of today; for, if so, the community will have to pay a terrible penalty of financial burden and social degradation in the tomorrow."—Theodore Roosevelt.

The less a man thinks of his soul, the more he is concerned with people's opinion of him—Thoughts of Tolstoy in Unity.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN'S PULPIT

REV. JOSEPH W. FIX, Preacher.

THE VICTORY OF CHRIST.

By JAMES REID, D. D.

"Blessed is the man . . . who passing through the valley of Baca make it a well!"
—Psalm 84: 5, 6.

Was not this victory over circumstances the victory of Christ? Look at life as he went through it! Look at the spiritual country in which he lived and through which he went going to Jerusalem! Weariness, failure, hatred, opposition, disappointment, temptation, loneliness, and Calvary at last! Was there one of these places in which he did not open up wells of inspiration? That is, in point of fact, one of the great meanings of Christ for the world: that he took life just as it met him, walking the way you and I have to walk, shunning nothing, fearing nothing, and so faced it with God that he made of every dark and desert place a place of springs where you and I may drink today as we pass along that self-same road. Christ was always the master of the situation. Nothing was ever too much for him. He touched no hard or bitter road without leaving there some shining track that takes away the fear and the bitterness for those who will follow him there. And there was Calvary at last, that dreary place with not a single surface spring of human fellowship to drink from, no friends, no sense of success, no gratitude, nothing but God the Father: and he went into that valley and made it the place of springs, the spring of love divine, redeeming, awakening, whose very waters are nothing less for a human heart than life from the dead.

As we look through history and through our own lives, does it not seem that this is indeed God's way of leading us to make the place of our failure and weariness and spiritual poverty the very place of vival, so that when we come to such a place we may begin to lift up our hearts with hope? That is the lesson of history and experience. The darkest hour, we say, comes just before the dawn, and there is meaning behind the phrase. It means that God's grace is always near, and nearest of all, perhaps, when our very need and trouble, and it may be our sin, have forced us to dig deeper and to believe more desperately so that we are thereby laid open to his reach.

If it be so, there is not a hope here for the days in which we live? What of the outlook for the future? There are pessimists abroad as they scan the spiritual horizon. That need not dismay us, for it is the part of a true messenger of God always to speak to men from a constant sense that we live in a world which but for the grace of God is threatened with disaster. No man who does not see that it is fit to be listened to for a spiritual message. But is this valley of spiritual dryness through which we are passing not the very place where at last we may expect the springs? Can we not see the signs of them, indeed, not of mere expediency but of Christian outlook, in the new thoughts of international life, for instance, that have awakened the new vision of world brotherhood, the demand for real religion, the new interest in Jesus Christ which has never been so vital as it is today among many thinking people, in the kind of outlook which makes a modern writer in a popular magazine put it down in black and white that "the ideas of the kingdom of heaven and the fatherhood of God are sound, fundamental social and political ideas, and while they mean nothing more than pious phrases to us, we cannot run a business properly or invest money righteously or cast a proper vote without them."

What is our business as Christian men and women today? Is it not to dig deep, to believe in the spiritual possibilities even of this age of disillusionment and moral inertia? The springs still run though the surface is dry. God still reigns.

THE THINGS THAT HIT YOU IN THE HEART.

So little counts in a world like this,
With its varied interests high and low,
And someone's grief is another's bliss,
And this is the way wherever we go.
But now and then in the plunge and spring
Of the daily moil as play our part,
There is something seen as long we fling,
That hits us right in the heart.

You're a busy man and you have no time
For sentiment or emotions keen,
And what do you care for a minstrel's rhyme,
Or a rose's leaf, or a violet's sheen!
But rough and ready or smooth or sweet,
To all of us ere we depart,
There comes from a voice or a face in the street,
The thing that hits the heart.

And when we have counted at life's dear end
The joys and the triumphs we've known,
How many have fallen in the dust, my friend,
How many have faded and flown!
But over them all as memory pours
There arises—to make us start—
The nameless something from far-off shores
That once hit us in the heart.

It is all men's fate, it is all life's will,
It is better than all we may win;
It is more than a beauty that haunts us still,
It is something that's sunken within.
A mother's hand as we left that day,
A baby's face in the mart—
A maiden's smile or a minstrel's lay—
That hits us in the heart.

—Folger McKinsey.

SUCCESSFUL REVIVAL CLOSES AT BISCOE.

The tent revival campaign conducted in Biscoe by Evangelists W. Sykes Smith and B. G. Rollins of Greensboro, N. C., came to a close last night.

Biscoe realized a spiritual awakening during this revival which has been in progress for the past two weeks. As a result, scores of people sought and found the Lord at an altar of prayer in the old fashioned way, the revival reaching its climax during the last week with the large tent filled to its capacity and many were forced to stand on the outside.

This is the second annual campaign staged here by these evangelists, the members of the Christian Church of this place taking the initiative last year in securing the services of the evangelists which was followed by the cooperation of members of three other churches in town. A result of the last year's meeting, they accepted an invitation to return this year and since this year's campaign has been even more successful than last, they were given a hearty invitation to return for at least a month's meeting beginning August 1, 1932. The invitation was accepted.

O. H. L.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATED.

The Silver-plated Ware is of the very highest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses.$22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 85. 11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plated; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling).$22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90. 14.00

Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim.....$ 9.00
Bread Plate No. 4—Broad rim..... 9.00
Filler—Silver lined 6.00

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, - - Richmond, Virginia

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

The singing class had a real happy trip the first Sunday. They gave their program at Zion Church near Sanford, in the morning and had a splendid audience. Their program was well received and we hope did good. They also gave the program at Turner's Chapel at 7:30 p. m. A large audience was present and showed by the marked attention they gave, that the message the children carry was appreciated. Our little alto singer (Doris Renegar) attracts attention wherever she sings. She has a wonderful voice for a little child. It seems to be a natural given talent to her. The good people of Hanks Chapel had placed a box of twenty-one nice chickens on the side of the road for us to pick up on our way back for which we were very grateful. If we could persuade the people from our churches to visit the orphanage, they would see the need and the opportunity to do much good by helping in this work. but as that is an impossibility, we are taking a sample of our work to the churches, so a large number of our people may get some idea as to what the Christian Orphanage is doing. To be able to do the work it should do, it needs the support of every member of the Christian Church. How much have you contributed this year to support the 105 children in its care? Have you measured up to your Christian duty? Are you satisfied with what you have done?

CHAS. D. JOHNSON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR SEPTEMBER 17, 1931.

Brought forward $10,602.40

Sunday School Monthly Offerings.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference:

Happy Home	$ 2.31
Durham	17.20
Lebanon	1.00
Hopedale	2.50	23.01

Eastern North Carolina Conference:

Turner's Chapel	$ 1.50
Catawba Springs	9.25
Plymouth	3.50
Mebane	2.00	16.25

Western North Carolina Conference:

Burlington	$47.19
Hanks Chapel	2.77
Pleasant Hill	4.03
High Point	4.20
Ramseur	4.00	62.19

Eastern Virginia Conference:

Franklin	$ 5.00
South Norfolk	5.64
Holy Neck	10.00
Suffolk	30.00
Bethlehem	5.00	55.64

Valley Virginia Central Conference:

Concord	$ 1.14
Antioch	2.92	4.06

Alabama Conference:

Roanoke	$ 1.10
Spring Hill	.85
Wadley	1.22

Special Offerings.

Friendship B. C., Oakland S. S. ...	$ 2.25
R. J. Miller, support of children ...	50.00
Mr. & Mrs. Floyd Dunn, Lynchburg.	2.64

Mr. Blizzard, support of children ..	6.00
S. M. Watson, Jr., Sanford, N. C. ...	1.00
Zion Church, special offering	21.44
Turner's Chapel, special offering ...	10.23
	93.56
Total for the week	$ 257.88
Grand total	$10,860.28

JEWES AND THE MOVIES.

When the moving picture industry began to rise to prominence the Jews of America got into the business early, and every since they have kept the lead in its control and profits. Our estimate of that industry is that it is a school of crime, social vice and marital infidelity. It is significant that the notorious gangster, Al Capone, after pleading guilty to numerous crimes in a federal court, claimed he would try to reform and stated that the movies constitute one of the most active agencies in inciting children and youth to bad habits and criminal practices. While we do not intend to make any wild charges against the Hebrew people, it is a fact that, having rejected the world's only hope, the Messiahship of Jesus Christ, they have no power or purpose to make the world better, rather to drag it down to their own Christ-rejecting and world-possessing ideals of life. The moving pictures as advertised on the billboards contain such diabolic and lecherous and vicious ideas of life that the facts as stated above seem to be needed to explain what it is all about. Thomas Edison hoped this invention in photography would be an asset in education, but instead of a portrayal of something educational and wholesome the average moving picture is a portrayal of smoking, drinking, petting, love triangles and gangland.—Wesleyan Methodist.

Eifers Sunday School Maps.

On a Revolving Adjustable Steel Stand

The first 5 maps
are in Set No. 1,
with stand,
Price $15.00

Set No. 2
8 Maps.
Price $20.00

Fine large Maps, In 6 Colors 36x57, on linen finished Cloth. Mounted on a folding steel stand, which can be regulated, so that Maps may be seen to the best advantage. This set contains data for thorough Bible Study. Its large print and Cheerful Colors makes this set very instructive and attractive. Contains the five thoroughly up to date Maps necessary to the study of Bible History.
New Testament Palestine, — Old Testament Palestine, — Roman empire and Bible Lands, showing Pauls Travels by Colored lines. — Lands of the Old Testament, from the Great Sea, to the Persian Gulf. — The Exodus, Egypt, showing by Colored lines the wanderings of the Israelites.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN,

1536 East Broad Street,

Richmond, Virginia.

Holman Testaments

ALL SELF-PRONOUNCING

Holman Vest-Pocket Testament

Size, 2½x4½ inches

Specimen of Type.
AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee, and the mother of Jē'sus was

The VEST POCKET is, beyond question, the most popular Testament published.

2104. Dark Blue Silk Finished Cloth, with edges colored to match, gold titles.....	$.50
2103K. Morocco Grained Binding, flexible limp, gold edges and titles.....	.60
2114. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges.....	.85

VEST POCKET TESTAMENT AND PSALMS

2103KP. Morocco Grained Binding, limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges.....	.70
2114P. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges.....	.90
2115P. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges.....	1.10

With all the words of our Lord and Saviour printed in red.

13RL. French Morocco Leather, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, rounded corners, gold edges.....	.90
15RLP. French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, gold title on red panel, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included.....	1.35

Holman Jewel Testament

INDIA PAPER ONLY—Size 2½x4½ inches x½ inch

The JEWEL is the latest and most attractive Pocket Testament made.

The TYPE is black, bold and larger than that in the famous Vest Pocket edition, and the book itself is smaller.

It is printed exclusively on the famous Holman India paper, noted for its unique quality and unusual tensile strength.

One advantage of this India paper is that the leaves do not cling together.

The size, 2½x4½ inches, is so small that the book practically fits the palm of the hand.

Specimen of Type
ST. MATTHEW 2 The three wise men carrying away into Babylon the four generations: and from the carrying away into Babylon the four generations unto Christ are fourteen

5003X. Morocco Grained Binding, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges.....	$1.00
5015PX. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, Psalms included.....	1.50
5016PX. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather binding to edge, silk sewed, red under gold edges, with Psalms.....	2.60

Holman GEM Testament

POCKET SIZE 3½x4½ inches

Specimen of Gem Black Faced Type
CHAPTER 23.
THEN spake Jē'sus to the multitude, and to his disciples,

The GEM TESTAMENT has been steadily growing in popular favor ever since its first appearance.

In size, 3½x4½ inches, it is not much larger than the Vest Pocket. It is also the only Testament of its size with large bold type and pronouncing text.

The edition on India paper is ideal, and we know of no better gift at the price than one in the finer bindings.

4102P. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red burnished edges, with Psalms.....	$.90
4113. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges.....	1.35
4115P. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included.....	1.90

RED LETTER GEM TESTAMENT

4113RL. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges.....	1.50
---	------

INDIA PAPER GEM TESTAMENT

4136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, linings to edge, red under gold edges, with Psalms.....	3.00
4136XPRL. Red Letter Edition with Psalms, same binding as 4136XP, but with the Sayings of Christ Printed in Red.....	3.25

Old Folks Testament

Extra Large Print
Pica, 16mo. Size, 5¼x7¼x¾ inches

Old folks or those with poor sight will appreciate the advantage of this Testament. The type is a delight to the eye with its wide spacing between the lines. It is the most readable edition of all large print Testaments.

Specimen of Type.
THE book
of Jē'sus

PSALMS INCLUDED

2902P. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red edges, with Book of Psalms included.....	$1.50
--	--------

THIN BIBLE PAPER EDITIONS

Same Large Print as Above

2913P. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included.....	2.95
--	------

RED LETTER EDITION

Same as above, with the Sayings of Christ in Red.

3913PRL. French Morocco Leather, flexible covers, gold side title on red panel, rounded corners, red under gold edges, and with Book of Psalms included.....	3.10
--	------

All styles sent postpaid at above prices

OBITUARIES.

HATCH.

Miss Mary Eliza Hatch was born Nov. 16, 1834, and departed this life Aug. 24, 1931. Age 46 years, 9 months and 8 days.

She was converted in early life and united with the Church at Pleasant Ridge. She was a consistent member till death. She leaves to mourn her going, a mother and many friends. She lived a beautiful life and was respected by all who knew her. She was laid to rest beneath a great mound of flowers.

The funeral was attended by a large congregation, the services being conducted by the writer, assisted by H. N. Cox and B. H. Lowdermilk.

JNO. M. ALLRED.

CAGLE.

Jesse H. Cagle was born May 29, 1868, and departed this life Aug. 26, 1931. Age 63 years, 2 months and 27 days. He leaves to mourn his going, a wife and three daughters, and a host of friends and relatives. He was patient in his sickness.

He was a member of Pleasant Ridge Christian Church. There was a large congregation at the funeral. May the good Lord bless the bereaved.

He was laid to rest beneath a mound of beautiful flowers. The funeral was conducted by the writer.

JNO. M. ALLRED.

KELLEY.

On August 24th, Sister Nannie Kelley, a faithful and beloved member of Zion Christian Church near Sanford, N. C., finished her course in this life, the last few weeks of which were spent in much pain and suffering.

Sister Kelley, notwithstanding her suffering, was patient to the end, always expressing a willingness that the will of the Lord be done. How blessed it is for God's children to be reconciled to His will. May the blessings of God be upon the friends who mourn.

The funeral was conducted from Zion Church Aug. 25th, by the writer, assisted by Bro. J. Ray Dickens.

J. A. DENTON, Pastor.

TUCK.

Elizabeth Josephine Murray, daughter of Richard and Nancy Murray, was born in Halifax County, Va., January 15, 1847 and died near Virgilina, Va., August 22, 1931, at the age of 84 years, 7 months and seven days. Just after the Civil War she was married to J. B. Tuck, who died a few years ago. Two sons, Ernest and C. B. Tuck of Virgilina survive. The only daughter, Victoria, was twice married and died about twenty years ago. In addition to the two surviving sons, there are twenty-five grand-children, twenty-eight great grand-children and nine great, great grand-children. The funeral and burial were in the town cemetery August 24th.

Sister Tuck was a devoted mother and grand-mother. After rearing her own children, at three different times, she had grand-children left motherless. These she took in her home, twelve in all, and reared them. She was industrious, economical, and very generous. Her faith in her maker was strong. She died triumphant in the faith.

C. E. NEWMAN.

KING.

Mrs. Julia A. King, widow of H. C. King, died August 31, 1931; aged, 86 years, 4 months and 6 days. Surviving her are three children: Mrs. S. A. Horne, for some years, but her love waxed not cold for Christ and the advancement of His Kingdom.

Funeral services were conducted from Long's Chapel by the writer, assisted by Dr. J. O. Lankford, and her body was laid to rest in the church cemetery when the church was organized Nov. 10, 1887. She was a devoted wife and mother and she loved her church and was a regular contributor to church and missions. She had not been able to attend church the living Christ comfort the bereaved.

P. H. FLEMING.

Burlington, N. C.

ELON COLLEGE

AN ACCREDITED COLLEGE

of the

CONGREGATIONAL CHRISTIAN CHURCHES OF THE SOUTHEAST

ELON was founded to train Christian leaders for the New South.

ELON has done its task well—one graduate in seven being in the Christian ministry. The other six express Christian leadership in the various professions and vocations. Experience teaches that spiritual leadership must be indigenous.

The South is now a New South ready for an inclusive Church, the type of Church for which Elon has stood for forty years and for which she is prepared to produce capable leadership.

With no Church in the community, save the College Auditorium, ELON has practiced Christian Union for faculty, students, and community for four decades. Its contribution to Christian Education is nationally known and approved.

Its Christian Education Building, providing laboratory facilities for religious leadership training, is unique and is the first college building of its type in the world.

ELON confines itself to undergraduate liberal arts work with that religious emphasis which befits the Christian College.

In ELON the Congregational-Christian Church has an asset of marvelous hopefulness.

The South needs her Yale, her Oberlin, her Carleton, her Pomona for the intellectual leadership of the United Church. Many regard ELON as strategically located and spiritually endowed to become such a center of illumination and leadership training.

THE CHRISTIAN EDUCATION BUILDING
The Heart of the Elon Program of Christian Education.

C. M. CANNON, Registrar

Elon College, - - - - - North Carolina

Home Atmosphere—Reasonable Rates—Clean Athletics—Christian Spirit.

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the kingdom, as represented by the Congregational-Christian Church.

BOARD OF EDITORS.

J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
E. C. GILLETTE, D. D. Associate
W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
W. A. HARPER, LL.D. Associate
REV. S. C. HARRELL, Associate
J. E. McCAULEY, Associate
W. C. WICKER, D. D. News Editor
P. J. KERNODLE, Managing Editor
C. D. JOHNSTON, Circulation Manager

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Year$2.00
Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Postoffice, at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to The Christian Sun, C. D. Johnston, Circulation Manager, Elon College, N. C.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads" 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

Notices: Obituary and marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge; all over 100 words at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

BROWN.

Uncle Bowden Brown, as he was familiarly known, was born October 7, 1846. He departed this life August 30, 1931, aged 84 years, 10 months and 23 days. He married Miss S. J. Kitchens, January 20, 1867. To this union were born eight children, six of whom are still living, one son and five daughters. Mrs. S. J. Brown, the first wife died Feb. 15, 1900.

On March 10, 1901, he was married to Miss Nannie Cadenhead, who, with his children, grand-children, two brothers, and two sisters, survive him. These all, with a host of friends, mourn his departure.

Bro. Brown joined the church at Antioch on Monday, after the second Sunday in August, 1874. He had been a member of this church 57 years. He was senior deacon of the church at the time of his death. He was attentive to his church, and shortly before he died, he attended a few services, and heard Dr. Ryan, of Richmond, Va., preach. He attended probably more annual conference meetings than any other man among us. I am sure he enjoyed reading the Christian Sun as much as any person who has read it. He subscribed for it 55 years ago. Just a few days before he passed away, he tried to read the short letter I had sent to the paper, but could not.

A great man has fallen among us, and a great soul has passed on before. God rest his soul and comfort the bereaved.

A. H. Sheppard, his pastor, was present and took part in the services. Rev. G. H. Veazey and Rev. B. R. Layton, of the Baptist church and Rev. Martin of the Methodist church were also present at the funeral. Amidst a large concourse of friends and relatives, and under a large floral offering, we deposited his body in the cemetery of Antioch church to await the resurrection morn.

G. D. HUNT.

NELSON.

Arnold Lee Nelson was born Oct. 1, 1929, and died Sept. 1, 1931. He leaves a father and mother, two brothers and two sisters. The funeral was conducted in High Point Christian Church and the

THE CONGREGATIONAL LATIN-AMERICAN INSTITUTE AND PILGRIM LATIN CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH OF WEST TAMPA, FLA.—

Are helping give the Gospel, which is "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth," to the forty thousand Latin people of Tampa. The evangelical forces working among the foreigners of Tampa are by no means covering the territory sufficiently.

Methodists have six preachers, Baptists two, Presbyterians one, Congregationalists one. Church workers and teachers must be supported for this great missionary work. Send check to

LESLIE S. BRAY, Treas.
Route 4, Box 468, - - Tampa, Fla.
Send boxes of clothing to Mrs. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

For literature, write Rev. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

LARGE PRINT TEACHERS' EDITION FOR ADULTS, TEACHERS AND PREACHERS

and all who would study the Word of God intelligently this edition is unsurpassed. The type is large, clear, Bourgeois, Self-Pronouncing, with liberal space between the words and lines, which makes it easy to read.

Size, 8 x 5 1/2 inches.

Specimen of Type.

"From that time Jesus to preach, and to say, 'I the kingdom of heaven'"

Containing New Copyrighted Helps by most reliable Authorities. A Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, New Colored Maps.

No. 4712. Divinity Circuit Teachers' Bible, French Seal Leather, red under gold edges, Silk Head bands and Silk Marker.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 5.00

No. 812RL. Red Letter Teachers' Bible. The Words of Christ in the New Testament, Old Testament Passages Alluded to by Christ, Various Prophecies Relating to Christ in the Old Testament, etc., all PRINTED IN RED. Binding same as described above and same large Self-Pronouncing type.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 6.00

No. 733X. Holman India Paper, Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 10.65

body was carried to old Union Church and placed in the cemetery there to await the resurrection. His parents live in High Point. The funeral was conducted by the writer assisted by the pastor of the Holiness Church at High Point.

JNO. M. ALLRED.

666

LIQUID or TABLETS

Relieves a Headache or Neuralgia in 30 minutes, checks a Cold the first day, and checks Malaria in three days.

666 Salve for Baby's Cold

PIEDMONT COLLEGE

A SENIOR COEDUCATIONAL INSTITUTION

OFFERS

Standard Courses leading to the usual Academic Degrees; also Courses in Music and Home Economics.

Thorough Instruction in Speech and in the Commercial Branches.

A beautiful location in the "Foothills of the Blue Ridge"; altitude of 1,500 feet; spring waters and invigorating climatic conditions.

An enviable reputation for sound scholarship, wholesome student life and Christian Idealism.

Expenses exceptionally light: $318.50 for the College Year.

For Catalogue, write,

JONATHAN C. ROGERS, Dean,
Demorest, Georgia

SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE

FOUR YEAR STANDARD COLLEGE

A Memorial of the Congregational-Christian Union.

FRANK E. JENKINS, Pres.

MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD, Dean

Second Semester will open January 27, 1932, with full provision for beginning courses.

Chartered BETHLEHEM COLLEGE
June 2, 1922

Renamed PIEDMONT JUNIOR COLLEGE
May 18, 1928

Renamed SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE, June 3, 1931

SCHOLARSHIP HIGH

EXPENSES LOW

CHARACTER SUPREME

A Strong Faculty, Educated in 25 Universities and Colleges in 12 States.

Unsectarian, but thoroughly Christian.

For Information about Entrance, write—

DEAN MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD,
WADLEY, ALABAMA.

For Other Information, write—

DR. FRANK E. JENKINS, Acting President,
LA GRANGE, GEORGIA.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Representing the Southern Christian Convention and the Congregational Churches of the Southeast.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY

VOLUME LXXXIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1931.

NUMBER 39.

Southern Christian Convention Called to Meet in Extraordinary Session

Christian Church, Burlington, N. C., October 20, 1931.

The Board of Trustees of Elon College deeply desire that every conference, every church and every member in the Southern Christian Convention, shall know exactly and fully understand the present status, financial and otherwise, of Elon College. The Trustees have done their best and are ready to make an accounting to the Southern Christian Convention, whose representatives and servants they are as Trustees for the College, which belongs to the Convention. The Convention founded the College, has fostered it from the beginning, and to it the College belongs in fee simple.

It has been no easy matter to carry on the College through the years of its history, and now, in a time of general depression, the task is more difficult than ever, and it is the desire of the Trustees that the Convention shall know just how the College stands and take such steps as the Convention may decide to carry on this institution, which has meant so much to the Convention, and on which our future as a Convention depends.

The financial affairs of the institution are now in the hands of the Business Administration Committee, which committee is composed of the following: L. E. Smith, Chairman, P. J. Carlton, H. A. Carlton, Stanley C. Harrell, J. Edward Kirby, J. E. Rawls, C. D. Johnston.

At a called session of the Board of Trustees of Elon College, September 18th, this Business Administration Committee recommended the following, which was adopted:

"That the Board of Trustees of Elon College request the Executive Committee of the Southern Christian Convention to call an extraordinary session to be held in October or November—for the specific purpose of facing the whole College question and to decide to what extent it is willing and will support the College financially and otherwise.

"Resolved further, that we request the Convention in session assembled to nominate three men for president of Elon College from whom the Trustees may elect a president to begin his duties as soon as the Trustees may deem it advisable.

"Resolved further, that the present Nominating Committee for the Board of Trustees be asked to submit to the Convention names of persons that have been filed with them as applicants for the presidency, allowing, of course, any further nominations made by the Committee to be made at the close of the Convention.

"Resolved further, that it is the feeling of your Committee that it is time for this whole responsibility to be laid on the heart of the Church at large and let the Church act through its regularly constituted and corporate body."

This Resolution was unanimously adopted, and the Executive Committee was requested to call an extraordinary session of the Southern Convention at 10:00 A. M., October 20, 1931, at the First Christian Church, Burlington, N. C.

Therefore, we, the Executive Committee of the Convention, issue this call for the extraordinary session at the time and place designated, earnestly urging all members of the Convention to be present.

All delegates elected to the last session of the Convention held in Raleigh, N. C., in May, 1930, are by the Constitution members of the proposed extraordinary session and duly constitute the same.

So anxious are we that the whole matter of the present status of the future of Elon College be brought to the attention and laid upon the hearts of the people of the Southern Christian Convention, that every church in every conference of the Convention is urged, and will be urged, to send at least one delegate to the proposed extraordinary session on October 20th. The College is the creature of the Convention, and the time has come, in our judgment, when the responsibilities and opportunities, the present and the future, of the institution should be brought vividly to the attention of the members of the Convention and to all our constituency, and should be made a personal concern of every member of the Christian Church, and to the friends of the College everywhere.

To this end, we crave the prayers of our constituency and a coming together on October 20th, that we together may face our common problem and take upon our hearts the responsibility as well as the opportunity of service of this institution, which is one of the very life, existence and future of the Convention and of all the churches composing the conferences of the Convention.

Respectfully submitted,

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE,

L. E. SMITH,
Chairman.

I. W. JOHNSON,
Secretary.

W. W. STALEY.
E. E. HOLLAND.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Have you sent in your renewal for THE SUN? It is very much in order now. There are those who have been receiving it now a long time and have just forgotten to send in their renewal.

A 'phone message Sunday afternoon from Dr. G. O. Lankford, pastor, said, "Burlington Church voted today to invite the extraordinary session of the Southern Convention, called for October 20th, to meet with us." Count on Burlington Christian Church, with its beloved pastor, to do the magnanimous thing every time, and to arise to meet every emergency.

During the past week the 8 o'clock devotional hour over broadcasting station W C S C, located at Charleston, S. C. have been under the direction of Chaplain H. E. Rountree. This is in a line with the work of his life, as he writes the "Family Altar Page" of THE SUN, in addition to his work among the sailor boys. He says that he enjoys it.

Information comes that Miriam Love Allen, the seven weeks old daughter of Rev. and Mrs. M. F. Allen, Newport News, Va., died at their home on Friday, August 21st. Funeral services were conducted August 22nd from the home by Rev. A. E. Sims, pastor of the 24th Street Church of Christ (Disciples). Brother and Sister Allen have our sympathy in their bereavement in the going away of their beloved child.

Chairman of the Faculty, Prof. J. W. Barney, was the speaker at the 11 o'clock service, Elon College Church, Sunday, September 20th—the first Sunday after the present school term. A large audience of students, faculty and citizens, listened with interest and profit as the speaker discussed "The Value of Good Intentions," using as a basis I Kings 8:18, "Whereas it was in thine heart to build a house unto my name, thou didst well that it was in thine heart."

In this issue Rev. S. A. Bennett begins his Notes on the Sunday School Lesson for CHRISTIAN SUN readers. In his first installment he sets a high standard for himself, in the exposition of the lesson, and SUN readers may expect from week to week real values and helps on the lesson. We feel that a worthy successor has been found to take up the work so well done by Rev. H. S. Hardcastle. It may be added that Brother Hardcastle is still in the hospital, and will be unable for some months to resume his work.

The women of the Eastern Missionary Societies will hold their annual Conference at Holland, Va., October 15th. The Woman's Board of the Conference was in session at Suffolk, September 17th, in an all-day meeting, planning the program for the Conference and the work for the coming year. Mrs. L. W. Stagg, the secretary, writes: "The Board had one of its most encouraging and enthusiastic meetings." Despite the depression the women of this Conference are hoping and expecting to reach their goal of $7,500.00.

Dr. L. E. Smith, President of the Southern Convention and Chairman of the Business Administration Committee of the Board of Trustees of Elon College, writing under date of September 19th, says: "The Board of Trustees in special session yesterday, voted requesting the Executive Committee of the Southern Christian Convention to call the Convention in extraordinary session, on October 20th, at 10 A. M., at Burlington, N. C., for the purpose of facing the problems that confront Elon College, and to formulate a constructive plan for the College for the future." All members of the Convention, and every pastor in the Convention should make ready to attend this extraordinary session. Our people love Elon, and are united in the desire and determination to carry on, but they should know the status and the needs of the College.

The Mission Board was in annual session at Suffolk, Va., Wednesday, October 16th. It was found that the Board had raised $24,653.34, the past year, which lacked $1,214.79 of being as much as was raised the previous year. This money has been distributed for the purposes for which it was collected on a basis of one-half to Home and one-half to Foreign Missions, except in instances where Specials were designated either in the Home or Foreign field. The amount contributed for missions the past year was less than an average of $1.00 per member for the membership of the Church, under whose auspices the Board works. It was voted by the Board to ask the churches the coming year, as was done the past year, to make contributions to Missions the amount of one-third paid on pastor's salary. It would seem that any and all churches would accede to this, thus showing a desire to pay at least one-third as much to give the benefits and blessings of the gospel to others as we pay to have it preached to ourselves.

Sunday night, September 13th, between sixty and seventy-five of those interested in the Christian Church in Winston-Salem, N. C., met in the Y. W. C. A. hall in an introductory service and get-together meeting. The program was in charge of Rev. W. T. Scott, Salisbury, N. C. Dr. W. Knighton Bloom, Mission Secretary of the Congregational Church, Washington, D. C., and Rev. Milo J. Sweet, pastor-at-large, Salisbury, and our Mission Secretary, J. O. Atkinson, were the speakers on the program. The meeting was quite a delightful one, and there was manifest an enthusiastic interest in a movement for a Congregational Christian Church in Winston. Rev. W. T. Scott was to hold another service Sunday night, September 20th, and if the prospect seems promising, at an early date the church will be organized. We have waited through the years on building at Winston, and many members have been lost from our fold. Some fifty to sixty members of Christian and Congregational churches have been found in this city, most of whom expressed a great desire for a church home.

As stated in THE SUN, Rev. J. W. Fix, Franklin, Va., has accepted a call to the Christian Church at Urbana, Ill. This field presents an opportunity of very large service for both Mr. and Mrs. Fix, and we have the faith to believe they will measure up to all the opportunities afforded there. The Franklin correspondent of the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot, under date of September 7th carries the following. "The Rev. J. W. Fix, pastor of the Franklin Christian Church, has been called and has accepted a position, and leaves in a few days for the Urbana Christian Church in Urbana-Champaign, Ill., where the University of Illinois is located. The Urbana Christian Church is the largest in the Illinois Central Conference. Its former pastor was Dr. E. A. Kempt, now traveling secretary of the united church. The church has a membership of 300. Mr. Fix is an A. B. graduate of Elon College, and holds M. A. and B. D. degrees from Vanderbilt. Mr. Fix came to Franklin Christian Church October 1, 1927, from Vanderbilt University School of Religion, Nashville, Tenn., to succeed the Rev. F. C. Lester. Since then he has seen the indebtedness of the church paid in full and has received 51 new members. As organizer of the Boy Scout troop, he has been affiliated with many community movements."

ALABAMA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE. PROGRAM OF THE THIRTY-THIRD ANNUAL SESSION.

HELD WITH THE PISGAH CHRISTIAN CHURCH,
BEGINNING OCTOBER 13, 1931.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

2:30 o'Clock.

Call to Order—Rev. G. D. Hunt, President.
Scripture Reading and Prayer—Rev. J. H. Hughes,
Pastor Pisgah Church.
Enrollment of Ministers.
Enrollment of Delegates.
Election of Officers.
Filling of Vacancies on Standing Committees.
Reception of Fraternal Visitors.
Assignment of Homes.
Adjournment.

EVENING SESSION.

7:00 o'Clock.

Report of Executive Committee—Chairman.
Discussion.
Annual Address—Dr. Atkinson. Rev. G. D. Hunt,
Alternate.
Miscellaneous Business.
Adjournment.

Second Day.

MORNING SESSION.

8:30 o'Clock.

Call to Order by the President.
Devotional Service—Rev. C. W. Carter.
Report of Committee on Moral Reform—Rev. W. T. Meacham. Discussion.
Report of Committee on Schools and Colleges—Dr. F. E. Jenkins. Discussion.
Report of Young People's Work—Klein Hood and Miss Eunice Stevens. Discussion.
Report of Committee on Religious Literature—Rev. J. H. Hughes. Discussion by Dr. Atkinson, and others.
Report of Home Mission Board and of Committee on Foreign Missions—By Chairmen of Committees.
Discussion by Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Mission Secretary.
Adjournment.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

1:30 o'Clock.

Call to Order by the President.
Prayer—Rev. A. H. Sheppard.
Report of Committee on Superannuation—Rev. C. W. Carter, Chairman.
Report of Committee on Nominations—D. W. Sheppard, Chairman.
Unfinished Business.
Report of Treasurer.
Adjournment.

The pulpit will be filled at the 11 o'clock service, and also at 8 o'clock at night, by speakers selected by the Conference.

We know something of the depression of the times, but we trust that we may have a fair representation of both ministers and churches. If churches or ministers are located near each other, pool your expenses, and the cost will be small, and we will have a pleasant trip and a good Conference.

The Pisgah Church is expecting you.

G. D. HUNT,
C. W. CARTER,
Committee.

CONGREGATIONAL NEWS

REV. E. C. GILLETTE, Editor; REV. F. P. ENSMINGER, and REV. M. J. SWEET, Associates.

FIRST CHURCH, MIAMI, FLORIDA. Rev. Helen F. Lanham received four members into the church on September 13th, making more than thirty new members received during the summer. A remarkable record.

REV. KERRISON JUNIPER, D. D., pastor of the First Congregational Church at St. Petersburg, Florida, has returned from his vacation. During July, Dr. Juniper supplied the First Congregational Church of Evanston, Illinois, and in August, the First Congregational Church in San Francisco, California.

MIAMI SHORES, FLORIDA. Rev. Francis D. White, who served this church last season and who has been in the North this summer, expects to return to the church beginning October 1st. Rev. and Mrs. White were at their old home in Robbinsdale, Minnesota, and also attended the General Council at Seattle.

THE RIGHT SPIRIT. One pastor of a small church writes: "My time is fully occupied, my only difficulty is there is not enough of it. I could use several more days each week. A little town and a little church, but it commands most of my time. I like the challenge here. It is great to be alive. Get blue sometime, but that is in the bargain."

COLLEGESIDE CHURCH, Nashville, Tennessee, reopened on September 13th with a very large congregation present. Dr. Jason Noble Pierce has returned to the church and has moved his family into the parsonage. The church members and all interested in the church rejoice in the return of Dr. Pierce to this work and also to the Theological Seminary.

REV. GEORGE D. OWEN and family have returned to the parsonage at Ormond, Florida, after a vacation spent largely at Northfield, Mass. During the summer the Sunday School in this church reported an unusually large attendance. Few churches in this region have so well an equipped Sunday School building or so well an organized school.

DR. C. REXFORD RAYMOND, pastor of the Pilgrim Church, Chattanooga, Tennessee, had a very busy summer, preaching every Sunday at some church. For three Sundays he preached at the First Church in Washington. Other churches supplied were at Jamestown, N. Y., Buffalo and Angola, N. Y., and on August 2nd, he conducted the Communion Service at Blue Ridge, North Carolina, returning to Chattanooga to open the season's work. He reports growing attendance in the two Sundays and that a large volunteer chorus choir has been organized under a capable leader. The choir is being greatly enjoyed by the congregation.

GUEST BOOK. Samples of the Guest Book, the interesting annual missionary pamphlet, have been sent to all pastors. This is the third issue and has many improvements over those of preceding years. This is the first one issued for the United Church. Miss Pattie Lee Coghill is one of the guests, and happily represents the United Fellowship. Other guests in whom the churches of the southeast are interested are Miss Helen Disney, American Board Missionary Nurse in the Taiku Hospital in North China, and Dr. M. J. Walter White, missionary in the Philippine Islands, who is a graduate of Elon College. Pastors are urged to send their orders for the Guest Book and to make plans for its use in their churches as effectively as possible. The issue this year is being limited to two hundred thousand copies and there will be no second printing. Order early in order to insure the supply for your church and plan for their effective use.

UNION CHURCH, JACKSONVILLE, FLA. September 13th was an important day with this church. The pastor, Dr. H. Samuel Fritsch had returned from his vacation and the day was made a special rally, not only in the Sunday School but for all members of the church at the morning service. Evening services were also resumed after the summer program of united evening services with other down town churches. The September issue of the Congregational Tidings announced a series of Sunday morning sermons by Dr. Fritsch, discussing the questions so often raised in these days "What's Wrong with the Churches Today?" "What's Wrong with the Preachers Today?" "What's Wrong with Religion Today?" At the evening services he will again discuss moral and religious problems which perplex people and especially invites questions and problems to be discussed. The Tidings has an interesting editorial on "Liking the Minister."

PILGRIM LATIN CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH OF WEST TAMPA.

Mrs. Corwin writes:

"At home again after a delightful vacation of visiting relatives and friends in Wisconsin. We also spent the first week of our vacation at Wheaton, Illinois, enjoying the wonderful Christian spirit of the College, visiting with old and new friends, and especially being happy witnesses of the graduation of the younger daughter of Mr. Corwin.

While in Wisconsin we received the sad news of the death of one of our trustees, Mrs. Ella L. Harrington of St. Petersburg, Fla. She was a warm friend of the Institution and bequeathed to it her house-hold furniture, linen, dishes, and silver-ware; and a thousand dollars which is to be paid when her house is sold. Arriving home Saturday night, Aug. 15th, we lost no time in going over to one of the school rooms and "sky parlor" rooms to inspect as much as possible of the legacy. The teachers had already fitted up their rooms, and Monday morning found me at work. In a week we had the furniture all arranged in the parsonage, and, as one lady from the neighborhood said, "Now the parsonage looks as a parsonage should look." The teachers are also delighted with their "sky parlor" now. If any reader comes to Tampa, we would be pleased to have him or her visit us and enjoy the comforts of the "Mrs. Harrington Guest Room" and the rest of the parsonage. We are always glad to welcome both old and new friends.

During the summer vacation the meetings were in charge of two teachers and were kept up with good interest. During this year seventeen new members have already been welcomed, and the missionary apportionment has been nearly all paid in. It is hoped to make the missionary giving considerably more than the apportionment before the end of the year. The members of the church are encouraged to give largely to missions, so being trained for the "World Vision," and at the same time to pray for gifts to come in that the urgent needs of the Mission be supplied for repairs and running expenses, and the salaries of the missionary teachers.

A year ago an additional lady teacher was engaged, giving the Mission four instead of three assistant lady teachers. Now by a step of faith, a fifth teacher, a young man, has been engaged for the Institute, the four lady teachers of the last school year are all being retained for the coming school year. Plans are not fully arranged yet, but it is expected that the new worker will teach in the room of the fourth and fifth grades of the Church Day School, and, out of school hours, direct the recreational activities of the boys, young men, and older men of Tampa, who may become interested in our Church, as well as engage in active evangelistic work among the boys and men.

One of the young ladies is to be released from teaching to give special attention to language study and visitation. The Church Day School began the middle of September. Daily Vacation Bible School was carried on for two weeks, and there was an enrollment of about seventy-five, with special attention and interest.

METHODS CORNER

BY REV. ELISHA A. KING, D. D.

Miami Beach, Fla.

In most churches the best work is done during the fall and winter. How much of that program is planned before hand is hard to tell, but we are convinced that the main outline of the work should be planned during the summer. We have heard of ministers who strenuously objected to plans covering a considerable period of time because it interfered with their sense of freedom. They preferred to allow the weeks as they came to determine what should be done. No one can object to that arrangement if it suits the minister and the congregation, but we feel very sure that planned work is best.

So far as the minister is concerned, he may survey in advance his field for months to come and determine what he thinks will be the best thing to do. For example he can lay out a series of sermons for a month, select titles, texts and the general method of treatment, and he can announce the series through the newspapers or by means of printed cards or folders. Then he can begin preparation and have a definite challenge before him. In this way he does better work and produces more because here is his task before him.

In the Sunday School our lessons are usually arranged for the whole year by the quarter, and the teachers accept this layout and are guided by it. If there were no plans and no lessons laid out schools would drift and work at cross purposes. In a similar fashion prayer meetings go much better if a series of topics is worked out ahead and followed.

I have found it helpful to take a large sheet of paper and mark it off into months. Each month was then divided into the proper number of weeks. Dates of all Sundays were then inserted. Each Sunday was divided so as to include all the services or meetings of the day. Then another part of the sheet was used to indicate in a similar way all of the societies in the church, the months and days of meeting. Looking over these, and trying to visualize each one, it is possible to think through tentative programs even in detail. This paper becomes a work-sheet and as it is studied with great care while there is some leisure, it can be filled in. Naturally the minister will consult with the key people of his parish so as to make the outline worth while and of real value. Anyone who has never tried this plan cannot realize its value. It saves a lot of worry and anxiety during the busy part of the year and serves as a guide-book for the work of the church.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR

J. O. ATKINSON, ELON COLLEGE, N. C.

ASSOCIATE EDITOR

E. C. GILLETTE

117 W. Forsyth Street, Jacksonville, Fla.

CONTRIBUTING EDITORS

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

S. C. HARRELL

J. E. McCAULEY

NEWS EDITOR

W. C. WICKER

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

(1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.

(2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.

(3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.

(4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship and of Church membership.

(5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

THE SOUTHERN CONVENTION AND ELON COLLEGE.

Elsewhere in THE SUN this week the Executive Committee of the Southern Convention issues a call to the people of the Convention to come together in extraordinary session to consider frankly and fully the affairs of Elon, and to determine the future of the institution. As the call states, the Trustees of the College are ready now, as they ever have been, for the Church to have the fullest and most complete knowledge of the affairs of the institution, and shall realize both the gravity of the present situation and the sacrifices that must be made, the steps that must be taken, if the College is to continue in its great work of educating the youth of our Church and the future leaders in the Church.

Our history reveals the fact that the present leadership of the Church, in all its varied activities, are for the most part graduates of Elon College, or in one way or another beneficiaries of its service and sacrifices.

From the day that the College was founded until this good hour, the assistance and support of the College have required sacrifice on the part of the faithful, and the loyalty and co-operation of those who realized that the Church must have an institution of higher learning. It has been difficult to carry on the College at all times, but it is, in a time of such financial stringency more difficult than ever, and the only hope now is the support and the sacrifice of the people who owe the College and who love the Christian Church.

The Trustees fully realize that the strictest economy in every branch of the College must be practiced, and a program of economy has been adopted by the Trustees, and the Trustees are determined that the College shall live within its income, that all legitimate creditors shall be paid, that the good name of the institution and of the Church shall not suffer, and that every moral, as well as legal obligation shall be met, provided the creditors are reasonable and time is given and opportunities accorded for working out the present financial embarrassment.

The opening of the College for this term has been very gratifying. Not as many students have enrolled as were enrolled a year ago at the present time, but this was expected, because the Trustees had adopted a plan of requiring a larger financial payment by the students upon entrance and to conduct the College on a cash payment basis. The following statement from the registrar of the College to the Greensboro Daily News, September 18th, reveals the situation, which we regard as exceedingly gratifying:

"Elon College opened this week with a registration of 235 students, 57 of whom are members of the senior class. This is one of the largest senior classes in several years. The other classes, however, show a small drop in enrollment, and the total enrollment is some short of last year's registration for the equivalent period.

A number of the students have been delayed for one reason or another in arriving, and late registration is expected to send the enrollment to 260 or more for the fall term. This is as good as was expected by the college officials, and it was announced by them that it was considered a very fair opening in view of the fact that the college has been raising its standards for entrance and has been requiring a larger financial payment by the students upon entrance."

In view of the history of the College during its forty-one years of existence, of the sacrifices and prayers and efforts that have been put forth by the constituents of the College to bring it to what it is, and in view of what the College means to the Church, and especially in view of the crisis that the College now faces, every member of the Convention now called in extraordinary session should make a determined effort to be present on October 20th, that we together shall face the whole College problem, and take to heart, in hope and faith, the grave problems that confront us and the possibilities for the future that the College offers us. The Church must have the College, and the College must have the support of the Church. Loyalty now, and hearty co-operation mean life to both.

J. O. A.

NO TURNING BACK.

It is very easy to criticize people and enterprises who "keep on." There are those in the world who are impatient. They want change. They delight in novelty. Their only encouragement is in something new. Take a case in point: The Church, through its Mission Board, is often criticized for keeping on in a work begun. The Board has been helping certain churches at some places for years. Thoughtless ones are ready to criticize and to say, "Why not quit?"

Well, the Mission Board wants to quit; it wants to undertake new things; enter into untried fields, but it cannot quit. God does not quit, and when you begin to build up institutions and enterprises in the kingdom of God, you have to exercise patience, persistence, determination and faith. The Bible tells us that when Lot's wife turned even to look back, she was changed to a pillar of salt. God could not approve of looking back with longing when the face had been turned toward a right journey and a proper course.

The Mission Board has had to vote appropriations to churches that have been struggling for five or ten or fifteen years. Many do not realize that in those struggling churches there are heavy hearts, burdened minds, anxious souls. They, too, have been sacrificing and giving and serving for years, and they, too, in faith are carrying on through persistence, determination, courage and faith. To quit would mean to lose what has been done and to throw away efforts and investments which were made in good faith and according to the light of the best wisdom to be had. This writer is well aware that there are those in the Church who criticize the Mission Board for giving to some of the same places year after year. Such critics do not stop to consider the facts in the case, and those inevitable and driving facts compel people of sane mind and judgment not to quit or to turn back, but to go forward till the work is finished. God is no quitter, once begun, He does not turn back. He makes a mushroom over night, but in patience He takes a century to build an oak, and decades to people the forests and the fields with the giants that stand there. A supreme example of patience and persistence is that of God Himself and the building of His kingdom on earth.

It is easier to criticize than to help, and often easier to quit than to carry on. God's work, though slow, goes on, and through patience carries to achievements and results.

J. O. A.

ELON COLLEGE.

Since the Board of Trustees meeting in May, and the resignation of Dr. W. A. Harper as president, many questions have been asked as to who will be President and how Elon will get along in the future. A heavy debt and hard times discourage many who would like to see Elon continue to prosper and do the work for which it was founded and opened forty years ago. Most all Church Colleges pass through hard places and then continue to do good work. Hardly any institution or any individual that has not had trials and discouragements. But prayer and faith and hard work can overcome many difficulties, and sometimes such experiences strengthen purpose and achieve progress.

The children of Israel came to a dark place in their effort to escape from Egyptian bondage. When they came to the Red Sea, and the Egyptian army was approaching them, and mountains were on either side of them, it looked as if they would fail. In that dark hour "the children of Israel cried out unto the Lord;" and "Moses said unto the people, Fear ye not, stand still, and see the salvation of the Lord, which he will show you today." Exodus 14:10-13. "And the Lord said unto Moses, speak unto the children of Israel that they go forward," and they did, and they went over on dry ground. What the church needs in this time of trial for Elon College is faith to trust God and courage to go forward. Faith is needed in three things: faith in God, faith in the cause for which the college was founded, and faith in the church. God is able to do abundantly above all that we can ask or think. The cause of Christian education is worthy of our courage and our support. The Israelites made their best progress in that dark hour; but they wavered and complained after they had crossed the sea. They lost confidence in Moses and complained because they had lost their faith in God. What Elon College needs at this time is faith enough to obey God and go forward.

The Christian Church needs more faith and obedience to cultivate a liberal loyalty to the institution and to leave out discouragement, adverse criticism and doubt. The institution is essential to the growth of the church and the progress of the principles for which the church stands. Now is the time for faith, courage, and action.

W. W. S.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

By DR. W. C. WICKER.

CALL TO PRAYER.—

In connection with the Labor Sunday message of the Federal Council of Churches an inspiring call to prayer has been issued by its president, Bishop McConnell. This call, as well as the message, points to the need for building an economic order more in harmony with the spirit of Christ. As Dr. McConnell truly says, "It is not for a return of prosperity in the old sense that we pray. God forbid. Our prayers must not be selfish petitions for our own individual and material success. The blessing which we seek from God must rather be the coming of a new spirit into society, which will be concerned for the common good, and will make brotherhood and justice fully prevail in our economic and industrial life."

MANNING ON DIVORCE.—

Bishop Manning has come out most vigorously against the proposed amendment to the divorce law of the Episcopal Church. This proposed change, which would permit the remarriage by the church of an innocent party to a divorce after a year, with the approval of an ecclesiastical court, is to be voted upon at the general convention to be held in Denver. The bishop, in a letter to some of the church's publications, says that this contemplated change is a sign of the times and rejects the plain teaching of Christ himself. He concludes his letter with these words: "I do not for one moment believe that such a proposal, or anything resembling it, will be adopted by the general convention. The amazing and shocking thing is that such a canon can be proposed by those who should be the upholders of Christian faith and morals."

ENGLAND DISCARDS GOLD STANDARD.—

On Monday of this week, the news was flashed around the world that England had been compelled to relinquish the "gold standard." In response to this, stock markets were closed all over the world. However the New York exchange was one of the few to remain open, and stocks on that exchange reached new lows. We cannot predict what the result of England's action will be. It was certainly a bitter pill for the British government to swallow, but they have taken one dose after another, and they have done it like real men. This action comes as a result of the attempt on the part of those in control to balance the nation's budget, and we hope that they may be able to do so. What is needed throughout the world today is confidence, and confidence only comes through brotherly love, mutual understanding, and the practice of the teachings of Christ.

DISCIPLES CUT MISSIONS.—

Because of the deficiency in the gifts and the increased deficit for the missionary year, the executive committee of the United Christian Missionary Society, Disciples of Christ organization, has voted that an adjustment of $175,000 must be made in the budget. This will involve the reduction of salaries of officers of the society and workers in the home land, reduction of the headquarters staff and economy in home missions and benevolence. In the field of foreign missions, the reduction will involve the withdrawal of missionaries from Tibet and Jamaica, and most of the workers in the Philippines—placing the burden in the Philippines largely on the shoulders of Filipino leaders. With many people, the first reduction in times of depression, is made in the work of the kingdom. This is a great mistake for, no doubt, God withholds from those who withheld from Him.

JAMES BLACK REMAINS IN SCOTLAND.—

Scotland had a few weeks of anxiety as to whether she was going to lose her premier preacher, Dr. James Black, of St. George's, West Edinburgh, who had been called to the Marble Collegiate Church, New York. At the close of the morning service on July 12th, he announced that he had sent a cable declining the invitation to America. This statement was greeted with fervent exclamations of gratitude, women broke down completely under the emotion following their relief, and the congregation burst into loud and prolonged applause. Probably never in the history of that congregation, and seldom in Scottish Presbyterianism, have people clapped in a service of worship, so this was really a great demonstration for reserved Scotland. Dr. Black has been in Edinburgh for twenty-four years, the last ten of which have been spent in this church.

HOOVER'S COMMITTEE ASKS AID.—

President Hoover's committee for unemployment relief has asked the Federal Council of Churches to co-operate in the attempt being made to keep young people in school. The census figures show that nearly 350,000 persons between the ages of 16 and 19 normally employed are out of work. It is hoped that a large percentage of these may be persuaded to go back to school and thus diminish the ranks of the jobless. The churches are asked to urge upon boys and girls, and upon their parents, the importance of longer school training. It is requested that this matter be taken up in our pulpits. It is understood that the President's committee will ask the further co-operation of the churches as the various parts of the committee's plans are perfected. The trouble here seems to be with our economic rather than with the religious or educational condition of our country, but the churches are called upon to solve these economic problems.

AMERICAN CHURCH DEDICATED IN PARIS.—

The American Church of Paris, whose first building was dedicated in 1857, dedicated its new million dollar edifice on September 6th. The minister, Rev. Joseph W. Cochran, formerly of Philadelphia and New York, announced that the church is entirely free from debt. Arthur C. James of New York City contributed one-quarter of the million, and John D. Rockefeller, $100,000. One of the architects of the new building was Ralph Adams Cram, who designed the gothic tower. Many of the stained glass windows are gifts of American friends of the church. It was the writer's privilege, with a number of American Sunday School workers, on our way to the World Sunday School Convention at Zurich, Switzerland, to worship in the old church the first Sunday in July, 1913. It was delightful to hear the American preacher and attend a service where Americans were welcomed with a warm American welcome.

CALL TO ALTRUISM.—

Bishop Sherrill having started for the general convention, Rt. Rev. Samuel G. Babcock, suffragan bishop of the diocese of Massachusetts, says on the problem of depression, "The world depression, causing unemployment and poverty, brings to the Church of Christ new opportunity to succor the needy and partake of the joy of conquering difficulties. Loss of material possessions cannot separate from the love of Christ. Our industrial system reveals its defects and we are stimulated to order it more in accord with the Christian ideal. The international action to save Germany illustrates the blessedness of co-operation among nations, and brings home to every individual the duty of extending help to others, our Lord's plan for human life relations in every sphere of human contact." After all, the great message of Jesus finds its realization in sacrifice for human suffering and unless we are willing to suffer with and for Him, we shall not reign with Him in glory.

RE-HEARING THE MACINTOSH CASE.—

The general conference of Seventh Day Baptists, in session at Alfred, New York, August 18th to 23rd, passed a resolution asking for a re-hearing of the Macintosh case, on the ground that "our nation must not put itself in the position of demanding that incoming citizens give up the right to be conscience-led, when by the constitution, by legislative enactment, and by the Kellogg-Briand treaty, this very thing is safeguarded and encouraged for native-born citizens." Any other position on the part of our government or our courts seems to contradict the fundamental principle of complete separation of church and state. This question of the relation of church and state has given trouble in the history of the world since the beginning of the Christian era, whenever either seeks to dominate the other. Perfect freedom of conscience in each sphere so long as they do not interfere with each other, should be accorded to those who constitute our constituency in both church and state.

HEALING CONFERENCE.—

Religion and health will be the dominant note of a nine days' conference to be held at St. Mark's church, Denver, Colorado, Sept. 17-25, during the sessions of the general convention of the Episcopal church. The conference is to be held under the auspices of three societies now working in the church for the promotion of spiritual health and healing: the Life Abundant Society, the Society of the Nazarene and the American Guild of Health. Christian healing has engaged the attention of the Episcopal church since the triennial meeting held in Portland, Oregon, in 1922, when the subject was popularized by the work and presence in this country of James M. Hickson, an English layman, who conducted a series of missions in this country. Are the other churches neglecting this ministry of healing or do they believe there is nothing worthwhile in it? What is the relation of the spiritual life to the health of the body? What part of the diseases of the body are 'functional' and subject to mental and spiritual healing, and what part are 'organic' and, therefore need physical treatment? The World War resulting in shell-shock cases which have been successfully treated by psychiatrists has raised the whole question of the influence of the spiritual life to the physical health. Study what Christ and the disciples did in this field of service and draw your own conclusions.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

The protracted meeting looms again as this pen begins to write; and nothing has added more to the spirituality and membership of the Protestant Church than Protracted meetings. They have generated a spiritual atmosphere, inspired the composition of spiritual songs, and brought into the pulpit spiritual messages that regular preaching never produced. This summer seems to have revived that form of meetings in this section and four more meetings came into view. Oak Grove, near Sunbury, Rev. J. M. Roberts, pastor, with H. H. Powell, of Suffolk, assisting. A letter from a woman reports that the meeting had great effect on the community; Holy Neck, one of the oldest and most useful Churches, with N. G. Newman as pastor, was assisted by Rev. John G. Truitt of Dayton, Ohio, as preacher, and the old church and congregation were lifted up into an emotional atmosphere that improved the prayers, the singing, and the faith of the congregation; Mt. Carmel whose pastor is Rev. W. D. Harward, enjoyed the messages of Rev. T. N. Lowe of Hope-well, and the church was revived and sinners were converted. It was a week of real worship in song, prayer, sermon, and re-consecration; At Isle of Wight, the pastor, Rev. E. B. White, did the preaching and the results were fine. Very large congregations, deep spiritual interest and additions to the membership of the church. These four meetings are indexes to what has been going on in these churches located in centers of communities where they exert spiritual influence the whole year through. Many people get religion in these churches and move to the city and become leaders in the churches in these centers of population.

Country preachers carry the keys to the church's success and the kingdom's growth. That church in the grove is the place where many souls were born again. The mourner's bench, the altar of prayer, the regeneration experienced by the newborn souls are not so antiquated as to lose their value in the salvation of men.

There is a heart-hunger in most congregations for the word of God in simple and earnest delivery and more of the emotional than is usually felt. This is true not only in revival meetings, but in regular services. There is enough of the literary and historic in books and magazines, which are read more and more, to satisfy that need and that desire and the real Biblical truths presented in an earnest way will satisfy this hunger and this necessity of the soul. The head is too full already, but the heart needs spiritual food. These revival meetings with formality left out, and real spiritual food served in love, meets a response that fills the heart with peace and the church with praise.

In the good old summer time, when the crops are laid by, and leisure is enjoyed a few weeks on the farm, then the community can crowd the church and take time to pray and fill the yard, after service, with religious conversation that helps to revive pure and undefiled religion in their hearts and homes. There is nothing that so unifies a community as a protracted meeting of the revival type. Neighborhood is a great word and what it represents is greater still. It represents more social contacts, more friendships, more hospitality, more genuine religion, and more unbroken ties than any other place on earth; and there is no such conditions without a church. So, after all, the church and the revival, the human ties that are born in religion and cultivated in the neighborhood, are the fountains of character, the beauty and strength of society and the hope of the nation and the world.

W. W. STALEY.

BEREA (NORFOLK) CHURCH.

In THE SUN of September 3rd, I read the history of Ingram Christian Church, given by Mrs. C. V. Dunn. As secretary of my church, and knowing its history so well, Mrs. Dunn's write up of her church was very interesting to me, and I thought that probably the readers of THE SUN would like to have the history of my church. Therefore, I have decided to give it.

Berea was built in 1855 by the Methodist Protestant Church, and for sixteen years, or until 1871, it continued in that denomination. During the Civil War, the Federal soldiers camped on the church grounds, entered the church and in various ways abused it. The members became very much discouraged, and for some reason they considered it difficult for them to continue in the Methodist Protestant faith, but wished to unite themselves with the Christian Church. So on August 15, 1871, they got in touch with Rev. J. N. Manning, told him of their wishes, and their willingness to transfer their property and themselves to his denomination and to comply with the principles of his church.

Bro. Manning accepted their proposition, and proceeded to get the transfer legally fixed in the Norfolk County Courts. At the time they transferred themselves and organized with our church, there were twenty-nine charter members to come into our church, fourteen men and fifteen ladies.

That has been sixty years ago, and none of those members are living today, but we highly cherish their memories, for the writer knew them all, and knew their fine Christian Character. We have had fourteen pastors to serve us in these sixty years. The first, as already mentioned, was Rev. J. N. Manning, who served just one year. Rev. R. C. Tuck took his place and was pastor for six years. Next was Rev. H. H. Butler, who as a licentiate supplied for Rev. Tuck in 1879, and was recommended by the church for ordination to the annual Conference, and was extended a call to be our pastor. He accepted, and labored with us for eight years.

Next to come to our rescue was Rev. J. T. Kitchen, who dutifully supplied for three years. Then our hearts were made glad by the presence of Dr. J. P. Barrett, who remained with us for five years. Following Dr. Barrett, was Dr. W. S. Long. We had the pleasure of his services for about three years. After Dr. Long, Rev. M. W. Butler truly served us. Then M. P. Porter came on the scene for two years also. Next, our last preacher, Dr. J. W. Harrell, whom we learned to love, stayed with us for thirteen years, as long as any other two pastors' time together. After Dr. Harrell, came Rev. H. E. Rountree, and so revealed himself that he won our love and still retains it. He served us three years.

The next pastor to command our attention was Dr. G. O. Lankford, and for four years he just kept the membership looking up to him. Then Rev. W. C. Hook was looked for, found, and graciously accepted a call extended him which made us glad for two years. Then Rev. B. F. Black for two years, and seemingly nearly always in a feeble state, won our sympathy, esteem and appreciation. With somewhat sorrowing hearts we gave him up.

Well, just listen, here is the last, but by no means the least of our pastors. Rev. J. F. Morgan has been with us six years. I don't know how to express the sentiments of the brotherhood regarding him, but just slip in the midst of the members and make a few inquiries, and they will tell you quickly.

Only six of our fourteen pastors are living today. They are Dr. J. W. Harrell, Dr. G. O. Lankford, Rev. M. W. Butler, Rev. H. E. Rountree, Rev. W. C. Hook and Rev. J. F. Morgan. We have twenty years more of church history than Mrs. Dunn has, but I am glad I can say with her that for all of these sixty years we have never had a church trial, nor any contention or ill feeling, by which the church was in any way affected. May the Lord be praised for such a sweet, Christ like fellowship and leadership in His name.

M. W. HOLLOWELL,
Secretary.

ANOTHER BUSY SUMMER.

When school closed last spring I prayed that the Lord would keep me busy through the summer and I have had no cause to be disappointed. Immediately after the close of the Duke University Pastor's School, I went to Antioch as a "Singing Master." We had a profitable week spent in the singing. Antioch is to be commended, for these good people have built an elevated choir loft which lends dignity to the church and encouragement to the singing.

During the first week of July, I assisted Rev. H. E. Crutchfield at Fuller's Chapel. Never have I spent a more pleasant week. We had more than a meeting—we had a revival. I would like to predict a glorious future for Fuller's, for they have a splendid group of capable young people who have recently been organized into a Christian Endeavor Society.

The following week I preached at Martha's Chapel. Miss Elizabeth Parrish, of Raleigh, was our pianist, and the singing was an attractive feature of the services. There were three additions to the membership.

My next revival was at Beulah. We had a real spiritual harvest. Mr. B. F. Morton, of Franklinton, was with me to direct the singing. Sixteen young people united with the church.

I also did the preaching at Amelia and Antioch. Six young people joined Antioch church.

We began the revival at Hank's Chapel the fourth Sunday in August with three services. It is indeed a privilege to work with the good people of this community. We closed the revival with one of the best services I have ever attended. Eight people united with the church. Hank's Chapel, with its new and well equipped church, is now in position to do a great work.

We had a good week at Bethlehem. However, no members were added to the church. Then it was my privilege to be with Rev. E. M. Carter at Mt. Gilead. This is a church in which real harmony prevails between pastor and the church. We closed the revival on Friday night, but went back on Sunday night and organized a Christian Endeavor Society. The society was begun with a large membership, and we believe it will be a great asset to the church.

Thanks be to the Father for the privilege of working and for any good which may have been accomplished.

ROBERT LEE HOUSE.

Consider how reasonable it is that our diligence should be answerable to the ends we aim at, to the work we have to do, to the shortness and uncertainty of our time, and to the contrary diligence of our enemies.—Baxter.

We praise God at intervals with our words, but our whole life should be a ceaseless song of praise to Him.—Augustine.

WHAT EVERY COMMUNITY OWES ITS YOUNG PEOPLE.

By C. E. WARRINGTON, Youth Speaker at Youth Congress Meeting, Suffolk, Virginia.

Every community owes its young people three very vital things: adequate training in childhood, protection and education in youth, and the right to be free men and women.

According to Dr. Frank Crane twelve thousand children were arrested in New York City during one year for a crime which consisted in doing the only thing children can and should do—playing.

In many communities a child's play and a child's wrong-doing are punishable under the same law, without distinction between play and wrong-doing.

When children play baseball in a vacant lot they disturb the neighbors, when they play tennis in the streets they block the traffic, and when they play cowboy in lanes and alleys they trespass. Still, cities are built so that there are inadequate playgrounds, and while thousands are spent on schoolhouses the more important subject of play and proper instructions are overlooked.

Money is set apart and spent for police courts and jails, but, if the communities took care of their children as they should their jails and courts would not be needed. And it isn't in the schoolhouse that character is moulded, that dispositions are made, that fair play is learned. In school they get "book learning" but the greater training for the child is gotten on the playground. Therefore the community owes its young people this greater training in childhood.

Greater care in the protection and education of our youth is badly needed.

In a few years the young people of today will be taking over the duties of citizenship and the great task of bettering and furthering civilization. They will be subjected to criticism and ridicule. They will be tried and tested. On every hand there will be people willing to rip up and tear down whatever good works they might do. Great will be their responsibility.

Today the youth must settle the most important questions in the world. They must decide the questions which will affect the future of our father's past endeavors. They must decide what course in life the men and women of tomorrow will follow. They must decide what tomorrow's men and women will be. In their youth they must decide, in many cases without experience and without sufficient guidance, the ideals which the man and woman of forty will follow.

It is the decisions the young people make which decide what the men and women of a few years will be.

With so much responsibility resting on the shoulders of its youth a community owes to its young people the greatest protection and best education which it can afford. Youth at every turn is tempted to do this or that. He is tempted to break this law or that. He is tempted to try this or to try that. And the greatest temptation the youth of today is having to meet is the temptation that is thrust upon him to break the Eighteenth Amendment and defy the authorities who are supposed to enforce it. And what are the communities doing about it? A great deal less than communities owe to its youth to do. What can and will be done about it? The communities hold the answer. More and better laws are not going to change this. There is only one way as I see it and that is to protect and educate your youth. Protect them. Guide them until they feel their own way. It is seldom that a man goes wrong after he reaches manhood. "Teach every young person the truth about school and keep him in temperate environment until he is mature and your 'drink evil will vanish,'" said Dr. Frank Crane.

Protection and education of youth would be a world's greatest insurance policy against future wars, would mean a lessening of depressions, and would guarantee greater happiness to our future civilization. But their education must be founded on truth. Not on the theory that a little learning will prepare any man to sit still and wait for happiness and success to come to him. Teach them thoroughly the problems of life and the best methods yet learned for overcoming them. The communities owe it to their youth to protect and educate them.

Every young man and woman has a right to be free.

"Conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal" this great country of ours was born long ago. It was to be a free land with an equal opportunity for everybody. Thousands of men with the vision of such a country gave their lives that such might be. Today has that spirit weakened? Have we forgotten the trust they placed in us when they paid such a price and left the country in our hands? Many of us seem to have. In large and small cities, in town and borough, in state and national government bribes are made and paid, fees are levied and split with higher ups, public funds are misused, "protection" is charged to operate in certain sections, and these are not lawful fees and lawful protection nor lawful taxes, but fees paid to such men as Doctor Doyle of New York City who amassed a fortune of over $2,000,000 in a few years time by splitting fees with higher ups and bribing officials, and to men like the North Carolina Justice of the Peace who admitted collecting monies unlawfully and unrightfully, and to men such as those who control the milk trusts and who charge protection to merchants.

They are making our people a spineless bunch of jelly fish who would rather pay these fees than to fight back and see that evils are corrected. Folks, is this fair to the young people? This is not the freedom and equal opportunity for which our forefathers died. It is not fair to them, it is not fair to the present, it is not fair to the future and it is not fair to the young people.

Give your youth adequate training in childhood, protection and education in youth and the right to be free men and women. It is the debt of the community to its young people.

OXFORD BIBLES for EVERY NEED

"The Oxford Bible is the Bible par excellence of the world"

THE HOME BIBLE

A Family Bible in Handy Size

An extra large type Oxford Text Bible, containing also, a family register and 12 beautifully colored maps. Size 9 x 5½ inches.

Specimen of Type

16 The LORD is King for ever and ever: the heathen are perished out

Nos. 01600 Superior Cloth, round corners and red edges $2.75
01603 French Morocco, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, head-band, book-mark $4.75

The JUNIOR'S Bible

Self-Pronouncing

With 4,000 Questions and Answers, carefully selected "Aids to Bible Study," 16 beautifully colored and 15 black full-page illustrations, 6 colored maps and a presentation page. Children may readily pronounce correctly difficult Scripture names, as this Bible is self-pronouncing. Size 7 x 4½ x 1¼ inches.

Type in Junior's Bible

2 Take the sum of all the of the children of Is'ra-el, years old and upward, thro

Nos. 1815 French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges, head-bands and book-mark. Make some child happy with one of these fine Bibles $2.95

Child's ILLUSTRATED Bible

The beautifully colored illustrations in this new Bible are a delight to the children. It has clear, readable type and yet it measures only 5½ x 3½ inches.

Specimen of Type

2 My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the LORD: my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God.
10 Mercy and truth gathered together; righteousness kissed each other.
11 Truth shall spring

Nos. 02112. French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, gold edges $2.50

Pocket REFERENCE Bible

Has over 50,000 center column references. Measures only 6¼ x 4½ inches. (A splendid gift for a young lady.)

Specimen of Type

9 Behold, "O God our shield, and look upon the face of thine anointed.
10 For a day in thy courts is better

Nos. 07523x French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $3.25

Concordance Edition

Type and size as No. 07523x, but with a Concordance, subject index and dictionary of Scripture names. An excellent edition for students and Christian workers No. 03272x $5.00

OUR LEADER Oxford Concordance Bible

Self-Pronouncing

This beautiful Oxford India paper edition is indeed the ideal Bible for the student, preacher and evangelist. Each proper name and difficult word is divided into syllables and accented, and though printed with large clear type, the volume measures only 8½ x 5½ x 1½ inches.

Specimen of Type

8 9 'Jē-hōi'-ā-chin was 6 years old when he began t

Nos. 03671x. Fine Grain Morocco leather, overlapping cover, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head-bands and book-mark $9.50

A UNIQUE GIFT BIBLE

With Basket Weave Binding

The Antique brown calf leather binding has a basket-weave grain, and button clasp. Has overlapping cover, art silk lined, with red under gold edges. With references. Printed on Oxford India paper. Type as Pocket Reference Bible. $5.50

No. 03255x

As No. 03255x, with concordance. No. 03276x $6.50

Oxford TEACHER'S Bibles

Have over 50,000 center column references, and 300 double-column pages of up-to-date helps, conveniently arranged in alphabetical order. Also 32 full-page illustrations, and an indexed atlas of the Bible with 15 beautifully colored maps of Bible lands.

Easy-to-Read-Edition

Size 7¼ x 5 x 1½ inches

Specimen of Type

14 Like sheep they are laid in grave; death shall feed on th

Nos. 04453. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges. A durable and hand-some Bible $4.35

Oxford India Paper Edition

Only one inch thick.

0773x. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, head-bands and book-mark. A beautiful gift edition $7.00

RED LETTER Edition

Same size and type as style No. 04453, with same references and helps, but with all the words of Jesus Christ printed in red. White paper edition No. 05453. French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $5.00

The Oxford imprint in a Bible guarantees satisfaction

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Secretary.

A PRAYER.

Almighty God, how corrupted and squandered are the strength of youth and the wisdom of years! We look to Thee for the healing of the nations and we bless Thee that not all the people have forgotten thy eternal precepts. Bring Thou to naught every issue that tends to displace thy holy law. Turn back the nations from surrendering righteous concepts. Cause governments to uphold the Sinai banner, "Remember." Restore in believers the faith and zeal by which Christian foundations are preserved. And may thy Kingdom come, we humbly pray. Amen. "L."

MISSIONARY OFFERING.

WEEK ENDING SEPTEMBER 19, 1931.

Sunday Schools.

Previously acknowledged	$ 168.05
Winchester, Va.	3.31
Wake Chapel, Fuquay Springs, N. C.	10.09
Bethlehem, Timberville, Va.	1.95
Bethel, Union Ridge, N. C.	1.28
First Christian, Richmond, Va.	6.89
New Elaf, Pittsboro, N. C.	4.17
Antioch, Zuni, Va.	2.00
Woman's Missionary Society of Enigma Christian Church, Enigma, Ga.	3.25

Total $ 203.04

Individual and Church Offerings.

Previously acknowledged	$ 80.30
Third Avenue, Danville, Va.	53.99
Reidsville, N. C.	86.00

Total $ 220.29

Specials.

Previously acknowledged	$ 19.50
Christian Temple, Norfolk, Va.	300.00

Total $ 319.50

Summary.

Previously acknowledged	$ 287.85
Sunday Schools, Regular	34.99
Individual and Church Offerings	139.99
Specials	300.00

Total to date $ 762.83

J. O. ATKINSON,
Secretary.

PROGRAM.

19TH ANNUAL SESSION OF THE
EASTERN VIRGINIA WOMAN'S MISSIONARY CON-FERENCE, HOLLAND CHRISTIAN CHURCH,
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1931.

Theme—"Our Father's Garden."

Morning Session 10:30 o'clock.

Call to order by President, Mrs. R. T. Bradford.
Hymn—"Take Time to be Holy."
Worship Service—Mrs. O. M. Cockes.
Recognition Period—Districts, departments, visitors and ministers.
President's Greetings.
Report of Treasurer—Mrs. W. V. Leathers.
Report on Literature—Mrs. J. E. Cartwright.
Appointment of Committees.
Offering.

Vocal Solo—"The Beautiful Garden of Prayer,"
by Mrs. Vernon Holland.

Address—"God Planted a Garden and Left It in Our Care," by Mrs. F. I. Johnson, President of Women's Foreign Mission Boards of America.

Afternoon Session—2 o'clock.

Call to order.

Special Music—Choir of Holland Church.

Address—"Watering the Garden God Planted,"
by Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Mission Secretary,
Southern Convention.

Memoirs—Mrs. J. W. Manning.

Reports of Committees.

Presentation of Banners—Dr. L. E. Smith.

Closing Service.

*"Father, help us to keep with care
Thy garden of treasures rich and rare;
And may our harvest ever be Souls of Thy children, saved for Thee."*

PROGRAM.

ALABAMA WOMAN'S MISSIONARY CONFERENCE.
FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH, ROANOKE, ALA.
SUNDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1931.

Theme—"Love."

Morning Session—10 o'clock.

Call to order by President, Mrs. V. E. Kitchens.

Song—"Let the Lower Lights be Burning."

Devotionals—Mrs. O. H. Orr.

Reports of District Superintendents—

Lineville, Mrs. E. C. Devaughan.

Wadley, Mrs. G. L. Stephens.

New Hope, Mrs. O. L. Royston.

Roanoke, Mrs. G. H. Veazey.

Reports of Department Superintendents—

Young People, Mrs. V. L. Carter.

Willing Workers, Mrs. Paul Beiard.

Cradle Roll, Mrs. O. L. Royston.

Literature, Mrs. L. H. Liles.

Life Membership, Mrs. O. H. Orr.

Treasurer's Report.

President's Message.

Introduction of Visitors.

Song—"O Love that Will Not Let Me Go."

Address—Dr. J. O. Atkinson.

Appointment of Committees.

Offering.

Afternoon Session—1 o'clock.

Song—"Jesus Call Us."

Devotionals—Mrs. W. C. Morris.

Young People's Program—Lead by Mrs. V. L.
Carter.

Address—Miss Sallie Poor.

"How to Make Our Association More Effective,"
Miss Marguerite Davison.

Business Session.

MRS. V. E. KITCHENS,
President.

*"Go forth, go forth, ye workers—
Ye heralds of the Lord,
And spread through all creation
God's mighty saving Word;
With lavish hand cast forth the seed,
The time is short, and great the need."*

MONTHLY MISSIONARY PROGRAM. OCTOBER, 1931.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Opening Thought.

"Consecration and Information the only firm foundation on which we can build."

Devotional Service.

Hymn—"O Beautiful for Spacious Skies."

Scripture—Matthew 13: 24-41.

Sentence Prayers.

This being the first meeting of the Conference year, the time should be given largely to organization and plans for the year's work. Let us have more definite aims and put more time and effort in our work. Good meetings do not just happen, it takes united effort. For this reason it is well to place some responsibility on just as many women as can be enlisted. Each society should have at least three committees—Program, Publicity, and Membership. To these might well be added a Visiting Committee and a Social Committee.

This is the time for the installation of officers, and it makes an impressive feature for a program. An appropriate program should be followed, and we will be pleased to send a copy of such program on application. Request for same should be addressed to Mrs. W. M. Jay, Holland, Va.

Should there be time, it would be well to have a brief review, at this meeting, of our missionaries and their particular work, or "Findings of the Seattle Convention," or reports from Summer Schools and Conferences.

Requests have come in that six of this year's programs be based upon that wonderful and all-inclusive theme—"Christ Comes to the Village."
The remaining five will be miscellaneous, and will deal with our own work and some of "America's Home Mission Problems."

This poem seems appropriate for an autumn meeting. It was written by a young girl, and won the New York Chautauqua prize over a large number of contestants, of which she was the youngest.

*"Beautiful autumn foliage,
Yellow and brown and red,
Do you put on your best apparel
Knowing you'll soon be dead?"*

*"Does it give you real pleasure
To have humanity see,
Before you are gone forever,
How beautiful you can be?"*

*"If so, it were well if mortals
Would ever be gay and bright,
And, clad in robes of beauty,
Pass on to a world of light."*

*"O, should not we all be happy
To have humanity see,
Before we are gone forever,
How beautiful we can be?"*

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY.

Theme—"Prayer and Missions."

Opening Song—"Sweet Hour of Prayer."

Prayer—Led by Superintendent.

Installation of New Officers.

Leader—"The members of this society have expressed their confidence in the following members to serve during the ensuing term as officers of our Missionary Society."

Ask all officers to come forward.

Leader—"As faithful officers, pray with and for each other, and endeavor to create a spirit of co-operation and loyalty among the members, so that there may be the most effective missionary results."

Prayer—Leader.

Leader—"By electing these members as your officers, you have shown your trust in them, and now may we repeat the words of the Apostle Paul to the Corinthians. 'We are laborers together with God.'"

Prayer by New Superintendent.

Song—"Love Divine."

Worship period by new Superintendent.

Call to Worship—"Teach me to pray, not only in the morning gray or when the mountain's silver ray falls on me, but at high noon-day, when pleasures beckon me away. Teach me today."

Song—"Just for Today."

Scripture Lesson—Luke 21:30-36.

Short Talk—"What is Prayer."

Solo—"The Beautiful Garden of Prayer."

Offertory.

Prayer and Benediction.

WILLING WORKERS.

Theme—"God is Love."

Topic—"Open Windows."

I.—"Worship Period."

1. Call to Worship—"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."
2. Song—"Jesus Loves Me."
3. Bible Reading—Matt. 6:26. (Explained in simple words by the leader.)
4. Prayer.
5. Song—"God is Goodness, God is Love."
6. Offertory.

II.—"Study Period."

1. Chapter I. of "Open Windows."

The leader should introduce the first chapter. Give the idea of the world as God's garden with all the races as the flowers which fill the garden, and that we are going to visit this garden and meet His children. If possible have pictures of children from every land.

2. Song—"In Christ There is No East, No West."

3. Benediction.

—Mary Lee Williams.

NEWS ITEMS.

MRS. W. M. JAY, Editor.

The Willing Workers of the Holland Christian Church have had a very successful and profitable year. The attendance has been very good and notwithstanding the fact that several members were lost, enough new members were added to take their places.

The mission study courses proved to be very interesting, and the books used were "The Treasure Hunt" and "Pedro and the Bells."

They have raised their apportionment plus the ten per cent. asked for by the Board, making a total of $55.00.

Mrs. G. G. Holland and Mrs. I. H. Luke are the superintendents of this society and have made it most interesting for the boys and girls.

The Woman's Missionary Society of Bethlehem Christian Church, near Suffolk, Va., has had a very favorable year, and they are hoping to meet all their requirements and be a standard society. They have placed much emphasis on the spiritual part of their programs through their Spiritual Life Superintendent, Mrs. J. W. Folk, who taught the book of Romans. Plans are being made for a real rally day at the last meeting of the year, when they will elect officers and lay plans for the new year. Mrs. C. W. King is the efficient president of this thriving society.

The Young People's Missionary Society of the Holy Neck Church has closed a most successful year's work, under the capable leadership of Miss Lillye Holland. They put on a pageant Easter which meant so much to the society as well as to the Sunday School and church. They have met all of their missionary obligations, completed their study book, and put on helpful programs. They feel that they are just closing one of their most successful years, and are earnestly looking forward to taking up the new work for the coming year.

The Franklin Church held its yearly mite box opening program on September 7th, with Mrs. Fix as leader.

After the worship program, one of the members told of the "Personal Benefits in the Use of a Mite Box." The leader then presented a most impressive pageant. A large mite box was opened, from which emerged a small girl representing "Love," who touched the five nations: Japan, China, Africa, India, and Turkey, represented by girls in costume.

The offering was a generous one, and everyone agreed that it was one of the most attractive programs of the year.

MISSION STUDY.

STUDY BOOKS AND PARELLEL MATERIAL FOR 1931-1932.

I have said little about Teachers who taught the Mission Books at Chambersburg. They were outstanding women. They came to us with minds filled with the challenge of changed conditions, with new thoughts for this new age, with new experiences after close study and much travel. They talked about a larger Christ which we must discover anew. They taught by the pouring in process (lecturing), and they used the discussion method. The last method best.

The program is education as to world conditions, world need. We must develop the outlook and appreciation of other people and nations, as we think in times of no more selfishness and no more racial prejudice.

Our consciences will be awakened as we study world movement tendencies. But before going forward we must have a definite heart experience. I quote Stanly Jones, "We cannot go forward until we go deeper."

Doors of opportunity are open, enter, discover, enjoy. Get ready to brighten your lights.

As you get your Mission material for the year, try to use the books suggested and taught at all Mission Conferences. Close study is necessary if we are to serve. If we cooperate, we must not neglect it. The books are background for the future.

This is a year when every one will be interested in the Home Book. It is a mirror showing what the church has accomplished and challenges us to go forward and make America a Christian nation. It must be studied in the light of the findings of the North American Congress, Washington, 1930. Christ threw wide open the windows of the world, and through these world windows we are to see the village life and interpret the Rural Billion—home, mother, child. This subject should be studied in the light of the finding Jerusalem Conference. The books are new in this approach to the Mission problem.

For Women and Young People, Foreign Missions: "Christ Comes to the Village." Price 50c.

Parallel Reading: "The Rural Billion." 60c.

Home Book for Women: "The Challenge of Change." 60c.

Home Book for Young People: "God and the Census." 60c.

Willing Workers: "Open Windows." 50c.

Leaders' Helps for the books, each, 25c.

Program Suggestions for Women's Societies. Free.

Miscellaneous Programs, etc. 10c.

Teaching Pictures on Rural Life, set of 8. 50c.

Order your books from the Commission on Missions, 14 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass.

I have a supply of leaflets bearing on the above subjects. Use the Bulletin Board to give Missions to the Sunday School and the church. Get your young folks to make attractive posters. I will be glad to aid in any way. Ask me.

MRS. J. CARTWRIGHT, Lit. Supt.,
1732 La Salle Ave.,
Norfolk, Va.

NOTICE.

The Eastern Virginia Woman's Missionary Conference will meet with the Holland Christian Church Thursday, October 15th. The morning session opens at 10:30.

The pastor of each church is invited, and each society is earnestly requested to meet its requirements, and have a large representation present.

Mrs. F. I. Johnson, President of the Woman's Federated Boards of Foreign Missions of America, will be the speaker.

MRS. W. L. STAGG, Secy.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us.

Postage paid and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

MEN'S PENS—Capitol, $2.00; Mercantile, $2.50; Cardinal, $3.00.

LADIES' PENS, $2.00.

COMBINATION OFFER—To a new subscriber or for renewal, $2.25, either Gentleman's (Capitol) Pen or Ladies' Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. And to "Sun" subscribers, not in arrears, any Pen at one-fourth off. Address: THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1536 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

ADVENTURES IN YOUTH FELLOWSHIP

"Youth at Work in the Church."

JEWEL TRUITT, Editor, Glen Raven, N. C.

YOUTH AND THE CHURCH.

What does the church expect of young people? Not, what a church or some churches expect, but what the church expects? What the church expects—not what the church wants, or even what it hopes for, but what it looks for with confidence from the young people of America and the world. And, why does the church expect things of young people? Because through the past generations, by painstaking and loving study, it has discovered that youth can give to it certain gifts that no other group has the power to give.

In the first place, the church expects something of the individual. In this day of so much harsh criticism, it can hardly be out of place to say that the church expects purity, cleanliness in thought, word and deed. The church expects healthy minds controlled by pure and lofty thoughts, trusty consciences which urge to deeds of love and courage, and bodies under control and capable of expressing the spirit within.

The church expects of young people ideals, visions, dreams. It expects ideals which are a standard by which they are constantly measuring themselves and toward which they are ever striving, visions in which they see the true purposes of their lives, and dreams which are brilliant enough to force them to lifetime service in making those dreams come true.

It expects them to find in life about them opportunities for service and then, sometimes, go out of their way to do that service. It expects them to reverence the church and find delight in it. It expects them daily to live the best they know and yet to forgive the mistakes of others by seeking the motive behind the weakness.

But the church in the larger sense expects the young people to see in it more than buildings, organizations, and people; that they shall understand that it is no finished product, but is like some great structure which requires the foundations of the past and the building of many generations to make it complete. In this each has his own part. Some will be fated to work in safety near the floor; others with sheer nerve and skill must climb ahead alone to begin a new part; some may lift heavy timbers, while another only holds a light for others to work, or sing a song in passing. Yet all will have a part. It is a labor which requires skill and strength, daring and patience, tears, laughter, faith, hope, and love.

Service! Hear that word!

It holds the hope of all the world;
It means ten thousand clean, young lives
Given along with countless tithes;
Hours of prayer and years of toil,
But a steadfast faith that none can foil.

So onward march with courage high,
The motto now is, "Do or Die!"
The field is open, the work is there.
It's call to youth is, "Do or Dare!"

(LOIS BRYSON.)

(From address by Miss Beth Twitchwell.)

SALEM CHAPEL VACATION CHURCH SCHOOL.

Our Vacation Church School began on Aug. 17th, and closed on Aug. 28th, meeting every afternoon from 2:00 to 4:30. The school was directed by Miss Josephine Valjato of Cleveland, Ohio, assisted by Miss F. Marshall.

Twenty-nine children were enrolled in the school. We have never had a school before and the season in which we were able to have school this year was the best, on account of the work the children had to do in the tobacco fields. But all the time we had a remarkable attendance and from the number enrolled under these conditions, we know that we shall have many more, if we can have the schools earlier in the summer next year. However, we all enjoyed the school very much indeed.

The school was divided into four activities: instruction, in which we learned new hymns, learned the Psalms and the study on the Carribean Islands.

Then we had a game period on the church lawn. We played with bean bags, ball, and learned new games.

This period was followed by handwork. The older girls sewed and the boys made a large map of the Carribean Islands. The smaller children worked with clay, made picture books, scrap-books and other constructive things with colors and scissors.

We closed each day with a worship program. At this time we listened to music of the Islands which was played softly on the Victrola. A worship story was told, a hymn was sung, we had a prayer and then we would sing,

Vacation School is over,
And we are going home,
Good-bye, Good-bye,
Be always kind and true,
Good-bye, Good-bye,
Be always kind and true.

Wednesday afternoon we had a candy party. We studied about sugar which is grown in these islands and then we decided we would like to use this sugar from the Islands in having a little party making candy. We had a good time. On Friday afternoon we had a watermelon feast. This was thoroughly enjoyed by every youngster.

We closed our Church school with a program Sunday evening. The exercises were well attended. The program for the evening was appropriate, well rendered, and seemingly much appreciated.

HOLIDAY YOUTH MEETINGS.

Plans are being made for a Young People's leaders' meeting to be held during the Christmas holidays. This will be the second meeting of this nature in the South. Last year a very successful and helpful meeting was held on the Elon College campus. It is hoped that the meeting this year will be even better than the one held last year. Herman Truitt, Glen Raven, N. C., President of the Youth Fellowship of the Southeast Convention of Congregational and Christian Churches, is heading up these plans. Besides delegates to the conference and field secretaries, a limited number of visitors may attend. Those interested in this meeting should write him for information as to delegates and expenses of the meeting.

Word comes to Southern young people that the seventh annual Leaders' Holiday Conference will be held again this year. This meeting has been at Dayton, Ohio, for five years, and last year met for the first time at Defiance College. All the leaders in our church should look forward to this meeting each year and gain cheer and encouragement from the constructive work done at the Conference.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NOTES.

October 4, 1931.

"WHAT JESUS TEACHES ABOUT OBEDIENCE."

SCRIPTURE READING: Matthew 7: 20-27.

(Consecration Meeting.)

In the parable which is the scripture reading for the lesson this evening, Jesus is showing the value of obedience. True Christians will obey God's commands. Those who obey are happy; those who disobey suffer. Many of the stories of the early part of the Old Testament, back in the time when the world was young, deal with the attempt of man to learn obedience. Obedience is best learned early in life. If it is neglected, and other habits are formed, it is very hard to learn. Drunkards, dope-fiends, intemperate persons, gangsters, etc., have not learned to obey. Those who do not obey the laws of God and nature can surely be likened to the foolish man who built his house upon the sand.

It is a divine plan that calls for the learning of obedience early in life. In the family happiness depends upon singleness of purpose of the members of the family. This is best obtained by obedience to certain ideals. In striving for the same goals obedience becomes necessary.

Obedience brings knowledge and power. Those who seek the discovery of natural laws, and after they have found them, obey them, soon obtain valuable information which helps them in the discovery of other natural laws and gain power in the things of nature. Obedience to spiritual laws brings similar knowledge and power. We cannot understand God's laws and His will by study alone. We must obey to the best of our ability the best that we know. Obedience in little prepares us for obedience in much. We grow a little at the time, and finally we shall know and understand more perfectly.

In John 14: 21-24, Jesus says that if we love Him we keep His commandments. And those who keep His commandments are loved by God and Him, and God and Christ abide in that person. Obedience to God makes possible the higher communion with God, which is after all, what we seek. Obedience is the road that leads to true fellowship with Christ.

It is not always easy to obey the better promptings of the heart. Others are daily "doing the other things" and walking the other way. We also recall that Satan tempts with little things. He seeks to get us to yield just a little, just on the insignificant points. But the one who obeys does not yield to temptation; he recognizes that it is a temptation and puts it aside. He is armed with knowledge and does the will of God, regardless of passing desires, and trusts God for the rewards that are sure to come to those who obey.

Consecration Service.

Have a soloist sing softly, "Trust and Obey." While she is singing ask those who wish to re-consecrate their lives to Christ to bow their heads in silent prayer during the singing of the solo. Call for sentence prayers at the close of the solo. This part should be entered into by those whose heads are bowed. The leader should close the prayers with Mizpah. All should leave the room quietly.

Daily Readings.

Sept. 28th—Matthew 12:46-50.

Sept. 29th—John 7:14-18.

Sept. 30th—Luke 2:51-52.

Oct. 1st—John 14:21-24.

Oct. 2nd—Matthew 4:1-11.

Oct. 3rd—Matthew 26:36-46.

Sunday School Lesson

By REV. S. A. BENNETT, Elon College, N. C.

THE MACEDONIAN CALL.

LESSON I.—October 4, 1931.

LESSON TEXT: Acts 16:6-15; Romans 15:18-21.

Introduction.

This lesson marks a turning point in the program of the Christian religion, and a new epoch in its history. Jesus had told his disciples he had an ever enlarging program for his church. Acts 1:8: "Ye shall receive power, when the Holy Spirit is come upon you; and ye shall be my witnesses both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth." Since Pentecost the gospel had been reaching out in ever widening circles. Now a new epoch in the expansion of Christianity was at hand, and God called the leader by special spiritual quickening.

Men Called of God.

Repeatedly in times of crisis, God has called His leader by spiritual vision. The daily readings give the call of a few such—Abraham, the father of the Hebrew race, called into a great adventure of faith. Jonah was called to be a missionary to the Assyrians of Ninevah. Isaiah was called to preach to his nation at the time of tremendous national crisis. Ezekiel heard the call of God and became the spiritual leader of the Jews in the times of Babylonian captivity, and is known as the father of Judaism. Paul, himself, had been called as a chosen vessel to bear the gospel to the Gentiles. Now he is called to a new adventure in Christian missions.

Closed Fields and Open Fields.

The biblical account says they were "forbidden of the Holy Spirit to speak the word in Asia," and "when they assayed to go into Bithynia the Spirit of Jesus suffered them not."

Personal spiritual experiences, well understood by these missionaries, but not explained in the text, convinced them that Asia and Bithynia were not open for Christian work at that time. For earnest Christian workers, a closed field is likely to turn the attention to some other field that is open. Often a thwarted opportunity opens the eyes for the vision of a greater opportunity.

The Macedonian Call.

"There was a man of Macedonia standing, beseeching him and saying, Come over into Macedonia and help us." This was, in fact, a call to a larger field. The vision led to the open door of a vast continent, where the gospel had not been proclaimed. At Troas the missionaries stood on the edge of large areas in Asia where the gospel of Jesus had not been preached. Luke seems to have joined the party there. Europe had called, and Paul was not disobedient to the spiritual vision.

A Beginning in Europe.

"Straightway" they prepared to sail across the straight and try the power of the Spirit and the gospel message in Macedonia. The first entrance of the Christian message was at Philippi, an important city of Macedonia. There seems to have been no synagogue open for services, so the missionaries take to the open air by the river side.

Lydia, a merchant woman native to Asia Minor, but engaged in business in Philippi, seems to have been the first convert to the Christian message in Europe. She and her household received the gospel, believed its truths, were baptized and extended hospitality to the missionaries from the distant regions of her native continent. Thus a bridge for Christian faith had spanned the straight, and the gospel was headed our way.

We American Christians, along with Europeans, should be especially thankful for this new adventure of faith, because it is the link through which the gospel reached toward us.

Paul, that giant of Christian faith and untiring preacher of the Word, did not like to build on another man's foundation. So he tells us in Romans; but he had an overwhelming aspiration to open new territory to the transforming power of the gospel. His little company of great-souled missionaries pioneered in Europe, opened a new continent to the message, and started one of the greatest chapters in the expansion of the church.

DEADLY FALLACIES.

I know no more deadly fallacy, common to many of our young people, than to think that they must conform to the standards of conduct set by those around them. The old saying, "When you are in Rome, you must do as Rome does" is fallacious. I don't believe it; you don't have to ascribe to the rules of conduct set by others and I am glad you do not. Another fallacy also common to many of our young people, and equally dangerous as the one mentioned, and especially among many young people in the city is expressed in the words, "A fellow must keep up." There is no truth in it; you don't have to keep up, and the fellow who has the right conception of life knows very well that you don't have to keep up. You don't have to dress like others dress, do what others do, go where others go and follow the standards of conduct that others may set. No well meaning young person recognizes any such obligations, especially when it means a compromise with rules of conduct that are questionable ethically. Any conformity to set rules of behavior, at the expense of principle, is an acknowledgement of stupidity as well as being destructive to the making of a great life. The biggest thing in this life is the building of Christian character; and any standard of conduct set up in opposition to this is deadly fallacious and should be discarded by all young men and young women who expect to make good in the worthy objectives of life. I heard a great minister say some time ago that "The manhood standard of value is preeminently the standard set up by Jesus," and this is unquestionably true. A. R. FLOWERS.

Rocky Mount, N. C.

NOTICE.

I am making a change in churches this Conference year, and will be glad to correspond with any church or churches desiring my services in regards to church work.

W. B. FULLER,
313 Greene St.,
Harrisonburg, Va.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the number and price.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 $\frac{7}{8}$ x7 Inches, and 1 $\frac{3}{8}$ Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75
India Paper Edition, Size 4 $\frac{7}{8}$ x7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00
Bourgeois Type, Size 5 $\frac{3}{8}$ x8 Inches, and 1 $\frac{3}{8}$ Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.00
Minion Type, Pocket Size, 4x6 Inches, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ Inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold.....$1.60
Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 $\frac{3}{4}$ x7

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.50

2173—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges$6.00

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 16-16 of an Inch Thick.

133X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$4.00

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ x5 $\frac{1}{2}$ Inches, and 1 inch thick, with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ x5 $\frac{1}{2}$ Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.

65—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps$2.50

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 $\frac{3}{8}$ x8 $\frac{1}{4}$ Inches and 1 $\frac{3}{8}$ Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With Concise Bible Dictionary, combined Concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.75

RED-LETTER EDITION.

With All the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands; title stamped on side and back in pure gold$3.25

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations; special book for Sunday Schools95c
Any of the above Bibles sent postpaid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY H. E. ROUNTREE
One of our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"O Lord, I beseech thee, let now thine ear be attentive to the prayer of thy servant, and to the prayer of thy servants, who desire to fear thy name, and prosper, I pray thee, thy servant this day."

MONDAY.

MERCIFUL GOD.

LESSON: Micah 7:18-20.

TEXT: "Who is a God like unto thee."

We are told that the name "Micha" means, "Who is like unto the Lord?" This is Micha's name. It appears that the giver of this name intended that he should be like unto the Lord. That is a wonderful consecration for parents to give and the highest ideal for a child to live by. And it is not too high, because if life's end is to "be like his," we are to try to accomplish that end; and we certainly can keep that ideal ever before us, daily living unto him. He who tries will find that all of life is brought to bear to make it possible.

But in our lesson Micha is writing about the wonderful God who loveth mercy, who "forgiveth all our iniquities and healeth all our diseases," which means this: if we err and fail in our effort to grow in grace and in the knowledge of the Lord, He will have compassion on us. Iniquities may resist us like enemies; they may accuse us; they may attack our conscience; they may try to kill us; but He will have compassion on us and subdue them.

Prayer.—"Into the depths of the sea and into oblivion shalt thou, O Lord, cast all the sins of the people. We come to thee with all the sins with which we have any knowledge. Remove them afar from us, and forbid that Satan shall ever kindle anew the spark which thou hast quenched. We know that thy oath can never fail us. We know that if we dwell with thee we shall serve thee without fear in holiness and righteousness all the days of our lives. Amen."

TUESDAY.

YE THAT FEAR THE LORD.

LESSON: Psalm 25:1-11.

Eccl. 2:5-11

TEXT: "Unto thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul."

Ye that fear the Lord: believe in Him and He will strengthen thee; order thy way aright and He will help thee; wait for Him, and he will give thee everlasting joy and mercy; call ye upon Him and He will lead thee to a glorious issue; await for His salvation and hope in Him, and he will be mighty to help. If the answer is not that which you had hoped for, it is because the Lord makes it much more glorious otherwise. He "doeth all things well to those that love and serve Him." If He does not come to you when you think he should, He will come to you at the proper time. He says "I will not leave you comfortless, I will come unto you." If thou passeth through the crucible of suffering, no doubt that it is to give thee more resplendent glory. He says, "Give all diligence to add to your faith virtue; to your virtue knowledge; to your knowledge temperance; to temperance patience; to patience godliness; to godliness brotherly kindness. If these things be in you, and abound, ye shall not be unfruitful in the knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ." It is an unalterable law that "none that wait on the Lord shall be ashamed."

Prayer.—Lord, keep thou our souls and deliver us, for we put our trust in thee. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

HIS FRIENDS.

LESSON: Romans 5:6-11.

TEXT: "Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you."—John 15:14.

In this text we have one of those gospel truths which transcend all others—"Christ died for us." Scarcely for a righteous man will one die, yet Christ died for us. Thus He has proven His love for us. This is enough to lead us to commit ourselves wholly unto the Lord; to cause us to fall down and worship Him and make us fearless to confess Him in the face of sin and Satan. We are His friends.

If we are saved by His death, much more shall we be saved by His life, for He now lives for us. This is the rock whice He has given us to build our faith upon.

Prayer.—Lord God, we are ashamed of our unbelief. Thou knowest how difficult it is for us to learn the way of life. But we thank thee that He hath called us friends and that we have the death and the life of Jesus to live by. Help us to do this. Amen.

THURSDAY.

MORE OR LESS, WHICH?

LESSON: Psalm 63:1-7.

TEXT: "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness; for they shall be filled."—Matt. 5:6.

Such Psalms as this, David sang in the desert. May we not aspire to the same glorious estate? To David, every spring of human comfort had run dry, but he thirsted more and more for the well of salvation. This is the mark of a true child of God. Children of the world give up, and the love of God dies in them, but a child of God sticks, and hungers more and more for Him. Shall we test our souls that way?

Prayer.—O Lord, point out to us the way to holiness, and give us the key which will open the gates. We desire admittance into thy realm to see and taste of thy power and thy glory. As David saw into the holy of holies where it was pitch dark to the eye, help us to see with spiritual eyes thy glories that are not revealed to the world, and teach us, as thou didst teach David, to see our Lord Jesus Christ who is as truly present among us in means of grace as he was in him. Preserve us unto the end and mercifully pardon us of all our sins. Let nothing in the world keep us from thee. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

FRIDAY

THE WEDDING GARMENT.

LESSON: Matt. 22:1-14.

TEXT: "How comest thou hither?"—Verse 12.

The kingdom of heaven, or the church of Christ, is the kingdom of grace in this world and the kingdom of glory in the world to come.

Jesus likens it unto a marriage feast because it surpasses everything else in splendor. In this kingdom, like as unto the principals in a marriage, we are united through Jesus with God, in which union we receive all of the soul's needs, righteousness, peace, joy, love, life and salvation.

But all this depends on our having on the wedding garment. That garment is righteousness, purity and holiness, without which we shall not see him. Paul says, "As many as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ." So Christ is our garment, and it is he who imparts to us his righteousness and holiness. It thus becomes more than a garment. It is his whole grace unto salvation which presents us undefiled before him in the sight of God.

Therefore, if we are to stand before him, we must put on the Lord Jesus and trust only in his merit. Then in the words of Isaiah (6:10), we are "clothed with the garments of salvation and covered with the robes of righteousness, as a bride adorneth herself with jewels."

Prayer.—O Lord, help us to put off our own righteousness, and put on Christ, fully cleansed unto his own likeness, and help us to make thee the Treasure of our hearts. In his name we ask it. Amen.

SATURDAY.

WALKING CIRCUMSPECTLY.

LESSON: Ephesians 5:15-21.

TEXT: "See then that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, redeeming the time, because the days are evil."—Verse 15.

The religious outlook is not very optimistic. Pitfalls to the soul increase. There are secret snares at every footstep. Infidelity and false doctrines, worldliness and stupid carelessness, pride and self-aggrandisement are passions and stronger temptations than ever before confronted us. "The days are evil."

"See then that ye walk circumspectly!" Do not be enticed from the true ways of humanity and service. Covet and strive earnestly for a heart full of love, abounding with Christian virtue. "Redeeming the time," means: do not neglect to make use of that which can promote the salvation of your soul; grasp the precious hours of grace, and use them, that you may have the fruit thereof!

Prayer.—God, give us grace thereto according to thy promise in Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

SUNDAY.

GOD'S GLORY MAN'S DOMINION.

LESSON: Psalm 8.

TEXT: "Thou madest him to have dominion over the work of thy hands."—Verse 6.

When we consider the splendor of the heavens, and reflect that nearly all the stars are suns looking down upon us with their wonderfully gentle and kindly light, we are compelled to feel with David that they declare the glory of God, and that they proclaim the unchangeable truths of the Lord.

What shall we say of the inconceivable goodness of God, in that he has made man to have dominion over all these works? All we can say is: know the Lord and his mercy, and become humble; so shall you become great.

Prayer.—O Lord, with the trust of a child, we come to thee and say: "O Lord, our Lord, how excellent is thy name in all the earth!" Make us all thou wouldst have us be. Amen.

You are missing a lot if you do not have the conquering habit. Did you ever notice how better you feel after you have solved that Algebra problem that seemingly, "wouldn't be solved?" That is because you conquered it instead of letting it conquer you. A conqueror does the thing every time. He does not "go around" or "put it off." There's a real thrill in conquering even small things, and it is the conqueror who has the opportunity to conquer the big things. Think it over!

THE CHRISTIAN SUN'S PULPIT

REV. JOSEPH W. FIX, Preacher.

THE HONEST DOUBTER.

By REV. J. W. FIX, B. D.

"Be not faithless, but believing."—John 20: 27.

There is a story of an old controversy between two men. One said the fence was black; the other one affirmed that it was white. Each one doubted the other's statement, and they almost came to blows; but the real facts were that both men were right—one side of the fence was white-washed, the other side was weather-beaten and black. They had viewed it from different angles, and both were correct.

Some of the elements of Christianity arouse honest doubts in the minds of some men. Some view religion one way, some another. Some sincere men see the black side of the fence; others see the white side. Often one man may see it darkly, and then suddenly his eyes may be opened and the white will become apparent. At one time he becomes faithless; at another time a believer. Such was true of that member of the twelve who at one time was an honest doubter, or a faithless man, but later a devout believer.

We know the man Thomas mainly for his faults. The words "Doubting Thomas," have become so proverbial that one is inclined to think that "Doubting" was his first name, and that he was "Mr. Doubting Thomas." Being one who doubted his Lord, Thomas became a man of great despondency. On the other hand he possessed some of the richer qualities of Christian character. His ways seemed paradoxical. Let us consider these conflicting elements of doubt and belief.

1. A man of doubts. That side of his life which portrays his gloom and doubt is so pronounced that we almost refrain from any discussion which will make it more apparent. Of the four gospel writers, only one endeavors to cite these morose moments and actions. Matthew, Mark and Luke barely mention his name. John alone gives the record. In the upper room, Jesus said, "Let not your hearts be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me. . . . I go to prepare a place for you, and if I go to prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also. And whither I go, ye know and the way ye know." To these words of hope Thomas made no favorable response. As long as he doubted his Lord's words he was faithless. "Thomas saith unto him, Lord, we know not whither thou goest; and how can we know the way?" Even though he had been with his Lord constantly and had heard his wonderful words of life and spirit, they meant little to him because he doubted. Thus it was that Jesus said unto him with special emphasis, "I am the way, the truth and the life: no man cometh unto the Father but by me."

After the resurrection, Jesus granted the disciples the privilege of being with Him in secret. It was indeed a rare opportunity for all, but Thomas was elsewhere. When the other disciples saw him they testified unto Thomas of the risen Lord, but Thomas doubted, saying, "Except I shall see in his hands the prints of the nails and put my fingers into the print of the nails and thrust my hand into His side, I will not believe."

A few days later some of the disciples were assembled in an upper room with Thomas. They were relating some of their experiences relative to the resurrection, when Thomas reaffirmed that he will not believe unless he actually see the Christ. At that moment, we read, Jesus appeared, and, looking into the face of this honest doubter, says, "Thomas, reach hither thy finger, and behold my hands; and reach hither thy hand, and thrust it into my side: and be not faithless, but believing." From that moment forward, this honest doubter became "not faithless, but believing."

He had seen the folly of doubt, even honest doubt; and after seeing Jesus and hearing Him speak, he became a believer. To this phase of his life we now turn.

2. A Believing Christian. The words of the Master, "Be not faithless, but believing," take on new meaning, now that he has seen the Christ. He falls down at His feet and, with a most touching confession of faith in Him, exclaims, "My Lord and my God!" He has seen the white side of the fence. Doubts were now dispelled, and Thomas could well say with the old father, about whom Mark speaks, "Lord, I believe; help Thou mine unbelief."

Where once Thomas doubted, he now believes and is ready to help his Lord in all things. Where once he allowed discouragement to enter his life, he is now filled with courage. "Doubting Thomas" now takes the role of "Courageous Thomas."

As we study the record of the Christian religion, we become fully convinced that it has won its way repeatedly in the face of questioning and uncertainty. From what has been said, we see that it had won the complete devotion from this man Thomas, who was once a doubter. That which counted so largely in his victory was that he faced his doubts and slew them, not by accepting the dogmatic pronouncement of some foreign or external authority, but on the strength of his own religious experience and the competent evidence gained therefrom.

Having seen his Lord, risen from the grave, he believed. On this fact, Christianity makes its final appeal, for it stands or falls upon the ground of a personal experience of those verities which are unseen, yet are eternal.

It seems that there is a striking lesson in the story of Thomas, the Doubter, who heeded the words of his Lord to "be not faithless, but believing." Many of us become honest doubters; we know nothing of the life beyond, and we ask with Thomas, "How can we know the way?" There is but one answer: Jesus is the Way, the Truth, and the Life. May we never allow moments of grave doubt to alter our Christian living but rather let us brush aside all tendencies of fear and confess Him, saying, "My Lord and my God." Then may we hear, "Because thou hast seen me, thou hast believed; blessed are they that have not seen and yet have believed."

A TRUE STORY.

"I have a hero I want to mention. He is none other than a large police dog owned by a woman in Springfield. He located a cat out in a back lot with its head in a tin can that it could not get off, so he went to the house for help. At first members of the family did not know what he wanted, but he kept on until he got them to go with him and he led them to the poor cat. It would have been impossible for the cat to have gotten the can off its head. The people called me and I soon had it out of its bad fix. The dog acted as though he was glad to get help. However, they were not friends, for as soon as the cat was liberated it wanted to put up a fight."—Our Dumb Animals.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATED.

The Silver-plated Ware is of the very highest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses.$22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 85. 11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plated; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling).$22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90. 14.00

Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim.....$ 9.00
Bread Plate No. 4—Broad rim..... 9.00
Filler—Silver lined 6.00

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, - - Richmond, Virginia

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

The Lord is good to us. He has given us the finest seasons this year that we have experienced for a number of years.

Our hay crop has made a wonderful growth, and the weather to cure the hay could not have been better. The ground has been dry and the sun shining hot and the thermometer standing nearly at the top. The boys have forked hay till they don't want to see any more hay. We have about fifteen acres more to cut, and they will be through, and then they will be happy.

The boys have been faithful in their work and have been real men. They work hard and do lots of hard work, but they do it in play and really enjoy it. This year the Lord gave us four acres of fine hay free. Last year we had a four acre lot in beans, and we sowed it in wheat. A good stand of beans came up in the wheat, and we harvested a good crop of wheat and let the beans grow. We cut five tons of extra good hay from this same land.

Our school opens Monday. Then it will be books, tablets, pencils, and many other things. It takes a lot of supplies for 105 children. We use every means we know to preserve every book and tablet. We check every child on the supplies we give him and make him account for them. If he loses a book or a tablet, we must know the reason why?

Our Sunday Schools and friends have stood by us loyally this year; but the offerings have been smaller than in former years, and we have cut our expenses as low as we can well cut them, and still our income is far less than expenses. But we are looking forward to our Thanksgiving Offering pulling us through. Let every Sunday School come to our rescue. If we ever needed your support, we need it now. Don't forget the fatherless.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR SEPTEMBER 24, 1931.

Brought forward $10,858.28
Sunday School Monthly Offerings:

North Carolina and Virginia Conference:
Berea $ 3.00
Long's Chapel 1.37
Shallow Ford 2.15
Mt. Zion 1.80
Berea 2.54
United, Lynchburg 2.88
Howard's Chapel 2.00
Hines Chapel 3.72
Third Ave., Danville 3.93
Union (Va.) 4.35

27.74

Eastern North Carolina Conference:

Elam $ 5.23
Piney Plains 6.16
Shallow Well 1.00
Wake Chapel 6.25
Cary 2.26

20.90

Western North Carolina Conference:

Ether $.75
Biscoe 2.68
Randleman 1.20
Pleasant Ridge 2.89
Pleasant Cross 2.00

9.52

Eastern Virginia Conference:

First Richmond $ 4.93
Rosemont 8.34
Johnson's Grove57

Windsor	4.41
Wakefield	2.50
		20.75
Valley Virginia Central Conference:
Palmyra	$ 1.44
Dry Run	3.88
Bethlehem	2.17
		11.78
Alabama Conference:
Noon Day	$ 1.00
Mt. Zion	3.20
		4.20
Special Offerings.
Mr. Walter Blizzard, sup. of child ..	$ 5.00
R. J. Morgan sup. Morgan child ..	30.00
W. A. Lee, support of children ...	7:50
A Friend, Durham, N. C.	15.00
L. S. Holt Endowment Fund	150.00
		207.50
Total for the week	$ 302.39
Grand total	$11,160.67

NOTICE.

To the Ministers and Churches of the Alabama Christian Conference.—

The next session of the Conference will meet at Pisgah, Alabama, on Tuesday after the second Sunday in October, at 3 o'clock p. m., instead of at 10 a. m. This will give our ministers and delegates time to get to the Conference without undue worry or anxiety. Now let every minister get ready to go, and let every Church prepare to send a delegation. Where two or more of the churches are conveniently located, they might divide the expenses, which will be a small item, and every church can be represented.

G. D. HUNT.

Eilers Sunday School Maps.

On a Revolving Adjustable Steel Stand

The first 5 maps
are in Set No. 1,
with stand,
Price $15.00

Set No. 2
8 Maps.
Price $20.00

Fine large Maps. In 6 Colors 36x57, on linen finished Cloth. Mounted on a folding steel stand, which can be regulated, so that Maps may be seen to the best advantage. This set contains data for thorough Bible Study. Its large print and Cheerful Colors makes this set very instructive and attractive. Contains the five thoroughly up to date Maps necessary for the study of Bible History.

New Testament Palestine. — Old Testament Palestine. — Roman empire and Bible Lands, showing Pauls Travels by Colored lines. — Lands of the Old Testament, from the Great Sea, to the Persian Gulf. — The Exodus, Egypt, showing by Colored lines the wanderings of the Israelites.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN,

1536 East Broad Street,

Richmond, Virginia.

ALL
SELF-
PRONOUNCING

Holman Testaments

COMMAND
ATTENTION
AND APPROVAL

Holman Vest-Pocket Testament

Size, 2½x4½ inches

Specimen of Type.

AND the third day there
was a marriage in
Cana of Galilee; and
the mother of Jesus was

The VEST POCKET is, beyond question, the most popular Testament published.

2104. Dark Blue Silk Finished Cloth, with edges colored to match, acid titles. $.50
2103K. Morocco Grained Binding, flexible limp, gold edges and titles.60
2114. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges.85

VEST POCKET TESTAMENT AND PSALMS
2103KP. Morocco Grained Binding, limp, gold titles, round corners, gold edges.70
2114P. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges.90
2115P. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges. 1.10

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS
With all the words of our Lord and Saviour printed in red.
13RL. French Morocco Leather, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, rounded corners, gold edges.90
15RLP. French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, gold title on red panel, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 1.35

Holman Jewel Testament

INDIA PAPER ONLY—Size 2½x4½ inches x¾ inch
The JEWEL is the latest and most attractive Pocket Testament made.
The TYPE is black, bold and larger than that in the famous Vest Pocket edition, and the book itself is smaller.
It is printed exclusively on the famous Holman India paper, noted for its superior quality and unusual tensile strength.
One advantage of this India paper is that the leaves do not cling together.
The size, 2½x4½ inches, is so small that the book practically fits the palm of the hand.

Specimen of Type

ST. MATTHEW 2 The three wise men carrying away into Egypt— ing interpreted is, God
y-lonarefourteen genera- with us.
tions; and from the carry- 24 Then Jesus being ing away into Egypt— raised from sleep did as into Christ are fourteen the angel of the Lord had

5063X. Morocco Grained Binding, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges. $1.00
5015PX. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 1.50
5016PX. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather linings to edge, silk sewed, red under gold edges, with Psalms. 2.60

Holman GEM Testament

POCKET
SIZE
3½x4½
inches

Specimen of Gem Black Faced Type

CHAPTER 23.

THEN spake Jesus to the multitude, and to his disciples,

The GEM TESTAMENT has been steadily growing in popular favor ever since its first appearance.
In size, 3½x4½ inches, it is not much larger than the Vest Pocket. It is also the only Testament of its size with large bold type and pronouncing text.

The edition on India paper is ideal, and we know of no better gift at the price than one in the finer bindings.

4102P. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red burnished edges, with Psalms. $.90
4113. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges. 1.35
4115P. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 1.90

RED LETTER GEM TESTAMENT

4113RL. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges. 1.50
4136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather linings to edge, red under gold edges, with Psalms. 3.00
4136XPRL. Red Letter Edition with Psalms, same binding as 4136XP, but with the Sayings of Christ Printed in Red. 3.25

Old Folks Testament

Extra Large Print

Pica. 16mo. Size, 5¼x7¼x¾ inches

Old folks or those with poor sight will appreciate the advantage of this Testament. The type is a delight to the eye with its wide spacing between the lines.
It is the most readable edition of all large print Testaments.

Specimen of Type.
THE book
of Jesus

PSALMS INCLUDED
2902P. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red edges, with Book of Psalms included. $1.50

THIN BIBLE PAPER EDITIONS
Same Large Print as Above
2913P. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 2.95

RED LETTER EDITION
Same as above, with the Sayings of Christ in Red.
3013PRL. French Morocco Leather, flexible covers, gold side title on red panel, rounded corners, red under gold edges, and with Book of Psalms included. 3.10

All styles sent postpaid at above prices

PROGRAM OF THE GEORGIA AND ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

The Eighty Sixth Annual Session of the Georgia and Alabama Christian Conference will meet with the East LaGrange Christian Church, LaGrange, Georgia, Tuesday and Wednesday, October 6-7, 1931.

The program follows.

FIRST DAY—MORNING SESSION.

Called to order at 10:30 o'clock.
Devotionals by the President.
Words of Welcome—Richard Vinson.
Response—Rev. C. C. Hamilton.
Report of the Executive Committee.
Adjourn for Lunch at noon.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Called to order at 1:30 o'clock.
Devotionals by Rev. A. H. Sheppard.
Report on Education—Rev. W. C. Carpenter, Chairman.
Address by Dr. Frank E. Jenkins.
Report of Christian Orphanage—Chas. D. Johnston, Superintendent.
Reading of Ministerial and Church Reports.
Business Session.
Adjournment.

EVENING SESSION.

Meeting of the Missionary Association, Rev. C. W. Hanson, President, at 7:30 o'clock.

Devotionals by Rev. W. T. Crowder.
Report on Superannuation—Rev. A. H. Sheppard, Chairman.
Report on Moral Reform—Rev. H. M. Gray, Chairman.
Report on Foreign Missions—Rev. T. W. Gray, Chairman.
Address by Dr. J. O. Atkinson.
Preaching by Rev. G. D. Hunt.
Adjourn for Lunch.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Devotionals by Rev. Bro. Princee.
Report on Religious Literature—Rev. W. C. Carpenter, Chairman.
Report on Sunday Schools and C. E. Societies—Rev. C. W. Hanson, Chairman.
Report on Home Missions—Rev. J. D. Dollar, Chairman of the Board.

The Program will be interspersed with music.

We hope to have every church in the Conference represented by a full delegation. Let's do our best on our apportionments.

Come praying that the Lord may direct in all that may be done, that we may have a real feast of spiritual things.

Please come on time, and come to stay until the work is finished.

J. D. DOLLAR, President,
MRS. J. O. MABRY, Secretary.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

His wife and two children were sick; one of the children was in the hospital.

And yet this is not a "hard-luck story." But for the facts stated, certain valuable lessons might never have been learned.

A married student at the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, was confessing that he had not known how to "rest in the Lord, and wait patiently for him." He did not know the meaning of praying with assurance.

"We had been fortunate in our family for a number of years," he said, "in escaping sickness and other disabilities requiring the service of a physician. For this reason, and because of our limited income, we budgeted but a small sum to our health account.

Living as carefully as possible, there yet was barely enough to meet necessary expenses from month to month. How could a formidable medical and hospital bill be met?

"Satan made capital of our concern," he testifies, "and before long we were in the slough of despond. No extra work was available, and no source of added income apparent. Praying continued for several days, but these prayers were too sadly faltering and lacking in confidence. Nevertheless, victory was ahead.

"One morning God gave us a spirit of assurance that all our needs would be met. From that hour we had perfect rest and confidence."

Four days later a letter came to hand, bearing the date of the day of blessed assurance, written by a young man whom the student had some years before influenced in a Sunday School class of which he was teacher. This distant friend indicated that he seemed led of the Lord to forward a check to his former teacher, though he knew nothing of the great need. The enclosed check was for a sum sufficient to cover all the expenses chargeable to sickness.

Philippians 4-19 glows with a new radiance for his family.

The best evidence of the Bible's being the Word of God is found between its covers. It proves itself.—Charles Hodges.

ELON COLLEGE

AN ACCREDITED COLLEGE

of the

CONGREGATIONAL CHRISTIAN CHURCHES OF THE SOUTHEAST

ELON was founded to train Christian leaders for the New South.

ELON has done its task well—one graduate in seven being in the Christian ministry. The other six express Christian leadership in the various professions and vocations. Experience teaches that spiritual leadership must be indigenous.

The South is now a New South ready for an inclusive Church, the type of Church for which Elon has stood for forty years and for which she is prepared to produce capable leadership.

With no Church in the community, save the College Auditorium, ELON has practiced Christian Union for faculty, students, and community for four decades.

Its contribution to Christian Education is nationally known and approved.

Its Christian Education Building, providing laboratory facilities for religious leadership training, is unique and is the first college building of its type in the world.

ELON confines itself to undergraduate liberal arts work with that religious emphasis which befits the Christian College.

In ELON the Congregational-Christian Church has an asset of marvelous hopefulness.

The South needs her Yale, her Oberlin, her Carleton, her Pomona for the intellectual leadership of the United Church. Many regard ELON as strategically located and spiritually endowed to become such a center of illumination and leadership training.

THE CHRISTIAN EDUCATION BUILDING

The Heart of the Elon Program of Christian Education.

C. M. CANNON, Registrar

Elon College, - - - - North Carolina

Home Atmosphere—Reasonable Rates—Clean Athletics—Christian Spirit.

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the kingdom, as represented by the Congregational-Christian Church.

BOARD OF EDITORS.

J. O. ATKINSON, D. D.....Editor
E. C. GILLETTE, D. D.....Associate
W. W. STALEY, D. D.....Associate
W. A. HARPER, LL.D.....Associate
REV. S. C. HARRELL.....Associate
J. E. McCAULEY.....Associate
W. C. WICKER, D. D.....News Editor
P. J. KERNODLE.....Managing Editor
C. D. JOHNSTON.....Circulation Manager

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Year$2.00
Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Postoffice, at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to The Christian Sun, C. D. Johnston, Circulation Manager, Elon College, N. C.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads" 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

Notices: Obituary and marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge; all over 100 words at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

OBITUARIES.

COX.

Manley N. Cox was born March 16, 1884, and died Aug. 19, 1931. Age 46 years, 5 months and 3 days.

He leaves a father and mother and three sisters. Manley was afflicted for 25 years and for a good while almost helpless, but he was patient in all his affliction. His parents miss him so much. There was a large congregation at the funeral. He had been a member of Pleasant Ridge Christian Church many years. He was laid to rest beneath a great mound of flowers. Funeral was conducted by the writer, assisted by H. U. Cox.

JNO. M. ALLEN.

THOMPSON.

Mrs. Jessie Anna Smith-Thompson fell on sleep on September 5, 1931. Next November 14th, she would have been 62 years of age.

She and Mr. R. A. Thompson were married May 18, 1898.

She leaves to mourn their loss, her husband and two sisters, Mrs. D. D.

Sutton of Altamahaw, N. C., and Mrs. Richard Simpson of Burlington, N. C.

She was a loyal and devoted member of Bethlehem Christian Church, Altamahaw, N. C., which church she joined in early girlhood.

She was a charter member of the Ladies' Aid Society, and a teacher of the primary Sunday School class for many years. To all of these she was devoted until death.

She taught the children of those who went to Sunday School to her in their childhood, and truly she now lives in the lives of many of the present membership of Bethlehem, as well as the class she has just left.

A godly woman has gone. Who can fill her place? She is not dead, but sleepeth.

It was said that some fifteen hundred people were at her burial. At these rites

I was aided by Revs. Frank Apple, a former pastor, A. P. Hurst, and U. G. Bethea.

The grave was covered with wreaths of beautiful flowers, declaring the resurrection, and saying "She is not dead, but sleepeth."

J. W. PATTON.

666

LIQUID or TABLETS

Relieves a Headache or Neuralgia in 30 minutes, checks a Cold the first day, and checks Malaria in three days.

666 Salve for Baby's Cold

PIEDMONT COLLEGE

A SENIOR COEDUCATIONAL INSTITUTION

OFFERS

Standard Courses leading to the usual Academic Degrees; also Courses in Music and Home Economics.

Thorough Instruction in Speech and in the Commercial Branches.

A beautiful location in the "Foothills of the Blue Ridge"; altitude of 1,500 feet; spring waters and invigorating climatic conditions.

An enviable reputation for sound scholarship, wholesome student life and Christian Idealism.

Expenses exceptionally light: $318.50 for the College Year. For Catalogue, write,

JONATHAN C. ROGERS, Dean,
Demorest, Georgia

THE CONGREGATIONAL LATIN-AMERICAN INSTITUTE AND PILGRIM LATIN CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH OF WEST TAMPA, FLA.—

Are helping give the Gospel, which is "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth," to the forty thousand Latin people of Tampa. The evangelical forces working among the foreigners of Tampa are by no means covering the territory sufficiently.

Methodists have six preachers, Baptists two, Presbyterians one, Congregationalists one. Church workers and teachers must be supported for this great missionary work. Send check to

LESLIE S. BRAY, Treas.

Route 4, Box 468, - - Tampa, Fla.

Send boxes of clothing to Mrs. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

For literature, write Rev. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

LARGE PRINT TEACHERS' EDITION FOR ADULTS, TEACHERS AND PREACHERS

and all who would study the Word of God intelligently this edition is unsurpassed. The type is large, clear, Bourgeois, Self-Pronouncing, with liberal space between the words and lines, which makes it easy to read.

Size, 8 x 5 1/2 inches.

Specimen of Type
"From that time Jesus began to preach, and to say, 'I the kingdom of heaven'"

Containing New Copyrighted Helps by most reliable Authorities. A Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, New Colored Maps.

No. 4712. Divinity Circuit Teachers' Bible, French Seal Leather, red under gold edges, Silk Head bands and Silk Marker.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 5.00

No. 812RL. Red Letter Teachers' Bible. The Words of Christ in the New Testament, Old Testament Passages Alluded to by Christ, Various Prophecies Relating to Christ in the Old Testament, etc., all PRINTED IN RED. Binding same as described above and same large Self-Pronouncing type.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 6.00

No. 733X. Holman India Paper, Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 10.65

SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE

FOUR YEAR STANDARD COLLEGE

A Memorial of the Congregational-Christian Union.

FRANK E. JENKINS, Pres.

MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD, Dean

Second Semester will open January 27, 1932, with full provision for beginning courses.

Chartered BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

June 2, 1922

Renamed PIEDMONT JUNIOR COLLEGE

May 18, 1928

Renamed SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE, June 3, 1931

SCHOLARSHIP HIGH

EXPENSES LOW

CHARACTER SUPREME

A Strong Faculty, Educated in 25 Universities and Colleges in 12 States.

Unsectarian, but thoroughly Christian.

For Information about Entrance, write—

DEAN MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD,
WADLEY, ALABAMA.

For Other Information, write—

DR. FRANK E. JENKINS, Acting President,
LA GRANGE, GEORGIA.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Representing the Southern Christian Convention and the Congregational Churches of the Southeast.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY

VOLUME LXXXIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1931.

NUMBER 40.

OUR CHURCH COLLEGE

The call for an extraordinary session of the Southern Christian Convention, carried on this page last week, was issued by the Executive Committee of the Convention at the request of the Board of Trustees of Elon College. This call is important!

The future of our College is at stake! Our forefathers, out of great love for the Church, and with an abiding interest in the ever-widening influence of the Kingdom, founded ELON COLLEGE and gave their sacrificial support to the end of their lives. We who follow in their foot-steps, love the College and are ready to serve. She is looking to us, to every Alumnus and to every member of the Christian Church for help. She challenges us for support and sacrifice. We accept the challenge and offer ourselves, what we have and are. Let every loyal son of the College and of the Church be present at Burlington, N. C., on October 20th, at 10 A. M. Let every individual church in the entire Convention be represented by at least her pastor and one lay delegate.

Anybody can march with the army when there is no battle to be fought; but it takes real soldiers to stand in the thick of the fight.

Any member can vote in Conference, in Convention, and in Trustee Meeting, when there are no personal responsibilities to be assumed; but when service and sacrifices are demanded, character, or the lack of character, is in evidence.

The Christian Church expects every member to do his duty. Let not one among us fail!

Brethren, pray, and pray much, for the future of our Church and her institutions.

L. E. SMITH, President,
The Southern Christian Convention.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Rev. R. A. Whitten, Reidsville, N. C., has been called to the pastorate of Henderson Christian Church for full time service. It is presumed he has accepted.

The North Carolina Women's Missionary Conference will meet at Elon College, October 23rd. Mrs. C. H. Rowland is president, and is planning a very interesting program. All societies in the Conference are urged to send delegates.

Rev. G. D. Hunt, in his Alabama letter this week, tells SUN readers how they may have a better editor. We suggest that this motion of Brother Hunt's be acted upon at the earliest possible date, so that the editor may feel that he is a real preacher and is not entirely "despised and rejected of men." Meanwhile, we are grateful to Brother Hunt for his magnanimous and timely suggestion.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther E. Carlton, and Miss Sadie Boyd, of Paces, Va., were in Richmond last Sunday to attend the closing services of Dr. C. C. Ryan at First Christian Church. We are always glad to have them "back home," but were much distressed to learn that they had asked that Dr. Ryan give them their letters of transfer before he left for Indiana.

In the passing of Bro. J. R. Shepherd, Bethlehem Church loses one of its most faithful and loyal members. Bro. Shepherd died at his home on R. 1, Elon College, following ten days of illness, at the age of 63 years. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. T. J. Green and Dr. J. W. Patton, with burial following in the church cemetery. He is survived by his wife, one daughter and six sons.

About the poorest policy any church can pursue is to do without a pastor till it "catches up with its finance," as if the church could do much financially or spiritually without a pastor and a leader. A church pays a tremendous price sooner or later, and usually sooner, by trying to straighten its finances before it calls a pastor. Usually the result is a worse financial tangle, since a spiritual as well as a financial leader is needed to marshall the hosts of the Lord. Along this line we commend to our readers Dr. E. A. King's "Method Corner" on page three of THE SUN this week.

Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Ryan left Richmond on last Tuesday for Elkhart, Indiana, where Dr. Ryan takes up his duties as minister to the Riverside Christian Church on the first Sunday in October. On the preceding Friday evening, a Farewell Party was given by the members of the Richmond Church in honor of the departing minister and his wife. At this meeting appropriate remembrances were given them, and they were wished Godspeed in their new work. Dr. Ryan preached at both services on Sunday and communion was served at the eleven o'clock service. There was an unusually large attendance at both morning and evening services.

The services of the Elon College Church, Rev. A. W. Hurst, pastor, were peculiarly impressive Sunday at 11 a. m. It was communion day, and all the services led up to that one sweet and solemn sacrament. Seven members were received into church fellowship. The sermon topic was "Worship—the Music." The pastor dwelt especially on what that music could and did, when appropriately selected and properly rendered, add to the spirit of praise and the sanctity of worship; and the choir of 24 voices gave an anthem that was inspiring and led the congregational hymns that were fitting. The church life begins the new school year at Elon most hopefully and auspiciously. The Wednesday night prayer-meeting has been revived, with thirty or more faculty members and townspeople in attendance on each of the three past Wednesday evenings. These prayer meetings the pastor is planning with the same care and attention as his Sunday services. The prayer-meeting, if properly planned and carried out has its place in church and community.

This is the way our Burlington Church goes about raising its budget, according to the Burlington Daily Times: "Members of the First Christian Church are asked to keep in mind that this Sunday is to be annual budget day in this church, at which time every member is asked to make his pledge for the support of the work for the ensuing church year, which will begin the first of November. Plans for this work of raising the budget are about complete, and the hearty co-operation of all is earnestly solicited in this most important matter. For several years what is known as the "Volunteer Plan" has been in use in this church, and the same will be followed again this time. By this plan members should understand that they are to come to the church Sunday afternoon for the purpose of making their pledges instead of having someone come to their homes to receive the pledges as was the custom some years ago. The committee authorized to receive the pledges will be at the church Sunday afternoon between the hours of 2:30 and 5:00 o'clock, during which time members may come at their convenience. Every one, however, is expected to come. Let members show their loyalty by their co-operation."

Rev. J. E. McCauley, who goes on the first Sunday of this month to the pastorate of First Christian Church of Richmond, Va., receives a high tribute from his brethren in the ministry of other pulpits according to the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot, from which we take the following: "The pastors and numerous members of the congregations of four Berkley churches assembled last night with the congregation of the First Christian Church, and passed a resolution expressing their regret at the departure of the Rev. J. E. McCauley, pastor of the latter church, who recently tendered his resignation. Mr. McCauley has accepted the pastorate of the First Christian Church, Richmond. Rev. B. L. Rhodes read the following resolution:

"We, the Protestant ministers of Berkley, have heard with regret the announcement of the resignation of Bro. J. E. McCauley as pastor of the First Christian Church.

"We have delighted in his fellowship, we have noted with pleasure his faithful services as pastor and preacher, we have rejoiced in his broad sympathy, and brotherly co-operation in every good enterprise, and we have learned to love him.

"We pray God's blessings upon the church he has served, and upon the one to which he will shortly go, and upon him as he continues to press forward in the service of our Christ.

"We bid him farewell with the assurance that we shall treasure happy memories of the days spent with him here in the work of the kingdom, and that we wish for him and his loved ones the rich blessings of Heaven through all the years to come."

REVIVAL SERVICES.

The revivals at the churches that I serve have come to a close. We had great meetings at all four churches.

The Carolina Church had nineteen additions, and a great revival of old members.

The Church at Hopedale, had seven members added, and many more professions. Hopedale meetings were conducted by Rev. L. A. Nall of Elon College, N. C.

The meetings at Salem Chapel were conducted by Rev. W. T. Scott, pastor of the United Church at Salisbury, N. C. We had some great preaching at Salem Chapel, but no additions to the church.

The revival at Haw River Church was conducted by Rev. J. L. Neese of Greensboro, assisted by the pastor. We had twenty additions to the church and sixty-two professions. The Master blessed Bro. Neese with one of the greatest revivals that has been held in Haw River, in any church in eighteen years.

Our work in the above four churches for the past year has been a pleasure, and our prayer to God is that we will continue to hold up the high standard of Christian living. We ask the prayers of all Christian people that God will continue to bless our people.

ROY COULTER, Pastor.

HOLY NECK.

Revival services were held at Holy Neck Christian Church, Nansemond County, Va., September 6th to 11th, inclusive, with two services each day. Rev. J. G. Truitt, pastor of the First Congregational Christian Church of Dayton, Ohio, was the preacher and leader in these services. His sermons were strong spiritual messages and were a great inspiration to the Christian people to whom his efforts were chiefly directed. There were several new professions and a large number of reconsecrations. Four united with the church.

N. G. NEWMAN, Pastor.

REVIVAL SERVICES.

Eleven members have been received at Mt. Olivet (G) since Conference.

There were nineteen members received at Whisler's Chapel instead of twenty-seven, as was reported. However there were twenty-seven converts.

We are in a revival at Christian Chapel this week. Pray for us.

B. J. EARP,
Pastor.

NOTICE.

The Eastern Virginia Woman's Missionary Conference will meet with the Holland Christian Church Thursday, October 15th. The morning session opens at 10:30.

The pastor of each church is invited, and each society is earnestly requested to meet its requirements, and have a large representation present.

Mrs. F. I. Johnson, President of the Woman's Federated Boards of Foreign Missions of America, will be the speaker.

MRS. W. L. STAGG, Secy.

NOTICE.

The next session of the Alabama Woman's Missionary Conference will meet at Roanoke, Alabama on Sunday, Oct. 13th, at 10 o'clock. Let every church get ready to send a delegate and let each church be represented. We earnestly desire the presence of as many of our ministers as can attend this meeting.

MRS. V. E. KITCHENS, Pres.

CONGREGATIONAL NEWS

REV. E. C. GILLETTE, Editor; REV. F. P. ENSMINGER, and REV. M. J. SWEET, Associates.

BRUCE BARTON contributed an article about his father in a recent number of the Christian Herald. Subject matter and author make it doubly interesting.

MR. P. A. ERVIN, a Smith-Hughes teacher, and Mrs. Ervin, the County Welfare Worker, render invaluable service in this area. They are members of the Community Church at Pleasant Hill.

MISS MILDRED TAYLOR, who worked for the health unit in her Kentucky County, has been doing very effective work in Sunday School organization. She has been assisted by Miss Azilee Johnston.

MISS COGHILL and MISS BONNEY, recently found a neighborhood which had not had services for fifteen years. Young people sixteen or eighteen years old, had not attended Sunday School. A little boy, six years old, walked five miles to see what a Sunday School was like.

DR. W. A. LEATH, of Upper Montclair, New Jersey, recently visited the Corbin and Evarts churches, and endeared himself to their congregations. He plans to return for a week with the churches, as the New Jersey church is interested in this field.

MR. ALLAN KEEDY went with Rev. A. L. DeJarnette from the Blue Ridge Conference to spend the remainder of his time working at Mt. Tabor and at Soddy. One of his adventures in the latter part of the summer was canning large quantities of produce.

MISS HELEN DIZNEY, of China, has her headquarters at Berea, Kentucky, on her vacation from her work as head nurse of the Esther Barton Hospital, Taiku, Shansi, China. She is now speaking in Illinois, but will be available for Kentucky, Tennessee and points in Alabama in the late fall. Miss Dizney is a Tennessean, a graduate of Berea College, and a registered nurse.

THE UNITED CHURCH of LaGrange will hold its first worship service together on Sunday morning, October 4th. Drs. J. O. Atkinson and W. Knighton Bloom, and Pastor-at-large M. J. Sweet, will all be there, and one or two other visitors from out of the State are expected. Every department of a well organized church will be ready to function with courage and great expectancy.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., The people are seeking out the way for a new church. Sunday evening, September 13th, about one hundred people met at the Y. W. C. A. building in an enthusiastic rally. Drs. J. O. Atkinson and W. Knighton Bloom, Pastor-at-large M. J. Sweet, and Rev. W. T. Scott of Salisbury, each had a message. The result was a vote to meet again each Sunday night, for a time, with Mr. Scott as leader and speaker.

MELBOURNE, FLORIDA. This church received special notice at the General Council at Seattle through its delegate, Edward P. Branch, whose picture was printed in one of the leading newspapers of the city. He was singled out as the oldest delegate, being eighty-six years of age, and having traveled over three thousand miles. Mr. Branch has attended many Councils, was once moderator of the Florida Conference, and has shaken hands with every President of the United States since Lincoln. Mr. Branch stopped over at Portland, Oregon, to meet four members of a former Sunday School class of girls he taught when living at Ashland, Oregon, in 1884.

W. C. TURNER, of Evarts, has passed to his reward, loved for his poise and Christian character by the people of Harlan County, Kentucky. "Out of the good treasury of his heart," Deacon Turner brought good things for his county and his people. He was schooled with the old Black Mountain Academy, which the A. M. A. conducted at Evarts for thirty years. The four resident Turner brothers and their families, were the strongest group in the church before the local depression and the general depression, the prohibition fight and the industrial clash. They had resolved to build a new church in Evarts. We hope that the trio can do what the quartette had hoped to accomplish.

SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE, Wadley, Alabama, opened the year with a strong faculty in force, covering three college years. Rev. E. H. Sperow, who was pastor at Columbia, S. C., where he did a great work, is a professor and chaplain. Miss Verla Barnett was a leader at the college last year. She did splendid work as a summer worker in East and North Alabama. It was a custom, at the end of her Daily Vacation Bible schools, to have her sit in front of the church organ and have the children file by her and drop a coin in her lap. Where the children did not have any money to give, each one dropped a flower. The cash offerings cared for her travel expenses from place to place.

REV. W. CARL PARKER has not had his ardor dampened by six years of service at Center Church, Atlanta. He is a big fellow, with a winning smile which will not come off. These Center folks know this, but they made him smile as never before when they celebrated his "sixth birthday" with the church, recently. Crowds packed the church, and Carl gave one of his best sermons, to the delight of all. His theme was "Co-operative Service," which emphasized the well-known and very important fact that service comes not alone by a faithful ministry, but by both that and hearty and united action of the people. There were about five hundred people present. After the fine morning service, a feast of good things, prepared by the ladies, made everybody happy.

REV. FLORENCE LOWES SQUIRES has been called to the pastorate of the First Congregational Church of Columbia, South Carolina, and has begun work there. Mrs. Squires is a graduate of the Collegiate of Brantford, Ontario, and also of normal school. Graduating from Gordon College, Boston, she then Miss Lowes became assistant to the pastor of a large institutional church in New Haven, Conn. She later entered Harvard seminary, graduating from the department of religious pedagogy in 1914. In 1915, Miss Lowes became the bride of the Rev. Norman J. Squires. Since the death of Mr. Squires in 1919, Mrs. Squires took further training for the ministry in the Divinity School of Yale University. She was ordained April 25, 1924, and since that time has done good service.

REVS. E. E. WHITE and ABRAM NIGHTINGALE are leaders in church and community services on the Cumberland Plateau, Tennessee. The first mentioned is secretary of the Community Workers' Conference, which had its annual meeting at Pleasant Hill Academy, and its luncheon in the new Community House of the church. His extension work on the plateau is receiving national recognition in being placed as one of the objects for the Thank Offering from the churches next spring. He has been especially interested in boys work this summer. Rev. Nightingale has led a force of community workers in canning large quantities of fruits and vegetables for winter use of the poor. Religious leaders, State and county officers, and community-minded citizens make this Community Workers' Conference significant.

METHODS CORNER

BY REV. ELISHA A. KING, D. D.

Miami Beach, Fla.

It is sometimes a shame to write and talk so much about money in connection with church work, but somehow or other the way we are organized and the program we seek to carry out requires money. Then, of course, giving is a Christian grace and ought to be cultivated and practiced. A church cannot do its best work without ample financial support.

We heard the other day of two churches that are not going to call pastors because they have, or think they have, no money to pay them. Very likely there are laymen in the church who think they can carry on their program somehow, but it is not a good policy. Every church needs a leader who is trained and able to direct the enterprise, or else the church might as well unite with some other church and help to make at least one of them a success.

A new minister, a young man with little experience, faces a situation that startles him! Soon after being called and after beginning work, he finds that the church is in a serious financial difficulty. The treasury is about empty. What shall he do?

The new minister may sit back and say, "Well, it isn't up to me to solve this problem. I am here to look after the spiritual welfare of the people. It is the business of the trustees to bring this matter to a successful issue." I suppose this is true in theory, and perhaps right in principle. However, the minister is there as a leader, and the people have a right to think he has been trained to lead. He should have some ideas on the subject.

Suppose such a case exists now somewhere. I would suggest that the minister arrange with the proper church officers for a Rally Day, or a Home-Coming Day, or if later in November a Thanksgiving Day service. Letters could be sent to every available person in the community, inviting them to come. A frank statement of the financial need of the church should be made in the letter. A return addressed envelope should be enclosed for a reply. Members and friends should get busy with the publicity. Make it a great event. I do not think the minister should preach a sermon on giving or make an appeal for money. Let him prepare and preach the best sermon possible on some vital spiritual need and put his whole soul into it. Let one of the trustees "lift the offering," calling for the envelopes that have been sent out, and say what he may please about the need for financial support. In this way the minister has exercised his duty in leadership, he has co-operated with the trustees and thrown himself into the life of the church. Results will come, they are bound to come, and no one can stop them. When the congregation and the community see evidence of concerted effort upon the part of the minister and the officials, they will respond.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR

J. O. ATKINSON, ELON COLLEGE, N. C.

ASSOCIATE EDITOR

E. C. GILLETTE

117 W. Forsyth Street, Jacksonville, Fla.

CONTRIBUTING EDITORS

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

S. C. HARRELL

J. E. McCAULEY

NEWS EDITOR

W. C. WICKER

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

THE SOUTHERN CONVENTION AND ELON COLLEGE.

The call from the Executive Committee in last week's SUN for the Southern Christian Convention to assemble in extraordinary session at Burlington, N. C., on October 20th, should have the care and deep concern of every member of the Convention, and of every friend of Elon College.

Calling this extraordinary session of the Convention to consider Elon College has a fair and fine precedent, since it was in an extraordinary session of the same body that the College had its birth and was started on its pilgrimage through the years. This extraordinary session that mothered Elon, assembled in New Providence Church, Graham, N. C., September 11, 1888, and was presided over by Rev. W. W. Staley, with Rev. J. P. Barrett, secretary pro tem. The session went for four days, the chief, almost the only consideration being the establishment by the Convention "upon a permanent basis an institution of high grade for the purpose of promoting education, morality and religion."

It was in this extraordinary session that a Board of Trustees of fifteen members was elected "to take charge of the enterprise, and that the entire control and management of the (proposed) College shall be entrusted to and exercised by said Board of Trustees." For the guidance of said Board of Trustees, and for the purpose of "setting up the work in order, we submit a Constitution and By-Laws."

The Constitution adopted at this extraordinary session began, "Article I. The said College, with all its appurtenances, shall be owned by the General (Southern) Convention of the Christian Church.

"Article II. The affairs of the institution shall be under the management of a Board of fifteen Trustees, who shall be members of the Christian Church."

It was at this extraordinary session also that the Trustees of the (proposed) College were instructed to obtain a charter from the "next Legislature of the State in which it may be located," and a committee was appointed to "visit, as a body, each place seeking this College, with full power to choose or select." It was the committee appointed at this time that finally selected the present location and name of Elon College.

Of the original Board of fifteen members elected at the extraordinary session of the Convention in 1888, four still survive: J. H. Harden, Graham, N. C.; P. J. Kernodle, Richmond, Va.; E. E. Holland, and W. W. Staley, Suffolk, Va., and three of the four are at present Trustees of the College.

With what persistence and wisdom these fifteen Trustees acted may be judged by the fact that within two years from the date of their election, a site for the College was selected, a charter obtained, buildings were erected, and on September 1, 1890, two years, lacking twelve days of their election, Elon College was formally opened for students, and its first term had begun.

Bear in mind that that Convention which assembled in 1888 had no land, no property, no money with which to begin. It began on faith and courage and prayer. A supreme need was felt, and our Convention arose through noble sacrifice and service to meet that need.

Once more our Convention faces a crisis. Once more we realize a supreme need. If the Church needed a Christian College in 1888, it needs one a hundred fold more today. Its contribution to the Church, of which it is a vital and necessary part, has been invaluable, beyond all computation, and is worth all that it has cost, and more, in service and in sacrifice.

Now if the Convention, when its entire church membership totaled eleven thousand, two hundred, seventy-five (11,275), had the faith and the courage to build a college, beginning with not a foot of land, not a dollar in money, with what greater courage and stronger faith it should now face the fact of saving its college, paying it out of debt, establishing it upon a firm and solid financial foundation, when the church membership of the Convention is over thirty-two thousand—nearly three times what it was in numbers, and many fold what it was in wealth and resources forty-three years ago. Or, as Dr. W. W. Staley said recently, "If we could begin with nothing in 1888 and build a college, it is folly to think we cannot now in 1931, save the college and have, and carry it on to greater heights of service and usefulness."

This, then, the extraordinary session of the Convention will face when it assembles in Burlington on October 20, 1931, as its predecessor faced a far more difficult and heroic task at Graham, N. C., September 11, 1888. May God help us now as He helped those heroic souls then.

J. O. A.

"THE CHRISTIAN SUN."

THE CHRISTIAN SUN, founded by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr, in 1844, is in its 84th year, and its weekly visits have done great things for the Christian Church. Wherever it has been taken and read, active and loyal families of the Christian Church have been developed. What the paper needs is more subscribers and regular payment of subscriptions. Daily papers are not sent to subscribers who do not pay. Church papers are too good, or too indulgent with subscribers; and subscribers overlook the matter and get behind in payment of subscriptions. It is too good on the one hand, and too forgetful on the other hand. Both ought to improve, and papers ought to be paid for, as they cannot be printed and mailed to subscribers on credit. The Government does nothing on credit in the Post Office Department. A letter will not go without a stamp; and a stamp cannot be bought on credit, and the postage has to be paid on every single copy of THE SUN before it leaves the post-office. A preacher cannot buy a stamp except by paying two cents in cash; and that is the way all small business should be conducted, on a cash basis.

A church paper should not be sent and received for one year or two years, unless it is paid for. Reader, look up your last payment for THE SUN, and send the money before you forget it.

It is reported that there are three hundred subscribers to THE CHRISTIAN SUN in the Eastern Virginia Christian Conference, who are in arrears; and, no doubt, it is equally as bad in the other Conferences. It would be a great help, if all those who are behind in payment of their subscriptions would send in what they owe, and thus relieve the strain on the paper. A cloud can get large enough and black enough to obscure the sun; and enough of subscribers might get behind in payment of subscriptions to make a cloud black enough and large enough to put out the light of THE CHRISTIAN SUN; but SUN subscribers are not of that type. They will rally to THE SUN, and will send in their $2.00, or $1.00, or $4.00, or whatever they owe, and make THE SUN shine brighter and the editor and publisher feel brighter, and keep the good work going on. To get a good church paper fifty weeks for $2.00 is cheaper than farm products, because the editors and other writers for THE SUN get no pay.

W. W. S.

WHAT THE NEW BIRTH IS NOT.

There is a distinction between a moral and a spiritual man. A moral man is not necessarily a spiritual man. Neither does morality indicate a new birth. Nicodemus was a moral man. If he had not been a moral man, he could not have maintained his standard as a Pharisee. Yet, the Master said unto him, "Ye must be born again."

The new birth is not just reformation. It is possible for a man to quit his evil habits because it is undermining his health. It is possible for him to quit his evil habits for a business purpose. Then in the last place, it is possible for him to quit because of the loss of his social standing in the community if he does not reform. But the individual who is born of the spirit will reform because of his relation to God. When he is born of the spirit, he will be moral because of that relation. "Let the wicked forsake his ways, and the unrighteous man his thoughts, and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon." (Isaiah 55:7.)

To quit a fault is not enough. But when one has reformed, as a result of being touched by the spirit, then reformation and morality follow.

The new birth is not orthodox faith. One may believe in the government and principles of the Christian Church, subscribe to the belief of the Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian, Episcopal, one or all of the churches, and then be lost. It is not the belief in a creed but the relation of the life of the individual with the life of Christ that constitutes the new birth.

J. E. McC.

Love is said to make the world go 'round; hence, if you want to be powerful, love others and find joy in serving them.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

BY DR. W. C. WICKER.

SOUTHERN CONVENTION CALLED.—

An extraordinary session of the Southern Christian Convention is called to meet on October 20th, at Burlington, N. C., to consider the needs of Elon College, and every delegate, minister and friend of the college should plan to be present and contribute his influence and support to our church and college in this time of stress and strain and economic depression.

OPPOSITION TO WAR BY YOUNG MEN.—

The following declaration has been signed by 3,000 young men in Sweden: "I pledge myself not to take part in or support any kind of war, either between nations or between my fellow citizens, and to work for total disarmament, for the removal of all causes of war, and for a new social and international order, founded upon the pacifist principle of cooperation in the common good." With such a principle governing the young men of a nation, it is headed toward the principles of Christianity as a national policy, quite unlike our country which denies citizenship to those who refuse to take up arms in warfare with other nations to those who seek to become naturalized citizens even though they are Christian gentlemen in all other respects.

PRISON REFORM.—

Sanford Bates, Director of the Bureau of Prisons, in his order to the architects who designed the United States Southwestern Reformatory to be built at El Reno, Oklahoma, this year, called for: no prison walls, rooms instead of cells, an institution having more the appearance of an average small college than a prison. The institution will cost three million dollars, and will provide housing facilities for about twelve hundred persons between seventeen and thirty years of age. There is provided a school building, also an auditorium, a gymnasium and mechanical shops building. The style of architecture is to be early colonial. Buildings will be arranged about an oval, and dormitories spaced about this oval will house most of the inmates.

THE RELIGIOUS MOOD IN EUROPE.—

Bishop George Craig Stewart recently returned from a two months' visit to Europe, reports that he believes that "better times are ahead," and sees the critical experiences of past months as having impressed the nations abroad that "all nations are interdependent and that there is a new spiritual vitality to be found abroad, especially in Germany, where the churches are crowded. "I am happy to report," he said, "that a revival of religious interest and feeling seems to be under way in Europe. I attended many churches that were filled to the doors. This spiritual quickening is the natural outcome of a period of depression and anxiety, making people feel their own insufficiency and their need of God." If people in America would turn to spiritual improvement rather than to complaining when times of depression come, our national life would be greatly improved. It seems that we are too materialistic in our interests to look to "the hills whence cometh our strength."

"WHAT THE CHURCH SHOULD DO."—

The Churchman recently carried a symposium on "What the Church Should Do" toward steady- ing and serving the social order this year. Among those participating were Lawson Purdy, head of the charity organizations in New York City; C.

Rankin Barnes of the Episcopal department of Christian Social Service; Rev. Samuel Tyler of St. Luke's Church, Rochester, N. Y.; Rev. Benjamin Brewster, Bishop of Maine, and Rev. John H. Mellish of the Church of the Holy Trinity, New York City. Among the suggestions offered by them were these: Payment of wages on part-time as a substitute for relief funds; insistence that human values be kept uppermost; that it is a time for the practice of economy regarding luxuries and well-considered spending for staple commodities; persistent education of public opinion toward a recognition of social interdependence. With such a policy and practice as here outlined, churches would not have to curtail their support for the church and the already-too-poorly-supported ministry. Too many Christian people wish to continue their luxuries and begin the practice of economy by retrenching on church contributions.

GERMANY IN DISTRESS.—

In an interview reported in the Methodist Recorder, of London, Bishop Nuelson, who is in charge of Methodist work in central Europe, utters this warning: "If Germany goes communist, God help Europe!" Being asked how Germany might be saved, he said: "The first step is to change the clause in the Versailles treaty fixing the sole guilt for the war upon the German people. The clause rankles in their souls and embitters the whole nation. My firm personal conviction is that no settlement of permanent value can be reared on a foundation that is an untruth. Eliminate that unjust statement or admission, and you clear the ground for building up a real reconciliation based on truth and justice. This is the view I hold with the deepest and firmest conviction, and it is shared by all our Methodist people." Bishop Nuelson spoke at the World's Sunday School Convention at Zurich about his work for Methodism in Europe and said that he would have to speak about fourteen languages to preach to all the people over whom he was bishop, and he should have very definite ideas about the consensus of opinion of the Methodists there about the World War.

RETURN TO GOD IS WORLD'S NEED.—

"When the nations of the world get away from God, they always go down," was the word of warning and advice given by Rev. Cortland Myers of Los Angeles, in a sermon preached on September 14th, at First Baptist Church, New York City. "All sorts of remedies have been suggested to end the present universal depression," said Dr. Myers. "Some suggest optimism as a cure; others say that depressions come in cycles. No, it is something deeper than these. Nor can we blame the depression on the war. This country, and the rest of the world, will have to come back to God, and then only will the wrongs be righted. You may say that this is not political economy—but it is the deepest political economy in the world." If there is any reason to depend on God for anything, at any time and under any circumstances, the present time of depression resulting in suffering for multitudes should call the nation to a keen sense of dependence upon the power and wisdom and goodness of God, whose Christ said, "Consider the lilies of the field how they grow, they toil not, neither do they spin"; and yet your heavenly Father clothes them. Will He not more care for you?

KINGDOM OF GOD MOVEMENT.—

The Kingdom of God Movement is entering that phase in Japan which Mr. Kagawa regards as crucial in striving to meet the religious, social and economic needs of modern Japan. Mutual aid has always been the key to Kagawa's program of redemption. According to a recent article from his pen, he had hope soon to launch among the Christians of the empire a system of cooperative production, distribution, credit and consumption which would introduce them to and gradually educate them in social rather than competitive economic order. Finding his colleagues not yet ready for such a radical departure from custom, he has more recently embarked upon what he chooses to call the "Kingdom of God in Medicine," through which he eventually hopes to enlist the leaders and the laity of the churches in a program of mutual aid in sickness insurance, old age pensions, child welfare, maternity allowances, unemployment compensation, and thence to the organization of "producers' utility, credit, and consumers' cooperative unions." The first step in this procedure is the establishment of a series of cooperative hospitals and clinics in Tokyo and other cities, with the contributed services of Christian physicians of ability and consecration. Already four of the country's finest specialists have volunteered in this capacity, and from September the program will be in operation, with future developments as they may come.

OUT FISHING.

By HARRY LEE BURGESS.

"A feller isn't thinkin' men—
out fishin';

His thoughts are mostly clean—
out fishin';

He doesn't knock his fellow-men;
Or harbor any grudges then;
A feller's at his finest when—
out fishin'.

The rich are comrads to the poor—
out fishin';

All brothers of a common lure—
out fishin';

The urchin with the pin and string;
Can chum with millionaire and king;
Vain pride is a forgotten thing—
out fishin'.

A fellow gets a chance to dream—
out fishin';

He learns the beauties of the stream—
out fishin';

An' he can wash his soul in air
That isn't foul with selfish care
An' relish plain and simple fare—
out fishin'.

A fellow's glad to be a friend—
out fishin';

A helpin' hand he'll always lend—
out fishin';

The brotherhood of rod and line
An' sky an' stream is always fine;
Men come real close to God's design—
out fishin'.

A fellow isn't plotting schemes—
out fishin';

He's only busy with his dreams—
out fishin';

His livery is a coat of tan
His creed to do the best he can;
A fellow's always mostly man—
out fishin'.

—The International Journal of Religious Education, with permission.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

Elon College is now in its forty-second year, with as many students as last year. People ask me if I think Elon College will continue to go on in its work. My answer is, that it will continue its good work. An institution with a million dollars invested could not afford to close. It is the property of the Southern Christian Convention, represents its educational purposes, its religious aspirations, and its means of progress. It was not founded for show, but for work; and the ministers in the pulpits of the Christian Churches of the South, and some in the northern states, as well, are doing a work that reflects credit upon Elon College as a Christian institution. The churches have made more progress since their pulpits have been occupied by graduates of Elon College than ever before. Many of her graduates are doing excellent work in Sunday Schools, and as teachers in public schools, besides doing work in professional and domestic positions.

The extra session of the Southern Christian Convention, to be held in Burlington, N. C., on October 20th, ought to be attended by all who are members by election, and by many others who should go and then return to their Conferences with a message of inspiration and new hope. In that way the true situation and plans for the future would get into the mind of the membership of the entire constituency of the Southern Christian Convention.

What the College needs is the loyalty of the Conferences, churches and members, and, especially, the loyal and active support of the pastors. Nothing helps a pastor's salary as much as real service for the Institutions of the Church. When he goes to the limit in the interest of others, his church will go to their limit to support him in his work.

There is another angle to this question of what is to be the future of Elon College; and that is the monetary question. A few facts should inspire confidence and liberality to the institution. The property has cost at least a million dollars. Much of that has been given by individuals, and some of them not identified with the Southern Christian Convention. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been given by individuals and others than members of the Christian Church. The church, through its churches, has not given as much as these outside contributors. A thorough investigation of the financial history of the institution would show that others have given more money to Elon than the church, as a church, has given; and yet, the legal title of the property is in the Southern Christian Convention. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been given to the college by others, and the title is in the Convention. What the College needs, now, is for the Convention to unite and raise money enough to pay off the debts and thereby show real appreciation of what other bighearted individuals and organizations have done. Others have been generous, while we have been slow in giving what the College needed.

Again, there are graduates of Elon, who as pastors have done more for their churches than their churches have done for Elon. Gratitude, as well as loyalty, owes an unpaid debt to Elon, and now is the time to begin to do for others and Elon what they have done for the church. The church is able to do, what she needs is faith!

W. W. STALEY.

FROM ALABAMA.

Sunday, September 13th, was my last appointment at Richland and Red Hill churches, in the Georgia and Alabama Conference, before the conference convenes in annual session. We had a pleasant service at each church.

The Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Society of the Richland Church have missed only one or two meetings during the past year. They are not largely attended, but they are doing fine work. I have rarely seen a more loyal and appreciative people; not large, but faithful; not rich but constant; never overlooking the real need of the church or pastor. It is a delight to see the loyalty of the women of the church. They attend it and keep it as neat as a parlor, God bless them.

The church at Red Hill is out in the country some four miles away. It has been a very strong rural church in former days, but now conditions have changed here as in all other rural districts, and the church has suffered in the change, but some remain faithful. God bless them. It has been a pleasure to serve them, and to preach to them this year.

The heart of the pastor was made glad at the close of the service at Richland Church, Sunday night, when he was invited to the Sunday School room, where he was generously pounded. It was such a complete surprise, that when they began to show me the tokens of their appreciation, I just did not know what to say or how to say it, so I said "Thank you everyone." Among the gifts were flour, lard, syrup, dried fruit, canned fruit, preserves, jelly, rice, etc., all of which is much appreciated.

I wish all of our pastors and some of our editors could be remembered this way. I am sure we would have better preachers, and even better editors.

G. D. HUNT.

REVIVAL MEETING.

Beginning the second Sunday in May, revival services were held for ten days at Biscoe. The interest was good from start to finish, the preaching was done by the pastor. We have received eleven members into the Biscoe Church during the year, and it has really been a good year for the little church. We are aspiring to even greater things for the future, God being our guide.

The services at High Point began on the third Sunday in June. Rev L. A. Nall did the preaching, and his sermons were enjoyed by all who heard him. The meeting was most successful, a goodly number professing faith in Christ, and at the close of the meeting five united with the church. May God bless Bro. Nall.

Revival services at Union Grove began the second Sunday in August. Rev. J. E. Shaw did all of the preaching, and the interest was great all the way through the meeting. Four joined the church and there are others who are expected to join later. The church was greatly revived, for all of which we praise Him.

Beginning the fourth Sunday in August, Bro. Nall began preaching for us at Pleasant Ridge until the fifth Sunday. His messages were wonderfully well accepted by the congregations. The meeting continued till Wednesday night. It closed with forty-four conversions and 18 accessions to the church. All praise to Christ.

The meeting at Ether Christian Church began the second Sunday in September, Rev. J. E. Shaw doing most of the preaching. There was good interest shown from start to finish and several were converted during the meeting, six of whom united with the church.

JOHN M. ALLRED,
Pastor.

FIELD NOTES.

We held our protracted meeting at Bennett, beginning the third Sunday in August, with Rev. J. F. Apple of Elon College doing the preaching, which was very much appreciated by all who heard him.

We received five members at the close of the meeting and two have joined since. We think we would have had even larger results but we were almost rained out the last two days.

Rev. R. A. Whitten was with us at Pleasant Hill and did the preaching beginning the first Sunday in September. There were nineteen professions, thirteen of whom joined the church. Bro. Whitten did some splendid preaching, and large congregations were present, especially at night, and all seemed to enjoy the services very much.

Our meeting at Pleasant Grove was held beginning the second Sunday in September. Rev. L. A. Nall of Elon College was with us and did the preaching, to the satisfaction and delight of all who heard. As a result there were sixteen who joined the church at the close of the meeting, and five since, making twenty-one accessions in all.

We are much indebted to the brethren who did us such faithful and effective service, and praise God for the splendid results. In all of these meetings we enjoyed the presence of many of our ministerial brethren.

T. J. GREEN.

Ramseur, N. C.

HOLLAND CHURCH AND THE COLLEGES.

The following young people from the Christian Church, Holland, Va., will attend college, or be in special training the ensuing year: Anna Virginia Britt and Virginia Louise Jay, at Elon College; Norman Daughtry at Ferum Academy; Robert Dalton at the University of Virginia; Charles Howel at Hampden-Sidney College, Redwood Councill at Hargrave Military Academy, Antionette Dalton at Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Francis Jolly at William and Mary, Lyman Holland at William and Mary (Norfolk Branch) Addie Lee Parker and Edrey Holland at Farmville State Teachers College, and Dorothy Daughtry at Emergency Hospital, Easton, Md.

In addition to the above mentioned, the following from this church will be engaged in the teaching profession this year: Misses Sarah Norfleet Daughtrey, Marguerite Holland, Mary Sue Parker, Willie Jackson Everett, and J. P. Dalton, Jr., and Ray Reid. The church is justly proud of these eighteen young people in the realm of higher education and wishes them well in their year's work.

W. M. JAY, Pastor.

REVIVAL AT EURE'S.

Eure's Christian Church brought to a close a wonderful old-time revival on Friday night, September 18th. Rev. E. B. White, the pastor, gave us some good gospel sermons, which were a spiritual blessing to all that heard them. Mr. R. F. Pope, evangelistic singer, of Williamston, N. C., conducted the singing. Mr. Pope is a very enthusiastic worker, and his splendid services rendered were a large addition to the revival. The attendance was good until the close of the meeting. Many re-consecrated their lives to God, and there were several accessions to the church.

MRS. SLUGHTER WARE.

In order to help people, we must be able, ourselves, to trust them.

A GOLD-COAST INVESTMENT.

The investor was an elevator operator in one of the towering apartment buildings of the Gold Coast district in Chicago. When leisure permitted he gave attention to the reading of a book which seemed to hold his interest in an unusual way. He was a student of the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago. The book was the Bible.

One evening a young man drifted into the corridor, seeming in no hurry to leave after visiting a friend in the building. A cozy corridor is to be preferred to a storm-swept pavement.

A conversation was soon thriving between the young men. However it started, it led soon to the question of the student operator, "Friend, are you a Christian?"

"No, I never went in for that business," was the response. "Dad says Christians are narrow-minded, and for me to be decent without becoming a fanatic."

"Don't your parents ever go to church, or read the Bible?"

"No, dad says all church folks are hypocrites, and that the Bible is mostly fables and legends."

The student then drew from his pocket a small Testament, and asked the young man to read II Timothy 3-16 ("All scripture is given by inspiration of God") and I Corinthians 2-14 ("The natural man receiveth not the things of the spirit"). He became interested and began turning the pages, reading portions here and there.

Happily, when he left a few minutes later, he had accepted the gift of a Testament, and had signed his name to a Pocket Testament League pledge, promising to carry the Testament with him, and to read at least one chapter each day.

Weeks passed; the incident had been quite forgotten. One evening, in walked the young man again, smiling and affable. Greetings were exchanged, and the operator, eager to know if the pledge had been regarded, asked,

"Well, have you been reading the Testament?"

"Indeed I have, and I have read it through five times!" was the surprising answer.

With a prayer in his heart, the student then advanced a vital inquiry,

"That's fine! Have you signed your name over there within the back cover, declaring your acceptance of the Lord Jesus as your personal Saviour?"

"Not yet, but I am ready to do so, and I came over here tonight so you could see me do it."

Not all Gold Coast investments have turned out so well.

WHAT ONE BIBLE DID.

Commissioner Osias, Philippine commissioner at Washington, lists among the most helpful things missionaries have done in the Philippines is that of "translating and popularizing the Bible." A single instance illustrates its penetrating and transforming effect.

Some years ago a patient in the Tagbilaran Hospital was given a treatment. After recovery he took his Testament with him into the distant mountain barrio. Some time later a colporteur of the American Bible Society was trying to sell Bibles in a nearby hill town, but without success. An inhabitant said to him: "If you want to sell that book, why don't you go up into the hills to a certain barrio, for there they are all asking for that book?"

The colporteur went, asked for the leader of the barrio and found he was the man who had been in the hospital at Tagbilaran. This man had been leading his people in Bible study, and later organized them into a congregation and regular worship was being held every Sunday. Said he:

"We have no teacher, so we just stood up and read the Bible before the people and let it be our teacher. We had no preacher, so we just let the Bible speak to us. We had no prayer-book and none of us knew how to pray, so we just closed our eyes and talked to God."

The total circulation of the Bible in the Philippines since the establishment of the American Bible Society in the island in 1899 has been 2,616,757 volumes.—Missionary Review of the World.

LIVE SOIL FROM DEAD SEA POTASH.

Although the Dead Sea is so full of salt that no fish can live in its waters and nearly all organic life is destroyed, it nevertheless contains a commodity that is life-giving in its very essence, namely potash. Whenever a ton of wheat is grown and harvested it removes from the soil forty-seven pounds of nitrogen, eighteen pounds of phosphoric acid and twelve pounds of potash. If the soil is to be kept from becoming exhausted and unproductive these all-important chemical constituents must be put back into it, and it is by helping in this work that the Dead Sea will soon belie its name and become a life-giver to impoverished acres of farm land in all parts of the world.

American companies have sent out engineers to examine the commercial possibilities of marketing Dead Sea potash and it is expected that their efforts will soon bear fruit and add this practically inexhaustible supply of food for tired soils to the world supply. Hitherto, Germany has had a practical monopoly of the world's potash and the development of new sources, with the probable reduction in price that will result, will be welcomed by farmers everywhere.

The surface of the Dead Sea, which is forty-eight miles long and nineteen miles wide, lies 1,292 feet below sea level. Though 6,500,000 tons of water fall into it every day, the intense heat of the sun evaporates it with extraordinary rapidity, leaving the water that is left filled with mineral substances. Of these, common salt constitutes about seven per cent and potassium chloride, or potash, eight per cent. It is estimated that there are nearly one and a half billion tons of potash contained in the Dead Sea, all of which can be inexpensively evaporated and made ready for use on the farm by simply exposing the water to the heat of the sun.—By Joseph Leeming in Exchange.

OXFORD BIBLES for EVERY NEED

"The Oxford Bible is the Bible par excellence of the world"

THE HOME BIBLE

A Family Bible in Handy Size

An extra large type Oxford Text Bible, containing also, a family register and 12 beautifully colored maps. Size 9 x 5 1/2 inches.

Specimen of Type

16 The LORD is King for ever and ever: the heathen are perished out

Nos.

01600 Superior Cloth, round corners and red edges $2.75

01603 French Morocco, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, head-band, book-mark $4.75

The JUNIOR'S Bible

Self-Pronouncing

With 4,000 Questions and Answers, carefully selected "Aids to Bible Study," 16 beautifully colored and 15 black full-page illustrations, 6 colored maps and a presentation page. Children may readily pronounce correctly difficult Scripture names, as this Bible is self-pronouncing. Size 7 x 4 1/8 x 1 1/4 inches.

Type in Junior's Bible
2 Take the sum of all the of the children of Is'ra-el, years old and upward, thro

Nos.

1815 French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges, head-bands and book-mark. Make some child happy with one of these fine Bibles $2.95

Child's ILLUSTRATED Bible

The beautifully colored illustrations in this new Bible are a delight to the children. It has clear, readable type and yet it measures only 5 1/2 x 3 1/2 inches.

Specimen of Type

a My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the LORD: my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God.

to Mercy and truth gather; righteousness kissed each other.
11 Truth shall spring

No. 02112. French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, gold edges $2.50

Pocket REFERENCE Bible

Has over 50,000 center column references. Measures only 6 3/4 x 4 1/2 inches. (A splendid gift for a young lady.)

Specimen of Type

9 Behold, O God our shield, and look upon the face of thine anointed.
10 For a day in thy courts is better

a Gen. 25. 1.
b Ps. 56. 1.
a 57. 1.
2 or, all

No. 07523x French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $3.25

Concordance Edition

Type and size as No. 07523x, but with a Concordance, subject index and dictionary of Scripture names. An excellent edition for students and Christian workers No. 03272x $5.00

The Oxford imprint in a Bible guarantees satisfaction

OUR LEADER Oxford Concordance Bible

Self-Pronouncing

This beautiful Oxford India paper edition is indeed the ideal Bible for the student, preacher and evangelist. Each proper name and difficult word is divided into syllables and accented, and though printed with large clear type, the volume measures only 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 x 1 1/16 inches.

Specimen of Type

8 9 20 Jē-hōi'-ā-chin was 6 years old when he began t

No. 03671x. Fine Grain Morocco leather, overlapping cover, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head-bands and book-mark $9.50

A UNIQUE GIFT BIBLE

With Basket Weave Binding

The Antique brown calf leather binding has a basket-weave grain, and button clasp. Has overlapping cover, art silk lined, with red under gold edges. With references. Printed on Oxford India paper. Type as Pocket Reference Bible. $5.50

No. 03255x

As No. 03255x, with concordance. No. 03276x $6.50

Oxford TEACHER'S Bibles

Have over 50,000 center column references, and 300 double-column pages of up-to-date helps, conveniently arranged in alphabetical order. Also 32 full-page illustrations, and an indexed atlas of the Bible with 15 beautifully colored maps of Bible lands.

Easy-to-Read-Edition

Size 7 1/4 x 5 x 1 1/2 inches

Specimen of Type

14 Like sheep they are laid in grave: death shall feed on th

Nos. 04153. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges. A durable and hand-some Bible $4.35

Oxford India Paper Edition

Only one inch thick.

0773x. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, head-bands and book-mark. A beautiful gift edition $7.00

RED LETTER Edition

Same size and type as style No. 04453, with same references and helps, but with all the words of Jesus Christ printed in red. White paper edition No. 05453. French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $5.00

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Secretary.

PRAYER.

God of all mercy, open our hearts to Thee and pour out Thy Spirit upon us. Never didst Thou intend that Thy children should live in any unreal or distant relationship with Thee. We plead for reality, for closeness, for conscious and constant triumph in every heart. For our joy Thou gavest salvation and peace, that in us the Author of peace might be glorified. Forgive our groveling. Put sin under our feet and so exalt in us the day of glory that all our reach may be onward and upward. We pray in Jesus' name. Amen.

THE AMERICAN BOARD.

Boston, Mass. Sept. 18th.

The close of the 122nd fiscal year of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions shows a deficit of $74,125.84 reports Frank A. Gaskins, Treasurer. To this sum is added the accumulated debt of the last two years, making a total deficit of $163,733.02. Total receipts from all sources were $2,130,839.26 while expenditures were $2,204,965.10.

"Although the current account shows a deficit for this year, adds Mr. Gaskins, "the total assets of the Board have increased because of capital gifts. The total invested funds are $8,327,609.43 while the property holdings on foreign fields have a valuation of $7,500,000."

The total expenditures for the regular work of the Board, excluding specially designed gifts were less than last year. Appropriations for support of native workers, schools and hospitals in nearly every field were cut and the staff reduced.

There were also approximately $600,000 in gifts to the mission work from the local constituencies and local governments which sum does not appear in the report of gifts received at the Board rooms.

In spite of business and financial depression which naturally caused a shrinkage of income from churches, Board officials are gratified to report that the receipts from individuals were greater than last year showing a deep loyalty on the part of several thousand donors to the work of the Board. "It is interesting to note," said Mr. Gaskins, "that 35 per cent of these gifts from individuals increased over the gifts of the previous year and only 12 1-2 per cent showed a decrease."

Gifts from Congregational and Christian Churches were $66,039.71 less than last year while receipts from Legacies and Matured Conditional Gifts were $27,118.54 less than the estimate based on previous years. A slight increase, however, was shown in gifts from individuals and from income of funds. The amount of specially designated gifts increased over those of last year. These do not aid the regular budget but are contributions to the total amount of work carried on by the missionaries on the field.

The tabulated account of receipts from all sources is as follows: Churches, $902,172.61; Individuals, $181,812.55; Legacies and Matured Conditional Gifts, $409,206.22; Fund, $193,295.74; Specially Designed Gifts, $407,896.45.

The American Board hospitals and dispensaries alone, (which number 82 in Africa, China, Turkey, India, Ceylon and the Philippines) have served over 174,422 sufferers this past year while its Christian schools from Kindergarten to College have taught 91,221 boys and girls. Over 695 native Christian churches with 105,422 regular members have been planted and fostered.

Agricultural instruction, industrial and trade training, social service and playgrounds are big elements in the program of modern missions, as conducted by the American Board.

HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT.

It's made of sun-dried brick. The floor is of smooth, flat stones with the cracks filled in with cement. Jack is Jack Tabede, of Mt. Silinda, South Africa. He made the floor just as he had been taught at the Mission. When Miss Ivy E. Craig visited him he stood beaming, and raising his right hand said dramatically: "This hand—do you see this hand? It has killed many people, many people. I used to love to go out with the impis (warriors). I liked to fight. I would kill people, let them lie, and go on. Then I came up here and the missionaries taught me to use my hands in a better way. I have built this house. It is the fruit of the missionaries. All that I am I owe to the mission."—Missionary Herald (Congregational Christian).

MISSIONARY OFFERING.

WEEK ENDING SEPTEMBER 26, 1931.

Sunday Schools.

Previously acknowledged, since Sept. 1st. . .	$ 203.04
Richland, Ga.	2.00
Holland, Va.	10.00
Randleman, N. C.	1.65
Zion, Sanford, N. C.	1.54
Elm Avenue, Portsmouth, Va.	3.22
Newport News, Va.	10.00
First Christian, Portsmouth, Va.	14.75
Spring Hill, Waverly, Va.	1.00
Berea (Norfolk), Hickory, Va.	3.80
Berea (Nansemond), Driver, Va.	3.68
Biscoe, N. C.	2.16
Mt. Auburn, Manson, N. C.	2.51
Durham, N. C.	13.35
Rosemont, Norfolk, Va.	14.81
Leaksville, Luray, Va.	2.05
Happy Home, Ruffin, N. C.	1.73
Pleasant Hill, Liberty, N. C.	3.75
Mt. Carmel, Carrsville, Va.	1.48

Total $ 296.52

Individual and Church Offerings.

Previously acknowledged	$ 220.29
Mr. and Mrs. Floyd H. Dunn, Lynchburg	2.00

Total $ 222.29

Summary.

Previously acknowledged	$ 762.83
Sunday Schools, Regular	93.48
Individual and Church Offerings	2.00

Total to date $ 858.31

J. O. ATKINSON,
Secretary.

NEWS ITEMS.

By MRS. W. M. JAY, Editor.

Mrs. E. Philip Jones, superintendent of Wilting Workers of the Franklin Christian Church sends us the following. "We have had a most profitable year due to the fact that we have had our meetings each third Sunday at the Sunday School hour. We have reached more children this way and our mission program has gone over in a fine way. We have had two public programs: one at Christmas in the form of a white gifts service, the gifts being sent to the Christian Orphanage, and the annual Children's Day program in June, when the offering received was for missions.

We have met all requirements and look back on our year's work with much satisfaction, planning to do bigger things the coming year.

The following program was put on July 27th at City Park by the Young People's Missionary Society of the First Christian Church, Portsmouth, Va., and proved to be a most interesting service. The pageant presented consisted of 12 characters and the public was invited.

Song—"Tell Me the Old, Old Story."

Scripture—Romans 10:1-15.

Prayer—Mrs. Capelle.

Topic—"Japan."

Our Progress in Japan—Mrs. Caviness.

Pageant—"The Quest of Japan."

Special Music.

Offering for Missions.

Benediction by Mr. Lee.

PROGRAM.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY CONFERENCE OF THE VIRGINIA VALLEY CENTRAL CONGREGATIONAL-CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

DRY RUN CHURCH, OCT. 10, 1931.

Morning Session—10 o'Clock

Hymn.

Scripture Reading—Mrs. R. A. Larrick.

Sentence Prayers—Closed by Rev. B. J. Earp.

Hymn.

Roll Call of Churches and Societies.

Roll Call of Members of Woman's Mission Board.

Address.

Hymn.

Address—"Our Congregational-Christian Work Around the World,"—Miss Mary Preston, Home Missions Secretary of Promotion, New York City.

Offering.

Appointment of Committees.

Prayer—Rev. A. W. Andes.

Afternoon Session.

Hymn.

Prayer—Rev. M. L. Weekley.

Pageant by Winchester Society.

Report of Secretary.

Address, "How Far Does Your Church See?"—Miss Mary Preston.

Reports of Superintendents:

Women's Societies—Mrs. R. C. Myers.

Young People's Societies—Mrs. A. F. Kite.

Cradle Roll—Mrs. E. Lena Rothgeb.

Literature—Miss Ella Pickering.

Spiritual Life—Miss Verdie Showalter.

Report of Treasurer.

Reports of Committees.

Miscellaneous Business.

Adjournment.

MISS ORA SCOTT, President.

PROGRAM.

19TH ANNUAL SESSION OF THE
EASTERN VIRGINIA WOMAN'S MISSIONARY CONFERENCE, HOLLAND CHRISTIAN CHURCH,
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1931.

Theme—"Our Father's Garden."

Morning Session 10:30 o'Clock.

Call to order by President, Mrs. R. T. Bradford.

Hymn—"Take Time to be Holy."

Worship Service—Mrs. O. M. Cockes.

Recognition Period—Districts, departments, visitors and ministers.

President's Greetings.

Report of Treasurer—Mrs. W. V. Leathers.
 Report on Literature—Mrs. J. E. Cartwright.
 Appointment of Committees.
 Offering.
 Vocal Solo—"The Beautiful Garden of Prayer,"
 by Mrs. Vernon Holland.
 Address—"God Planted a Garden and Left It in Our Care," by Mrs. F. I. Johnson, President of Women's Foreign Mission Boards of America.

Afternoon Session—2 o'clock.

Call to order.
 Special Music—Choir of Holland Church.
 Address—"Watering the Garden God Planted,"
 by Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Mission Secretary,
 Southern Convention.
 Memoirs—Mrs. J. W. Manning.
 Reports of Committees.
 Presentation of Banners—Dr. L. E. Smith.
 Closing Service.
*"Father, help us to keep with care
 Thy garden of treasures rich and rare;
 And may our harvest ever be Souls of Thy children, saved for Thee."*

PROGRAM.

ALABAMA WOMAN'S MISSIONARY CONFERENCE.
 FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH, ROANOKE, ALA.
 SUNDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1931.

Theme—"Love."

Morning Session—10 o'clock.

Call to order by President, Mrs. V. E. Kitchens.
 Song—"Let the Lower Lights be Burning."
 Devotionals—Mrs. O. H. Orr.
 Reports of District Superintendents—
 Lineville, Mrs. E. C. Devaughan.
 Wadley, Mrs. G. L. Stephens.
 New Hope, Mrs. O. L. Royston.
 Roanoke, Mrs. G. H. Veazey.
 Reports of Department Superintendents—
 Young People, Mrs. V. L. Carter.
 Willing Workers, Mrs. Paul Beiard.
 Cradle Roll, Mrs. O. L. Royston.
 Literature, Mrs. L. H. Liles.
 Life Membership, Mrs. O. H. Orr.
 Treasurer's Report.
 President's Message.
 Introduction of Visitors.
 Song—"O Love that Will Not Let Me Go."
 Address—Dr. J. O. Atkinson.
 Appointment of Committees.
 Offering.

Afternoon Session—1 o'clock.

Song—"Jesus Call Us."
 Devotionals—Mrs. W. C. Morris.
 Young People's Program—Lead by Mrs. V. L. Carter.
 Address—Miss Sallie Poor.
 "How to Make Our Association More Effective,"
 Miss Marguerite Davison.
 Business Session.

MRS. V. E. KITCHENS,
 President.

MONTHLY MISSIONARY PROGRAM. OCTOBER, 1931.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Opening Thought.

"Consecration and Information the only firm foundation on which we can build."

Devotional Service.

Hymn—"O Beautiful for Spacious Skies."
 Scripture—Matthew 13: 24-41.
 Sentence Prayers.

This being the first meeting of the Conference year, the time should be given largely to organization and plans for the year's work. Let us have more definite aims and put more time and effort in our work. Good meetings do not just happen, it takes united effort. For this reason it is well to place some responsibility on just as many women as can be enlisted. Each society should have at least three committees—Program, Publicity, and Membership. To these might well be added a Visiting Committee and a Social Committee.

This is the time for the installation of officers, and it makes an impressive feature for a program. An appropriate program should be followed, and we will be pleased to send a copy of such program on application. Request for same should be addressed to Mrs. W. M. Jay, Holland, Va.

Should there be time, it would be well to have a brief review, at this meeting, of our missionaries and their particular work, or "Findings of the Seattle Convention," or reports from Summer Schools and Conferences.

Requests have come in that six of this year's programs be based upon that wonderful and all-inclusive theme—"Christ Comes to the Village." The remaining five will be miscellaneous, and will deal with our own work and some of "America's Home Mission Problems."

This poem seems appropriate for an autumn meeting. It was written by a young girl, and won the New York Chautauqua prize over a large number of contestants, of which she was the youngest.

"Beautiful autumn foliage,
 Yellow and brown and red,
 Do you put on your best apparel
 Knowing you'll soon be dead?"

"Does it give you real pleasure
 To have humanity see,
 Before you are gone forever,
 How beautiful you can be?"

"If so, it were well if mortals
 Would ever be gay and bright,
 And, clad in robes of beauty,
 Pass on to a world of light."

"O, should not we all be happy
 To have humanity see,
 Before we are gone forever,
 How beautiful we can be?"

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY. Theme—"Prayer and Missions."

Opening Song—"Sweet Hour of Prayer."

Prayer—Led by Superintendent.

Installation of New Officers.

Leader—"The members of this society have expressed their confidence in the following members to serve during the ensuing term as officers of our Missionary Society."

Ask all officers to come forward.

Leader—"As faithful officers, pray with and for each other, and endeavor to create a spirit of co-operation and loyalty among the members, so that there may be the most effective missionary results."

Prayer—Leader.

Leader—"By electing these members as your officers, you have shown your trust in them, and now may we repeat the words of the Apostle Paul to the Corinthians. 'We are laborers together with God.'"

Prayer by New Superintendent.

Song—"Love Divine."

Worship period by new Superintendent.

Call to Worship—"Teach me to pray, not only in the morning gray or when the mountain's silver ray falls on me, but at high noon-day, when pleasures beckon me away. Teach me today."

Song—"Just for Today."
 Scripture Lesson—Luke 21: 30-36.
 Short Talk—"What is Prayer."
 Solo—"The Beautiful Garden of Prayer."
 Offertory.
 Prayer and Benediction.

WILLING WORKERS.

Theme—"God is Love."

Topic—"Open Windows."

I.—"Worship Period."

1. Call to Worship—"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."
2. Song—"Jesus Loves Me."
3. Bible Reading—Matt. 6:26. (Explained in simple words by the leader.)
4. Prayer.
5. Song—"God is Goodness, God is Love."
6. Offertory.

II.—"Study Period."

1. Chapter I. of "Open Windows."

The leader should introduce the first chapter. Give the idea of the world as God's garden with all the races as the flowers which fill the garden, and that we are going to visit this garden and meet His children. If possible have pictures of children from every land.

2. Song—"In Christ There is No East, No West."
3. Benediction.

—Mary Lee Williams.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 EAST BROAD STREET,

RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us. Postage paid and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

MEN'S PENS—Capitol, $2.00; Mercantile, $2.50; Cardinal, $3.00.

LADIES' PENS, $2.00.

COMBINATION OFFER—To a new subscriber or for renewal, $2.25, either Gentleman's (Capitol) Pen or Ladies' Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. And to "Sun" subscribers, not in arrears, any Pen at one-fourth off. Address:

ADVENTURES IN YOUTH FELLOWSHIP

"Youth at Work in the Church."

JEWEL TRUITT, Editor, Glen Raven, N. C.

WHAT IS THE INFLUENCE OF MOVIES ON YOUNG PEOPLE.

By MISS MARY KNOELLER, Waverly, Va.
Bethlehem Young People's Conference,

August 20, 1931.

I would like to say in the beginning that what I have to say on the subject of the influence of movies on young people is my own opinion, so you do not necessarily have to agree with me.

When I first started to think on this subject, I decided that movies had only a bad influence on young people. After thinking a while longer, I decided that this opinion was a mistaken one, for there must be some good in the movies. And there is some good in the movies, but I think that the bad that we get in the movies exceeds the good that we get. Therefore, I am going to discuss that side of the question.

Now comes the question, Why is the influence of the movies on young people bad? There are many answers to that question. To me one of the outstanding ones is that present-day pictures help to establish false standards of ideals and give a false impression of life. What, then, is to be seen in the pictures shown on the screens? Pictures are kept before the mind's eye constantly of the gay dance hall, of wild parties, of cigarette-smoking women, of whiskey-drinking men, of murder, of life as it is lived in the underworld, of low and common moral life, of passion (mistaken for love) existing between men and women. With these and many more like scenes ever before their mind's eye, is it any wonder that young people grow into manhood and womanhood trying always to live up (?) to these standards?

They view the life of the pictures as the ideal life, and far too often, they succeed in living up to it. Many of these young people catch an occasional glimpse of a better, richer and fuller life, but even then they decide that it is far easier to continue as they have gone, under colors they do not admire, than to turn back and seek a better way.

I do not mean to say that movies are the cause of the degraded social conditions existing today, but I do mean that they are a big factor in the problem and that they have played a big part in bringing these conditions into existence. I do not believe that we realize the bad influence that movies have on thousands of young people.

If the influence of the movies is bad, why do young people continue to attend them? The main reason, to my mind, is ignorance. Young people are not ignorant of the things that a public school can teach them, but they are ignorant of that fact that they are wearing out their lives in a wild rush for pleasures that will never satisfy them. They long for life, but they seek for it in the wrong place. The dance-hall and the theatre may suffice for the time being, but always those longings return and there is but one thing that will satisfy. That one thing is to know and love Jesus. William H. Carruth has expressed this thought in the third stanza of his poem, "Each in His Own Tongue":

"Like tides on a crescent sea-beach,
When the moon is new and thin,
Into our hearts high yearnings
Come welling and surging in—
Come from the mystic ocean,
Whose rim no foot has trod—
Some of us call it Longing
And others call it God."

I do not think young people are conscious of the influence that these so-called pleasures have upon them and will have upon posterity. If they could only look a few years ahead and realize what might be in store for them, I am sure they would think twice before they subjected their minds and bodies to the evil pleasures of the world. I do not believe that it is possible for young men and young women to continually engage in such pleasures and still keep God in their hearts; and we know that without God having first place in our hearts we ourselves are failures and are the cause of many other failures.

"BOUND FOR THE WEST."

Several weeks ago I left all of those who were making the trip West with us by way of the "Christian Sun Special" stranded in Salt Lake City. Perhaps they used this time to advantage looking at the Great Salt Lake, which we visited. I just wish all could really have made the trip, as I cannot do justice to a single part of it. But here goes again.

June twentieth was a busy and a glorious day. We got breakfast in Salt Lake City and then did some shopping. Deciding that department stores might be educational for us, since we were all from a small town, we went into a store that proved to be quite interesting. We just stumbled into it. Most of the time we read our guidebooks faithfully but occasionally we overlooked them. This time we must not have read them, or we must have forgotten this particular store, for surely we should have looked for Zion Co-operative Mercantile Institution. It's a long name, but it is all needed and it all applies. It really is an institution, and it must be co-operative, too, from the huge number of people who work in it and whom they serve—quite a few of both groups are Mormons. Everything from carpet tacks and automobile accessories to ready-to-wear garments and well-served meals can be bought under the roof of this house. We rambled through the store for quite a while. After getting lost on an upper floor, and being unable to find the elevators, we finally came down some stairs marked "Private," with "No Admittance" at the conclusion of them, which happened to be an office with about two dozen stenographers and clerks working in it. When two or three men peered our way, we scrambled for descending stairs. But we were held up just the same. The men were friendly and perhaps recognizing us as very green, one of them volunteered to show us through the store. Although we felt like we had already walked miles, we knew we'd learn a great deal with a guide, so we did it all over. Our guide told us we might have had a guide in the first place! Well, we were learning!

The man who showed us through the store was himself a Mormon. He explained the founding of the store by the great founder of Salt Lake City, Joseph Smith, the founder of the Mormon religious sect. Mr. Smith seemed to have been a genius for starting co-operative enterprises, superintending them in a masterful way, and leaving them to posterity. Most of the great buildings in Salt Lake City and some of the greatest enterprises in Utah can be traced back to his guiding hand. Our guide told us also about the plan of the city, what we should see, and explained the Mormon religion to us. He called attention to the high standards lived up to by the Mormons of today.

After thanking our new friend and host, and bidding him farewell, we went to the grounds of the Mormon Temple. Here a lecturer gave historical facts about the building of the Temple and the Tabernacle. He explained that only the Mormons who deserve it by up-right living could enter the Temple. Not all Mormons have the privilege of entering this, their most sacred building. Gentiles may enter the Tabernacle, and do enter it daily for the famous organ recitals. We saw on the Temple grounds the first house built in Utah, which has been moved there and is kept for historical reasons.

At 11:45 A. M. the doors of the Tabernacle were swung open, and about five hundred men and women entered. Of the three talented organists, Frank W. Asper, Alexander Schreiner and Edward P. Kimball, it was Mr. Kimball's time to play. The organ upon which he played is one of the finest in the world. The acoustics of the huge auditorium is so good that every sound made upon the platform can be heard distinctly in every part of the building. The opening selection was the National Anthem, with which each of the daily programs opens. Each program also contains the favorite Mormon hymn, "The Morning Breaks."

Other selections for the day were: "First Organ Sonata," Rudolf Bibl; "Sonata Pathetique," L. Van Beethoven; Vespers, "Evening of the Plain," Edward d'Every; "Annie Laurie," arranged by the Organist; and the "Fugue in F Minor" by Handel.

The words of the favorite Mormon hymn are:

"The morning breaks, the shadows flee;

Lo! Zion's standard is unfurled.

The dawning of a brighter day
Majestic rises on the world.

"The clouds of error disappear

Before the rays of truth divine;

The glory, bursting from afar,
Wide o'er the nations soon will shine.

"The Gentile fulness now comes in,

And Israel's blessings are at hand;

Lo! Judah's remnant, cleansed from sin,
Shall in their promised Canaan stand.

"Jehovah speaks! let earth give ear,

And Gentile nations turn and live;

His mighty arm is making bare,
His covenant people to receive.

"Angels from heaven and truth from earth

Have met, and both have record borne;

Thus Zion's light is bursting forth,
To bring her ransomed children home."

After the organ recital we went back to Zion's and ate our dinner. For our fifty cents we had one-half fried spring chicken, vegetables, tea and dessert. And none of us ever ate better chicken. Going to our car, we had our farewell look at the Beehive and the Lion House, homes of Joseph Smith's family. Soon we were in our car and on our way. Yellowstone National Park was our next stop.

J. V. T.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NOTES.

OCTOBER 11, 1931.

"WHAT IS EXPECTED OF US AS GOOD CITIZENS."
SCRIPTURE LESSON: Romans 13: 1-7.

Helps for the Meeting.

The foundation of any good government is God's will. Rulers and governors are God's workmen. They need the help and cooperation of their fellow citizens. A democratic people can get what the majority thinks is the best for their country, provided the majority expresses its opinion. It is the duty of every Christian to be an active, intelligent and helpful citizen. Christians

(Continued on page 11.)

Sunday School Lesson

By REV. S. A. BENNETT, Elon College, N. C.

PAUL IN PHILIPPI.

LESSON II.—October 11, 1931.

LESSON TEXT: Acts 16:22-34; Philippians 4: 4-7.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Rejoice in the Lord always; again I will say, Rejoice."—Philippians 4:4.

An Effective Ministry.

The missionary party (Paul, Silas, Timothy and Luke) had an effective ministry in the city of Philippi. Some converts were won to the Christian faith. The gospel was established in Europe, but opposition was also stirred. Any new religious venture is especially likely to meet with opposition if it is successful enough to disturb the existing organization. Religious organizations in a community do not like to be disturbed by a new order. Preaching that would change the social customs meets with some reverses as it succeeds enough to be felt.

Vigorous Opposition.

The Christian mission at Philippi was succeeding enough to draw the attention of the people. For "many days" (verse 18) the heralds of the gospel taught and worked among the people. A girl used in pagan practices of divination recognized the work of Paul and said, "These men are servants of the Most High God, who proclaim unto you the way of salvation." "In the name of Jesus Christ" she was released from the spirit of divination. This touched the economic interest. Her masters saw that the source of their gains was gone. Their financial interests were disturbed. They brought charges against the leaders, and Paul and Silas were lodged in the inner prison.

The makers of money oppose the gospel that ruins their business. It takes courage to oppose a successful business, but true preachers seek human welfare regardless of the personal profits of any group or individual.

A Radiant Faith.

Paul and Silas had an enduring and radiant faith. Smaller souls would have complained. Falsely accused, cruelly beaten, miserably imprisoned, and at midnight they make the prison ring with song and prayer. The prisoners listen. What joys an abiding faith can bring! An earthquake shook the prison, and the jailer awakened to find his prisoners free from their bonds. The radiance of such faith reached hearts that had never before experienced the joys of Christian faith or hope. The jailer's family were added to the Christian group at Philippi.

A Constant and Ministering Church.

We do not know how many members composed this church—the first one organized in Europe. But it endured and became a ministering church. The missionaries went on to other fields, but the faithful workers in the Philippian Church kept up their organization and maintained their faith.

Years later the organizer of their church, this stalwart preacher of the cross of Christ, was seriously charged and imprisoned at Jerusalem. After repeated trials Paul's case was appealed to the court at Rome. As a veteran missionary Paul suffered many hardships, but he was glad to be accounted worthy to suffer for his Master.

When the Philippian Church learned of the imprisonment at Rome of their first preacher and organizer, they sent him aid and a personal attendant, Epaphroditus. They were glad to helpfully remember him who had done so much for them as well as other churches of that time.

Paul's Letter of Rejoicing.

Again in prison, the Apostle Paul rejoiced with a radiant faith. Our New Testament letter to the Philippians is the message he sent them from the prison at Rome. They had kindly remembered him and sent him aid. As Epaphroditus returned to Philippi, he bore a letter of good cheer from the ardent promoter of the Christian faith. Paul did not let discouraging experiences dim the faith. He was glad to endure hardship if only Christ could be glorified and his religion permeate the lives of men.

A joyous outbursting of overflowing faith is much more catching than a sorrowful, despondent mood.

Prayer.

Father, teach us the way of an enduring faith. Give us the deeper joys of sacrificial service. Lead thy church to find abiding happiness in closer fellowship with Jesus, our Lord and Saviour.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NOTES.

(Continued from Page 10.)

should be the highest type of citizens, for they should act from the highest and best motives or reasons.

There is little wonder that so many present-day office holders get into trouble. The general feeling among the people of carelessness in the observance of the law does not boost up an official to do any better than others are doing. Police-bribery and law-breaking by officials reflect the public attitude. Citizens should not allow any such happenings because they do not want it and do not have to tolerate it. When each individual citizen arouses to his duty of being the best possible citizen, he will go a long way in correcting the evil. And may he not forget to help carry the other fellow's burden of temptation.

As long as millions of the world's people lack food and as long as there are so many unemployed in our country, our citizenship is not what it should be. There is something out of line somewhere when hundreds are starving while millionaires become more numerous every year. A solution to this problem may be: Good Citizenship.

Training in good citizenship begins in the family. Honesty, responsibility, love for peace, diligence—all can be learned at home and applied in the larger citizenship.

Daily Readings.

October 5—Titus 3:1-2.

October 6—Romans 14:19.

October 7—Nehemiah 6:1-3.

October 8—Psalms 15:1-5.

October 9—Luke 7:1-10.

October 10—Micah 7:1-4, 7.

Topic for next Sunday: "A Christian Attitude toward Prohibition."

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the number and price.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ x7 Inches, and 1 $\frac{3}{8}$ Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75
India Paper Edition, Size 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ x7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00
Bourgeois Type, Size 5 $\frac{3}{8}$ x8 Inches, and 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00
Minion Type, Pocket Size, 4x6 Inches, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ Inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold.....$1.60
Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ x7

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.50

2173—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges.....$6.00

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 16-16 of an Inch Thick.

133X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ x5 $\frac{1}{2}$ Inches, and 1 inch thick, with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ x5 $\frac{1}{2}$ Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.

65—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps.....$2.50

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 $\frac{3}{8}$ x8 $\frac{3}{4}$ Inches and 1 $\frac{3}{8}$ Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With Concise Bible Dictionary, combined Concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.75

RED-LETTER EDITION.

With All the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands; title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations; special book for Sunday Schools.....95c
Any of the above Bibles sent postpaid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street,

Richmond, Virginia

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY H. E. ROUNTREE
One of our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"O Lord, I beseech thee, let now thine ear be attentive to the prayer of thy servant, and to the prayer of thy servants, who desire to fear thy name, and prosper, I pray thee, thy servant this day."

MONDAY.

DARKNESS.

LESSON: I. John 2:4-11.

"The darkness is in the past, the true light now shineth." Verse 8.

"Darkness," as John uses it, means spiritual ignorance and wickedness. Any person who lives in ignorance, deceit, hatred and malice, love is extinguished in his soul, and he lives in darkness. But in Jesus one needs not walk in darkness, for he has the light, and that light is the true light. It is love.

He that sayeth that he is in grace, and still harbors hatred and malice, condemns himself. He who assays to comfort himself in Christ and the Christian spirit and still is angry with his neighbor, is in a state of distress, a state which finally leads to affliction and terror. "He that loveth not his brother abideth in darkness." Christ's whole message to the world is based on the new commandment, "Love one another." Of all things humanity needs in these days it is this love.

He who gives his assent to this, makes his knowledge coincide with it, and keeps His commandments, is undoubtedly in the kingdom of light.

Prayer.—Dear Father, help us to walk in love and to shed abroad thy light more pure, more beautiful, more abundant, day by day. Grant us this in the name of Jesus we ask it. Amen.

TUESDAY.

CRUCIFYING DARKNESS.

LESSON: Galatians 2:19-21.

"I am crucified with Christ."

Paul often explains how he is "dead in the law" and "to sin," and "alive in Jesus Christ."

He says, Christ is crucified for us, and that when we take those things about us, which are sin and darkness, and crucify them, we crucify ourselves with Him; and thus, by his grace, we are baptized unto this death, which is His death.

What a beautiful thing this baptism is when we take its sacred obligations and declare through that symbol that we have crucified the sins of our lives, and become alive to Jesus! That is soul action, and, with such soul action, there comes to us a faith through which we receive Him, in which we live in Him, and by which we rise with Him in his likeness. In this way his death is our death and his life is our life. Thus Jesus has taken the place of the law, sin and death; and if we take our eyes from Him, we are lost.

Prayer.—Help us, O God, to believe with childlike confidence; and in all our lives to praise Thee for thy infinite mercy. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

LIGHT SHINING ON DARKNESS.

LESSON: Psalm 102:1-14.

"Hide not thy face from me in the day when I am in trouble." Verse 1.

In temptation, misfortune, or distress, one has the tendency to feel that God has entirely deserted him. At no time does God seem so far away as then. His soul cries, but it seems that the cry dies away without having reached the ear of God. In happy days and bright seasons he feels love's fellowship, but in trouble, life fades away. It may be that in those prosperous and happy seasons we are lifted up within ourselves, and we keep not the grace of God; or perhaps, we fail to make the right use of it. We exalt ourselves (perhaps unwittingly) and thus lose our places in the family circle of God's children and feel like a "pelican of the wilderness," or an "owl of the desert." In such experiences there are two things we may do: Confess the neglect of faithfulness and vigilance and pray for mercy, and take hold of the promises. If we will do this, before we ask will He answer; and then shall we receive strength, and, in the midst of darkness, have hope.

Prayer.—Have mercy on us, O God; save us, pardon us, and heal us; and when we sit in darkness, be Thou our light. May we ever hope and never grow faint. Amen.

THURSDAY.

THE TRUTH FOREVER.

LESSON: Matthew 9:1-8.

"Son, . . . thy sins be forgiven thee." Verse 1.

These are living words which never pass away. They were the message of Christ during his ministry. They were among the last words of the Master on the cross. They go on forever, and are to be heard by every soul through the ages to the end of time.

Every living child of God who has a passion for souls and passes this message on to others, is a mouth-piece of the Lord Jesus, as though the Son himself were saying, "Thy sins be forgiven thee." Every such one may bear in mind that the Lord is with him when he bears such a message.

Remember David when Nathan said: "Thy Lord also has put away thy sin: thou shalt not die." This was God speaking. This is the word which God has given his church in that oft quoted commission, "Go ye into all the world and make disciples of all nations." He who does not believe this repudiates God's word, and his name becomes anathema. This is what happens to those who possess not his grace, who covet the world, whose hearts refuse his gifts, and who blaspheme against his spirit.

How important it is that his true children should speak his forgiveness and salvation, and encourage one another to believe, by declaring for Him. "Him that cometh unto me, I will in no wise cast out." This is an eternal Gospel and remains forever. Our Lord is present in it; on it we can take our stand; by it we can defy sin and hell; in it we can put our trust.

Prayer.—Do Thou help us, Lord, to do this. Thou knowest the unbelief of our hearts. Hold us fast. Draw us to Thee. Give us thy Holy Spirit to believe in Thee, and find rest in thy word of truth. Amen.

FRIDAY.

IF ANY MAN SIN.

LESSON: Ephesians 4:22-28.

"I write unto you, that ye sin not. And if any man sin we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous."—John 2:1.

In our lesson, Paul is writing to those who have undertaken to follow Christ. So even Christians may have such sins as these. Paul makes it plain, however, that newborn souls desire to be pure, and that if they are grieved when they discover sin in their lives, they need not grieve as those without hope.

All of us have an advocate with the Father, and through prayer to Him we obtain the blessing of forgiveness and the power to rise up in the newness of life.

This experience is what may be called holy zeal; and this zeal should characterize our daily life. Through it and the Spirit of God, we may ever receive new light, new strength, and new desire for that which is good. It brings to us bounding freshness of youth, so that "they shall mount up," David said, "with wings as eagles." Out of this experience proceeds holiness of life.

Prayer.—O Lord, keep us, work in us to will and do thy will. Amen.

SATURDAY.

INDUBITABLE.

LESSONS Psalm 130.

"Let Israel hope in the Lord." Verse 7.

Here we learn to wait and hope for the Lord's help and never to cease praying even though we see no answer. In all experiences we may cling to his promise and have the assurance in our hearts that in due season the help will come according to our faith and according to his purpose, will and pleasure. Sometimes it is the way of the Lord to postpone helping us when it seems to us, if He loved us, He would come at once to our assistance. At such times it is the way of Satan to whisper into our souls, "There is no God." But the gospel says, "Hope in the Lord." With the Lord there is mercy, and with Him there is plenteous redemption. Can we? Will we?

Prayer.—Dear Lord, we pray that we may be thy witnesses unto the utmost—waiting and not doubting. By the power of thy word, give us strength of waiting on Thee. Amen.

SUNDAY.

GOD'S GLORY IS MAN'S DOMINION.

LESSON: Psalm 8.

"Thou madest him to have dominion over the work of thy hands." Verse 6.

When we consider the splendor of the heavens, and reflect that nearly all the stars are suns looking down upon us with their wonderfully gentle and kindly light, we are compelled to feel with David that they declare the glory and the goodness of God, and that they proclaim the unchangeable truth of the Lord.

What shall we say then of the inconceivable goodness of God, in that He has made man to have dominion over all these works? All we can say is: Man know your littleness, and your greatness! Know the Lord and his mercy, and become humble! So shall you become great.

Prayer.—O Lord, with the trust of a child we come to Thee and say: "O Lord, our Lord, how excellent is thy name in all the earth!" Make us all Thou wouldst have us be. Amen.

WEEDING THEM OUT.

This is the way they do it in the Czechoslovakian Church. If members seem unworthy or lose interest in spiritual things, they are weeded out. It is hard to do, but fruitful, says Rev. John S. Porter of Prague. "The world sees that it means something to be in the church. They respect us and are not repelled, but drawn by the careful and prayerful use of Church discipline." There might possibly be church gardens in America that need weeding.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN'S PULPIT

REV. JOSEPH W. FIX, Preacher.

SONGS IN THE NIGHT.

"In the morning, rising up a great while before day, he went out, and departed into a solitary place, and there prayed."—Mark 1: 35.

Jesus Christ, the Son of God, had gone through a busy day wherein the throngs had pressed Him, in their seeking for the Bread of Life and for the healing of their bodies. Even after the sun had set, He ministered to the sick which had been brought to Him; yet very early in the morning He went out to pray. One wonders, if in His humanity there were not times when sleep was far from Him because of the sin and sorrow of this world which He had come to bear. It does not seem improbable, for He had a greater love and compassion than any of His followers today, who are seeking to gather the lost into the fold before it is too late; and how many of them pass sleepless hours after their busy days.

But even sleepless hours may be a blessing in disguise, for ourselves as well as for others, for they come when the world is most free from noise and interruptions; those two factors that are so detrimental to our prayer life. We may have our regular hours for prayer, yet the forces of evil are ever busy to thwart us; for Satan knows the power of prayer, and would keep us from our knees. The hours between midnight and morning are the hours when we are most alone; they have been called the lonely hours, and the lone watchers feel their lonesomeness. How many times have we rebelled against them, yet that only made matters worse; but when we learned to make of them an altar of prayer, what a blessing came. Prayer can obtain for us a quiet, peaceful spirit, attuned to God's will and connecting us to God's power-house through which our faith is strengthened so that we can, with thanksgiving, let our requests be made known unto God who giveth to all men liberally when we abide in Him and His words abide in us.

Oh, how the Holy Spirit will work with us in our midnight prayer service, bringing things to our remembrance that we desire to see accomplished in our own lives and in the lives of others. And the faces of those on our prayer list, how they are brought before our vision with those we have never seen, but who have their place in our hearts just the same. How it thrills our hearts with love and joy and, like Paul and Silas, we have our songs in the night, and the foundation of our prison house of clay is shaken. Spurgeon once said that "we breathe in the atmosphere of heaven by prayer, and we breathe it out again by praise; prayer and praise make up the essentials of the Christian life!" Prayer and praise, at night as well as by day, for the darkness and the light are alike to Him, and we are His children, and He ever abides with His own.

"Alone with God, the world forbidden,
Alone with God, O blest retreat!
Alone with God, and in Him hidden,
To hold with Him communion sweet."

THE NARROW LINE.

Men have found it hard to believe that God will condemn the strong moral man of forceful character and approve the weak Christian man of inactive character. But there is a line of demarcation not wholly dependent on morality. This line may be extremely narrow, but it is a line of separation and as such divides into two classes men who do not believe. Paul, the Pharisee, was not approved by God; Paul, the Christian, was so approved. Christ, time and again, emphasizes the two classes of men as believers in him and as unbelievers. Of Course, the morally upright man may be a believer in Christ, and for reasons of his own, refuse to ally himself with any church as a member, as for instance, Abraham Lincoln. On the other hand, a man who appears as a believer, may simply profess to be a Christian, and yet lack all the characteristics that constitute a true Christian. When we consider the social, racial, industrial, and political injustice in the world due to the un-Christian conduct of so-called Christians, there are all too many such Christians in the world.

The dividing line is an invisible one, and one that cannot be decided by man. In his opinions concerning his fellow men, even the Christian needs to heed the admonition of Jesus, "Judge not, that ye be not judged," or as Goodspeed translates it, "Pass no more judgments upon other people, so that you may not have judgment passed upon you." The Supreme Judge of the universe will pass the ultimate judgment that will determine the destiny of man. No mere man can detect the essential elements of the judgment that will place one man on one side of that narrow line of demarcation, and another; on the other side. Even in the physical contests between contending athletes the one thing that differentiates the two is often intangible and imprecipitable. An editorial writer in commenting upon the recent golf championship contest between Billy Burke and George Von Elm emphasizes the fact that only one stroke at the end of 144 holes separated them. That one stroke meant honors and a large sum of money for Burke. For 139 holes the men had fought on even terms and at the finish of their three days play, the margin was almost insignificant. But the margin meant success for the one and defeat for the other. The writer goes on to say, "Nevertheless, a margin had to appear, and it was Burke who at last held it. No matter how thin the line between defeat and triumph, there always is the line, and somehow it does make a tremendous difference. . . . And yet the fact remains that it was Burke who ultimately came through, and coming through, by all current values, signifies superiority."

These separating lines appear all through life and classify things and actions and persons into contradictory categories. We either are or we are not. A neutral attitude toward Jesus Christ does not seem possible, and that narrow line that places us in the category of being either for or against him is oftentimes so pitifully narrow and faint. But it is there, nevertheless, and it is placed there by the infinitely compassionate Savior of men, himself—"He that believeth on him is not judged (A. V., condemned): he that believeth not hath been judged (A. V., is condemned) already, because he hath not believed on the name of the only begotten Son of God. And this is the judgment, that the light is come into the world, and men loved the darkness rather than the light; for their works were evil."—Editorial in The Methodist Protestant-Recorder.

REDEEMED PEOPLE.

A thorough revival of spiritual life seems to have taken place in Adams, South Africa, during the latter part of the past year. Zulu pastors, filled with zeal for the aid of people, report progress, and the renewal of consecration by many men and women who had grown cold. Reports made at the Annual Pastor's Convention make Rev. Henry A. Stick of Adams, South Africa, say, "It again made us experience the wonders of the gospel in building such characters as were manifest at these meetings, characters of redeemed people whose race was in utter darkness only a few decades ago."—Missionary Herald.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATED.

The Silver-plated Ware is of the very highest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses.$22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 85. 11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plated; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling).$22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90. 14.00

Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim.....$ 9.00
Bread Plate No. 4—Broad rim..... 9.00
Filler—Silver lined 6.00

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, - - Richmond, Virginia

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

We sometimes receive letters that fill our eyes with tears. We know the appeal worthy and the need great, and it hurts to say "No," because we do not have funds to take in more children. If there is any cause that should reach our hearts and cause us to give, it should be that of a little child. I am giving you a part of a letter I received today. Does it touch your heart? It touches mine. This mother has two little children (twins), a boy and a girl eight years old. She has worked and supported them since they were six months old. She says she has done her best to keep them together and with her. She is working on short time and her wages have been cut, and she says she just can't make it. She has been living with her mother, who has now crossed to the other side. "We only have part-time, and I just can't make it. I have started my children to school, but they do not have clothes to wear, and we have not had enough to eat for quite awhile. The children are undernourished, but are getting along fine in school. I want to get them in the Christian Orphanage if possible. I am willing to work hard and help all I can. I am anxious to get them where they won't go hungry and will have protection."

A little child hungry and cold in this land of abundance. My dear readers, do you know the pangs of hunger? Has the wolf ever stood at your door? If so you know how to sympathize with this woman. If God has so richly blessed you that your wants have always been supplied, then don't you want to spare some of your possessions to help needy children in your orphanage?

We have 105 children now, and there are a number of cases, like the one described above, on our waiting list. What are we going to do about it?

The following has been sent in since last report:

Miss Nellie Maye Holt, Burlington, N. C., 18 dresses, 2 coats, 2 sweaters.

Mrs. West, Waverly, Va., 3 dresses, 1 coat, 1 cap, etc.

B. V. May, 10 pair anklets.

Slippers, C. H. Dickey, Class 5, Burlington, N. C., slippers, hose, dresses, hat for Lula May Hunter.

Mrs. J. A. Williams, Franklin, Va., dresses, sweaters, hats, shoes.

Mamie Wilkins, Circle 3, Burlington Church, bath cloths and towels.

Mrs. E. W. Neville, Chapel Hill, N. C., pants and union suits.

Miss Nellie Maye Holt and sister, Burlington, N. C., 13 dresses, 1 cape.

Nancy Branch, Garner, N. C., 1 dress.

Mrs. E. W. Beale, Zuni, Va., 2 dresses, boy's suit, shoes.

Mrs. Strickland, Benson, N. C., package of clothing.

J. W. Burke, Gibsonville, N. C., box of hats.

Mrs. J. F. Stewart, Enigma, Ga., 1 suit, pants.

Junior Class, Vanceville S. S., Tifton, Ga., 1 box of articles for children.

REPORT FOR OCTOBER 1, 1931.

Brought forward $11,160.67

Sunday School Offerings.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference:
Greensboro, Palm St. $ 5.63
New Lebanon 2.00
Belew Creek 1.00
Elon College 6.25

14.88

Eastern North Carolina Conference:

Wentworth $ 9.60
Damascus 3.23
Youngsville 1.00
Christian Light 1.25
Mt. Auburn 2.52
Mt. Hermon 4.00
Auburn 3.70

25.30

Eastern Virginia Conference:

Dendron $ 3.00
Barretts 1.20
Spring Hill 1.00
Elm Avenue 1.25

6.45

Virginia Valley Central Conference:

Winchester 4.52

Special Offerings.

Walter Blizzard support of children. $ 6.00
Mr. & Mrs. Floyd H. Dunn, Lynchburg, Va. 2.13
Mrs. Maynor, support of Rebecca .. 10.00
Mr. J. M. Darden, painting main building 233.82
Mrs. Strickland on support of Lavette Weaver 50.00

301.95

Total for the week $ 353.10

Grand total $11,513.77

Have you sent in your renewal for THE CHRISTIAN SUN? It is very much in order now. THE SUN has to be printed and sent out each week, and there are those who have received it now many weeks without paying up. Now is a mighty good time to renew your subscription.

Eilers Sunday School Maps.

On a Revolving Adjustable Steel Stand

The first 5 maps
are in Set No. 1,
with stand,
Price $15.00

Set No. 2
8 Maps,
Price $20.00

Fine large Maps, in 6 Colors 36x57, on linen finished Cloth. Mounted on a folding steel stand, which can be regulated, so that Maps may be seen to the best advantage. This set contains data for thorough Bible Study. Its large print and Cheerful Colors makes this set very instructive and attractive. Contains the five thoroughly up to date Maps necessary to the study of Bible History. New Testament Palestine, — Old Testament Palestine, — Roman empire and Bible Lands, showing Pauls Travels by Colored lines, — Lands of the Old Testament, from the Great Sea, to the Persian Gulf, — The Exodus, Egypt, showing by Colored lines the wanderings of the Israelites.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN,

1536 East Broad Street,

Richmond, Virginia.

ALL
SELF-
PRONOUNCING

Holman Testaments

COMMAND
ATTENTION
AND APPROVAL

Holman Vest-Pocket Testament

Size, 2½x4½ inches

Specimen of Type.

AND the third day there
was a marriage in
Cana of Galilee;
and the mother of Jesus was

The VEST POCKET, is, beyond question, the most popular Testament published. In size, 3½x4½ inches, it is not much larger than the Vest Pocket. It is also the only Testament of its size with large bold type and pronouncing text.

2104. Dark Blue Silk Finished Cloth, with edges colored to match, gold titles. $.50
2103K. Morocco Grained Binding, flexible limp, gold edges and titles.60
2114. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges.85

VEST POCKET TESTAMENT AND PSALMS

2103KP. Morocco Grained Binding, limp, gold titles, round corners, gold edges.70
2114P. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges.90
2115P. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges. 1.10

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

With all the words of our Lord and Saviour printed in red. 13RL. French Morocco Leather, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, rounded corners, gold edges.90
15RLP. French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, gold title on red panel, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 1.35

Holman Jewel Testament

INDIA PAPER ONLY—Size 2½x4½ inches x¾ inch

The JEWEL is the latest and most attractive Pocket Testament made. The TYPE is black, bold and larger than that in the famous Vest Pocket edition, and the book itself is smaller. It is printed exclusively on the famous Holman India paper, noted for its opaque quality and unusual tensile strength. One advantage of this India paper is that the leaves do not cling together. The size, 2½x4½ inches, is so small that the book practically fits the palm of the hand.

Specimen of Type

ST. MATTHEW 2

The three wise men

carrying away into Babylon for fourteen generations; and from the carrying away into Babylon unto Christ are fourteen ing interpreted is, God with us. 24 Then Jesus being raised from sleep did as the angel of the Lord had

5003X. Morocco Grained Binding, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges. $1.00
5015PX. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, Psalms included. 1.50
5036PX. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather binding to edge, silk sewed, red under gold edges, with Psalms included. 2.60

Holman GEM Testament

Specimen of Gem Black Faced Type

CHAPTER 23.

THEN spake Jesus to the multitude, and to his disciples,

The GEM TESTAMENT has been steadily growing in popular favor ever since its first appearance.

In size, 3½x4½ inches, it is not much larger than the Vest Pocket. It is also the only Testament of its size with large bold type and pronouncing text.

The edition on India paper is ideal, and we know of no better gift at the price than one in the finer bindings.

4102P. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red burnished edges, with Psalms. $.90
4113. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges. 1.35
4115P. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 1.90

RED LETTER GEM TESTAMENT

4113RL. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges. 1.50

INDIA PAPER GEM TESTAMENT

4136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather binding to edge, red under gold edges, with Psalms. 3.00
4136XPRL. Red Letter Edition with Psalms, same binding as 4136XP, but with the Sayings of Christ Printed in Red. 3.25

Old Folks Testament

Extra Large Print

Pica, 16mo. Size, 5½x7½x3¼ inches

Old folks or those with poor sight will appreciate the advantage of this Testament. The type is a delight to the eye with its wide spacing between the lines. It is the most readable edition of all large print Testaments.

Specimen of Type.
THE book
of Jesus

PSALMS INCLUDED
2902P. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red edges, with Book of Psalms included. $1.50

THIN BIBLE PAPER EDITIONS
Same Large Print as Above
2913P. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 2.95

Same as above, with the Sayings of Christ in Red.
3913PRL. French Morocco Leather, flexible covers, gold side title on red panel, rounded corners, red under gold edges, and with Book of Psalms included. 3.10

All styles sent postpaid at above prices

ALABAMA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE. PROGRAM OF THE THIRTY-THIRD ANNUAL SESSION.

HELD WITH THE PISGAH CHRISTIAN CHURCH,
BEGINNING OCTOBER 13, 1931.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

2:30 o'clock.

Call to Order—Rev. G. D. Hunt, President.
Scripture Reading and Prayer—Rev. J. H. Hughes,
Pastor Pisgah Church.
Enrollment of Ministers.
Enrollment of Delegates.
Election of Officers.
Filling of Vacancies on Standing Committees.
Reception of Fraternal Visitors.
Assignment of Homes.
Adjournment.

EVENING SESSION.

7:00 o'clock.

Report of Executive Committee—Chairman.
Discussion.
Annual Address—Dr. Atkinson. Rev. G. D. Hunt,
Alternate.
Miscellaneous Business.
Adjournment.

Second Day.

MORNING SESSION.

8:30 o'clock.

Call to Order by the President.
Devotional Service—Rev. C. W. Carter.
Report of Committee on Moral Reform—Rev. W. T.
Meacham. Discussion.
Report of Committee on Schools and Colleges—Dr. F.
E. Jenkins. Discussion.
Report of Young People's Work—Klein Hood and Miss Eunice Stevens. Discussion.
Report of Committee on Religious Literature—Rev. J.
H. Hughes. Discussion by Dr. Atkinson. and others.
Report of Home Mission Board and of Committee on Foreign Missions—By Chairmen of Committees.
Discussion by Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Mission Secretary.
Adjournment.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

1:30 o'clock.

Call to Order by the President.
Prayer—Rev. A. H. Sheppard.
Report of Committee on Superannuation—Rev. C. W.
Carter, Chairman.
Report of Committee on Nominations—D. W. Sheppard, Chairman.
Unfinished Business.
Report of Treasurer.
Adjournment.

G. D. HUNT,
C. W. CARTER,
Committee.

PROGRAM OF THE GEORGIA AND ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

The Eighty Sixth Annual Session of the Georgia and Alabama Christian Conference will meet with the East LaGrange Christian Church, LaGrange, Georgia, Tuesday and Wednesday, October 6-7, 1931.

The program follows.

FIRST DAY—MORNING SESSION.

Called to order at 10:30 o'clock.
Devotionals by the President.
Words of Welcome—Richard Vinson.
Response—Rev. C. C. Hamilton.
Report of the Executive Committee.
Adjourn for Lunch at noon.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Called to order at 1:30 o'clock.
Devotionals by Rev. A. H. Sheppard.
Report on Education—Rev. W. C. Carpenter, Chairman.

Address by Dr. Frank E. Jenkins.
Report of Christian Orphanage—Chas. D. Johnston,
Superintendent.
Reading of Ministerial and Church Reports.
Business Session.
Adjournment.

EVENING SESSION.

Meeting of the Missionary Association, Rev. C. W.
Hanson, President, at 7:30 o'clock.

SECOND DAY—MORNING SESSION.

Devotionals by Rev. W. T. Crowder.
Report on Superannuation—Rev. A. H. Sheppard,
Chairman.
Report on Moral Reform—Rev. H. M. Gray, Chairman.

Report on Foreign Missions—Rev. T. W. Gray, Chairman.

Address by Dr. J. O. Atkinson.
Preaching by Rev. G. D. Hunt.
Adjourn for Lunch.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Devotionals by Rev. Bro. Prince.
Report on Religious Literature—Rev. W. C. Carpenter,
Chairman.

Report on Sunday Schools and C. E. Societies—Rev.
C. W. Hanson, Chairman.

Report on Home Missions—Rev. J. D. Dollar, Chairman of the Board.

J. D. DOLLAR, President,
MRS. J. O. MABRY, Secretary.

ELON COLLEGE

AN ACCREDITED COLLEGE

of the

CONGREGATIONAL CHRISTIAN CHURCHES OF THE SOUTHEAST

ELON was founded to train Christian leaders for the New South.

ELON has done its task well—one graduate in seven being in the Christian ministry. The other six express Christian leadership in the various professions and vocations. Experience teaches that spiritual leadership must be indigenous.

The South is now a New South ready for an inclusive Church, the type of Church for which Elon has stood for forty years and for which she is prepared to produce capable leadership.

With no Church in the community, save the College Auditorium, ELON has practiced Christian Union for faculty, students, and community for four decades.

Its contribution to Christian Education is nationally known and approved. Its Christian Education Building, providing laboratory facilities for religious leadership training, is unique and is the first college building of its type in the world.

ELON confines itself to undergraduate liberal arts work with that religious emphasis which befits the Christian College.

In ELON the Congregational-Christian Church has an asset of marvelous helpfulness.

The South needs her Yale, her Oberlin, her Carleton, her Pomona for the intellectual leadership of the United Church. Many regard ELON as strategically located and spiritually endowed to become such a center of illumination and leadership training.

THE CHRISTIAN EDUCATION BUILDING

The Heart of the Elon Program of Christian Education.

C. M. CANNON, Registrar

Elon College, - - - North Carolina

Home Atmosphere—Reasonable Rates—Clean Athletics—Christian Spirit.

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the kingdom, as represented by the Congregational-Christian Church.

BOARD OF EDITORS.

J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
E. C. GILLETTE, D. D. Associate
W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
W. A. HARPER, LL.D. Associate
REV. S. C. HARRELL, D. D. Associate
J. E. McCAULEY, D. D. Associate
W. C. WICKER, D. D. News Editor
P. J. KERNODLE, D. D. Managing Editor
C. D. JOHNSTON, D. D. Circulation Manager

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Year$2.00
Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Postoffice, at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to The Christian Sun, C. D. Johnston, Circulation Manager, Elon College, N. C.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads" 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

Notices: Obituary and marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge; all over 100 words at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

MARRIAGES

SHIFLETT-COLLIER.

The wedding bells rang out on August 29th, when Mr. Leonard Shiflett and the popular treasurer of the Mt. Olivet (G) Christian Church, Miss Cecil Collier, in company with the bride's mother, motored over to Harrisonburg to the residence of their pastor, Rev. B. J. Earp, where the nuptial rite was observed making the two one. After the ceremony, the couple motored back to the Collier home in Green County, near Nortonville, there leaving the bride's mother, after which they went to Richmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Shiflett will make their home with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Collier for the rest of the year. B. J. EARP.

BRILL-SPAUD.

On September 10, 1931, two of my good friends and members of Timber Ridge Christian Church, Mr. Walton E. Brill, and Miss Marie Spaid, came to my home and were united in the holy bonds of wedlock. Both of these young people are well and favorably known throughout the Timber Ridge community. Bro. Brill is also well known at Elon College, where he has been a student for the past two or three years. It is a pleasure to officiate when two such splendid young people are embarking together upon life's sea. May their voyage through life be happy and useful.

A. W. ANDES.

OBITUARIES.

ALGER.

Charlotte Jane Alger was born July 22, 1856, and died August 22, 1931, aged 75 years and one month. Sister Alger was known for her piety and consecration. She is survived by 7 children, 32 grandchildren, and 27 great-grandchildren.

THE CONGREGATIONAL LATIN-AMERICAN INSTITUTE AND PILGRIM LATIN CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH OF WEST TAMPA, FLA.—

Are helping give the Gospel, which is "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth," to the forty thousand Latin people of Tampa. The evangelical forces working among the foreigners of Tampa are by no means covering the territory sufficiently.

Methodists have six preachers, Baptists two, Presbyterians one, Congregationalists one. Church workers and teachers must be supported for this great missionary work. Send check to

LESLIE S. BRAY, Treas.
Route 4, Box 468, - - Tampa, Fla.
Send boxes of clothing to Mrs. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

For literature, write Rev. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

HOLMAN BIBLES

LARGE PRINT TEACHERS' EDITION FOR ADULTS, TEACHERS AND PREACHERS

and all who would study the Word of God intelligently this edition is unsurpassed. The type is large, clear, Bourgeois, Self-Pronouncing, with liberal space between the words and lines, which makes it easy to read.

Size, 8 x 5 1/2 inches.

Specimen of Type.
"From that time Jē to preach, and to say, 'I the kingdom of heaven'"

Containing New Copyrighted Helps by most reliable Authorities. A Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, New Colored Maps.

No. 4712. Divinity Circuit Teachers' Bible, French Seal Leather, red under gold edges, Silk Head bands and Silk Marker.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 5.00

No. 512RL. Red Letter Teachers' Bible. The Words of Christ in the New Testament, Old Testament Passages Alluded to by Christ, Various Prophecies Relating to Christ in the Old Testament, etc., all PRINTED IN RED. Binding same as described above and same large Self-Pronouncing type.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 6.00

No. 733X. Holman India Paper, Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 10.65

Funeral services were held at Bethel, on August 24, 1931. Many of her host of friends and relatives gathered to pay a tribute of respect. Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord. Their influence lives on for good.

A. W. ANDES.

666

LIQUID or TABLETS

Relieves a Headache or Neuralgia in 30 minutes, checks a Cold the first day, and checks Malaria in three days.

666 Salve for Baby's Cold

PIEDMONT COLLEGE

A SENIOR COEDUCATIONAL INSTITUTION

OFFERS

Standard Courses leading to the usual Academic Degrees; also Courses in Music and Home Economics.

Thorough Instruction in Speech and in the Commercial Branches.

A beautiful location in the "Foothills of the Blue Ridge"; altitude of 1,500 feet; spring waters and invigorating climatic conditions.

An enviable reputation for sound scholarship, wholesome student life and Christian Idealism.

Expenses exceptionally light: $318.50 for the College Year.

For Catalogue, write,

JONATHAN C. ROGERS, Dean,
Demorest, Georgia

SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE

FOUR YEAR STANDARD COLLEGE

A Memorial of the Congregational-Christian Union.

FRANK E. JENKINS, Pres. MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD, Dean

Second Semester will open January 27, 1932, with full provision for beginning courses.

Chartered BETHLEHEM COLLEGE
June 2, 1922

Renamed PIEDMONT JUNIOR COLLEGE
May 18, 1928

Renamed SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE, June 3, 1931

SCHOLARSHIP HIGH

EXPENSES LOW

CHARACTER SUPREME

A Strong Faculty, Educated in 25 Universities and Colleges in 12 States.

Unsectarian, but thoroughly Christian.

For Information about Entrance, write—

DEAN MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD,
WADLEY, ALABAMA.

For Other Information, write—

DR. FRANK E. JENKINS, Acting President,
LA GRANGE, GEORGIA.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY. 1956.
Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Representing the Southern Christian Convention and the Congregational Churches of the Southeast.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY

VOLUME LXXXIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1931.

NUMBER 41.

ON TO BURLINGTON!

October 20th will be an important day in the history of the Congregational Christian Church in the South. More than forty years ago, our forefathers assembled in extraordinary session to face the problem of higher education for the youth of our Church, and the establishment of ELON COLLEGE was the result.

At Burlington, we meet to face the problem of maintaining our College and providing for its adequate support and its future leadership. The proper solution of this problem demands our love, our loyalty, our wisdom, our ability, our resources, our faith, our prayers, and our presence, to the end that our obligations may be met in full, and our College may continue her fine service to the Church and to the Kingdom.

On to Burlington! I hear the voices calling: The voice of the founders of ELON COLLEGE, those who have gone to their reward, and those who still live; the voice of the laymen and ministers who have sacrificed and prayed for its founding and its future, but are with us no more; the voice of the Faculty, noble men and women, who have put their lives on the Altar of Higher Education for the Church, that the youth of our day may be properly prepared for life; the voice of the College, the voice of the Church, the voice of the future, and the voice of God, are calling to us, one and all, to arise and carry on: to combine our wisdom and our resources under sane and directed leadership, for the profitable permanence of the Institution that is dear to our hearts and that holds the future of our Church largely in its embrace. Can you refuse the Call?

Lay aside cares and responsibilities, postpone engagements, let business wait — on the 20th of October ELON COLLEGE needs you!

On to Burlington!

L. E. SMITH, President,
The Southern Christian Convention.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Rev. J. E. McCaully changed his church address from 505 S. Main St., Norfolk, Va., to 3000 Grove Ave., Richmond, Va., and his home address from 129 Hardy Ave., Norfolk, Va., to 3206 Grove Ave., Richmond, Va.

We call our readers attention to the appeal being made by Dr. L. E. Smith in behalf of Elon College. The future of the Church is bound up in Elon's future, so we should bestir ourselves and heed James admonition that "Faith without works is dead."

Dr. and Mrs. M. J. W. White, Jr., missionaries to Cagayan, Misamis, P. I., announce the arrival of a new missionary on September 3rd. Little Miss White seems quite at home in the far away field, and she with mother and father seem quite happy and well.

Rev. J. Howard Smith, who graduated from Elon last May and who served New Hope Church as pastor the past year, is now a student in the Theological Department, Yale University. "I miss being at Elon," he writes, "but I am certainly enjoying my work here, at Yale." In another column we give an account of his meeting at New Hope.

Our United Church, Lynchburg, Va., is on the lookout for a pastor the coming year, Rev. G. C. Crutchfield having served notice that he will not return to the work at the close of the present Conference year in November. The chairman of the Pulpit Committee is Mr. W. T. Dunn, Kemper Street Station, Lynchburg, Va., who will be glad to correspond with available prospective pastor.

Our Ocean View Church made a fine report in August. The attendance at the church services averaged 109. Five new members were received during the month, and there were from five to twenty visitors present in each of the church services. Rev. W. T. Warren, the pastor, has greatly endeared himself to the people, and the prospects for a good, strong church at Ocean View seem quite promising.

One seemingly interested, approached the editor recently. "Well, I hear that Elon College will have to close up and quit. Is that true?" The reply was, "Well, I was with a man the other day who said he heard it rumored, in fact, heard it preached in a church, that the world was coming to an end soon. Is that true?" The one is about as true as the other, we presume, but rumor and alarm can tell you anything.

Every member of the General Convention at its last session, and all members from churches who can do so, should attend the extraordinary session of the Southern Convention to assemble at 10:00 a. m., Oct. 20th, in our Burlington Christian Church. The welfare and the future of our own Elon are to be taken to heart and discussed and laid upon the minds and hearts of those who attend. Surely no enterprise or institution amongst us has made such contribution to our church life and growth the past forty years as Elon College. And out of sheer gratitude for what the College has done and out of hope and prospect for what the College may do in the future, the loyal, faithful members of Christian Churches in all parts should come together for this important meeting. We must give to our own Elon in this time of her great need the best in thought, in prayer, in service and in sacrifice that we are capable of giving. In the multitude of counsel there is wisdom, and we need to take counsel together in this vital matter of our church life and history.

REVIVAL AT PROVIDENCE-MEMORIAL

The revival services at Providence-Memorial Christian Church, Graham, N. C., began on the fifth Sunday of August, at 7:45 P. M. Rev. L. A. Nall of Elon College, brought the message each evening, and he did his work well. His sermons were of the plain old gospel type, filled with the spirit, rebuking sin, and warning the sinner, in a loving way, to flee from the wrath to come and accept Christ. His warnings were heeded, as seventeen persons were converted and reclaimed. While, as yet, no additions have been made to the church membership, we are assured that this meeting has accomplished great and lasting good, with Christian people being both prepared and encouraged to do the will of God.

The singing was conducted by Rev. Wayne Curtis of Belmont, N. C., and he was splendid, putting his heart and soul into the singing. Both the choir and congregation sang with power and rejoicing.

Our attendance for this meeting was far above the average for our church, with members of other denominations present each night.

The services were closed on Thursday evening, September 10th, with the presence of the Holy Spirit resting upon the church and those who had been blessed to attend.

For these blessed results; the riches of His saving grace, and the spiritual uplift of His people in His glorious kingdom, we praise His matchless Name.

J. N. FOGLEMAN,
Pastor.

REVIVAL AT NEW HOPE.

From the third Sunday in September through the fourth, the New Hope Christian Church, R. F. D., Louisburg, N. C., held its annual revival. The pastor preached during the first two days. On the second night Rev. M. F. Allen, of Newport News, Virginia, arrived to assist in the meeting. Brother Allen preached good sermons, and the church was greatly revived. During the meeting many members were restored to the church, and several others professed faith in Christ.

On Sunday, September 27th, Bro. Allen baptized two by affusion and seven by immersion.

At the conclusion of the Sunday morning service a "Goodbye" service was given for the pastor, who is leaving for Yale University.

The membership of the church was spiritually lifted by the good meeting. Large crowds attended every service, and a great number of visitors from near-by churches came.

J. HOWARD SMITH,
Pastor.

NOTICE.

Rev. P. H. Brown of Chicago, who has been supplying the pulpit at First Christian Church, Portsmouth, Va., during the absence of the pastor on vacation, will remain indefinitely in the South. Mr. Brown is a man thoroughly committed to the Word of God, and one who has been greatly used of the Lord in both evangelistic and pastoral fields. Anyone who desires to secure him for supply work, or for evangelism, may take the matter up with Mr. Brown by writing him in care of the undersigned, or by calling Telephone, Portsmouth 1269-M.

H. C. CAVINESS.

A PRIZE SERMON PROPOSAL.

Congregational-Christian Ministers, Attention!

Two friends of the American Board—both Corporate Members—are eager to see our ministers become more intelligent and enthusiastic advocates of the cause of foreign missions. They believe there never was a time when the spirit and message of Christ were more needed around the world. They are also convinced that the work of the American Board will bear the closest scrutiny by those who are sincerely and intelligently concerned with "the permeation of the world by the Spirit of Christ."

With these considerations in mind, they have offered the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars ($150) to be divided into three parts—$75, $50, and $25, and used according to the following Conditions.

Each minister who is interested is asked to submit three copies of a sermon dealing with any aspect of foreign missions.

Any minister in regular charge of a Congregational or Christian church is eligible.

The sermon must have been preached on some Sunday during the months of September, October, or November, 1931, preferably November 15th, the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, and the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of the Williamstown Haystack Prayer Meeting.

Its delivery must not have exceeded twenty minutes in length.

The three copies must be in the hands of the Editor of the Missionary Herald not later than December 5, 1931. The first page of each manuscript must be headed as follows:

"Sermon preached in Church, at by Subject
Text"

All sermons will be examined by a committee, who will choose the three which in its judgment are the most convincing presentations of the subject. Seventy-five dollars will be awarded the author of the first choice, fifty dollars to the second, and twenty-five dollars to the third. These three sermons will be published in the Missionary Herald. (Seven other sermons will receive honorable mention, and the manuscripts held for use by the American Board.) All other manuscripts will be returned to their authors on receipt of return postage. (The Committee will reserve the right to cancel the whole plan in case less than fifty ministers co-operate.)

In this connection the American Board would suggest the following titles as a partial up-to-date, helpful bibliography:

Basil Matthews: The Clash of World Forces.

D. J. Fleming: Helping People Grow.

Ray E. Phillips: The Bantu Are Coming.

Bishop McConnell: Human Needs and World Christianity.

Albert Schweitzer: On the Edge of the Primaeval Forest.

Paul Hutchinson: World Revolution and Religion.

Pearl S. Buck: The Good Earth.

K. S. Latourette: What Can I Believe about Christian Missions.

Current Mission problems and Outlook, 25c. (To be obtained from Foreign Missions Conference, 419 Fourth Ave., New York.)

Hunnicut and Reid: The Story of Agricultural Missions.

S. G. Inman: Trailing the Conquistadores.

C. F. Andrews: Mahatma Gandhi's Ideas.

Vol. I. of the report of the Jerusalem Meeting of the International Missionary Council.

Recent numbers of the International Review of Missions.

• Current numbers of the Missionary Herald.

CONGREGATIONAL NEWS

REV. E. C. GILLETTE, Editor; REV. F. P. ENSMINGER, and REV. M. J. SWEET, Associates.

MR. and MRS. GERALD SMITH conducted one of their best Vacation Bible Schools this summer in a Congregational Methodist Church. It was a union school.

LIBERTY CHURCH, EAST TALLASSEE, has made a remarkable campaign for Missions. Eighty people, some of them not members of the church, have pledged to give quarterly for world service.

REV. J. MARION DOPSON was ordained at the meeting of the Central Association, at E. Tallassee. His father was one of the original Congregational Methodists, who became a Congregationalist under Superintendent Gale of Florida.

THE COTTON MILL YOUNG PEOPLE organized a "Band of Hope" on Christian Endeavor lines, but including members of the B. Y. P. U. In one community, Mr. Davies found only two Bibles, and secured 40 Bibles and 100 Gospels of John, from the American Bible Society, for distribution.

MISS MARGUERITE DAVISON has greatly interested the attendants at the Alabama Associations by dressing up young people and children in the costumes of peoples in countries served by the American Board. The dressed-up individuals were brought in during a talk on the Missionary work.

MR. SIDNEY H. DAVIES was in West Florida this summer, conducting Vacation Bible Schools and evangelistic meetings, and doing much pastoral work with the people. Some of the West Florida children were so eager to attend the schools in the middle of the day, that they picked the regular amount of cotton by going early to the fields and staying late.

CENTRAL ALABAMA ASSOCIATION met at East Tallassee Church. Eight churches showed a gain of twenty-seven members and a loss of eleven members. Two churches did not report gains. Eight churches had daily vacation Bible school. There were seven Christian Endeavor Societies. There was excellent interest in the discussion of topics of the Association's program.

MISS PATTIE LEE COGHILL has returned to her work in Florida, after a month's vacation at her home, and prior to that two months work in Kentucky. Miss Coghill has a full program planned with a series of Interdenominational Leadership Training Schools and with the regular association meetings and visitation of individual churches. She returns full of eagerness for her work.

DUNCAN'S CREEK REVIVAL. It was a good one, carried forward by the pastor, Rev. Carl Parker. Seven new members united with the church as a result. This church, out in the country, is made up of some very strong men and women. The pastor announces the prospect of another series of special meetings about Christmas time, and has in mind an interesting evangelist to help. We shall watch with interest.

EAST ALABAMA ASSOCIATION met at Wesley Chapel in the hill region near Delta. This association is small, but is in the region of the strong Alabama Christian Conference, and there will be a re-alignment of the churches at a future date. The leading churches reported a gain of 20, 12, and 8 members, respectively, with a total loss of six members. In the entertaining church, there are a number of school teachers in the fellowship.

DR. LILLIAN B. FULTON, pastor of the Congregational Church at Lake Worth, was the subject of an illustrated article in the magazine supplement of the Atlanta Journal of September 20th. The article was written by Helen Van Hoy Smith. It was an interesting article, and gave Dr. Fulton's viewpoint concerning women preachers. Dr. Fulton says, "There is no reason why women shouldn't make a go in the ministry," and a large number have.

DR. and MRS. LEWIS H. KELLER were in an automobile accident in Illinois on September 14th. They were returning from Madison, Wisconsin to Atlanta. The car went down a ten foot embankment and turned upside down. Mrs. Keller was in a hospital at Bloomington for eight days with a sprained back, but is now sufficiently recovered to finish the trip, and they are now in Atlanta. All of their friends rejoice with them in this marvelous escape.

NORTH ALABAMA ASSOCIATION met in Mt. Moriah Church, north-east of Moulton. The largest gain of membership during the year was made by the United Congregational Christian Church of Birmingham. The high point of the conference was the reception of two new churches: One at Rock Springs, near Haleyville, with 22 members, and the Congregational Community Church of Birmingham, which came in with a strong membership, pastor and working force. Delegates were present from these churches. Miss Ruth Turner, who had summer work in this association, with her sister, Miss Elsa Turner, helped with the program.

LOVEJOY. A significant name and a significant work. All of the seven hundred people present at their great Home Coming, September 20th will tell you so. This beautiful rural church, twenty-eight miles south of Atlanta, with beautiful grounds and improved building, new roof, new decorations inside, new piano, and several new members, is rendering a very significant service to a large parish. But they say, with all the new things they have, they do not want a new minister. Dr. Carl Parker satisfies. He gave them a great sermon on "The Finest Joy." This theme in the Lovejoy Church, with a people who love each other and their minister, and rejoice in their work, should make a joy supreme and work for the life of a Christian community a delight.

GEORGIA STATE CONFERENCE.

"The Vision and the Task" will be the theme of the Georgia State Conference to be held at Fredonia Church, Barnsville, October 27 to 28th. The advance copy of the program was prepared by Moderator H. B. Mobray, Rev. L. L. Stanley, Rev. J. D. Dollar, Dr. W. T. McElveen, Rev. J. F. Blackburn, Dr. W. Knighton Bloom, Rev. Carl Parker and Rev. M. J. Sweet, at Atlanta, September 22nd.

This program includes such themes as "The State of the Church," "Spiritual Evangelism," "The Vision and the Task," "Does Grouping Churches Succeed?" A round table discussion. "Seattle and its Results," "How I Get My Sermons." A round table discussion. Young people's work.

The Conference sermon will be delivered by Dr. McElveen. Other speakers will be Dr. D. B. Atkinson, Associate Moderator of the General Council of the Congregational and Christian Churches, President H. C. Newell, Rev. H. B. Mobray, Miss Annie Campbell, Rev. J. D. Dollar, Rev. T. L. Leverett, James Mahaffy, M. H. Flemming, Rev. M. H. Gray and others. At this Conference it is likely that such steps as may be necessary will be taken to perfect a union of Congregational and Christian churches into a united State Conference. This promises to be a most interesting and important meeting. Delegates from all the Christian churches, as well as from Congregational churches, are being invited by the Fredonia Church, which is more than cordial in its welcoming hospitality.

METHODS CORNER

BY REV. ELISHA A. KING, D. D.

Miami Beach, Fla.

A young minister came to my home the other day to confer about the use of the stereopticon in his church. He is the son of a minister and has been in the ministry only four years. The church he is now serving has been meeting in a hall but at present a new building is in process of construction. The church has never held a Sunday evening service, but when they get into their new building they will hold such a service. The young minister realizes that he will be confronted with a real task.

He desires to use the stereopticon for he knows other ministers have and he is convinced that he must do something besides preaching in the conventional way. In our conference I made several suggestions and I would like to pass them on to you.

It is probable that the State University in your state has a Visual Extension department designed to help public schools and churches. In this case the use of the visual material by churches would be considered educational. In Florida we have such a department of our University at Gainesville. The department issues a catalog of slides. The cost of using these slides is only the cost of transportation. In the list of pictures there are many Biblical sets. I suggest that you investigate and see if such help can be had from your state university.

Another source of supply is our own denominational headquarters. The State Superintendent could secure lecture sets for you. A splendid catalog of lectures is issued. The slides are beautifully colored and cover almost every country. When I use these lectures I re-arrange the slides so that pictures of the country come first and then I use those next that show how Christianity has effected the people. I call the illustrated talk a Travelogue on this or that country. People will come out to such programs and you can make them interesting and instructive.

Lantern slides may be rented from numerous firms. Ideal Pictures Corporation, 26 East 8th Street, Chicago, carry slides and everything pertaining to motion pictures. The Victor Animatograph Company, Davenport, Iowa, has lanterns and lantern slides of every description. Riley and Riley, 21 St. Stephen's Place, New Dorp, Staten Island, N. Y., rent slides. The Photo Drama Extension Lyceum, 26 East 8th St., Chicago, rents slides of every description. Riley through the Congregational-Christian headquarters at 287 4th Ave., N. Y., at a discount. The young man mentioned above says he is going to try the stereopticon in his new church. It is an up-to-date way of preaching. It is the visual way. One picture, we are told, is worth ten thousand words.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR

J. O. ATKINSON, ELON COLLEGE, N. C.

ASSOCIATE EDITOR

E. C. GILLETTE

117 W. Forsyth Street, Jacksonville, Fla.

CONTRIBUTING EDITORS

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

S. C. HARRELL

J. E. MCCAULEY

NEWS EDITOR

W. C. WICKER

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

MEN AND MISSIONS.

A very sad lack in our Christian Church is that of interest in, or care for, Missions among the men. Our women, through their Missionary Societies, are learning something about Missions. And they are doing great things for Missions, and getting a great deal out of what they are doing. They are also giving a great deal to this supreme business of the Church. No church ever gets very far until it takes seriously the command of our Lord, and puts that supreme command in the forefront of its thinking. The big reason why so little is done for Missions in the Christian Church is because the men know so little about Missions. They cannot care much about that about which they know so little. And the sad feature of it is that nothing definite or constructive is being done to interest the men in Missions. The Church is the only institution on earth that undertakes missionary work, and every missionary, at home and abroad, is sent out and supported by missionary churches and mission societies. The Church is the only spiritual body on earth, and it proves its spirituality and spiritual significance, by undertaking a spiritual task in trying to convert this world to Christ, and to preach His gospel at home and abroad, to those who haven't known or accepted Him. For this fundamental reason, it is most deplorable that our men know so little about Missions, and are doing so little to learn about that which is fundamental to church life and spiritual growth.

This writer has just read with deep interest what two or three pastors are doing to interest their men in Missions. Dr. G. Edward Osborne of the Hanover Christian Church (Disciples), Richmond, Va., writes:

"In connection with our training school last fall, we introduced a course on missions particularly for men, which was taught by Dr. Royal J. Dye. Nearly one hundred people, a great percentage of them men, were in attendance on the ten lectures of this mission study course. (Dr. Dye based his course on No. 106, 'Missionary Materials and Methods,' general elective course in the curriculum of the International Council of Religious Education.) Not all bought the book or took the examination, but their very presence in the class, night after night, greatly stimulated missionary interest and activities in our church this year. Though we reduced our current expense budget on account of the depression, our missionary budget was slightly increased over last year. We are planning a similar class for our training school this fall, dealing with some phase of home missions and church erection."

How happy, indeed, we would be to read of pastors in our dear Christian Church trying to stimulate an interest in Missions by such methods as those employed by Dr. Osborne of Richmond.

Another pastor, Dr. H. J. Armstrong, of the United Baptist and Christian Church, Duluth, Minn., writes:

"I am planning a mid-week school of religion, made up of four quarters for this coming winter. One quarter of six weeks will be our school of missions. The other three quarters will concern themselves with courses on church history, a Bible course, the social teachings of Jesus, and perhaps a course on comparative religions. We plan to devote twenty minutes to devotional work each Wednesday evening, and forty minutes to lecture and discussion of the above subjects. A different layman will lead the service each Wednesday night."

Out in Nebraska, in the church of which Rev. W. L. Goodell is pastor, the women, through their missionary society, inaugurated a plan to reach and interest the men of the church in Missions. They set the time of their meeting in the evening, and at the church, and urged the men to attend. The group was ungraded, men, women and children all being allowed and urged to attend. This year this church expects to hold a similar class in co-operation with the societies of the other churches of their town.

From some source there should come a way to interest the men in Missions. Here is a reason. Some of the best books now coming from the press are books on "Missions," "Race Prejudice," "International Relations," "World Betterment," "Kingdom Enlargement," "God's World," "The Desire of All Nations," etc. Through these books the women are learning more about the world's condition than our men are, and they are learning more about international relationships and goodwill, and they are not only learning more about goodwill among the nations, they are doing more about it. Can't something be done to get the men to catch up with the women in the good work of making this whole world a better world, and of trying to bring about goodwill in the world, through making known the gospel and the life of our Lord Jesus Christ?

J. O. A.

SHALL THE PULPIT REFLECT OR DIRECT?

A discerning writer in a current journal brings evidence to bear that the pulpit of the present reflects rather than directs the conscience of the pew. There are three examples exhibiting this "hysteria of initiative."

An eugenic society or a reform organization begins a "campaign" of publicity about "birth control," or "companionate marriage." Immediately the church falls for the propaganda, pastors "organize forums" and church assemblies issue "deliverances." When the newspaper novelty wears off "religion loses interest in them."

Or even a more notable example. Psychology starts something, gets space on the front page, gets itself featured in the class room and in the forum. Immediately the pulpit rushes into the "new psychology," and preachers rush onto the craze of psychology "until the vocabulary of some preachers is so weighted with words and phrases that smell of the laboratory, that even an educated man (in the pew) who is not a specialist, is lost in the fog." What results? Our observer says, "One who has recently graduated in the new psychology or in Religious Education, considers the theologically trained minister incapable of understanding what religion is all about." So goes the craze for modernity, with hurt for pulpit and pew.

This notable example is cited: "Publicity has become such an integral part of the minister's training that recently, when the Congregationalists, Presbyterians and the Greater New York Federation of Churches passed resolutions in the latter part of the week asking for an investigation of New York City, a dozen ministers changed their sermon subjects overnight to the problem of "Civic Corruption."

True, the religious life is one with all life; but should it not be the part of the pulpit to direct rather than to merely reflect the thought and life of mankind. One observer in The Missionary Review concludes: "A great philosopher has said, 'Religion is what we do with our solitude,' and in a real sense it may be said that religion is at its best when it stands apart and alone. It looks out from a watch-tower, it proclaims a gospel, it heralds the coming of a King, it does not reflect public opinion, it moulds the thought of men and nations. It does not rehearse what men say, it issues a mandate. It does not get its commission from industry or economics or sociology, its commission comes from the Risen Lord."

J. O. A.

CRITICISM.

There are two kinds of criticism, constructive and destructive. There is another criticism which simply passes judgment after careful examination. This last form of criticism is a part of all well organized factories where the products are carefully examined and cast aside or allowed to pass. This form or criticism has a double value; it improves the producer and the product. It prevents carelessness on the part of workers, and keeps the goods up to a fixed standard. It makes for the good of employer, employee, and the public. The editor passes on what is to be printed in the paper, and the superintendent passes on what is produced by the factory.

But the two kinds of criticism, constructive and destructive, occupy a different place in human society. Constructive criticism proceeds from a good motive and a desire to see improvement in the person or thing criticised. Such is the work of parents in their effort to impress their language, their manners, their character and their future. It is, also, the function of teachers to criticise pupils with a view to improve their thought, their expression, their capacity, and their usefulness.

Constructive criticism is necessary for the development of that which is best in the individual and in society. Sermonic criticism of gross evils and prevalent sins has as its purpose the improvement of persons, families, business, and society. The motive in criticism determines its value and its results.

Destructive criticism is careless in its investigation, evil in its expression, and injurious in its

(Continued on page 5.)

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

By DR. W. C. WICKER.

SPEAKERS AT SUNDAY EVENING CLUB.—

Among the speakers to be heard at the Chicago Sunday Evening Club this season for the first time, are Rev. Harold L. Bowman of Portland, Oregon, Dr. Luther A. Weigle of Yale, Rev. Paul Sherer of the Lutheran Church of the Holy Trinity in New York, Rev. Henry M. Edmonds of Birmingham, Alabama, and Cannon Guy Rogers of England. The club opens on October 4th. Clifford W. Barnes, the president, who has been in Europe the past two months, attending as a delegate to the convention of the World Alliance to promote International Friendship through the Churches, held in Cambridge, will tell of the work of that body, speaking on the subject, "Europe and the Peace Movement." Our own Fred B. Smith will also speak at the meeting.

DRY DRIVE FOR COLLEGES.—

A drive to enlist college youth in the study of the prohibition problem is being undertaken by the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association; by a series of fifty-mile forums, announces Harry S. Warner, secretary of the association. Students, professors and college workers within a radius of fifty miles will be gathered in each of these conferences, which will be preceded or followed by conferences and addresses by speakers and student secretaries in nearby colleges, thus reaching directly 500 colleges during the year. Columbus, Ohio, will have the first forum, October 17th and 18th. Among the subjects to be considered are: "Alcohol in Modern Society," "The Social and Economic Aspects of Prohibition," "The Canadian System of Liquor Control," and "The Swedish and Other Possible Alternatives."

DAY OF ATONEMENT.—

The great holy day of the Jewish faith began on October 1st with sundown. Special services were scheduled in the synagogues of America as of the entire world. Through the work of the national conference of Jews and Christians, special notice of the Jewish holy days was taken by many Christian pulpits. It is also pleasing to note that the acting Commissioner of Immigration at the port of New York gave instructions that on the day prior to the day of atonement, Jewish immigrants would be examined at the piers so that they need not go to Ellis Island. This courtesy should be appreciated by the Jews all over America, and should beget in them a kindly spirit toward the American people which will be wholesome. It pays to practice the Christian spirit in all we do, nationally as well as individually. We should make this the rule of our life in all things.

PEACE MEETING FOR 150 CITIES.—

"How may another war be averted?" is the theme to be discussed at peace mass meetings to be held in 150 cities across the United States and Canada, during the week of October 25th to 31st, under the auspices of the World Tomorrow. These meetings are sponsored by a committee of 275 distinguished peace leaders under the chairmanship of Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, of Union Seminary, and Dr. George C. Pidgeon, former moderator of the United Church of Canada. Five major topics will be discussed at the meetings: Disarmament, world organization, removing causes of hostility, war resistance, and education for peace. The largest auditoriums available are being reserved in the various cities, and not less than 200 outstanding peace advocates will speak at the meetings. This is a great educative movement for better times for the future, and it should have the support of all Christian people in our country.

NEW TYPE OF SENATOR.—

Colorado is sending to the United States Senate, in the person of Edward P. Costigan, a leader who will make some genuine contribution to the solution of the problems with which our nation and the world are faced. Unlike many of the so-called liberal senators from the middle west, his vision compasses international as well as domestic problems. He will not deal with issues on a partisan basis. He was prompt in his support of President Hoover in the German financial crisis. He has been fully as quick in his opposition to the administration because it does not provide for the federal aid which he believes to be required by the situation. He lived as a close neighbor to the senior LaFayette, and they were close friends. The future will demand wisdom, courage and consecration to the solution of the problems which confront us in this time of crisis, and Christian spirit should control public officers rather than partisan politics.

PUBLIC PARK FOR FREE DISCUSSION.—

The city of Denver, Colorado, has designated a public park as the place where all public meetings shall be held in the future. It is hoped to eliminate street meetings and make this park serve the purposes of such an open forum as is conducted in Hyde Park, London. It can be used without securing a permit, by the I. W. W., communists, or any other group. The city has been asked that they be notified of any meeting only that they may furnish police protection for the speaker. The wise statement was made, "The administration feels less trouble will be occasioned by permitting speakers complete freedom than to ban them from streets and cause them to regard themselves as martyrs." The Denver ministers expressed confidence at their last meeting in the new police administration in the city, and believe that this plan will be properly directed and protected, so that it will work for the highest good for the city, with freedom extended to those who may use the park.

URGES RELIGIOUS EDUCATION.—

District Attorney Crain has been speaking before the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, and in his address he took time to plead for religious education, which he described as a moral right of childhood. On this point he said: "Any education which leaves out entirely a child's relation to God is a one-sided education. I believe that religious teaching of a child in the faith of the parents should supplement his secular education. I believe that if this were done, there would be growth of morality and that there would be a diminishment of crime and an increase in human happiness." If this be true, and from the seeming increase of crime among the white race in our country it seems to be true, we need to give more attention to the religious education of our youth. This can be done through the local churches if our colleges will prepare leaders for this work and plan to give courses in religious education that will reach all the children and young people during the summer months when they are not pursuing secular education.

NO POLLYANNA PREACHING.—

Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, pastor of Madison Avenue Methodist Church, New York, says that the pulpit faces today its greatest opportunity of a generation, and "yet it is in imminent danger of forfeiting its chance for service and its claims to respect." "May God save the Church from the imbecility of putting on a Pollyanna smile as the solution of the present panic," Dr. Sockman said. "The world is weary of public speakers, whether preachers or politicians, whistling in the dark to keep our spirits up. Better let us have frowning realism than a false optimism. There is a difference between courage and bluff, and the time has come to get back to the former. Furthermore, let us not think that we of the church are meeting the situation by merely repeating pious platitudes about the need of 'getting back to God.' Granting that our social and business chaos is due to our violation of divine laws, what does 'getting back to God' mean? It certainly means more than an emotional effervescence of individual piety. Finding the will of God in our confused time is a task which calls for the service of our social sciences. To be sure, the church's function is not to be a sociological or economic expert, but if it is to guide men Godward, it must consider concrete situations and social programs. Christ's plan involves the conversion of business systems as well as ministry to individual souls."

EDITORIAL.

(Continued from page 4.)

results. Ordinary gossip, false statements about others, or their business, tends to damage character and business. Many a time reputation has been damaged by false reports. There is no more widespread damage to character and influence than by false criticism. It is the cheapest and most harmful work of human speech. The criticism of business as well as of persons often does damage which cannot be cured. The motive behind speech or action determines its character, whether it is constructive or destructive in its results. Passing judgment upon persons or things without investigation, is ruinous in its results.

Constructive criticism is a blessing to mankind, destructive criticism is ruinous to the critic and to the criticised. The common fault of finding fault is a mark of a bad spirit and a wrong motive. Nothing stands the test like love and careful speech.

W. W. S.

DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE.

With the world's greatest disarmament conference convening at Geneva, Switzerland, February 2nd, every possible effort will be made by the Congregational and Christian Churches to secure on the part of the United States' delegation an unwavering demand for a substantial reduction in the army, navy and air forces of all nations. A direct reduction in the number of enlisted men and officers, in guns, ships, planes and other equipment and in the budgets is wanted.

A disarmament and world peace committee, composed of representatives from each State, has been appointed by the executive committee of the General Council of the Congregational and Christian Churches. The task of this national committee is to mobilize the sentiment and influence of the churches, in order that they may "help to form the tremendous volume of public opinion needed in support of disarmament to overcome the well-organized and highly financed influence of the militaristic caste and armament manufacturers."

Members of the disarmament and world peace committee from Southern States include: President Hamilton Holt, LL. D., Rollins College, Winter Park, Fla., Vice-President D. B. Atkinson, Piedmont College, Demorest, Ga.; Rev. F. C. Lester, Waverly, Va., and Rev. R. J. Clinchy, Washington, D. C.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

Conferences are to be held in a short time and one of the questions is, will the churches send up their apportionments? It is easy to put off this matter to the end of the year and then try to raise the money. The apportionments for this year: Valley of Virginia, $1,493.00; Eastern Virginia, $10,030.00; Western North Carolina, $2,645.00; North Carolina, $8,435.00; Eastern North Carolina, $3,000.00; Georgia and Alabama, $910.00; Alabama, $629.00. These added make a total of $27,142.00 for the seven conferences. That is not quite one dollar per member for the entire year. That looks like a small contribution to make for the whole year, but the churches fall behind the conference call, though the causes for which this fund is apportioned need all of this and more.

The difficulty in raising the apportionment is not because it is so much, but because the raising of it is put off till near the close of the year. It really requires a year to do a year's work, and neglect is the cause of many failures. What churches need to practice is to find out at the beginning of the Conference year how much they have been asked to raise for the year and then begin the work of raising it; and let that work run through the entire year. By that method, every church would send up to Conference its apportionment and no church would feel burdened or that it had been asked to give too much for its ability to give. But when Conference is drawing near and the matter of our apportionment "comes up" in the Committee on Finances or the Board of Deacons, the matter seems too much to raise. A year to do a year's work is a good rule and it works if followed earnestly and prayerfully. It is just as important to pray over money questions as any other questions. In fact what churches need is more prayer in the practical field, and in the spiritual field too. If what members give to the Lord was made more a matter of prayer than of neglect or talk, the financial needs of the church would be met and then all would be better satisfied. One thing is plain, and that is, that delegates who go up to Conference with current expenses paid in full and a check for their Conference apportionment, such delegates feel proud of their church and the year's work. But when they are behind in these fields, the delegates are out of place or feel humiliated when the reports are read.

As we come toward the close of this Conference year, times are considered hard, money scarce, and, if the matter of raising apportionments has been neglected, the danger is that churches will feel like excusing themselves in going up to Conference short in their collections. This is the time when the churches should try all the harder to carry up the apportionments in full. There is no debt more binding than our debt to our Heavenly Father who has done so much for us. Jesus Christ gave His life for us, and we ought to give our own service and our means to His church. This is the year for all the churches in all the Conferences to do their best, and their best means that they will send up their apportionments in full, and then the churches, the conferences, the convention, and all the causes that share in this fund, will be grateful and rejoice. There is nothing more satisfying in human experience than the full performance of duty.

W. W. STALEY.

"Fight your job and it's hard; like it, and it becomes easy."

ELON LETTER.

We are getting off to a good start in our first semester's work. The senior class is the largest we have enrolled for several years, and the junior and sophomore classes promise well for the graduating classes of '33 and '34. The freshman class is starting off with a quality of work that bespeaks excellent preparation in their high school courses and giving promise of notable achievement in the work of the college. The spirit of the student body is excellent, and we are looking forward to a very pleasant and profitable year.

The Orientation course, concerning which we wrote some time ago, is under way with the following professors in charge of the groups: Dean A. L. Hook, Rev. A. W. Hurst and Dr. J. A. Hunter. Dean Hook is taking up with his group the topic "The Relation of the College to the Student;" Rev. Hurst, "The Student's Relation to His College;" Dr. Hunter, "How to Study." Other topics to be considered later are: "How to Use the Library," under the direction of Mrs. Oma Johnson, our Librarian; "The Proper Use of the Student's Time," with Dr. T. C. Amich, directing the discussion; "The Social Side of Campus Life," under Dean Diehl; "The Value of Character as an Asset to the Student," under Prof. S. A. Bennett.

The interest shown by the Freshmen themselves in these problems encourage us to believe that they will profit largely from the course and will be able to contribute more to the life of the college at the present and to society in the future because of the vision and understanding gained from the consideration of these problems so vital to student life.

J. W. BARNEY.

LANETT, ALABAMA.

Just a little summary of my work for the year which is now closing. I have served the same churches this year as last, Lanett and Noonday. The financial depression this year has made it rather hard for us to carry on as we would like to have done, but in spite of that, we have had a very good year, and we feel that we have as good people to serve as anybody. The Lord willing, we will continue with the same work next year.

Soon after the session of Conference, last October, we held a few days' meeting according to promise, at Langdale, Alabama. Our organization there had not functioned for a few years for the lack of a pastor, but several families of the Christian denomination had moved to Langdale since our Church had ceased her activities. They were very anxious for a church home, so we succeeded in having a good meeting and reorganizing our work there. We were assisted in this meeting by Rev. H. M. Gray, who was called to serve the church as pastor at its organization.

The latter part of June I assisted Bro. Gray in a two weeks' meeting at Langdale. The week following the second Sunday in August, I again assisted Bro. Gray, this time in a few days' meeting at Forest Home Church.

The week following the third Sunday in August I was with Rev. J. H. Hughes in a meeting at Mountain Grove Church, in north Alabama. The week following this, I assisted Rev. W. C. Carpenter, in a meeting at Vanceville Church, in the southern part of Georgia. The week following the first Sunday in September I assisted Rev. G. D. Hunt in a union meeting at Shady Grove Church in Clay County.

This has been a very busy year with us, and the Lord has done great things for us of which we are glad. Pray for us that whatever we may be able to do, may be done to the glory of the Lord.

J. D. DOLLAR.

ROANOKE, ALABAMA.

Under the blessings of a gracious Father we have rounded out another good year. Many souls have been saved, many pilgrims have been rejoiced, and all of our churches have been revived.

But our churches, our schools and our homes are all sensible to the financial strain under which we are passing. We have made a fair crop, but no price. Many of our farmers and those in other professions, as well, simply cannot meet their obligations. These conditions all have their bearing upon religious work, and the church is suffering proportionately with other business.

Oh, how sorely do we need a system of regulation in our churches. If the approaching session of the annual Conference can solve this problem, we will be going some, and it can, and should, be done; and it will be a glad day for the cause of Jesus Christ when it is done. We can then adjust ourselves to new conditions, not normal times, but new times. We will not have any more normal times soon, if we are looking for a plentiful supply of easy money. But should we not praise God through our church for what we do have? Why not do that and be happy?

G. D. HUNT.

IN GOD'S PRESENCE.

It was only a dream, yet so fraught with significance that it seemed real. One who had recently been called upon to give up a close relative by death, was speaking: "It must be such a shock to suddenly step into the presence of God." Another answered, "But we are always in His presence." That was all of the conversation, the dream was at an end, and departed whence all dreams go.

God's presence was with Adam and Eve when they sinned. They tried to hide from Him but could not. The Psalmist says: "If I ascend up into heaven, Thou art there: if I make my bed in hell, behold Thou art there." So we are ever in God's presence, and to those who choose to do His will, it is a blessed Presence, for in it is fulness of joy (Psalm 16:11); It shall go with us and give us rest (Exodus 33:14); It brings times of refreshing from the Lord (Acts 3:19); It goes with us all through this earth life, e'en through the valley of the shadow of death, and into the visible Presence of His glory. Yes, it is joy unspeakable and full of glory, though now we see Him not, yet believing, we rejoice (I. Peter 1:8).

"Be near me, O my Saviour,
Reveal to me Thy grace,
And help me live each moment
As gazing on Thy face."

W.

The Congregational and Christian program on behalf of world peace has been formulated and launched in accordance with action taken this summer at Seattle, Washington, by the General Council. In a resolution, it was declared that "the greatest issue before the entire human race in its political, economic, social, moral and religious life is the preservation of good will and peace among the races and nations." It was further voted that the executive committee of the General Council should "develop a worthy educational program for the purpose of helping to create a warless world."

"The lovingkindness of Jehovah is from everlasting unto everlasting."

DR. HUGH VERNON WHITE "GOES ON THE AIR."

"Perhaps one who has spent six months as a Secretary of the American Board after 20 years in the pastorate, may be permitted to indulge in some general comments on the missionary business" says Dr. White. "Things which soon come to be so matter-of-fact that one never thinks to mention them appears of interest and importance to a new-comer.

"My contacts with missionaries while in Honolulu, in California, and since coming to the American Board, have given me my picture of modern missionaries as most normal and human persons. They seem to be much better informed about the countries in which they work than business or professional people I know who have lived in these same lands. The missionaries know the political and economic situation, but they also are closely in touch with social and educational movements. They seem to understand the mind of the common man and the varied aspects of his personal experience.

"I haven't found any group of people who are facing the facts of human life more clearly and realistically, or who see more plainly the need for thorough and adequate training to do their job. The modern missionary doesn't expect the Lord to bless his efforts just because they are well intentioned. He is on his toes to improve his methods, to get new ideas, and better ways of adapting them to his particular task. So far as defects in methods of missionary work are concerned, no outsider is nearly so relentless and trenchant in his criticism as the missionary himself. He is the modern idealist, he is also a realist; realist as regards facts and conditions, Christian idealist as regards the possibilities of personal development and social progress.

"My contact with leaders and missionary work, both denominational and interdenominational, has made me aware particularly of two things.

"First, their purpose is deeply Christian. The Church and Missions have had their periods of preoccupation with the dissemination of dogmatic theologies, but the leaders of missions today are far past that point. They are not bound by ecclesiastical or denominational ambitions, but they do feel the strong compulsion to realize and share with the world Christianity as a quality of life and conduct. It is a great day for Christian Missions—the leaders see it clearly. It means an enormously expanded task, for to bring to realization the human life, the moral and spiritual content of Jesus' preaching is a far vaster thing than to get the whole world to accept a theology or to join a church.

"Our American Board leads in this daring but Christian conception of missions. We have given up reliance upon any symbol, rite, dogma or program. Christianity must mean the sheer re-making of life, individual and social, after the manner of Christ. All else is secondary, instrumental. When the full impact of this fact comes home to the Congregational-Christian Churches, it is going eventually to call for a realignment, not on the issue, "Shall we support foreign missions?" but shall we have faith to dare the task at home and in the world at large, of making human life Christian.

"Second, the distinction between what is called 'foreign missions' and the work of the church 'at home' is purely geographical and administrative, not fundamental. The world around we have the same essential task and problem. The same forces of personal weakness and social evil obstruct the way and the same spiritual forces work for the spiritual development of men. As the world grows smaller geographically there is all the closer unity of the church, whether as 'sending' or 'receiving.'"

OXFORD BIBLES for EVERY NEED

"The Oxford Bible is the Bible par excellence of the world"

THE HOME BIBLE

A Family Bible in Handy Size

An extra large type Oxford Text Bible, containing also, a family register and 12 beautifully colored maps. Size 9 x 5½ inches.

Specimen of Type

16 The LORD is King for ever and ever: the heathen are perished out

Nos.
01600 Superior Cloth, round corners and red edges $2.75
01603 French Morocco, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, head-band, book-mark $4.75

The JUNIOR'S Bible

Self-Pronouncing

With 4,000 Questions and Answers, carefully selected "Aids to Bible Study," 16 beautifully colored and 15 black full-page illustrations, 6 colored maps and a presentation page. Children may readily pronounce correctly difficult Scripture names, as this Bible is self-pronouncing. Size 7 x 4½ x 1¼ inches.

Type in Junior's Bible
2 Take the sum of all the of the children of Israel, years old and upward, thro

Nos.
1815 French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark. Make some child happy with one of these fine $2.95 Bibles

Child's ILLUSTRATED Bible

The beautifully colored illustrations in this new Bible are a delight to the children. It has clear, readable type and yet it measures only 5½ x 3½ inches.

Specimen of Type

2 My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the LORD: my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God.
10 Mercy and truth hath gathered me: righteousness and peace have kissed me: righteousness shall prevail: truth shall prevail

Nos. 02112. French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, gold edges $2.50

Pocket REFERENCE Bible

Has over 50,000 center column references. Measures only 6¼ x 4½ inches. (A splendid gift for a young lady.)

Specimen of Type

9 Behold, "O God our shield, and look upon the face of thine anointed.
10 For a day in thy courts is better
Gen. 15. 1.
Ps. 50. 1.
Is. 57. 1.
2 or, all

Nos. 07523x French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $3.25

Concordance Edition

Type and size as No. 07523x, but with a Concordance, subject index and dictionary of Scripture names. An excellent edition for students and Christian workers No. 03272x $5.00

The Oxford imprint in a Bible guarantees satisfaction

OUR LEADER

Oxford Concordance Bible

Self-Pronouncing

This beautiful Oxford India paper edition is indeed the ideal Bible for the student, preacher and evangelist. Each proper name and difficult word is divided into syllables and accented, and though printed with large clear type, the volume measures only 8½ x 5½ x 1½ inches.

Specimen of Type

8 7 2 Jē-hōi'-ā-chin was 8 years old when he began t

Nos. 03671x. Fine Grain Morocco leather, overlapping cover, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, silk $9.50 head-bands and book-mark

A UNIQUE GIFT BIBLE

With Basket Weave Binding

The Antique brown calf leather binding has a basket-weave grain, and button clasp. Has overlapping cover, art silk lined, with red under gold edges. With references. Printed on Oxford India paper. Type as Pocket Reference Bible. $5.50 No. 03255x

As No. 03255x, with concordance. No. 03276x $6.50

Oxford TEACHER'S Bibles

Have over 50,000 center column references, and 300 double-column pages of up-to-date helps, conveniently arranged in alphabetical order. Also 32 full-page illustrations, and an indexed atlas of the Bible with 15 beautifully colored maps of Bible lands.

Easy-to-Read-Edition

Size 7¼ x 5 x 1½ inches

Specimen of Type

14 Like sheep they are laid in grave; death shall feed on th

Nos. 04453. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges. A durable and handsome Bible $4.35

Oxford India Paper Edition

Only one inch thick.

0773x. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark. A beautiful gift edition $7.00

RED LETTER Edition

Same size and type as style No. 04453, with same references and helps, but with all the words of Jesus Christ printed in red. White paper edition No. 05453. French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $5.00

DORAN'S MANUAL is a most valuable addition to any minister's library. Price only $2.50.

STRAY THOUGHTS is a book worth while, by an enthusiastic member of the Christian Church.

Order from THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1536 E. Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Order from THE SUN, or from Elizabeth Publishing Co., Box 851, Charlotte, N. C. $1.00.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Secretary.

PRAYER.

God of all mercy, open our hearts to Thee and pour out Thy Spirit upon us. Never didst Thou intend that Thy children should live in any unreal or distant relationship with Thee. We plead for reality, for closeness, for conscious and constant triumph in every heart. For our joy Thou gavest salvation and peace, that in us the Author of peace might be glorified. Forgive our groveling. Put sin under our feet and so exalt in us the day of glory that all our reach may be onward and upward. We pray in Jesus' name. Amen.

"L."

ITEMS FROM OUR OVERSEAS WORK.

VICTORY FOR McMILLAN.

The hour of 11:45 will always be a significant time for Dr. Aaron M. McMillan, American Negro physician, who has been in Portugal working for his Portuguese M. D., before going to Galan-gue, West Africa. At that moment in the Medical University at Lisbon, he was declared a bona fide Portuguese doctor. He is the first Negro to accomplish this, and the first missionary physician to do so since the standards in the Medical University were raised. This is the way he describes the ceremony: "Amid beautifully painted walls, huge and ancient chairs, rows of empty seats, kingly looking men dressed in long black robes heavily trimmed in gold, marched slowly, one behind the other to their respectively appointed seats on the front of the low platform that stretched the entire width of the hall, and seated themselves before the giant arms of those enormous chairs that faced a table apparently weighing three tons. Then at the usual signal, a gentleman garbed in purple ushered me to a small table facing the regal looking jury, with my back to the audience. About that time an American who tip-toed in to see the show whispered to Mrs. McMillan, 'It looks like they are going to declare Judgment Day.' The fireworks began and quicker than I had expected, it was all over—and that's that."

THE PEOPLE HEAR THEM GLADLY

There may be restrictions on the teaching of religion in the schools of China, but there are none on reaching the people at large, either in their homes or in public meetings, declares Miss Bertha P. Reed of Tehsine, North China, who has been doing a great deal of country visiting and who finds the people in the villages ready to listen, often in large numbers. "People in their homes, especially in the country, are eager to hear what we have to say," Miss Reed testifies out of her own experience. "The Bible women can hardly keep up with the need when they are out of their classes, and they get very enthusiastic in telling about it."

A RAP AT THE DOOR.

Drinking cups made of evaporated milk tins, and much of the remaining equipment composed of kerosene and gasoline cans; patients lying on grass mats upon mud floors which are dug up and smoothed over occasionally to keep in check the vicious little flies which lay their eggs in the earth; fires built in the round mud and pole huts which supply enough smoke to fumigate huts, patients and all—this is a picture of a "hospital" in East Africa. Specifically, it is Gogoi, where Nurse Gertrude H. Merrill is trying to carry on. Such a conversation as follows is not unusual at Gogoi, although it is far beyond the imagination of American doctors, nurses and patients: A rap at the door—"What is it, Garamudenga?" "Another boy, Nkosazana." "What is the matter?" "He coughs badly and the little glass says 105. The snakes bite in his stomach and he feels his head and whole body." "Dear me, where shall we put him? That makes 23 sick people here tonight. We will have to see if there is room to lay him on the floor in your hut. If we only had a woodshed to put him into! There isn't a mat for him, and I do hope he has a blanket of his own, for I haven't even another piece of sacking, and there is no room to build a fire."

WISHES NO FINANCIAL AID.

A Chinese minister assigned five years ago to Ching Hai, near Tunghsien, North China, found a "dead" church. He studied the situation, decided the major need was for a school of higher grade than the primary school, one that would fit boys for the Middle schools in Tunghsien. Whereupon he starter one, and now has 110 students; a budget of over $1000, local currency, a fine reputation, and last, but first in importance, a growing group of christians. "He does not wish any financial aid in the running of his school," reports Miss Carolyn T. Sewall of Tientsin, "but he does very much need some help on equipment."

MISSIONARY OFFERING.

WEEK ENDING OCTOBER 3, 1931.

Sunday Schools.

Previously acknowledged, since Sept 1st ..	$ 296.52
Mt. Zion, Mebane, N. C.	1.66
Long's Chapel, Mebane, N. C.	1.87
High Point, N. C.	4.00
Howard's Chapel, Wentworth, N. C.	2.00
Hebron, Nelson, Va.	.76
Woods' Chapel, Mt. Jackson, Va.	2.00
Wadley, Alabama	1.44
Piney Plains, Cary, N. C.	1.00
Haw River, N. C.	14.54
Lebanon, Semora, N. C.	1.51
Mt. Olivet (G), Dyke, Va.	1.96
Cary, N. C.	1.58
First Christian, Greensboro, N. C.	18.72
Franklin, Va.	5.72
Mrs. B. W. Fields' Class, Reidsville, N. C.
Sunday School	2.60
Liberty, Nathalie, Va.	1.00
Hines Chapel, McLeansville, N. C.	2.86
Ether, N. C.	1.40
Antioch (R), Moffitt, N. C.	.75
Bethlehem, Suffolk, Va.	2.81
Total	$ 366.70

Individual and Church Offerings.

Previously acknowledged	$ 222.29
Ebenezer, Cary, N. C.	8.55
New Lebanon, Elberon, Va.	3.50
Total	$ 234.34

Dollar-a-Month Club.

Previously acknowledged	$ 20.00
Ernest B. Rascoe, Burlington, N. C.	2.00
Rev. S. E. Madren, Fancy Gap Va. (Beth-lehem Church)	3.75
Mrs. B. W. Fields' Class, Reidsville, N. C.
Sunday School	1.00

Miss Georgia Bradley, Mebane, N. C. (Mt. Zion Church)	3.00
Miss Jewell Hatch, Burlington, N. C. (1st Christian Church)	1.00
Total	$ 30.75

Specials.

Previously acknowledged	$ 319.50
Burlington, N. C. Sunday School	74.40
Catawba Springs Sunday School, Raleigh, N. C.	8.65
Total	$ 402.55

Summary.

Previously acknowledged	$ 858.31
Sunday Schools, Regular	70.18
Individual and Church Offerings	12.05
Dollar-a-Month Club	10.75
Specials	83.05

Total to date $ 1,034.34

J. O. ATKINSON,
Secretary.

WILL THERE BE A THANKOFFERING?

It can safely be assumed that there will be much to be thankful for by November beyond the ordinary mercies of life. It may be that we can give thanks that this disastrous depression is passing, and that some degree of prosperity smiles again. No such chance to give thanks should be missed. Comparatively few churches, however, will be able to hold a Thankoffering service if it is meant only for those who have completed their full apportionment goal, and are making this an extra and "special" gift for Dr. Wilder's hospital in Madura, or Mrs. Gates' social work in Bombay, since these are the two designated "special" objects for the Thankoffering this year.

Those privileged churches that can make a "special" Thankoffering this year, will want to know that the blueprints for Dr. Wilder's new hospital have been approved by the British Government in India. The English community in Madura, aided by several wealthy Indian leaders, has made most generous subscriptions. The hospital is assured of greater usefulness than ever, when its new building is completed.

Mrs. Gates' social center in Bombay still awaits adequate financing before the land can be purchased and the building started. It has every prospect of success before it, once the work can be enlarged.

Why should not every church hold a Thank-offering service on the Sunday preceding Thanksgiving Day, and use the occasion to inventory its missionary giving and know how far it is falling short of its apportionment goal for 1931? Then the latest news of the projects adopted by each church can be made a central part of the program, and new inspiration can come from renewed contact with the missionaries and the work selected by the church. The projects can rightly be underlined at a time like this, for the project plan can only be a success as each church follows its workers with personal interest and prayer. Thus any church can center its Thank-offering this November on its American Board projects and use the occasion to raise the balance of its missionary goal, for every dollar gathered can be counted on the apportionment.

Anyone seeking supplies for the Thankoffering this autumn, should write to Mrs. Lydia Lord Davis, Oberlin, Ohio, or to the American Board address in Boston, No. 14 Beacon Street. Two attractive concert exercises, together with leaflets describing new Thankoffering methods are available.—The American Missionary.

NEWS ITEMS.

The Young People's Missionary Society of the Dendron, Va. Christian Church has had a most successful year. They had an interesting mission study class besides each one reading an extra mission book. They held regular meetings every month with good attendance and put on a public program.

These young people have done one thing among the many, that is very commendable and that is they doubled their apportionment and have sent in their complete report to the proper officials. Miss Beryle Barrett is corresponding secretary and treasurer of this active society.

Mrs. E. L. Beale sends in the following most interesting item:

The Young People's Missionary Society of the Franklin Christian Church has had a very good year. At the beginning of our year's work, a committee was appointed to plan the work for the year. The committee met in the home of their superintendent. The programs that had been planned by Mrs. S. C. Harrell, our convention superintendent, were adopted.

In order to raise our funds a special program was planned for each quarter. For the first quarter, we had our thankoffering program. The program was in charge of one of our most efficient young people, a lovely poster was made, invitations were sent to each member, envelopes in which to place their offering were distributed to the members. This offering took care of the first quarter.

For the second quarter we had a birthday party. This was a party to which each young person was privileged to invite one, and each one was asked to bring as many pennies as they were years old. A most attractive program had been planned, and a jolly good time was had by all present.

For the third quarter we had an Easter Pageant in the main church auditorium on Easter Sunday night. A free will offering was taken.

For the last quarter, we had a mite box offering at the September meeting. The amount received in these boxes took care of our last quarter. We have met our requirements, and our attendance has been very good.

PROGRAM.

ANNUAL SESSION OF THE
NORTH CAROLINA WOMAN'S MISSIONARY CONFERENCE, ELON COLLEGE CHRISTIAN CHURCH, OCTOBER 23, 1931.

Theme—"The Kingdom Cometh."

Morning Session—10:30 o'clock.

Call to order by President, Mrs. C. H. Rowland.
Hymn—"Hail the Brightness of Zion's Glad Morning."

Worship, led by Rev. A. W. Hurst, pastor of the College Church.

Recognition of delegates, district superintendents, ministers and visitors.

President's Greetings.

Departmental Reports:

The Kingdom Cometh through—

1. Young People—Miss Lucile Mulholland, Y. P. Superintendent.
2. Child Life—Mrs. R. M. Rothgeb, Cradle Roll Superintendent.
3. Information—Mrs. W. T. Scott, Literature Superintendent.
4. Consecration—Mrs. W. H. Carroll, Spiritual Life Superintendent.
5. Life Enlistment—Mrs. S. C. Harrell, Life Membership Secretary.
6. Gifts—Mrs. W. R. Sellars, Treasurer.

Appointment of Committees.

Special Music.

Address—"The Kingdom Cometh through Sacrifice," Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Mission Secretary.

Offering.

Afternoon Session.

Call to order.

Quartette from the College.

Address—"A Program of Missionary Education for the Local Church," Miss Priscilla Chase.

Reports of Committees.

Presentation of Banner.

Closing Service.

PROGRAM.

19TH ANNUAL SESSION OF THE
EASTERN VIRGINIA WOMAN'S MISSIONARY CONFERENCE, HOLLAND CHRISTIAN CHURCH,
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1931.

Theme—"Our Father's Garden."

Morning Session 10:30 o'clock.

Call to order by President, Mrs. R. T. Bradford.

Hymn—"Take Time to be Holy."

Worship Service—Mrs. O. M. Cockes.

Recognition Period—Districts, departments, visitors and ministers.

President's Greetings.

Report of Treasurer—Mrs. W. V. Leathers.

Report on Literature—Mrs. J. E. Cartwright.

Appointment of Committees.

Offering.

Vocal Solo—"The Beautiful Garden of Prayer," by Mrs. Vernon Holland.

Address—"God Planted a Garden and Left It in Our Care," by Mrs. F. I. Johnson, President of Women's Foreign Mission Boards of America.

Afternoon Session—2 o'clock.

Call to order.

Special Music—Choir of Holland Church.

Address—"Watering the Garden God Planted," by Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Mission Secretary, Southern Convention.

Memoirs—Mrs. J. W. Manning.

Reports of Committees.

Presentation of Banners—Dr. L. E. Smith.

Closing Service.

"Father, help us to keep with care
Thy garden of treasures rich and rare;
And may our harvest ever be
Souls of Thy children, saved for Thee."

PROGRAM.

ALABAMA WOMAN'S MISSIONARY CONFERENCE.
FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH, ROANOKE, ALA.
SUNDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1931.

Theme—"Love."

Morning Session—10 o'clock.

Call to order by President, Mrs. V. E. Kitchens.

Song—"Let the Lower Lights be Burning."

Devotionals—Mrs. O. H. Orr.

Reports of District Superintendents—

Lineville, Mrs. E. C. Devaughan.

Wadley, Mrs. G. L. Stephens.

New Hope, Mrs. O. L. Royston.

Roanoke, Mrs. G. H. Veazey.

Reports of Department Superintendents—

Young People, Mrs. V. L. Carter.

Willing Workers, Mrs. Paul Beiard.

Cradle Roll, Mrs. O. L. Royston.

Literature, Mrs. L. H. Liles.

Life Membership, Mrs. O. H. Orr.

Treasurer's Report.

President's Message.

Introduction of Visitors.

Song—"O Love that Will Not Let Me Go."

Address—Dr. J. O. Atkinson.

Appointment of Committees.

Offering.

Afternoon Session—1 o'clock.

Song—"Jesus Calls Us."

Devotionals—Mrs. W. C. Morris.

Young People's Program—Lead by Mrs. V. L. Carter.

Address—Miss Sallie Poor.

"How to Make Our Association More Effective," Miss Marguerite Davison.

Business Session.

MRS. V. E. KITCHENS,
President.

NOTICE.

The next session of the Alabama Woman's Missionary Conference will meet at Roanoke, Alabama on Sunday, Oct. 13th, at 10 o'clock. Let every church get ready to send a delegate and let each church be represented. We earnestly desire the presence of as many of our ministers as can to attend this meeting. See program in the September 24th or October 1st issue of THE SUN.

MRS. V. E. KITCHENS, Pres.

COMBINATION OFFER—To a new subscriber or for renewal, $2.25, either Gentleman's (Capitol) Pen or Ladies' Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. And to "Sun" subscribers, not in arrears, any Pen at one-fourth off. Address: THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1536 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us. Postage paid and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

MEN'S PENS—Capitol, $2.00; Mercantile, $2.50; Cardinal, $3.00.

LADIES' PENS, $2.00.

ADVENTURES IN YOUTH FELLOWSHIP

"Youth at Work in the Church."

JEWEL TRUITT, Editor, Glen Raven, N. C.

"BOUND FOR THE WEST."

Our drive from Salt Lake City to Yellowstone was a pleasant one in spite of the very rough roads in some places. During the morning of the day we reached the Park, we drove for about an hour through beautiful forests and over paved roads. This was just before we entered the Park at the west gate. We also went through an Indian reservation, the Fort Hall Reservation. We had breakfast at Blackfoot, Idaho.

Lunch time came before we reached the Park, and so we ate at a very beautiful place about thirty miles south of the entrance. This place was finished on the inside with rough pine slabs, that had been smoothed off a little and shellaced. Sections of the walls were filled with mirrors and decorative borders, and other sections were filled with bits of colored paper which had been outlined in black and then shellaced, and still others with oil paintings. The tables and chairs of the dining room were made of heavy pieces of timber that had been dressed and finished with a hard, slick finish and shellaced. Everything seemed rustic, yet finely polished and pleasing to the eye.

Next came Yellowstone—one of the main points of interest on the entire trip. Entering at the west gate, we were ready to make the circle, which includes most of the interesting and famous things. The first thing that we were to see was the geysers. At a lecture we attended, they told us that geysers are only found in three places in the world. They are found in Alaska, in Africa, and in the Yellowstone National Park. And there are just fields of them in the park.

The first geyser we saw was the Fountain Geyser which gets its name from the formation that it has built up around its mouth. Hot water shoots up from its mouth at intervals. Then we saw some of the paint pots. These are pools of bubbling mud, which give the appearance of boiling. This peculiar formation is caused by the gasses bubbling through the soft mud. The paint pots get their name from the colorings in the mud. These colorings are caused in part by the gasses, while some coloring is natural in the soil. The Park gets its name from the yellow coloring found in the soil of the land and hills in the area covered by the reservation.

Next we came to Hot Lake. This lake is filled with water from Steady Geyser, which is within the lake. This hot spring is the largest geyser within a lake in the Park. Some water flows into the lake from other geysers besides Steady. The water is constantly running out of the lake, and yet it is always a lake of hot water. This lake and other hot water streams from the area empty into Firehole River, which winds through the geyser section. It pays its debt to the geysers by furnishing them the water for their eruptions. Each geyser has a cone, or funnel shaped outlet in the bottom. The water runs down this cone into the earth, going down far enough to come in contact with the hot rock beneath the earth's surface. When it reaches the boiling point, it bursts forth, forcing steam out with it. This gives the geyser eruption. When the water is all thrown out of the cone, the eruption is said to be over for that time. Part of the water runs off on the surface of the earth and part of it goes back into the cone. When the water runs down the cone and becomes heated again, there is another eruption.

The water in the pools, geysers and streams of the Park is a natural blue. It is so very clear that one is able to see the bottoms of many of the pools. Because some of them are very deep or have springs in the bottom of them the bottoms cannot be seen. This natural blue color of the water beautifies many of the lakes. Morning Glory Lake is a huge round lake with a cone shape. The spring which feeds it is in the bottom. The lake is so deep that the center of the lake appears much darker in color. This gives a perfect Morning Glory appearance to the lake. Other lakes get their names in similar ways. The geysers and paint pots get their names from peculiar colorings and formations, also, as Cauliflower Geyser, Mirror Geyser and Lake, Daisy Geyser, and Castle Geyser. The Castle Geyser is the largest and most imposing of any active geyser in the world. It erupts at least once a day, throwing water eighty-five feet into the air, in a roaring stream.

After seeing the geysers, we came to Old Faithful Station. We secured cabins for the night, and then went to hear a lecture on bears out at the bear feeding ground. Several black bears and three grizzlies came to the feeding place.

Then we went to hear a lecture on the Yellowstone National Park. After this lecture we made our way out to see Old Faithful in action. The eruption was due at 9:15 P. M. The people gathered and one of the guides told us about this geyser. The water is thrown about 150 feet in the air from the crater. The eruption lasts for about fifteen minutes. Old Faithful erupts every sixty to eighty minutes all the year round. Just as the eruption was due, we heard faint rumblings inside the earth. They became louder and louder, and then steam began to shoot forth from the crater. Then came the hot water. Each time it came a little higher. It seemed to climb gracefully up in a tall living pillar, reach its height, and fall. Every line was perfect. It was a beautiful sight—growing pillars of pure white, illuminated by a light thrown upon it, climbing up 150 feet in the air. Then as the time came for the eruption to be over, the water went less high until it failed to reach the surface. We were carried away with the wonder of it. We had seen Old Faithful!

JEWEL TRUITT.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NOTES.

OCTOBER 18, 1931.

"A CHRISTIAN ATTITUDE TOWARD PROHIBITION."

SCRIPTURE LESSON: I. Timothy 1:8-11

Prohibition has called for a lot of discussion during the past few years. Leaders in all walks of life discuss it pro and con. Some of the things that are being said today may help in determining a Christian's attitude toward the subject.

At the San Francisco Christian Endeavor Convention, we heard Robert Ropp, University of Boston student, explain the great Allied Youth Movement of which he is chairman and which is to enlist youth in support of law enforcement. Colonel Raymond Robbins also spoke forcefully on Prohibition questions. Outstanding among convention speakers on this question was Dr. Mark A. Matthews, lawyer and minister, who is at the present pastor of the largest Presbyterian church in the United States.

Some of the most interesting facts Dr. Matthews gave, follow. At the convention Dr. Matthews submitted his reasons for his statements. He said:

"The Eighteenth Amendment was not put into the Constitution by coercion, but by the deliberate, overwhelming vote of the legislatures of this country. There was never submitted an amendment that had a fairer consideration.

"Prohibition under the Eighteenth Amendment did not produce the bootlegger. He began to thrive in Massachusetts and other parts of this country one hundred and fifty years ago. He came into existence when the groceryman and dry goods merchant were permitted to sell wine and beer. In New England, he wore boots, and he literally reached down into the legs of his boots and produced the small pint bottle of hard whiskey. He was the real and literal bootlegger. He was the product of the light wine and beer regime of one hundred and fifty years ago. He existed before prohibition; he continues to exist under prohibition; but he is being destroyed and will eventually be reduced to a very small minimum.

"Prohibition did not produce the speakeasy. The speakeasy, the blind pig, the blind tiger, and such other designated institutions, were the products of the saloon. They existed under the saloon regime. The man who conducted a speakeasy or blind pig, bought a barrel of whiskey from the saloon, adulterated it, multiplied it into three or four barrels and sold it right under the shadow of the saloon."

Harold D. Wilson, prohibition administrator, says that prohibition, if it has done nothing else, has done six worth-while things:

1. It has made drunkenness, which used to be an every-day occurrence, a matter of news.
2. It has made liquor so costly that many wage-earners cannot afford it, to their vast benefit.
3. It has put on the market such dangerous stuff that even those that can afford to buy it lack confidence in it and drink cautiously, or have knocked off altogether.
4. It has confined sales to those who sanction bootlegging.

5. Booze no longer seeks the man, man must seek the booze in hidden and perilous places.

6. Best of all, Uncle Sam is out of the liquor business. It no longer carries the stamp of respectability, implied in a legal license.

Of course, prohibition has conferred enormous benefits on the people in addition to these six, but these alone make it well worth while.—Christian Endeavor World.

Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, in an appeal to church people, said:

"Unless we do something about it, a lot of the honest citizens who profess to want righteous government but won't stir themselves to get it, will probably go right on dozing; . . . and that's the fact that menaces prohibition. In my estimation, there are enough dries in the country to maintain the dry law, reinforce it, and see to it that it is made effective. There are enough dries—provided they are awake. But too many of them are sleeping. While they sleep, the friends of liquor are hard at it in every State of the nation. And if it depended on them, one of these days these indolent dries would perhaps be rudely awakened to see that the old saloon—under a new name perhaps—had come back with all its attendant viciousness."

Daily Readings.

Oct. 12. Exhibit the "Horrible Example."—Proverbs 23:29-32.

Oct. 13. Answer with Facts.—Prov. 15:28.

Oct. 14. Answering "Personal Liberty."—I Cor. 8:9-13.

Oct. 15. What "Wines" Can Do.—Isa. 28:1,7,8.

Oct. 16. Answer by a Clean Life.—Rom. 13:13.

Oct. 17. Answer by Increased Efficiency.—Daniel 1:8-21.

Sunday School Lesson

By REV. S. A. BENNETT, Elon College, N. C.

PAUL IN THESSALONICA AND BEROEA.

LESSON III.—OCTOBER 18, 1931.

LESSON: Acts 17:1-11; Thessalonians 2:7-12.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law."—Psalms 119:18.

Introduction.

Persecution and opposition hindered the orderly work of the missionaries, but could not stop the advance of the new movement. A meeting might break up in a riot, led by well-meaning, loyal Jews. A rough element might be incensed to cause trouble; but with all the opposition, the Christian movement grew. Paul and his helpers put a spiritual earnestness into the work that continued long after persecution had forced the missionaries on to a new field of labor.

While the missionary part moved on, they left a burning spiritual zeal behind them. Paul also gave to the newly formed group of Christians a form of organization that worked effectively.

Thessalonica.

This thriving city of Macedonia had a Jewish synagogue. Paul went to the synagogue, as was "his custom." All people form habits and customs. Our habits and customs determine character. Fortunate are they who form such customs as are conducive to wholesome religious character. Regular worship with a group like-minded in their religious interests, is a source of very great strength to the Christian. Here at Thessalonica some were "persuaded," and a group was won to Christianity from those who attended the synagogue services conducted by Paul as a visiting speaker. Orthodox Jews opposed, and led in a persecution that forced Paul to go on to Beroea.

The Synagogue.

The early church worshipped at the Jewish synagogue until they were unwelcome because of the division of opinion resulting from their teaching. The synagogue was the local meeting house of the Jews, and wherever there was a considerable body of Jewish people, they erected their synagogue for regular Sabbath services. The main features of our Christian services today have come down to us from the custom of the synagogue service.

There was the worship in song and prayer, the reading of sacred scripture, and the instruction or sermon. The offering, too, was a part of worship, as it should be today.

The Holy Scriptures.

Jewish people, for many centuries have revered their sacred scriptures. Theirs is an ancient faith with scriptures that are old. In the synagogues of Paul's time, our Old Testament was read as the sacred scripture of the Jewish church. Jesus had read from the roll of the prophets in the synagogue of his home town, Nazareth. The Christian missionaries introduced their faith as the fulfillment of the noble expectations of the Jewish scripture. Jesus was the Christ—the one anointed by God to be the Saviour of his people. So they preached and found their texts in the sacred writings of Jewish faith.

A Scripture Searching Church.

Jesus was familiar with the Bible of his time. He met the tempter with quotations from his Bible. He encouraged his followers by expounding unto them the scriptures. He came not to destroy, but to fulfill. The early missionaries studied and taught the truth of the Word. Paul used the Bible of his day in carrying on the work in his newly formed churches. At Thessalonica he "reasoned with them from the scriptures" for three weeks. At Beroea "they received the Word with all readiness of mind, examining the scriptures daily, whether these things were so." The author of the Acts commends the Beroean Christians for this. The earnest, open-minded study of the Bible is much needed by Christians today, and a scripture-seeking church is to be commended today as well as in Paul's time.

Paul's Friendly Letter.

Acute persecution followed Paul at Beroea from Thessalonica, and the brethren thought best that he go on to Athens. Before he left, he had won a group of faithful Christians and organized them to carry on the work in his absence. Some weeks, or months, later, Paul sent Timothy back to Thessalonica to encourage the church and to bring him news from them.

The good news that Timothy brought led Paul to write a friendly letter to this group of Christians at Thessalonica. Thus Paul's friendly interest in the spiritual work of his newly organized churches led him to begin his letter writing. So valuable were his letters that the Christians cherished them and preserved them. Thus the earliest written parts of our New Testament were produced. The scriptures of the Old Testament were supplemented by the Christian literature which later made up the New Testament. Ours is a wonderful Bible. Let us study it more, and live its spirit.

STAGG ON PROHIBITION.

Alonzo Stagg is dean of football coaches in America, and professor of physical culture and athletics in the University of Chicago; one of the most famous athletes our country has produced. He is strong for prohibition, declaring also that "there are some thirty thousand of us who are practising and teaching total abstinence." He asserts that only a very small percentage of students of the University of Chicago drink at all, and that drinking is not a problem there. He travels widely about the United States, addressing student bodies, and finds that there is no serious prohibition problem in most cities of twenty-five thousand or less, and believes that the great mass of people in the United States are solid for the prohibition law.

"As I see it," he tersely says, "the prohibition law is not observed, first, by 'the Idle Rich'; second, by 'the Ne'er-do-wells,' as Westbrook Pegler calls them; third, by the class who demand special privileges for themselves; and fourth, by the 'Follow-tails,' that is, the leak ones who just go along."

And Stagg always hits the nail on the head.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the number and price.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 $\frac{7}{8}$ x7 Inches, and 1 $\frac{3}{8}$ Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75
India Paper Edition, Size 4 $\frac{7}{8}$ x7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00
Bourgeois Type, Size 5 $\frac{3}{8}$ x8 Inches, and 1 $\frac{3}{8}$ Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.00
Minion Type, Pocket Size, 4x6 Inches, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ Inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold.....$1.60
Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 $\frac{3}{4}$ x7

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.50

2173—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges$6.00

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 16-16 of an Inch Thick.

133X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$4.00

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ x5 $\frac{3}{8}$ Inches, and 1 inch thick, with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ x5 $\frac{3}{8}$ Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.

65—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps$2.50

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 $\frac{3}{8}$ x8 $\frac{3}{8}$ Inches and 1 $\frac{3}{8}$ Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With Concise Bible Dictionary, combined Concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.75

RED-LETTER EDITION.

With All the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands; title stamped on side and back in pure gold$3.25

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations; special book for Sunday Schools95c

Any of the above Bibles sent postpaid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY H. E. ROUNTREE

One of our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"O Lord, I beseech thee, let now thine ear be attentive to the prayer of thy servant, and to the prayer of thy servants, who desire to fear thy name, and prosper, I pray thee, thy servant this day."

MONDAY.

SACRED NEARNESS.

LESSON: Eph. 2:13-22.

"Draw nigh unto God and He will draw nigh unto you."—Jas. 4:8.

Without Christ we are far away from God. All is dark. With Christ we are one with Him and united by Him to God and all is light. Thus we are in constant access by one spirit to the Father.

Whosoever accepts the gospel accepts Christ and is at peace with God; but whosoever closes his heart to the gospel rejects Christ himself and remains under the wrath of God.

Without Him we are aliens and strangers to Him, and without hope. With Him, the spirit is made clear and we feel His nearness.

Prayer—O God, we bless thee for thy wisdom and mercy. Help us to believe thy word, to know God within us, to feel His presence ever with us, and glorify His name forever. Amen.

TUESDAY.

A NEW DRESS.

LESSON: Isa. 61:10, 11. Verse 10.

"He hath clothed me with garments of salvation, He hath covered me with the robe of righteousness, as a bridegroom decketh himself with ornaments, and as a bride adorneth herself with jewels."

Who has not witnessed the delight of a child receiving a new dress? So should our rejoicing be when Christ puts on us the superb garment of His love, His righteousness and His glory.

All truly baptized persons have thrown away their carnal robes, however charming they may have seemed, and put on Christ, and having put on Christ they burst spontaneously into gladness.

There is a reason for this: The Lord says: "I have taken away thine iniquity, and put on thee beautiful garments." How can any one, whoever took this step, say, "it is not true?" Yea, rather it is better to say, "even though I do not see, I will accept as true that which He declares. I will believe without having seen, because He hath said it." Brethren, friends, when cleansed by the blood of Christ, we are pure and beautiful in the sight of God. Is not that enough to make us glad?

Prayer—Grant us, dear Lord, the grace to do this. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

IT MAKES GOD SICK.

LESSON: Eev. 3:14-22.

"Because thou art luke warm, and neither cold or hot, I will spue thee out of my mouth." Verse 16.

These were the words of Jesus. They apply to those who deceive themselves with a sort of christianity in which there is no life. They have but little knowledge of sin, nor do they know much about the grace of God. They float along in life's moods and drifts and practice but little self-denial. They boast of Christ, but have no experience in the new birth. They are blind and know not that they are blind.

To be a christian, one must experience forgiveness, belief in Christ and know Him ardently. He must be "dead to sin and alive to Christ;" "dead to sin and living in righteousness." Otherwise, he lives in pleasure and is dead while he liveth." (1 Tim. 5:6.) The word tells us there is no greater abomination to the Lord. It is not the wretched one whom He would spit out of His mouth; not the one who is sensible of his sins, but the one who is satisfied with himself, is rich and needs nothing.

One of the greatest evils of the race today is that of self-sufficiency; it obliterates dependence upon God, ceases the reading of the Bible, and annuls prayer and divine worship. No longer does such an one desire to "behold the beauty of the Lord and to inquire to his temple." This is deplorable complacency, and it makes God sick Christians: we hold a place in God's heart, will we compel him to "spue us out?"

Prayer—Lord Jesus, we feel that we need saving greatly. We pray for thy compassion. We would be where thou would have us be. We take thee, dear Lord, in our hearts, with all thy grace and gifts. May we not lose thee. Give us ardent hearts for thee forever. Amen.

THURSDAY.

HIS LOVING KINDNESS.

LESSON: Psalm 36:5-12.

"Thou shall make them drink of the river of thy pleasure."—Verse 8.

"The loving kindness of God." There is no getting around it: we do receive a lot of undeserved goodness from God. In place of punishment for our wrong doing we receive nothing but benefits. How sadly blind and how terribly depraved it is to regard lightly such mercy!

When we think more, it is the mercy of God in Christ which gives us all good things, and when we have realized this, and shall have given Him our highest praise, the love of God is so abundantly beyond our comprehension that we fail to grasp it all. Of the bottomless ocean we can hold but a few drops. Quite as little do we hold of the loving kindness of God in our grasp. Of the sun in the skies our poor eyes see but a feeble reflection. Of God's glorious light we see but a few small rays. And yet he is not so big but that the whole of him is seen in a dew drop and His image is reflecting in our souls.

Prayer—O Lord, continue thy loving kindness unto them that love thee and thy righteousness to the upright in heart. Amen.

FRIDAY.

CHASTENED INTO DEEPER FAITH.

LESSON: Jno. 4:46-53.

"Except ye see signs and wonders, ye will not believe." Verse 48.

There is a wide difference between the man of our lesson and the Centurion who said to Jesus, "Speak the word only and thy servant shall be healed." There is a wide difference in the degree of faith which different persons possess.

The Lord has pleasure in them that believe in him with full trust and confidence; but this does not mean that he disowns those who may be weaker, if they be upright. It may be He will chasten the weaker one, like He reproved the nobleman, but if He does, it will be in order to humble him and increase his faith. The weaker also may be reminded that He often gives us a different answer from that which we desire. But what if He does? If we continue to pray we shall have our desire and we shall find what we seek. This is the way the Lord often deals with the upright. It is the way of humility that leads to glory.

The man of our lesson went away satisfied. None who trust in the word of the Lord shall be disappointed.

Prayer—Lord Jesus, we are full of frailties, but do not cast us off. If there be truth in us, try us, and strengthen our faith. Amen.

SATURDAY.

SURE REST.

LESSON: Heb. 4:9-16.

"There remaineth therefore a rest to the people of God."—Verse 9.

Dear people of God, a blessed Sabbath rest awaits you tomorrow. It is a day of holy convocation, of divine service, of liberty and of worship. It should be to every one a day of perfect repose, with the full enjoyment of the fellowship of God. But to enjoy such a Sabbath, we must walk with fear and consecration.

Many a one who reads this will be among those who labor and toil on Sunday, who will feel that the promise of Sabbath rest does not apply to them. For such as these also the Son of God became a High Priest. He knows thy heart; thy struggle and sorrows, thy sufferings and labors; yea, He knows better and feels more acutely than thou dost the condition of thy troubled heart. He will succor thee, and in thy labors, thy faith and thy love, He will give thee a rest and that points to the satisfaction of "yonders rest" over the shore. Only walk in the light and in the sight of God with holy earnestness, and come boldly before Him at His throne in thy heart, under the shelter of His wings.

Prayer—Dear Lord, accomplish this, we pray, in us, by the Holy Spirit, for Jesus sake. Amen.

SUNDAY.

MORE THAN CONQUERERS.

LESSON: Ephesians 6: 10-17.

"We are more than conquerors through him that loved us."—Romans 8: 37.

In the fight against the devil our strength is nothing; but in the power of the Lord we are strong; so strong that "we are more than conquerors."

The purpose of the Apostle is to make us earnest by impressing us with the character of the strength of the enemy. These enemies are designated as, "principalities, powers, rulers of darkness, spiritual wickedness, wiles of the devil." These terrible powers, we, poor broken weeds, must overcome in the battles of life.

It is the purpose of the Apostle, also, to make us intrepid; to realize that the power of an enemy might overcome us, but to be assured that at the same time, He will provide a host for us more than they who are against us. The Word thus inspires us with dauntless courage, "in the Lord, and in the power of His might." By that power we shall tread the devil and his host under foot. It is a case of fighting continually with the assurance of a victory that shall last forever.

This lesson bids us to feel assured of His invisible presence, of the truth of His promise, and the certainty of victory; and assures us to mortality all wicked thoughts and desires which might kindle within us. There is held always before us the crown of glory which beckons us to "put on the whole armor of God," and "be strong in the Lord" that we may do so.

Prayer—Almighty God, be with us. Protect us against the attacks of all enemies. Make us strong in Thee. Help us to do His will, and give us victory. Amen.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN'S PULPIT

REV. JOSEPH W. FIX, Preacher.

THE CHRISTIAN A DEBTOR.

By ERNEST D. GILBERT

(This sermon, most appropriate to the present times of depression and worry, is reprinted from an old issue of "The Herald of Gospel Liberty.")

"I am debtor both to the Greeks and to the Barbarians."—Romans 1:14.

Such was the spirit of the Apostle Paul. Christianity, to him was one of broad fellowship. He had it right, it seems. Jesus was not content to live in the sectarianisms in which he had been brought up. Paul could not. No one can, in fact, once the human interests are aroused in which the spirit of Jesus abounds.

There is danger that we lose this splendid characteristic of the Christian religion. It is so easy to allow accustomed attitudes to become so fixed that anything that differs from them seems wrong. It is easier still to permit accumulations of ideals and of group experiences to determine the patterns of belief that we approve.

This danger lurks in America as well as in other parts of the world. One of our great business men expressed the thought in an article some months ago, "Intolerance is in abundant evidence in every phase of American social life." That means, you will note, that even in the religious attitudes of this country, there are evidences of a drift from the broad interests which we have thought represented religion in the United States.

Here, then, may be one of our hardest problems. Just what degrees of certainty are we going to attach to our personal acceptances! How much of vital worth are we to consider belongs to the viewpoint of those who differ from us! To what extent are we justified to seek the association of persons of other thought habits!

The problem of tolerance in America is broader than this, of course. There is that troublesome problem of race that still irritates many. And there are growing social distinctions which mean that the poor will not fellowship with the rich, and the rich will look with disdain upon the poor. We may be developing a learned class that will scorn the unschooled people.

Any of these forms of spiritual distance are dangerous. It would be well, therefore, for us to seek the grace of tolerance for ourselves, and to urge it for our times.

"Hardly any of us, I imagine, would deny that the supreme values of life lie in tolerance, in good will toward our fellow-men, and in the good will of others toward us."

Only in the day of such a spirit is there encouragement for the unique personality. By the unique personality, we mean men and women who see with unusual clearness through the moral difficulties that exist in any day. Amos was a unique personality. Most of the prophets, as we know them, were. So were Jesus, Paul, and a good many others since their days.

The usual experience for these unusual spirits is a good deal of disinterest at first, then opposition by prejudiced people, and later some severe form of disapproval. Thus some of the finest characters the world has known have been called anarchists, heretics, fanatics, and madmen. Looking at these lives after years have passed by, we can see the clarity of their judgment and the rich quality of their spirit. But what a loss to the generation to which these people belonged!

Yet, if we are intolerant we lose also, if there is in the world that moral genius who speaks of the ways of helping ourselves out of present difficulties. We must have such personalities; they seem to belong to nearly every age. A scientist may speak with the enthusiasm of having made a new discovery; but we probably will not ask for his facts. If that discovery urges a change in our usual attitude, we may reject it forthwith. An economist may have been able to see through some of our problems of international exchange; but we likely will not have patience to follow his sequences. If his solution involves a change in some of our political traditions, we become at once hostile toward the man and toward his proposition.

There should be ways in which we could fairly set in operation another New Testament suggestion, "test every spirit." That is a most difficult bit of advice, indeed. Nevertheless it suggests something that is particularly Christian and instantly hopeful.

If we could put the spirit of Paul—which after all is nothing more than the spirit of Jesus—into the human relationships we have today, we would have a world fellowship in realization. But we have little to do with the Greek, or the Italian, or the Russian—or anyone who is from other civilizations.

But all of these people, be their nativity near or far, have much to stir up as to possibilities of fraternity. Two groups of musicians recently visited our city. One group was from Russia. Their instruments were peculiar, and their music was equally strange, in a great many ways. But then there was fine feeling in their work, and anyone who heard them could well admire the eagerness of the musicians, who, passing through some of the heavy national experiences that have befallen that people, have kept their interest in beauty and harmony so constant. The other group was from Switzerland. They too, were strange and unusual. But they brought the music from the mountains, and to hear them was to find joy in any thought of friendship with their country.

So it would be if we would seek the best that Germany, Italy, India, Japan, China, have to offer. Something in all of these merit the best interest that we have to give.

This is a way, therefore, toward human balance. It will make brothers of all good peoples. And it is the heart of the gospel. We are debtors "both to the Greek and to the Barbarian." We owe it to them to give them of the love that has been so freely given us, and to learn of the good in them.

Someone has said, "The scientific spirit is simply the open-minded love for truth." Wherein does that differ from the essential spirit of Jesus?

But this does not apply merely to laboratory situations. It has to do with the whole field of human experiment and experience. There is merit in anything that offers a truer fitness for life—be that fitness in terms of health, reason, personal efficiency, or depth of spirit.

And this is the call for the spirit of Jesus today. No matter from whom—as far as race is concerned—nor from where—as far as nationality is concerned—there is an interest in the spiritual problems of existence. Such is a basis of human relationship.

Eternal Father of us all, accept our adoration and praise, we pray. However imperfect it may be, it comes from deep desires to find thy fellowship and to have thy peace in our souls. We need all the wide benefits of thy mercy, for we have many traits that may lead us from our greatest service and from our most privileged associations. We need, too, thy wholesome regard for life; for there are many for whom we should be anxious and toward whom we should be forgiving. Grant thy grace in these instances of our need. Amen.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATED.

The Silver-plated Ware is of the very highest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses.$22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 85. 11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plated; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling). $22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90. 14.00

Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim.....$ 9.00
Bread Plate No. 4—Broad rim..... 9.00
Filler—Silver lined..... 6.00

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, - - Richmond, Virginia

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

October is here with the duties the month of October brings. It sometimes brings cool mornings and white frosts. Then every little boy and little girl in the Christian Orphanage that has been going barefoot will want new shoes and stockings. Many of the larger boys and girls who have been making out with old, worn out shoes, will ask for new ones. One hundred and five children to buy shoes for. What a job!

Winter clothes and a number of coats to buy. School books and so many other things to get ready for the winter. It all takes money, and we are stretching dollars until they almost fall in two. Our income this year has been far below our expense account.

We have always had the utmost confidence in our people, and they have always come to our rescue when we have let them know our needs, and we still have that abiding confidence.

Thanksgiving will soon be here. Sunday Schools will start in time to raise a splendid offering this year. Remember that every dollar you contribute is invested in little, helpless, dependent boys and girls. They are looking to you for care, protection and training. Will you fail them now? Let every member of the churches and the Sunday Schools begin now to plan for the offering, and get your people interested in making an offering that will be a credit to your church and you will feel proud of. Who would withhold their help from a fatherless child? Let us begin to think about our Thanksgiving offering.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR OCTOBER 8, 1931.

Brought forward $11,513.77

Sunday School Monthly Offerings

North Carolina and Virginia Conference:

Greensboro First $12.14
Haw River 15.12
Liberty 1.65

28.91

Eastern North Carolina Conference:

Christian Chapel $ 2.00
Pleasant Hill 2.74
Henderson 4.12

8.86

Western North Carolina Conference:

Union Grove $ 3.90
Pleasant Grove 2.80

5.80

Eastern Virginia Conference:

First Portsmouth $13.68
Liberty Spring Sunday School 8.00
Liberty Spring Ladies Bible Class . 1.00
Liberty, Bertie Johnson Class 1.00
Liberty, Senior Boys Class 1.00
Berea Nansemond 10.00
Holland 11.20
Newport News 12.35
Bethlehem 5.00
Cypress Chapel 6.92

67.15

Valley Virginia Central Conference:

Woods Chapel $ 1.00
Newport 1.83
Mayland 1.61
Mt. Lebanon80
Linville 7.02
Leaksville 1.55

13.81

Special Offerings.

Mrs. Newberry, support of Lava-lette $15.00

A friend, support Thelma Long ...	10.00
Mrs. Olivia Horner, support boys ..	20.00
Interest on Phillips loan	45.00
Mt. Zion Church special collection, for singing class	12.16
Mebane Church special collection, for singing class	13.65
Mr. Blizzard, support of children .	6.00
Mr. C. A. Penn, support of Miller children	50.00
	171.81
Total for the week	$ 296.34
Grand total	$11,801.11

The world disarmament conference will be the largest gathering ever held in Geneva under the auspices of the League of Nations. A special building is being erected for its sessions. At least fifty-seven nations, including the United States and Russia, will be represented. The delegates and their accompanying technical experts, will, it is estimated, number 2,000, and the deliberations are expected to last a year or more.

NOTICE.

The Eastern Virginia Woman's Missionary Conference will meet with the Holland Christian Church Thursday, October 15th. The morning session opens at 10:30.

The pastor of each church is invited, and each society is earnestly requested to meet its requirements, and have a large representation present.

Mrs. F. I. Johnson, President of the Woman's Federated Boards of Foreign Missions of America, will be the speaker.

MRS. W. L. STAGG, Secy.

Eilers Sunday School Maps.

Or a Revolving Adjustable Steel Stand

The first 5 maps
are in Set No. 1,
with stand,
Price $15.00

Set No. 2
8 Maps,
Price $20.00

Fine large Maps, in 6 Colors 36x57, on linen finished Cloth. Mounted on a folding steel stand, which can be regulated, so that Maps may be seen to the best advantage. This set contains data for thorough Bible Study. Its large print and cheerful Colors makes this set very instructive and attractive. Contains the five thoroughly up to date Maps necessary to the study of Bible History. — New Testament Palestine. — Old Testament Palestine. — Roman empire and Bible Lands, showing Paul's Travels by Colored lines. — Lands of the Old Testament, from the Great Sea, to the Persian Gulf. — The Exodus, Egypt, showing by Colored lines the wanderings of the Israelites.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN,

1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia.

ALL
SELF-
PRONOUNCING

Holman Testaments

COMMAND
ATTENTION
AND APPROVAL

Holman Vest-Pocket Testament

Size, 2½x4½ inches

Specimen of Type
AND the third day there
was a marriage in
Cana of Galilee; and
the mother of Jesus was

The VEST POCKET is, beyond question, the most popular Testament published.

- 2104. Dark Blue Silk Finished Cloth, with edges colored to match, gold titles. $.50
- 2103K. Morocco Grained Binding, flexible limp, gold edges and titles.60
- 2114. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges.85

- VEST POCKET TESTAMENT AND PSALMS
- 2103KP. Morocco Grained Binding, limp, gold titles, round corners, gold edges.70
- 2114P. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges.90
- 2115P. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges. 1.10

- RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS
- 132L. French Morocco Leather, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, rounded corners, gold edges.90
- 152LP. French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, gold title on red panel, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 1.35

Holman Jewel Testament

INDIA PAPER ONLY—Size 2½x4½ inches x ¾ inch
The JEWEL is the latest and most attractive Pocket Testament made.
The TYPE is black, bold and larger than that in the famous Vest Pocket edition, and the book itself is smaller.
It is printed exclusively on the famous Holman India paper, noted for its opaque quality and unusual tensile strength.
One advantage of this India paper is that the leaves do not cling together.
The size, 2½x4½ inches, is so small that the book practically fits the palm of the hand.

Specimen of Type

ST. MATTHEW 2 The three wise men
carrying away into Egypt—
fourteen generations—
and from the carrying away into Babylon
unto Christ are fourteen

ing interpreted is, God with us. 24 Then Joseph being raised from sleep did as the angel of the Lord had

- 5003X. Morocco Grained Binding, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges. $1.00
- 5015PX. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges. 1.50
- 5013PX. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather binding to edges, silk sewed, red under gold edges, with Psalms. 2.60

Holman GEM Testament

POCKET
SIZE
3¾x4½
Inches

Specimen of Gem Black Faced Type

CHAPTER 23.

THEN spake Jesus to the multitude, and to his disciples,

The GEM TESTAMENT has been steadily growing in popular favor ever since its first appearance.

In size, 3¾x4½ inches, it is not much larger than the Vest Pocket. It is also the only Testament of its size with large bold type and pronouncing text.

The edition on India paper is ideal, and we know of no better gift at the price than one in the finer bindings.

- 4102P. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red burnished edges, with Psalms. $.90
- 4113. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges. 1.35
- 4115P. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 1.90

- RED LETTER GEM TESTAMENT
- 4113RL. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges. 1.50

- INDIA PAPER GEM TESTAMENT
- 4136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather binding to edges, red under gold edges, with Psalms. 3.00
- 4136XPRL. Red Letter Edition with Psalms, same binding as 4136XP, but with the Sayings of Christ Printed in Red. 3.25

Old Folks Testament

Extra Large Print

Pica, 16mo. Size, 5¾x7¾x¾ inches

Old folks or those with poor sight will appreciate the advantage of this Testament. The type is a delight to the eye with its wide spacing between the lines. It is the most readable edition of all large print Testaments.

Specimen of Type
THE book
of Jesus

- PSALMS INCLUDED
- 2902P. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red edges, with Book of Psalms included. $1.50

- THIN BIBLE PAPER EDITIONS
- Same Large Print as Above
- 2913P. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. 2.95

- RED LETTER EDITION
- Same as above, with the Sayings of Christ in Red.
- 3913PRL. French Morocco Leather, flexible covers, gold side title on red panel, rounded corners, red under gold edges, and with Book of Psalms included. 3.10

All styles sent postpaid at above prices

ATLANTA CHURCHES UNITE.

Atlanta Central and United Congregational churches, by unanimous vote of each, have joined forces, with a larger program than ever yet attempted by Congregational forces of this great city. When Dr. Dodge resigned a few weeks ago, Central Church appointed a committee whose duty it was to interview United Church and see whether or not the two might come together. In it all, Dr. Dodge showed a fine spirit of co-operation and everybody seemed to think the best thing to do was to unite the two churches for worship in Central Church building.

Accordingly, at a called meeting for the purpose Central, without a dissenting vote, invited Dr. W. T. McElveen, pastor of United Church, to become its pastor, and at the same time, invited United Church to come and worship with them in Central's building. As this committee continued its meetings with a similar committee from the United Church, it became apparent that a much bigger program was to be contemplated than just to worship together. This joint committee, made up of three from Central and three from United, with Dr. McElveen as chairman, found other people outside both churches who were interested in a strong Congregationally minded church. The spirit grew, so that when the invitation from Central Church was being considered by a called meeting of United, Dr. McElveen informed the people that the project was really the joining of these two churches, each with its own set of officers, all working on the common problem of every day church activity, with the added element of the two working toward the organization as quickly as possible, of an entirely new church, probably with a new name and an entirely new program. This would perfect itself under the plan, and when time for the annual meeting should come in January, the new church would elect its officers from the members then on the roll and proceed to function with vision and vigor. This proposition was unanimously adopted by United Church, Wednesday evening, September 23rd. These two churches met together for the first time Sunday morning, October 4th, in Central building.

ALABAMA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.
PROGRAM OF THE THIRTY-THIRD ANNUAL SESSION.

HELD WITH THE PISCAGH CHRISTIAN CHURCH,
BEGINNING OCTOBER 13, 1931.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

2:30 o'Clock.

Call to Order—Rev. G. D. Hunt, President.
Scripture Reading and Prayer—Rev. J. H. Hughes,
Pastor Pisgah Church.
Enrollment of Ministers.
Enrollment of Delegates.
Election of Officers.
Filling of Vacancies on Standing Committees.
Reception of Fraternal Visitors.
Assignment of Homes.
Adjournment.

EVENING SESSION.

7:00 o'Clock.

Report of Executive Committee—Chairman.
Discussion.
Annual Address—Dr. Atkinson. Rev. G. D. Hunt,
Alternate.
Miscellaneous Business.
Adjournment.

Second Day.MORNING SESSION.

8:30 o'Clock.

Call to Order by the President.
Devotional Service—Rev. C. W. Carter.

Report of Committee on Moral Reform—Rev. W. T. Meacham. Discussion.

Report of Committee on Schools and Colleges—Dr. F. E. Jenkins. Discussion.

Report of Young People's Work—Klein Hood and Miss Eunice Stevens. Discussion.

Report of Committee on Religious Literature—Rev. J. H. Hughes. Discussion by Dr. Atkinson. and others.

Report of Home Mission Board and of Committee on Foreign Missions—By Chairmen of Committees. Discussion by Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Mission Secretary.

Adjournment.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

1:30 o'Clock.

Call to Order by the President.

Prayer—Rev. A. H. Sheppard.

Report of Committee on Superannuation—Rev. C. W. Carter, Chairman.

Report of Committee on Nominations—D. W. Sheppard, Chairman.

Unfinished Business.

Report of Treasurer.

Adjournment.

G. D. HUNT,
C. W. CARTER,
Committee.

ELON COLLEGE

AN ACCREDITED COLLEGE

of the

CONGREGATIONAL CHRISTIAN CHURCHES OF THE SOUTHEAST

ELON was founded to train Christian leaders for the New South.

ELON has done its task well—one graduate in seven being in the Christian ministry. The other six express Christian leadership in the various professions and vocations. Experience teaches that spiritual leadership must be indigenous.

The South is now a New South ready for an inclusive Church, the type of Church for which Elon has stood for forty years and for which she is prepared to produce capable leadership.

With no Church in the community, save the College Auditorium, ELON has practiced Christian Union for faculty, students, and community for four decades.

Its contribution to Christian Education is nationally known and approved.

Its Christian Education Building, providing laboratory facilities for religious leadership training, is unique and is the first college building of its type in the world.

ELON confines itself to undergraduate liberal arts work with that religious emphasis which befits the Christian College.

In ELON the Congregational-Christian Church has an asset of marvelous hopefulness.

The South needs her Yale, her Oberlin, her Carleton, her Pomona for the intellectual leadership of the United Church. Many regard ELON as strategically located and spiritually endowed to become such a center of illumination and leadership training.

THE CHRISTIAN EDUCATION BUILDING
The Heart of the Elon Program of Christian Education.

C. M. CANNON, Registrar

Elon College, - - - North Carolina

Home Atmosphere—Reasonable Rates—Clean Athletics—Christian Spirit.

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the kingdom, as represented by the Congregational-Christian Church.

BOARD OF EDITORS.

J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
E. C. GILLETTE, D. D. Associate
W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
W. A. HARPER, LL.D. Associate
REV. S. C. HARRELL. Associate
J. E. McCAULEY. Associate
W. C. WICKER, D. D. News Editor
P. J. KERNODLE. Managing Editor
C. D. JOHNSTON. Circulation Manager

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Year $2.00
Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Postoffice, at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to The Christian Sun, C. D. Johnston, Circulation Manager, Elon College, N. C.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads" 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

Notices: Obituary and marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge; all over 100 words at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

MARRIAGES

YARBOROUGH—KING.

Married September 26, 1931, at the residence of the writer, Burlington, N. C., Mr. Paul C. Yarborough and Miss Edna King. A few of their many friends were present and witnessed the marriage rite. They are both very popular, and their many friends wish for them a long and prosperous life.

They will reside at 104 Lexington Avenue, Burlington, N. C.

P. H. FLEMING.

OBITUARIES.

TAMKIN.

James Franklin Tamkin was born on February 22, 1863, and departed this life August 26, 1931, making his age 68 years, 6 months and 4 days. He was a son of the late Rev. John Tamkin, who was for many years a pastor in the Virginia Valley Central Conference and secretary of that conference. Surviving are three daughters, one brother, two sisters, and five grandchildren. Bro. Tamkin was a Christian man who commanded the respect of all who knew him. He was a faithful member and deacon of Dry Run Christian Church, and remained deeply interested even through months of suffering, during which time he was unable to attend church.

Funeral services were held at Dry Run, August 28, 1931.

A. W. ANDES.

SHEPHERD.

Joel Rhudy Shepherd passed to his reward on September 23, 1931, at the age of 63 years, one month, 21 days.

He had been a faithful member of Bethlehem Christian Church since his boyhood.

He leaves to mourn his departure his wife, five sons and one daughter. May the heavenly Father richly bless and comfort them in their bereavement.

THE CONGREGATIONAL LATIN-AMERICAN INSTITUTE AND PILGRIM LATIN CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH OF WEST TAMPA, FLA.—

Are helping give the Gospel, which is "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth," to the forty thousand Latin people of Tampa. The evangelical forces working among the foreigners of Tampa are by no means covering the territory sufficiently.

Methodists have six preachers, Baptists two, Presbyterians one, Congregationalists one. Church workers and teachers must be supported for this great missionary work. Send check to

LESLIE S. BRAY, Treas.

Route 4, Box 468, - - Tampa, Fla.
Send boxes of clothing to Mrs. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

For literature, write Rev. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

LARGE PRINT TEACHERS' EDITION FOR ADULTS, TEACHERS AND PREACHERS

and all who would study the Word of God intelligently this edition is unsurpassed. The type is large, clear, Bourgeois, Self-Pronouncing, with liberal space between the words and lines, which makes it easy to read.

Size, 8 x 5½ inches.

Specimen of Type.

"From that time Jesus began to preach, and to say, 'I the kingdom of heaven'"

Containing New Copyrighted Helps by most reliable Authorities. A Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, New Colored Maps.

No. 4712. Divinity Circuit Teachers' Bible, French Seal Leather, red under gold edges, Silk Head bands and Silk Marker.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 5.00

No. 812RL. Red Letter Teachers' Bible. The Words of Christ in the New Testament, Old Testament Passages Alluded to by Christ, Various Prophecies Relating to Christ in the Old Testament, etc., all PRINTED IN RED. Binding same as described above and same large Self-Pronouncing type.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 6.00

No. 733X. Holman India Paper, Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 10.65

The burial services were conducted by his pastor, Rev. J. W. Patton, assisted by the writer and Revs. Mr. Hurst and Mr. Phillips.

The large audience and the beautiful flowers attested the esteem in which he was held.

T. J. GREEN.

666

LIQUID or TABLETS

Relieves a Headache or Neuralgia in 30 minutes, checks a Cold the first day, and checks Malaria in three days.

666 Salve for Baby's Cold

PIEDMONT COLLEGE

A SENIOR COEDUCATIONAL INSTITUTION

OFFERS

Standard Courses leading to the usual Academic Degrees; also Courses in Music and Home Economics.

Thorough Instruction in Speech and in the Commercial Branches.

A beautiful location in the "Foothills of the Blue Ridge"; altitude of 1,500 feet; spring waters and invigorating climatic conditions.

An enviable reputation for sound scholarship, wholesome student life and Christian Idealism.

Expenses exceptionally light: $318.50 for the College Year.

For Catalogue, write,

JONATHAN C. ROGERS, Dean,
Demorest, Georgia

SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE

FOUR YEAR STANDARD COLLEGE

A Memorial of the Congregational-Christian Union.

FRANK E. JENKINS, Pres.

MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD, Dean

Second Semester will open January 27, 1932, with full provision for beginning courses.

Chartered BETHLEHEM COLLEGE
June 2, 1922

Renamed PIEDMONT JUNIOR COLLEGE
May 18, 1928

Renamed SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE, June 3, 1931

SCHOLARSHIP HIGH

EXPENSES LOW

CHARACTER SUPREME

A Strong Faculty, Educated in 25 Universities and Colleges in 12 States.

Unsectarian, but thoroughly Christian.

For Information about Entrance, write—

DEAN MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD,
WADLEY, ALABAMA.

For Other Information, write—

DR. FRANK E. JENKINS, Acting President,
LA GRANGE, GEORGIA.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY. 1956
Southern Convention of Congregational Churches

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Representing the Southern Christian Convention and the Congregational Churches of the Southeast.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY

VOLUME LXXXIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1931.

NUMBER 42.

YOU ARE NEEDED!

If you are minister, missionary, or layman; official, teacher, or leader; rich, well-to-do, or poor; if you are an honest, sincere Christian and a member of the Congregational or Christian Church in the South, and have the interest of the Church at heart, you are needed at Burlington on October 20th.

On that day, ELON COLLEGE takes the first place in our Church counsel, and it is hoped that she will take first place in our hearts, and in our prayers, and in our purses!

Elon needs money, to be sure, and money she must have; she needs friends, and friends she must have; but most of all she needs her own, SHE NEEDS YOU!

All through the years ELON has been serving, has been serving your church, has been serving you. She has given her best, has given her all to your Church and to you. Today she is in need. She needs you. Will you fail her? Will you fail in the line of duty?

Will the voice of ELON COLLEGE, imparting information to the youth of the world, be silenced through the ages, because you have failed, failed to give your prayers, failed to give your counsel, failed to give your money, failed to give yourself?

YOU ARE NEEDED! The Church is depending upon you! Your presence at Burlington will count.

L. E. SMITH, President,
The Southern Christian Convention.

Do not fail to read Dr. Atkinson's Editorial, "Duty Calls."

NOTES-PERSONALS

The circulation manager will appreciate it if you will look at the label on your copy of THE SUN, and then send a check to him at Elon College, N. C.

Our good friends, Mr. and Mrs. John Wesley Roberts, Windsor, Va., very graciously sent an announcement of the marriage of their daughter, Jessie Graham, to Mr. Sidney Robertson Johnson on Saturday, Sept. 19, 1931. Congratulations and best wishes to the happy pair.

Dr. C. H. Rowland of Greensboro is assisted by Rev. McKendree R. Long of Statesville as preacher in a largely attended and enthusiastic revival, First Christian Church, Greensboro. According to the reports in the daily press, Mr. Long is delivering inspiring messages, the attendance is good and the meetings are quite successful.

We acknowledge with appreciation the following: "Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kimball request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter, Ruth Hayden, to Mr. Lonnie Edward Milling on Saturday, October 24, 1931, 3:30 p. m., Mt. Auburn Christian Church, Manson, N. C." Miss Ruth is a graduate of Elon College where she made hosts of friends who will be wishing for her all happiness in the years to come, and will be extending congratulations to the man fortunate enough to win her hand and heart for life.

Rev. W. T. Scott, pastor, United Church, Salisbury, was at Winston Sunday night, October 4, and preached to a group of twenty-eight people. Dr. L. H. Royce, of the Congregational Building Society, was with Brother Scott. We have a large group of people in Winston, many of whom, because they had no church home, have united with other churches and become factors in the church life of the city. We have waited all too long in beginning a work at Winston. This growing city needs a Congregational-Christian Church, and those of us who love the church and realize its contribution to the world should interest ourselves in seeing that a church is built in the thriving city of Winston.

Col. J. E. West, Suffolk, Va., has generously donated to the Elon College Library some valuable books owned originally by Daniel W. Kerr, founder of THE CHRISTIAN SUN, and later owned by the late, lamented Rev. E. W. Beale, Suffolk, father-in-law of Col. West. Among the books are six volumes of Clark's Commentaries on the Bible printed in 1823, "First American Royal Octavo Edition." Col. West also presents four volumes of Scott's Commentaries owned originally by Mr. Beale. These volumes are not only valuable for their inherent worth, but historical, being associated as they are with the name and work of the great, good men of the Christian Church in their day. The Library at Elon College will become more valuable as it is made place of storage and accessibility to volumes of historical worth and merit.

The Missionary Secretary was present and took part in the service merging into one the Congregational Church of LaGrange, Ga., and the First Christian Church of that city on Sunday, October 4th. The two congregations had previously and separately voted to merge and become The United

Ga. The first service of The United Church was an auspicious occasion and was largely attended. The membership of the two bodies, as evidenced by attendance on October 4th, seemed anxious and ready for the union of the forces of the city. Dr. W. Knighton Bloom, of the Congregational Board, Rev. Milo J. Sweet, Pastor-at-large of the Congregational Church, and J. O. Atkinson, Missionary Secretary, Southern Christian Convention, were all present and took part in the service. Rev. J. H. Dollar, of Reidsville, N. C., was, by invitation, present and preached the first sermon under the auspices of the United Church at 11:00 a. m., October 4th. The Church has extended a unanimous call to Brother Dollar to become its pastor, though at this writing, he has not signified acceptance. Our Christian people had a splendid building, although there is yet heavy indebtedness, and while the Congrega-

A PRAYER FOR OUR COLLEGE.

Father, we thank Thee for Elon College.

We thank Thee for the lives, the labors, the sacrifices of those who, inspired by faith, laid the foundations of this College and, under Thy guidance and favor, brought it to a place of honor and influence in our nation and the world. We thank Thee for the multitude of earnest, devout men and women whose minds have been trained and whose souls have been brought into closer accord with Thy divine plan and purpose in its classrooms and halls. We thank Thee for their contribution to the welfare of their fellowmen, in every walk of life, and to the advancement of Thy kingdom on earth.

And we thank Thee, Father, for that yet greater multitude of men and women who, in the past, have loved this College, who have supported it with their gifts, and have held it up before the throne of grace in their prayers. Forbid that we who today enjoy the fruits of their gifts and their prayers, should become forgetful of them and the institution so dear to their hearts. We know that Thou dost hear every prayer of Thy children and dost answer prayer according to the depth of faith and devotion with which it is uttered. Father, help us to be earnest, sincere, persistent in humble prayer for the welfare of our College. Make of it a greater, better, instrument in Thy hands, for the advancement of Thy kingdom. We ask all for the sake of that greatest Teacher and Friend, Thy Son and our Saviour, Jesus Christ. Amen.

A SON AND SERVANT OF ELON.

tionalists did not have a house of worship of its own, they had a loyal and intelligent membership ready and anxious to unite and make the merger complete. Rev. C. W. Hanson has been for years the beloved pastor for First Church and has done faithful service in getting the present building completed. The last pastor of the Congregational Church was Rev. C. C. Hamilton, who had done much in the building up a membership of Congregationalists. Brother Hanson becomes pastor of East LaGrange, and Hill Side Christian Churches, of the city, and Brother Hamilton has taken work elsewhere. There is a great opportunity for a united effort and service in LaGrange, and the hope is freely indulged that The United Church will make its way into the life of the city and, above all, make a real contribution to the moral and spiritual uplift and in helping to build up the kingdom of our Lord in the city of LaGrange.

OFFICIAL NOTICE.

THE BURLINGTON CHURCH OFFERS ENTERTAINMENT.

The good people at Burlington are opening their homes to all delegates and visitors to the extraordinary session of the Convention, October 20th, who live at a distance and cannot reach the meeting by leaving home Tuesday morning. The same courtesy is extended those who will have to stay over Tuesday night.

The noon meal, Tuesday, will be served by the ladies of the Church at the cost of fifty cents ($.50). The above is on the condition that you write or wire Dr. G. O. Lankford, pastor, in advance of the meeting.

L. E. SMITH, President.

NOTICE.

It is requested that all ministers and laymen throughout the Southern Christian Convention, who know of anyone living in Richmond who belongs to the Congregational or Christian Church elsewhere, will send their name to Rev. J. E. McCauley, 3206 Grove Avenue, Richmond, Va.

METHODS CORNER

BY REV. ELISHA A. KING, D. D.

Miami Beach, Fla.

In this Corner I desire to call attention to a source for helpful supplies for both ministers and lay people. Quite a good many years ago, I found out by experience that a minister can double the amount of work with tools suitable to his task. In some churches the budget allows for all the equipment one needs, but in most of the churches there is little money for such things. In trying to find some way to make my work as a pastor more efficient I came upon Mr. R. W. Wolverton of Cedar Falls, Iowa, who conducted a printing company. As editor of a church methods department for more than ten years, I commended the material produced by Mr. Wolverton. I did this because he helped me in my time of need.

Let me give an illustration. When babies were born in my parish I wanted to send a Christmas message to the parents, but I had nothing to send and did not know how to write a letter that would be fitting for the occasion. I found in his catalog a little folder, beautifully printed, called "Welcoming the Baby." It was ordered and served the purpose exactly. For years I have kept a supply of these booklets on hand. They cost only five cents each or forty-five cents a dozen. Any pastor can afford to use such things. It is a beautiful thing to do to send a message to parents at such a time, and it helps to show a friendly feeling from the church to the parents. There are also folders for "Shut-in Days," for "Mother's Day," for "Easter," for "The Day of Grief," etc. There is almost anything a minister needs for his work, and there are many things that societies in the church would be glad to have.

Then there is another source of a somewhat different kind, but one that we should use more frequently. I refer to The Pilgrim Press, 14 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass. Every pastor should have a catalog of the Pilgrim Press at hand for reference. Almost everything in the way of a working tool is found there. There are many things a pastor could use to make his work easier and more efficient and at little cost. And there is another source of wonderful religious helps. It is the Commission on Evangelism and Devotional Life, 287 Fourth Avenue, New York. I know of no better printed material for pastors' use than the product of this department. Anyone who will use this material will be richly blessed and his church will be more efficient. The cost is very slight. Try it.

CONGREGATIONAL NEWS

REV. E. C. GILLETTE, Editor; REV. F. P. ENSMINGER, and REV. M. J. SWEET, Associates.

REVS. N. A. LONG and W. H. TILLMAN are among the pastors who have been honored as speakers on Fellowship teams in the fall campaigns.

Rev. JOSEPH FRENCH, of Wedowee, Alabama, has spent the summer in study at Scarritt College, Nashville, Tenn., and has been preaching at Ridgeway.

INTERLACHEN, FLORIDA. The Rev. C. DeW. Brower, with Mrs. Brower, has returned after spending their vacation in their home at Winter Park. Services were resumed October 4.

PROVIDENCE CHAPEL REVIVAL carried on by the pastor, Rev. S. M. Penn, has closed after a series of very helpful meetings with six additions to the church and a quickening of the interest of many.

MOUNTAIN GROVE CHURCH, Steppville, has been active in reviving the Christian Endeavor at Garden City, where J. H. Hughes has been preaching and where the Rev. George Staley Hunt has conducted an evangelistic meeting.

The CLANTON and ELECTIC Groups of Churches, under their pastors, A. C. Nelson and J. M. Dopson, held their quarterly meeting with the Mountain Creek Church on the fifth Sunday. Other churches are invited in for these fifth Sunday union meetings.

PALM CITY, FLORIDA. During the vacation of the pastor, Rev. James E. Parker, the teachers maintained the Sunday School and the average attendance was equal to the previous quarter. Following the lesson period, a Junior Church Service was conducted in the church auditorium, consisting of a Call to Worship, Gloria, Lord's Prayer, Prayer Song, Scripture Reading, Story, Hymn, Offering, Prayer, Doxology.

JUPITER, FLORIDA. Rev. Frederick Held pastor, took the month of August for his vacation but returned to the church for two Sunday morning services, supplying the pulpit of the Lake Worth church on both evenings. The Jupiter young people and the choir from Lake Worth had charge of the services for the month. Rally Day was observed in this church on October 14th. The pastor reports an increasing spirit of reverence.

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA. The newly organized Birmingham Congregational Community Church, Dr. Trevor Mordecai, pastor, has now a membership of 390. Mr. Arthur K. Akers, the writer of negro stories, whose grandfather was a Congregational minister, is Superintendent of the Sunday School. Mr. E. M. Henderson, an editor of the Birmingham News, and Mrs. Louise Charlton, U. S. Commissioner, are co-teachers of the Community Bible class of seventy-five.

MIAMI, FLORIDA. Rev. Helen F. Lanham, Associate Pastor, writes, "We had a splendid day yesterday, large attendance at morning service, twenty in my Bible class, the largest Christian Endeavor attendance since I came, fine evening service with the choir in their places and the Sunday School Superintendent reported a good attendance, the largest for some time." Mrs. Lanham has taken into the church, during the summer, thirty-two new members with four associate members.

MISS ELIZABETH HOOKER, author of the books, "United Churches," and "The Hinterlands of the Church," is investigating church conditions in the mountains, and will write a new book embodying her study. Mr. D. Ashley Hooker, her brother, is in charge of the Technological Department of the Birmingham Public Library. Both are children of Dr. Edward Payson Hooker, first pastor of the Winter Park, Florida Congregational Church and first president of Rollins College.

WEST TAMPA FLORIDA. An interesting feature of the work in West Tampa Mission School is the employment of an additional missionary teacher, Mr. Orland H. Corwin, the son of the pastor. He is engaged to teach the fourth and fifth grades and direct recreational work for men and boys for this semester. Miss Hall, one of the faithful missionary teachers is released from teaching in order that she may have more time for visitation and club work and other social activities. The school year has opened under very encouraging conditions with a larger number of students than last year. Special effort is being made to give real practical sympathy and help to the large numbers out of work. Clothing is being distributed and efforts made to find work for the unemployed through the different local committees.

THE ALABAMA CANNING PROJECT, in which fruit and vegetables are put in jars to be sold for the benefit of the missionary cause, is on the way to success. Not counting the number of cans from the West Florida Association there is a record of 1,437 cans or quarts of fruit and vegetables which are to be sold and the proceeds given to apportionment causes, with the exception of two or three hundred cans which have been given to the schools of Wadley and Thorsby. The canned goods cannot be sold to advantage until fresh produce is off the market and will be better to move when the weather is cooler. It will be sold at chain store prices, plus a little for the glass jars. Readers of THE CHRISTIAN SUN, who can use this country produce in hotels, in restaurants, are asked to communicate with F. P. Ensminger, Demorest, Ga. The rural Alabama Church and the West Florida Church people, have been glad to give their produce and their labor. It is hoped that the Congregational and Christian people, who can do so, will buy the product. Quite a little of it has been put up in half gallon jars. It can be had by anyone passing through North Central or South Alabama, or West Florida.

FLORIDA MINISTERS MEET.

The annual Convocation of the Congregational ministers of Florida was held at the Seaside Inn, Daytona Beach, Florida, October 5-7. The Convocation was well attended by the ministers, also the wives of several, and the Convocation had as guests Dr. and Mrs. C. Rexford Raymond of Chattanooga and some of the retired ministers living at Penney Farms.

Rev. Hugh Vernon White, D. D., Educational Secretary of the A. B. C. F. M., was the guest speaker, giving a series of lectures on "A Vital Religion in the World of Modern Thought," and he also conducted the discussion period following his lectures. Dr. White has a very scholarly mind and treated his subjects not only with a background of profound scholarship but with a thorough understanding of the problems and intellectual difficulties facing the Christian world and facing the Christian Church. His lectures culminated in a strong presentation of the world's need of the vital Christianity and the obligation of the liberal minded church to promote world evangelism with conviction and spiritual passion.

Rev. Watson L. Lewis of New Smyrna, Florida, gave a series of three lectures on the subject "What has Civilization Done for Us," which was an interesting discussion of present conditions and problems. Dr. Elisha A. King reported upon the General Council and especially the discussion of the topic of Seminar 111 at the Council, which was upon the subject of "The Church and the Ministry." He also read a paper on "Who are the Christians," giving the story of the Christian denomination.

The Convocation was delightfully entertained and enjoyed the privilege of the beach. Dr. Clarence A. Vincent was elected Convener, and Rev. Ralph Krout was elected Scribe. The committee on program for next year's Convocation consists of Rev. Watson L. Lewis, Chairman, Rev. George D. Owen and Rev. Walter Metcalf.

NEW CHURCH IN BIRMINGHAM.

The Congregational Community Church of Birmingham Ala., was organized in the Empire Theatre, on Monday, August 31st with 200 members. At the Sunday School organization meeting on September 4th, there were 164 present, with the heads for all departments except the Junior; 1100 people attended the first morning worship, and 650 people were present at the night service. The United Congregational Christian Church of Birmingham, which had followed the Congregational Community Church of Birmingham in the election of Dr. Trevor J. Mordecai as pastor, and which will join forces with the new organization, was present at the three services on September 4th.

Dr. Mordecai was a Congregationalist in Wales. He went from Bangor Seminary to Princeton. For seven years he has been pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Birmingham, and is very popular. His audiences were large morning and night. He is a man who excels both as preacher and lecturer, having ideas, a passion to help the unfortunate, excellent culture, a fine sense for English, a dramatic power and powerful and poetic imagination. He has made Christianity vital to many young people.

As a result of his positive community program, there was a split in his former church. During his six weeks' vacation this summer, his opponents proceeded against him, and secured 101 votes in favor of his retirement against 260 for his retention as pastor. The Presbytery was appealed to and cut him off from the pastorate with a week's notice, but emphasized the statement that there was no charge against him except lack of co-operation. Many of this group have followed Dr. Mordecai, and a number of members have come from other denominations. Birmingham, generally, approved the community kitchen which he managed last year, and in which it is said 95,000 people were fed.

Mrs. Mordecai's father, Rev. J. M. Walker, is a retired Congregational minister.

The new congregation appealed to Alabama Congregationalism for fellowship. The church has been received into the North Alabama Association of Congregational and Christian Churches and its pastor will be received on a letter from the Presbytery, the clerk of which indicated that he was in good standing and that the letter would be issued at the next meeting of the Presbytery.

Members of the new church of Birmingham are among the best people of the metropolis, and they are working hard for the establishment of the church.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-LEDITOR*J. O. ATKINSON, ELON COLLEGE, N. C.*ASSOCIATE EDITOR*E. C. GILLETTE*117 W. Forsyth Street, Jacksonville, Fla.*CONTRIBUTING EDITORS*W. W. STALEY*W. A. HARPER*S. C. HARRELL*J. E. McCAULEY*NEWS EDITOR*W. C. WICKER*PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

DUTY CALLS!

The front page of THE CHRISTIAN SUN last week, and this week, carries a summons to duty and to service that we believe faithful souls will hear and heed. Dr. L. E. Smith, president of the Convention, speaking officially for the Executive Committee of the Convention and for the Board of Trustees of Elon College, sounds a note in his clarion call that will find a responsive chord in all loyal hearts.

Whatever the causes have been to bring about present conditions, our own Elon faces a crisis, and that alone, we believe, is sufficient to carry anxiety and deep concern to every true and loyal member of the Christian Church throughout the Convention. There is no separation of our denominational history in the past forty years from the history of Elon College, since our Church contributions to the College have made our Elon history, and the contributions of our College to the denomination have made our Church history. The two are inseparable, and you cannot write the history of one without writing the facts of the other. This being true, the crisis we face through our own Elon is nothing more nor less than the crisis we face as a Church and a Convention.

Any member or friend who willfully side-steps or treats lightly the one, in that act, side-steps and treats lightly the other. It is our own Elon College; it is our own Christian Church. The grace, the goodness and the wisdom of God have given us both.

Elon College is not as large, and not as good, as we wish it were, after forty years of prayer and sacrifice and effort and devotion; but it is the best and the biggest that we Christians have made up to date. If there are failures and mistakes and regrets, they are our failures, our mistakes, our regrets, and the College, as it stands today, and the Southern Christian Convention as it stands today, are the best we have done up to date. My home is not as large nor as luxurious nor as comfortable as many other homes, but it is mine. It reflects my mistakes and my shortcomings, my efforts and my devotion, my loyalty and my life, and it is the best and all that I have made it up to date. What I say of my home, I say of my College, and every member of all the churches of the Southern Convention can say the same.

Now, whatever the causes and conditions may be, we face a crisis, and the summons of duty comes. One cannot believe that individuals who have loved the Church and served it so faithfully through the years, who have loved the College and served it so faithfully through the years, who have received its blessings and shared its glory through the years, can now conscientiously turn a cold heart and a deaf ear to the call of the College and our summons to duty.

Personal letters have gone to all our ministers, to all the delegates of the Convention, and to the secretaries of churches, urging attendance at the Convention which is to assemble in Burlington October 20th. It will be easier not to heed these letters than to heed them, not to hear this call than to hear it, not to heed this summons to duty than to heed it, but brave and true and loyal souls are not looking and listening for the calls of comfort and of ease. Brave souls are challenged by calls that summons to hardship, to sacrifice, to service. Therefore, on October 20th, we believe many hearts will be praying for the outcome of the wisdom of those who shall attend the Convention, and we believe that all who can will lay aside their other and personal duties and responsibilities that day and will give that day, which, indeed, is a crucial day, a trying day, to the service of their Church and the call of their College.

We should come together with the hope that knows no denial, with a faith that is invincible, and with a love that suffers long and is kind, but endures to the end. Let us heed this call to duty, and at whatever personal sacrifice demanded be found in our place at the call of our Church on October 20th. Here is a responsibility that requires the strength of all our forces, and for any to shirk that responsibility makes it the harder and the more difficult for those who face and shoulder it. Here is a crisis that requires the wisdom and counsel of all our Convention, and an obligation that should bind us together as one in doing our duty faithfully by our own and for our God.

J. O. A.

THE GEORGIA AND ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

This Conference met in its 86th annual session at LaGrange Church, LaGrange, Ga., October 6th and 7th. Rev. J. D. Dollar is president of the Conference and was re-elected for another year. Mrs. J. O. Mabry is secretary, and was re-elected for another year. The Conference this year was not as largely attended as usual, but the spirit of the meeting was fine, the reports from the churches encouraging, though not up to the average, and the work in the Conference was delightful and inspiring.

One of the features of the Conference was the address of Dr. Frank E. Jenkins, president of Southern Union College, Wadley, Ala., showing the place, importance and power, as well as the need and the opportunity, of the Christian College. Dr. Jenkins is doing a great work as the president of Southern Union, and his address revealed the fact that he is a man of vision and of faith, as well as of persistence and performance. He is laying the needs of the college, as well as its opportunities and responsibilities, upon the hearts of his people, and he is getting results. The Conference was happy in hearing him and in approving most heartily both his work and the utterances of his great address.

Among the other visiting speakers were, Rev. Milo J. Sweet, Salisbury, N. C., pastor-at-large of the Congregational Church; Mr. Chas. D. Johnston, representing the Christian Orphanage and THE CHRISTIAN SUN, and J. O. Atkinson, Mission Secretary. These speakers were given place on the program, and the Conference gave good attention to the messages of these men who represent the general interest of the Church. One of the very helpful features of attending a Conference is that delegates and visitors learn by personal touch and contact something of the trials and triumphs of the general interest and institutions of the Church. There is no place like an annual Conference for learning what the Church is doing, both locally and in a general and far-reaching way. Ministers of the Conference making reports and addresses of interest and worth were, Revs. J. D. Dollar, C. W. Hanson, A. H. Sheppard, H. M. and T. W. Gray.

This Conference is working its way toward the merger, as voted at the Seattle Convention, and is already uniting its forces wherever opportunity is afforded. The following resolution, introduced by the Executive Committee and unanimously adopted, shows the loyal spirit of the Conference in the matter of complete merger:

"Your Committee reports with satisfaction and approval that the General Convention of Christian Churches and the National Council of Congregational Churches united in one national organization at Seattle, the past summer, under the title, "General Council of Congregational and Christian Churches. This means that today the Congregational and Christian Churches are a united body in national, world-wide and denominational interests and activities. These two bodies, Congregationalists and Christians, have throughout the history, traditions and policies of each, stood for church union on the broad basis of Christian fellowship and brotherly love, under the leadership of Jesus Christ as the one and all-sufficient head of the Church, and as the world's Saviour and Redeemer. These two bodies, in this day of growing intelligence and Christian tolerance, could no longer remain apart as two bodies and maintain their position with any degree of logic or consistency. Christians and Congregationalists have become one organically, because at heart and soul they were one in policy, principles and practice already.

"Because of traditions growing out of the activities of each, and because in minor practices we were two bodies, and because of the rights of individuals and local churches we are fully aware that it will require time, patience, prayer, and forbearance, for the fact of union to become thoroughly understood and operative in the local churches. We, therefore, recommend:

"First. That as a Conference we approve the union as expressed by our national organizations.

"Second. That we urge local congregations, wherever there is opportunity, or demand, to come together as one body under the name United Church, Congregational-Christian.

"Third. That this Conference continue as an integral part of the Southern Christian Convention until by vote of said Southern Christian Convention this Conference shall be dissolved or released to become an integral part of some other Convention or Church Council."

The Conference recognized its allegiance to the Southern Convention and, with that Convention, moves forward to the day of complete union of the two churches.

THE SUN's Editor left the Conference before adjournment and was not advised as to where the next annual session will be held. The East La-Grange people cared for the Conference in a whole-hearted and hospitable way, and all visitors and delegates seemed happy with their entertainment and the delightful fellowship of the occasion.

J. O. A.

EXTRAORDINARY SESSION OF THE CONVENTION.

The space assigned THE SUN's OBSERVATORY is needed for the announcements of the Extraordinary Session of the Southern Christian Convention until after October 20th. The most important question that can engage the attention of the constituency of the churches of the Congregational Christian brotherhood, in the South, at this time, is the interest of Elon College, for which the Convention is called in extraordinary session.

It is most urgently requested that all the delegates of the Convention, elected for last session, attend this special session, and that members of the Christian churches who can, do attend, whether members of the Convention or not. The only difference between members and non-members will be voting power, but the greatest interest of the Convention will be discussion of ways and means necessary for the future life and growth of the College.

Elon College is our Alma Mater, our intellectual mother, who nourished us in the things that enabled us to live and grow in our intellectual development, and now she calls for us to come to her aid, in this time of financial depression, when all institutions are feeling the need of more liberal and constructive support.

All the churches and individuals constituting the Christian brotherhood should stand solidly together with their faces toward the future, to purpose, to plan and to co-operate for a constructive, aggressive and progressive program. We are to nominate three persons from whom a president for the College is to be selected by the Board of Trustees. This person should be possessed of broad vision, adventurous daring for the liquidation of our present debt, a man in whom the people have absolute confidence not only with reference to his honesty and integrity but with reference to his financial ability, one who has shown his ability by the economic, frugal, successful management of business in his former experience.

There should be selected for this position a man that respects the opinions of the entire church, that is big enough to cultivate genuine friendship and fellowship with the smallest member of the entire church. His conception of college administration should be thoroughly democratic, especially so since the Church which founded Elon College was born in the spirit of democracy, and since the country in which the College is located is possessed of the broad democratic spirit. The College should itself, in its life and spirit, breathe the finest spirit of the ideals, of the liberty of the Christian Church; and all who enter its walls should be imbued with this spirit as a natural result of contact with a leader at the head who would inspire friendship, loyalty, and devotion to the Church and all of its institutions.

The life and future of the institution, the support that shall come to it from the church, from the ministry, from the alumni, and from the friends of education outside of the Church, will depend upon the ability of its head to create that spirit within the student body and through them transmit it to the outside world, to parents and church members, to the general public, and to men of wealth who are in sympathy with the cause of Christian education.

As I see it, there is no greater need, outside the immediate need for money to meet the present indebtedness, than to cultivate the spirit of co-operation, loyalty, confidence, faith, that the College will use every possible means to conserve the funds that may be provided, to curtail expenses wherever possible without injuring the College, to study costs, to shun the very appearance of extravagance, and to give those who patronize the institution every possible consideration for education equal to the best that the College can give.

W. C. W.

FALSE USE OF QUESTIONS.

It is a common thing in writers and speakers to raise questions of doubt in the field of Christian and Biblical thought and expression; and then use verbose language in trying to answer them. Such books and such sermons create more doubt than faith. "Who is God?" and then undertake to answer that question. It is safer to proceed with the exposition of the text or the development of the topic than to raise a question that implies doubt. "Is the Bible inspired?" Why raise that question. Read Second Peter, 1-21—"Holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost." The Bible is inspired and real Christians believe in its inspiration; and to raise that question raises doubt in the minds of some who otherwise would believe in inspiration. To answer questions of doubt from the pulpit is to weaken the faith of some and to reduce the spiritual value of the sermon.

The doubt of this age has been produced largely by preachers and teachers who have tried to reconcile scripture and science, or scripture and history, instead of taking each in its own field and trying to understand both. There can be no conflict between truth in different fields, because truth is one wherever it is found. Most of the scholars who have raised and tried to answer questions of doubt have weakened their own faith and the faith of others; and this, in the face of the word of God that, "Without faith it is impossible to please him (God)."—Heb. 11:6. To doubt anything the Scripture says is to weaken faith in the whole Bible; to doubt any statement by a man is to lower confidence in the man. Faith is very sensitive, and doubt is very dangerous. "He that cometh to God must believe that He is, and that he is a reward of them that diligently seek Him."—Heb. 11:6.

Faith is more important than knowledge. Many have knowledge and yet have little confidence in God or man. The business of the world rests on faith in men and business itself. The 500,000,000 dollar corporation they are trying to form now has as its main object the restoration of financial confidence in the business of the future. If all had faith in God and consecration to his cause that would relieve depression and hard times; for it is the lack of faith in man, in business, and in God, that the world is now depressed. Confidence is more than markets, and faith is more than works.

W. W. S.

WHAT THE NEW BIRTH IS.

The new birth is that relation to God that enables the individual to know that he is a child of His. At natural birth, the child does not comprehend what it is all about. But the new born child does understand to a degree the newness of his surroundings. As life gradually unfolds, the understanding increases and the new born child grows in that environment. The spiritual birth has a similar relation to the divine Parent and its environment as the natural birth has to the coming of a child into this world. The whole of the kingdom is not revealed to the individual at the spiritual birth; but it does put him into a new environment. It not only puts him into new surroundings, but it gives him a different outlook on life. (II. Cor. 5:17.) "Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are passed away; behold all things are become new."

Life does not seem the same to a person born in Christ before and after the spiritual birth. The fancies of life change. The old things that one finds pleasure in which are of a worldly nature pass away. The heavenly thoughts and acts appeal, where before the new birth they had no allurements. Jesus said, "Men love darkness rather than light because their deeds are evil." When the spirit of Christ comes in, then men change and love light because their deeds are right.

The new birth is just the beginning of the godly life. One enters this new relation and begins to walk in the way of righteousness. The longer he walks the straight and narrow way, the more he sees in it. He never fully understands the whole of this new relation in this life. The new birth is a gradual unfolding of the fuller life. The closer one walks with God, the greater the experiences of the new birth.

The new birth bears a similar relation to life that study does to the individual. One may read the Bible, yea, memorize certain parts of it, and then read it again, and there will be a new truth found in that which he has repeated time and time again. In this case, there is a new revelation. In the new birth, as time goes on, God reveals portions of His kingdom only as His people are prepared for this new life. Jesus said unto His disciples, "I have many things to tell you, but you cannot bear them now."

Probably the reason for so many people turning back after they have once entered the new relation to God is because they expect to obtain all in a short time. God's children are being born anew and anew in proportion to the time, thought and actions that are given towards His kingdom; which is a medium by which God reveals Himself to His children.

J. E. McC.

The only man who has a right to laugh at other people's mistakes is the one who never makes any himself. This would silence most of the laughing.—Onward.

He that lives to live forever never fears death, —Penn.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

The eighth annual session of the Suffolk Training School for Sunday School and Church Workers opened on Sunday afternoon, October 4th, in the Suffolk Christian Church, and closed on Friday night, October 9th, a six-day session.

This school is sponsored by the Methodist, Presbyterian and Christian Churches, and many of those who attend take the courses for credit. A fifteen minute devotional service is held each evening before class-work begins.

The following subjects and instructors have occupied the classes during the session: 1. Worship, Instructor, Dr. C. A. Tucker of Richmond. Text Book, "Training the Devotional Life," by Weigle and Tweedy. 2. Story Telling: Instructor, Mrs. J. H. Davis of Lynchburg. Text Book, "Stories and Story Telling," St. John. 3. Bible: Instructor, Dr. H. P. Clark of Portsmouth. Text Book, "Teaching Jesus," by Branscomb.

The attendants were nearly all women. The teachers were classed by the students as capable and faithful, and the interest was deep and searching. The classes in the several subjects, in numbers were as follows: Worship, 5; Story Telling, 11; Bible, 27; making a total of 43. In addition to the regular students, who took the courses, there were ministerial and lay visitors who enjoyed the lectures and discussions.

The Sunday School, which was intended for poor children when first founded by Robert Raikes, in 1870, has developed into an institution that seeks to train all ages in the teachings of Jesus and the study of the Bible. Life is a school, and leaders guide in its study. The improved literature, teachers and equipment for Sunday School and church work, have made it necessary to have more intelligent preachers and Sunday School teachers. Theological Seminaries and Training Schools, like the one described in this letter, have grown up out of this new and progressive condition. This situation is a necessity because of the increase in education through the Public School system and the multiplication of colleges. The Public School is a product of Christianity, and the Church must not let the secular school reduce the standing and value of the church school. The subjects taught in the day school and the Sunday School differ, as one relates to this life only, while the other relates to both this life and the life to come. By this statement the Sunday School is the more important of these two lines of education. It is certainly more important to be trained for two worlds than for one world. It is, therefore, safe to assert that the Sunday School is more important than the Public School.

There is a danger, in this age, of placing the emphasis on the wrong school; and even Christian parents often take more interest in getting their children to the day school than to the Sunday School. That does not mean that they ought to neglect the day school, but that they ought to be more zealous in urging their children to attend Sunday School on time.

And it is just as important to have trained leaders in church work as in business and State and national service. The Church is even more important than the State, because the Christian State is the fruit of Christianity. Worship, Story Telling, and the Bible, are as important as History, Mathematics, Grammar, Economics, Medicine, or Law. Education is a big word, and one person cannot know all there is to know; but all can learn enough to fill the place designed for them, and then all can co-operate in the great work of progress and the saving of the world.

W. W. STALEY.

FROM REV. G. D. HUNT.

Our Church at Roanoke, Alabama, held its last service for the Conference year yesterday and last night. We had a fine attendance at Sunday School in the morning and at Christian Endeavor in the evening. At the morning hour the pastor preached on "The Principles of the Christian Church," which was well received and enjoyed by the congregation. Many expressions of appreciation were given at the close of the service. At the evening hour the subject was "Facing the Future." We had another fine service.

We are winding up the conference year in good condition spiritually, with indications of growth along many lines. The finances of the church, however, are not up to the standard, and the probability is that our conference will be far behind in that respect.

Before this is printed, the Woman's Missionary Conference will have held its annual meeting, with the church here. We are expecting a good meeting, and we are praying that our women may be wonderfully blest in their efforts this year.

Our annual Conference is due to meet Tuesday of this week at Pisgah, Alabama, where we are hopeful of having a fine session. This is a beautiful and productive section of the State, and a good citizenship surrounds the church. It will be a fine trip for those who attend.

This has been the hardest year in the experience of many of our people, but even this year has brought its blessings. Many great and useful lessons have been learned; many hearts and minds have been lifted to God, and many of us have learned from whence our blessings have come. May we not trust Him more fully for His mercies next year.

I have tried to keep a word of comfort and cheer for our Southern brotherhood before SUN readers this year, and it has been a real pleasure to me to do so. I pray that God may give us courage to do even more in His name next year.

I appeal to every church and minister to attend our United Conference at Phoenix City, Ala., in November. Each minister should plan to attend, and each church and society of the church should send a representative. Let us make our conference a time of refreshing from the presence of the Lord. Pray much for the success of His kingdom.

Yours in love,

G. D. HUNT.

COMMENDABLE STEPS.

On Monday night, October 5th, a splendid congregation was present at Beulah Christian Church. It was my privilege to be with these good people and preach on that occasion. This meeting came as a climax to years of discussion concerning the location of the church. And at this business session of the church a motion prevailed that a new church be built. The location of the new building is to be selected by a committee of five. Services are to be continued in the present building until the new church is completed.

This is a step in faith, and it is a step to be commended. While so many people are pleading hard times, these people are pleading for the cause of Christ. Let us pray that the God of love and mercy may richly bless these people in this noble venture of faith.

Another commendable step has been taken by some consecrated people of Antioch Christian Church in Warren County, N. C. Now for some time, prayer-meeting services have been held at the church each Saturday night. It occurred to some that a Christian Endeavor Society might do the work of the prayer-meeting, and more. The Christian Endeavor Society is intended to stress the devotional feature of a prayer service, and, in addition, it provides a definite, constructive program in which a number of people participate.

Now think for a moment of Saturday night. Young people get into more trouble on Saturday night than on any other night in the week. It may be that the Christian Endeavor Society will accomplish more on Saturday night than on Sunday night. Let us also pray for this society.

R. LEE HOUSE.

Franklinton, N. C.

THREE GARDENS.

"Any garden must mean much to God,
Remembering three He has known:

One, where He broke the earth's first glorious sod,

And planted it and watered it alone.

"And another, He could not forget—

It was so full of tangled agony,

Full of a broken prayer that trembles yet
Across the centuries from Gethsemane.

"Then that third sweet garden, old and dim,

How He must love it—how it must make Him glad!

This is the one, I think, means most to Him:
The garden Joseph of Arimathea had.

"Out of it sprang the old earth's whitest flower,

Out of it sprang the Truth, the Light, the Way;

Up from that garden in one magic hour,

Sprang all the hope of heaven and earth today. —Grace Noll Crowell.

A DEAD CHURCH WANTS NO MONEY.

You will not have to wait long before an opportunity comes to you of making effective use of this little tale told by Bishop Nelson in New Zealand.

Two men met recently, and one asked a subscription from the other for his church. The reply was an irritated refusal with the remark that the church was always wanting money. The other man received the refusal and the criticism meekly and then said quietly:

"When my lad was a boy he was very costly. He was always wanting boots and shoes and stockings and clothes. He was always wearing them out, fast as boys will wear things out, and the older and bigger and stronger he grew, the more money had to be spent on him. I was always having to put my hand in my pocket to find money to keep him going; but he died, and now he doesn't cost me a shilling."

"Yes," said the bishop after telling his tale, "a live church always wants money."—Lutheran Standard.

An old Quaker is reported to have said to his wife: "Wife, everybody is queer but me and thee, and thee is a little queer." Perhaps that is one reason why the Savior has told us not to judge others. We are rather biased. It is pretty hard to give the other man his just dues. Would it not be hard if we dealt as harsh judgments on our own conduct as we do on the conduct of others? It is easy to condemn the other fellow and excuse ourselves for the very same act under similar circumstances.—B. B.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Secretary.

PRAYER.

God of all mercy, open our hearts to Thee and pour out Thy Spirit upon us. Never didst Thou intend that Thy children should live in any unreal or distant relationship with Thee. We plead for reality, for closeness, for conscious and constant triumph in every heart. For our joy Thou gavest salvation and peace, that in us the Author of peace might be glorified. Forgive our groveling. Put sin under our feet and so exalt in us the day of glory that all our reach may be onward and upward. We pray in Jesus' name. Amen.

"L."

THE MISSIONARY POTATO.

It wasn't a very large church, and it wasn't nicely furnished. No carpet on the floor, no frescoing on the walls; just a plain, square, bare, frame building, away out on the prairie. To this church came James and Stephen Holt every Sunday.

On this particular Sunday they stood together over by the square box-stove, waiting for Sunday School to commence, and talking about the missionary collection that was to be taken up. It was something new for the new church; they were used to having collections taken up for them. However, they were coming up in the world, and wanted to begin to give. Not a cent had the Holt boys to give.

"Pennies are as scarce at our house as hens' teeth," said Stephen, showing a row of white, even teeth as he spoke. James looked doleful. It was hard on them, he thought, to be the only ones in the class who had nothing to give. He looked around the old church. What should he spy, lying in one corner of a seat, but a potato.

"How in the world did that potato get to church?" he said, nodding his head towards it. "Somebody must have dropped it that day we brought things here for the poor folks. I say, Steve, we might give that potato. I suppose it belongs to us as much as to anybody."

Stephen turned and gave a long, thoughtful look at the potato.

"That's an idea," he said eagerly. "Let's do it!"

James expected to see a roguish look on his face, but his eyes and mouth said, "I'm in earnest."

"Honor bright?" asked James.

"Yes, honor bright."

"How? Split it in two, and each put half on the plate."

"No," said Stephen, laughing, "we can't get it ready to give today, I guess; but suppose we carry it home and plant it in the nicest spot we can find, and take extra care of it, and give every potato it raises to the missionary cause."

Full of this new plan, they went into the class looking less sober than before; and, though their faces were rather red, when the box was passed to them, and they had to shake their heads, they thought of the potato, and looked at each other and laughed.

Somebody must have whispered to the earth and the dew and the sunshine about that potato. You never saw anything grow like it. "Beats all," said farmer Holt, who was let into the secret. "If I had a twenty-acre lot that would grow potatoes like that, I should make my fortune."

When harvesting came, would you believe that there were forty-one good, sound, splendid potatoes in that hill? Another thing, while the boys were picking them up, they talked over the grand mass meeting for missions that was to be held in the church next Thursday. James and Stephen had their plans made. They washed the forty-one potatoes carefully; they wrote out in their best hand this sentence forty-one times.

"This is a missionary potato; its price is ten cents; it is from the best stock I know. It will be sold only to one who is willing to take a pledge that he will plant it in the spring and give every one of its children to the missions. Signed, James and Stephen Holt."

Each shining potato had one of these slips smoothly pasted to its plump side. Didn't those potatoes go off, though! By 3 o'clock on Thursday afternoon not one was left, though a gentleman from Toronto offered to give a gold dollar for one.

That afternoon James and Stephen Holt each put two dollars and five cents into the collection, and from that day to this they both have had a thriving missionary garden.—Daybreak.

MISSIONARY OFFERING.

WEEK ENDING OCTOBER 10, 1931.

Sunday School Offerings.

Previously acknowledged	$ 366.70
Palm Street, Greensboro, N. C.	4.25
Ramseur, N. C.	3.35
Whistler's Chapel, Quicksburg, Va.	1.10
Antioch, Harrisonburg, Va.	2.72
Shallow Ford, Burlington, N. C.	5.67
Wentworth, McCullers, N. C.	4.63
Bertie Johnson's Class, Liberty Spring, Suffolk, Va.	3.00
Liberty, N. C.	2.00
Wake Chapel, Fuquay Springs, N. C.	5.40
Pleasant Ridge, Ramseur, N. C.	4.45
Noon Day, Wedowee, Ala.	1.25
Noon Day C. E. Society, Wedowee, Ala. ..	.40
Hank's Chapel, Pittsboro, N. C.	2.43
Roanoke, Ala.	1.63
Dry Run, Seven Fountains, Va.	1.50
Holy Neck, Holland, Va.	8.00
Youngsville, N. C.	1.00
Newport, Stanley, Va.	1.65
First Christian, Winchester, Va.	5.32
First Christian, Norfolk, Va.	4.34
Hopedale, Burlington, N. C.	2.85
Seagrove, N. C.	1.00
Shiloh, Kemps Mill, N. C.	2.00
Zion, Sanford, N. C.	1.62
Liberty (Vance), Henderson, N. C.	3.97

Total $ 442.23

Individual and Church Offerings.

Previously acknowledged	$ 234.34
First Christian, Richmond, Va.	6.00
Miss Aylmer Goodwin, Columbus, Ga.	5.00
Oak Grove, Chipley, Ga.	4.10

Total $ 249.44

Dollar-a-Month Club.

Previously acknowledged	$ 30.75
Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dunn, Lynchburg, Va.	2.00

Total $ 32.75

Summary.

Previously acknowledged	$ 1,034.34
Sunday Schools, Regular	75.53
Individual and Church Offerings	15.00
Dollar-a-Month Club	2.00

Total to date $ 1,126.97

J. O. ATKINSON, Secty.

NEWS ITEMS.

The Young People's Missionary Society of Old Zion Christian Church has closed one of its most favorable year's work. Last year at the Young People's Conference in Suffolk, we received the banner in attendance for half the year, tying with Bethlehem Church. This year we are working hard to keep it all the year. We put on a lovely Christmas Pageant in the Church which was a great success. We have had a hay ride and a beach party this summer. We also had a birthday party celebrating the second anniversary of our Missionary year.

MISS MILDRED BRAMBLE, Pres.

On the afternoon of September 23rd, the Cradle Roll and Willing Workers Societies of Berea Church met at the Church and had a Rally Day program. There were twelve mothers present with thirty-six children. The children presented an interesting little program, at the close of which a mite box opening was held. At the conclusion of the program, every one went out on the lawn of the church, and the Superintendents of each society served ice cream and cake. A nice afternoon was enjoyed by all.

The Willing Workers Society of Berea, has had a real good year's work. We have an enrollment of twenty-five and they, most of them, are interested and loyal to their little Society. We have met our requirements this year which includes the raising of our apportionment which was $25.

PROGRAM.

ANNUAL SESSION OF THE
NORTH CAROLINA WOMAN'S MISSIONARY CONFERENCE, ELON COLLEGE CHRISTIAN CHURCH, OCTOBER 23, 1931.

Theme—"The Kingdom Cometh."

Morning Session—10:30 o'Clock.

Call to order by President, Mrs. C. H. Rowland.
Hymn—"Hail the Brightness 'of Zion's Glad Morning."

Worship, led by Rev. A. W. Hurst, pastor of the College Church.

Recognition of delegates, district superintendents, ministers and visitors.

President's Greetings.

Departmental Reports:

The Kingdom Cometh through—

1. Young People—Miss Lucile Mulholland, Y. P. Superintendent.
2. Child Life—Mrs. R. M. Rothgeb, Cradle Roll Superintendent.
3. Information—Mrs. W. T. Scott, Literature Superintendent.
4. Consecration—Mrs. W. H. Carroll, Spiritual Life Superintendent.
5. Life Enlistment—Mrs. S. C. Harrell, Life Membership Secretary.
6. Gifts—Mrs. W. R. Sellars, Treasurer.

Appointment of Committees.

Special Music.

Address—"The Kingdom Cometh through Sacrifice," Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Mission Secretary.

Offering.

Afternoon Session.

Call to order.

Quartette from the College.

Address—"A Program of Missionary Education for the Local Church," Miss Priscilla Chase.

Reports of Committees.

Presentation of Banner.

Closing Service.

What you possess at your death will belong to another but what you are will be yours forever.—Van Dyke.

PROGRAM OF THE ONE HUNDRED, AND ELEVENTH ANNUAL SESSION OF THE EASTERN VIRGINIA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

CYPRESS CHAPEL CHRISTIAN CHURCH
OCTOBER 28-30, 1931.

First Day—Wednesday.

MORNING SESSION.

- 10:30 Call to Order.
Song Service—Rev. J. F. Morgan.
Devotional Service—Rev. J. H. Warren.
10:40 Enrollment of Delegates.
Address of Welcome—Rev. R. E. Brittle.
Response—Rev. O. D. Poythress.
Reception of Visitors.
Report of Program Committee.
Report of Executive Committee.
Appointment of Special Committees.
11:00 Report of Committee on Home Missions—Hon.
J. E. West, Chairman.
Address—"My Church," Rev. J. E. McCauley.
Discussion and vote on Report.
12:00 Conference Sermon—Dr. N. G. Newman.
Communion Service—Dr. W. W. Staley.
1:00 Adjournment for Lunch.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

- 2:00 Song Service—Rev. J. F. Morgan.
Devotional Service—Rev. E. B. White.
2:10 Digest of Ministerial and Church Reports—
Dr. I. W. Johnson.
Report of Treasurer—W. E. MacClenny.
2:40 Report of Committee on Stewardship—Rev.
J. W. Fix, Chairman.
Address and Discussion.
3:30 Report of Woman's Missionary Conference—
Mrs. R. T. Bradford, President.
3:40 Report of Committee on Foreign Missions—
Dr. L. E. Smith, Chairman.
Address and Discussion.
4:40 Reading Minutes.
5:00 Adjournment.

EVENING SESSION.

- 7:30 Service of Worship—Rev. R. E. Brittle and Choir.
Devotional Service—Rev. W. H. Garman.
7:50 Address—Chas. D. Johnston, Superintendent,
Christian Orphanage.
8:15 Sermon—Rev. H. C. Caviness.

Second Day—Thursday.

MORNING SESSION.

- 9:30 Song Service—Rev. J. F. Morgan.
Devotional Service—Rev. T. N. Lowe.
9:40 Report of Committee on Religious Literature
—Rev. W. M. Jay, Chairman.
Address and Discussion.
11:30 Report of Committee on Education—Dr. W.
W. Staley, Chairman.
Address and Discussion.
11:30 Report from Southern Christian Convention—
Dr. L. E. Smith, President.
12:30 Devotional Period—Dr. W. D. Harward.
1:00 Adjournment for Lunch.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

- 2:00 Song Service—Rev. J. F. Morgan.
Devotional Service—Rev. C. E. Geringer.
2:10 Report of Committee on Ministerial Ethics—
Dr. N. G. Newman.
2:30 Report of Committee on Temperance and Moral Reform—Dr. W. D. Harward, Chairman.
Address.
3:10 Presentation of Christian Missionary Association—Rev. H. C. Caviness, President.
Address and Discussion.
4:50 Reading Minutes.
5:00 Adjournment.

EVENING SESSION.

- 7:30 Service of Worship—Rev. R. E. Brittle and Choir.
Sermon—Dr. W. M. Jay.

Third Day—Thursday.

MORNING SESSION.

- 9:30 Song Service—Rev. J. F. Morgan.
Devotional Service—Rev. J. M. Roberts.
10:00 Report of Collectors.
10:10 Report of Committee on Superannuation—Dr.
L. E. Smith, Chairman.
Report of Committee on Apportionments.
Miscellaneous Business.
12:30 Devotional Period—Rev. F. C. Lester.
1:00 Adjournment for Lunch.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

- 2:00 Song Service—Rev. J. F. Morgan.
Devotional Service—Rev. O. D. Poythress.
2:10 Reports of Special Committees:
Investigation of Rev. M. W. Sutcliffe.
Nominations.
Place for Next Session.
Press.
Finance.
Resolutions.
Memoirs.
Miscellaneous Business.
Reading Minutes.
Closing Service.
Adjournment.

PROFESSION WITHOUT POSSESSION.

At the Sunday School Convention in Los Angeles a worker noticed a young man who had stepped up to a fountain. The year before this worker had asked permission to have inscribed above the fountain, in letters of gold, our Lord's words: "Whosoever drinketh of this water shall thirst again: but whosoever drinketh of the Water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the Water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life." (John 4:13, 14). The institute worker made bold to join him and ask the question, "Do you believe those words?"

The other man glanced up and read them. He hesitated a moment, then he said: "Well, I believe in making people happy; just keep smiling."

An opportunity was surely at hand now, and the Institute man answered: "Yes, friend, but don't you know that without Christ in the life there is a heart ache back of every smile?"

The Sunday School superintendent pondered this a moment, and finally said to his new acquaintance: "I want to talk with you. I am a Sunday School superintendent and a delegate to the convention, but no one ever said anything like this to me before."

For an hour and a half they talked—the drink of water forgotten, for the young delegate, like the woman at the well of Samaria, was drinking of that other water. He said he had come to Los Angeles for this convention, but he confessed himself a lost sinner, and then and there, with great joy, he received Christ as his Saviour. Two nights later he attended a meeting in the Fisherman's club room at the Bible Institute and made a public confession of his Lord.—The Sunday School Times.

"CHOOSE YE."

When James A. Garfield who afterwards became President of the United States, was President of Hiram College, in Ohio, a man brought his son for entrance as student, for whom he desired a shorter course than the regular one. "The boy will never take all that in," the father said. "He wants to get through by a shorter route.

Can you arrange for it?" "O, yes," replied the President of Hiram College. "I can arrange for it. Your son can take the shorter course. It all depends on what you want to make of him. When God wants to make an oak, he takes a hundred years; but when he wants to make a squash, he requires only two months."—Young Christian Worker.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATED.

The Silver-plated Ware is of the very highest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses.$22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 85. 11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plated; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses
(this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling). $22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90. 14.00

Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim.....$ 9.00
Bread Plate No. 4—Broad rim..... 9.00
Filler—Silver lined 6.00

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, - - Richmond, Virginia

ADVENTURES IN YOUTH FELLOWSHIP

"Youth at Work in the Church."

JEWEL TRUITT, Editor, Glen Raven, N. C.

WAS IT CHEAPER? DID IT PAY?

By J. N. ARMSTRONG.

In 1908-1909 a promising young man, already preaching effectively, had offered him an opportunity to attend a great State university, and he seized the chance with much satisfaction.

The year before he had attended a humble Christian college with which I had no connection. This college had no educational rating and, of course, no prestige; but it did honor God, and it taught His word daily. This really was its only attraction or appeal.

The young man to whom I have referred had an aunt living in the university town that offered him free board and room—an appealing offer. He accepted—entered the university. He paid little tuition, or none, and a small fee. Who would not have considered it an opportunity? Attend that small Christian school with this offer before him? Not he!

During the first months of his stay in the university he made arrangements to preach on Sundays for some faithful churches at near-by places. But before the first semester was ended, he ceased to visit these churches, and, I understand, without explanation to the churches. Later the reason was known.

At the end of the year, and even before, the young man's faith was shattered, and he was an avowed agnostic. The best he had was an "I-do-not-know." Through these years, I understand, his religious faith has been a thrown-aside garment, discarded, folded up and laid on the shelf, with nothing better in its stead than "I-do-not-know." What a loss!

No doubt, in many of his lonely hours since, he has bewailed his fate and, like the Nebraska boy, longed for the simple, trustful faith he once had—now dead forever!

How many youths have gone this way we shall never know till after a while! No doubt there are thousands of them scattered along the shores. But I close repeating my question, "Did it pay?" Was the aunt's offer a blessing? Was it cheaper for the young man to attend that university than to have paid board, tuition, and fees at that humble Christian college, without standing and without prestige? Let fathers and mothers over the land answer before they commit their children to a school management for nine months.

No Christian in this country can encourage his children to attend any other than a Christian college for undergraduate work, without reflecting on the estimate he places on Christianity and its influence in the lives of the young, and also upon his intelligent love for his children. Parents who do so need to be taught to love their children.

I know of no greater danger to which parents are so likely to expose their children than the danger to which young high-school graduates are subjected in the big universities of today.—Gospel Advocate.

"Prohibition has never had a fair trial," says Grace G. Pickerill, Editor of The Christian Endeavor Guide. "It came in just at the end of the war when our minds were occupied with the happenings at the aftermath of war. Wilson, the president at the time, was not in favor of prohibition. The Harding administration which followed will be notable for its corruption, and we could not expect strict enforcement during that regime. The Coolidge administration was not aggressively dry. The Christian citizens of the country assumed after the passing of the Eighteenth Amendment that their big job was done, and they ceased their efforts in behalf of prohibition. It is true that prohibition has not been a complete success, but the trouble is not with the system, but the lack of enforcement. Let us give it a fair trial before we condemn it."

AT YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK.

Our first night in the Yellowstone National Park was a peaceful one, and by daylight we were crawling from under army blankets to dress in our heaviest clothing for a real trip in the park. We drove and explored the park from Old Faithful Station to West Thumb Station. There we saw the famous Fishing Holes, where fish can be caught and while they are still on the hook be dipped into a pool of boiling water and cooked. Pools of water with fish and pools of boiling water are so near that one can do this fish-cooking stunt without moving his position. At West Thumb we also saw the beautiful Yellowstone Lake, with its hundred miles of shoreline and its beautifully clear water.

During the morning's travel we saw the falls at several points on the Yellowstone River. The Greater Falls charmed us for a long time, and we sat watching the water and forgetting everything but the beauty we beheld.

At the Fish Hatchery we stopped to see the exhibits and to learn something of the work done along this line by the United States Government. Several times during the day we met big black bears, and sometimes cubs, "holding up" the passing automobiles. We hesitated about being held up, and did not feel so badly about it as we had no food in our car that the bears might have had in return for their trouble. In the afternoon we traveled eleven miles off our trail to visit the Buffalo Ranch. We were rewarded for our eagerness to see buffalo by finding that only one was in the lot. The keeper told us that the buffalo were allowed to roam at will, and that all of the others happened to be out in the pasture land. All during the day we saw chipmunks scampering over the plains, across the road, and through the woods. For our watchfulness we were rewarded by catching glimpses of several deer, some elk, and an antelope.

By evening we were at Mammoth Station. After getting lodging and supper, we went to see some of Nature's handiwork in the way of terracing. Some of the terraces we saw were of many colors, others were pure white. Much of the soil seemed to be of a lime-like substance. On top of one of the terraces it was possible to see the line of demarkation between the virgin timber and the new timber that has grown up since a forest fire about forty years ago.

On Tuesday, June 23rd, we arose and packed our baggage into the car and went to a near-by Buffalo Ranch. This time we were fortunate enough to see about twenty buffalo and to hear a lecture about them. Then we bade the park "farewell" and began our last stretch to Seattle, Washington. We went through Helena and spent the night at Missoula. Breakfast the next day was at Wallace, Idaho, lunch at Odessa, and supper at Cle Elum. We spent the night at Cle Elum, a distance of ninety miles from Seattle. We drove into Seattle the next morning, June 25th, the opening day of the great Congregational Church Council and Christian Church Convention. We located the Plymouth Congregational Church, got our mail, and registered for the Convention. Then we got our apartment for the week, had lunch and went to the opening session of the Convention at three o'clock. J. V. T.

Royal blood in the ancestry cannot make every one a king, nor the stain of sin and shame in the line of descent doom one to failure.—Selected.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NOTES.

OCTOBER 25TH, 1931.

"HOW IS OUR COUNTRY HELPING (HINDERING) THE SPIRITUAL GROWTH OF OTHER COUNTRIES?"

SCRIPTURE READING: Acts 13:1-3; Jas. 4:1-3.

For this particular program it will be well to divide the Society into two groups. One group should be prepared to present ways in which America is helping the other nations, and the other group should present way America is hindering other nations.

After the various points under each heading have been listed, discussion of each topic should be called for. Definite things should be pointed out under each heading.

Not only should the things that are actually being done, and that happen daily, be discussed but also those things which will probably happen in the near future.

Discuss the motives back of each of these actions toward other nations. Discuss ways in which you think the hinderances might be eliminated and the helps come to cover more territory.

Business and professional men and women should be given special invitations to attend this meeting and to join in the discussions.

Consult daily newspapers, magazines, and books for helps on the topic. Consult any influential or interested persons on the topic.

In case the discussion of the topic is not completed at this one meeting, continue it for another meeting.

Things to Think about in Connection with the Topic.

1. Child labor in China and Japan furnishes cheap products for American capitalists.
2. The Japanese Exclusion Act.
3. American moving pictures in other lands.
4. America's money craze.
5. Lindburg's Good-Will Tours.
6. American-Mexican relationships.
7. Why the World War?
8. The Kellogg Peace Pact.
9. Extraterritoriality and tariff control (China).
10. Social and industrial reforms.
11. American Red Cross aid to other countries in distress.
12. The work of American missionaries.
13. Scholarships and lectureships in American schools for people of other countries.

A group meeting was held on Sunday afternoon, September 27th, at the Atlanta Central Congregational Church building to talk over the possibilities of having a Georgia Young People's Conference next summer. Center Church, Union Tabernacle, United Church, and Duncan's Creek, were represented at this meeting, which Miss Annie Campbell attended to discuss the problem with them. A similar meeting was held some weeks ago with Enigma and Vanceville churches at Vanceville in South Georgia.

We should be more careful not to do wrong than not to suffer wrong, because to suffer wrong is only an affliction, but to do wrong is a sin, and sin is always worse than affliction.—Matthew Henry.

Sunday School Lesson

By REV. S. A. BENNETT, Elon College, N. C.

PAUL IN CORINTH.

LESSON IV.—OCTOBER 25, 1931.

LESSON TEXT: Acts 18:1-11.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; and the greatest of these is love."—I. Corinthians 13:13.

From Berea Paul went to Athens, and there awaited the coming of his helpers who had remained a little longer with the Christian group at Berea. He could not be idle, but busied himself in trying to win some to the Christian religion. At Athens he tried the intellectual and philosophical approach. No permanent church resulted, although a few seem to have accepted his message. Seemingly the attempt was mostly a failure. Paul moved on to the city of Corinth.

City Preacher and Organizer.

This influential missionary of the first century was essentially a city preacher. He had been reared in the city of Tarsus and educated there and at Jerusalem. He seemed to like the stream of active, varied interests that is found among the mixed population of the great cities. If the gospel could succeed and become organized in the city, Paul thought it would endure and reach the country as well. He spent most of his time organizing the work in the centers of population. In organization and growth, our own Christian Church has been handicapped because so much of our work was undertaken in the country and so little in the city. The souls of men are of equal value. The gospel is for all, and God is no respecter of persons or of localities. However, experience proves the wisdom of the organizational method of the great apostle.

At Corinth.

Here was a great challenge to Paul. A large, prosperous, influential city, a Roman military colony, and capital of Achaia—a rich and noted city of Greek culture and influence. But Paul did not use the intellectual, philosophical approach, as had been attempted at Athens. In his letter to them he said, "I determined not to know anything among you save Jesus Christ and him crucified." He used the mystic approach of his own experience and the language used in the popular mystery religions of the day. This appeal met a response from the lives of the common people at Corinth.

Friends of a Trade.

"By their trade they were tent makers." Here Paul found Aquila and Priscilla, lately come from Italy because of religious persecutions there. Aquila was native to Pontus, a province of northern Asia Minor. Like Paul, he was a tent maker by trade. Mutual interests drew them together, so they worked as tent makers and supported themselves while they carried on the pioneer work of the gospel. (See Romans 16:3 and I. Corinthians 16:19, also II. Timothy 4:19.) Common interests enable people to know each other and build friendships that are enduring. Paul refers to these friends repeatedly in later correspondence. They became useful workers in the church.

Turning to the Gentiles.

Work was begun at Corinth in the Jewish synagogue. Paul "reasoned in the synagogue every Sabbath, and persuaded Jews and Greeks." Some accepted, but the usual opposition of orthodox Jews met Paul with such force that he said, "Your blood be upon your heads; I am clean: from henceforth I will go unto the Gentiles."

Paul's ministry narrowed in its results with the Jews, but widened in results with the Gentiles. We think of him as the great missionary to the Gentiles. While he was more successful in the Gentile mission, his heart always yearned for the salvation of his own race. Like his Master, his love reached toward all.

Assurance of Success.

Amidst his troubles there were enough successes to make the work worth while. So he remained through the opposition and in a vision felt the assurance of God for his own personal safety and the gathering of a loyal church of Christians. Later when Paul wrote to this band as they were divided with factious quarrels, he was inspired to pen the beautiful love poem recorded in I. Corinthians chapter 13. Truly love was the more excellent way then as now, and happy are they who find the higher values of its fruition.

RICHES UNCLAIMED.

An unusual illustration of the uncertainties of life appears in the September issue of the New York State Bulletin, issued from the office of the York State Bulletin, issued from the office of the Secretary of State. This report deals with unclaimed money deposited in the banks of the State, the total of which amounts to two millions of dollars. Doubtless all this money was originally deposited by people who expected to realize out of it, but something happened to their plans, or their lives, perhaps, and the treasure lies unclaimed. This leads one to consider how uncertain earthly values are when we stand in the midst of life's mysteries, and how certain are heavenly treasures that devout Christians send up to the treasure-house of God. It will pay here, and hereafter, to deal liberally with the bank of heaven, where riches are eternal. Our church news columns reveal that several departments and institutions of the Church are suffering right now for an adequate support. Let us not make the great mistake of holding out on God in this time when His cause and His servants are pressed financially almost beyond endurance.—An editorial in The Wesleyan Methodist, that is particularly applicable to our own Church at the immediate present.

"If a child educated in a Christian school is not a different product from the child educated in a State institution; if being educated in an environment where the religion of our Lord is stressed does not make him a different product, then all the work of faithful missionaries from Christ until now has been in vain; in short, it cancels the entire Christian effort in the world and exalts paganism."

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the number and price.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 $\frac{1}{8}$ x7 Inches, and 1 $\frac{3}{8}$ Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75
India Paper Edition, Size 4 $\frac{1}{8}$ x7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00
Bourgeois Type, Size 5 $\frac{3}{8}$ x8 Inches, and 1 $\frac{3}{8}$ Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00
Minion Type, Pocket Size, 4x6 Inches, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ Inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold.....$1.60
Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 $\frac{3}{4}$ x7

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.50
2173—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges.....$6.00

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.00
India Paper Edition, Only 16-16 of an Inch Thick.

133X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ x5 $\frac{3}{8}$ Inches, and 1 inch thick, with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ x5 $\frac{3}{8}$ Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.

65—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps.....$2.50

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 $\frac{3}{8}$ x8 $\frac{1}{4}$ Inches and 1 $\frac{3}{8}$ Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With Concise Bible Dictionary, combined Concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.75

RED-LETTER EDITION.

With All the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands; title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations; special book for Sunday Schools.....95c

Any of the above Bibles sent postpaid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street,

Richmond, Virginia

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY H. E. ROUNTREE
One of our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"O Lord, I beseech thee, let now thine ear be attentive to the prayer of thy servant, and to the prayer of thy servants, who desire to fear thy name, and prosper, I pray thee, thy servant this day."

By DR. AMOS R. WELLS.

MONDAY.

RISK AND REWARD.

"I also will requite you this kindness, because ye have done this thing." Read II Samuel, 1:4-7.

When the men of Jebesh-gilead buried Saul, they probably feared that they were arousing the wrath of David, whom Saul had so often tried to kill; but David was far too magnanimous for that.

A good illustration of the swift rewards of heroic kindness was given the other day in Bridgeport, Connecticut. A man who had been out of work for five months saw a crowd collected around a manhole. Down beneath were two workmen, overcome by the gas which filled the conduit. Instantly, at the risk of his own life, he climbed down and rescued them. He was at once paid $150 and received what was worth much more to him, a good job.

Prayer—Our blessed Redeemer, may we be quick and bold to follow the example of Thy heroism. We are saved to save. We are drawn from the waves of despair that we may become fishers of men. Prosper us as we do Thy work with Thee. Amen.

TUESDAY.

"FLYING BLIND."

"That he (Jehovah) may . . . preserve the way of his saints." Read Proverbs 2:1-8.

An experienced aviator asserts that no airplane is thoroughly fitted out with instruments that can not be flown by them alone. The operator sits in the cockpit and does not once glance outside it; his instruments tell him just where he is with reference to the ground, and keep him straight on his course.

So it is with the child of God who has for his guide the Word of God. He finds that the Lord does verily "preserve the way of His saints." He can "fly blind" with entire safety. Indeed, he is much freer from peril when he relies solely on divine guidance than when he relies on his own eyes or on the guiding signals of other mortals.

There is much comfort in reposing our trust upon God with this absolute confidence. The Christian has no fears. He is never anxious. He is sure that he will arrive at the desired haven.

Prayer—Lead us, O God, and direct our way. Keep us in the right course. May we never turn from it. May we never waver nor doubt. For our trust is in Thee, our Father. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

SPIRITUAL SOPORIFICS.

"What meanest thou, O sleeper?" Read Jonah 1:1-6.

Jonah, bidden by God to go east to Nineveh, was going west to Tarshish. Jonah was fleeing as far from his duty as he could. And Jonah was sound asleep.

What a contrast to Christ, sound asleep in the midst of that storm on the Sea of Galilee! His was the sleep of peace and trust, Jonah's was the sleep of heedlessness. His was the sleep of perfect obedience, Jonah's was the sleep of defiant disobedience.

Sleep is a great blessing, but not both kinds of sleep. For sleep is of two sorts, the sleep that rests quietly in God, the sleep that ignores and despises God. One is the sleep of the heavenly minded, the other the sleep of the carnal minded. One is the sleep that thinks upon God and lays one's head upon His love as a pillow. The other is the sleep that forgets about God and takes the soporific of self-conceit.

"What meanest thou, O sleeper?" The boat is tossing on the billows and its seams are already opening, the water rushing in. The tempest is howling for thee, and thou art soon to be thrown overboard. Rouse from thy drugged stupor, O sleeper, before it is too late, and pray to the God thou hast so offended.

Prayer—Forgive us, our Father, for our frequent forgetfulness of Thee. Wake us, we pray Thee, from our suicidal sleep. May we turn to Thee for salvation before it is too late. In the name of our Redeemer. Amen.

THURSDAY.

WEIGHTS.

"Ye load men with burdens grievous to be borne, and ye yourselves touch not the burdens with one of your fingers." Read Luke 11:42-47.

It is easy to load other people. It gives us a sense of power. We feel that we are authoritative, a controlling force. Our wishes are carried out; and why should they not be? Are they not wise? Are they not for the best?

The application of the Golden Rule to rules is very rare. In every home and church and business office there is likely to be one dominating personality whose ideas are enforced to the exclusion of other ideas. His plans are laid on every one's back, his commands direct all action, his preferences must always rule. He is the load-bearer and all others are the load-bearers; because his is the supreme wisdom, which means that his is the supreme egotism and selfishness.

Prayer—Our Saviour, we pray that we may always in honor prefer others rather than ourselves. May we set their wishes above our own. May their choices become our choices. May we practice Thy Golden Rule. Amen.

FRIDAY.

LETTING GO THE WIRE.

"To depart from evil is understanding." Read Job 28:20-28.

When a man by accident seizes a wire charged with electricity, his hands clutch it convulsively and he can not let it go. The first thing his rescuers must do is to separate him from the wire, taking care not to come in contact with the deadly current by touching the wire or even touching the victim himself. There is only one thing to be done, and that as quickly as possible: they are to seize something made of rubber and with it pull the man away from the wire.

So when a man is caught in the deadly current of any sin. He is not to stop to study theology and learn the nature of sin. His only understanding is to depart from the evil. As quickly as possible he is to drop the live wire. You will need other wisdom later, but the wisdom you need just now is put in a very few words: "Don't do it again!"

Prayer—Our Saviour, lead us not into temptation. Our Redeemer, deliver us from evil. Amen.

SATURDAY.

WITNESS AGAINST HERSELF.

"If our heart condemn us not, we have boldness toward God." Read I John 3:16-24.

A strange event occurred in Cambridge, Massachusetts, recently. A squad of rum raiders entered an apartment house, the sergeant in charge remaining outside. A woman whom the officers were not after at all saw them and jumped to the conclusion that they had come to arrest her, for she was in the rum business herself; so she hastily threw out of her window a gallon can of alcohol—and hit the sergeant! Immediately the police abandoned the case on which they had set out, arrested the woman and took her to court, where she was fined fifty dollars.

"Be sure your sins will find you out." Wickedness of any kind will in time disclose itself. A bad man needs to fear his own conscience more than the police. Heaven has an invisible force surrounding every sinner.

How terrible it would be if it were not so! What a blessed thing is conscience! It is like the pain that sends us to the doctor. Without it disease would gnaw its way unhindered to some vital organ, and then slay us.

Prayer—Quicken our conscience, O Holy Spirit. Terrify us with the fear of God. Remind us ever of the inevitable judgment. Make evil a fearful thing before our eyes, O Holy Spirit of the eternal Judge. Amen.

SUNDAY.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

"Lord, trouble not Thyself." Read Luke 7:1-10.

The other day, in a town near Boston, a woman returned from a shopping trip and discovered that she had lost her house keys. She called out all the fire apparatus, coolly ordering the firemen, when they arrived, to put up their ladders and find some unlatched window. This they did, but with inward murmurings, for the woman should have telephoned for a ladder instead of the whole department.

The opposite spirit was shown by the Capernaum centurion, who, when he begged Jesus to heal his dearly beloved servant at the point of death, told the Saviour not to take the trouble to go to his house, but speak the curative word and the boy would recover.

Pride seeks to show its importance and authority by making all the trouble it can. Humility does not consider itself worthy of any attention; and when it must ask aid, asks it as quietly as possible. The prayer of pride never receives an answer from heaven.

Prayer—Dear Lord, we approach Thee on bended knee. We are not worthy of the least of Thy mercies. We come to Thee in fear and trembling; and yet with great confidence, for Thou dost bid us come. Amen.

GOD'S WAY.

"It was out of the cloud that the deluge came, yet it is upon that that the bow is set. The cloud is a thing of darkness, yet God chooses it for the place where He bends the arch of light! Such is the way of our God. He knows that we need the cloud, and that a bright sky without a speck or shadow would not suit us in our passage to the kingdom. Therefore He draws the cloud above us, not once in a lifetime, but many times. But, lest the gloom should appall us, he braids the cloud with the sunshine—nay, makes it the object which gleams to our eye with the very fairest hues of heaven."—Exchange.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN'S PULPIT

REV. JOSEPH W. FIX, Preacher.

LIVING IN THE HEIGHTS.

By GABRIEL C. BANKS
In The Christian Evangelist.

*"I will lift up mine eyes to the mountains. . .
My help cometh from the Lord,
Who made heaven and earth."*

—Psalm 121:1.

Mountains are magnetic. Only the blind and unseeing fail to look up when they cut into vision. Their massiveness draws attention and stirs up questions which can neither be phrased nor answered.

Mountains have been associated with the public practices of religion. Holy mountains breed a sense of detachment and exultation which lift the soul.

Mountains are prominent in the imagery of the Bible. There is something significant in the idea that those people who are known as "God's chosen people," those people out of whose heart and hand sprang the scriptures, those people who gave the world a correct interpretation of God, the Hebrews, developed their literature in the mountains. They were not native to the mountains. Their stock belonged to the broad stretches of Mesopotamia. For centuries they lived in the fertile Nile country. The barren sands of Arabia were their environs for the life of one generation. Perhaps the hand of Providence, weaving some special design in the tapestry of civilization, led them and settled them in the mountains of Palestine. The atmosphere of the mountains held something vital to the mission of these folk who specialized in the claims of monotheistic faith. Mountains etch great religious conceptions on the soul. They suggest living in the heights.

The development of our religion is associated with the mountains. Certain mountains are peaks in the unfolding of faith and revelation. After a corrupt earth had been cleansed by the waters of an enraged heaven, the only surviving family is pictured landing from an Ark on Mount Ararat, charged with the responsibility of re-peopleing an old world with a new race. On a mountain Abraham discovered that God did not approve human sacrifice. On Mount Horeb, Moses heard the call to serve his race and on Mount Sinai he caught the ten enduring words which have expanded the moral capacities of humanity. On Mount Carmel, Elijah won a victory for the rugged faith of his hill country against an imported, glamorous heathenism with government backing, and on Mount Horeb he discovered God to be the still small Voice that companions in quiet and gentle ways with men. On Mount Zion was the temple, the special dwelling place of God. On a mountain Jesus was tempted, deciding on the side of eternity the issue between self and God; on a mountain Jesus was transfigured, deciding the issue between a traditional, priest-ridden religion and a vital, personal faith; on a mountain overlooking a great city Jesus was crucified, deciding the issue between hate and supreme love by an act of unparalleled self-control and sacrifice on which the world's hope of salvation rests; and from Mount Olivet Jesus ascended into glory, leaving behind a great commission for the conquest of the world by Christian character. Mountains suggest the historic high peaks along the world's sky line of faith. In some strange way, by some mystic charm, through some spiritual magnetism, mountains have the power to draw men to live in the heights.

Mountains whet expectancy. This pious phrasing of a personal resolution expresses neither doubt nor fear. The dominant emotion is expectation.

Mountains afford an extended range of vision. The mountain peak gives a commanding sweep of all surrounding country. Mountains mean elevation above the common, the upraised vision, wings to aspiration.

Mountains spell difficulty. The mountaineer struggles for existence. With effort he scales from one elevation to another. Out of this exertion come health and strength and the joy of living.

Mountains impress the soul with a vivid sense of grandeur and immensity. Their towering dimensions urge the soul to expand its grasp. Out of them comes to it a suggestion of large and compelling things.

Mountains speak of hidden resources ready to be developed. Out of their gifts man organizes his shelter, his warmth, his means of industrial intercourse.

Mountains infuse men with bravery and a passion for freedom. In the mountains of Palestine the Maccabees struggled for Jewish liberty; in the mountains of Switzerland William Tell resisted the encroachments of a tyrant; in the highlands of Scotland Robert Bruce struck again and again for freedom. These souls felt a great kinship to the mountains about them. Mountains proclaim independence. Each rises in its own name. From such independence there emerges personality.

A Symbol of God.

Mountains are a symbol of God. He is the high and holy One that inhabits Eternity. "I will dwell in a high and holy place with him that is of a contrite heart, saith the Lord of hosts." Mountain peaks stand perpetually in a zone that is above the mixer, the depressing and the sordid. The beauty and the grandeur of the Alps seem inwrought in the character of the Swiss people. Switzerland has been the feeding ground for many humanitarian enterprises, good-will efforts and attempts at international co-operation. The Red Cross, the League of Nations, the Paris Peace Pact touched its soil. Surely its mountains bring peace to the peoples. Switzerland's physical altitude is matched by the elevation of its people in life and purpose. How significant the patriotic creed recited in her schools: "My duty is to obey God and to work for God and my native land!" Co-extensive with the Alpine ranges seems the loftiness of the climbing, Godward look of the Swiss, the look at whose other end looms assurance and security.

Man May See God.

When man lifts up his eyes to the mountains, he sees beyond the mountains to the mountains' God. Then he realizes that by His strength He setteth fast the mountains. In this realization he learns not to fear, though the earth do change and the mountains be shaken in the heart of the seas. Out of this abiding experience of living in the heights he knows that before the mountains were brought forth . . . even from everlasting to everlasting He is God. God is beyond all and through all and in all. This Hebrew did not stop when he saw the mountains. Not for one moment did he pin his faith and his trust to anything material, even the largest and most enduring of material objects. Any scheme of thought, any philosophy of existence, any program of conduct that is worth anything at all for any length of time has God at the center. Only in the enthronement of God in thought is there fruitful expectancy, adequate vision, a lasting sense of grandeur, the development of hidden resources in character, true independence and eternal fellowship. Every glimmer of an incandescent bulb, every odor from the flowers of the field, every note of melody issuing from the throat of happy creatures, every fluttering twig on forest trees, every gesture of brotherliness from one human being to another suggest Him who standeth within the shadows keeping watch o'er all His own. Jesus, whose words are truly spirit and life, said a great many things; but all that Jesus said can be compassed in one great, inexpressible word "God!"

Coleridge's Hymn Before Sunrise in the Vale of Chamounix is a marvelous sermon on this text. The meaning of this poem, steeped in joyous and virile mysticism, like the meaning of all great poetry, fits any mountain or any object because it is reached by the path of faith for Coleridge had not seen Mount Blanc. At the close he sweeps into the moving climax with the mighty message with which every particle of that upturned mass of earth is vibrant. Mount Blanc is vocal with the message of every mountain.

"Great hierarch! Tell thou the silent sky,
And tell the stars and tell yon rising sun,
Earth, with her thousand voices, praise God."

COMBINATION OFFER—To a new subscriber or for renewal $2.25, either Gentleman's (Capitol) Pen or Ladies' Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. And to "Sun" subscribers, not in arrears, any Pen at one-fourth off. Address: THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1336 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us. Postage paid and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer. MEN'S PENS—Capitol, $2.00; Mercantile, $2.50; Cardinal, $3.00. LADIES' PENS, $2.00.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

The writer had a very pleasant visit to the Georgia and Alabama Conference the 6th and 7th of October. It is always a pleasure to visit the Conference in Georgia and Alabama. The people are big-hearted and treat one so well that we just like to make the trip. A dry year and poor crops with low prices make it a little discouraging for that section. We received a number of renewals for the CHRISTIAN SUN with many kind words as to how much they appreciate reading their Church paper.

The program committee had kindly given us a place on the program to present the Christian Orphanage. The Orphanage has six children from that Conference. One of them will reach the age limit next year and expects to go in training. Many of our girls take up nursing and it is a splendid profession and one in which a great service can be rendered. We sometimes think of the splendid boys and girls who have been reared in the Christian Orphanage and have gone out in life and made good. It impresses us that every dollar invested in the Orphanage has been a splendid investment. Girls who are nurses, stenographers, teachers, home makers; boys who are cashiers in large corporations, civil engineers, farmers, plumbers, electricians and many other vocations. At one time in their life they came to the Christian Orphanage helpless, dependent, homeless and without a chance. You, through your Orphanage, have contributed your money by personal check through the Sunday School offerings to give these children a chance in life. They have proven themselves worthy. Do not regret a dollar you have invested in them. Begin to plan now for the special Thankoffering in your church and Sunday School this Thanksgiving.

CHAS. D. JOHNSON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR OCTOBER 15, 1931

Sunday School Monthly Offerings.

Brought forward 11,801.11

North Carolina and Virginia Conference:

Durham $19.42
Happy Home 2.10
Pleasant Ridge 1.00
Hines Chapel 3.89
Lebanon 1.38
Long's Chapel 1.40

29.19

Eastern North Carolina Conference:

Wake Chapel $ 5.67
Liberty Vance 3.10

8.77

Western North Carolina Conference:

Hank's Chapel $ 2.44
Pleasant Hill 7.17
High Point 3.78
Biscoe 2.55
Liberty 3.50
Burlington 50.72

70.16

Eastern Virginia Conference:

Johnson's Grove $ 1.00
Antioch 2.00
First Norfolk 4.92
Holy Neck 10.00

26.14

Valley Virginia Central Conference:

Antioch $ 3.00
Dry Run 2.59
Concord 1.35

6.94

Alabama Conference:

Noon Day $.82
Roanoke 1.63

2.45

Georgia and Alabama Conference:

Richland 1.00

Special Offerings.

Mrs. Wade, support of Mary $12.00
Mrs. N. L. Hawkins, Mt. Zion, additional offering, Singing class .. 1.00
W. A. Lee, support of boys 7.50
Mr. Blizzard, support of children .. 6.00
Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dunn, Lynchburg, Va. 2.13
Collection from Ga. & Ala. Conf. .. 7.62
Catawba Springs collection for singing class:
General collection $22.41
Miss Celeste Penny 13.00
A Friend 1.00

$26.41

72.66

Total for the week $ 217.31

Grand total 12,018.42

NOTICE.

Rev. P. H. Brown of Chicago, who has been supplying the pulpit at First Christian Church, Portsmouth, Va., during the absence of the pastor on vacation, will remain indefinitely in the South. Mr. Brown is a man thoroughly committed to the Word of God, and one who has been greatly used of the Lord in both evangelistic and pastoral fields. Anyone who desires to secure him for supply work, or for evangelism, may take the matter up with Mr. Brown by writing him in care of the undersigned, or by calling Telephone, Portsmouth 1269-M. H. C. CAVINESS.

Eilers Sunday School Maps.

On a Revolving Adjustable Steel Stand

The first 5 maps
are in Set No. 1,
with stand,
Price $15.00

Set No. 2
8 Maps,
Price $20.00

Fine large Maps, In 6 Colors 36x57, on linen finished Cloth. Mounted on a folding steel stand, which can be regulated, so that Maps may be seen to the best advantage. This set contains data for thorough Bible Study. Its large print and Cheerful Colors makes this set very instructive and attractive. Contains the five thoroughly up to date Maps necessary to the study of Bible History.

New Testament Palestine, — Old Testament Palestine, — Roman empire and Bible Lands, showing Pauls Travels by Colored lines. Lands of the Old Testament, from the Great Sea, to the Persian Gulf. — The Exodus, Egypt, showing by Colored lines the wanderings of the Israelites.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN,

1536 East Broad Street,

Richmond, Virginia.

ALL
SELF-
PRONOUNCING

Holman Testaments

COMMAND
ATTENTION
AND APPROVAL

Holman Vest-Pocket Testament

Size, 2½x4½ inches

Specimen of Type.
AND the third day there
was a marriage in
Cana of Galilee; and
the mother of Je'sus was

The VEST POCKET is, beyond question, the most popular Testament published.

2104. Dark Blue Silk Finished Cloth, with edges colored to match, gold titles $.50
2103K. Morocco Grained Binding, flexible limp, gold edges and titles60
2114. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges85

VEST POCKET TESTAMENT AND PSALMS
2103KP. Morocco Grained Binding, limp, gold titles, round corners, gold edges70
2114P. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges90
2115P. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges 1.10

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS
With all the words of our Lord and Saviour printed in red.
43RL. French Morocco Leather, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, rounded corners, gold edges90
15RLP. French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, gold title on red panel, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included 1.35

Holman Jewel Testament

INDIA PAPER ONLY—Size 2½x4½ inches x¾ inch
The JEWEL is the latest and most attractive Pocket Testament made.
The TYPE is black, bold and larger than that in the famous Vest Pocket edition, and the book itself is smaller.
It is printed exclusively on the famous Holman India paper, noted for its opaque quality and unusual tensile strength.
One advantage of this India paper is that the leaves do not cling together.
The size, 2½x4½ inches, is so small that the book practically fits the palm of the hand.

Specimen of Type
ST. MATTHEW 2 The three wise men carrying away into Bab- ing interpreted is, God
ylon are fourteen genera- with us.
tions; and from the carry- 24 Then Je'seph being ing away into Bab'y-lon raised from sleep did as unto Christ are fourteen the angel of the Lord had

5003X. Morocco Grained Binding, flexible limp, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges $1.00
5015PX. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, Psalms included 1.50
5036PX. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather linings to edge, silk sewed, red under gold edges, with Psalms 2.60

Holman GEM Testament

POCKET
SIZE
3¾x4½ inches

Specimen of Gem Black Faced Type

CHAPTER 23.

THEN spake Je'sus to the multitude, and to his disciples,

The GEM TESTAMENT has been steadily growing in popular favor ever since its first appearance.

In size, 3¾x4½ inches, it is not much larger than the Vest Pocket. It is also the only Testament of its size with large bold type and pronouncing text.

The edition on India paper is ideal, and we know of no better gift at the price than one in the finer bindings.

4102P. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red burnished edges, with Psalms $.90
4113. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges 1.35
4115P. French Morocco Leather, divinity circuit, gold titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included 1.90

RED LETTER GEM TESTAMENT

4113RL. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges 1.50

INDIA PAPER GEM TESTAMENT

4136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather linings to edge, red under gold edges, with Psalms 3.00
4136XPRL. Red Letter Edition with Psalms, same binding as 4136XP, but with the Sayings of Christ Printed in Red 3.25

Old Folks Testament

Extra Large Print

Pica, 16mo. Size, 5¼x7¼x¾ inches

Old folks or those with poor sight will appreciate the advantage of this Testament. The type is a delight to the eye with its wide spacing between the lines. It is the most readable edition of all large print Testaments.

Specimen of Type.
THE book
of Je'sus

PSALMS INCLUDED
2902P. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.50

THIN BIBLE PAPER EDITIONS
Same Large Print as Above
2913P. French Morocco Leather, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included 2.95

Same as above, with the Sayings of Christ in Red.
3913PRL. French Morocco Leather, flexible covers, gold side title on red panel, rounded corners, red under gold edges, and with Book of Psalms included 3.10

All styles sent postpaid at above prices

HABITS—OUR FRIENDS OR ENEMIES.

It is an undeniable fact that we possess an abundance of conscious action, and unconscious reflex actions. In other words, we are "walking bundles of habits." Habits are things that we all possess, whether we are conscious of it or not; they either lead us up or down; they are either good or bad, or perhaps both; they are either our master or our servants.

When we came into the world we were just a physical mold of life without a mental, moral, or physical habit. Since then we have repeated actions, formed ruts of living, done things over and over again, calling into action the same set of nerve cells, which have become so accustomed to act in the way that now they do so without the aid of the will, and often against it. When we arise of a morning (now) our old habits come to us as intimate friends and offer us their assistance, and demand that we receive them. In fact we have sown thoughts and reaped habits, sown habits and reaped the character we now possess. And the character we now possess determines our eternal destiny.

Habits are either our "best friends or our worst enemies." Habit has been termed the "fly-wheel of society," and also the "balance-wheel" of society. Right habits rightly directed make for efficiency. The skilled workman who with tools can do his work with accuracy and ease has accomplished his feat by directed habit. The stenographer can readily touch the right keys of the typewriter with speed because of continual practice. The musician who sways the audience with his artistic touch does so because of having done it well many times before. The orator unconsciously makes the right articulation, accents, and gestures because of thorough training. We know how to overcome the moral and spiritual battles of life because of repeated observations of the consequences of our decision in the moral and spiritual crises that have come to us.

Not only in the upward grade to victory is habit the ruler, but in the downward descent and final fall habit is the predominating force. Habits, though very small, are like cords which entwine about us enough times will finally overpower us. According to the fable, Gulliver was very large in comparison to his little enemies, the pigmies. But when they fastened their little ropes one at a time around his neck, hair, arms, fingers, and feet, he lay helpless before his little enemies. The fable is self-explanatory. The person with a strong character may emphatically declare, "I will do this," or "I will not do this," but it depends on the habits he forms.

What is the great source from whence the stream of action flows? Thought. We are aware of the fact that even the physical mover that we make must originate in the brain. We are continually receiving impulses through the "sensory current which runs in from the outside world" to act. These cause the "motor current which runs out to command the muscles" to move. How true the words of the wise man, 'As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he.' Prof. T. W. Shannon states: 'No human hand ever misappropriated property until the mental thief had stolen the property over and over, again and again. Finally the mental thief becomes the master and forces the hands to take the stolen property.' Thus we see the outward acts of life are only the property and products of thought life. Thought is the bud that blossoms forth in acts and deeds. The outward life can rise no higher than the thoughts. Our mental, moral, spiritual, and physical actions will be governed by our thoughts. Just as a foundation can rise no higher than the source from whence it springs, so our deeds can be no better than the source of thought that causes them.

Shall we form habits? That is not the question. What kind of habits shall we form? The process of habit forming is continuously going on in our lives, especially in youth. "Could the young but realize how soon they will become mere walking bundles of habits," they would give more heed to their conduct while they are in the plastic state. We are spinning our own fates, good or evil. The smallest virtue or vice furnishes the thread.

There are three great maxims that Professor James gives: "In the acquisition of a new habit, or the leaving off of an old one, we must take care to launch ourselves with a strong and decided an initiative as possible.

The second maxim is: "Never suffer an exception to occur until the new habit is securely rooted in your life. Each lapse is like letting fall a ball of string which one is carefully winding up, a single slip undoes more than a great many turns will wind up again."

A third maxim may be added to the preceding pair: "Seize the very first possible opportunity to act on every resolution you make, and on every emotional prompting you may experience in the direction of the habits you aspire to gain."—By L. Earl Slacum, in Young People's Friend.

Send your subscription to THE SUN to C. D. Johnston, Circulation Mgr., Elon College, N. C.

ELON COLLEGE

AN ACCREDITED COLLEGE

of the

CONGREGATIONAL CHRISTIAN CHURCHES OF THE SOUTHEAST

ELON was founded to train Christian leaders for the New South.

ELON has done its task well—one graduate in seven being in the Christian ministry. The other six express Christian leadership in the various professions and vocations. Experience teaches that spiritual leadership must be indigenous.

The South is now a New South ready for an inclusive Church, the type of Church for which Elon has stood for forty years and for which she is prepared to produce capable leadership.

With no Church in the community, save the College Auditorium, ELON has practiced Christian Union for faculty, students, and community for four decades.

Its contribution to Christian Education is nationally known and approved.

Its Christian Education Building, providing laboratory facilities for religious leadership training, is unique and is the first college building of its type in the world.

ELON confines itself to undergraduate liberal arts work with that religious emphasis which befits the Christian College.

In ELON the Congregational-Christian Church has an asset of marvelous hopefulness.

The South needs her Yale, her Oberlin, her Carleton, her Pomona for the intellectual leadership of the United Church. Many regard ELON as strategically located and spiritually endowed to become such a center of illumination and leadership training.

THE CHRISTIAN EDUCATION BUILDING
The Heart of the Elon Program of Christian Education.

C. M. CANNON, Registrar

Elon College, - - - - North Carolina

Home Atmosphere—Reasonable Rates—Clean Athletics—Christian Spirit.

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the kingdom, as represented by the Congregational-Christian Church.

BOARD OF EDITORS.

J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
E. C. GILLETTE, D. D. Associate
W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
W. A. HARPER, LL.D. Associate
REV. S. C. HARRELL Associate
J. E. McCAULEY Associate
W. C. WICKER, D. D. News Editor
P. J. KERNODLE Managing Editor
C. D. JOHNSTON Circulation Manager

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Year$2.00
Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Postoffice, at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to The Christian Sun, C. D. Johnston, Circulation Manager, Elon College, N. C.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads" 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

Notices: Obituary and marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge; all over 100 words at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

OBITUARIES.

DOLLAR.

Margie Carpenter was born Feb. 19, 1888, died Oct. 1, 1931. Joined Rock Creek Christian Church at the age of twelve years, and remained a consecrated worker till she received her summons from above to come up higher. She married Charlie Dollar Nov. 8, 1908. To this union were born twelve children, three of whom preceded her to the glory world in infancy. She leaves to mourn their loss her mother, five brothers, two sisters, her husband, nine children and a great host of relatives and friends.

We realize that her going makes her community and church poorer, but we feel that heaven is made richer, and that our loss is her eternal gain. She loved her community, her church, and her home and was ever ready to lend a helping hand where needed. She went about her daily tasks with a smile, and never grew discouraged in the service of her Master.

Funeral services were conducted from Rock Springs Church by her pastor, the writer, assisted by Revs. W. N. Crumpton, C. W. Carter, and G. D. Hunt, in the presence of the largest crowd we have ever seen at this place. The floral decoration was very beautiful, tokens of her beautiful Christian life. Her remains were laid to rest in the cemetery near by to await the resurrection of the just.

May God's sustaining grace comfort the bereaved is our prayer.

G. H. VEAZEY.

ALGER.

Charlotte Jane Alger was born July 22, 1856, and died August 22, 1931, aged 75 years and one month. Sister Alger was a faithful member of Bethel Christian Church. She is survived by 7 children, 32 grand-children, and 27 great-grand-children. Funeral services were held at Bethel, August 24th. Many of her host of friends and relatives gathered to pay a tribute of respect. Blessed

THE CONGREGATIONAL LATIN-AMERICAN INSTITUTE AND PILGRIM LATIN CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH OF WEST TAMPA, FLA.—

Are helping give the Gospel, which is "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth," to the forty thousand Latin people of Tampa. The evangelical forces working among the foreigners of Tampa are by no means covering the territory sufficiently.

Methodists have six preachers, Baptists two, Presbyterians one, Congregationalists one. Church workers and teachers must be supported for this great missionary work. Send check to

LESLIE S. BRAY, Treas.

Route 4, Box 468, - - Tampa, Fla.
Send boxes of clothing to Mrs. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

For literature, write Rev. C. H. Corwin, 2326 Green St., W. Tampa, Fla.

LARGE PRINT TEACHERS' EDITION FOR ADULTS, TEACHERS AND PREACHERS

and all who would study the Word of God intelligently this edition is unsurpassed. The type is large, clear, Bourgeois, Self-Pronouncing, with liberal space between the words and lines, which makes it easy to read.

Size, 8 x 5 1/2 inches.

Specimen of Type.

"From that time Jesus began to preach, and to say, 'I the kingdom of heaven'"

Containing New Copyrighted Helps by most reliable Authorities. A Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, New Colored Maps.

No. 4712. Divinity Circuit Teachers' Bible, French Seal Leather, red under gold edges, Silk Head bands and Silk Marker.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 5.00

No. 812RL. Red Letter Teachers' Bible. The Words of Christ in the New Testament, Old Testament Passages Alluded to by Christ, Various Prophecies Relating to Christ in the Old Testament, etc., all PRINTED IN RED. Binding same as described above and same large Self-Pronouncing type.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 6.00

No. 733X. Holman India Paper, Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 10.65

are the dead that die in the Lord; their influence lives on for good.

A. W. ANDES.

Why not order your copy of "Doran's Minister's Manual for 1932" now? It is worth ten times the price.

666

LIQUID or TABLETS

Relieves a Headache or Neuralgia in 30 minutes, checks a Cold the first day, and checks Malaria in three days.

666 Salve for Baby's Cold

PIEDMONT COLLEGE

A SENIOR COEDUCATIONAL INSTITUTION

OFFERS

Standard Courses leading to the usual Academic Degrees; also Courses in Music and Home Economics.

Thorough Instruction in Speech and in the Commercial Branches.

A beautiful location in the "Foothills of the Blue Ridge"; altitude of 1,500 feet; spring waters and invigorating climatic conditions.

An enviable reputation for sound scholarship, wholesome student life and Christian Idealism.

Expenses exceptionally light: $318.50 for the College Year.

For Catalogue, write,

JONATHAN C. ROGERS, Dean,
Demorest, Georgia.

SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE

FOUR YEAR STANDARD COLLEGE

A Memorial of the Congregational-Christian Union.

FRANK E. JENKINS, Pres.

MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD, Dean

Second Semester will open January 27, 1932, with full provision for beginning courses.

Chartered BETHLEHEM COLLEGE
June 2, 1922

Renamed PIEDMONT JUNIOR COLLEGE
May 18, 1928

Renamed SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE, June 3, 1931

SCHOLARSHIP HIGH

EXPENSES LOW

CHARACTER SUPREME

A Strong Faculty, Educated in 25 Universities and Colleges in 12 States.

Unsectarian, but thoroughly Christian.

For Information about Entrance, write—

DEAN MARLIN G. SATTERFIELD,
WADLEY, ALABAMA.

For Other Information, write—

DR. FRANK E. JENKINS, Acting President,
LA GRANGE, GEORGIA.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Representing the Southern Christian Convention and the Congregational Churches of the Southeast.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY

VOLUME LXXXIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1931.

NUMBER 43.

.. THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY ..

By DR. W. C. WICKER.

STUDENTS CHEER PRESIDENT-ELECT.—

The news of the election of Dr. L. E. Smith as president of the College was received at Elon Wednesday morning with great enthusiasm by students and faculty members. Dr. Smith spent Tuesday night at the home of Dr. J. O. Atkinson, and immediately after breakfast the next morning a large group of students assembled in front of the residence and gave Dr. Smith an impromptu though hearty welcome. Dr. Smith responded in an appropriate manner.

DISARMAMENT.—

One of the live issues before the nations of the world is disarmament. The Rotary International of Great Britain and Ireland has sent out advice from headquarters that all Rotary Clubs place the question of disarmament in the forefront of the international service programs during coming months. A special disarmament number of their magazine has recently been published. This movement should be sponsored by all Christian people throughout the world. War is paganistic in principle and spirit, and should not have the support of Christian people anywhere. The whole question depends on whether we shall put our government above God.

DEATH OF CONGREGATIONALIST LEADER.—

In the death of Dr. Lucius H. Thayler at his home in Dublin, N. H., Sept 20th, the Congregational Christian church lost one of its ablest men. His ability was recognized is his being chosen to fill the offices of chairman of the commission on missions during the years immediately following the setting up of that organization with its accompanying merging of national Congregational societies into united foreign and homeland groups. The Congregationalists, however, find Dr. Thayler's greatest distinction, not in his wider activities, but in serving his own community as a pastor. He went from his seminary to his first pastorate at North Church, Portsmouth, N. H., and for nearly 40 years—until his retirement in 1928—he ministered in this field.

SPONSORS RADIO EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM.—

President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia, President James R. Angell of Yale, and President Ernest L. Bogart of the American Economic Association inaugurated on October 17th a weekly program of radio addresses on present day economics and psychology sponsored by the National Broadcasting Company. President Butler delivered a brief introductory address preceding President Angell, who gave the first address in the psychology series and Dr. Bogart, who opened the economic series. The program will be on the air Saturday evenings from 8:30 to 9:00 o'clock, Eastern Standard time. Each evening will provide a 15 minute address in each of the series.

The first 10 addresses in the economic series will deal with the causes of unemployment and possible ways out. Most of the speakers are authorities holding chairs in universities or heading national councils and associations.

EMPHASIS ON EVANGELISM.—

The first union meeting this fall, under the auspices of the Chicago Church Federation, brought out an attendance of about seven hundred and fifty. It was held in Chicago temple on September 28th. "The Evangelistic Task of the Church" was the general theme of the meeting, which was in charge of the commission on Evangelism, and the speakers were Dr. Edwin C. McCown, pastor of the Mt. Lebanon United Presbyterian church, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Dean Shailer Mathews, President of the Church Federation, who delivered the keynote address. Religious revivals, Dean Mathews declared, invariably spring from conditions which prove the treachery of trust in material things alone. History might well be expected to repeat itself in these dark days. If these times of depression do not bring us to our knees and result in a revival, temporal and physical condition will not convince the world of their value to the promotion of revivals.

UNEMPLOYED IN NEW YORK.—

A special committee has been formed to relieve the unemployment in New York. This committee plans to call for $12,000,000 at once and more later. There is every indication that this committee will exert its pressure upon the wealthy of the city to give liberally. Already they are being told by some of the political authorities that only thus can the dole and riots be prevented. By the close of this month public and private agencies in the city will have spent some $40,000,000 to meet the need of the unemployed during the twelve months preceeding and it is estimated that this coming year will require at least $60,000,000 for this support. The hospitals of the city are feeling the pinch to such an extent that they are requesting help from the municipal budget. The outlook is dark indeed, but such relief is not the remedy. This is only temporary relief. What needs to be done is a change in industrial conditions so that we shall not have unemployed and starving people in a land of plenty.

WORK FOR WORLD COURT.—

That the American people and their representatives are not to be allowed to forget the world court in this time of economic distress is evidenced by the holding of a meeting in New York the past week for the purpose of uniting the forces behind the proposal. Attending this Conference were such well-known leaders as Newton D. Baker, Alanson B. Houghton, James T. Shotwell and others of like caliber. And the organization represented included the American Federation of labor, the Federal Council of Churches, the World Alliance, the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., the Central Conference of American rabbis and a large number of others. The meeting planned a country-wide campaign to bring the public opinion of the United States to the necessity for prompt and favorable action upon the world court proposal. Anything looking towards world peace should be encouraged by a Christian nation. Our present economic condition is a backwash of war and all Christian forces should seek to prevent a repetition of such conditions.

IS HISTORIC CHRISTIANITY PASSING?—

Dr Holmes, pastor of the Community Church, in New York, has just returned from a summer in Europe. During his stay there he studied conditions in several countries and had audiences with many world figures, including the former German Kaiser and Mahatma Gandhi. In his sermon last Sunday he declared that historic Christianity in Europe, if not dead, is rapidly dying. In his opinion it is "smitten by indifference in England, by militant contempt in Germany, and avowed hostility in Russia." He described organized religion in Europe, Jewish as well as Christian, as "a pathetic spectacle." And yet he asserted that he faced the future with courage because historic Christianity is not to be confused with the religion of Jesus. In his own words, "No one thing so surely opens the way to the return of Jesus' gospel as the passing of the churches that take his name in vain. So my faith is in religion as the soul of man seeking its high destiny of love upon earth. Christianity, as we have known it may pass, is passing. But religion never."

CONGREGATIONAL COMMISSION ON PEACE.—

The commission appointed by the national council at Seattle to act on "the greatest issue before the human race" held a seminar of leading clergymen of New England at Lake Sunapee, N. H., in August. The unity of conviction as to the importance of the task was remarkable. It was felt that the idea that Christians can stop a war after it is started was exploded in 1914. On Sept. 14th, the commission itself met at Hartford, Conn., and adopted a statement to be sent to 6500 Congregational-Christian churches. "Believing that war as a method is both unnecessary and anti-Christian," the commission calls the churches to "a campaign of education" against it. The next great opportunity is the disarmament conference in Geneva. "The way to peace lies through world organization. Effective instruments are the League of Nations and World Court, imperfect, but a beginning. Since the United States has ratified the Kellogg pact, it cannot logically remain out of them." The chairman of the commission is the Rev. Theodore A. Greene, of the First Church of Christ, New Britain, Conn.

NOTES-PERSONALS

This week the Young People's and Willing Workers' programs for October appear in THE SUN. The November programs will appear next week, as will the Woman's program.

The extraordinary session of the Southern Christian Convention was well attended, and by those who were determined that a way should be found to accomplish the ends and purposes for which the Convention was called.

Rev. H. S. Hardcastle continues to improve at the hospital in St. Albans, Vermont, but will be unable to return to his pastorate at Suffolk, Va., for some days yet. He sent greetings to the Women's Missionary Conference at Holland, Va., last Thursday and this Conference wired its sympathy, anxiety and esteem in return.

That was a great conference of young people at Suffolk on October 9th. And much of its inspiration and success is due to the untiring efforts and splendid leadership of its president, Miss Mary Lee Williams, who we are told presided over the conference with great graciousness and ease and kept the program going smoothly.

When many of our pastors are filling out their letters to Conference we wish they would ask themselves this question: What have I done the past year for my Church paper, THE CHRISTIAN SUN, either in writing for it, getting subscriptions for it, or making it popular in my field. We do wonder what many of our pastors think of their Church paper anyhow, and if they ever give it a serious thought.

Rev. S. E. Madren, who has for some time been pastor in Carroll County, Va., is now located at R. 1, Elon College, N. C., and will be glad to secure any church as pastor which needs his services. He is taking post graduate work at Duke University, and will have ample time and opportunity to serve two or more rural churches. Bro. Madren has served successfully in our mountain work as teacher and preacher.

Next week the Eastern Virginia Conference at Cypress Chapel, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday. The week following, beginning Tuesday, Nov. 3, the Western N. C. Conference at Shiloh, in Randolph Co. The week following that, beginning Tuesday, Nov. 10th, the North Carolina and Virginia at Mt. Bethel, Rockingham Co., N. C. The week following that, beginning Tuesday, Nov. 17th, the Eastern N. C., at Shallow Well, Lee Co., N. C. Are you ready for your Conference? If not, why not get ready—now?

From the Richmond Christian Advocate comes this informative item: "Three big daily papers in Virginia printed two hundred inches of editorials against prohibition the three weeks following the report of the Wickersham Commission and have been at it almost daily ever since. This was about one hundred thousand words or a regular book volume of editorials in three weeks." One wonders who pays for all this volume of "wet" propaganda. One can hardly imagine that these editors love their "rum" well enough to cause them to write and print it all free of charge.

The small United Congregational Christian Church of Birmingham, Ala., united with the new and larger one Sunday, October 12th. Dr. F. P. Enslinger, writing October 13th says: "Yesterday the smaller church united with the new and larger one. The combined membership is now four hundred. The attendance at morning services yesterday was about 700, and the night service over 1,000. There were over 100 in the Crusader's Bible class yesterday morning. There were 72 women in the Business and Professional Women's Unit. The church is a member of the Alabama Conference of Congregational and Christian Churches."

PROGRAM.

OF THE SIXTY-FIRST SESSION OF THE WESTERN NORTH CAROLINA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE, SHILOH CHRISTIAN CHURCH, RANDOLPH COUNTY, NORTH CAROLINA, NOVEMBER 3-4, 1931

First Day.

MORNING SESSION. 10:00 O'CLOCK.

1. Called to order by the President, Rev. E. C. Brady.
2. Devotional Services, Rev. T. J. Green.
3. Enrollment and Organization.
4. Appointment of Special Committees.
5. Report of Executive Committee.
6. Reception of Visitors.
7. President's Address.
8. Adjournment.

AFTERNOON SESSION. 2:00 O'CLOCK.

1. Devotional Services, Rev. J. C. Cummings.
2. Report of Nominating Committee and Election of Officers.
3. Reports from Ministers and Churches.
4. Report of Committee of Religious Literature Rev. G. R. Underwood, Chairman.
5. Report on Home Missions, Rev. H. V. Cox, Chairman of Committee.
6. Miscellaneous Business.
7. Adjournment.

EVENING SESSION. 7:30 O'CLOCK.

1. Song and Prayer.
2. Report on Christian Endeavor, E. H. Thompson, Chairman.
3. Young People's Program for the Conference, as follows:

Introductory Remarks—Herman N. Truitt, President of the Youth Fellowship of the Southern Christian Convention.

Worship Program—Miss Julia Woodson, Burlington.

What Youth May Do—J. Rowland Ferrell, Hank's Chapel.

What Youth May Do—Mrs. W. R. Sellers, Burlington.

What Youth May Do—Rev. E. Carl Brady, President of Western N. C. Conference.

The Youth Fellowship,—Miss Virginia Morton, Delegate.

Special Music—in charge of Miss Jewell Presnell.

Inspirational Address—Prof. A. R. Van Cleave, Elon College.

Business Session—Herman N. Truitt.

4. Closing Program.

Second Day.

MORNING SESSION. 9:00 O'CLOCK.

1. Devotional Services, Rev. M. A. Pollard.
2. Minutes of the Previous Day.
3. Report of Committee on Social Service, Rev. J. U. Fogleman, Chairman.
4. Report of Evangelism, Rev. M. A. Pollard, Chairman.
Address, Rev. R. A. Whitten.
5. Report of Committee on Foreign Missions, Rev. T. J. Green, Chairman.

Address, Dr. J. O. Atkinson.

6. Adjournment.

AFTERNOON SESSION. 2:00 O'CLOCK.

1. Devotional Services, Rev. H. V. Cox.
2. Report on Sunday Schools, George T. Gunter, Chairman.
3. The Christian Orphanage, Supt. Chas. D. Johnston.
4. Report on Education, Rev. T. E. White, Chairman.
Address, Dr. E. L. Moffitt.
5. Report of Committee on Superannuation, I. H. Faust, Chairman.
6. Report on Apportionments.
7. Reports from Special Committees.
8. Miscellaneous Business and Adjournment.

GEORGIA CONGREGATIONAL CONFERENCE.

Below is given a synopsis of the Forty-First Annual Session of the Georgia Congregational Conference, meeting with the Fredonia Church, Barnesville, Ga., October 27 and 28, 1931.

Tuesday, October 27th. MORNING SESSION.

- 10:00 Call to order and greeting—Moderator Henry B. Mowbray, Demorest.
A Word of Welcome—Mr. John Bush.
Worship Service—Rev. J. F. Blackburn.
Address—Rev. A. W. Sparks, Dayton, Ohio.
Introductions, etc.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

- 2:00 Organization and business.
2:30 Worship Service—Rev. W. Carl Parker.
3:00 Reports and other business.
4:00 Address, "Spiritual Evangelism,"—Rev. A. W. Hutchens.
4:30 Address, "Adventurous Evangelism,"—Rev. W. Knighton Bloom, D. D.
5:15 Appointment of Committees, etc.
5:30 Recess for Recreation and Supper.

EVENING SESSION.

- 7:30 Music by Church Choir.
Worship Service—Rev. J. D. Dollar.
"Vision and the Task,"—Rev. H. B. Mowbray.
Conference Sermon—Dr. W. T. McElveen.
Closing Hymn.
Announcements, Benediction.

Wednesday, October 28th. MORNING SESSION.

- 9:00 Worship Service—Rev. E. H. Willisford.
Round Table Discussions: "A Pastor for Every Church, or Is the Grouping System a Success?" and "How I Get My Sermons."
11:00 Address, "Seattle,"—Rev. D. B. Atkinson.
Noon Recess.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

- 1:30 Worship Service—Rev. H. M. Gray.
2:00 Joint Report of Trustees of Both Congregational and Christian Conferences.
3:00 Consideration of Constitutions.
4:00 Young People's Hour—in charge of Miss Annie Campbell, Extension Worker.
Address—Rev. A. W. Sparks.
Business Session.
Recess.

EVENING SESSION.

- 7:30 Music by Young People's Choir.
Worship Service—Rev. W. C. Carpenter.
Report of Committee on Courses of Study—Prof. Lisle Percy.
Address, "The Church, the Home and Youth,"—Pres. H. C. Newell, Piedmont College.
Communion Service—Dr. Newell.
Offering for Board of Ministerial Relief.
Closing Hymn.
Final Adjournment.

CONGREGATIONAL NEWS

REV. E. C. GILLETTE, Editor; REV. F. P. ENSMINGER, and REV. M. J. SWEET, Associates.

THE SOUTH GEORGIA Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Fifth Sunday Meeting is to be held in November at Whitehall Church, Waycross, Georgia. Do not forget the date and the place.

VISITATION. Rev. T. B. Mobray, Moderator of the Congregational State Conference, Rev. Milo J. Sweet, Pastor-at-Large for the Congregational Churches of Georgia and the Carolinas, and Miss Annie Campbell, Georgia Extension Worker, will make a visit to the following Georgia churches this month. Antioch, Friendship, Whitehall, Doerun, Cochran, Walker's Chapel, Pleasant Hill, Crest, Duncan's Creek, Center, and Union Tabernacle.

FIRST CHURCH, MIAMI, FLORIDA, suffered a loss in the sudden death of Mr. Arthur D. Young, who has for several years been chairman of the Board of Trustees of the church and a very devoted worker in all phases of the church life. Mr. Young died of heart failure during the night and was later found in his apartment. He was beloved by all workers in this church and by all who knew him. The funeral was conducted by the Rev. Helen F. Lanham, pastor of the church.

ROLLINS COLLEGE has enrolled the largest number of students in the history of the college. At the opening Convocation Dr. John Tigert of the University of Florida gave the address, in which he expressed himself favorably concerning the efforts of Rollins College to blaze new trails in college education. The college has removed the customary four year requirement for bachelor degree, enabling the students who are able to do so to secure the degree in less time. The beautiful new chapel and also the theatre building, being built for the college by Mrs. Edward Bok, will be opened some time during the coming winter.

UNION CHURCH, JACKSONVILLE, FLA. Dr. H. Samuel Fritsch has announced an interesting series of topics for the morning services during the next eight weeks under the general theme "Things Supreme." The topics are "The Supreme Determination," "The Supreme Question," "The Supreme Satisfaction," "The Supreme Folly," "The Supreme Gift," "The Supreme Possession," "The Supreme Choice," and "The Supreme Expectation." The church paper prints the names of students in colleges from the church numbering in all seventeen. This is a large number for a church of this size. The church has recently conducted an attendance campaign among its members with gratifying results.

PATTIE LEE COGHILL, Assistant for Church school and Young People's work for Florida, has been teaching during the past week in an Interdenominational Leadership Training Institute at St. Petersburg, and during the present week is teaching in a similar institute at West Palm Beach. Later she will teach in an institute in Jacksonville. She recently spoke at a luncheon of the women of the Daytona Beach church and talked to the Sunday school of the St. Petersburg church on the duties of a director of Religious Education. She also spoke before the St. Petersburg Christian Endeavor Society and addressed the prayer meeting of that church, the teachers and officers of the Sunday School being present.

THE SOUTH GEORGIA ASSOCIATION held its forty-second annual meeting at Ambrose Christian Church, Ambrose, Georgia. The Association adopted a constitution satisfactory to the united churches, Congregational and Christian. The association was fortunate in having as its special speakers, Prof. D. B. Atkinson of Piedmont College, Dr. Henry C. Newell, President of Piedmont College, Rev. M. J. Sweet, Pastor-at-Large, and Rev. L. L. Stanley, pastor of a middle Georgia group of churches. Saturday afternoon was young people's afternoon. Mr. Linton Little told about Blue Ridge. The Vanceville Christian Endeavor Society gave a little sketch, "Summer Conference Echoes." The possibility of having a State leadership training conference was discussed. Then followed an hour of fun and fellowship. The Union Hill Christian Endeavor led an out-of-doors Vesper Service, and then the Ambrose young people gave a "weenie roast." The Association voted to give its fourth Sunday Sunday School collections toward the expenses of one of its own South Georgia young people who is attending Piedmont College. The business of the conference was ably handled by Moderator, Rev. D. J. Pearson. Everyone enjoyed the hospitality of the Ambrose Christian Church.

THE FLORIDA ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the three Florida associations will be held early in November. The South Association will meet with the Tampa church, November 3-4. The South East Coast Association will meet with the West Palm Beach church on November 5th, and the East Coast Association will meet at the Jacksonville church November 10-11. Interesting programs have been arranged by the committee of each association. The guest speaker will be Rev. Frank E. Henry, Editorial and Field Secretary of the Congregational Church Extension Boards. In connection with this visit Mr. Henry will also visit several other points in the southeast.

REV. OSCAR H. DENNEY CALLED.

Rev. O. H. Denney has been called to the pastorate of the Miami Shores Church in Florida and has already begun services there. Mr. and Mrs. Denney have been serving Florida churches for the past seven years, coming here from New York state and serving for over five years at the New Port Richey church. Since leaving that church he has been interim pastor of the Miami First Church, Associate pastor at Coral Gables and during the past summer has been Summer Supply Pastor at the St. Petersburg Church. Upon reaching Miami Shores they were given a royal welcome and a largely attended supper. Both Mr. and Mrs. Denney are earnest workers, very greatly beloved by all and especially by the young people. The United States Government has recently changed the name of Miami Shores to North Miami. Originally this community was known as Arch Creek. Hereafter the church will be referred to as the North Miami Church.

LAYMAN AS CHURCH ASSISTANT.

The Miami Beach Church will have a layman to assist the pastor this season instead of a young minister as has been the case for several years. Ralph W. Hills, who has been employed by the church for several years as Song Leader for the Sunday school, the Sunday evening services and the young people's meeting has had his duties enlarged and his whole time engaged by the church. He will be Sponsor for the Christian Endeavor Society, the Boy Scouts and various clubs and also the assistant in matters of business detail to the pastor. Mr. Hills is the son of a Presbyterian minister and has had unusual training in church work. His wife is Superintendent of the Beginner's department of the Sunday school and Captain of the Girl Scouts.

Dr. Elisha A. King, of Miami Beach, is giving a series of sermons on Sunday mornings during October and November on "The Story of Religion". The following are the subjects: "Magic and Religion." "Religion in the Ancient World." "Men Who have Changed the World." "The Story of Judaism." "Jesus and Christianity."

DR. WHITE IN THE SOUTHEAST.

Rev. Hugh Vernon White, D. D., Educational Secretary for the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, has just completed a tour in the southeast and has returned to Boston. Dr. White came especially to this region to deliver a series of lectures at the Florida Ministers' Convocation. In connection with his attendance upon the Convocation Dr. White spoke at the churches in the following places: Jacksonville, New Smyrna, Ormond, Orange City, Sanford and Winter Park. At Winter Park he addressed the students of Rollins College and made a study of the Conference System of teaching at Rollins. He expressed himself as very deeply interested in the Rollins plan and its apparent success in cultivating a serious attitude on the part of the students with regard to their work. His address to the students upon the subject of the dilemmas of the educated person was listened to with great interest by the students. Other places in the southeast visited by Dr. White were Charleston, Atlanta, Piedmont College, Elon College, Raleigh and Washington, D. C. Concerning interesting phases of these visits the writer is unable to write as he is writing from Jacksonville.

NOVEMBER 15, 1931.

One hundred and twenty-five years ago last August, a group of young men at Williamstown, Massachusetts, started the Foreign Missionary movement in America. Twenty-five years ago next November, a group of laymen in New York City started the Laymen's Missionary Movement. These two beginnings took place in two meetings wherein a rare way men had "full power to speak of their faith and full insight into its meaning." Congregationalists are especially interested in these meetings because one of them led directly to the formation of the American Board, and because the second of them was the outgrowth of the celebration by the Board of the one hundredth anniversary of the Haystack Meeting, as the gathering at Williamstown has come to be called, and was summoned by a young Congregational layman, John B. Sleman, Jr., of Washington, D. C. Letters are going out to our ministers inviting them and their churches to share in the observance of the anniversaries of these two great movements on Sunday, Nov. 15, 1931. Here is a great opportunity to bring our people into contact with vital Christian experience and with a powerful expression of that experience. Let us devote that Sunday morning to improving this opportunity, and where interdenominational meetings are held in the afternoon let us join in them. Especially ought it to be a day when the men of our churches are called to a reproduction for our time and our need of the spirit which produced such results in a former time and in response to a former need.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR

J. O. ATKINSON, ELON COLLEGE, N. C.

ASSOCIATE EDITOR

E. C. GILLETTE

117 W. Forsyth Street, Jacksonville, Fla.

CONTRIBUTING EDITORS

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

S. C. HARRELL

J. E. McCAULEY

NEWS EDITOR

W. C. WICKER

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

(1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.

(2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.

(3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.

(4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship and of Church membership.

(5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

THE EXTRAORDINARY SESSION.

The extraordinary session of the Southern Christian Convention met in Burlington, N. C., at ten o'clock Tuesday morning. The devotionals were conducted by Dr. J. O. Atkinson, and Dr. W. W. Staley gave a short sketch of the College's beginning and of its worth to the Church.

The morning session was taken up with the report of Mr. S. C. Heindel, business manager of the College, and the report of the Administrative Committee.

At the afternoon session it was voted by the Convention to raise an emergency fund of $50,000.00 by January 1st, to take care of the immediate needs of the College, and the Executive Board of the Convention was instructed to act as a committee to set up the necessary organization for the raising of this fund.

Following this a resolution was passed expressing the confidence of the Convention in the judgment of the Trustees of Elon in selecting a president, and another resolution urging the Board to proceed at once with the election.

Almost immediately after the closing of the extraordinary session, the Board of Trustees was called in special session by the chairman of the Board, Dr. E. L. Moffitt, of Asheboro, N. C., and Dr. L. E. Smith, president of the Convention and pastor of Christian Temple, Norfolk, Va., was unanimously elected the next president of Elon College. Dr. Smith has taken the matter under advisement, and has promised to give his answer before November 16th.

We believe that the Board of Trustees has shown its capability in the selection of Dr. Smith, and it is our prayer that God will lead him in the acceptance of the presidency.

As soon as the organization for the raising of the $50,000.00 emergency fund has been set up we are sure that the Editor will give complete details in these columns, as well as a complete sketch of the extraordinary session of the Convention.

J. T. K.

THE WOMEN'S CONFERENCE.

One of the outstanding events of the Church Calendar in Eastern Virginia is the annual session of the Eastern Virginia Woman's Missionary Conference. It has become an epoch in the Church, not only of the large number of delegates and visitors who attend, but because of the matchless programs that the women put on and carry through. The 19th annual session at the Holland Church on October 15th was better than that of previous years, only because the experience and wisdom of previous years pointed that way, and helped direct the hearts of members to the better way. All religious experiences improve and enlarge and so make way for bigger and better things. The attendance was possibly not as large as in some previous years; the Treasurer's report lacked about $300.00 showing as much collected the past year as in some previous year; but the spirit of the meeting was of the most inspiring and happy type, and those on the program manifested their deepest desire to bring information with inspiration to the great gathering. The theme of the Convention, "Our Father's Garden," naturally appealed to the hearts of the women who love their gardens and who, from an intimate interest in their gardens of flowers and fragrance, could easily appreciate and appropriate, the idea of God's garden of human souls throughout the world, and of His loving care for the waste and desert places.

The outstanding event of the Conference was the address by Mrs. F. I. Johnson of New York, President Federated Women's Foreign Mission Boards of America. Mrs. Johnson is a world figure and knows her world like most of us know our neighborhoods, having been twice around the world and having devoted years of study at first hand to world conditions. Those of us who read The Missionary Review of the World knew Mrs. Johnson as the editor of "Methods for Workers" in that magazine of missionary light and life. But none of us, until we heard her, knew the power of her personality and of her contacts of world figures and of her ability to interpret the spirit of other nations even as that of her own. Mrs. Johnson gave personal information and experience from China and Japan and India, the Philippines, Russia and Siam, and showed how the leaven of Christianity was surely working in these lands, and in so doing brought home to the hearts of her hearers the fact that "God Planted a Garden and left it in Our Care." She showed, too, that faithful missionaries were, through sacrificial service, helping to reclaim the waste places of the earth, and were turning some of the desert places into veritable gardens of joy and gladness. The whole Conference was blessed and benefited by the presence of this woman, who, at her own charges and expenses, and without using mission money from any treasury or any source, is going up and down the earth teaching, practicing and preaching the power of the living gospel, revealing in her simplicity and humility a sublime faith in God, and in the power of Jesus Christ to reach and redeem a world. We who make some little contribution of our money to Missions seldom stop to think of the untold thousands and hundreds of thousands of dollars of service given to Mission work and to world-wide betterment for which no charges are ever made to any Board or Church. This writer has been amazed, as Mission Secretary, to discover the number of people, number of lives and amount of money being expended to carry the gospel to the uttermost parts for whom and for which not one penny of the people's money is taken, not one dollar of contribution going from any church or religious organization. Much of the very best work that is being done for Missions throughout the world today is done without charges to any Mission Board or at the expense of any church. True, church life Mission Board activities, Missionary teaching and instruction are essential and are responsible for developing and cultivating the spiritual atmosphere out of which such service and such sacrifices come. But they in no sense consume a dollar or spend a dime in making many of the outstanding contributions of Christianity to Missions. I presume not a few SUN readers wonder why we do not have people like Paul and Silas going out in the world to carry the good news without having to depend upon Mission Boards and money raised through a missionary offering. Well, we do have them. There are Pauls and Paulines, there are Silases and Sarahs, who from the work of their own hands or savings that have come to their hands, are today making the same sort of sacrifice and rendering the same sort of service that Paul and Silas rendered in their day. Faith is not dead in the world, and the folks who live for their Lord and serve Him at all hazard have not passed away. We have got them yet, but they do not advertise the fact to the world. They are going about their work for their Lord in the most humble, unassuming, sacrificial way.

Mrs. O. M. Cockes, vice-president of the Conference, conducted the worship period and urged all present to "Take Time to be Holy," and to spend much time in prayer, not only for themselves but for the salvation of souls everywhere, through Jesus Christ. This was followed by a "Recognition Service" in which the superintendents of the districts told of the work of their districts and departmental secretaries made their reports showing how their departments had functioned the past year. In the recognition of visitors, there were found to be three returned missionaries present—Rev. and Mrs. Hindman, formerly of China, and Mrs. D. P. Barrett from our own Porto Rican work. Practically all of the ministers of the Eastern Virginia Conference were present and were recognized.

Mrs. R. T. Bradford, president of the Conference, chose as her topic, "God's Garden and Ours." Her paper is to be printed in the SUN that our readers may see the spirit actuating the activities and, if possible, see also the vision stimulating the women of this Conference to activity. The Holland choir gave special music which was much appreciated and helpful. Mrs. W. V. Leathers, the faithful treasurer of the Conference, reported that nearly $7,000.00 had been collected the past year, and while the goal set was $7,500, it was not reached last year. The Conference later voted, however, to keep this as the goal for the coming year and if possible, to reach it. Mrs. J. E. Cartwright, superintendent of literature, told very interestingly of the study books for the year and of helpful programs, pamphlets, posters and other literature that could be had. She had a table with the study books and other literature and urged that this be patronized, and we noticed later that it was.

In the afternoon Mrs. J. W. Manning of Norfolk, conducted the Memoirs, showing that seven faithful ones had departed to the better life the past year. Her report was quite interesting and sacred. It was followed with prayer, led by Dr. Staley.

The topic of the Missionary Secretary's address was "Watering the Garden God Planted." An attempt was made in this address to show that the Garden of Eden was not a mere historical fact or even a picture of fancy or of fiction hung up in the art gallery of the past; but that the Garden of Eden was one of the most authentic prophecies ever given. In the picture of early Geneses, we have God, a garden, comradeship—the ideal home, ideal comradeship and the presence of God.

The women of the Holland Church entertained at a bountiful luncheon, feeding at one sitting, nearly 400 guests. The tables were beautiful, plenty was in evidence, and the fellowship was delightful. We presume there are other good women in the world who would prepare as lavishly and as gladly as the Holland women did, but we do not see how any in the world could or would do so more perfectly.

It was indeed a good day, and the words of the closing service were the words of a prayer which each one did, or certainly could, with holy reverence utter:

"Father, help us to keep, with care,
Thy garden of treasures, riches and rare.
And may our harvest ever be Souls of Thy children saved for Thee."

J. O. A.

THE BEST AND THE CHEAPEST.

Some observant citizen calls attention to the fact that when the census-takers were around a while ago listing persons, property holdings, etc., there was one thing they did not list, viz: The presence of God in the community or spiritual values. This observer points out that centuries ago they were taking a census and there was a child born in a manger at Bethlehem who was not counted also. These values, we presume, are too priceless to be enumerated in a census. Our spiritual values are not only the best, but they are produced by the church, which is the cheapest institution at work in the world today. It takes less money to operate the church than it does to operate any other institution or enterprise on earth, especially when the numbers of those operating are called into account.

The editor of the Nashville Christian Advocate has recently drawn a comparison that is quite thrilling. He shows what the cost of an automobile, for instance, is at present, and what its operating expense amounts to. A farmer who grows wheat says that the first automobile he bought cost him 200 bushels of wheat. The second car cost him 400 bushels the third 800 bushels. The same man was expecting to buy his fourth car this year, but the present price being 1600 bushels of wheat, for the same make of car, he decided and for good reasons he would have to delay the purchase.

A cotton farmer has had the same experience. A few years ago we could buy a car for five bales of cotton. At the present time he would have to get a very, very cheap car even if he paid twenty-five bales for it. But this is only a part of the comparison.

The latest figures, those for 1929, show that the annual production of automobiles in the U. S. was 5,622,000 at a cost of approximately seven billion dollars. Now in that same year the cost of operating all the churches of the United States, including their congregational expenses, their gifts to benevolence and Missions, totaled $700,000,000—ten dollars for new automobiles to every one for the support and carrying on of the church in all of its agencies and activities. This is not all. There are twenty-seven million cars owned by the people of the United States. Take only the item of gasoline necessary to operate these cars. This one item in 1929 was well beyond two billion dollars. That is to say $3.00 for gasoline to every dollar going to the church with all of its agencies and activities. The writer is not arguing against automobiles which has become a necessity, but by this comparison, is showing that the cheapest institution at work in the world is the church.

We are not properly adjusting our activities and appreciation of values. How hardly, and with what difficulty, we recognize and realize the weight, the worth and the value of the church, and with what difficulty we give to its support, often saying that the church is too expensive, and makes too many calls for money and requires too much for its activities. The fact is if the church for a decade could come into possession of an income equal to that going out to any other score of industries, say that of automobiles or moving pictures, it would reach this world and make of humanity a different sort of personal, social order.

J. O. A.

DISOLUTION IS NOT UNION.

So far as this writer has been able to learn, in attendance at group meetings and Conference sessions, there is nothing else than the desire, expectation and determination that there be union of Congregational and Christian Churches. Every vote in every Conference and public assembly that this writer knows anything about, has been hearty and unanimous to that end. But even this seems not to satisfy some, and a "hasty nervousness" seems to have possessed the minds of some. There be those in our own Christian Churches who seem to think that the way to integrate is to disintegrate; the way to union is through dissolution, and the way to get together is to separate. These nervous brethren seem to forget that large property interests are at stake, corporations are involved, denominational church loyalties mean something, and are to be considered, and that burdens and responsibilities must be carried if there is to be success and not failure in this great undertaking. It is a self-evident proposition, if all and sundry would so remind themselves, that you can't unite something with nothing, and you can't merge a going concern with a concern that isn't going. Congregationalists, I have an idea, do not care to be yoked up even with us Christians unless we Christians have something worth yoking up with, and it is equally apparent that the same is true with us Christians in relation to Congregationalists. However, both have much, very much, separately that they should have and will have in common and as one. The plea we make is that we do not dissolve, tear down, destroy, disintegrate, what we have, but conserve all that each has until integration shall take place, and a union formed that shall not only conserve what is, but carry on to that which is greater and better.

Intellectually, that is at the top Conventions in our Councils, and we have united. Now united foundations must be laid, and on these foundations the structure must be built. The foundation in the Christian and also in the Congregational Church is the local congregation. The local congregation in both communions must be conserved, cultivated, developed, and the organizations through they function and of which they are an integral part, must be cared for and maintained until there is recognized, felt and realized a better and more effectual organization to take its place. If we Christians are to have the respect, the countenance and the esteem of our Congregational fellowship and brotherhood, we must have something worthy of their respect, and of our own respect, and of our own pardonable pride. It has taken decades, not to say centuries, to build up what we have, and to develop a spirit of loyalty and faith in our contribution to the world. It is no sign of a sane unity or merger to hastily strike down, dissolve or destroy, the enterprises, the institutions, and organizations which we have been so long in building. It is not surrender, but service; not dissolution, but union; not disintegration, but integration, that we seek, and must have, before there is real union and a merger from the foundation to the top of the building, from the center to the circumference and from heart to the head. Head union is not enough. Heart union is essential. And this requires time, wisdom, patience and prayer.

J. O. A.

THE ADMINISTRATION OF CHARITY.

Charity is liberality toward the needy without regard to worthiness. One of the most difficult things to do is the administration of charity. "Whoso hath this world's goods, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him?" (I. John 3:17.) It is not a hasty look, but a careful look into the case to see the need. After investigation, if you see your brother hath need, then the test comes; but the average person does not take the trouble to investigate the case, and gives a nickel, a dime, a quarter, or some little help, and passes on. Such help is not real charity, because it neglects the real principle of help as set forth in the above quotation.

Giving a little to beggars is not charity; it is the cultivation of beggary and careless giving; and yet, we are all of that class. What Christianity requires, and what the world needs, is careful investigation to find out whether there is real need, and then, if it is discovered, to supply the need if we have the goods to meet it. There is hardly anything so loosely done as the administration of charity; and yet there is nothing more important in Christian service.

That was the method of Jesus. When He saw a blind man, a lame man, a hungry man, a leper, or any other need, He helped in a way that gave relief.

In Psalm 146:7, God in describing his help, says "Which giveth food to the hungry." "If God so clothe the grass of the field, which today is, and tomorrow is cast into the oven, shall He not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith?" (Matt. 6:30.)

God believes in feeding the hungry and clothing the naked, and He expects his people to do the same; but they must first see that they are hungry or naked and then help. Many doubtful methods are used to help the unfortunate, as Sunday moving picture shows agreeing to give a certain percent of their receipts for charity. That is not charity; charity is giving of what is our own. "Whoso hath this world's good, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him?" It is the giving of what he has as his own to those he sees in need that constitutes charity. If the Scriptures were followed in helping the needy, it would improve the manner of giving and decrease the need for giving.

W. W. S.

Today is your day and mine—the only day we have, the day in which we play our part. What our part may signify in the great whole we may not understand; but we are here to play it, and now is our time. This we know: it is a part of action, not of whining. It is a part of love, not cynicism. It is for us to express love in terms of human helpfulness.—David Star Jordan.

God is a Father, but not a weak one. He does not spoil any child of His by overindulgence. "Whom the Lord loveth He chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom He receiveth."

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

The Young People's Missionary Conference of Eastern Virginia was held in the Suffolk Christian Church, October 9th at 8 o'clock. A little rain did not prevent an attendance of 500 young people. It was a great meeting in numbers, reports from different societies, addresses and genuine interest. The theme of the Conference was, "Is the Heart of Youth Stirred?" An opening hymn, a brief welcome by this writer, and the two hours began with the spirit of quiet and reverence. Worship was conducted by Miss Francis Everett of Holland, Va. That seemed to touch the heart of the audience and prepare the way for the meeting. Recognition of societies followed. Then came the report of the treasurer which showed a good year in Finance.

The presentation of the Study Book and the program was by Mrs. E. L. Beale of Franklin. A solo was sung by Miss Mary D. Atkinson, daughter of Dr. J. O. Atkinson. The presentation of the Banner was by Mrs. R. L. Bradford. The Society from the First Church, Portsmouth, won that honor, though three other societies were close competitors.

The main feature of the evening was a splendid address by Mrs. G. W. Sadler, a missionary who has been in Africa for years. It was a portrayal of natural conditions in West Africa and the result of missionary service in changing conditions from savagery to christian living. It was not only interesting as a fine address, but instructive and inspiring as a message for young hearts. Mrs. Sadler not only knows the missionary trials and joys in missionary work, but she knows how to impart the spiritual values of the work among the needy in that needy comes of the world.

The closing service was built around the topic: "The Youth of Today is Searching the Heavens for the Star of the East." For two hours the 500 with some visitors, including eleven preachers, enjoyed the songs, prayers, messages, reports and the presentation of the Banner.

The great meeting was an unconscious contradiction of the current criticism that the young people of this age are worse than in years gone by. Some of the young people may be worse than young people in other years, but some of them are better, too. Young life is more in the open now than ever before and the bad is always observed more than the good. A hundred young people may do good and attract little attention, but when one goes wrong it is in the papers and on the tongues of men. A hundred customers may buy goods and pay for them in a day, and no notice is taken of it, but if one man breaks into a store and steals an overcoat, it is town talk. A robber attracts more attention and gets more publicity than a hundred honest men. Youth is taking more interest in religion, in Sunday School, in Missions, in Church work than ever before. The Junior choir, the Christian Endeavor, the Orchestra, all tell the story of the interest of young people in religious activities. They take more interest in Missions than older people used to take. This is, also, true of the world. Is the world getting better or worse? My answer is, the good is getting better, and the bad is getting worse.

W. W. STALEY.

HOLLAND, VA.

Special revival meetings were held at the Holland Christian Church September 20 to October 4. The Rev. W. B. Waters, of Rockville, Md., accompanied by his wife, constituted the evangelistic party. Mr. Waters is a Gypsy Smith, Jr. convert and before his conversion knew well the ways of sin. Now, he is as much the uncompromising foe of sin as he was once the servant of sin. His preaching is too plain, for some, but he is a man full of the Spirit and powerful in prayer. His wife is his co-worker and prayer-helper and makes her influence felt in all her contacts. The messages of Mr. Waters will long be remembered and we believe will continue to bear fruit in the future. There were fifteen children who made confession; thirty-five reconsecrations and twelve who promised to establish a family altar in the home. As many others indicated the family altar is already in use in their homes.

The second Sunday in October was Promotion and Rally Day in the Sunday School. The usual time was given to the study of the lesson and at 10:30 an audience of over 200 people assembled in the main auditorium for the Rally program. Mrs. L. J. Doughtry, as chairman of the program committee, had trained the children well in their songs and recitations and promotion exercises.

It was a worthwhile and impressive service. After some commendatory remarks by the pastor, an invitation for church membership was extended and 11 of those who made profession during the revival were received into membership. Four others also came forward, made confession and were received, and one by letter of transfer, or sixteen in all. Following this, the Lord's supper was observed. In the afternoon about 35 men met at the church and were grouped into teams for the every-member canvass. After prayer and careful instructions these men started out in the Kingdom service. They met again at night in the church and presented very favorable results.

One other great day we must mention ere we close and that is the Woman's Missionary Conference, which was held with the church Thursday, October 15. A great crowd of women and a light sprinkling of men were present for the splendid program. The ladies of the church had spent days in untiring effort to entertain the crowd which was estimated at near 400 people. Due to scarlet fever in the home, and the house under quarantine, the pastor was detained from the meeting much to his regrets and loss.

It was a great thing to have the fellowship and inspiration of this great religious body in our midst.

W. M. JAY.

MT. OLIVET CHURCH.

We had a great Christian Endeavor meeting on October 11th. The following program was rendered.

Topic—"What is Expected of Us as Good Citizens?"

Opening song, America.

Devotional, 3:1-7—Caroll Vernon.

Prayer—Morris Gentry.

Titus 3:1-2—Lois Snow.

Romans 14:19—Wilbert Morris.

Neh. 6:1-3—Norman Morris.

Psalm 15:1-5—Norman Morris.

Luke 7:1-10—Lois Snow.

Micah 7:1-4—Lillie Shiflett.

Trio—Naomi Snow, Ruth Snow, Louise Dye.

Special Music.

Talks—Caroll Vernon; Norman Morris.

Reading—Lois Snow.

The program was very interesting and should be good advice to all, especially to those who violate the laws of our land so often. Some may say "I don't like the laws." Well if the laws are not what they ought to be according to the reading of the different Scriptures, I think it is our duty to obey the laws of our land for Jesus teaches that.

Read Luke 20:22-25.

The good citizen recognizes authority and obeys the laws. The aim of government is to help people to live in peace and honesty and this aim we must support. The citizen who shows love or good will to all need have no fear of punishment.

LOUISE DYE.

REVIVALS.

On October 1st we closed our 11th meeting for this Conference year. The good Lord has blessed us in the work. We have seen about 400 souls saved and reclaimed.

"Praise the Lord for victory." Rev. L. A. Nall of Elon College assisted at Pleasant Ridge and Monticello. Rev. M. T. Sorrell of Danville, Va., came to us on July 29th at Hines Chapel.

Bro. Nall and I held a two weeks Tabernacle meeting at West Lee Street, Greensboro, with fine results. We held our own meeting at Palm Street church. Below we give date and place of meetings:

March 8th to 15th, Latham Park Baptist Church, Greensboro; May 19th to 24th, Palm Street Christian Church, Greensboro; May 27th to June 7th, Pleasant Ridge; June 7th to 21st, Tabernacle meeting, Greensboro; July 5th to 11th, Monticello; July 12th to 17th, Mt. Zion near Mebane, N. C.; July 19th to 24th, Bethel near Burlington, N. C.; July 29th to Aug. 7th, Hines Chapel; Aug. 9th to Aug. 14th, Mt. Zion Baptist Church near Liberty, N. C.; Aug. 30th to Sept. 9th, Haw River, N. C.; Sept. 20th to Oct. 1st, Bessimer Presbyterian Church, Greensboro, N. C.

See II Chron. 7:14.

J. L. NEESE.

PROVIDENCE CHAPEL.

The special meeting at Providence Chapel was the most successful of any that has been held in many years. The preaching was done by the pastor, and Miss Gertrude Bryant. The people of Brown's Chapel co-operated very loyally, and there was a spirit of loyalty all through the services.

As a result of the meeting, seven were received into church membership, and one young man was received and baptized for the Brown's Chapel church. On Saturday before the meeting closed, we met at the river and baptized six by immersion and one by sprinkling.

We are expecting great things to happen among these two churches in a way of co-operation and united effort, in a short time. It is a great privilege to work among these churches so near in location and spirit.

S. M. PENN.

SOPHIA CHURCH.

This church has closed a week of special meetings. The sermons were delivered by Rev. G. C. Crutchfield of Lynchburg, Va. Brother Crutchfield is a very forceful preacher, and the people appreciated his services very highly. So far, no additions to the church membership have been received. We are expecting, however, to receive in the future from this meeting.

Special music was furnished by the Junior Choir from Ward Street M. E. Church of High Point, N. C., and Misses Sallie and Catherine Higgins.

S. M. PENN.

Prayer is so mighty an instrument that no one ever thoroughly mastered all its keys. They sweep along the infinite scale of man's wants and of God's goodness.—Hugh Miller.

IMPRESSIONS BY THE WAY.

The cherished aspiration of a lifetime is now being realized by Mrs. Harper and myself. The goal of our hope has been some day to see the Holy Land, and we are on our way there. By the generous kindness of a friend, we are privileged to spend four months in the continents of Europe and Asia. Most of our time is to be given to a study of education, religious education, and character education in Moslem lands, which means Turkey, Syria, Persia, Palestine and Egypt. On the way to Turkey, we have visited France, Switzerland, Italy, Yugo-Slavia, and Greece.

At our request, the American Board planned our itinerary for us and by courtesy, made us their special representatives, and Dr. Fred Field Goodsell, Executive Vice-president of the American Board has been especially kind to us. Just before we sailed on the Leviathan from New York, on September 5th, Dr. Goodsell placed in our hands a copy of the following resolution of the American Board: "That in view of the proposed visit of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Harper to the countries of the Near East during September, October and November of this year, we ask them to carry the greeting of the Prudential Committee to every American Board missionary they meet and to bring us in due time a report of their impressions of the work of the American Board in that area."

In Greece we came into contact with the first work of the United Congregational-Christian Church. The ancient city of Thessalonica, now known as Salonica, is the seat of Anatolia College and of the Girls' School, both of them exiled from Turkey in 1922, and both coming from the town of Marsovan, in the Turkish interior. They lost all their physical properties at the time of their deportation, though endowment funds being held in trust by the American Board were happily preserved. Both institutions now occupy temporary properties. Anatolia College's main building was originally erected as a Casino, but is now put to better purpose. The Girls' School occupies a transformed mansion by the sea, formerly owned by a Turkish man of wealth. Both schools minister to the refugee Armenians and Greeks—expelled persons who came from Turkey in 1922, and again in 1924. Anatolia College and the Girls' School, in their new surroundings, minister to the same people largely whom they served in Turkey. While the schools do very little in the way of the direct teaching of religion, they demonstrate Christianity as a way of life, of active good will in service, and so are worthy beacon lights of Protestantism in Greece.

What a thrill you get as you read Paul's letters to the Thessalonians in the very city to which he directed them! What a sense of spiritual uplift comes to you as you stand in the little Greek Orthodox Chapel, recently constructed, on the very spot where the synagogue in which Paul first proclaimed his message to these ancient people! Then pagan temples crowned every hill. Now only one such building remains, and it has been transformed into a Christian Church—the Church of St. George. No excavations have been made here, and aside from the partially existant city wall, the old Acropolis, and the arch of Galenius, not even ruins witness to the great and thriving life that greeted Paul in the first century of our era. Today, as in Paul's day, the Jews of Salonica are a source of contention.

Paul went from Thessalonica to Berea (modern Verria). We passed the station on the Simiplon Orient Express, but did not visit it. We went by day to Athens, so as to have long views of Mt. Olympus, plainly in sight from Salonica, (Continued on page 13.)

OXFORD BIBLES for EVERY NEED

"The Oxford Bible is the Bible par excellence of the world"

THE HOME BIBLE

A Family Bible in Handy Size

An extra large type Oxford Text Bible, containing also, a family register and 12 beautifully colored maps. Size 9 x 5½ inches.

Specimen of Type

16 The LORD is King for ever and ever: the heathen are perished out

Nos. 01600 Superior Cloth, round corners and red edges $2.75

01603 French Morocco, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, head-band, book-mark $4.75

The JUNIOR'S Bible

Self-Pronouncing

With 4,000 Questions and Answers, carefully selected "Aids to Bible Study," 16 beautifully colored and 15 black full-page illustrations, 6 colored maps and a presentation page. Children may readily pronounce correctly difficult Scripture names, as this Bible is self-pronouncing. Size 7 x 4½ x 1¼ inches.

Specimen of Type
2 Take the sum of all the of the children of Israel, years old and upward, thro

Nos. 1815 French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges, head-bands and book-mark. Make some child happy with one of these fine Bibles $2.95

Child's ILLUSTRATED Bible

The beautifully colored illustrations in this new Bible are a delight to the children. It has clear, readable type and yet it measures only 5½ x 3½ inches.

Specimen of Type

2 My soul longeth, yea, even faint-eth for the courts of the LORD: my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God.

10 Mercy and truth together; righteousness kissed each other. 11 Truth shall spring

Nos. 02112 French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, gold edges $2.50

Pocket REFERENCE Bible

Has over 50,000 center column references. Measures only 6¼ x 4½ inches. (A splendid gift for a young lady.)

Specimen of Type

9 Behold, "O God our shield, and look upon the face of thine anointed. 10 For a day in thy courts is better

1 Gen. 15. 1. 2 Ps. 56. 1. 3 57. 1. 4 or, all

Nos. 07523x French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $3.25

Concordance Edition

Type and size as No. 07523x, but with a Concordance, subject index and dictionary of Scripture names. An excellent edition for students and Christian workers No. 03272x $5.00

The Oxford imprint in a Bible guarantees satisfaction

OUR LEADER
Oxford Concordance Bible

Self-Pronouncing

This beautiful Oxford India paper edition is indeed the ideal Bible for the student, preacher and evangelist. Each proper name and difficult word is divided into syllables and accented, and though printed with large clear type, the volume measures only 8½ x 5½ x 1½ inches.

Specimen of Type

8 ¶ Jō-hōi'-ā-chin was 6 years old when he began t

Nos. 03671x. Fine Grain Morocco leather, overlapping cover, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head-bands and book-mark $9.50

A UNIQUE GIFT BIBLE

With Basket Weave Binding

The Antique brown calf leather binding has a basket-weave grain, and button clasp. Has overlapping cover, art silk lined, with red under gold edges. With references. Printed on Oxford India paper. Type as Pocket Reference Bible. $5.50

No. 03255x

As No. 03255x, with concordance.

No. 03276x $6.50

Oxford TEACHER'S Bibles

Have over 50,000 center column references, and 300 double-column pages of up-to-date helps, conveniently arranged in alphabetical order. Also 32 full-page illustrations, and an indexed atlas of the Bible with 15 beautifully colored maps of Bible lands.

Easy-to-Read-Edition

Size 7¼ x 5 x 1½ inches

Specimen of Type

14 Like sheep they are laid in grave; death shall feed on th

Nos. 04453. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges. A durable and hand-some Bible $4.35

Oxford India Paper Edition

Only one inch thick.

0773x. French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, head-bands and book-mark. A beautiful gift edition $7.00

RED LETTER Edition

Same size and type as style No. 04453, with same references and helps, but with all the words of Jesus Christ printed in red. White paper edition No. 05453. French Morocco leather, overlapping cover, round corners, red under gold edges $5.00

DORAN'S MANUAL is a most valuable addition to any minister's library. Price only $2.50.

STRAY THOUGHTS is a book worth while, by an enthusiastic member of the Christian Church.

Order from THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1536 E. Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Order from THE SUN, or from Elizabeth Publishing Co., Box 851, Charlotte, N. C. $1.00.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Secretary.

PRAYER.

God of all mercy, open our hearts to Thee and pour out Thy Spirit upon us. Never didst Thou intend that Thy children should live in any unreal or distant relationship with Thee. We plead for reality, for closeness, for conscious and constant triumph in every heart. For our joy Thou gavest salvation and peace, that in us the Author of peace might be glorified. Forgive our groveling. Put sin under our feet and so exalt in us the day of glory that all our reach may be onward and upward. We pray in Jesus' name. Amen.

"L."

GOD'S GARDEN AND OURS.

By Mrs. Russell T. Bradford, President Woman's Conference, Eastern Virginia, Delivered at the Annual Session of Conference, Holland, Va. October 15, 1931.

The items of our program today will readily explain to all present why we have chosen as the theme of our Conference, "Our Father's Garden." It is my province to point out the similarity between missionary work and the work in our gardens. Possibly the reason Missions have an appeal to us women is because we love our gardens, and mission work like garden work is done in cooperation with Him who planted the first garden and put a man and a woman there.

I like my garden, in fact I am accused of loving it and am not willing to deny the accusation. Somehow it seems to call me in the early morning hour and to claim my attention and strength while both are fresh and new with the day. The great objective in a garden is that no part of it shall be neglected, for the rose that is not cultivated and cared for in a garden detracts from the grace, the beauty and the fragrance of those that are cared for and cultivated. It matters little how much of fragrance and beauty you may have in one part of your garden if the other part is neglected and left to go unkempt and forsaken. You yourself as well as your visitors will get your eye fixed on the uncultivated and neglected parts and plants, and the beauty of other spots will not atone for these neglected ones. One will get far more joy out of a dozen roses, all cared for and developed to the best, than out of two dozen that are grown through negligence and lack of care. God does His work in a garden, but that work never shows at its best unless it has found a human being to cooperate with God in doing the work there. God gives the increase, but Paul or Pauline must plant, and Silas or Sarah certainly must water. A few years ago our graceful and glorious chrysanthemums were but weeds with a shriveled and indifferent blossom. God made possibilities of the chrysanthemum by planting the wild weed, but man working with God has given us the chrysanthemum in its wary beauty and wealth of perfume and perfection. God made a rose-bush, but it required man and God to make an American Beauty. God planted a garden, but Adam and Eve were necessary there if that garden was to be kept as a place of attraction and worth. Here then is our task as workers in the mission field.

God never intended there should be slums, sinks and dives in cities; God never intended that one-half the human race should go hungry and the other half be over-fed; God never intended that man should bow down to idol gods of his own creation; God never intended that nation should rise up against nation and that people of one tribe should fight other tribes in deadly combat, and that some nations should thrive at the expense of other nations. God planted a garden and created man and woman to dress and to keep it, and it is through the disobedience of man that God's garden has not been kept and the high places have been laid waste.

No power of man alone can restore God's garden and make it a place of fragrance and of beauty, but man working with God and for God can bring about the kingdom of heaven on earth and turn the wicked and waste places into places of glory, gladness and beauty. We are told that a large part of the population of India go hungry the year round, and yet India is the most fertile country on earth. Thousands starve and millions go to untimely graves through hunger and undernourishment. And yet the single country of India properly cultivated and cared for can feed the population of the world and none need go hungry. The trouble with India is not lack of fertility or climate or natural resources. The trouble with India is that she does not know the God who created her and the God with whom she must work if His garden is to be beautiful and come into its own in that great land. The wrong religious laws always create wrong economic laws and practices. Because India bows down to gods that are no gods, the gods who never planted a garden and never made a plant grow, she is in poverty and want and need. There is only one thing that can ever remedy India's pitiable plight and create conditions that are tolerable there, and that is the religion of the Lord Jesus Christ, "The Christ of the Indian Road," the One by whom all things were created and without whom not anything was made that was made. What we are trying to do in our missionary endeavor and activity is to work with God in bringing to beauty and to perfection not one part but all parts of the world. False worship means false work, and false gods mean false economy. What China needs to prevent her repeated famines and to prepare her citizens against them is the God Who holds the seasons in His hands and controls the earth, the sun, the moon and the stars. Pharaoh and his idolatrous worshippers were headed for famine, but God gave them a man, one who knew God and trusted God, and this man saved a whole nation from famine, a drought that lasted for seven years, one of the longest of all history, and yet the people did not perish for want of food, because a man of God arrived to work with God and to prepare His garden, revealing to the people the will and the way of God. Millions of Chinese perish, not because their intellects are not keen enough or their land abundant enough in natural resources, but because they have the wrong idea of God, and so blind about themselves a false economy, a destructive economy, and literally tie their own hands which prevents them from cultivating the soil that God has given them. The work of the Missionary is slowly but surely changing all this. In Africa, in China, in India, in Japan, there are thousands of happy hearts today who are worshipping the true God and are finding out His way and will and becoming workers together with Him in making theirs a better land and country. The explanation is the missionary worker. We who meet in our Societies give of our means, offer up our prayers and dedicate the first of our strength in the morning to the service of our Lord are doing for the world, morally and spiritually, what each of us do for our gardens, physically and materially. The difference is, we see the work of our hands with our natural eye and rejoice in the appearance of the buds and the blossoms that come to greet and gladden us. If we would know the results and see the fruits of our labors in the mission work, we will have to read our Guest Book and our Mission Study Books, and the letters from missionaries, to learn how beautiful souls are being brought to blossom, to glory and to gladness, and how thousands of God's children are redeemed year by year from heathenism and the worship of idols to the service of the true and Living God. And in this way we are helping to make God's garden universal, a garden of true souls seeking to make known and to serve and worship their Lord.

Without another thought, this brief address is all incomplete. I have considered only what we do for our gardens and what we as mission workers may do for God's garden, which is the whole world, but the best is yet to be said; my garden contributes more to me than I do to it. In the early morning hour it puts strength in my arm and song in my soul as I try to work the tender plants. The sweet air, the fresh fragrance of the upturned soil, the care for the tender buds, all bring vigor and life and promise to me, and I am more benefited than the plants I am trying to help. Moreover, we know little of gratitude until in the spring we see the buds and the blossoms unfolding and smiling their gratitude to us for what we have done to bring them out and let them enjoy their own life and beauty. And so I am thinking that as we of our Missionary Societies work away to make this a better world and to make men and women who are ignorant of Him know our Lord, though we may never see them, their smile and their prayer of gratitude go up to the God who made them and who is seeking to give us life and to give it more abundantly.

"Any garden must mean much to God,
Remembering three gardens He has known:
One, where He broke the earth's first glorious sod,
And planted it and watered it alone.

And another, he could not forget—
It was so full of tangled agony,
Full of a broken prayer that trembles yet
Across the centuries from Gethsemane.

Then that third sweet garden, old and dim,
How He must love it—how it must make
Him glad!
This is the one, I think, means most to Him:
The garden Joseph of Arimathea had.

Out of it sprang the old earth's whitest flower,
Out of it sprang the Truth, the Light, the Way;
Up from that garden in one magic hour,
Sprang all the hope of heaven and earth today."

MISSIONARY OFFERING.

WEEK ENDING OCTOBER 17, 1931.

Sunday School Offerings.

Previously acknowledged	$ 442.23
Antioch, Zuni, Va.	2.00
Morrisville, N. C.	3.00
Auburn, N. C.	3.75
New Hope, Abanda, Ala.	2.52
Leaksville, Luray, Va.	1.74
Mayland, Broadway, Va.	1.24
Smithwood, Liberty, N. C.	1.30
New Hope, Harrisonburg, Va.	4.97
Ingram, Va.	3.00

Mt. Auburn, Manson, N. C.	4.16
Turner's Chapel, Sanford, N. C.	1.16

Total	$ 471.07
Individual and Church Offerings.
Previously acknowledged.....	$ 249.44
Plymouth, Raleigh, N. C.	4.70
United Christian Church, Lynchburg, Va. .	25.00

Total	$ 279.14
Dollar-a-Month Club.
Previously acknowledged.....	$ 32.75
Mrs. Sallie S. McCauley, (Damascus Ch.), Chapel Hill, N. C.	3.00
J. W. Stanley, (First Christian Church), Reidsville, N. C.	3.00
R. O. Rothgeb, (Leaksville Church), Lu- ray, Va.	2.00
Miss Mary D. Atkinson, Norfolk, Va.	20.00

Total	$ 60.75
Summary.
Previously acknowledged	$ 1,126.97
Sunday Schools, Regular	28.84
Individual and Church Offerings	29.70
Dollar-a-Month Club	28.00

Total to date $ 1,213.51

We are grateful indeed for dimes and dollars received. Our faithful missionaries at home and abroad are depending on us. We must not fail them.

Sincerely yours in service,
J. O. ATKINSON, Secty.

MISSIONARY NEWS ITEMS.

MRS. W. M. JAY, Editor.

Miss Thelma Boone of Suffolk, Va., sends us the following very interesting item from the Bethlehem Christian Church concerning the Young People's Society. They have a real, wide-awake society and last year they won the banner. This year, at the Young People's Conference in Suffolk they won the attendance banner, having 54 present at the meeting. That was fine and shows that there is some real constructive work being done.

In the beginning of this year's work, they decided they would try to do more work than last year, so they planned to raise their apportionment plus the 10 per cent increase, through free will offerings. This they have done in full, having sent $101 to the treasurer.

They have met all the requirements on the standard and are going to the Woman's Conference at Holland as one of the banner societies.

As an extra goal, these young people took upon themselves the responsibility of raising money for their church. They feel that this is the only society in the church where the young people are active workers and that it is the best place to work and accomplish things, hence the added feature. The money which has been raised for the church did not go through the hands of their mission treasurer, but of a separate one for this fund. These young people are to be congratulated on the splendid work they have done, and we will be looking for even greater things from them another year.

The Young People's Missionary Society of Cypress Chapel Christian Church has closed a very successful year's work.

We have held our regular monthly meetings the first Sunday night in each month with a very good attendance, and we have put on a public program at each meeting.

We have completed our Mission Study Book, and raised our apportionment for the year.

We are hoping to have a better year's work during the coming year.

Miss Helen Brinkley is the secretary of this society, and they are doing a splendid work.

The Eastern Virginia Young People's Missionary Conference met in its annual session Friday night, October 9th, at the Suffolk Christian Church with Miss Mary Lee Williams, of Franklin, presiding.

About 500 people were present, and a program of unusual excellence was rendered.

The Young People raised this year for missions $1,376.69. Though the work has gone steadily forward, it is hoped that the coming year will be the best the young people have yet done.

The following officers were elected: Miss Mary Lee Williams, Franklin, President; Miss Carolyn Gort, Portsmouth, Vice-president; Miss Sara Norfleet Daughtry, Holland, Secretary; Mrs. Wallace Walton, Suffolk, Assistant Secretary; Mrs. E. L. Beale, Franklin, Superintendent of Young People.

The theme which ran through all the addresses, songs and talks was "Is the Heart of the Youth Stirred?" The feature of the meeting was the address by Mrs. G. W. Saddler on "Is the Youth Concerned About his Father's Business?" The worship service was in charge of Mrs. Ayler Holland and the presentation of the study book was made by Mrs. E. L. Beale. Miss Mary D. Atkinson rendered a solo.

Banners, presented by Mrs. Russell T. Bradford, were awarded to the Bethlehem Society for having the largest number of members present at the Conference, 55, and to Portsmouth for having made the highest standard of excellence.

Among 100 per cent societies were Dendron, Bethlehem, Holy Neck, and old Zion.

MARY LEE WILLIAMS.

MISSIONARY PROGRAMS.

OCTOBER.

Prepared by

MRS. E. L. BEALE and MARY LEE WILLIAMS.

YOUNG PEOPLE

Theme—"Prayer and Missions."

I.—Business Period.

This is the month for the installation of officers. If there be other business have it before this part of the program begins.

II.—Worship Period.

1. Call to Worship.
"Teach me to pray
Not only in the morning gray
Or when the mountains silver ray
Falls on me, but at high noon-day,
When pleasures beckon me away,
Teach me to pray."
2. Hymn—"Just for Today."
3. Scripture—Luke 21:30-36.
4. Short Talk—"What is Prayer?"
5. Prayer (Asking God to teach us to pray.)
6. Answered Prayer in India—See study book, "Prayer and Missions."
7. Solo—"Beautiful Garden of Prayer." (This is effective if used as a pantomime. Have the platform to represent a garden, and as the hymn is sung, have a girl in a white robe enter and kneel in prayer. Have light on platform only.—Adapted from S. S. Herald.)
8. Offertory.
9. Hymn—"My Prayer."
10. Benediction.

WILLING WORKERS.

Theme—"His Garden."

I.—Worship Period.

1. Call to Worship—"Come let us worship the Lord."

2. Song—"We've a Story to Tell."
3. Memory Verse—John 10:16.
4. Prayer—By Leader.
5. Offertory.

II.—Study Period.

1. Chapter I of "Open Windows."
2. Song—"All the Happy Children."
3. Benediction.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

- Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATED.

The Silver-plated Ware is of the very highest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

- Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses.$22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 85. 11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plated; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

- Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses
(this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling). $22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plated; fits Silver Tray 90. 14.00

- Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim.....$ 9.00
Bread Plate No. 4—Broad rim..... 9.00
Filler—Silver lined 6.00

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, - - Richmond, Virginia

ADVENTURES IN YOUTH FELLOWSHIP

"Youth at Work in the Church."

JEWEL TRUITT, Editor, Glen Raven, N. C.

IN THE NORTHWEST.

Reports of the Seattle Convention and Council meeting have already appeared in THE SUN and in the Congregationalist and Herald of Gospel Liberty, so space will not be taken now for that. I will say that we enjoyed particularly the business session of the Christian Convention because of the fine fellowship and of the opportunity to see our Church leaders "in action" when great tasks were really at hand. The Seminar on "Youth and the Church," which we attended was splendid. We enjoyed, too, the lectures by Dr. Palmer on "Paths to the Presence of God," the daily devotionals by Dr. McCall, and the addresses by Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, Dr. Potter, and Col. Raymond Robbins.

While in the city we visited the parks and the University of Washington. On Friday afternoon we left for Canada, having sent our baggage to Olympia, and taking Dr. L. E. Smith and Dr. W. W. Staley with us. We reached Van Couver by 8:15 p. m., where we got rooms for the night. On Saturday morning we visited Stanley Park and the University of British Columbia. At two o'clock we got on the ferry for a lovely ride of more than two hours. We crossed the Georgia Strait and came to the city of Victoria. Here we window-shopped because the stores had already closed. We really felt that we were in English territory then for it was only a little after six on Saturday evening and the stores were closed until Monday morning. After we had supper we went to our room, had "familira prayers" and retired.

Sunday was a lovely day, and one to be long remembered. At ten o'clock we got on board the boat that was to bring us back to the United States. This time we went through all the preliminaries of going to a different country, filling our Passports and putting our car on the ferry, we got on the upper deck "like Americans" as Dr. Smith said. Just for the thrill of it we mailed cards home while in Canada. Three miles out of Victoria brought us back to United States territory. We landed in Port Angeles at twelve o'clock. Coming over the Straits we had enjoyed trying to see the Pacific Ocean, which was a distance of forty miles from where we were crossing. It is still a question in our minds as to whether we were able to see that forty miles and to distinguish between the waters of the Strait and of the Pacific.

We decided to ride on before eating lunch. We stopped later at a little store and in true American fashion feasted on "hot-dogs," pie and milk, which happened to be about the whole menu of the place. For the two hours preceding this meal we had been travelling through most beautiful country. We were coming down a highway near the water. Beautiful trees and shrubbery made the country very picturesque. We were coming back to where we could see Mt. Ranier in the distance. Between twelve and two o'clock Dr. Smith, Miss Boothe, and I had kept up a constant "noise" on the back seat of the car by our singing. We sang hymns and occasionally the others joined with us. This undue exertion helped to make our "hot-dog dinner" taste all the better.

At Olympia we held a farewell party for Dr. Staley and Dr. Smith. There they got a bus for Seattle and started homeward. We got our baggage and drove on to Centralia for the night. The next day we set Crescent City as our goal for the next two days' driving, which would take us to the first point where we would see the Pacific Ocean. We were traveling down the Redwood Highway, the most beautiful highway on the Western Coast. It was not until after we reached Crescent City that we really appreciated the beauty of the Redwood Highway. We had been told that this would be the coolest road we could take, and we were roasting it seemed to us. We began to expect all of California to be hot, but we had to change our minds about that. On Tuesday we reached Crescent City. This small town seemed to be the most crowded of all we had been in. It was just about dusk when we got there, and most of the sleeping quarters in the town were already taken. We did find cabins right by the ocean, though, and were lulled to sleep by the beating of the waves. The ocean breeze was fresh and cool and we slept long hours of restful sleep.

The next two days drive was over the Redwood Highway. For miles and miles we drove right beside the water, and all the time we were going over a fine asphalt road which wound its way through the huge trees. Nothing can describe the feeling of the greatness of these old trees that one gets driving in and out among them. Often we saw campers by the score with several tents pitched in among the trees. The trees towered so high above their heads that they seemed to be small dolls down at the feet of the great giant trees. Many times we saw houses or little stores made out of a few feet of the trunk of one of these trees. We went inside of some trees that had been hollowed out or had been burned out during forest fires and found room for a good sized living room. In one tree we even planned a "home" with kitchenette, living room and bedroom.

California is the "State of Inspections." The officials soon found that we had nothing and let us pass on to San Francisco.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S PROGRAM.

WESTERN NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

SHILOH CHRISTIAN CHURCH,
Nov. 3, 1931, 7:30 P. M.

Herman Truitt, President of the Youth Fellowship of the Southeast Convention of Congregational Christian Churches, presiding.

1. Worship Program—Julia Woodson.
2. "The Hope of the Western North Carolina Conference—Its Youth." Three short talks by, J. Rowland Farrell, Mrs. W. R. Sellars, and Rev. E. Carl Brady.
3. "The Youth Fellowship."—Virginia Morton.
4. Special Music.
5. Address—Prof. A. R. VanCleave.
6. Business.
7. Closing hymn and prayer.

NORTH CAROLINA AND VIRGINIA CONFERENCE.

MT BETHEL CHRISTIAN CHURCH,
Nov. 10, 1931, 7:30 P. M.
Herman Truitt presiding.

1. Worship Program—Birdie Rowland.
2. "Accomplishments in the North Carolina and Virginia Conference," Clarice Gunn.
3. "What Youth May Do"—Short talks by Jessie Sharpe, Rev. S. C. Harrell, Dr. C. H. Rowland.
4. "The Youth Fellowship"—Mabel Smith.
5. Special Music.
6. Inspirational Address—Rev. F. C. Lester.

7. Business.
8. Closing hymn and prayer.

The two programs given above have been planned in connection with these two North Carolina Conferences, to be held in connection with them. These programs have been printed on the conference programs and are a part of them. A similar program is planned for the Eastern North Carolina Conference meeting some weeks later.

These are general meetings to which all young people of the conference are cordially invited, and should be present. Adults interested in young people's work in their own church are also urged to be present, as well as Sunday School superintendents, Young People's leaders and pastors.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NOTES.

NOVEMBER 1, 1931.

WHAT JESUS TEACHES ABOUT FAITH IN GOD

Christ taught that men should believe in God simply and wholly. We are to put all of our trust and hope in God. Trust for every day needs, for food, shelter, and care of loved ones; trust for the things that shall come in the future; trust for eternity. All should be trusted to God's care. A careful reading of Matthew 6:19-21 and 25-34 will give Jesus' thought on this idea. The real Christian's life is simply a walk by faith. His life and his every need is trusted in God's hand.

In contrast to the Christian life of faith and confidence in God's ability to provide for every care is the life of those who worry about every thing needed today and every thing they expect to need in the future. God does not want us to exist in any such way as that. Christ made it very plain that such worry is unnecessary, that it is even foolish. We must lose sight of our own selves and our needs if we are to find our lives in Christ. And Jesus said these words, too, "For whosoever will save his life shall lose it."

"Why should I charge my soul with care
The wealth of every mine
Belongs to Christ, God's Son and Heir,
And He's a Friend of mine.

He daily spreads a bounteous feast,
And at His table dine,
The whole creation, man and beast,
And He's a Friend of mine.

Yes, He's a Friend of mine,
And He with me doth all things share;
Since all is Christ's and Christ is mine,
Why should I have a care?
For Jesus is a Friend of mine."

J. M. SAMMIS.

By the power of faith Christ and His disciples were able to heal the sick and the crippled and the blind. Even greater power than the power of healing is promised to those who will claim it. In Mark 11:24 Christ says: "Therefore I say unto you, What things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them."

Suggestive Topics for Thought and Talks.

"What is faith;" "A God of Faith;" "Why Christian Faith is Needed;" "Christian Faith—a cure for Worry;" "Faith—the Sure Foundation;" Faith—in What, in Whom?"

Daily Readings.

October 26—Trust in God implicitly. Mark 11:20-24.

October 27—Faith Saves. John 5:24.

October 28—Faith Heals. Matthew 8:5-13.

October 29—Faith Creates Hope. John 11:25.

October 30—Weak Faith. Matthew 14:25-33.

October 31—Faith and Impossible. Mk. 9:14-29.

Topic for next week: "Our Share in Making World Peace Permanent."

Sunday School Lesson

By REV. S. A. BENNETT, Elon College, N. C.

WORLD'S TEMPERANCE LESSON.

LESSON V.—NOVEMBER 1, 1931.

LESSON TEXT: Galations 5:13-26.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Be not drunken with wine, wherein is riot, but be filled with the Spirit."—Ephesians, 5:18.

The Age Long Conflict.

There has always been a conflict between the selfish desires and the altruistic or social desires. The human body has a mechanism that responds more readily to situations that give personal satisfaction. Thus the human race readily drifts into the conduct that rewards the individual with personal, sensual and immediate satisfaction. The attainment of the social virtues requires effort and training. These finer virtues must be achieved. If the individual is to attain discipline of the self, there must be self-control—temperance. Only by such a process can morality, social ethics and a noble religion be attained

Universal Need.

Thus example, training, instruction, education, will always have to be used, else man will drift toward the mere level of the sensual. Standards, precepts and laws, are necessary in any well ordered society or group of people. Hebrew religious experience had worked out an elaborate system of precepts, laws, customs and rituals to aid its people in reaching the higher levels of religious living. Jesus summarized their law by quoting from Deuteronomy and Leviticus. Love for God and love for neighbor, he said, were the great commandments on which the law and the prophets hang. Paul said, "The whole law is fulfilled in one word—thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." This shows the universal need for emphasis on the social side of Christian attainment.

The Flesh.

The flesh always seeks to assert itself. There is pleasure in the satisfaction of immediate, sensual desire. Mankind easily drifts in that direction. In verses 19-21 Paul lists the "works of the flesh. It is a list of sensual, selfish, unsocial types of conduct. Drunkenness is in the list. No lasting good to the individual or the human race can be credited to drunkenness. From the ancient days of Noah and Lot down to the present time drunkenness and intemperance have cursed and blighted the human family. Those who are intemperate are living on the plane of self and the flesh.

The Spirit.

There are far nobler possibilities for the human family. There are deeper and more enduring joys that may be had on the plane of the Spirit. Paul lists the fruit of the Spirit in verses 22-23. This list is on the side of social, unselfish conduct. The Spirit is always on the side of the more inclusive and enduring social values. The selfish, immediate personal value is of the flesh. The unselfish, inclusive personal and social values are spiritual. That is the distinction. Paul puts self-control or temperance in the list.

Present Needs.

The world still needs that temperance be taught by example, and by precept. The Sunday school must not slacken the pace but must quicken it. Parents need to lay the foundations for self-control in the early years of childhood. Adequate temperance instruction includes habits of self-control and creative good will to others in the tender years. Too many parents and teachers have decreased or slackened their efforts since the passing of the 18th Amendment. The spiritual forces should be more diligent than the carnal.

Our children and youth must be equipped to live the life of the Spirit. Make good and vital use of these great temperance lessons in the Sunday School and in the home. Law and freedom have a close correlation in human experience. Lawlessness and the slavery of human degradation are closely related. "Be not drunken with wine" neither be deceived by the old policy of personal liberty. Seek the realms of the Spirit and the fruit of the Spirit.

METHODS CORNER

By REV. ELISHA A. KING, D. D.

Miami Beach, Fla.

It is probable that every reader of this Corner belongs to a church that has some difficulty in securing the full quota of money for the benevolence apportionment. In any case we hear much of that at Conference and in discussions among church officials whose business it is to raise the funds. There are many ways of securing this money, but I wish only at this time to discuss the educational side of the subject.

We are told in the business world that people spend their money for those things that they really want. We are also told that we grow to be interested in those things we think the most about. Now that being so it is the privilege of the Pastor and the Benevolence Committee to see to it that the members of the congregation are informed about the great missionary interests of the Kingdom.

This year we have one of the finest opportunities we have ever had in the new "Guest Book." It is splendid piece of propaganda literature. The reason I like it is because it is written by young people who are full of enthusiasm for the Kingdom and especially for their part in the service. A person who reads this book gets a new inspiration for the missionary cause.

The book contains a great deal of information. It is educational and brings the reader into contact with the modern missionary movement. I heard a fine statement the other day to the effect that the modern missionary now goes to his work for sheer friendliness and love for man. In the "Guest Book" we read something of this spirit. The book may be had for nothing! No, that is not quite true. You have to ask for it, and those who accept it as a gift do so upon their honor that they will read it!

There is no greater service being rendered by our Extension Board than this. They furnish the churches with facts and enthusiasm through this fine book and it is believed that those who read it will desire to make a contribution to the missionary cause.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the number and price.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 $\frac{7}{8}$ x7 Inches, and 1 $\frac{3}{8}$ Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 $\frac{7}{8}$ x7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5 $\frac{3}{8}$ x8 Inches, and 1 $\frac{3}{8}$ Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

Minion Type, Pocket Size, 4x6 Inches, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ Inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold.....$1.60

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 $\frac{3}{4}$ x7

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.50

2173—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges.....$6.00

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 16-16 of an Inch Thick.

133X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$4.00

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ x5 $\frac{3}{8}$ Inches, and 1 inch thick, with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ x5 $\frac{3}{8}$ Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.

65—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps.....$2.50

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 $\frac{3}{8}$ x8 $\frac{1}{2}$ Inches and 1 $\frac{3}{8}$ Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With Concise Bible Dictionary, combined Concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.75

RED-LETTER EDITION.

With All the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands; title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations; special book for Sunday Schools.....95c

Any of the above Bibles sent postpaid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street,

Richmond, Virginia

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY H. E. ROUNTREE

One of our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"O Lord, I beseech thee, let now thine ear be attentive to the prayer of thy servant, and to the prayer of thy servants, who desire to fear thy name, and prosper, I pray thee, thy servant this day."

MONDAY.

SIGNS AND UNBELIEF.

LESSON: Matthew 16:1-4.

"Ye can discern the face of the sky; but can ye not discern the signs of the times?" Verse 3.

These people certainly had seen all the signs necessary. With their own eyes they had seen Jesus heal the lame, the blind, the dumb and the maimed, as is related in the chapter immediately preceding our text. However, unbelief is true to itself; they could not believe except they see a sign from heaven.

Our modern infidelity says, "Those miracles are too old; give us fresh ones, and we will believe." Yet, unbelief still remains a fact of human weakness. If our moderns were permitted, like those of old, to see miracles before their very own eyes, they would be as unbelieving as ever, and demand other signs. There was no want necessary to faith then; there is none now. There was no lack of signs then; there is none now. We have the authenticity of the Bible undoubted; we have the church of the living God which would be impossible, were not Christ risen from the dead; we have the evidence of the Holy Spirit and the transforming power in individual souls. How can anyone evade these things? By means of them our faith is strengthened and our hearts are alive in him.

Prayer—Dear Lord, teach us to understand our times, to find the truth in all things, especially that truth as it is in the Lord Jesus, and impel us to follow Him all the way. Amen.

TUESDAY.

THE SOURCE AND THE END OF FAITH.

"For he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him."—Heb. 11:6.

To the natural man the things of eternity are as incomprehensible as they are real. Their plane is higher than any which reason and the senses can reach. Here is God, himself, with eternal life in the keeping of the church; but in the eyes of the unbeliever there is nothing. The blind walk in the light; and yet to them there is no such thing as light. Faith alone discerns God. Faith alone discerns heaven. It cannot spring out of the human understanding, nor can any man give it to another. None but the Spirit of God can create it, and His ability to impart it depends upon the receptive spirit of the believer. That receptiveness is in belief in God and that "He is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him."

As the things which faith discerns are of heaven; so faith itself is of divine nature, and as these heavenly things which are grasped by faith are true and real, living and everlasting; so faith also is not an imaginary something, but a real and living truth in the soul. It is not dependent upon human wisdom, which is shifting and elusive; nor on human power, which withers like grass; nor on human virtue. No, faith has its origin in God and is fixed on the rock of righteousness and love; and like life itself, it is the irrefutable proof of its own truth. It is not seeing and feeling; but it is an act of a heart clinging to the promises of God. "The just shall live by faith," and he who draws back from this, the Lord hath no pleasure in him.

Prayer.—Grant us thy mercy, O Lord, give us faith, and increase it from day to day. Illumine us by thy spirit, and help us to walk upright according to the measure of light given us. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

SUSTAINED FAITH.

LESSONS Mark 9:17-27.

"If thou const do anything, have compassion on us— (and) Jesus said, unto him, If thou canst believe all things are possible,—and straightway the father of the child cried out, Lord, I believe. Help thou mine unbelief." Verses 22 and 24.

In this lesson there are two thoughts which stand out in strong relief: (1) Jesus, and He only, is able to deliver from sorest need. (2) He does not reject even the weakest faith.

There is no power of the world, the flesh or the devil, strong enough to resist Christ. This child of our text presents a striking picture of the lowest depths of human misery; and the heart of the father must have been torn into shreds by the affliction of His child. He would rather have seen his son a corpse than suffer such demoniacal features. As Jesus speaks to this soul, and the Spirit entwines itself into the life and soul fibre of the child, the demon is compelled to come out of him.

No man has so far separated himself from the Lord, or descended so low in immorality that Jesus cannot save him, that He cannot change him to joy. When he lets Jesus speak to his soul, and lets the Holy Spirit entwine itself into his life; sin leaves him and he is happy. There are thousands of witnesses of this power.

Prayer—Dear Lord, we thank Thee heartily that Thou dost not break the bruised reed, and dost not quench the smoking flax. O, that we might be found to be upright, and that Thou mightest sustain and strengthen our weak faith. In Jesus' name we ask it. Amen.

THURSDAY.

OUR HIGH PRIEST.

LESSON: Hebrews 10:19-25.

"By a new and living way." Verse 19.

In the days of Israel, only the priest went into the Holy of Holies, and then only once a year. It was in this way he went before God in behalf of the people. There was a veil that barred the way into the tabernacle, and through this veil no one but the priest dared go.

Jesus changed all this. He is now our High Priest before God the Father, who has removed the veil, and through Him every soul can go into the Holy of Holies of God. We each have a Holy of Holies in our heart, an altar there, whereon we offer our devotions, and where we may find God speaking to us.

Our flesh, that is our corrupted human nature, like a veil, may bar our way to heaven. But Christ, who by His death becomes our Way of Life, cleanses our souls with His blood, and we have "boldness to enter into the holiest," and are able to speak to God without fear concerning everything which we have at heart. It is in this way that "He ever liveth to make intercession for us."

Therefore, let us come before God with a true heart, wholly honest; with an unreserved heart, keeping nothing concealed from him; and be cleansed from all sin.

Prayer.—Dear Lord, we desire to walk the living way of Christ. Help us to do all we can at all times to do this, and be Thou our strength to complete the joys of His way in us forever. Amen.

FRIDAY.

IN A DARK CAVE.

LESSON: Psalm 57.

"My soul is among lions; they have prepared a net for my steps; (but) my heart is fixed, I will sing and give praise."

We are told that it was in a dark cave that David sang this golden song. He says that his enemies have digged a pit for him and that his soul is cast down about it. But nevertheless he tunes his harp and offers praise to God early in the morning.

The music of that song has been heard among all nations, and it still fills the world. Two things are noted: (1) David puts his trust in mercy, and thus his own unworthiness does not stand in the way. No matter how great a sinner he may be, thus, God will save him. (2) He puts his hope in God alone.

The fact that David, under desperate circumstances, was able to sing and praise God, without a single note of complaint, shows clearly, that while afflictions may depress, and good fortune may lift up a soul, yet these things do not constitute our unhappiness, or our joy. Our joy is in our trust in God "who doeth all things well to them that love and serve him." If we cannot be merry always, we may at least receive grace to be stout-hearted, contented, and grateful. "Rejoice in the Lord always," says Paul. This is God's will. But it is a very hard thing for frail flesh to learn to do.

Prayer.—Dear Lord, give us the grace of Thy Holy Spirit, to live in Thee through Christ and to rejoice always. Amen.

SATURDAY.

A KINGDOM OF FORGIVENESS.

LESSONS Matthew 18:23-35.

"If ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses."—Matthew 6:15.

God forgives every penitent sinner even his greatest debt; but they only who are willing to forgive others can receive that forgiveness.

When Jesus adds, in this parable, that the servant "had not to pay," it is to show us that we have nothing which we can offer to Him when we come into the Lord's presence, except an humble heart willing to acknowledge our debt; and, if mercy is granted, to be willing to pay all. When we offer ourselves thus, Christ forgives the whole debt, and we are free. Even David declared, "I acknowledged my sin unto thee; and thou forgavest the iniquity of my sin." In like manner, John: "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins. I. Jno. 1:9.

Likewise we must be just as free to forgive others their trespasses against us. If we do not, we fall under the judgment of God again. It is our bounden duty to help others onward to a knowledge of sin and of God, who forgiveth all sins. In order to do this, we must be forgiven so that we may be able to pray for others, feel for them, and lead them to Jesus.

"The kingdom of God is a kingdom of forgiveness; in which mercy sits on the throne, and stretches out its scepter over all the people." He who will not breathe this atmosphere cannot have his home in this kingdom.

Prayer.—Teach us, O Lord, to know our sins with heart-felt contrition; and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those that trespass against us. Teach us all Thy mercy and give us kind and gentle hearts that we may gladly forgive one another. Amen.

(Continued on page 14.)

IMPRESSIONS BY THE WAY.

(Continued from page 7.)

but majestic as you see it from various angles as your train threads its way through mountain passes and almost numberless tunnels. We also wanted to see the Vale of Tempe, Mt. Athos, the Pass of Thermopylae, and the Aegean Sea, by which we rode for so many miles. The ancient Greeks had to be seafarers and intellectuals. Their habitat is too mountainous for successful agriculture, though shepherding does well. Every hill had its shepherds with their crooks and flocks of sheep, goats, or swine. The ubiquitous donkey is everywhere a willing beast of burden, surefooted, full of labor, poorly fed, and grossly unintelligent.

